SAVED HIS POSITION.

Store Detective Nearly Knocked Out by a Kleptomaniac.

Just When Things Looked Most Squally an Accident Enabled Him to Make Good His Charge Against Madame.

"The most remarkable case of kleptomania that ever came to my notice, and one that came very near being my ruin," said a detective the other day to a Washington Post man, "occurred several years ago. I was then employed in a large department store in Washington. One day during the winter holiday season a well-dressed woman entered the store carrying a muff and umbrella. As she passed by the leather goods department I saw her skillfully 'swipe' a pocketbook from a number that were on display. She placed the pocketbook in her muff. I followed her to the elevator, and on up to the third floor. On the way up she discovered that I was following her, and when she left the elevator she managed, without my seeing her, to place the pocketbook that she had stolen between two boxes on the doll counter. This, however, I failed to notice, and when she came downstairs I told the proprietor in her hearing that she had stolen a pocketbook.

"The proprietor looked at me horror-stricken, while the lady, turning about, demanded to know what I had said. I was so certain of my ground that I repeated the accusation, whereupon the proprietor said:

"'Oh, no, you're mistaken. This lady and her husband are friends of mine, whom I entertain frequently.'

"I was feeling awful shaky, but being so cocksure that she had the pocketbook, I put on a bold front and stuck to my first statement. The lady was terribly indignant, and the proprietor had a regular case of trembles. While he was making all sorts of apologies she was reading the riot act to me. She told me that I 'would pay for this dearly;' gave orders to the floorwalker to telephone for her husband, and insisted on being searched.

"Things were looking pretty squally for me, when a thing happened that changed the complexion of events very materially. I noticed that she had shifted the position of her hands in her muff several times, and that she had also placed her umbrella leaning against the counter, and thinking that she might have slipped the pocketbook down into the latter, I, without saying a word, reached over, picked up the umbrella and turned it upside down. The pocketbook did not drop out as I had expected, but, what was better still, eight pairs of kid gloves, from which the tags had never been removed, rolled out upon the floor. They were not taken from nor did they belong in our store, but from the tags I recognized them as belonging in another establishment which dealt in gloves next door.

"I was beginning by this time to catch on, and without losing any time I went for the proprietor of the store next door. He came in, identified the gloves, and stated that the lady had been in his store, but that she made no purchases. At this time she broke down and began to cry, and, desiring to clinch matters all around, I made a hurried trip up to the third floor, looked over the doll counter, found the pocketbook she had stolen, and brought it back in triumph.

"It turned out that her husband was a wealthy man, and could have purchased her almost anything she needed. She broke down completely, confessed that she was a kleptomaniac, and that she could not resist the temptation to take things. Her husband, who was coming down to polish me off as an impudent blackmailer, had the job of paying for the gloves and pocketbook and of brushing things up with the storekeepers.

"If I had failed to make good the charge I had preferred against this lady, losing my job would have been the lightest of all the woes that would have fairly rained down upon me. There is a great deal more of this than one thinks, and a department store detective frequently has to stand by in silence and see things stolen, rather than take the consequences that would certainly follow in the event he undertook to apprehend the genteel 'kleptomaniacs' who do the stealing."

TRAMP ACROSS COUNTRY.

Peculiar Trip Undertaken by Two Chicago Girls for a Wager of Six Pairs of Gloves.

Having "beaten" their way, penniless, almost 5,000 miles, Miss Louise Gauss and Miss Grace Fosland, of Chicago, have reached Omaha again, on their return trip, and, while the life of adventure has had its charms, the young women are overjoyed at being so near the end of their long journey.

It was a little wager of six pairs of gloves that actuated this freak trip on the part of two girls, who were well provided for at home. On March 20 last, more than three months ago, they started to reach San Francisco and to return without a cent.

RIDING ON A COAL CAR.

Since then they have experienced many odd and some fascinating adventures. Much of the way they rode on the best trains, simply inviting conductors to "search us" for money. Some of the distance they "bummed" on freights, while many miles were covered by actual pedestrianism.

The cold waves throughout the valleys of the middle west in May has made "hoboing" really dangerous, and the girls say they almost froze one night, as they rode two hours on the brake beams of a coal car, between North Platte and Kearney, Neb.

At Omaha the tramps found awaiting them complete new attire, sent on by a Salt Lake City man, who had learned their story when they passed through there and admired their pluck. The girls are somewhat dubious now as to the wisdom of their actions. Said Miss Gauss:

"It's been a good experience, no doubt, and in some practical ways I suppose we have both benefited. However, it has cost me dear. My face is now as leathery as a cowboy's and my hair is bleached to an unlovely tint. I'll stay home hereafter. We expected to get passes from here to Chicago, but failed, so will be compelled to 'bum' on in. But that comes easy now. Have we walked much? Well, I've worn out ten pairs of shoes on this trip."

PERFORATED AT LAST.

The Long-Expected Happens to the Little Boy Who Teased His Big Sister's Lover.

H. C. Jenkins, of Saylersville, Ky., is in jail, and Wallis Eastep, the ten-year-old son of a prominent farmer, is dying because of Jenkins' appeal to the pistol to settle the vexed problem of how to deal with l'enfant terrible.

Jenkins, says the Philadelphia American, has been in love with the boy's sister for several years, but the youngster has not looked on his suit with favor. On numerous occasions tender passages between the lovers have been interrupted by the sudden entrance of dead cats through an open window, or unsentimental inquiries and observations from beneath the sofa.

Jenkins called the other morning. The boy met him at the front door and was asked to go out and pay some of his neighbors a visit. This he refused to do. The lover made a dash for him and the boy fled. Three times around the house went pursuer and pursued, and then the boy made a break for the fence.

Jenkins took a shot at him while he was on the top rail. The bullet entered the hip, ranging toward the knee, and the youngster's death is near at hand.

When Books Were Dear.

In the reign of Edward I—that was from 1272 till 1307—the price of a fairly written Bible was 27 pounds. The hire of a laborer was only three halfpence a day, so it may easily be calculated what the purchase of a copy of the Scriptures would then have cost a laboring man.

HONESTY IS REWARDED.

Chicago Woman Gives a Whole Dime to the Man Who Returned $40,118 to Her.

A Chicago woman lost a bag containing papers and currency valued at $40,118 the other afternoon and when they were returned to her she rewarded the finder with $00,000.10. He was unable to reply or to learn her name before she hurried away, but later he recovered from the shock and placed the dime in a gilded frame.

The woman who lost the bag was nervous, middle-aged and dressed in black. She left the bag on a seat in a South Side elevated car. It contained $118 in cash, besides mortgages amounting to $40,000. The man who found it was Charles A. Stuckrath, a guard on the Union loop at Madison street and Fifth avenue.

At five o'clock in the afternoon Stuckrath, passing through the car, espied the portemonnaie and picked it up. When he saw what was in it he notified the officials of the road. About six o'clock the owner of the lost property entered the general offices of the Union loop in the Fisher building and exceitedly told of her loss. She was referred to Stuckrath and hurried to his station.

"I think it may be yours, madam," said the guard when she had described her loss, "but you must first identify it."

"It is mine! Oh, I'm so glad!" she said when she had proved ownership.

Then she took a tight grip of the bag, calmly opened it and carefully selecting a dime from within its folds gave the coin to the guard.

TRIED TO STARVE SNAKE.

But It Crawled from Its Prison, Hale and Hearty, After a Lapse of 18 Months.

"The man who tries to starve a snake to death is in a bad way," said a man who has had some experience in dealing with reptiles, "and I happen to know what I am talking about, because of a little thing that happened to me a number of years ago. There is really no telling how long a snake can go without food. It is estimated that a horse can live 25 days without solid food. A horse will live on water for that length of time. Bears can live six months without food. They generally live through the winter months by sucking their paw. Of course, they have some food on hand, and they slip out to get what they can, but the main sustenance of the bear is the accumulated flesh of the summer. But I am inclined to believe that the snake can hold the record when it comes to doing without food. I had an experience a few years ago which convinced me of this fact. I caught a rattlesnake in my henhouse in the southeastern part of Arkansas, and happened to catch him so that he could not get out. There was a good-sized rat hole in the place, and he darted into this as a last resort. I stopped the hole so the snake could not get out, and for the purpose of starving the reptile to death. I never thought anything more about the snake until more than 18 months after that, when I had occasion to make some repairs about the place. It was necessary to do some excavating. I was simply startled to find a short distance below the surface the snake I had sought to starve to death. He was a little lank, and was not very active. But he was still alive. I felt sorry for the reptilian, and would not kill him, allowing him to crawl away. Since that time I have been convinced that a snake could do without food for a considerable length of time, and the claim that they can go 21 months does not startle me at all."

TREED BY MAD BUCK.

Disagreeable Plight of a Man Who Played Good Samaritan to an Injured Fawn.

Olen Bowles, of Costello, Pa., will never stop again to be Good Samaritan to a deer in trouble.

He works for the big tannery company there. He was in the woods one day recently looking over a bark contract.

Passing along an old woods road he saw a fawn lying in a clump of bushes. As the fawn did not move he walked up to it and found that it was bleeding from an injury in its shoulder.

With the intention of taking the wounded fawn home with him and doctoring it, Bowles was stooping to lift it up in his arms when the frightened little animal began bleating piteously. It had scarcely uttered its first cry when Bowles heard a commotion in the brush, and looking up saw two deer, a big buck and a doe, bounding toward him.

The buck had on a fierce front, the bristle on his neck standing erect and his eyes blazed with fury. Bowles hastily climbed a tree. He got out of range of the buck just in time to escape a savage lunge from his horns.

The doe took the fawn away into the wood. The buck, however, stayed right at the foot of the tree and pranced and snorted around it at every move Bowles made, keeping him there until long after dark.

When he thought the buck had gone away Bowles slipped down out of the tree and started to put behind him the three miles that lay between that spot and home as quickly as his legs would let him. He hadn't gone 50 yards, though, before the buck was after him. Dodging from tree to tree Bowles made his way along until a man answered his cries for help. Then the buck abandoned the chase.

The settler who went to Bowles' rescue said the buck was a terror of that neighborhood and known to the hunters as Old Golden.

CONDUCTOR WAS WITTY.

Didn't Care Whether Passenger Was Man or Monkey So Long as He Paid the Fare.

The street-car conductor with a talent for repartee of the neat and polished order is rare, and note should be made of him when found. A dissatisfied passenger found one out in the neighborhood of Bronx park last week, says the New York Times, when two women who had been trying to get to the zoological show complained of the difficulty they had had in eliciting any information about its whereabouts.

"TWO, MA'AM?"

"Yes, madam," the dissatisfied man—a stranger to them—chimed in, "I can quite sympathize with you. The fact is, I don't believe these conductors know the difference between botanical gardens and zoological. I doubt if any of them could even tell a monkey from a man."

"Fares, please," said the conductor, interrupting the conversation just at that point. "Fares, please. None of our business what you are so long as you pay your fare. Two, ma'am?"

Death Caused by Hatpins.

Leone Jeodie, for two years a novice in a convent at Flushing, L. I., died after a long and mysterious illness. An autopsy was performed, and in the region of the heart and piercing the pericardium was found a headless steel hatpin four and a quarter inches long. In the stomach was found part of another hatpin one and a quarter inches long, also headless. The young woman had complained of pains in the stomach since 1896, but died without having mentioned the cause of her illness.

DO Husbands and Wives Own Each Other?

A YEAR ago I was introduced to a handsome young married couple. They kept house in a pretty flat, to which they had gone when they were bride and groom, and when I met them it contained also a pretty white crib with a dear little baby in it, a baby that was in its mother's estimation the one object that made life worth the living. I could see that before I had known the pair ten minutes.

It was at a lecture I met them. The young wife was fashionably dressed. She made her strictly conventional little bow to new acquaintances and lifted her elbow to exactly the fashionable kangaroo crook when she offered her hand to old ones. Oh, yes; she was the very pink of conventional behavior! She had been put through her "haute ecole" paces, so to speak, and minded them, every one.

SHE TOOK THE BABY AND WENT HOME TO MOTHER.

The husband was different. He was well dressed, but not strictly in tailor fashion plate style. His necktie may have been the hundredth of an inch away from the true center, and I think there were two hairs more on one side of the part above his forehead than on the other. His clear, steady eye and bold, strong chin showed that he thought for himself, and when he shook hands he did not do it with the kangaroo crook, but just extended his palm straight before him.

The lecture we listened to was concerning some scientific discoveries quite off the beaten track. He was deeply interested in it and talked of it with enthusiasm. I noticed that when he did so madam his wife looked quite freezingly at him, shut her mouth tight and uttered not a word. From that I judged that the wife was not interested in scientific discoveries.

Well, yesterday I heard that the handsome young couple had separated. They gave up the pretty flat, he moved into bachelor quarters, and she took the baby and went home to mother.

"Look at my belt, will you?" said the husband, telling the story to a friend. "I've taken it in to the last notch, and I used to fill it. I've gone down two inches."

It was his way of showing how the life had been nagged out of him. He was a hopeful, ambitious young business man, engaged in an occupation quite to his tastes, a thoroughly honorable one and a lucrative one if well managed. His heart and soul were in it; he worked early and late to make it successful. The other part of the story is that his wife despised her husband's business, although he made from it an excellent living for herself and her baby. She railed at him night and day; she got up early to nag him on Sunday, thinking she could nag him out of himself. Her most crying grievance was, however, that he would not change his religious views to suit the theology of her folks.

When he refused, she thought him unkind and said things that no wife can say to a husband and have them forgotten if the husband has the brain and spirit of a man. This husband had the spirit of a man, as his eye and chin showed. He endured till he had to take in his belt two inches; then he recommended that madam go back home and live with her "folks," which she did, and she now considers herself, and is considered by them, as a martyr, a victim and a wronged angel. The husband meantime goes on his way alone, still following, perhaps now with clearer vision than before, the high ideals he placed before himself years ago. And that brings me back to the question. Do husbands and wives own each other?

I say heaven forbid!

The Almighty created us and placed us here, each to obtain individual soul development, and we must get it in our own way. Nobody else can get it for us. In just so far as a husband or wife undertakes to dominate, control, shape or "boss" the individual opinions of the partner, just that far he or she sets himself or herself against the purpose of the Almighty and will have to suffer for it sooner or later.

KATE SHARP.

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"You would like to see yer room, perhaps?"

"Well, yes, and go to it, if it is the same to you."

As he spoke, Hendricks plumped down on a chair in the cafe. He was plainly in no good-natured mood.

"I wish you would send to the depot for my baggage, as I intend to spend some days here," he remarked, after a moment's silence.

Peter, who had already learned the value of such a profitable guest, was at his side in an instant.

"You shall have your stuff in ten minutes, sir," he said. Then, going to the back of the hotel, he summoned up a small darky and instructed him to proceed to the station with a wagon in search of the gentleman's luggage.

In the meantime, the landlord, studying his guest, who was seated half asleep at a table, wondered what manner of man he had to deal with. Certainly the stranger comported himself in a quiet way, and Mr. Bowersox had about decided that, for all his questioning, he could not be connected with the police.

His opinions of the stranger who had paid so well in the first instance were rather marred when the guest's luggage appeared from the depot.

It consisted of a very small valise that might have contained a doll's wardrobe.

"I should like to have it taken up to my room," said Hendricks.

"Ye might manage to carry it up yerself," was the testy remark of the landlord, as visions of a defaulting boarder rose before him.

Hendricks snatched the satchel out of the hands of the little darky and turned toward the stairs.

"You can find your way up, I hopes," said Bowersox, who was beginning to think that he had treated his guest in a very unfriendly manner.

"Well, I know the number, and you say that the room is open," retorted Hendricks.

"But let me show you——"

"I don't want to take you away from your business," and the one guest of the house disappeared.

Peter returned to his work of polishing glasses, not quite able to make out whether he had been insulted or not.

Job Hendricks, when he found himself alone in the hall, laughed softly to himself and wagged his gray head sagely.

"They are all alike the world over," he muttered. "The sight of my money tickled him, but when the baggage arrived he sings another song. Well, it is rather scant provision for a traveler," looking at the little valise as he held it at arm's length. "But, then, I shall not have so much to lose in case of being compelled to make a quick flit."

He found his room without any trouble, but before he entered it he walked through the corridor until he came to another flight of stairs, which he could see communicated with the yard.

"That's good. I may have need of you, but I hope not. At least, it is well to provide for being in a corner."

He went back to his room, and then, opening his scanty luggage on the table, took from the bag a collar and a couple of gaudy neckties, one a vivid blue and the other a plaid of red and green.

"It is so long since I made a call on a young lady," as if trying to decide which one he should wear. "Pshaw, what does it matter! It ain't likely she'll notice what I have on. Now, for a little nap. I'd rather see her in the evening, anyway. Might appear a strange-acting man in broad daylight, and I need all my wits about me, anyway." He flung the necktie in the drawer of the little bureau, saw to the fastening of the door, and examined a handsome pistol which he brought out of an inner pocket. This he placed under the pillow of the bed, and then flung himself down with the air of a man who is utterly exhausted.

But it was a long time before he could compose himself to sleep. He lay there on his back with his eyes fixed on the ceiling. His thoughts, however, could not all have been unpleasant, for the stern face now and again relaxed and he smiled. He took the parchment out of his pocket, which he had gone through so much trouble to procure that day, and read it over and over. There was a softening expression in his eyes as he folded it slowly and placed it carefully back in an inner pocket of his vest. After that he fell into a peaceful sleep.

He must have slept lightly, for toward evening a faint sound in the hall roused him. He slipped to the floor noiselessly, and looked around him in a frightened way. Only for a moment, and then a quiet smile came over his rough lips.

Still he maintained an attitude of attention, for the faint rustling sound in the hall continued, as if some one was moving about there anxious not to be heard. He almost imagined that he saw a bright eye at the keyhole regarding him.

At last, after a moment, unable to bear the suspense, and yet blaming himself for what he believed to be foolish fears, he stepped to the door, turned the knob without noise, and flung it wide. There was no one there. Off in the gathering shadows at the further end of the corridor he thought he saw a dark figure glide away.

"Bah! I'm full of fancies," he muttered, shaking his head, and returned to his room. "When there's danger to face—that's different. But to be frightened at every passing shadow is nonsense."

Nevertheless, he was anxious, as he made his simple toilet hastily and went downstairs into the main room.

"Well, I hope yer satisfied with your quarters," said the landlord, who was smoking a pipe by the bar. He seemed to have made up his mind to treat his guest politely for the present. Guests were too scare in town to treat one discourteously until there was reason for it.

"Oh, the room is all right," muttered Hendricks. "There's another lodger near me, I believe."

Mr. Bowersox, he thought, seemed to be a little embarrassed, and regarded his pipe for a moment before answering.

"Oh, there's a chap that works on the railroad has a room near you—but he's away now."

"Indeed," eyeing him keenly, "I certainly thought I heard a man's step near my door."

"Did you see him?"

"No."

"Then you must have been mistook. He don't come in until late at night. I meant to tell you before, so's ye wouldn't be skeered."

"I am not easily frightened," replied Hendricks, at the same time casting an inquisitorial look at his landlord. After all it was not worth making a fuss about. He was beginning to feel ashamed of his own foolish fears, that had such a slight foundation. Hearing the rattle of the dishes in the dining-room beyond, he changed the subject by asking for some supper. He made a poor meal, and then having inquired the way to the lawyer, Jared Henslow's house, he went out in the gathering night.

"Declare I feel as excited as a schoolgirl going to her first ball," he said to himself. "I haven't the nerve I was once celebrated for. Job, you'll have soon to confess that you are getting old and useless."

At some distance from the inn he paused to look back. Was it one more of his fool fancies that the shutters of a room on the first floor moved as if some one was taking a view of him?

He drew himself up with a laugh as he strode through the gathering dusk down the village street.

"And I am trying to save another man," he muttered. "It would be funny if it wasn't so melancholy a fact—that I'm perhaps hunted for at this moment myself."

INDUSTRIAL AND COMERCIAL NOTES FROM MANY FOREIGN LANDS.

Cultivation of Oysters in Holland.

The cultivation of oysters forms one of the staple industries of Holland, and is steadily increasing in importance.

The old town of Goes is the center of the oyster culture in the Netherlands, and is about as quaint and primitive a place as can be found in Holland. Situated on the island of South Beoland, in the province of Zealand, Goes is entirely off the beaten route of tourists. The whole population, with few exceptions—men, women and children—is engaged in fishing, and more particularly in the oyster industry. Entire families are engaged in the cultivation of oysters during the whole year, for the oyster beds demand unceasing work. The oyster fisherwomen are a queer sight when attired in their costume—especially adapted for the purpose—tight-fitting red flannel knickerbockers, black stockings, a shirt with sleeves rolled up to the elbow, and a quaint sunbonnet which thoroughly protects the head and neck.

Though the natives of Goes are engaged all the year round in the oyster "parks," it is in April that the most important part of their work is done. It is then that the "collectors" are placed in the "parks." These collectors are curved tiles about a foot long, which, after being carefully washed, are covered with a layer of mortar. Thus prepared, the "collectors" are able to retain the oyster ova known to fishermen as "white spat," or "naissains," as they are termed in France. These embryos are very minute, and float about on the surface of the water until they become affixed to the "collectors." They are then gathered into boxes eight feet long by two feet in breadth, and the tiles are so arranged as to be constantly bathed by the sea water. From 300 to 400 larvae are attached to a single "collector."

In August, the "collectors" are removed from the "beds" and taken on land to be put through a first process of cleansing. This operation, which is performed by women, is destined to cleanse the young oysters from all kinds of impurities and also from the small shells which, becoming affixed to the young oysters, might hinder their growth. Once thoroughly cleansed, the tiles are replaced in the boxes, where they remain until autumn. The "collectors" are then once more removed and the oysters, which are already the size of a shilling piece, are sufficiently strong to live alone, without being affixed to anything.

Thus removed from the collectors, the oysters begin the second period of their existence—an intermediate period of youth, so to speak—for though sufficiently developed to exist alone, they are not yet strong enough to resist the attacks of their murderous enemies. They are, therefore, placed for a few months in an apparatus called an "ambulance." These ambulances" are flat boxes about ten inches high the bottoms of which are of wire grating. Thus isolated, the young oysters are completely protected by a box identical with the one in which they are inclosed, but reversed, so as to constitute a kind of cage in which the water can circulate freely without allowing fish or crabs to enter.

The boxes, which contain no fewer than 3,000 oysters each, are arranged side by side, and firmly affixed to the bottom of the "park" by means of stakes. In this manner the young oysters can thrive in peace and without fear of being attacked by any of their numerous enemies, who appreciate oysters fully as much as man appreciates them.

The oysters remain three months in these boxes, during which time they are jealously cared for, being watered frequently to remove the impurities and sea-weeds which have gathered among them. At the end of the three months they have reached a diameter of from two to two and a half inches. They are now of sufficient size for sale, but not yet large enough to bring in much profit. They are therefore thrown along the bottom of the "park," where they continue to grow, their shell being of sufficient strength to withstand the attack of fish. The oysters continue to grow until the age of two or three years, when they reach the size of four inches in diameter. After the age of three they stop growing, and there is no advantage in allowing them to remain any longer in the beds.

The oyster fisherpeople of Goes, who form a community by themselves, live in small wooden huts facing the oyster beds. Though the oyster industry demands constant care, the life led by the good people of Goes is free from the hardships of most seafaring people.

Agricultural Banks in Turkey.

The empire of Turkey possesses an extensive system of agricultural banks under government management, the purpose of which is to furnish small loans to farmers. The capital is provided by a light annual tax on agricultural property. Principal agencies have been established in 65 cities, capitals of provinces (vilayets) or counties (sanjaks), and there are 803 branches in less important places.

Loans for the purpose of improving farms and purchasing implements and stock are made on satisfactory security, chiefly real estate. The rate of interest is six per cent. per annum.

Theoretically, this system of banks is an excellent one, but its effectiveness is hampered by two causes—the formality necessary to borrow even small sums and the requisitions made for forced loans from the capital of the banks by other branches of the government.

The last annual report of the banks—for the financial year ended March 13, 1899—has just appeared and contains the following summary operations:

At that date March 13, 1899), the capital amounted to $12,642,090, of which 84 per cent., or $10,619,355, was loaned to farmers.

During the year the banks loaned to 90,536 individuals sums amounting to $2,621,400—an average of $29 for each loan.

This average is a forcible illustration of the humble scale upon which agricultural progress in Turkey is based. Over 96 per cent. of the loans were made upon real-estate security, the remaining four per cent. were on personal guaranties.

The branch bank located at Mezreh, the chief city of this province, makes all loans on property in the territory adjacent to Harput and Mezreh; others branches at Malatia, Arabkir and Egh n supply the needs of the remoter portions of the vilayet.

Persian Textile Monopoly.

Some three years ago the shah of Persia gave the minister of state the exclusive right for 50 years to spin and weave cotton and woolen fabrics in that monarchy. The concession permits the beneficiary to associate with himself either foreign or domestic capital and other aids.

A member of an Austrian weaving establishment has been requested to form an association for the exploitation of the Persian monopoly. Austrian textile manufacturers have a special interest in this matter, as they export $2,000,000 worth to Persia annually. Still, it is considered highly advantageous to Austria in sundry ways to form the proposed connection. It would presumably increase exports in general, especially of machinery to equip Persian factories. Should the connection with the monopoly go to some other country, the consequence, it is believed, would be disastrous to the Austrian textile industry by depriving it of peculiar advantages in buying Persian raw materials; besides, Austria's exports to Persia would be seriously affected.

Altogether, the project appears strongly to popular favor, and preliminary steps toward the formation of the association are being taken.

Bohemia's Soft-Coal Production.

Statistics of the production of soft coal in the northern part of Bohemia for the year 1901 are just published. They show a yield of 18,283,498 tons—an increase of 992,401 tons, or 5.4 per cent., over 1900, when a strike of the miners, lasting two months, materially reduced the output, and also crippled industries in Bohemia and neighboring parts of Germany.

The number of miners employed in 1901 was 37,777, each of whom mined on an average 487 tons during the year—a decrease of 27 tons per man in comparison with 1900, doubtless due to the time concessions gained by the strikers.

The total value of the output was $19,327,050, or $1.057 per ton—an increase of six cents per ton, also presumably caused by concessions made to the strikers. FRANK W. MAHIN.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Dont let slip the fact that the Plainfield Bluecoats battle with the Newark Fourth precint team on the St. Mary's grounds, Friday afternoon. It promises to be one of the very best games of the season, outside of the league contests, and will show just what the local police can do in the way of playing ball. The game will be called at 3 o'clock sharp.

The members of the Scotch Plains ball team are fast getting a reputation as one of the strongest batting teams in this section of the State. During the last two games played not one of the team has struck out. Stick work counts in a game and as long as Manager Johnston's colts keep their eye on the ball they will prove a hard proposition for any of the teams hereabouts.

Saturday afternoon at 3:45 the Scotch Plains ball team will cross bats wtth the Safe Works team of the City League. The two teams met early in the season and Scotch Plains won quite handily. Since then the Safe Works boys have strengthened their weak spots in the team and are at present playing fast ball. The 'Plains team is much stronger now than when the two met before. So the lovers of the game are assured of one of the exciting games of the season. No league games are scheduled here that day and there is no doubt but the visitors will take a large delegation of rooters with them.

Plainfield's best, as selected from the local league teams, will be the opponents of the St. Xavier Deaf Mutes in the game for the benefit of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp and the Netherwood Fresh Air Home on Hope Common, Wednesday afternoon. The line-up, as drawn by a league committee, will be about as follows: Allen, c.; Doyle and Montross, p. and 2b.; Bolsterli, 1b.; Martin, ss.; George Schoonmaker, 3b.; Taylor, Lederer, Franklin and Shortman, fielders. Game will be called at 4 o'clock. Tickets are on sale at 25 cents at the following stores: L. W. Randolph, R. J. Shaw, W. W. Warnock, M. Estil, Harry Dreier, T. S. Armstrong, John P. Powers and W. J. Debele.

TENNIS.

In the continuation of play in the tennis tournament at the Y. M. C. A. last evening Rogers defeated Neal 7-5. This marked the end of the first round of play. The contests and score so far have been as follows: Schomp defeated Brokaw 6-2, Moraller forfeited to Meeker, Dr. Whitford defeated Schull 6-3, Rogers defeated McCarthy 6-2, Neal defeated Sebring 6-1; Denton defeated Hallock 6-1, Robbie defeated Emes 6-1, Rogers defeated Neal 7-5. Fuller and Vail play this evening.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

After the brief rest of last week, the members of the Plainfield Driving Association promise a good card at the local park for the coming Saturday afternoon. The various horses are said to be in fine form and the matinee will be worth attending by lovers of good trotting.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Neuman Brothers are selling fancy Delaware and Jersey peaches in convenient four quart carriers.

—S. A. Aman, of Brooklyn, has taken a position as clerk in the Central pharamcy, at Park avenue and Second street.

—Special services will be held at the First Church of Christ this evening at 8 o'clock. Evangelist MacDonald, of Ohio, will be the speaker.

CARNIVAL AT OCEAN GROVE

ONE THOUSAND CHILDREN WILL PARTICIPATE IN THE EVENT.

Tomorrow Will See This Great Sight at the Twin Cities by the Sea.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Ocean Grove, August 13—One thousand children, comprising the great chorus, will take part in the parade here in connection with the carnival tomorrow. The day will be a gala occasion for the twin cities, which will do their best to eclipse the records of former years by making the present celebration worthy of remark in every particular.

In the parade, the girls will be gowned in white, while the boys will wear Rough Rider uniforms. Japanese umbrellas, of which 600 have been procured by the Director of the carnival, will be carried by the young songstresses, while the special festival colors will combine to add to the brillinacy of the scene. Residents have been asked to decorate their house fronts along the line of the parade, and the work already done indicates that a wonderful display will be made.

Tomorrow is the date for the children's concert also, an event which has been looked forward to with much eagerness. The chorus of 1,000 voices has been carefully trained, and there is no question of the complete success of the performance. Another feature of the celebration tomorrow will be the taking of vitascope pictures of the parade. The views will be exhibited throughout the country during the coming season.

LIFE SAVERS ON NEWARK BAY

BRANCH OF VOLUNTEER CORPS HAS BEEN ORGANIZED THERE.

Many Deaths From Drowning in the Bay Has Led to Its Organization.

Within the next two weeks a life-saving station will be established on the Newark bay shore in the vicinity of Danforth avenue, Greenville, by the United States Volunteers Life-Saving Corps, an organization since its establishment several years ago, which has been the means of saving a great number of lives. Its stations are scattered along all the coasts of the United States and on the Great Lakes.

Commodore Ernest H. Luebbers, Jr., of the Life-Saving Corps, visited the Newark bay shore recently and taking note of the great amount of boating and bathing in progress, came to the conclusion that the establishment of a life-saving station at that point was a necessity, so one week from tomorrow he will visit Greenville and establish a station at that point.

As there are no salaries paid by the corps it will be necessary to find volunteers to make up a life-saving crew. Stephen Herig, proprietor of the Newark Bay Shore House, was the first volunteer and he was promptly appointed captain by Commodore Luebbers.

The new crew will guard the shore between the Lehigh Valley Railroad bridge to the mouth of the Hackensack river, and from shore to shore. For that matter the members will be in readiness for service anywhere in that vicinity.

A station will probably be erected on the block between Danforth and Linden avenues. This will be completely equipped with a lifeboat, the motive power of which will be gasoline, life lines and up-to-date metallic life buoys, capable of sustaining four men above water.

In recent years there have been numerous deaths by drowning in the Newark bay, many of which could, without doubt, have been averted if men skilled in saving life could have been at hand. The organization of such a crew will be the means of affording considerable relief to those who boat and bathe in the Newark bay.

SANITARY STATE OF THE SHORE RESORTS

Principal Feature of the Annual Report of the State Board of Health

IS IN PRINTER'S HANDS.

POINTS OUT NEED OF PROTECTION FOR THRONGS OF SUMMER VISITORS.

Report Presents the Conditions at the Principal Resorts on the Jersey Coast, and Some of the Needs of Improvement.

The forthcoming annual report of the State Board of Health, which is now in the hands of the printer, contains some interesting commentaries upon sanitary administration in the summer resorts of New Jersey, a topic which is especially pertinent at this season of the year. In these comments the board handles the subject with the utmost frankness, expressing its criticisms without hesitation, whether the conditions its investigations have disclosed are favorable or otherwise.

It is pointed out by the report that every year the number of persons visiting the health and pleasure resorts of the State increases, and that it is the privilege of this transient population to be efficiently protected by the local authorities against the risks and dangers attending upon the unrestricted spread of communicable diseases and against impure water, bad drainage and nuisances of every nature which affects the public health unfavorably.

"The laws now operative in New Jersey contain every necessary provision to enable local health boards to enforce suitable measures for the protection of the health of visitors in summer resorts," says the report, "and there is no excuse whatever for official neglect of the precautions which are essential for the prevention of typhoid fever and for the restriction of all other communicable affections.

"It has been the object of the State Board of Health from time to time to stimulate interest in sanitary matters, and to improve sanitary administration in these localities, and with a view to ascertaining the exact condition in some of the resorts along the Atlantic coast an investigation was made of a number of places."

Generally the conditions disclosed by the report are good, but in some cases the board has found need for improvement. Referring to Asbury Park, one of the most popular resorts of the North Atlantic coast, the report shows that with a winter population of only 4,000, the summer visitors swell the number to about 30,000.

The report continues:

"The streets and public grounds of the city are well kept. The last report of the Board of Health shows that there are 190 hotels and boarding houses in the city, having 6,608 sleeping rooms. The cellars and basements of the hotels are well kept. A thorough house-to-house inspection is made of all the residences, hotels and business places in the city, and unsanitary conditions, where found, are at once remedied."

Ocean Grove's winter population is small, but during the camp meeting season the population is [estimated to be about 30,000. Of Ocean Grove the report says:

"Streets and public grounds are fairly well kept. There are a number of hotels and boarding houses, but no record is kept of these by the local Board of Health, and no systematic inspection is carried on. Refuse and excreta are taken out of the city limits and dumped upon farms.

"The public health administration is not entirely satisfactory, as there is no systematic house-to-house inspection, and it is only when complaints are received that any action is taken by the local Board of Health."

Long Branch has a winter population of 7,000 and a summer population of 15,000. According to the report, "there are forty hotels and boarding houses in Long Branch, but there is no regular inspection of the hotels. Streets and public grounds are well kept. The city lacks systematic house-to-house inspection, and the local Board of Health, instead of ascertaining conditions which might be detrimental to the health of the inhabitants, waits until complaint is made before any action is taken."

From Hot to Cold.

Dysentery is prevalent everywhere in summer and is due to miasmatic poisons, and begins abruptly with inflammation of the mucous lining of the large bowel. In America the disease is common, but properly treated does not result as seriously as in the tropics. Perry Davis' Painkiller is the best known remedy and the most efficacious in the treatment of dysentery.

A COLD SNAP FOR AUGUST

MERCURY DROPPED DOWN TO FIFTY MARK DURING NIGHT.

There Is Warmer Weather and Rain in Prospect for Last of the Week.

Furs and arctics seemed to be the prospective demand in local markets during the sudden drop in the temperature Tuesday night. While Plainfielders were shiveringly looking for more bed coverings and the coal dealers were chuckling in glee, the outlook was most favorable for an early frost. Fortunately, the mercury began to mount the tube later in the morning, and comparatively pleasant weather resulted.

Not for many years has a snap of coolness been felt so early in August. Comfortable nights have been the rule, but Tuesday's drop was unparalleled. Hovering about the fifty mark during the wee small hours before dawn, the thermometer recorded only 55 shortly after sunrise. The absence of the humid bugbear which made life swelteringly unbearable for so many days past increased the sensibility to the cold and made it appear like winter weather.

While frost and light snow may not be found on the official prognostications, we may look for continued coolness tonight and tomorrow. The predictions are such for the coming two days, with probable rain tomorrow night and a return to the summer heat of last week. Very warm weather for the first two weeks of September, followed by another sudden drop, is the interesting feature of the prophecies now being promulgated by meteorological experts throughout this section of the country.

NEW JERSEY'S PROBATION OFFICER

Prize Essay by Miss Lulu Harriet Fuller, of This City, on the Probation Officer.

Plainfield was particularly fortunate in the showing made by the members of the graduating class of the City High School in the essay competition for the best one on "The Probation Officer of New Jersey." The first prize was awarded to Miss Lulu Harriet Fuller, of this city. The subject is an interesting one but peculiar interest is attached to it from the fact that it was a Plainfield young woman who best described that new official.

While portions of Miss Fuller's essay have already appeared in print in the Newark News, the following is the essay in its entirety:

Sixty years ago, in 1842, Lord Stanley began a work which ever since has been developing and enlarging slowly but surely. This work was the Probation System, which today is growing and gaining a strong foothold in many of the States of our Union. The first attempt to start this movement in the reformation of criminals was begun in VanDiemen's Land, where gangs of men were placed in different parts of the country for the purpose of watching and protecting all petty offenders who were placed in their charge. These offenders were obliged to pass through three stages before they could be free. They carried on their business just as they did before they were on probation, but, during their first confinement, they were obliged to turn over a part and, in some cases, all of their wages to the officers who kept it for them. By good behavior and strict observation of the probation laws they were placed in the second grade where they received a ticket of leave. In course of time they entered upon a conditional pardon where they staid until fully released. In extreme cases more grades were added, but generally more were not necessary. This was only a feeble beginning of what has grown to be an almost necessary factor of good governments. And we, who are interested in the salvation of those who are dear to ourselves and to others are proud that such a law is in force in our own State of New Jersey.

"But what is the use of the Probation System," some one may ask? I should answer: "To help the weak, to protect, guard, and save the young from the evil and destroying influences of the prison." "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," we often hear quoted, but I would make it a ton. No amount of repentance, no matter how sincere, ever worked as much good as a little bit of prevention. We want prevention of crime from the cradle up. We must have heart and brain culture and a power and desire to do something useful for self and society, if we ever wish and hope to have a safe and desirable community. This is the aim of the Probation System. Instead of casting a juvenile offender in prison and causing him to serve time there, it put him on probation with a kind guardian to watch over him and direct his steps until he is able to control them for himself. Mr. William Reed says: "Protection has saved many of both sexes from exposure, shame, and loss of situation in cases where they have committed their first offence and not only saved them for the time being, but for all times." This briefly shows what the Probation System tries to accomplish. Often the question arises, "Shall we punish?" "Shall we imprison?" Sometimes, yes. But it is my belief that punishment does not cure, as a rule, although there are cases where it is a necessity.

There are two kinds of criminals, the habitual and the occasional. For the former the Probation System would hardly serve, for a hardened criminal could seldom, if ever, be won by the methods employed for those not so deep in crime. We deal in this paper chiefly with the latter class. How often a young man or woman stands on the threshold, having committed for the first time some trivial offence and how often at this critical moment their future is decided either for good or evil by some one circumstance. It is just at this stage in the lives of the weak that the Probation Officer steps in. He lifts up the down cast and sends him out a stronger and better man, not alone into the world, but with some one to watch and guide his every step.

It is impossible for a machine to turn out a piece of satisfactory work unless the machine itself is in perfect order and just as truly is it impossible for a reform like the Probation System to work to the best advantage unless all parts of its machinery are of the best material. The Probation Officer above all else must be a Christian man with the highest standard of morals, a man whom every one can and will respect. He should be exemplary in his life and habits, if he wishes to influence those on a lower plain of life to rise to something higher and better. It is his duty to plead the causes of those in whom he is interested and to protect them by his love and sympathy. By combining firmness with his kindness he will be able to control even the most stubborn character.

Assuming that all the Probation Officers in our State possess the noble qualities just mentioned, let us look at the people whom this system directly benefits. As has been said, the Probation Law effects more particularly the juvenile offender and those who have just entered upon the downward path. It is wrong to place one who has committed some trivial offence in jail, where he is apt to come in contact with those who undoubtedly will influence his life for the worse. A young criminal should never see a prison, let alone being placed behind iron bars. The very thought is enough to ruin any young life, which, without a doubt, has its ambitions, although it may have committed some fault. Hope is the guiding star of humanity and to remove it is to crush many an ambitious and promising young spirit. What sensitive young person could come from a prison among his associates again without feeling a sense of shame and a lose of self-respect? No matter how hard he tries, if he is not driven deeper into sin by his thoughts, he will always remember his disgrace with a sense of shame. But on the other hand, if he is influenced by the Probation Officer rather than by the prison walls, he will feel no loss of self-respect, but gratitude for those who are helping him to live a satisfactory and useful life. How many lives of young men and young women too, for that matter, have been ruined for life by the simple remembrance of one or two nights behind some iron bars. I love to think that God never punishes his children when he can win them by love and it is in just this light that the Probation Officer appeals to me. Instead of sending a young offender to a place where he will be under evil influences, he takes him under his supervision and cares for him as a father for his son.

While it is the officer's duty to care for men and women of all ages, still his greatest work lies among the young boys. A boy's young life is as susceptible to all kinds of influence as a flower is to the dew, which it drinks in every evening. Many times the boy who comes under the influence of the Probation Officer is one whose home surroundings are far from the best. Often he has no father or mother to care for him and when he is missing, to sing "Where is my wandering boy tonight." When these necessities of a young person's life are denied him by those from whom they should come, it is the duty of the State to supply them. He is then her child. Who could fail to see the effect upon a young life, when a kind judge should put his arm around a guilty youth and say, "Here is a charge against you, my boy, what have you done?" How often in such cases the child would break down and cry and how often he would go from the judge's office under the care of the Probation Officer with no humiliation in his young heart, only a true and sincere resolve to live a better life under the controlling hand of one who is stronger.

I believe it is easiest to keep the average boy within bounds when he has the greatest liberty. God gave us the children to be trained, but he never meant that his little ones should be trained behind iron bars. Once a child in knee trousers took delight in ringing doorbells much to the disturbance of the people around his neighborhood. The child was not bad, only mischievous and he was inclined to indulge frequently in what he called fun. One day, while roaming through an empty house, he picked up some-

COTILLION OF LAST NIGHT WAS SUCCESS

Guests at The Netherwood and Plainfield Society Folk Participated in the Affair.

PRETTY DECORATIONS.

DANCE WAS CONDUCTED BY LAURENS H. VAN BUREN, OF THIS CITY.

More successful than any function yet held, surpassing even the patriotic ball on the Fourth of July, was the cotillon at the Hotel Netherwood, last evening. All things conspired to make the event a marked success. Even the weather, which has been a subject of complaint almost universally, was the ideal article for those who wished to woo the muse of the many twinkling feet. The attendance last evening was large, the decorations were the finest, the music was the best, the dominant spirit was enthusiasm.

Besides the numerous guests from the hotel who shower their interest in the affair by their presence, people from Plainfield were very conspicuous, both among the dancers and the spectators. At all hours during the evening the floor was well patronized. Seated around the ball room and occupying places near the entrance as well as through the corridors were many who preferred the music's charms to the mazy delights of the waltz. The piazza, too, was a popular spot, and all during the evening was thronged with those who wished to obtain a commanding view of the festive hall.

The decorations were of a gorgeous variety, lending a luxuriant tropical air to the surroundings. A profusion of hydranageas in gold and blue, begonia rex, maranta, asparagus trimmed with honeysuckle, boughs from the forest, waving palms, ferns and potted plants gave the ball room the appearance of a bower in fairyland. The doorways were arched, the mirrors were festooned, and the candelabra were prettily hung with the vines and flowers. Overhead strung diagonally across the rooms were flags of tissue paper, in various tints, with the word "Netherwood" inscribed thereon.

A full orchestra, under the direction of Frederick H. Landolt, discoursed the music for the occasion. Flattering remarks were heard on all sides in praise of these masters of melody. At the souvenir table there was a variety of favors, consisting principally of hats, tambourines, Japanese ware, dolls, pipes, fans, wicker work, Chinese images and like articles. Presiding over the souvenir table were Mrs. C. H. Thorne, Brooklyn; Mrs. Jacka, New York; Mrs. H. L. Balch, Brooklyn.

Laurens H. VanBuren was master of ceremonies, and led the cotillion throughout. The whole affair was arranged under the management of Mr. and Mrs. L. deL. Cammann, of New York. During the intermission the whole company enjoyed the hospitality of the management when a delightful luncheon was served.

During the afternoon the ball room with its decorations was photographed, and in the evening a flashlight was taken of a group of dancers. The decorating work was done by C. L. Stanley, of Plainfield.

A list of subscribers to the cotillion was as follows: L. deL. Cammann, Thomas L. Brown, George J. Brown, M. J. Dumont, A. Brainard, S. H. Arens, C. P. Lord, J. vanHerwerden, Edgar Deal, H. L. Balch, E. S. Walz, P. B. Ricketts, W. F. Hobbie, Jr., H. G. Lockwood, W. E. Leaman, Joseph Lux, C. S. Cammann, Charles Gregory, James Dodd, M. C. Ogden, Charles Grignard, C. S. Rodgers, W. E. Hatfield, W. C. R. Hazard, S. H. Wilson, H. M. Stevens, E. V. Jacka, F. Squires, W. M. Brown, E. S. Barlow, J. W. Emery, G. H. O'Donnell, P. A. Suau, W. B. Lang, H. H. Scaman, Charles Dupee, M. S. Hibert, Paul Sheldon, W. H. Class, P. M. Chandon, H. R. Childs, F. S. Seely, T. E. Laurens, Thomas Jacka, P. J. Jacobs, I. Schloss. A partial list of the women present was the following: The Misses Hibert, Miss Cunningham, Miss Balch, the Misses Perozo, Miss Josephine Lux, the Misses Sheldon, Miss VanSickle, the Misses Annie, Emma and Helen Davis, Miss Balch, Miss Morris, Miss Applegarth, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Sheldon, Miss Grignard, Miss Lauretts, Miss Harrison, Miss Mulford, Miss Brower, Mrs. Cammann, Mrs. Balch, Mrs. C. H. Thorne.

WARRANT OUT FOR GOVERNOR

Was Issued This Morning on Charge of Blackmail Brought by Mr. Power, Netherwood.

STORY OF THE CASE.

Resulted From Previous Arrest of Mr. Power on Complaint of Governor Kimball—Power Started Civil Suits—Now Warrant is Issued for Arrest of Governor.

Blackmail is the specific charge now brought against Governor Charles Kimball, of Rhode Island, by Andrew F. Power, of Netherwood, as the outcome of the difficulties between the two men. The climax in the affair was reached this morning, when a warrant was issued for the Executive in New York.

Several days' deliberation on the part of the New York magistrate before whom the civil proceedings of the past two weeks had been brought led to his willingness to recognize the claims of the Plainfielder and his lawyers for further action, and the warrant for Kimball's arrest was signed yesterday. Embodied in the declaration is the charge that the defendant had threatened Mr. Power with exposure as a scoundrel in the newspapers, unless he would agree to purchase back the stock held by the Governor in the New England Manufacturers' Association.

After this company was formed last December, it is said that Governor Kimball became interested a few months later, taking stock and then being elected to the presidency of the board of directors of the corporation. Last month, he resigned from this office. Then began the proceedings resulting in the summons being served upon Mr. Power to appear in the Centre Street Police Court of New York. One of the features of the hearing was the statements advanced by the complainants to the effect that the Exporters' Association of America, in which Mr. Power is concerned, was insolvent. This afterwards formed the basis of the suit brought by that corporation for alleged slander.

Hugh J. McCormack, formerly a bookkeeper for the Exporters' Association, was one of the witnesses called by the plaintiff in support of the charge of insolvency. His testimony revealed the fact that on May 1, when his connection with the corporation had been ended, there had been assets of $147,000. After hearing this and other testimony of equal inefficiency, Magistrate Flammer dismissed the proceedings without asking for any evidence on the part of the defense.

On the same day, just as Governor Kimball was leaving the court room, summonses were served on him to answer the civil suits for damages brought by Mr. Power and the two corporations which he represents. All the papers in the affair were turned over to the magistrate for consideration, pending the issuance of the warrant applied for by the plaintiff. Yesterday the court reached the conclusion that the affair merited legal investigation at least, and signed the warrant which was placed in the hands of the sheriff to be served on Governor Kimball as soon as he appears in New York.

JUNIORS' EXCURSION.

Took Crowd of 400 to Asbury Park for American Day This Morning.

Starting from Dunellen a few minutes earlier, the annual excursion of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., drew away from the North Avenue station at 8:15 this morning. Thirteen cars comprised the train of which but eight were occupied and these only comfortably filled, making it somewhat smaller than those of previous year. In all about 400 people were in the crowd. Further stops were made at Netherwood and Fanwood where a few more passengers were secured.

The cars in the rear of the train were filled at Elizabeth, the Juniors at that place merging with Plainfield in its trip to the Park. The run to the shore was made in the usual time and the return home will start this evening at 9 o'clock, arriving here at 10:30. Conductor Frank Webster, of this city, was in charge of the train.

Morris V. Brokaw and Clarence Swalm, of West Front street, returned from Ocean Grove today after a two weeks' outing.

OLD RESIDENTS KNEW JOHN DUNNING WELL

News of His Sudden Death at Lake Sunapee, New Hampshire, Has Reached Here.

ONCE IN BUSINESS HERE.

CONDUCTED A CARRIAGE PAINT SHOP FOR MANY YEARS.

Since His Departure From Plainfield, Mr. Dunning Often Visited His Old Friend, John B. Brown, of Park Avenue.

Plainfielders of the last generation will remember John H. Dunning, for many years a resident and business man of this city. Word has just been received of his sudden death of heart failure at the summer home of his son at Lake Sunapee, New Hampshire, Monday.

Half a century ago, Mr. Dunning was a prominent figure in local business circles. The firm of Heath & Dunning, carriage painters, as early as 1846, occupied the only building on West Fourth street between Park and Central avenues, now known as the old French house. At that time Park avenue ended at Fourth street, turning at that point into the latter thoroughfare. In 1846, J. B. Brown, of Park avenue, also came to Plainfield, from Somerville, and he worked with Mr. Dunning for a number of years before starting for himself on Somerset street.

Shortly afterwards, the firm of Heath & Dunning was dissolved, and Mr. Dunning took the upper part of the shop used by Mr. Brown. The latter sold out his business in 1875, but Mr. Dunning remained at the place a number of years later. In 1887, he broke up his home on Duer street, and went to New York, where his son and daughter were both engaged in school work. The three had been living together ever since. Mrs. Dunning died at the Duer street home.

After removing from the city, Mr. Dunning was a frequent visitor here, especially at the home of his old friend, Mr. Brown. On his last trip here, he complained of the trouble he was having with his heart, and Mr. Brown felt then that he might never see his guest alive again.

While prepared in a measure for the news of his friend's death, Mr. Brown was somewhat shocked by the suddenness of the event. He has many pleasant memories of the times spent in the workshop or about Plainfield with Mr. Dunning and indulges in numerous reminiscences of their past. The dead man would have been seventy-nine years old in October. He leaves a daughter, Miss Matilda, and a son, William A., at whose home he died.

MANSFIELD'S FUNERAL.

Services Over a Victim of Railroad Accident at Elizabethport.

Many mourners of the untimely fate of Patrick Mansfield, the brakeman who was killed in the drawbridge accident at Elizabethport on Tuesday, gathered at the home of the dead man's sister, Mrs. John Connelly, of East Fifth street, at the funeral services this morning. From the house, the body was taken to St. Mary's church, where a solemn requiem mass was said by Rev. Father Farley at 8:30 o'clock.

Floral pieces in abundance offered evidence of the tender remembrances of many friends. Ten coaches conveyed the mourners to the railway station, where train was taken for Hampton Junction for the interment of the remains. The pall bearers were D. R. McCarthy, M. McCarthy, Edward Finnessy, John Owens, David Doyle and James Higgins.

Fine Day's Outing.

There will be no League baseball games Saturday. That will give everybody a chance to go to Asbury Park with the Hope chapel excursion. This is the excursion of the year to the twin cities and all who desire a fine day's outing at the shore should not fail to attend. The train leaves Grant Avenue station at 7:55, Plainfield at 8 and returning quits the Park at 7:55 in the evening, thus insuring a full day.

Broke Her Arm.

A stumble against the curb caused Miss Mary O'Brien, of Grant avenue, to lose her balance, yesterday, and fall with an arm doubled under her. The bone was snapped just below the elbow. Dr. Boone reset the broken bone.

BULLET MISSED TRAMP AND STRUCK POLICEMAN

Cranford's Police Force Had Much Trouble in Arresting a Very Desperate Man.

COMPELLED TO SHOOT.

ONE BULLET HIT AN OFFICER, THE SECOND BROUGHT DOWN OFFENDER.

Exciting Time at Cranford Early Yesterday Morning in Landing Peter Melders—Policeman Behnert the Victim—Will Recover.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, August 14 — Policeman Otto Behnert was accidentlly shot in the shoulder by a fellow officer, James Hennessy, at an early hour yesterday morning, while they were endeavoring to capture a desperate Russian named Peter Melders, who resisted arrest by swinging an iron bar over his head to keep the officers away.

Policeman Behnert was taken to the Cranford Hotel and Dr. W. C. Mac Connell summoned to attend him. The bullet was extracted from his shoulder and he is resting as easily as can be expected.

The Russian, Melders, was captured after being shot in the thigh by Policeman Kuhn and clubbed by the officers into submission. He was taken to the town lock-up, where Dr. Perkins attended his injuries, and was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital by ambulance shortly after 4 o'clock. Besides the bullet in his thigh, the fellow has a severe scalp wound and is considerably bruised.

At about 1 o'clock Policeman Hennessy found the Russian asleep on a flat car and ordered him off the car. Melders immediately put up a fight and in the scuffle hit the officer over the head and threw him from the car.

The night flagman at the Union avenue crossing, hearing the fight, ran to the officer's assistance and received a blow upon his head.

Melders then swung an iron bar around his head, and with oaths dared the men to near him. Hennessy blew his whistle for help, to which call Officer Behnert responded. The officers tried to get near the murderous Russian and disarm him. As Officer Behnert neared him Melders attempted to strike. Officer Hennessy drew his pistol and shot at the fellow. The ball missed the man Behnert staggered and Hennessy jumped to his side. In the mean time Policeman Kuhn arrived and shot Melders in the thigh, and also landed a blow upon his head which brought the man to the ground.

A crowd of citizens were attracted by the battle and all closed in around the offender, preventing his escape. As the result of Tuesday night's affair Policeman Hennessy has been taken off duty. The unfortunate shooting has completely unnerved the officer who injured his comrade while in the discharge of duty.

Melders gave his age as thirty-eight years.

POLICEMEN'S GAME.

Change in Plans Will Result in the Game Being Played on Hope Common Instead of St. Mary's.

Owing to the unprecedented demand for tickets, the promoters of the baseball game between the local policemen and the Newark Fourth Precinct team, have decided to make Hope Common instead of the St. Mary ground, the scene of the struggle. The former will seat many more people as the grandstands are larger and in addition there are many side seats. It is estimated that 800 tickets have already been sold.

The local team is in good shape for the contest having undergone a number of changes in its line-up while every member has been practicing daily. While they will have no walk-over there is no doubt but what they will hold the visitors down. The game will commence at 3 o'clock sharp.

LOST HIS WAY.

Attempted to Take a Short Cut Home and Stayed Out All Night.

While returning home from a gathering in South Plainfield, Monday evening, George Whitly, of this city, attempted to make a short cut through a woods in that section and in doing so lost his way. He wandered about for the remainder of the night and at last gave up the attempt to get home in the dark. It was only when the first rays of the sun showed him his whereabouts that he reached the beaten road again.

TWO MEN WERE HURT; ONE HORSE INJURED

Serious Results of Runaway That Ended With a Head-On Collision With Milk Wagon.

ON WATCHUNG AVENUE.

WILLIAM HENRY AND JEPPE SORENSEN THROWN OUT AND INJURED.

Sorensen Went Under the Wagon and Was Struck by Flying Hoof—His Injuries Most Serious—The Driver of Wagon Shaken Up.

Watchung avenue, between East Fourth street and North avenue, was the scene of an exciting runaway shortly after 8 o'clock, this morning, which terminated with rather serious results.

A big bay team, attached to a peach wagon in which sat the owner, William Henry, of Washington Valley, and Jeppe Sorensen, the butcher, was being driven along Watchung avenue when the whiffletree broke. The pieces dropping on the horses' heels started them off in a panic and in a trice both men were thrown out. Sorensen went down between the team and the wagon passed over him while Henry took a side header and brought up against the curb.

The frightened horses tore the pole from the wagon and, continuing their mad flight, collided head on with a milk wagon belonging to L. D. Morris, of West Front street, at the corner of North avenue. Morris was behind closed doors and was banged about for several minutes before he could escape.

His horse tore loose from the harness and was about to complicate matters by starting off on its own account when it was caught. The original runaways were also headed to at this point. One of them [illegible] the smash on its leg clear to the bone, [illegible] from the knee to the hoof. It was taken at once to a veterinary who declared it had small chances of living.

Of the men in the run, Sorensen was probably the most badly hurt. Yesterday was his first day out after a week's illness and he was riding about with Henry to get the fresh air. The pole of the wagon struck him in the back after which he landed on his head and shoulders. A flying hoof also struck him in the arm. He was placed in a carriage and taken to his home on Webster place where he will remain for many days as it is feared he is injured internally. Henry was cut and scraped in many places and Morris suffered a number of bad bruises, none of them sufficient to require the services of a physician.

ROBBED THE TREE.

The Small Boys Helped Themselves When Owners Were Away.

While Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney, of Rockview avenue, were away on their vacation this summer, a beautiful English walnut tree, which has been an ornament to the premises, was despoiled by the vandal youngsters who make a business of robbing people's orchards. The tree was laden with nuts and Mr. Kenney took considerable pride in it. Needless to say, its fruit is now an unknown quantity.

Family Jar.

Albert Manning, of this city, and William Carpenter, of New York, father-in-law and son-in-law respectively, stood facing each other in the city court, this morning, as defendant and plaintiff respectively. It cost Manning $3 as he was found guilty of calling Carpenter names that weren't just exactly proper. His daughter, Mrs. Carpenter, over whom the row started, paid the fine.

In Justice Hand's Court.

In the contract case of Frank J. Gast, of New York, against Mary Armstrong in Justice Hand's court yesterday afternoon, the jruy brought in a full amount for the plaintiff and costs. Hetfield & Hetfield were the atorneys for plaintiff. S. S. Swackhamer represented the defendant. The case has been appealed.

Going to Visit Unity.

In response to an invitation many of the members of Perseverance Lodge, K. of P. will pay a fraternal visit to Unity Lodge, at its regular meeting this evening. The former will take with it the Perseverance Good and Welfare coterie which can be counted upon to entertain the gathering.

—Tomorrow Neuman Brothers will have an extra large display of peaches. The sale will commence early and it will pay to buy early.

thing of little value. Some one found it out and had him arrested. He was put in jail and all night the little fellow kept crying for his "mamma." Does this seem humane? Does it seem possible that people in our State and of our civilization would permit a mere child's life to be branded and injured by the stigma of commitment? No, it is not humane nor right to place a child in such a place, even if he does something twice as bad It is our duty to save the young from a life of degradation and sin and not to push them into it.

Not only does the Probation System benefit the individuals under its laws, but it also has great advantages for all society. Our State, as well as others, needs all the good men it can obtain to carry on its laws and work its reforms. But no man or boy closed up in a prison, unless he be a habitual criminal, can in any way benefit his State or society. When released, if he doesn't go directly deeper into crime, he is too much humiliated by his disgrace to make himself at all prominent. On the other hand, a person under the control of the Probation Officer has no disgrace clinging to him. If he obeys the laws, he is as free and independent as any other citizen and has just as much a chance to rise and benefit himself and his community, as one who had never committed a wrong deed.

Nothing of value can be obtained in this world unless the proper price is paid for it and the Probation Officer, like all other great things, costs money. I have no patience with a person who counts the cost of manhood or who finds time to discuss the difference in cost between two methods of saving human souls, but, nevertheless, it will be interesting to note briefly how much money the Probation Officer in the long run saves our State. When a man is put in jail, a fine is placed upon him which he must pay by working in the prison at the rate of fifty cents a day. During the time he is confined, the State must not only provide his meals, but many times support his neglected family. When one individual is considered the expense seems small, but remember that the State has not only one dependent, but many hundreds. On the other hand, the Probation subject is all the while turning in money to the government. When on probation, a man can continue to hold his position as before. He receives his regular salary and the fine, which he has to pay, can be paid at a greater rate and consequently in a much shorter time than that paid by the man who is working in jail. No meals must be furnished him; no support is needed for his family. He can be independent and ready to help himself and others. The money received from these people more than pays the salary of the Probation Officers. The taxpayer is not assessed a cent by this plan and he should remember that by supporting such a system he is lessening the number of criminals for whom he would have to pay years hence. And by diminishing the number of criminals, he is helping to do away with much crime.

These facts which have been mentioned are by no means all the reasons why the Probation Officer is an advantage to our State. They are but a few and many others could be cited which would show equally well other advantages, but still, I think, that these few prove that the adoption of such a method by our State means the Salvation of many human souls. In New Jersey the Probation Officer is still in his infancy but he is sure to grow and he will certainly gain strength as he matures. To show what headway he has already gained, I will mention the results obtained in Essex county. Here the Probation Officer was first elected on April 1, 1900, and since that time he has had one hundred and ninety-three persons under his care. One hundred and eighty-four have been male offenders and only nine female. It is remarkable that but fifteen of this number have broken their probation in any way. Fifteen is a comparatively small number to go wrong, when we consider the temptations which beset the weak and strong alike. Had it not been for the Officer, undoubtedly these offenders would have served some time in the Penitentiary, lost their self-respect and been pushed further down the road of sin. One can not help but see the good worked by such a method. It is next to impossible for one to go astray, when he knows that he is on his honor to do the right thing and that he must report at stated times to the one who is so kindly helping him to live right. Thus we are proud that our State has adopted such a noble and loyal way of helping her children to surmount their difficulties. She is simply teaching them to have courage, for "Heaven is not gained by a single bound,

But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies.
And mount to its summit round by round."

By his sympathetic words and fatherly care the Probation Officer encourages and saves many a wavering soul by teaching them that

"There are gallant men in the losing fight,
And as gallant deeds are done
As ever graced the captured height,
Or a battle grandly won."

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

THEATRICAL.

With almost the whole of the summer past, Keith's bills still retain their prominent position in vaudeville and Keith's audiences far from showing depleted ranks, are still the marvel and despair of all other managers who essay to present vaudeville. Next week the headliners on a remarkable bill will be Sheehan and Warren, who present their famous "Quo Vadis Upside Down," a travesty upon the famous play which has made people laugh over the world. The Sandor Trio, in their thrilling acrobatic feats; the Exposition Four, who will delight all music lovers; the Nichol Sisters, two very attractive girls who care so little for tneir appearance that they do their songs and dances in blackface; John H. V. Byrne, the celebrated monologue artist; Whalen and Otto, celebrated for Dutch comedy; Susie Fisher, vocalist; and eighteen other strong acts, among which are imported novelties, as well as good domestic acts, complete the bill.

PALISADES BOULEVARD.

Plans for It Are Now Completed by the Palisades Commission.

Plans for the Boulevard along the New Jersey bank of the Hudson north from Fort Lee have been completed by the Palisades Commission, but have not yet been officially adopted.

A broad driveway commanding an unobstructed view of the river will be constructed. It will be protected by masonry walls at points where there is danger from rocks falling from the cliffs above.

Mrs. William Tooker, of Chicago, has returned home after a visit with her aunt, Mrs. D. S. Roberts, of Prospect place.

Miss Gussie Long, of Park avenue, has returned home from Librty Corner, after a month's visit with relatives there.

Charles P. Daley, of Manning avenue, is entertaining Rutledge Johnson, of Poughkeepsie, and Charles Thorp, of Brooklyn.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

KILLED BY MOROS.

American Sentinels Attacked Near Bacolod.

MANILA, Aug. 14.—A small party of Moros surprised an outpost of the Twenty-seventh Infantry at Camp Vicars, and Sergeant Foley and Private Carey were killed and Private Van Dorn was severely wounded.

The Moros, who numbered only a dozen, were armed with spears and swords. The morning was dark and foggy. The attacking party crawled to within a few feet of the sentinels and then sprang upon them suddenly. The entire outpost rushed to the relief of the sentinels, but they were too late, and the Moros escaped, although possibly a few of them were wounded. The American sentinels were terribly cut by the swords and spears.

The attacking Moros were all from Bacolod, and the occurrence probably will result in a move against that town, which has a strong fort and other defenses.

Tributes to McMillan.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 14.—Nearly 1,000 friends and fellow townsmen of the late Senator James McMillan of Michigan, who died suddenly early on Sunday morning at Manchester, Mass., gathered in the Light Guard armory last night to pay tribute to his memory. The rostrum from which the speakers voiced their eulogies of the dead senator was appropriately draped with black bunting, and over their heads hung a draped portrait of the dead statesman. Mayor Maybury presided at the meeting. Among the speakers were General R. A. Alger, former secretary of war; General Henry M. Duffield, George H. Barbour, Rev. Alfred H. Barr, pastor of Senator McMillan's church; City Comptroller F. A. Blades, Circuit Judge W. H. Carpenter and a number of other prominent citizens. Resolutions were adopted expressing the sorrow of the city at the sudden death of Senator McMillan and eulogizing him.

Twentieth Century's Fast Run.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 14.—The Twentieth Century limited on the Lake Shore yesterday afternoon made the best long distance run ever made by the train. The run was made between Kendallville, Ind., and Toledo. The distance of ninety-one miles was covered in seventy-five minutes, which is at the rate of 72.8 miles per hour. The train covered the distance between Elkhart and Toledo, a distance of 134 miles, in 117 minutes. This is at the rate of 68.8 miles per hour. Engineer Charles Gulmeyer was at the throttle.

New Head For Adrian College.

ADRIAN, Mich., Aug. 14.—Dr. T. N. Lewis of Western Maryland college, Westminster, Md., has been selected by the trustees of Adrian college to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of President David Jones, who will enter active ministerial work.

Iowa Judge Dies Suddenly.

RICHFIELD SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Judge D. N. Sprague of the supreme court of Iowa is dead here from heart failure, aged seventy years. Judge Sprague was born at Exeter, N. Y. His remains will be sent to Wapello, Ia.

Adirondack Mill Burned.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Ouderkirk's sawmill, in the northern portion of Herkimer county, has been burned, entailing a loss of $60,000. This was the largest sawmill in the Adirondack region.

STONES FOR MINERS.

Workmen at Wilkesbarre Given a Volley.

PROTECTION IS ASKED OF SHERIFF.

Washery at Duryea Surrounded by Strikers and Resumption of Work Prevented—Father O'Reilly's Remarks Are Disliked.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 14.—A number of workmen who were returning from the Woodward mine last night claim a volley of stones was fired at them, but no one was hurt. A number of boys were seen on a hill near by, and it is thought they were the guilty parties.

The owners of the Warnke washery at Duryea have asked Sheriff Jacobs to protect their property. A barbed wire barricade was built around the washery, but some unknown parties tore it down. A crowd of 500 men and boys collected around the washery yesterday, as it was expected operations would be resumed. When a number of deputy sheriffs reached the place, the crowd dispersed.

The presidents of the local assemblies of the United Mine Workers of the Wilkesbarre district met here and adopted resolutions condemning Rev. Father O'Reilly of Shenandoah for his criticism of the officers of the United Mine Workers. President Mitchell and the district presidents were eulogized for their efforts to better the condition of the miners. President Mitchell addressed a personal letter to the Shenandoah clergyman, taking exceptions to certain remarks alleged to have been made by him in his church last Sunday. Rev. O'Reilly sent a curt reply, saying that Mr. Mitchell had no right to criticise his sermon.

Representatives of the big coal companies here think it would be a useless trip for a committee of the citizens' alliance of Wilkesbarre to go to Atlantic City to see Senator Quay and have him use his influence with the presidents of the coal carrying railroads to bring about arbitration. Local operators are of the opinion that it is too late to talk about arbitration now, as those in control of the trade think it can only be a short time until the miners make up their minds to return to work.

Coal Superintendents Meet.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 14.—The general superintendents of the largest coal companies in the anthracite field held a secret meeting at the offices of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company here yesterday. All efforts to obtain any information beyond the statement that the gathering was merely a social one was futile. A brief meeting was held in the Reading offices at 11 o'clock, and shortly after noon the entire party went to Tumbling Run, a pleasure park, where a luncheon was served. Several hours were spent at the resort, after which the superintendents left for their homes.

Father O'Reilly Denounced.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 14.—At a big meeting of strikers in Dickson City yesterday District President Nicholls and ex-National Organizer Dilcher bitterly denounced the Father O'Reilly sermon. Mr. Nicholls asserted that a man who would thus defile God's temple would have God's curses fall upon him. Mr. Dilcher asserted that the sermon was unwarranted and a tissue of falsehoods.

Hospital For Saratoga County.

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The Saratoga county board of supervisors at a special session accepted the proposition of General H. W. Carpenter of New York and Oakland, Cal., to donate to his native county a sum not to exceed $10,000 for the erection and equipment of an hospital on Almshouse farm on plans to be approved by the state board of charities.

Sealing Schools Illegal.

LYONS, France, Aug. 14.—The court of appeals has declared the affixing of seals to certain nuns' schools to be illegal and has ordered their removal on the ground that the buildings in question belonged to private owners and not to the congregations. A number of cases similar to the foregoing are at present before the courts in various places in the provinces.

Killed Father to Save Mother.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Aug. 14.—J. H. Sims, a wealthy farmer, was shot and killed by his son John while endeavoring to murder his wife with a butcher knife. The aggressor was intoxicated and made a vicious attack upon his wife for a fancied wrong, and the son interfered just in time to save her life.

A Fast Railroad Run.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.—The Pennsylvania railroad special which left Crestline one hour and twenty minutes late arrived in this city on time, making the run of 180 miles at the average speed of a mile a minute. Some of the stretches were covered at the rate of seventy-eight miles an hour.

½ Barns Burned on Historic Farm.

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Five barns and sheds on the historic Freeman's farm in Bemis Heights battlefield, containing sixty tons of hay, have burned to the ground, being struck by lightning. The owner, William Esmond, had no insurance.

Four Killed by Boiler Explosion.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Four men are missing, one fatally scalded and two seriously injured as the result of the bursting of the boiler on the tug Jacob Kuper yesterday.

ARMY OF PHILIPPINES

Third Annual Reunion Held at Council Bluffs.

PRESIDENT GENERAL HALE'S ADDRESS

It Is Recommended That Membership Be Extended Only to Those Serving Prior to Proclamation of Amnesty.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Aug. 14.—The third annual reunion of the Society of the Army of the Philippines began in this city yesterday, with nearly 2,000 delegates and veterans in attendance. After a brief reception early in the day the society was called to order in Arcanum hall by President General Irving Hale. Following the address of General Hale routine business was taken up, the session lasting a greater part of the afternoon.

A reception was held at Lake Manawa last night. An address of welcome by Governor Cummins and other addresses by Governor Savage of Nebraska and General Hale were delivered.

General Hale recommended that the limit of membership be extended to those serving in the army in the Philippines up to July 4, 1902, the date of the proclamation of amnesty, and continued:

"At present and perhaps for some time to come there are two special reasons for maintaining such an organization—first, loyal nonpartisan support of the United States government in its earnest and conscientious efforts to carry out the responsibilities which our campaigns in the Philippines brought forth, and, second, defense of the United States army, which has been made a chopping block by hostile politicians in their attacks on the administration. Let us stand together for the honor of our commander in chief, the president, and the army, the navy and the flag."

General Hale also recommended a plan for a uniform constitution and bylaws of local camps, a copy of which he submitted. He spoke of the plans and purposes of the general society and reviewed the Philippine campaign in which the members of the society took part.

A telegram from President Roosevelt read as follows:

"Permit me to express to the members of the Society of the Army of the Philippines my great regret that my engagements make it impossible for me to attend their third annual reunion. Naturally those of us who served in Cuba look with a particularly keen interest and sympathy upon all that has been done by our valiant brethren who have so nobly fought for the honor of our flag in the Philippine Islands. I greatly appreciate the honor done me in asking me to attend. Nothing would give me greater pleasure, and it is with keen regret that I am obliged to refuse."

To Dam the Mississippi.

KEOKUK, Ia., Aug. 14.—Mississippi river cities, lumber interests of the northwest and steamboat lines of the Mississippi river have determined on a combined and strong effort to induce the transmississippi commercial congress, meeting at St. Paul next week, actively to favor the building of a great dam entirely across the river at Keokuk at the foot of the Des Moines rapids. The effect of such a dam would be to render unnecessary the use of the government canal and incidentally to develop 60,000 electrical horsepower for commercial use. The survey and report to the war department ordered by the last national congress is now being made. The next congress will be asked to order the dam built.

Exposition Coins.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The question of the engraving on the one dollar gold coins to be coined especially for the St. Louis exposition has been considered by the secretary of the treasury. It has been suggested that part of them bear the likeness of McKinley and part that of Jefferson, as it is impossible to get both likenesses on the same coin. The reverse side of the coin is to have a view of the exposition with the dates 1803 and 1903. The matter has not been determined finally.

To Stop "Fish Stories."

LACROSSE, Wis., Aug. 14.—W. T. Woodward, a Lacrosse attorney, has drafted a bill which he will present to the legislature this winter, the purpose of which is to prevent the telling of "fish stories." The bill provides that every fisherman must, under penalty of fine, register the weight of every fish taken exceeding one pound in weight.

California's Governor Arrested.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 14.—Governor Henry T. Gage was arrested yesterday by a detective of San Francisco who served on him a warrant charging him with criminal libel, the warrant having been sworn to by the proprietor of the San Francisco Call. The governor was immediately afterward released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Miners Demand an Advance.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 14.—The committee of mine workers in conference with the coal operators here presented their demands for a new wage scale for the year beginning Oct. 1. The miners want a horizontal increase of 10 per cent. It is intimated that the operators will decline to grant the concessions asked.

CUBA'S FUTURE.

Sugar Planters Active In Spite of Discouraging Reports.

HAVANA, Aug. 14.—La Discusion publishes an article about the future of Cuba. The paper says that in spite of the dark outlook private enterprises are beginning to show tangible results. It says that Senor Pelaya, a well known sugar planter, is making additions of improved machinery to his estates and expects to obtain 100,000 sacks of sugar from his next crop. Another planter is said also to have increased his sugar machinery and to be hopeful of securing 40,000 sacks of sugar next season. According to the article, Senor Mena has likewise rebuilt his sugar estates, bought new machinery and hopes to make 100,000 sacks of sugar from his next crop.

It is pointed out by La Discusion that statements like the foregoing do not bear out the assertion that without the aid of a four million dollar loan there will be no sugar crop next year.

L. V. de Abad is the author of a letter published in La Lucha appealing to those principally interested to assist toward starting a weekly review to be published in New York city and to be devoted to the economic interests of Cuba. Senor de Abad says he already has the promise of the assistance of good writers.

Farmers' Co-operative Company.

PIERRE, S. D., Aug. 14.—The Farmers' National Co-operative Exchange company has filed articles of incorporation showing a capital of $50,000,000. The purposes of the corporation are to buy, sell and deal in grain, provisions, live stock and all kinds of produce on commission and otherwise, and for that purpose build and equip grain elevators, warehouses, cold storage plants, stockyards and whatever may be necessary to carry on the business of the corporation. One-fourth of the capital stock will be used for building the elevators, yards, branch offices, etc., and another fourth will be made a cash fund for dealing in grain and provisions on the board of trade. The remaining half of the capital stock will be left virtually with the farmers in various banks where the money has been raised to enable them to hold their crops for a more favorable market.

County Collector Missing.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Aug. 14.—County Collector William O. Garrison is missing from his home, and the Cumberland county board of freeholders after its meeting confirmed the rumor that he is a defaulter. The amount Garrison owes is not known, but an officer of the board estimated it at $25,000. Garrison left Bridgeton last Friday, ostensibly to attend the Elks gathering at Salt Lake City. He left a letter for his family, the seal of which was not to be broken until yesterday. In it he conveyed the information that he had gone never to return, and he stated further that it would be useless to search for him. Garrison is supposed to have used the money in his extensive coal and grain business. In his letter he acknowledged taking the county's money from the time he was first elected collector, ten years ago.

It Means Millions.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 14.—D. M. Parry, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has received an opinion from Sullivan & Cromwell, New York city, general counsel in America of the new Panama Canal company, which means many millions of dollars to the manufacturers of the United States. The opinion is to the effect that every dollar's worth of machinery and supplies necessary for the construction of the canal may be purchased in the United States without restraint from the operation of the French laws, under which the company was originally chartered. American manufacturers have been considerably agitated over the provisions of the law governing the French company, and it has been feared that purchases of machinery and supplies would have to be made in France.

Elks Choose Baltimore.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 14.—The grand lodge of Elks has selected Baltimore as the place of meeting for the annual reunion of the grand lodge in 1903 and has practically completed its business with the exception of the installation of the new grand officers. The spectacular feature of the programme was the parade of the uniformed bodies of Elks, in which more than 3,000 of the fraternity, representing several scores of lodges, took part.

Held For Infanticide.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—David Edwards and Vida Phelps of Salisbury have been held by Coroner Douglass to await the action of the grand jury. They are charged with having caused the death of three infants by suffocation. The woman has made a confession, blaming Edwards for the murders.

Watterson Not a Candidate.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 14.—Henry Watterson, who has just got home, states emphatically that he is not a candidate for governor of Kentucky notwithstanding the numerous reports to that effect which had reached him while traveling in the north and west.

Double Tracks For the O. and W.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The work of building the double tracks on the Ontario and Western railroad has been commenced here. A New York firm has the contract to construct 108 miles, from Cornwall to Cadosia. Negro laborers will do the work.

Engaged by Sousa.

LINCOLN, Ill., Aug. 14.—Miss Grace Jenkins of this city has been engaged by John P. Sousa to star with his band next season as a violin soloist on his American and European tours.

EXTRADITION DENIED

Greene and Gaynor Set Free at Quebec.

NEW PROCEEDINGS ARE PROBABLE.

Warrant For Arrest Faulty In Many Particulars and Gave No Ground For the Return of the Men to the United States For Trial.

QUEBEC, Aug. 14.—Colonel John F. Gaynor and Captain Benjamin D. Greene scored a decisive victory yesterday in their fight against extradition to the United States, where they are wanted in connection with alleged frauds in harbor work for the federal government involving millions of dollars. Judge Caron in the superior court discharged the prisoners from the custody of Sheriffs Langelier of Quebec and Valee of Montreal, in whose custody they have been since their sensational arrest in Quebec last May. A large number of the prisoners' friends were in the courtroom, and they heartily congratulated the two men upon their release.

Colonel Gaynor and Captain Greene left the courtroom soon after Judge Caron had concluded and proceeded to the Chateau Frontenac. Colonel Gaynor, who is suffering from rheumatism, retired to his room.

It is understood that the United States will institute new proceedings for the extradition of Greene and Gaynor, but up to a late hour no step had been taken by counsel representing the Washington authorities.

Judge Caron, who spoke in French, occupied about two hours in delivering his judgment.

In a review of the legal proceedings since the arrest of the two prisoners Judge Caron pointed out that their counsel had raised an important question to the effect that the warrant issued by Magistrate Lafontaine was illegal on the ground that it did not contain the date nor the year in which the alleged offense had been committed by the accused. He could not presume when the offense was committed, and it may have been previous to the signing of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, and if so the accused could not be held, as the treaties had no retroactive effect.

According to a deposition made in Montreal by Mr. Erwin, counsel for the United States, in May last, continued Judge Caron, the accused were charged with fraud committed on or about Jan. 1, 1897. That crime was not included in the treaties, and that of receiving money under false pretenses was only included in the treaty of 1900. This was fatal to the prosecution, and the warrant issued by Judge Lafontaine was defective, as the offense included therein did not fall under the extradition treaty, consequently the arrest was illegal, and the accused must be set at liberty.

Officials Disappointed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The decision of Judge Caron in the Greene and Gaynor cases was a decided disappointment to the government officials interested, as they had hoped for a favorable outcome of the efforts that have been made to secure the extradition of the two men. Attorney General Knox is out of the city, and in his absence Assistant Attorney General Beck is acting as the head of the department of justice. Mr. Beck declined to comment on the decision further than to say that he regretted it.

"Putty" and May United.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—In a communication from Lisbon, dated Sunday, Aug. 10, the correspondent there of the Daily Express says that May Yohe and Putnam Bradlee Strong are living happily together at the Avenida hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson. In an interview with the correspondent Strong said: "Miss Yohe arrived here Wednesday, Aug. 6, in response to my telegraphed request that she come. We are perfectly happy and intend to marry Sept. 25, when Miss Yohe's decree of divorce has been made absolute. We will then travel, but we shall never return to America, nor will Miss Yohe return to the stage."

Venezuelan Revolutionary Situation.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 14.—News has reached here by the Red D line steamer Caracas that the Venezuelan revolutionary forces under General Matos and the government troops under President Castro are expected soon to meet on the plains outside of Caracas in a decisive battle. The Venezuelan revolutionists are said to have received a large shipment of Mauser rifles and ammunition and some cannon from Germany. Plots against the life of President Castro are said to have been discovered.

Former Governor Cornell Ill.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The health of former Governor Alonzo B. Cornell, son of Ezra Cornell, founder of Cornell university, is believed to be seriously impaired, and his condition is a source of great anxiety to his friends. It is reported that this illness has threatened Mr. Cornell for two or three years and that his close friends have known his condition for some time. Mr. Cornell is now seventy years old.

Iron Workers' Strike Off.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—The general strike of the structural iron workers throughout the country has been declared off, the American Bridge company having granted the demands of the Philadelphia strikers.

Wintry Weather Abroad.

VIENNA, Aug. 14.—Wintry weather prevails throughout Austria-Hungary, and severe cold and heavy snowstorms are reported from the mountain districts.

ELECTION IS APPROACHING.

It is well to keep in mind that it will be just a month from Saturday when the people of North Plainfield will be called to vote on the question of annexation to Union county. That is the date set by the Borough Council for the special election, called under the acts passed by the Legislature last winter. While there have been many arguments advanced pro and con, the time will then come for the voters of the borough to definitely decide what they will do with the Greater Plainfield project, or rather the first step toward that end.

Now that the time for ballotting is gradually approaching, the voters of North Plainfield should consider the question fairly and without prejudice. The fact that certain people happen to be for or against the project has nothing to do with the question itself. It must be decided on its merits. Let the people of North Plainfield realize that fact. The question is now to come before the people for a final decision. If defeated now, it means that the prosperity of the borough is put back many years for it will be many years before the question will be put to vote again.

The question on which the borough vote will decide as to whether or not they desire to become part of Union county. A way has been shown whereby the two municipalities can be consolidated as part of Union county. It will be practical and for the good of all concerned No other practical way of uniting city and borough has been shown. It therefore behooves the people of North Plainfield to take advantage of a good thing without delay.

Some people have been heard to say that they would favor the plan but not at this time. Let them remember that defeat now puts back the project for a lifetime perhaps. If it will be a good thing ten years from now, it will be a good thing today. And it is a good thing. Therefore let the people of North Plainfield consider it carefully, eliminate any personalities from the subject and decide only on the merits of the case.

There has been the usual visitation of severe storms this summer but the section surroundings Plainfield has so far suffered but little. Trenton has been tornado swept. Floods have visited the neighborhood of Madison and Morristown but Plainfield has been singularly free. And this is not the only year that the disastrous high winds and heavy showers have passed on either hand but failed to reach this place. Plainfield seems singularly fortunately located so that it suffers but little from the outbursts of the elements during the summer months.

No one was surprised when the borough voters decided almost unanimously that they wanted a new headquarters for the fire department of the borough. It is a known fact that the present quarters are rediculously inadequate for the demands. Whether the borough remains an independent municipality or not, it is necessary that proper fire protection be given to that section. The vote of Tuesday gave the Borough Council the right to go ahead and issue bonds for the building of the proposed fire headquarters.

"We had only a little money," is the way the Philadelphia Record quotes a Brooklyn man whose department store is now an important institution, "but we put most of it into advertising in the local newspapers, increasing the amount of our space as our trade grew. From being a neighborhood small store we grew into the present large general store and we credit it to advertising. Other small shops which were quite as good as our own failed to advertise and have not grown."

There has certainly been an improvement in the conduct of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway. Although the cars of the company have been crowded to their greatest capacity this summer, accidents have been very infrequent and of small importance.

With three candidates for the Congressional nomination in the Fourth district, certainly the Democrats of Somerset county ought to be able to land something. And they have some very able men who are now mentioned for the place.

DUNELLEN.

Edward Pierson, who lives in the west end of the borough, met with a rather severe accident while returning from Lincoln on his wheel, yesterday afternoon. He attempted to cross the trolley tracks at a sharp angle when the machine slipped and threw him. He landed on his face with the result that a large portion of the cuticle was removed. The frame of the wheel was quite badly bent.

A meeting of the committee appointed by the Borough Council to inquire into the advisability of discontinuing the use of the steam fire whistle, located on the round house, will be held this evening. It is thought they will report against it.

Court Dunellen, I. O. F., which celebrated its tenth anniversary Monday night, has the honor of being the means of three other courts in this vicinity being started. They are Court Bound Brook, Court Watchung, of Plainfield, and Court Cranford.

The cornet band held one of its impromptu serenades Tuesday night, giving a concert which was greatly enjoyed. The hat was afterward passed and a good collection was made.

Several boroughites who formed the acquaintance of Charles Maxwell, during his residence here, attended the funeral services held over his remains at Hopewell, yesterday afternoon.

Harry Dodwell has resigned his position with the Garwood foundry to accept a similar one with the Pond Tool Company.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Over twenty-eight trains of the Central Railroad of New Jersey passed through here this morning on the Amboy division, en route to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. The trains composed the excursion of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. Traffic over the Long Branch division of the Central Railroad from Elizabethport is temporarily checked by a wreck near Perth Amboy.

Robert Horn, day operator at the local pumping station, is taking his summer vacation. Mr. Horn left this morning for Brooklyn, where he will spend a week.

Mrs. J. A. Cubberly left on the Black Diamond Express this afternoon for Scranton, where she will spend two weeks.

H. C. Moss, night engineer at the pumping station, has returned to work after a week's vacation.

Mrs. W. H. Manning and Miss Nellie B. Manning are spending the day at Somerville.

Mrs. Frank Randolph is entertaining her niece, Mrs. Green, of Metuchen.

Off for Glen Island.

A party, composed of C. M. Rogers, Eric Moraller, Miss Moraller, Miss Green, Miss St. John, and Miss M. Rogers, left by trolley this morning for Elizabethport, whence they will go to Glen Island to spend the day and return to the city in the evening.

Up the Hudson.

The New Jersey Central conducted an excursion to points up the Hudson this morning, from points along the road this side of Whitehouse. About a dozen Plainfielders attended, taking the 8:13 regular train.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

NATIONAL OFFICE FOR A JERSEY RED MAN

Past Great Sachem Peterson Will be Candidate for Great Junior Sagamore.

AT THE GREAT COUNCIL.

PAST GREAT SACHEM NEWCORN WILL MAKE THE NOMINATION.

Great Council Will Meet at Norfolk, Va., Beginning September 8—A Norfolk Man Will be His Chief Rival for the Office.

Local Red Men, as well as those in many other sections of the country, are much interested in the approaching session of the Great Council of the United States, to be held at Norfok, Virginia, beginning September 8. New Jersey is especially awaiting the event with eager anticipation, because it is hoped that this State will receive the honor of the office of great junior sagamore, the first step in the line of chiefs toward the highest.

As a candidate for the honor, Past Great Sachem David Peterson, of Camden, is slated. His name will be placed in nomination before the session by Assemblyman Newcorn, himself a past great sachem of the State, and one of the representatives to the national body. The Jerseyman will be opposed by John W. Cherry, of Norfolk. but epxects to take a good following of supporters with him into the rival camp. The State delegation will make its headquarters at the Monticelleo Hotel.

Gratifying figures are those to be presented in the report of Great Chief of Records "Dan" Stevens, showing the progress of the order in the State during the past year. An increase of 1,954 has been shown in membership, making a total of 21,654. The effort had been to reach the 21,000 mark. In wealth, the wampum belt of the Jersey Great Council is quoted at over a million and a half dollars, an increase over last year of over $300,000. The order is in a most prosperous condition throughout the State, with a hopeful outlook for greater activity in the coming cool weather.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Passengers on board the steamship Minnehaha, outward bound, last month, had the story of their voyage recorded at length in the Pittsburgh Gazette, which had a party of representatives on board bound for Heidelberg. The newspaper people provided several entertainments, in one of which Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh took part as one of the lawyers in a mock trial. Miss Frances Weir, also of this city, was on the programme with two piano solos in the farewell concert given by the tourists.

"Trolley Jolt" is the latest disease. It is so new that the physicians of this vicinity, where the malady has appeared, have not yet found a name for it.

"Trolley Jolt," it is said, is caused by the jolting of trolley cars. Its victims are conductors and motormen. It is nothing more than a weak stomach, produced by jolting car and nervousness on the part of the victims.

Every now and then a motorman goes to a hospital broken down in health. It is usually found that he is suffering from a disordered stomach and nervousness. This is caused by the jarring of the cars and the handling of jerky air brakes. The conductors break down under the strain of keeping their equilibrium in jolting cars.

It remained for doctors at New Castle, Del., to name the disease the "Trolley Jolt."

Premonitory sneezes and sniffings have warned a number of Plainfielders of the approach of a season which is always dreaded by its peculiar victims. Tomorrow is the particular day of the summer when those held in thrill by hay fever realize their misfortune most strongly because of the annual recurrence of the malady on its six weeks' reign. Preparations for the reception of the despotic disease are being made by the local sufferers. For many years past, summer headquarters have been informally established at the business place of one of the number, giving opportunity for all the members of the "club" to exchange wheezings and experiences between handkerchief flourishes. Tomorrow, the annual performance will begin, to continue its unwelcome duration until late September ends the trouble by bringing the cool weather which is the only enemy known of the fever fiend.

Flying rice and a storm of congratulations from a crowd of acquaintances gathered at the railway station were the unexpected accompaniments of a trip taken to New York yesterday afternoon by a Plainfield couple. No immediate intention of deserving such favors is believed to have been in the minds of the travelers, but the farewell party evidently sought to hasten matters showing what was expected. Just as the young man was assisting his companion to board the train, he was astonished by the receipt of a handful of rice over the neck and shoulders, followed by a regular fusillade from many willing hands. The couple concealed their chagrin as much as possible, but their fellow passengers on the train regarded them with amused delight throughout the journey to New York. In the West End, where the parties reside, the rumor was most persistent last night that a real marriage had been consummated during the short absence from home, to render a fitting return for the practical joke of which they were the victims.

Delegates to Atlantic City.

At the meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association, last evening, E. M. Mosher, Charles C. Graves and William T. Newman were elected delegates to the convention next month at Atlantic City.

Miss May Squier, of Astor place, will leave town at the end of the week for an extended stay at Ocean Grove.

BUILT TRACK IN BUILDING

METHOD IN WHICH CONTRACTOR SURMOUNTED OBSTACLE.

Construction Track Necessary While Tracks Are Being Elevated in New Brunswick.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 14—New Brunswick's reputation as a good place for daring and progressive engineers to do novel feats has been increased by the recent accomplishment of Contractor Kerbaugh, who has laid a railroad track straight through a brick building, running it along the second floor. Kerbaugh is in charge of the work of elevating the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company through this city.

At the Neilson street crossing, where the tracks at the new grade are forty feet above the street level, a big stone arch is in course of construction. To carry material to the workmen, forty feet in the air, a temporary spur was planned, on which small construction trains could be operated. The track was supported on trestles, but the brick storehouse of the Consolidated Fruit Jar Company was directly in the way. Since the spur was to be only temporary, it would not have been profitable for the company to buy the property, and another arrangement was effected.

Having secured permission from the owners of the building, Kerbaugh tore out the walls that blocked his spur, shored up the second floor, laid sleepers from the supporting wall at the height of the second story, put in the ties and spiked down the track. The spur now runs through the end of the building, along the second floor, and construction trains use it regularly.

The work of track elevation in this city is going ahead rapidly. The supporting wall has been constructed along one side of the tracks for nearly the entire length of the work. Five of the stone arches for the new bridge across the Raritan are completed for half their width. The bridge will be built one-half the required width, and when that part is entirely finished it will be used by all trains, while the present iron bridge will be torn away and the second half of the stone arch bridge constructed at the place the iron bridge now occupies.

In Memory of a Great Chief.

To mark the recent death of Past Great Incohonee Charles H. Litchman, of Newark, of the Great Council of the United States, all the branches of the Improved Order of Red Men are preparing resolutions of respect. Word has been sent to the local tribes to hasten the preparation of the memorials, so that they may be suitably recorded by the Great Council next month. Mr. Litchman was well known in this city.

Finger Split.

Samuel Block, an apprentice in Pond's Tool Works, suffered a painful injury, yesterday afternoon, by having the middle finger of his right hand split open. The member got caught in a counter-bore. Robert Gow, the shop physician, dressed the wound.

Warren's Second Dance.

The second of a series of grand balls given by members of Warren Engine Company will be held in Saengerbund Hall, this evening. Judging from the number of tickets that have been sold the affair will be a success.

Miss Ohl Will Recite.

A pleasing programme has been arranged for the Rescue Mission meeting in the First Church of Christ, this evening. Miss Adele Ohl will sing and recite.

The Misses Lacey, of LaGrande avenue, have returned home from their outing at the Delaware Water Gap.

—Miss May Henry, of West Third street, has taken a position with Harry W. Marshall.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—The life of faith.—Gen. xii, 1-5; Heb. xi, 1-6.

One of the severest criticisms of the world upon the church is the emphasis that the church places upon the subject of faith. From many sides we hear the cry and demand that the church should preach more about the practical things of life and should not so often dwell upon the realm of faith. This criticism, however, is most unjust and unwarranted. The importance of faith to life cannot be estimated. Men live as they believe. What they are and what they do are above everything else determined by what they believe. The Puritans believed firmly in God, in God's control of the affairs of this life and in the teachings of the Scripture that there would be punishment for sin here in the life to come. The effect of this belief was clearly seen in their lives. At a certain period in the history of the people of France they practically discarded all belief in God and sacred things. The result of this unbelief was most apparent in their lives. They gave themselves up almost entirely to the things of this life that make for destruction rather than for development, and history has never seen worse effects of unbelief than were manifested in France at this time. Faith inspires life; its fruits are works, and therefore too much importance cannot be attached to the subject of faith and its relation to life.

1. The life of faith is necessary. Paul says, "We walk by faith and not by sight." There are many people in the world who try to walk by sight, but it is absolutely impossible. Our almost every act of life requires some faith. We eat because we believe that the food which we eat will support our lives. This is an exercise of faith. We believe in past history, in places that we have never seen and people that we have never known, and thus we constantly exercise faith in all relations of our lives. This being true, it is absurd folly that the exercise of religious faith should be so often discountenanced. If we must live by faith, why should it be incredible that we should exercise religious faith? If we can believe in men whom we have not seen, why can we not believe in God although we have not seen Him? If we can believe in distant countries which we have never visited, why can we not believe in a land beyond this life and look forward to habitation in it?

2. The life of faith is possible. To some people it seems impossible to believe in the great religious truths, in God, in the inspiration of the Scriptures and in the future life, but this is not impossible. That a life of faith is not impossible is proved by the multitude of those who have lived a life of faith, whose entire lives have been controlled and directed by their supreme faith in God and eternal things. The life of Abraham was purely a life of faith. God called him to go forth to a country that he had never seen. He went forth not knowing whither he went, but trusting the results of the future entirely to God. In the eleventh chapter of Hebrews we have a long array of patriarchs whose lives were based upon their faith in God and eternal truths. They endured hardships, they suffered many afflictions and persecutions because of their supreme faith in God. What is possible to them is also possible to us. If Abraham could live a life of faith in God, so can we. Such a life is possible, and it should be the aim of every one to base his life entirely upon his faith in God and God's control of this life and also of the future.

3. The life of faith is profitable. Without faith it is impossible to please God, but a life of faith is well pleasing in His sight, and God has promised great blessings to those who please Him in their lives. When Abraham was called to leave Ur of Chaldees, God made rich promises to him upon the condition of his obedience. These promises were all fulfilled. A life of faith and of service based upon faith is the most profitable life that we can live in this world.

Looking to Christ.

If we could only look away from ourselves, our miseries and sins, to the sinless Man of Sorrows! We scrutinize the sores in our own bosoms instead of laying them bare to the gaze of the great Physician. We contemplate our wickedness instead of the blood of the Lamb. We look down in the grave instead of up into heaven. If we could only cease from self entirely! The cravings of the old nature shrink rebuked when we catch a glimpse of the lonely Christ tempted in the wilderness, the patient Christ reviled by the vilest, the suffering Christ weeping tears of blood in Gethsemane, the agonized Christ on the cross. Look away to Him! Keep that one sublime figure before thine eyes alike in life and death!—Philadelphia Ledger.

Christian Unity.

Christian unity can never be brought about by hard hitting theologically, but only by Christians learning to love one another; then they can defy the devil to keep them apart. "Our unhappy divisions" keep him master of the field. A united church would soon dispossess him of his strongholds.—Bishop Johnston of Western Texas.

Communion.

Wherever the self is forgotten
And mine is transmitted to thine,
Though lips may grow ashen and falter,
There, on the Lord's holy altar,
Wait ever the bread and the wine.

For love is the bread that is broken,
The chalice upfilled to the brim,
And forgetting the self for another,
The tenderness shown to a brother
Are done in remembrance of Him.
—Independent.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 17, "Gleanings From Many Fields"—Text, John iv, 35.

"Lift up your eyes and look on the fields, for they are white already to harvest."

This is literally true at the present time in respect to people becoming Christians. The change has come rapidly and finds the church unprepared to gather in the harvest which is ripe for the ingathering. A new era has dawned, and we have not become accustomed to the new conditions, nor have the older methods of doing been properly adjusted to the new needs. Many indications point to hopeful times. Increasing attention to the worldwide needs and careful study of the best means of meeting the pressing demands on the church to give the gospel to the un-Christianized masses of men are the demands of the hour.

1. A study of the fields. Every church should give at least one service a month to a careful survey of the general work of the church outside its own parish lines. This can be done in a League service or in a more general meeting of the church. The old time monthly missionary prayer meeting on the evening of the first Sunday of the month can be modernized and made helpfully alive. The various mission fields of the church can be taken in succession. Begin with Japan. Let some one make a study of old Japan and in a brief talk or paper of ten minutes set forth the conditions of life in the land of the mikado previous to the visit of Commodore Perry in 1854. This should be followed by a concise review of the changes which have made the new Japan, and the new spirit of the nation under the leadership of Count Ito can be shown. The present place of Christian missions in the empire and the work already done will make a third topic. Where possible a map should be used, and places of importance can be pointed out during the progress of the addresses or at the close. Information sufficient for the preparation of such talks or papers can be had in any public library. This failing, a letter to the missionary secretaries at New York or the Epworth League headquarters, Chicago, will bring needed literature and the titles of a few books, which can be bought at a very small price. Some chapters have during the season just passed made use of a monthly meeting for a trip around the world, visiting the leading mission fields on the way. Several papers during the evening dealt with various topics of interest, such as routes of travel, public buildings, people, productions, local customs, history and religious conditions. At the close a choice collection of views illustrating the matters presented was shown by stereopticon. The illustrated papers and magazines now give so many fine illustrations of all parts of the world that it is not difficult to make a collection at small expense which will instruct and interest any company in this work.

2. How shall we increase our working power to harvest the fields?

Present the duty clearly in speech and paper for every one to lay aside regularly and proportionately of his income for God's work. Economize on personal adornment and pleasures and give more.

Bring home to the young men and women the pressing duty to fit themselves as preachers and teachers, and of others to do business so as to support these preachers and teachers.

Is Life Worth Living?

Life is worth living for the brute. He is not sensitive, and the lower he is in the scale of organized life the less his sensibility. But man, the summit of creature development, is sensitive. He is capable of suffering in both body and mind, and by his power to anticipate pain and sorrow he may and does prolong his sorrows. If man is only the highest of animate creatures, his eminence is purchased at too great a price. It may be questioned whether that eminence is worth the cost. But if man is something more and something else, if he is connected with other than the creatures below him, if he is a candidate for immortality, then there is no question—life is worth the cost. "Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."—Rev. Joseph G. Wilson in Episcopal Recorder.

Religion.

There are two ways of lighting a dark room. One is to attack the darkness with candles. The other is to open the shutters and let in the light. When light comes, darkness goes. There are two ways of forming character. One is to conquer our sins. The other is to cultivate the opposite virtues. The latter plan is best because it is surest; the virtue replaces the sin. Christianity is not a drill. It is life, full, free, radiant and rejoicing. What a young man should do is not to vex himself about his imperfections, but to fix his mind on the bright image of perfection; not to weary his soul with rules, but to live with Christ as one liveth with a friend. There is one way to complete manhood, and that is fellowship with Jesus Christ.—John Watson.

Poverty and Unselfishness.

There was a bitterness in her poverty. She met, looked at it, often even laughed at it, for it bound all the family together hand in hand. It taught endurance, self dependence and, best of all lessons, self renunciation.—Dinah Maria Mulock.

Consider.

Consider well your actions;
What's done you can't recall;
No use to pull the trigger,
Then try to stop the ball.

There is only one kind of proof for Plainfield citizen.

The experience of people we know. When friends and neighbors endorse. No question about such evidence.

This kind of proof backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case of it:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, say: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was felling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommeded for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERS.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular meeting held Monday, August 4, 1902, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Tuesday, September 2nd, 1902, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials in the construction of such portions of the sewers contemplated in the ordinances, entitled "An Ordinance to Provide for the construction of a system of sewerage", approved July 25, 1894, and "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield", approved Nov. 6, 1897, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted by the Common Council, Aug. 4, 1902, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $500, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required, and the work to be done, is as follows:

25,855 feet 8 inch sewer, 7 to 13 feet deep,
1,000 Branches on 8 inch sewer,
5,650 feet 4 inch house connections,
29 Manholes,
18 Flush Tanks,
30 feet 8 inch cast iron pipe.

Duplicate plans may be examined, and forms of proposal, specifications, contract and bond, may be obtained at the office of the Engineer, 151 North avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Sewers."

James T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

Andrew J. Gavett, City Surveyor and Street Commissioner.

Dated August 4, 1902.

FANCIES IN NECKWEAR.

Modish Women May Select From a Wide Variety of Styles.

It seems to me that everything now runs to new things in cravats and other fancies in neckwear. The fall goods are yet in course of construction, and all that can be done is to invent something novel to put around one's neck or to devise a fresh style of trimming a dress around the neck and shoulders which will deceive everybody except the "other women" into thinking it is another dress. There are so many things in this line that only a few can be noticed. The leader of all the neckwear in the way of beauty is the Marie Antoinette fichu, which is susceptible of so many different ways of arrangement. Of course it is not new, but it happens just now to be put forward as the prettiest and daintiest of all the neckwear.

It is made of any and every thing that is thin and transparent, even in organdies, to match dresses and of lace where the gown is made of lace, but the edges always have a full ruffle, so that when the ends fall they take the form of full jabots and cascades. If the fichu proper is of organdie or any other dress material, there is a ruffle of lace more or less wide around the entire garment.

In the illustration there are two of the very prettiest of these dainty accessories of the toilet. One is made of dotted net cut in a long oval, so that the points meet at the bust line, with long ends of the same. As these are surrounded by the lace in lavish quantities, it is no wonder that the fichu is a dressy thing. The other is simply made by sewing six ruffles of lace to a tape, all as full as the tape will hold, and these are left to fall in natural folds. To the tape, which extends below the waist line, there are two rows of lace set as closely as the other and left to fall in a cascade to the bottom. The Marie Antoinette fichu is always long enough to go around the waist and tie at the back, but this is not necessary now, as the preferred manner is to let the ends fall as the boas have been doing.

Fichus of fine linen batiste with a full hemstitched ruffle are very stylish and by some good dressers are preferred to lace ones, which are so very pretty and becoming as to be in danger of growing common. I saw one of cobwebby linen batiste, with a faint blue hem of the same material hemstitched on to the white. This was extremely novel and effective.

Another dainty fancy is the ribbon and chiffon or silk mull floral ornaments for the corsage. Liberty satin ribbon is employed for the roses, which are made by twisting the ribbon so that a bias edge is brought to a center and sewed fast round and round to form the flowers. The leaves are simulated by rough bows of the same. In some cases there are several ends of narrow ribbon, each of which has a tiny bunch of violets or picayune roses at the end, and also a bunch at the top. These are of ribbon in different shades and make very pretty ornaments. Generally they are for the front of the corsage only, though often one piece is worn at the belt and another at the bust and neck, or even on the shoulder. This last style is only used for very dressy afternoon occasions.

Frequently a belt is made by sewing narrow ribbon over the featherbone frames prepared for such requirements. At the widest portion there will be small bunches of flowers of ribbon, mull or chiffon. Chiffon is rather too soft for the purpose, and mull is better. At the lower part of the point there will be a bunch of long, narrow ribbons in varying lengths, each having a tiny bow and a flower at the end. This arrangement is sometimes worn in front, and at others it hangs at the back or side. Tiny roses of silk mull are most delicate and attractive of all. They have a center made with a few loops and strands of yellow floselle, around which the petals are sewed. To make the petals, cut squares of the mull, fold them bias and bring the points and all the intervening parts together. Fasten these closely to the fine wire used as a foundation for the floselle. They will then take a round and slightly curved form like real petals. These can be set in a line or formed into a bunch. In either case they are lovely.

New ties and cravats for wear with shirt waists are of many kinds, the prettiest perhaps being those where the stock is white and the cravat itself is of some other color.

Small black satin ties are much liked for wear with high white collars or stocks, and polka dotted ribbon is tied in a double bow in other cases. The derby and the four-in-hand are also affected. These have long ends, and the chic is to have the ends fall to the waist line. Lace mitts are not to be worn with any of the mannish ties.

CHAPTER VIII.

"STONE WALLS DO NOT MAKE A PRISON."

Job had no trouble in finding his way to the lawyer's house, despite the gathering night. He walked like a man who is sure of his way. As he came nearer the humble-looking cottage he paused for a moment in hesitation.

"Looks like the abode of innocence and peace," he muttered. "Foxes are careful not to betray the character of their holes from the outside. I wonder how the years have dealt with the worthy Henslow? I hardly thought a man of his ambitions would be satisfied to rust in a country town all his life."

He approached nearer the house, and stood for a moment looking up at the windows.

"Not a light in sight. I wonder if the family are all away. At least she is here, and that is all I care for. I should not like greatly to come in contact with the lawyer."

He moved around to the side of the building, and stood for a moment debating what to do under the circumstances. The place wore such a deserted look that he was undecided.

As he stood there in the shadow of a tree he was aware of a step in the road, and drew back closer into the shadows. A man came into view whose features he could not make out, but who seemed to be dressed in well-fitting clothes, and carried himself with a certain jaunty air.

The newcomer, as he approached the house, seemed to be looking from right to left, as if he feared to be seen. He walked past the building, peering into the shadows. Job Hendricks crowded back against the fence among the bushes, and wondered why he was not discovered.

The stranger, having satisfied himself that there was no one in the neighborhood, went up to the front door of the cottage and rapped on it softly in a peculiar way.

Job was instinctively drawn near to watch what happened. Presently the door was opened cautiously, and an elderly man with a white beard, shading a lamp with one hand, appeared in the doorway. He appeared to be surprised to see his visitor, for he uttered an exclamation that was hardly expressive of welcome. The other, without a word, slipped into the hall, and the door closed noiselessly behind him.

"So Henslow is up to his old tricks again," muttered Job Hendricks. "He still receives people by night on the sly. I wonder who that fellow was? It seems to me that his figure was familiar. Bah! What difference does it make. I have something more important on hand than the lawyer's visitors. It will keep him occupied for a while, so matters could not have arranged themselves better for me."

On the side of the house was a small gate, which evidently communicated with the rest of the building, and Job, after a moment's thought, pushed this open and entered a narrow path that led along the walls of the house.

As he made his way slowly and cautiously along, he became aware of a strange humming sound, as if some one was crooning a lullaby. The moon had now risen, and, as he reached the back of the house, he saw a slender, womanish figure seated under a tree in the garden. He passed her unobserved, his feet making no noise on the grass. Then he stood for a moment contemplating the girlish figure. It was her singing that he had heard as he came along. She sat there, her face resting on one arm, which was flung about a lower branch of the tree, looking very sad in her black dress, which accentuated the pallor of her face.

Job did not move, his eyes fixed yearningly on the white features, while his lips moved, though not a sound came from them. Many minutes he stood there motionless, as if he could not look enough at the girl before him.

Though he made no sound or betrayed any more life than the trees in the garden, she seemed to learn instinctively that she was not alone, and, turning, rose with an exclamation.

"Who are you—what do you want?"

As she spoke she advanced a few paces toward him in the moonlight. She did not betray any fear at seeing a strange man in the garden at night.

Job sighed, as if he had really expected a different greeting.

"Don't be alarmed, young lady," he replied hoarsely. "I am only desirous of being of service to you."

"Who are you?" moved in spite of herself by the deep feeling he put in his simple speech.

"[illegible]—that is all. I bring you a message——"

"From Dick?" eagerly.

"The same."

"[illegible] me have it," holding out her hand.

Job, fumbling in his coat for the note, she stamped her foot like a spoiled child, and exclaimed:

"How clumsy you are—can't you see, you stupid man, that I am burning with impatience?"

He finally drew forth the letter and handed it to her with trembling fingers.

Having seized it, she paid no further attention to him, but ran over to the porch of the house, where a lantern, burning dimly, hung from one of the pillars.

Job watched her while she read the lines, her pale face transfigured.

"How she does seem to love 'the poor fellow,'" he murmured, with a certain longing in his voice, as if speaking of one of whom he was envious. "It must be a satisfaction to be loved like that."

It did not take her long to read the message, and then, thrusting it in the bosom of her dress, she returned to the man who stood waiting, eying her with an air of uneasy interest.

"I don't know who you are," she began.

"It don't matter," he added humbly.

"But you are a friend of Dick's, and therefore, a friend of mine," said she, holding out her hand. He took it in his great, rough paw, and held it so long that finally, with a quick gesture, she drew it away, regarding him curiously.

"Why, my poor man, you are weeping," she said.

Job dashed his hand across his eyes and laughed nervously.

"Me, ma'am; well, that would be curious, wouldn't it?" Then, after a pause, as if trying to collect himself: "You see, I had a daughter once. Had she lived she would just have been about your age. That's why it makes me feel kind of upset."

"Was it long ago you lost her?" she asked, with genuine sympathy in her voice.

"Many years, my child, many years." Then, as if wishing to change the subject which had become painful to him: "I hope that note brought you is the means of cheering you up. You have troubles of your own——"

"The deepest trouble that can fall on a daughter," with a catch in her voice, "to lose my mother—and then that Lick should be accused. But they can't—they won't do anything to harm him—will they?" seizing Job's arm eagerly.

"No—no, of course not," he said slowly.

"How doubtfully you say that," pettishly. "But when he is innocent."

"We shall get him off, no doubt, but it will take time. You see they pretend to have a great deal of evidence against the lad, and that counts for a great deal in a court of law. But there"—as he saw that her face so smiling a moment before had changed, and was now fearful and anxious—"we'll clear the boy somehow or another. I may be able to lend a little help myself."

"You are very kind, and I thank you in advance. We have need of every friend we can muster in this hour of trial," and she held out her hand again, frankly, while Job raised it to his lips.

"Now you will see Dick again?"

"If it is possible—and perhaps I shall have as much luck as I had today," and he told her of his experience.

"Oh, there is so much to tell him that I should never know how to begin. But I am sure this separation cannot last long. Papa, I'm confident, believes in his innocence, and if he has done nothing as yet it is because he has been too prostrated by this terrible affair to be able to think clearly."

"I believe—I am sure—that your father will do what he can for the school-teacher," replied Job, earnestly. "Don't be discouraged, my dear, for the law, you know, moves slowly, and it will take some time to get him freed." Then as he glanced up at the house and saw a light in one of the windows, he said: "But it is time I was going, miss. For certain reasons, I don't fancy meeting with Mr. Henslow or any of the rest of the people."

"But you haven't told me your name yet."

"No, sure enough, I haven't."

"I should like to know the name of one who has been so kind to us."

"It don't matter much, miss, what an old piece of driftwood like me is called," he stammered.

"Still, I should like to know."

"Well, it's Job Hendricks."

"I never heard Dick mention that name before."

"Probably not, since we never met until to-day."

She looked at him in such a puzzled way that he smiled.

Open-Air Charities.

It was only 25 years ago that a kind-hearted editor of a New York paper had his sympathies aroused by seeing a group of street children ordered off the grass in one of the parks. He collected those children, and took them all for a sail on the bay. That was the beginning of New York's extensive open-air charities. The country homes open to mothers and babies during the hottest weather, the seaside cottages and floating hospitals, are now numbered by hundreds. St. John's Guild has two floating hospitals.—Woman's Home Companion.

CHAFFEE'S LIFE THREATENED.

Arizona Woman Makes Grave Charges Against the General.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Prepared to take the law into her own hands, Mrs. Aimie White of Verde, Ariz., is on her way to New York, where she expects to have a settlement with General Chaffee when he arrives from the Philippines, says the Tribune's El Paso (Tex.) correspondent. She is the widow of a discharged soldier of the Eighth infantry.

On his deathbed her husband exacted a pledge that she would prefer charges against General Chaffee for alleged cruel treatment at Camp McDowell, a post near the San Carlos reservation, Arizona. Mrs. White charges that General Chaffee, then a major, sent soldiers to their home, which was just outside the reservation, burned their house and drove off all their cattle. When seen at El Paso, she said:

"I am going to New York to meet General Chaffee, and if he does not give me satisfaction I'll shoot him dead in his tracks. I have preferred charges, but he prevented them from getting before congress. I have told General Miles about it, and he says for me to wait. I have waited long enough. I want a settlement, and I am going to have it. I'll have his life or satisfactory reparation."

Typographical Convention.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 14.—The convention of the International Typographical union has made many changes in its laws. After providing for the oldest substitute getting the first vacancy it restricted the hours per week to a maximum of 54, put evening papers with Sunday editions on the evening basis and made many minor changes. An effort to include superintendents as well as foremen in the membership failed. It developed that there will be strong opposition among the delegates to indorsing the newly organized International Ladies' auxiliary. The convention became very animated over an "alleged factional fight" that was precipitated by the Indianapolis union and showed its conservative spirit in defeating a proposition to prohibit any member from belonging to the militia.

Bismarck's Physician Now Professor.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Dr. Schweninger, who treated Prince Bismarck to reduce that statesman's flesh, has been appointed professor of the history of medicine at Berlin university. Prince Bismarck was so grateful that he tried to have Dr. Schweninger appointed nearly twenty years ago, but university circles raised a protest. Dr. Schweninger was Bismarck's physician up to the prince's death, living at Friedrichsruhe. Medical professors of a number of universities are circulating a protest to the government against the appointment, asserting that Dr. Schweninger has never written or taught on the subject of medical history.

Madrid Anarchists Arrested.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—A dispatch to a news agency from San Sebastian, Spain, says that several anarchists of Madrid have been arrested on the charge of hatching a plot to assassinate M. Delcassé, the French minister of foreign affairs, during his recent stay at Foix, on the French side of the Pyrenees.

ON THE DIAMOND.

"To lose is human, to win divine," remarked a feminine fan as she left the Y. M. C. A.-St. Mary's game last Saturday.

The local Cuban Giants will cross bats with the Dunellen A. C. Saturday. The game will be played on the grounds of the latter.

"Rue" Dalley, first baseman for the Hopes, will occupy the same position with the Dunellen A. C. in their game with the Cuban Giants Saturday. His addition will strengthen the team greatly.

Manager Monahan, of the St. Mary team, has arranged a game for Saturday afternoon with the Clinton Avenue A. C. The organization under the present management has been greatly improved and will no doubt give the St. Mary's a stiff argument.

In the days intervening between now and the next League game Captain Martin does not propose allowing the Hope men to get "rusty". Practice is going on just at rigidly as ever and when the team lines up against the Y. M. C. A. it will be in the best of condition.

The return game between the Dewey Park Juniors and the Lincoln A. C., played yesterday afternoon went in favor of the Dewey Park team by the score of 17 to 9. Norman and Oliver were the battery for the Lincoln A. C., Conklin and Giles for the Dewey Park.

"We can beat some of the teams all of the time, and all of the teams some of the time, but we cannot beat all of the teams all of the time," philosophized a Hope rooter when goose eggs were rolling in rapidly last Saturday. "But you'se cant hit dem curves," said a kid who lives down by the Safe Works."

The result of the Safe Works-Scotch Plains game Saturday is being awaited anxiously by the Plainfield fans. Although the locals were defeated once by the 'Plains contingent there are many who believe the former are playing much better ball and will be able to come out ahead. At any rate the contest will be one well worth seeing.

Baseball fans must look elsewhere for their favorite sport this week, as no league team is to play in this city on Saturday. Efforts made by the Safe Works contingent to have the meeting with Scotch Plains take place here instead of on the latter's grounds have failed, owing to the unwillingness of the out of town people to change their arrangements. Manager Muir, of the locals, submitted a proposition to Manager Johnson, of the Plains, to play the game on Hope Common, dividing the receipts. It was felt that the proceeds would be far in excess of those which could be drawn from the attendance at Scotch Plains, and that the financial benefit to both teams would be much greater. After considering the matter, however, the backers of the Scotch Plains expressed dissatisfaction over such an arrangement, although the players were willing to come. Unless different action be taken at the 'Plains tonight, which is unlikely, the game will be played as first agreed upon, at the 'Plains, and Plainfielders will be forced to journey there to see the contest.

After a close game, the F[illegible] men's second team were defeated this morning by the New Streeters on the West Third street grounds by a score of 11 to 10. Tremley and Buckley were in the points for the victors and Mullen and Mullen for the young fire fighters.

ROD AND GUN.

Among the Plainfield anglers noted fishing off Perth Amboy, yesterday, were Sergeant Frederickson and Patrolman Saffron, of the local force. They returned home last evening with a good catch of weakfish.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Neuman Brothers are selling today seventy-five baskets of extra fancy Jersey and fifty of Delaware peaches. They are a fine lot.

—Have you ever tried that bisque or French vanilla ice cream at Tier's? Tier has varieties of cream that other dealers never heard of.

—Three applicants for the warrior's degree will be accommodated by the members of Wetumpkah Tribe of Red Men at the meeting this evening.

PERSONAL.

E. L. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, is spending some time at Jamestown, R. I.

E. P. Hoppock, of West Front street, is spending his vacation at Belmar.

Mrs. F. E. Smith, of West Fourth street, accompanied by Master Fred E. Jr., and Miss Helen, left this morning for Ocean Grove. Mr. Smith will leave Saturday to spend a week at the same place.

Bonin Held.

Before the Grand Jury at Elizabeth, Louis Bonin will be called to answer the charge of forgery preferred against him in this city. After his arrest yesterday, he came up for a hearing before Justice Nash in the afternoon and was held for trial. Mrs. Helen Voorbees, whose check Bonin is accused of having forged, offered the testimony which led to the finding of the court. Bonin was taken to the county seat this morning.

Nixon Resigns.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 14—Lewis Nixon resigned yesterday as president of the Crescent Shipbuilding Company and Mason E. Chace, of Elizabeth, was elected in his place. Mr. Nixon's resignation is incident to the recent organization of the Union Shipbuilding Company, to which his attention will be devoted. The Crescent Company is a constituent member of the new concern.

CHILDS FAVORED TO RUN AGAINST LANNING

A Conference of Democratic Leaders in Fourth District Favors Somerset Man.

CHILDS OR DARK HORSE.

THAT IS THE SENTIMENT EXPRESSED BY PROMINENT POLITICAN.

Mercer County Will Not Have a Candidate, While Hunterdon Wants Childs If He Will Accept the Nomination.

Flemington, September 15, is the place and date fixed upon by the Democratic managers for the Congressional convention for the Fourth district, embracing Mercer, Hunterdon and Somerset counties. A conference was held at Belmar, recently, at which the Congressional situation was discussed, and while there was no agreement to support any one of a multitude of names suggested, the concensus of opinion seemed to be that S. S. Childs, of Somerset county, would be the candidte, if he can be induced to stand. The conference was called by the members of the old Congressional committee of Hunterdon and Somerset counties.

Mercer county did not have a Democratic Congressional committee. Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, as the recognized head of the local Democracy, was in attendance, and among the other Trenton Democrats at the meeting were former Senator Jonathan H. Blackwell, who has been regarded as a strong possibility for the Congressional nomination; Richard Stockton, who is likely to be nominated for county clerk; Counsellor John H. Backes and Tax Receiver E. Furman Hooper.

Mr. Childs is known to be ambitious to come to the State Senate as the representative of Somerset county, but a strong effort will be made to get him to accept the Congressional nomination. He is looked upon as one of the very strongest men, in the district. Mercer county will have at least a portion of its Republican majority offset by the Democratic majority of Hunterdon county, and the Democrats are of the opinion that if they can get a strong Somerset county man to lead the fight, they can carry that county and elect a Congressman.

Former Senator Blackwell declared to a reporter that he was positively out of the canvass, and would not be a candidate under any condition. His business interests are such as to require him to be in Trenton most of the time. From what could be learned of the discussion at the conference, it also seems pretty well settled that the other Mercer county men who have been heretofore mentioned will not receive serious consideration.

"If it is not Childs it will be a dark horse," declared a leading Democrat. "We have a man in mind who would make a good run, and you can put it down that the Democrats will give their political opponents one of the fights of their lives. We expect to name first-class men for every office, with a view of electing them. It will not be a case this time of putting up candidates for the mere formality of the thing. We are going in to win, and we believe that we have a very good chance, inasmuch as there seems to be a general feeling of dissatisfaction with the party now controlling the local situation."

The convention is to be held in the Flemington county courthouse, where former Judge William M. Lanning was named by the Republicans last week as their standard bearer. The lateness of the convention will make the campaign of little more than a month's duration, but the Democrats are preparing to make things fly while the campaign is on.

Brother of Dead Brakeman Asks $10,000 for Accident.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 14—A suit for $10,000 damages was begun yesterday in the Union County Court here by Thomas Crosby against the Jersey Central for the killing of his brother, Elmer E. Crosby, who was employed in the transfer yard of the company in this city and was crushed to death by a train there on the night of May 1 last. It is claimed that the accident was due to the negligence of the company's officials, who failed, it is alleged, to notify the deceased of the existence of certain switch posts. He only went to work in the yard as a brakeman the night he was killed.

NO PUNISHMENT FOR SCHORB

PLEADED NON VULT AND SENTENCE WAS THEN SUSPENDED.

Hearing Before Recorder Doud Last Evening—Schorb Didn't Know He Was Breaking Law.

John Schorb appeared before the Borough Recorder last evening on the technical charge of keeping a disorderly house. Sentence was suspended.

Counsellor Swackhamer appeared for Schorb and in behalf of his client withdrew the plea of not guilty and entered a non vult. Mr. Swackhamer explained that the defendant admitted allowing young men to sit down in a social way in his office in the livery stable and enjoy a game of cards, all unconscious that he was thus acting in violation of any borough ordinance. He made it clear that Mr. Schorb received no personal profit from these games. He therefore asked that sentence be suspended.

Much interest was taken in the case in the borough and when the court convened there was not an available inch of standing room in the dingy little court room.

Heard Good Speakers.

SEWAGE PLANT IS EXAMINED

Expert of State Sewage Commission Makes a Beport on Plainfield's Disposal Beds.

IS VERY SATISFACTORY.

Process, According to the Report, Accomplished a Reduction of 87 Per Cent. in Number of Bacteria—The Putrescible Matter Was Entirely Eluminated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, August 15—Thomas Le Clear, the expert chemist who was appointed by the State Sewerage Commission to investigate the working of Plainfield's sewage disposal plant, has completed his labors and made his report to the commission. In May, 1900, the commission received from the Health Board of Dunellen a complaint that Green brook was being polluted by the effluent from Plainfield's disposal works. The commission looked into the matter and notified the authorities of Plainfield that the beds were in an unsatisfactory condition and the board trusted that prompt action would be taken to remedy the evil by placing the beds in proper condition.

The Plainfield authorities did as requested and built a new disposal plant, consisting of a septic tank with contact filter beds. Septic tanks are still in the experimental stage and it was for the purpose of ascertaining how well the Plainfiled plant does the work expected of it that the investigation was ordered.

Mr. Le Clear's report is voluminous and goes into the matter minutely. He gives a table showing the number of bacteria in a cubic centimeter of the crude sewage effluent from the septic tank and effluent from the contact beds in June, 1902. From this it is seen that in the septic tank the crude sewage lost 58 per cent. of the bacteria present and on the contact beds there was a further loss of 29 per cent., so that the final effluent contained 31 per cent. of the number of bacteria in the original crude sewage.

The chemist concludes that the intestinal bacteria are not destroyed by the sewage treatment, and water into which this sewage effluent is allowed to flow is not suitable for drinking and general domestic use.

The report then sets forth the results of several tests, which are thus summed up:—"The results of these tests fully affirm the conclusions reached from the consideration of the composition as shown by chemical analysis, namely, the sewage modified by treatment is so changed as to render it less putresile and so less objectionable for introduction into natural streams."

The results of the chemist's observations are summarized as follows:—"The treatment accomplished a reduction of 87 per cent. in the number of bacteria. This reduction was not accompanied by a complete removal of the objectionable bacteria, at least 10,000 intestinal bacteria being still present in a centimeter of the final product. From this it follows that the resulting product was unsafe for introduction into water that is subsequently to be drunk.

"In the septic tank much of the crude sewage was brought into solution. In the contact beds much of the organic matter of the crude sewage was oxidized.

"Owing to these changes the organic matter in the final product was no longer putresible under the conditions that existed in the sewage. From this it follows that the product resulting from the treatment is free at least from the objection that is associated with crude sewage and that its introduction into natural waters will not result in the production of the great degree of filth that results from the introduction of crude sewage."

The commission will consider the report at its next meeting.

Fall Rentals.

Fall rentals have been made as follows through the Mulford agency: John C. Abbott's new home on Myrtle avenue to W. F. Riley, of New York, who will take possession October 1; I. V. Smalley, of Somerset street, will take the house at 84 Jackson avenue September 1; E. Akin will occupy 75 Sandford avenue next month; B. T. and G. T. Conkling, of the Safe Works, will reside on Mariners avenue in October.

AFTER FIREBUGS.

Reward of $200 Offered for Information as to Those Who Have Been Operating in Piscataway.

Justice is on the trail of the supposed incendiary of the barns burned in Piscataway last week. Bornt Stevenson, backed, it is said, by a fire insurance company, has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the party or parties guilty of the arson. It is said that the authorities have some clues which are being followed, with a reasonable expectation of capturing their man.

With the two destructive fires at Frank Nelson's and Adrian Vermeule's, last week, the New Market locality has suffered from five mysterious conflagrations during the present year. The others were at Abraham Bernard's, on the river road, in January; at Charles W. Smalley's, on March 23, and at Edward S. Hoe's place on May 1. All five are thought thought to have been of incendiary origin, and determined efforts are now being put forth to locate and punish the supposed criminal.

PLAY FOR HOOLEY TROPHY

MISS LAURA LONG NOW LEADS FOR THAT CUP AT PARK COURSE.

Weekly Competitions Held at the Park Golf Club Course on Tuesdays.

The contest for the Hooley cup, women's handicap competition, still continues at the Park Golf Club every Tuesday afternoon except when rain or a lack of contestants prevents. The vacation period has largely reduced the number of players so that it is sometimes difficult to get the four necessary to hold the weekly competition. Miss Laura Long now leads by a comfortable majority with Miss May Shreve, who won last year, second, and Miss Lydie Loizeaux third.

In this week's play, first honors went to Miss Mabel VanDeventer who is fast coming up in the list. Miss Loizeaux was second and Miss Long third. There were other contestants who failed to turn in any scores. The scores turned in were:

	G	H	N
Miss Mabel VanDeventer	99	36	61
Miss Lydie Loizeaux	82	13	69
Miss Laura Long	87	17	70

The standing for the Hooley cup is:

HORSE THIEF CAPTURED.

He Has Agreed to Make a Clean Breast of Gang's Operations.

Howard Vanzile, the young man arrested by the Newark police on the charge of horse stealing, has been turned over to the Hunterdon county authorities. He is but twenty-three years old and has professed a willingness to make a clean breast of the gang's operations in order to clear himself and begin life anew. Through his confession the Hunterdon county detectives hope to capture the whole gang which has been terrorizing farmers.

HURT ON THE DUGWAY.

Cyclist Came to Grief While Coasting Down That Hill.

There was another accident at the Dugway hill yesterday afternoon. Walter Runyon was riding towards the city, and at that point began to coast leisurely down the incline. He got around the first turn in the road all right, but on reaching the second curve his speed was too great, and he lost control of the wheel. The young man was thrown by the roadside and received some bad bruises about the body. The wheel got a bad twisting.

PLANS TO INCREASE CO. M'S STRENGTH

Somerville Will Attempt to Prevent Disbandment of Its Militia Company.

MEETING THIS EVENING.

IT WILL THEN BE CONSIDERED HOW TO STRENGTHEN COMPANY.

Will Increase Membership Up to the Full Quota of Eighty—The Poor Showing at Sea Girt Nearly Ended Company's Career.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 15—Company M, the local representative of the National Guard, will not be disbanded, if the efforts now being made by its friends attain any degree of success. The rumor spread abroad after the encampment at Sea Girt that General Gillmore was so dissatisfied with the company's showing as to decide to remove it from the roster of the regiment has aroused the people of this place in behalf of the militiamen, lest the threatened ignominy of disbandment come to them. At a meeting to be held this evening, means of procedure will be considered for strengthening the company so that it may retain its place.

What led to the statement of General Gillmore was the poor showing made by the company in point of attendance at the encampment. The fact that not enough members were present to appear in line of parade is now said to be due entirely to the refusal of employers to allow the men vacations from work for the week. It is claimed that except in one or two instances of other reasonable excuses, the cause of absence was invariably the unpatriotic stand taken by the business men in whose employ the guardsmen were.

To guard against such a contingency in future, it is proposed to recruit the company up to the full number of eighty, from such men as will be able to attend drills and meetings, and especially those who can be reasonably sure of being able to join the regimental camp next year. It is believed that the sentiment in favor of retaining the organization is strong enough to guarantee more than the needed number of recruits, as soon as it is known how the matter stands.

At the meeting tonight, it is expected that a number of such applications will be considered, along with other matters tending to the welfare of the company.

NEW JERSEY GROWING.

Rapid Progress is Being Made on the New Battleship New Jersey at Fore River Shipyard.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Boston, August 15—The construction of the battleship New Jersey is going forward very rapidly at the Fore River shipyard and the shiphouse had proved of such assistance that the hulls of the two great war vessels under it take shape perceptibly from day to day. A large proportion of the frames are in place and the plating is up several feet amidships.

At the same time materials are in preparation in every department of the yard so that there need be no delay or cessation of work so far as such matters are under the builders' control. The work of construction has progressed sufficiently so that one can begin to appreciate the size of the great ship, which when launched will be the type of the biggest and heaviest ships of the American navy.

READY TO SAIL.

Alis Cruising Party Starts Tomorrow Night for Week's Trip.

Skipper Roy T. Phillips, of the Alis cruising party, has all things in readiness on the sloop Augusta for the beginning of the voyage tomorrow night. The start will be made from Perth Amboy, where the vessel is now at her moorings, and sail will be set for the Hudson river. At least a week will be spent along the picturesque banks of the historic stream before the Augusta will be turned for her homeward trip. The other members of the party will be Harold Phillips, Fred Hillman, Charles Woolston and Homer Smith.

TAKEN FOR BURGLAR.

Local Lawyer Went After a Document and Was Locked Out on Skylight While Police Were Called.

Mistaken for a bank burglar, a local lawyer had a narrow escape from falling into the hands of the police yesterday morning, before his identity had been disclosed.

Having occasion to visit his office at an early hour, he had climbed through his window upon the skylight after a paper which had blown from his desk. Another occupant of the building chanced to come by and see the figure, thinking it was some one trying to effect an entrance into the bank below. Quickly closing all the windows opening upon the skylight, he made the lawyer a prisoner and then set out in search of help in making the capture.

While the excitement was at its height, the attorney took advantage of his only apparent opportunity of escape by climbing up the ropes running from the skylight to the fourth floor. His appearance and story put a stop to the preparations which were being made on the lower floors to arrest what seemed to be a dangerous criminal. Hereafter, the lawyer will take no chances.

GOING UP.

Local Price of Coal Has Now Reached $8 a Ton.

Coal advanced another dollar on the ton in Plainfield yesterday, making $8 the prevailing price at present. The cause of the rise is the increasing scarcity of the article, with no probability of the dealers being able to recoup their bins in the near future. It is not probable that there will be any further increase in the price in this city.

Patent to J. C. Allen.

News of the granting of a patent was received on Wednesday by Joseph C. Allen, of this city. The invention is in the shape of an improved receptacle for tooth-powder or other material, described as having a top provided with a collar, fitted with a head with a continuous neck, moving within and having a discharge aperture. Mr. Allen has consigned it to the Consolidated Fruit Jar Company, of New Brunswick.

Miss Von Ohl Took Part.

At the Rescue Mission meeting in the First Church of Christ last evening a varied and entertaining programme was carried out. Miss Gladys vonOhl was very pleasing in a number of amusing sketches. There was also a short programme of vocal and instrumental music. Mrs. John Manley presided at the organ. Short addresses were made by John Goodwin, John Manley, Henry DeMott and William Richards.

Spread for Ping-Pong Players.

As a finishing touch to the pin-pong tournament that has been in progress for the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. the contestants will sit down to a spread in the hall this evening. In the way of entertainment a programme of music and speeches has been arranged. The contest has now narrowed down to Long, Aalholm and Burr. The concluding games will be played this afternoon.

Many Weakfish.

Local fishermen report weakfish to be biting in great numbers in the vicinity of Perth Amboy. Yesterday Eugene O'Reilly, William Messler, James Day and Patrick Muldoon landed seventy nice ones and in the same time Elvin VanName and John Butler hauled in ninety. The latter two are spending the week at Perth Amboy and are making large hauls daily.

Ping-Pong Party.

A ping-pong party was given last evening at the residence of Miss Mena Bock, of East Second street. The prize winers were Miss Pauline Vogt, of New York, and Louis Vogt, of this city. Following the games Miss Vogt rendered several piano selections and Miss Hazel Hammeal gave a number of humorous recitations.

Hope's Trip to Snore.

Tomorrow will be the day for the Asbury Park excursion of the year from this city. It is the one conducted under the auspices of Hope chapel and is always attended by a large crowd and complete success. The train leaves Grant Avenue at 7:55, Plainfield at 8 and returning starts for home at 7:55.

Sprained Ankle in Fall.

Frank Stiglitz, an employe of the local telephone company, fell from an eighteen foot ladder, this morning, and besides sustaining severe bruises, sprained an ankle. He was attended by Dr. Browning.

—A special price per basket has been placed on fifty baskets of Jenny Lind melons and fifty of cantelopes at Neuman Brothers tomorrow.

THOUSANDS OF JUNIORS GATHERED AT SHORE

Franklin Council With Others Went to Asbury Park for American Day.

THERE WAS NO PARADE

CROWD WOULD HAVE BEEN LARGER BUT FOR DIVISION IN ORDER.

Second American Day Will be Held Next Thursday—Plainfield's Excursion Was Late in Arriving at the Park Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 15—Excursion trains and pleasure boats from every direction drew into Asbury Park, yesterday morning, bringing with them thousands of members of the Junior Order United American Mechanics. It is estimated that there were 8,000 of them all intent on enjoying themselves to the fullest extent on their tenth annual outing. The crowd would have been much larger but for the fact that there will be two American days this year owing to a division in the councils. The Essex county faction as it is called, will have charge of the regular day, Thursday next.

The Asbury Council, of this city, decided not to take any official action in recognition of either date and its flag was not flying.

Contrary to custom there was no parade and the Juniors mixed with the crowd on the beach and were not conspicuously noticed except through the appearance of an occasional badge. In the afternoon a conference was held in an effort to decide upon a plan of consolidation.

The committees in charge at the meeting consisted of the following members of the Senior and Junior branches: Senior — State councilor, Howard C. Woolton, Camden; vice councilor, Samuel A. Charles, Jersey City; State secretary, Morris Beuer, New Brunswick; State Treasurer George H. Poulson, Trenton; Junior ex-State Councilor A. S. Schuyler, Elizabeth; Howard W. Shaner, Mays Landing and R. L. Hartman, Trenton. Junior—State Councilor B. F. S. Brown, Matawan; Rev. J. Morgan Reed, Atlantic City; Secretary W. H. Meiers and Treasurer J. J. Reed, Seabright; Howard C. Morris, Newark; F. A. Dennis, Princeton; A. J. Smith, Newark; Robert Carson, New Brunswick.

On account of the wreck which still blocked the Long Branch division of the Central the excursionists with Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Palinfield, were forced to come by way of the Lehigh Valley Railroad through South Plainfield and Perth Amboy. It was thus nearly noon before they reached here. The return was delayed for the same reason.

TROLLEY PARTY.

Retail Clerks' Association Making Extensive Preparations for Its Last Outing.

The Retail Clerks' Association will give the last trolley excursion of the season to Riverside Park on Thursday evening, August 28 An effort will be made to make it one of the best of any thus far given and the committee has made arrangements with the owners of this park for the use of the pretty theatre and new dance hall for the evening.

The trolley cars will leave the North Avenue station of the trolley line at 7:15 o'clock and will arrive at Riverside Park one hour later. The performance at the theatre will last about one hour, after which the dancing will be commenced and continued until 11:30 o'clock. Those who do not care for dancing will find other amusements equally as interesting. A nominal fee will be charged for the round trip and entrance to the theatre.

The committee in charge consists of Albert Koch, H. P. Greenwood, A. C. Hoagland, James McLean, Joseph Plum and Edward Baker.

Completed Contract.

The Flynt Construction Company which has been erecting the additions to the Pond Machine Tool Company has completed its contract and preparing to quit this city. All the men employed in the work have been discharged and the machinery is being shipped to Worcester, Mass.

—In vegetables Neuman Brothers will have tomorrow Fancy Evergreen and Country Gentleman corn, lima beans, green and wax beans, fancy tomatoes, Boston lettuce and egg plant.

WARREN'S DANCE.

Second of the Series of Mid-Summer Affairs Held at Saengerbund Hall Last Evening.

Under the auspices of Warren Engine Company the second of the series of balls to be held during the month of August, was held in Saengerbund Hall last night. Gratifying success attended the affair. A large number were present and enjoyed the dancing up to an early hour this morning.

Down in the basement refreshments were in abundance. A hit-the-baby rack was in charge of A. Brokaw, Walter Bennett and Edward Smith. A soda fountain was operated by Raymond Shenck, G. Smalley and George Schlereth. The lunch room was in charge of J. M. Higgins and David Bodine.

Music was discoursed for the occasion by Naylor's orchestra. The floor committee was L. B. Bodine, Louis Feiring and Lafayette Rosenstiehl, George H. Fairchild and George Stewart were the door committee.

FUNERAL OF MAJOR COLEMAN

SERVICES HELD AT ARLINGTON CEMETERY WEDNESDAY AFTERHOON.

Company of Field Artillary and the Fort Myer Military Band Acted as a Body Guard.

The funeral services of the late Major Frederick W. Coleman, U. S. A., retired, who died at his home at the Netherwood Hotel, July 16, of heart disease, took place Wednesday afternoon at Arlington cemetery, Washington. A squadron of the Second Cavalry from Fort Myer, under the command of Major Brett, acted as escort to the grave. The body-guard consisted of a company of Field Artillery from the fort, and was accompanied by the Fort Myer band.

As the procession proceeded from the gate of the cemetery to the grave the band played Chopin's funeral march, and at the grave the band played "Nearer, My God to Thee." Three volleys were fired by the entire command, after which taps were sounded. The floral offerings entirely covered the grave.

Many members of the Loyal Legion attended the funeral, and many members of the Army and Navy Club, of which Major Coleman was a member, were present. The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. Father Lee, of St. Matthew's church, Washington. The body was accompanied to Washington by Mrs. Coleman, her daughter, Miss May Coleman, and Lieut. F. W. Coleman, a son, who recently returned to the United States from Manila. Lieut. Coleman is connected with the Thirteenth Infantry, which is at present stationed in the Philippines.

PUT IT OUT IN THE BARN.

Little Blaze, of Mysterious Origin, Soon Extinguished This Morning.

A small fire, of mysteriously origin, called the department to the premises of Mrs. Isabelle Jackson at 514 Arlington avenue, shortly after 9 o'clock, this morning.

A small barn in the rear was found to be smoking and was soon put out. Flames had sprang up in a double partition at the foot of a stairway, scorching the inside and burning a few weatherboards. The barn is not occupied and no one was about the place. The damage will be nominal, probably not more than $15.

Through a defect in the mechanism, box No. 32 which was pulled, caused the gong to blow but three times. The trouble was remedied immediately.

Both Found Guilty.

Lewis Moon, colored, and Minnie Barry were arrested on West Fourth street, at 2 o'clock, this morning by Roundsman Flynn and Patrolman Totten, for disorderly conduct. Neither admitted the charge but City Judge Runyon deemed the evidence sufficient to send the woman to jail for sixty days and fine Moon $10 or twenty days. He was unable to pay and went to Elizabeth.

Lots of Business.

Lawyer Charles L. Moffett, of Park avenue, advertised three nice rooms with improvements, in The Daily Press. He called today and asked it stopped. The reason he explained was, that he was tired of waiting on people who called in answer to the insertion. Although he did not keep count, he is positive over twenty-five persons called.

Furnished the Desks.

Woodhull & Martin have received the contract to furnish new desks for Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and the Daughters of Liberty of New Market.

MAY INHERIT FAIR MILLIONS

New Market Directly Interested in Doubly Fatal Automobile Accident in France.

WHO MRS. C. L. FAIR WAS

Disposition of California Millionaire's Fortune Depends on Whether Husband or Wife Died First—Mrs. Fair Was Daughter of Mrs. Hannah Nelson, of New Market.

Tragedy trailing after an automobile near Evreux, France, yesterday, spread grief through the upper circles of this country and touched the nearby village of New Market most deeply with its terrible tidings. In the sudden death of Mrs. Charles L. Fair, with her husband, the California millionaire, Mrs. Hannah Nelson, of New Market, has lost a daughter. As a result of the disaster, all the Fair millions may revert to the young woman's relatives in this section.

Enthusiasm over the subject of automobiles was the indirect cause of the accident. When Mr. Fair and his wife left San Francisco in May for their trip abroad, it was mainly for the purpose of securing something new and fast in the way of a machine. It was in a newly purchased one of forty-five horse power that the couple were riding when they met their death. Some mishap to the steering apparatus is thought to have been the cause of the accident. The big car, speeding along at the rate of sixty-two miles an hour, suddenly swerved from the chauffeur's control and plunged into a large tree at the road-side. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fair were hurled through the air with terrific force and almost instantly killed.

Interest in various sections has long been rife over the checkered career of the son of the late Senator Fair, the silver king. Young Charles, who was only thirty-five at the time of his death, had traveled a fast pace since his boyhood. He was married in 1893 to Miss Caroline Smith, then living in Chicago under the name of Maude Nelson. Fair was disinherited by his father because of the marriage, but a reconciliation was afterwards effected at the deathbed of the father.

Mrs. Fair was the daughter of Mrs. Hannah Nelson by her first husband. Of the second number of children, all the sons, Abram, Fred, Frank and Herbert, are well known in this city and vicinity.

Mrs. Joseph Harvey, of New York, one of Mrs. Fair's most intimate friends, is authority for the statement that the greater part of the Fair millions will now go to the Nelsons. She says: "Mrs. Fair took good care of her relatives. She bought homes for them, established her brothers in business, made her mother comfortably rich, provided for the education of her nephews and nieces and settled monthly allowances on all the members of the family. Now her will is to convey Charles Fair's millions to them, for she told me that her husband had made a will leaving all the property to her and making her executrix without bonds, and that she had at the same time made a will giving all her estate to her relatives in New Jersey." Mrs. Harvey states further that Mrs. Fair's will named her mother, her brother, William Smith, and her half-brother, Abraham Nelson, both of New Market, as legatees.

On the question as to which of the couple died first, depends the disposition of the estate. If it can be shown that Mrs. Fair outlived her husband, all the vast property is hers, and will be distributed according to the terms of her will. Even if the wife be shown to have died first, the wealth which she held in her own name is believed to be enough to make a most generous legacy.

Under the law of California, when a man and his wife are the victims of a common calamity, and there is no evidence as to which died first, the man is supposed to have lived the longer. In such a case, the property would go to Mr. Fair's relatives, on the presumption that he died a widower.

CAN ENTERTAIN VETERANS

G. A. R. OFFICIALS INVESTIGATE ATLANTIC CITY'S FACILITIES.

That City Advised to Secure Grand Encampment for the Year 1903 if Possible.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Atlantic City, August 15—Col. Thos. W. Scott, one of the prominent members of the National Board of Officers of the Grand Army of the Republic, and R. H. Morris, of Evansville, Ind., one of the officials of the Southern Railway, have been investigating the facilities of the resort for taking care of the National Encampment of the Grand Army.

They have come to the conclusion that there is no reason why it could not be held in this resort. This year the veterans will hold their reunion in Washington, D. C. Atlantic City made a bid for it, but could not agree to the financial terms upon which the tents would be pitched in Atlantic City.

Col. Scott has become convinced that the next encampment should be held by the seashore, and suggests that officials of the resort undertake a campaign now to secure the meeting in 1903. Hotel accommodations and the railroad facilities are as good as he has found in any city of moderate size in which the veterans have encamped, and the only objection, which is not a serious one, is that the parade could not be held here to advantage because the resort has not street mileage enough to accommodate it.

In view of the average age of the veteran a short route would be appreciated.

THEATRICAL.

Continuous vaudeville of excellent class and abundant quality and quantity remains the prevailing attraction at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York. For next week a big programme has been arranged, the promised headliner being Ida Melville and Company in "Sis Hopkins' Sister." Theodore Hamilton, in the role of Farmer Allen, will head the Proctor Stock Company at the Fifth Avenue Theatre in a superb revival of "Dora," a pastoral play founded on Tennyson's poem. "Turn Him Out" will be the curtain raiser. Richard Mansfield's original version of "A Parisian Romance" will be acted by the Proctor Stock Company at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre. Over in Newark the summer season of vaudeville continues to result in the best entertainments and great crowds in attendance. The two daily performances next week will employ one of the best bills of the season, headed by Augustus Cook and Company in "Napoleon"; Crawford and Duff, in a comedy sketch; Clark and Temple, vocal comedians, and Campbell and Dare, musical comiques. The daily bargain matinees are immensely popular.

PERSONAL.

Miss Grace Nolan, of East Front street, is visiting her aunt at Kearney.

Miss Adelaide Stiglitz, of East Front street, is home from a visit with friends at Newark.

Peter Emmons, of Jackson avenue, has returned home from a visit with relatives at New Brunswick.

Miss Margerum, of Princeton, has returned home after a visit with Mrs. Garrett Eick, of East Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Young, of South Second street, are entertaining their son Edward from Florida for a week.

Mrs. William VanDeventer and daughter, Margaret, of East Fifth street, started today for Ulster county, N. Y., where they will visit friends for a week.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

FINEST CAR SHOPS IN ENTIRE COUNTRY

Such the New Shops of the Jersey Central Railroad at Elizabethport.

NEARING COMPLETION.

INTERESTING DETAILS ABOUT THIS REMARKABLE COLONY.

Largest Modern Repair Shops in the Country — Passenger Car and Paint Shops Now Under Construction—Other Details.

The Elizabethport shops of the Central Railroad of New Jersey will be, when completed, says the Elizabeth Journal the largest and best railroad shops in the country. At present there are only two shops of larger size, and they are old establishments, and have not an equipment to compare with that installed in the Central's plant. The portion of the plant now in operation includes the locomotive shop, the blacksmith shop, the storehouse, the oil house, and the round house. In process of construction are the passenger car shop, the paint shop, the lumber storage sheds and the water tank.

The passenger car shop is north of the round house, and on the west side of the transfer table. It is of concrete and expanded metal construction like the other building. It parallels the Newark branch for 400 feet and is 100 feet wide. Here all the repair work on the passenger coaches of the entire road will be done. It will be fitted up with a complete equipment for such work. It is extremely light, as the roof is covered with skylights and the east and west sides have many large windows. All the tracks in the shop run direct to the transfer table, where cars can be transferred to any part of the paint shop, which is being erected on the opposite side.

The paint shop is north of the blacksmith shop, is of the same construction, and is 320 feet long and 150 feet wide. The latter is not quite so far advanced as the paint shop. Both of the buildings are expected to be ready for occupancy by the middle of September. Here the passenger coaches will be painted and decorated in the latest style.

It is expected that when the paint and passenger shops are complete that work will be begun upon the pattern shop. The plans are prepared for the freight car shop, and it is expected that work on this shop will begin next spring. Here all the repairs will be made on the road's freight and coal cars.

The lumber storage sheds are now in process of erection. Here all the lumber used will be stored and seasoned. This is being done at present at the storage sheds at Somerville. When these sheds are complete the plant will be removed from Somerville to Elizabeth.

Along the Newark branch between the round house and the passenger car shops is being erected a round structure that has aroused a good deal of curiosity and speculation. The building is of concrete construction, and affords a good example of that method. Two circular wooden walls were erected, one inside of the other, forming a circular trough about 18 inches wide and 6 feet high. In this trough the concrete was placed and allowed to harden. When the lower section was thoroughly dry the wooden walls were raised, section by section, and the process repeated. This will be kept up until the desired height is obtained. On the top of the concrete structure will be placed a large tank. This will be kept filled with water for fire purposes and will be of such a height as to afford adequate protection from fire. The tank will also be used to supply water for general purposes at any time that the city water supply may fail.

The fence which will surround the plant will be started next week. Four thousand three hundred and seventy feet of picket fence six feet high, with two rows of barbed wire fencing on the top will guard the north side of the grounds. On the east side there will be erected 3,600 feet of barbed wire fencing. Thus the fence will be over a mile and a half long.

The locomotive repair shops have an up-to-date equipment. All large machines are equipped with their own electric motors. Smaller machines are grouped and one motor is placed to supply the group. Compressed air is used to run all sorts of hand tools. Electric cranes travel up and down the shop, moving everything from the heaviest freight locomotive to the smallest casting. Some of the statistics of the power employed at the shops are given by W. L. Harrison, the superintendent. Mr. Harrison was formerly connected with the Great Northern system, and is a railroad man of wide experience.

There are 150 motors in the blacksmith and machine shops, of a total horsepower of 1,200. There are five electric cranes in the big shops. Two have a capacity of fifty tons, one a capacity of ten tons. One hundred and ten arc lights and 300 incandescent lights furnish the illumination. In the power house are three Ball & Wood engines 16x16 inches, making 250 revolutions per minute. At present but two of the engines are being used, the third being held in reserve for an emergency. Each of the engines is directly connected with a Sprague generator. The three generators have a capacity of 1,248 amperes. There is room in the engine room for the installation of three more engines of like capacity.

There are also installed two air compressors, made by the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, with a capacity of 960 cubic feet of free air per minute. Only one of the compressors is now being used, the other being in reserve. Steam is generated in four batteries of Babcock & Wilcox boilers, of 250 horse power each. There is room for two more batteries, thus increasing the present horse power of 1,000 to 1,500. Forced draught is used in the boiler room, and thus the use of a tall smoke stack is avoided.

The shops are heated by the indirect system of steam heating. The cold air is forced over the steam coils and then distributed through ducts along the ceiling, having openings controlled by dampers at frequent intervals. In the machine shop about a mile of steam pipe is needed to warm the building. In the blacksmith shop about a half mile is used. The steam used is the exhaust from the engines. All the rainwater falling on the buildings is collected in a huge cistern, 75 feet in diameter and 14 feet feet in depth. With the pipes, it has a capacity of 500,000 gallons.

In about three weeks a new riveter will be installed in the locomotive shop. It is to be operated by compressed air instead of hydraulic pressure as is commonly used. The success of this new departure will be watched with great interest by the mechanical world. The foundations for the big machine are now being prepared. It will cost $8,000 when erected. The value of the entire plant at present is about $850,000, and when complete it will easily exceed the million mark. The pay roll of the shops alone, not including the contractors' men at work on the new construction, is over $30,000 monthly.

Since the new repair shops have been in operation there has been a marked decrease in the number of breakdowns in the locomotives employed by the road. Where mishaps were around the hundred mark a month they are now under a score. Trains are now arriving at the stations ahead of time. The new locomotives that the road has recently put in service have the speed and power to do this and the Port shops are going to keep them in that condition as long as it is possible for that to be done.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

September 16 the people of North Plainfield are to vote on the question of annexation to Plainfield, and on the same day ex-Chief Devery of the New York police force is to try to make a place for himself in politics as the leader of the Ninth New York district. The result of both elections will be awaited with considerable interest by all who are interested in political affairs. It seems to be conceded that Devery will win, but the result in North Plainfield is doubtful.—Trenton Times.

We notice in some of our exchanges that Hon. Johnston Cornish is likely to be the next Democratic candidate for Governor. The party could not find a stronger candidate nor one that would be more likely to be successful at the election. The people of New Jersey have long wanted an opportunity to vote for Warren's favorite son and we hope that the report that Senator Cornish will enter the gubernatorial fight, when the time comes, is not without foundation.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

Some newspapers seem to have just awoke to the fact that Governor Murphy is firmly in the saddle as Republican leader in New Jersey. That was apparent as soon as General Sewell's illness became hopeless. It was certain when Mr. Murphy was elected Governor, and was proven when John F. Dryden was elected Senator. At that time many Republicans pointed out Mr. Dryden as the leader because he had overcome David Baird's South Jersey combination. With the Newark insurance man a tyro in politics, such a conclusion was little more than absurd. He had Governor Murphy's endorsement, and that was why he won. The hopes of Baird and Griggs for leadership were dashed at that time, while the Murphy-Kean-Dryden Loudenslager quartette seems to have the whole State pretty well in their control from Sussex to Cape May.—New Brunswick Home News.

The Home News, in expressing regret over the burning of the steamboat New Brunswick, spoke of its passing as the departure of an old friend, and said: "No doubt the boat had to go sometime, and since everyone escaped safely it is more pleasant to think of her dying in harness, as it were, then to have her carried away to be broken up." It is probable this bit of sentiment was prompted by the feeling that comes to many people as they cross the Raritan bay bridge, and get a glimpse of Gregory's "Marine Graveyard," where are now lying the dismantled hulks of several steamboats that for many years were familiar to the traveling public. Among these are the New Jersey Central Railroad Company's old passenger steamer "Chancellor" that plied between this city and New York, the "Drew," for many years a palatial river carrier of the People's Line on the Hudson, and the ferryboat "Northfield," which ran on the New York and Staten Island ferry. One cannot help feeling a pang of regret on seeing these old friends in the stages of demolition.—Elizabeth Journal.

The usual summer complaint about the Passaic river is now causing the residents of the valley to appreciate the kind intentions of the law adopted by the last Legislature for the purpose of delaying any action of relief from a vile nuisance.

The shrine of Jupiter Pluvius should be popular in the blighted district as the only relief which has been furnished after ten years of agitation has come from the abundant rainfall of the season. A few days of dry, hot weather and the stench will float over the pretty valley once more.

The victims were unfortunate in having intelligent legislation blocked and their righteous complaint ignored while a stupid law drafted by incompetents and accomplishing nothing good is furnished to them, like stones for bread.

The new district commission for the Passaic valley, with powerless hands, will take at least a full year to get acquainted with their task and will then probably approve of the good work done by the State Commission and relief may then be as near as ever, and as far.

It is a matter for earnest hope that sometime a Legislature will listen to reason instead of bluff and bulldozing, and will pass an intelligent law to give proper relief to what otherwise may earn the title of the Valley of Death, if the typhoid epidemics have not earned it that name already.—Jersey City Journal.

LITERARY.

William Watson, the English poet, is the subject of a critical article by Professor George E. Woodberry, the American poet, which is to appear in the September number of The Century, which will also contain an admirable example of Mr. Watson's work in "A Ballad of Semmerwater," which embodies an old legend, and which will be illustrated and decorated by Henry McCarter.

MET DEATH IN AUTO

Millionaire Fair and His Wife Killed In France.

MACHINE CRASHED INTO A TREE.

Couple Were Speeding From Trouville to Paris When Tire Burst. An Eyewitness Tells of the Accident.

EVREUX, France, Aug. 15.—While Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair were speeding in their forty-five horsepower automobile from Trouville to Paris the machine swerved and crashed into a tree, killing Mr. and Mrs. Fair and shocking their chauffeur so badly that he has become insane.

The accident occurred at half past 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and almost in front of the Chateau Buisson du Mai. The Fairs intended to dine and spend the night in Paris and return to Trouville for lunch today.

The wife of the gatekeeper of the chateau was the only witness of the disaster. She says she noticed a big red automobile coming along the road at a tremendous pace. Suddenly something happened, and the heavy machine slid sideways from the right to the left side of the road for about sixty yards. It then dashed up an embankment, turned a complete somersault and crashed into a big elm tree in front of the gate of the chateau. The automobile was completely wrecked, the front axle was broken, and other parts of the machine were smashed, including the steering gear. When the automobile turned over, the wife of the gatekeeper says she saw Mr. and Mrs. Fair thrown high in the air and fall with a heavy thud to the ground. The chauffeur, who was sitting behind the Fairs, was precipitated into a ditch.

He staggered to his feet, calling for help. The gatekeeper's wife rushed to his assistance and aided him in extricating Mr. and Mrs. Fair, who were buried beneath the wrecked machine and in the last throes of death. Both had sustained ghastly injuries and were almost unrecognizable. Mr. Fair's head had been crushed in, while his wife's skull was split. The chauffeur was terribly affected at the calamity and seemed bereft of his senses. He threw himself into a ditch on the opposite side of the road and rolled about, crying, "My poor master!"

The accident was evidently due to the bursting of a tire. At the time it occurred the automobile, which was capable of running seventy-four miles an hour, was going at the rate of sixty-two miles an hour.

HAD BEEN WARNED OF DANGER.

Mr. Fair an Auto Enthusiast, His Relatives Say.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Charles Fair and his wife left San Francisco for Europe on May 30 last to stay for two or three months.

Charles Fair was the third of the four children of the late Mr. and Mrs. James G. Fair. Teresa, who is now the wife of Hermann Oelrichs, is the oldest of the heirs. Then came James, who died about ten years ago. Charles was the third, and the youngest was Virginia, the wife of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

In the spring of 1894 Charles married Maude Nelson. The ceremony took place in Oakland, and it was almost a secret one.

Charles Fair was one of the three heirs to an immense estate, estimated in value at between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000.

When informed of the tragic end of his brother-in-law and his wife yesterday afternoon, Hermann Oelrichs said:

"I am terribly shocked, but not surprised. I said only a few days ago that if Charles persisted in carrying on his experiments along this line the result would be fatal sooner or later. I had warned him repeatedly, but he always laughed and said there was no danger."

In a letter received last week Mr. Fair said he intended sailing for the United States on Aug. 26.

Charles Fair was born in Virginia City, Nev., on April 11, 1867. He brought the first automobile across the continent to this city. He had been enthusiastic about automobiles ever since the machines came into use abroad.

Gold Beaters to Resume Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—The Gold Beaters' union, whose members are on strike throughout the country for an increase in wages, has decided to permit the men to return to work on Monday next in all shops that have agreed to the strikers' demands. This move will open three shops in this city, three in Chicago, five in New York, three in Boston and one in Hartford, Conn.

National Bible Conference.

CAPTAIN NEWMAN SAFE.

He and His Son Reach England In Their Tiny Craft.

FALMOUTH, England, Aug. 15.—Captain Newman and his son Edward have arrived here in the thirty-eight foot kerosene launch Abiel Abbot Low, in which they sailed from New York July 9.

In an interview with a press representative Captain Newman said:

"The launch has proved herself a noble boat, but we experienced awful times since we left New York. Several times in terrible gales we nearly lost our drag anchor, owing to the gear chafing away. We voyaged 3,103 miles. We had great trouble with the kerosene, because the tanks which held it broke, and the oil flooded the cabin. My boy became ill and homesick. I suffered greatly from exposure and long sitting in one position. We spoke the American line steamer Kroonland on Aug. 1 in mid Atlantic. After this we encountered a series of most severe gales, and the hardships were so great that I feared we would not survive. We did not speak another vessel until Aug. 13, when we met a fisherman ninety miles off the Scilly islands. Those last ninety miles were the longest I ever ran in my life. I would not hesitate, however, to try the voyage again."

The voyagers rarely used the sail on the launch. Captain Newman lost thirty pounds in weight on the trip, but his son seems to have derived benefit from the experience.

Again Bryan Says No.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 15.—W. J. Bryan has written a letter to the editor of the New Orleans Times-Democrat in answer to the question whether he will be a candidate for president in the next campaign. Mr. Bryan says in part: "I shall not be a candidate for the presidency in the next campaign, and, I may add, I have no choice beyond the desire to see some one nominated who was loyal not only to the ticket, but to the platform, in 1896 and 1900 and who, if elected, could be trusted to stand by the people in the struggle against organized wealth. While no one can look very far ahead or foresee the contingencies that may arise, I have no plans looking to a renomination at any future time."

Banks Must Pay Tax.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Commissioner Yerkes of the internal revenue bureau has directed that immediate steps be taken for the collection of the tax on profit and loss accounts, or undivided accounts, of banks, trust companies or private banks under the war revenue act of June, 1898. The amount to be collected will approximate, it is said, $300,000. Under an opinion of the department of justice the tax had only been collected on the capital and surplus of banks, but the commissioner ruled last January that the undivided profit or profit and loss accounts of banks are part of the surplus and thereby subject to tax.

Closing Schools a Hard Task.

BREST, Aug. 15.—The gendarmes met with strong resistance at Plougonvelin from the assembled crowd, who unhorsed one of their number. It took the gendarmes an hour and a half to force the barricades erected in front of the school in that village. Numerous detachments of gendarmes are arriving at Brest to assist the commissaries in their work of closing the unauthorized schools.

Jury to Get Andrews Case.

RIOT AT A WASHERY

Mob of Strikers Attack Officers on Guard.

A VOLLEY FIRED AT THE CROWD.

Mine Workers Claim There Was No Cause For the Shooting—Twenty-five Deputies Are Put In Jail.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 15.—A riot at the Warnke washery at Duryea has caused considerable trouble. Five hundred men and boys collected about the place and threatened to interfere with those who wanted to go to work. Sheriff Jacobs had a number of deputies on the ground, and they held the crowd back. The works were started up, but remained in operation only a short time. The crowd on the outside threw stones over the stockade at the deputies who were on guard inside. Several times the deputies were tempted to fire. Rather than have any trouble work was suspended for the time being.

The deputy sheriffs returned to Wilkesbarre early in the afternoon, reporting all quiet at the washery when they left. They had hardly reached Wilkesbarre, however, until the deputies on guard were attacked. Several men in the mob also attempted to climb over the barricade. The deputies warned them to go back, and when they did not a volley was fired, but most of the bullets went high into the air. Harry Collins was shot through the right leg. Andrew Marlack, a Lithuanian, received a flesh wound, and another foreigner had a narrow escape, a bullet passing through his coat.

A colored man employed at the washery, thinking his life was in danger, escaped from the barricade and ran down the street. He was pursued by an angry crowd, who cried: "Hang him! Hang him!" The man was finally run down, but before any harm could befall him a number of constables rescued him.

Deputy sheriffs from Luzerne and Lackawanna counties went to the scene of the rioting, but when they arrived all was quiet, the mob having dispersed. An eyewitness says the attack, the shooting and the retreat did not last more than five minutes.

Warrants were sworn out before the burgess charging the deputies with rioting and felonious wounding. The constables went to the washery and placed twenty-five men under arrest. They were arraigned before Burgess Burlington and held in $3,000 bail each. They could not furnish bail and were brought to the county jail here.

The United Mine Workers say the shooting was uncalled for and the deputies alone are to blame.

Troops on Guard Two Weeks.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 15.—The troops caled out to suppress lawlessness in Shenandoah have now been in the field two full weeks, and during that time they have not been called upon to do much more than guard duty. In the absence of all disorder the brigadier general has not permitted the rigid discipline of the troops to be in any way relaxed. The commander is in close touch with every section of the anthracite field and has more knowledge of the exact condition of affairs in the coal belt than he is willing to publicly admit. His staff officers are constantly in the surrounding region and making reports to him. Board floors are being placed in all the tents in camp, which is an indication that the troops will probably remain in the field until the end of the strike.

Welsh Miners to Aid Americans.

CARDIFF, Wales, Aug. 15.—The South Wales Miners' federation has adopted a recommendation that the federation districts contribute $50,000 to assist the striking miners in the United States on the ground that they are contending for principles of international importance.

Sold Himself to Pay Debts.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Jerry Logan, the aged negro janitor of the state supreme court, has sold himself to Gerald Stuart, clerk of the court, for $1,000. For this sum he agrees in a written contract to serve and obey Stuart as his legal master from now until the time of his death. Logan has lately been worried by debts, which he will pay now from the sum to be paid him for his liberty.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Because of the withdrawal of the two Doherty brothers from the championship singles of the Long Island lawn tennis tournament the final match was played and resulted in a victory for W. A. Larned in straight sets over Dr. Joshua Pim of the English team. The score was 6—2, 6—4 and 6—3.

General Torrance In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—General Eli Torrance, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, accompanied by General Silas H. Towler, his adjutant general, has arrived in Washington and from now on will maintain quarters here until the close of the annual encampment of the Grand Army in October.

New Uniform Order Changed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Acting Secretary Sanger has issued an order postponing the time the order for new uniforms shall go into effect from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1903. This is done in order that dealers may obtain a supply of goods from which to manufacture the new uniform.

SOMERSET'S CANDIDATES.

According to the statements of Democratic politicians in the Fourth Congressional district, Somerset county is the pivotal point in the coming election. On that county it is said that the district depends. As a natural result, both parties are beginning to get in line to capture it. Of late years Somerset has been a Republican county despite its factional disturbances. The Democrats are hopeful, however.

At the present time it certainly looks as if Somerset was going to have the Democratic nomination for Congress in that district. The name which seems most prominently mentioned for the place is that of Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards. While some of the Somerville Democrats say that he will not run on account of business reasons, the general opinion seems to be that he will be a candidate for either Congress or the State Senate. For some reason, he appears to favor the latter. Pressure is likely to be brought to bear to persuade him to take the other.

Whatever may be said about his political ideas, there is no one who can say a word against Samuel S. Childs as a man. He has been successful as a business man and has made a host of friends throughout Somerset county. He is a man of means and would therefore be able to meet the varied expenses which accompany a seat in Congress. He has the respect of Republicans and Democrats alike and would be a worthy antagonist of Former Judge Lanning, the Republican nominee. If Mr. Childs is named, the residents of Somerset will be able to vote for either man with a full consciousness that whoever they elect will make a fit representative of the district at the Capital at Washington.

If Mr. Childs accepts the Congressional nomination, it seems likely that Former Prosecutor Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, will be a candidate for senator. There are few men who have served the community more faithfully and as well as Mr. Dungan. He is a capable public official and a excellent citizen. There are many in Plainfield who have met him in a business and social way and with all he has found great favor.

"With the daily newspaper the manufacturer can enter a city, State or group of States; daily newspaper advertising can be more accurately gauged than can magazine advertising; there is virtually no waste and it can be made the form of a campaign which will grow with the advertiser's machinery for distribution. Then, the newspaper appears more frequently. He can secure the results of a year in the magazines in less than a month. Above all, he can bring pressure to bear on the retailers so swiftly and irresistibly that no single store can afford to be without his product." This is the way the Philadelphia Record quotes the manager for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Company, in Chicago.

It is only within recent years that Asbury Park has made any real effort to provide attractions besides those furnished by nature. Of course the hotels were there and they all looked after the pleasure of their guests to a greater or less degree but any organized effort in the line of fetes and carnivals is a modern happening at the twin cities. Even today the efforts are confined entirely to Asbury Park for the denizens of Ocean Grove have rather looked askance at the plans to attract summer guests which have been prominent of late.

There will be no games in the City Baseball League tomorrow afternoon as it happens to be the day for Hope chapel's annual excursion to Asbury Park. Two of the league teams have games scheduled for the afternoon and both promire to be interesting ones. Unless the league ends in a tie, two Saturdays more will complete it.

Plainfield's policemen are going to try their skill at baseball this afternoon against the crack team of the Newark force. Elizabeth has been easily bested and now the local police think they can serve Newark's best in similar fashion.

As it was last summer, the Hotel Netherwood has proved the social centre during the summer season. Those of the society folk who are still at home would find the city rather dull were it not for the big hostelry on the hill.

Still the rumors of trolley deals continue to fly but nothing definite is made public.

SOMERSET HAS A CANDIDATE

MRS. JONATHAN TAYLOR, OF SOMERVILLE, WANTS THE APPOINTMENT.

There Are Nine Others After the Place of Deputy Factory Inspector Soon to be Filled by Governor.

Governor Murphy is still undecided whether to name a female deputy factory inspector under the act passed by the last Legislature providing for an additional inspector and authorizing the naming of a woman for the place.

The executive is not yet convinced of the necessity, or indeed the usefulness, of a woman inspector, but should he decide to take advantage of the act he will find no dearth of material from which to choose.

There are no less than ten active candidates in the field, any one of whom would feel honored by receiving the appointment. The list includes the following:

Miss Mary Philbrook, the woman lawyer of Hoboken; Mrs. R. Starr Keeler, of Camden; Miss M. M. Brown, of Newark; Mrs. Jonathan Taylor, of Somerville; Miss Helen Marat, of East Orange; Miss Agnes Miller, of Orange; Miss Ada Woodsworth, of Orange; Mrs. Sexton, of Newark; Mrs. C. Rees, of Newark; Mrs. J. P. McDonnell, of Paterson.

Some of the women mentioned are conducting most aggressive campaigns in their own behalf, while others are but passively in the race, or, as it were, "in the hands of their friends."

Mrs. J. P. McDonnell, of Paterson, is one of the aggressive campaigners, and has inaugurated a postal card crusade to accomplish her purpose. The governor now has on his desk at the State House a pile of these cards between five and six inches high, urging the selection of Mrs. McDonnell. These are printed, and have evidently been widely distributed among the friends of the applicant.

Mrs. McDonnell's husband has been a prominent figure in the New Jersey State Federation of Labor and was once a member of the State Board of Arbitration. It is possible that he conducted or prompted the rather novel campaign being waged by Mrs. McDonnell.

—I. Gensler, of New Brunswick, who is visiting friends in the city, will shortly remove here to take up his residence.

—Fifty baskets of Jenny Lind melons and fifty of cantelopes, will go at a special price per basket at Neuman Brothers tomorrow.

DUNELLEN.

In their impatience to get home, a team of horses belonging to A. L. Cadmus, of Palinfiled, driven by Abram Devine, collided with the fence in the rear of W. H. Cole's yard, yesterday morning. A generous section of it was torn down and demolished before the animals could be brought about. The wagon was also quite badly scratched. Mr. Cole had the damage repaired immediately.

The Central Railorad officials have complained to the borough authorities of the practice boys have of jumping on coal trains in the afternoon, and riding to Hampton Junction. Several have had narrow escapes from serious injury and that all have escaped is more good luck than management. Unless the boys desist detectives will make arrests.

Tomorrow afternoon on the New Market diamond, the Dunellen A. C. will give battle to the New Market forces. It is expected to be a sharp battle as the township contingent will have Whitley, its latest acquisition, in the box. The locals will undoubtedly be adcompanied by a large crowd of rooters.

Rumor has it that a Dunellen man who a few moons since became a widower, has again been pierced by Cupid's shaft and will shortly take unto himself a bride. It is said her home is in New York State and that the nuptials will be solemnized within a month.

The emergency section gang of the New Jersey Central, numbering nearly 100 men, descended upon the borough and performed some needed repairs in the tracks opposite the station. The boardwalks were fixed up and the roadbed underwent considerable overhauling.

R. Horton Batchelor, of West Dunellen, is having his handsome residence overhauled and improved by carpenters and painters. Plainfield contractors are in charge of the work.

Miss Jessie Stites has returned home from Pleasant Plains, N. Y., where she has been spending th esummer.

Miss Ethel Churchill, of New York, is the guest of Miss Janie Churchill, of Washington avenue.

Miss Ethel Smith, of Jersey City, is spending a short time with her aunt, Mrs. Valentine Kirby.

Madame M. Cottrelly, of Paterson, is a guest at the home of Mrs. E. Cottrelly.

Lewis Churchill is entertaining his cousin, Thomas Thomas, of Ocean Grove.

NEW MARKET.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Catherine Mitze were held from the residence of her son, Philip Mitze, yesterday afternoon. They were in charge of Rev. Frank Fletcher and were largely attended. A touching selection, "Abide With Me," was sung by Mrs. Lillie Gaskill and Mrs. Walter Clawson. At the close the remains were interred in Middlesex Hillside cemetery. Those who bore the casket to its final resting place were Phillip Jenner, William Farrier, Adam Waglow, Josiah Maitland, W. J. Davis and Frederick Holden.

The excurison of the Plainfield Juniors to Asbury Park, yesterday, was well attended from members of the order from New Market.

The condition of Mrs. Theresa Runyon, who recently suffered a paralytic stroke, remains unchanged.

C. T. Rogers has rented his vacant house to city parties who will take possession shortly.

John Dent, of Bound Brook, was the guest of friends in town, yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Inspector John Miller, who has charge of the electric light circuits through the village and borough, is having a great deal of trouble of late in having the lights broken, especially on the Park avenue circuit. The work is undoubtedly done by boys throwing stones and if they are caught at it Mr. Miller promises to make it interesting for them.

A large number of the Ladies' Auxiliary of A. O. H., of Elizabeth, and their friends enjoyed a dance at Ivamy's pavillion last night. The merry party arrived about 9 o'clock by special trolley. During the evening refreshments were served. The start for home was made sometime after the midnight hour.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met and transacted routine business last night. Several of the members of Twilight attended the excursion of Franklin Council, of Plainfield, to Asbury Park, yesterday.

The regular Friday evening prayer meeting will be held in the Baptist church tonight. Rev. G. M. Shott will lead, subject, "The Mustard Seed and the Leaven."

Mrs. G. M. Shott and daughter, Miss Ruth, who have been spending two weeks with friends at Asbury Park, have returned home.

The contract case of Storr against Ryno in Judge Clark's court, yesterday, was adjourned to Thursday, August 21, at the same hour.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marsh, who have been enjoying an outing of nearly a week at Saratoga, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Virtue and family, of Newark, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Frank Hosinger.

A meeting of the Township Committee will be held in the Township Rooms tonight at 8 o'clock.

Horace Hand, of Plainfield, was the guest of freinds in town Thursday evening.

Roy Day has returned from a business trip to Far Hill, this State.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Wm. Campbell, of Pumptown, died at his home last Tuesday. He was eighty-four years of age.

Miss Julia Drake, of Stelton, is a guest at the home of Mrs. Thomas Brantingham.

The local camp of the P. O. S. of A. met last night in Washington Hall.

Mrs. Oscar Thorn entertained, yesterday, a friend from Keyport.

Mrs. Joel Manning is entertaining a friend from Plainfield.

John Higgins is confined to the house by illness.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries, of 318 East Fifth street, removed yesterday into a residence on Somerset street.

—For convenience of customers Neuman Brothers will sell tomorrow twenty-five crates of four-quart baskets of fancy Delaware peaches.

WEDDED AT WESTFIELD.

Frank Hermann and Miss Bertha Holmes Were Quietly Married.

In a very quite manner, Frank Hermann, of this city, and Miss Bertha Holmes, also of this city but formerly of Perth Amboy, were married in the parsonage of the Methodist church at Westfield, Wednesday evening. Rev. C. M. Anderson officiated and the only witnesses were William Durhens and Miss Bertha Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Hermann have deferred their wedding trip and will make their home for the present with the groom's parents on East Front street.

Miss W. Vroom, of East Sixth street, returned today from Bayonne, where she has been visiting her nieces, the Misses Vroom.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

John Clacy and G. S. Farlee, late of the New York Painting and Decorating Company, have formed a partnership to do painting, decorating and paperhanging. See ad.

All lovers of fish as food should not fail to visit Fred Endress's seafood department before buying. It is stocked with all kinds of fresh fish direct from the nets and is sold very low.

All tests are passed by the milk from the Netherwood Farm, the headquarters of Lindsay & Son. If you are supplied from their dairies, you are sure that you are getting the best service afforded anywhere.

R. W. Barnes, the Park avenue grocer, receives daily large consignments of fruit and vegetables. His melons and peaches are of a rich variety, that will tempt you not only to eat, but to buy if you call around.

At last there has been found a place to have the most difficult eyes fitted perfectly and work done free, at Vail's, 103 Park avenue. He has the largest stock of watches, jewelry and silverware in the city. All work done well and neatly.

Campbell's candy specials continue to attract patrons at his store on West Front street. Something choice in the way of confections may be found there each Thursday and Saturday. Call tomorrow and take advantage of the weekly offer.

No better opportunity to obtain a strictly first class pair of shoes at a low price than is now offered by Van Arsdale. The broken lots he has put on sale are going fast but there is still remaining some choice pairs in men's and women's styles.

William H. Brower's Sons, the New York florists, have a reputation in the metropolis for the large and assorted variety of flowers and plants always on hand for decorative and like work. Orders may be left with John L. Brower, East Fifth street.

You are well aware of the fact that extreme care and nothing but experience should be used in compounding prescriptions. The way they are put up often has a great deal to do with their effectiveness. At Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building the prescription department is in charge of competent persons and nothing but the purest of drugs is used.

A SERIOUS SITUATION

Official News From Venezuela Extremely Disquieting.

TWO AMERICAN SHIPS ARE SEIZED

Minister Bowen Tells of the Capture and Sacking of Barcelona—Foreign Residents Ill Treated by Revolutionists.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The capture of Barcelona by the Venezuelan revolutionists is being followed by serious disturbances, according to official dispatches received in Washington. A dispatch from Commander McLean of the United States cruiser Cincinnati, sent direct from the captured town, reads as follows:

"Barcelona occupied by revolutionists. Have imprisoned all civil and military officials. Are in possession of entire district. Some pillaging done, but everything now quiet. Twenty-nine business houses, mostly foreign, sacked; also fifteen private dwellings."

The following dispatch from Commander Rodgers of the United States gunboat Marietta has been received at the navy department, dated Port of Spain, Trinidad:

"Three American citizens at Angostura, Venezuela; life and property safe when ship sailed. City controlled by revolutionary military chief. Foreign subjects alarmed at situation. Two Orinoco company steamers forcibly detained at San Felix for government use."

Another dispatch about the Barcelona situation was received from H. W. Bowen, United States minister at Caracas, who said that he was advised by the United States consul at Barcelona that the revolutionists were sacking that town and searching private houses. They were demanding money from foreign residents in exchange for a guarantee of safety of lives and property. Mr. Bowen reports the general situation as serious.

Seizure of Ships Not Reported.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—At the offices of the Orinoco Steamship company in this city it is stated that no information regarding the forcible detention of any of their vessels by the Venezuelan government has been received. The company, which is American owned, has a fleet of nine vessels, all of which, with the exception of one flying the American flag, is under the Venezuelan standard. The operations of the company are confined to Venezuelan territory and consist of a service between Trinidad, Ciudad de Bolivar and points on the Orinoco river.

The Arctic Expedition Quarrel.

TROMSO, Norway, Aug. 15.—The American consul at Bergen, Victor E. Nelson, has suggested that the British vice consul here endeavor to settle the differences between Evelyn B. Baldwin, the arctic explorer, and Captain Johansson of the America. Captain Johansson will not accept the assistance to this end of the British vice consul at Tromso, who is the owner of the Baldwin-Zeigler expedition's ship Frithjof and who for this reason he does not consider to be impartial. Captain Johansson urges that the secretary of the American consulate at Bergen be sent here to examine witnesses in the dispute between himself and Mr. Baldwin.

A Valuable Necklace.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The necklace of pearls belonging to Mrs. L. Harrison Dulles of Philadelphia, seized when she arrived in New York from abroad recently and which she had neglected to declare along with wearing apparel on which she paid duty, has been formally appraised, pending the result of forfeiture proceedings now pending. According to the return made to the collector, the foreign value of the necklace is $16,258.60. Duty, at 60 per cent, would be $9,755.16, making the home value of the jewels $26,013.76.

Elks Bar Street Fairs.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 15.—Street fairs or carnivals held under the auspices of Elks' lodges have been absolutely prohibited by the grand lodge of the order, now in session here. The new law will not go into effect until Jan. 1, as many lodges in different parts of the country have already made plans for the holding of such fairs before that date. The grand lodge of Elks took sine die adjournment after fixing the place and time of the next reunion at Baltimore July 21, 1903.

Mrs. Allien Gets Lion's Share.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 15.—According to the preliminary report of the executors of the will of the late Pierre Lorillard, made yesterday, Mrs. Lily A. Barnes, known as "Mrs. Allien," has received "$69,925, legacy of personal property at Rancocas," and "$55,480, legacy of horses in England." To the widow there are but two items—"legacy of household goods, $26,325, and annuity payments aggregating $16,000."

Valuable Collection For Art Museum

LONDON, Aug. 15.—It is stated here that Heber R. Bishop, the retired New York banker, has given his superb collection of jade and precious stones to the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York. His collection is regarded by the best judges as the finest in the world. Its pecuniary value is about $500,000.

Iowa College Damaged.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 15.—The south wing of the main building at the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Ames has been burned. The valuable botanical collection and equipment, together with the museum and the office and school furniture, were saved.

WILL NOT FLY.

Santos-Dumont Breaks Agreement and Sails For France.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—With less than twenty-four hours' notice to those associated with him in a business way Alberto Santos-Dumont, the aeronaut, sailed for France on the French line steamship Touraine. Voicing his disgust at his failure to obtain a legitimate prize for an exhibition of the air navigating powers of his machine, he left behind him men who declare that he was assured of a twenty thousand dollar prize for an aerial trip to be made at Brighton Beach during the latter part of this month.

George Francis Kerr, one of the stockholders in the Syndicate Construction company, at 302 Broadway, a concern incorporated primarily for the purpose of erecting a shed for the Santos-Dumont airship at Brighton Beach, explained yesterday afternoon, after expressing his surprise at Santos-Dumont's action, that the transportation companies which would benefit by carrying the crowds to the beach to witness the trial had guaranteed a prize of $20,000 and that the aeronaut could be surer of nothing than of receiving that amount.

"We have his airship and intend to keep it," said Mr. Kerr. "I don't care to speak of the financial end. We are game losers. I am most certainly surprised by Santos-Dumont's sudden departure. We had a written agreement that he was to fly during the latter part of this month in addition to the agreement regarding the exhibition of the airship."

Samoan Chief Dead.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Captain U. Sebree, the naval governor of the island of Samoa, has advised the navy department from Tutuila, under date of July 17, that Tuitele, one of the chiefs of the islands, who had held the position of district governor of the western district of Tutuila since the United States assumed the sovereignty of the islands, died at Leone on June 15. Captain Sebree reports that he sent a surgeon to attend him, and subsequently when the chief grew worse he went in the Wheeling to make him a personal visit. Tuitele was buried with military honors, the funeral being attended by the officers and men of the Wheeling. A native guard by the direction of Captain Sebree fired three volleys over his grave.

Found In His Father's Barn.

CHATHAM, N. J., Aug. 15.—Wilberforce Ogden, the young theological student who disappeared on Monday, Aug. 4, from the home of his father, William Ogden, and for whom scores of men have been searching, was found in his father's barn. He said he had been hidden there ever since his disappearance, ten days ago, and had lived on food which he obtained by stealing into the house at night after the family had gone to bed. Young Ogden said he did not know why he hid himself as he did. His father believes his mind was affected by worry over his studies.

Newfoundland's Trouble With Reid.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 15.—Public feeling over the Reid arbitration difficulty is growing more intense. In an interview a prominent member of the colonial government said: "The solvent existence of the colony depends upon the outcome of this arbitration. The government is prepared to exhaust every legitimate expedient to insure the absolute impartiality of the arbitration tribunal.

ODELL AT OYSTER BAY.

New York's Governor Is President's Guest at Luncheon.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Governor Odell of New York was the president's guest at luncheon yesterday at Sagamore Hill. The governor arrived at Oyster Bay in the private car of President Baldwin of the Long Island railroad, attached to the 12:25 o'clock train. He was unaccompanied, and his visit was evidently not known in advance to the citizens of this place, for no official of the town was at the depot to greet him. The president's trap was in waiting, and the governor was driven directly to the president's home.

When the governor returned to the station to take the 4:14 o'clock train back to New York, he was in rare good humor and in reply to a request for a statement as to his visit replied:

"I have no statement to make further than to say that I had a most pleasant talk with the president, during which we discussed a number of questions affecting the political situation in the state."

He said that the candidate for lieutenant governor had not been decided upon. He also stated that he did not know who the candidate would be, adding that he wished he did possess this information. In fact, no conclusion of any kind was reached, he said.

It is the governor's intention to go to his summer home at Lake Mohonk today.

Typographical Convention.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 15.—The International Typographical union has taken important action regarding the interchange of type matrices and engravings between offices; also regarding the jurisdiction of the union in connection with the American Federation of Labor and on the regulation of "regulars" and "substitutes" and other practices in composing rooms. There was a close contest between Washington and Newark for the next convention. The former city won, because it was thought that more could be done for favorable legislation by meeting at the national capital than at any other place. A resolution by a Pennsylvania delegate appropriating $2,000 for the anthracite strikers was refused immediate consideration.

Confessed, Then Said He Had Lied.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Becoming desperate while being subjected to a vigorous examination by Inspector Hunt, Oscar Thompson, who is detained pending investigation of the Bartholin-Mitchell murders, confessed to everything that the police have been trying to make him tell. When he had finished, Thompson laughed derisively and said: "Inspector, that story is a lie. You wanted me to tell you all these things. I have admitted all, but I must confess that it is all a lie." Inspector Hunt, who has been laboring with Thompson for days, thought for a moment that the solution of the mystery was pouring from Thompson's lips, but the next moment he realized that Thompson was endeavoring to perpetrate a joke.

Mrs. Tailer Gets Divorce.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Maud Lorillard Tailer of New York, youngest child of the late Pierre Lorillard, has been granted a divorce in the state circuit court at Salem from T. Suffern Tailer. Mrs. Tailer and her maid have had a residence in Sioux Falls since Feb. 11 of this year. The decree was granted upon the allegation of abandonment with intent to desert and that such desertion had existed for more than one year. No provision is made in the decree for alimony, nor is the custody of the child ruled upon. Mrs. Tailer is given the right to assume her maiden name. She and her maid at once departed for New York upon the granting of the decree.

Shot In Their Home.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Allen, highly respected residents of Tampa, were shot and mortally wounded by Manuel Chavez, a Cuban. The shooting occurred at the residence of Allen, on Seventh avenue, in the best residential section of the city. Chavez was seen to enter the house, and in a few moments several pistol shots were heard by the people in the neighborhood. Chavez ran from the house and jumped in a buggy and drove away. Investigation revealed the fact that Allen was shot in three places, and Mrs. Allen was desperately wounded. Physicians say that all the wounds are mortal. Chavez was captured and placed in jail.

Gentleman Thief In Prison.

WINDSOR, Vt., Aug. 15.—Clarence Adams of Chester, who, undetected for upward of twenty years, had plundered mills, stores and residences in his home village, has been brought to the state prison here to serve a sentence of not less than nine nor more than ten years. Adams had confessed to offenses which, his attorney told the court, should all be pressed, would mean a sentence of nearly 100 years. Adams was a prominent and well to do bachelor farmer and had been honored on different occasions by the electors.

Pythians Choose Louisville.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Louisville, Ky., has been chosen as the next place of meeting of the Knights of Pythias supreme lodge. Tracey B. Bangs of Grand Forks, N. D., for the past two years supreme vice chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, was exalted to the supreme chancellorship by the unanimous vote of the supreme lodge.

The Hungarian Wheat Yield.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 15.—The official estimate of the Hungarian wheat yield, based on returns up to Aug. 10, is 166,200,000 bushels. An estimate made July 30 placed the crop at 144,500,000 bushels.

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"Just set me down as one who wishes you young people well, and will do all that lies in his power to see you safely through this trouble."

She fixed her eyes on him for a moment wistfully, and then, with some hesitation, as if asking a favor:

"I would like to write him a long letter, but it would take some time. There is so much that I want to say to him——"

"Then you need not write; there is a way direct and generally better," exclaimed a voice so near them that they both started.

"Dick! you here?" exclaimed the young girl, as the school-teacher stepped out of the shadows.

"Yes, the real article," as he drew her toward him and kissed her.

"There's nothing ghostly about that, is there?" and he held her out arms' length with both hands, smiling as if the shadows of the bars had never separated them.

"Come, you don't seem glad to see me!" as she did not speak.

"Glad? That is a faint word to use. But it all seems so strange that you should be here."

"Strange, but true."

"Then they have set you free?" eagerly.

"No such luck. I freed myself. I could not rest satisfied with sending you a message, when only a few bars stood between me and freedom; so I kicked them out, and here I am. Let us make the most of the opportunity, for it may not occur again."

He paused a moment, and looked around wonderingly; then said: "But you were talking with a man when I came up. Who is he? Where has he gone?"

Job Hendricks had taken advantage of the meeting to slip away in the dark.

CHAPTER IX.

THE PRISONER DECIDES TO RETURN.

Job had left the scene. Hidden from view, he was a delighted watcher of the meeting of the two young people. He seemed to take almost a parental pleasure in witnessing the tender demonstrations of feelings between the lovers, though he had discreetly withdrawn to a distance, where he could not hear what they said to each other. "He seems to be a worthy young man, and she loves him; that is plain and evident," was the thought that ran through his mind. "Such being the case, they can count on my help to make the path of true love run smooth."

He stood in deep thought, making plans for the future. The two young people had drawn away from the house, and now, seated under the big tree, were talking in a low voice.

Job took advantage of their preoccupation to slip away to the path by which he had entered the garden. Since the young man had escaped, it would be well that some one should be on guard, for perhaps the burly constable might come in quest of him, and, stupid as the fellow seemed to be, it would be Henslow's house that he would seek for his prisoner.

The young man's sudden appearance had rather disarranged Job's plans, and it was necessary that he should rearrange them to meet the exigencies of the case.

His meditations were disturbed by hearing his name uttered in a low voice, just as he was passing one of the low windows of the house. The shutters were fastened, but a pale light filtered through the slats. He stopped for a moment, rubbing his nose thoughtfully. "Am I a subject of talk already in this town?" he muttered. "Guess I'll have to look into this. When you're brought up for discussion, Job, it may mean trouble."

He looked at the window, the sill of which was almost on a level with his head, for a moment, and then, reaching out his hands, drew himself up with ease, so that he could look directly into the room. There was no place on the ledge for anything but his fingers, yet, owing to his great strength, he was able to maintain himself in that position with ease, as if he had been standing on the ground. At first it seemed that the room into which he was looking was unoccupied, owing to the dimness of the light which came from a lamp burning on a table in the center. As his eyes became accustomed to the surroundings he gradually made out that there were two men seated near the table, one facing him and one in a big armchair with his back to the window.

When for a moment one of the men leaned forward and he caught a glimpse of a white beard, he knew it was Henslow; as for the other, only the top of his head was visible. The latter was no doubt the person he had seen slipping into the house in such a surreptitious manner.

"I shouldn't wonder if the fellow was an imposter," Henslow was saying, "and I should treat him as such."

"Listeners hear no good of themselves. I think the rule will hold good in this case," Job said to himself, having no doubt that he was the subject of the discussion.

What the lawyer's visitor said he could only make out in part, since the latter spoke in such a low voice. He could distinguish such fragments of sentences as "almost threatened," "seemed sure of his ground," "knew the whole affair."

Henslow was silent for a moment, and took a sip from a glass of wine at his elbow.

"You need have no fear that the visitor was Martin Frale, for he is dead," he said, at length.

"Sure of that?"

"Had it from the prison authorities themselves."

"Then who is this man?" The other raised his voice, and spoke in a more animated way.

Henslow shrugged his shoulders.

"I wish I was able to tell you, because I am glad to do Ellison any service. Must be a fellow-convict to whom Frale communicated the story before he died. No doubt he wants to trade on the information."

"That's likely enough, but he must have the documents in the case to speak so boldly."

"That may all be mere bravado."

"And he would take no money—"

"That is a poser. Didn't want any money?"

"Not a cent, even when it was offered to him."

"That astonishes me—what can the fellow's object be?"

"I'm afraid we shall have to wait and find out," muttered the man with his back to the window.

"And he made no declaration of what he intended to do?" asked the lawyer, after a moment's pause.

"No, nothing of the kind, except that he seems to be interested in the young school-teacher."

"Know him?"

"Says he never saw him but once in his life, but he wants him to be free for some reason or another. Urged Jim to do all he could, and threatened things if he did not."

"That man, whoever he is, will bear watching," was Henslow's comment as he resorted to his glass again.

A chuckle came from the chair where the other was seated.

"Bless you, we don't intend to lose sight of the chap while he is in the neighborhood."

Job clinging to the window, still smiled quietly to himself.

"Then I wasn't wrong in thinking that I was being watched."

He had no chance to hear anything further of what was being said in the room, for the visitor had risen and now moved to the door. The two men stood there for a moment in deep conversation, but though he listened intently, Job could not catch a word of what was being said.

He dropped to the ground from his uncomfortable position, for he was anxious if possible to catch a sight of the visitor when he came out.

With this intention he slipped around to the front of the house and in the shadow waited.

Presently the door opened quietly, a man popped out, his hat pulled down over his eyes so that the eager watcher had no opportunity to get a good glimpse of his face. Then the man stepped into the middle of the road, looked about him for a moment, and set off at a brisk pace down the street.

Job Hendricks had just seen him disappear among the shadows when from the other direction a man suddenly appeared, running and out of breath.

He was a portly individual, and as he came up to where Job was standing the latter recognized him as the fat constable he had seen that day haranguing the people before his house.

Some Timely Gossip from the Realm of the Athletes.

Swimming is Popular

Swimming will never become passe at the summer resorts. This season the little lakes and rivers so much frequented by the resorters have been liberally supplied by Jupiter Pluvius, and there is little danger of many of them "going dry" as was noted last year during the long period of drought. To illustrate how a rainy spell that brings frowns on the face of the farmer may cause laughter wrinkles on the countenance of the city merchant, it is a matter of fact that the big houses have sold more bathing suits this far this season than they did during 1900 and 1901. A great deal of this unusually large sale is attributed to the abundance of water in the resort lakes and the increased desire of the summer beoarders to swim.

No one can tell the anguished father what to do if he sees his baby struggling in the water of a treacherous little lake and he is powerless to swim out to its assistance. But there are thousands of teachers who will provide everybody with the instruction necessary to make swimmers out of those who cannot make progress in the water. Do you want to be able to save life at the summer resort? Do you want to be free from fear when out in a storm? Learn to swim. "The knowledge of the art of swimming is worth more than all the money in the world if you are a long way from shore and there is no one putting out in a boat for you," once remarked Howard F. Brewer, the Pacific coast champion swimmer, while we were swimming together recently. "I believe I would not be afraid to get dropped overboard in the Pacific, 100 miles from shore, if I could be guaranteed that no shark would get me. It is possible for a human being to do so much more in the water than the average man thinks can be done, that some day some powerful swimmer will adopt that scheme—swimming many miles to land—to inspire within the breasts of his fellow men the respect that should be shown for swimming."

Brewer is so well known that a few "pointers" from the champion, to be perused while sitting in a boat at some resort, should be of interest.

"While the teachers will tell about the several distinct steps to be acquired in learning to swim," remarked the "human water rat," as the water polo boys who played with Brewer called the Californian, "it must be remembered that any boy may swim if he falls into water over his head for the first time by simply imitating the motions of a dog who is hurled into the water. Lessons are well enough, but presence of mind is the greatest cork lifebelt, so to speak, that you throw out to a person in deep water. You may watch your teacher go through the movements used in swimming, urging his or her class to follow them before going into the water and you may spend hours in practicing the arm movements, paying strict attention to the injunction to keep the hands flat, palm downwards, to keep the elbows drawn nearly to the sides, to count 'one' and push the hands forward until the arms are fully extended, to turn the hands slightly outward and use a sweeping backward stroke, etc., but I would advise beginners to stop all this laborious work the moment they find they have the confidence that makes swimming easy. Get another teacher and then take up the racing strokes immediately.

A CIVIL SERVICE PROBLEM

When the city fathers of one of the largest municipalities in the United States passed an ordinance making many small parks for the benefit of the children who would use them for playgrounds and athletic grounds, a novel problem in examinations was set for the civil service commission. It was necessary to engage a superintendent or a director of sports who could teach the youngsters how to utilize their evenings and half-holidays in developing their physical makeup.

"Let us have some college strong man," said one of the commissioners. "College strong men are not athletic trainers," maintained another. "They can teach their systems only to ambitious adults."

"Well let us have the Amateur Athletic union officials suggest questions for examination and throw the competition open to all who have had university athletic exjperience," ventured another.

The latter was done, and men who had trained college teams, old footrunners, former gridiron stars, etc., were asked to take the examination. It is worthy of notice that a man who for three years had trained the athletes of two big universities and who for one year was the trainer of some husky material in an agricultural college that won a state championship, only passed fourth in the list of five who took the examination. He got the place on the 60-day appointment plan, which often gives the incompetent man the job ahead of the man who has no "pull," but his examination papers if read off to the parents who send their aspiring youths to the public athletic grounds for instruction would "queer" the old trainer.

"What do you know about the Olympian games?" was one question. The trainer had tried to get an appointment as secretary of one of the many committees and he answered: "Everything." President Furber, of the Olympian Games association, might take a long vacation and engage this man to run the big athletic carnival.

"What muscles are used in climbing?" was another question. "The legs and arms," was the answer given.

"Name the principal muscle of the upper arm," was another question. "The upper arm muscle," was the answer. These and other answers illustrate how even the experienced trainer of 'varsity athletes may fail to impart his information when questioned.

AN ATHLETIC MARVEL

The athletic marvel of the age is a cyclist who is not a champion. He never earned athletic honors in any other line than cycling, and he is 42 years of age. He is riding in cycle races now for the money he can make and soon he will retire to Australia to conduct his two hotels, leaving the supervision of his Lowell (Mass.) realty to friends. William Martin is his name, but everybody who reads knows him as "Plugger Bill." Twenty years ago—so far back that the "safety" was not known and the "Jersey Skeeter," otherwise the redoubtable Arthur Zimmerman, was winning races on the "Star" wheel, this remarkably developed strong young man began to pedal for prizes. Once in awhile he won, but few ever paid any attention to him. He was slow and plodding, hence his name "Plugger."

But it is possible for a man like Martin to have an ambition which may be gratified if perseverance is used.

Martin recently came to this country "in style"—first cabin on a big liner. Eight years ago, when he took ship for Australia with the consuming desire to win the Austral race, with its first prize of $2,000, he went practically as freight. He had quarters between decks. Six winters—the Australian racing season begins in October and ends in April, and the events are contested on asphalt and even grass courses—did "Plugger Bill" go to Melbourne only to be disappointed. No other American ever coveted the Australian race as did Martin. It was persistency personified, this continual effort on his part. Perhaps the fact that there were often 45,000 paid admissions to the inclosure to see the Austral contested had something to do with his ambition to win. For six years defeat had come to the Massachusetts man, but the antipodeans were only preparing themselves for humiliation when they made fun of the "also ran."

Last winter "Plugger Bill" felt that his time had come, and again he went to the far side of the earth to do battle with the Australian cracks. "It's do or die," said Martin, and he wagered his life's savings—$5,000—on himself with the bookmakers, who do a big business in the big throng at the annual event—the Epsom Cycling Derby of the world. His odds were 7 to 1. When he "cleaned up" after riding to victory, he took a check for $40,000 and deposited it in an Australian bank. Most of that money is now invested in the British colony, and Martin is taking his "American vacation."

ON THE DIAMOND.

The game today between the local police team and the Fourth Precinct, of Newark, will commence at 3 o'clock. It will be on Hope Common and not the St. Mary grounds as was first intended.

Baseball games in this vicinity scheduled for tomorrow are as follows: Safe Works against Scotch Plains at Scotch Plains; St. Mary against Clinton Avenue on St. Mary grounds. Both games are to be called at 3:30.

In its baseball notes the New York Sun makes very complimentary mention of the Westfield Ball Club. It says: "The Westfield team is considered the crack of the semi-professional teams hereabouts, having won sixteen out of seventeen games played this season."

Tickets for the All Plainfield-Deaf Mutes' baseball game, Wednesday, are now on sale. Remember the proceeds from this game are to be donated to the King's Daughters' Baby Camp fund. Help swell the amount and at the same time witness the baseball event of the season.

The baseball game between the Scotch Plains team and Safe Works nine on the 'Plains diamond, tomorrow afternoon, will be one of the baseball treats of the season at Scotch Plains. There has always been a pleasant rivalry between the Scotch Plains teams and Plainfield and this, the greatest ball year in ages, is no exception. Both teams are playing good ball and, whichever banner victory perches upon, the fans can rest assured of one of the prettiest games of the season. Game called at 3:45.

A great deal of pressure has been brought to bear upon Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains baseball team, to have the game, tomorrow, with the Safe Works team, of Plainfield, transferred to Plainfield, the main contention being that the team would be a drawing card in this city. Manager Johnston knows that financially the game would be better for the club, but cannot see his way clear to disappoint the lovers of the game in the 'Plains, who have been helping to support the team during the season, by transferring one of the best games of the season to Plainfield.

The Equitable Life series commences at Westfield tomorrow. The Westfields are bound to win the first game and have left no stone unturned to present an almost invincible lineup. It is not certain who will be in the box for Westfield. Walsh, their regular man, is in fine shape, but two other good men will be on hand in case of need. Robertson, of Yale reputation, will be used in one of the games and a leaguer of known ability will be somewhere around. The insurance team has many admirers who look for them to win, and with favorable weather, Westfield will start the series with the largest and most enthusiastic attendance of the season.

What promises to a very exciting game of ball will take place at Garwood Saturday, August 16, on the Garwood Athletic Club grounds, when the Aeolian Athletic Club will cross bats with the Garwood Athletic Club. There has been a great deal of rivalry between these two teams in the past, and since the present management of the Aeolian has taken hold of the team they are determined to have a strong one. They are strengthened very much, since they secured the services of some of the Brooklyn Field Club, and from all reports are going to make it interesting for the Garwoods. However, the Garwoods have something to say about that, and judging from their past work, there should be a good exhibition of ball at Garwood. The lineup will be as follows: Garwood—J. Leister, pitcher; R. Gendalle, catcher; J. Berlin, first base; G. Massey, second base; W. Dodd, third base; W. Pace, shortstop; S. Colwell, left field; W. Kerie, centre field; R. Engel, right field. Aeolian—W. Howell, pitcher; W. Poole, catcher; T. Erwin, first base; A. Poole, second base; T. Albert, third base; J. Lance, shortstop; H. Albert, left field; J. Maloney, centre field; G. Beirworth, right field.

GOLF.

Owing to the absence of many of the best players, the match between the Park Golf Club and the Westfield Golf Club has been postponed until September.

S. L. Magie, who has recently been making a strong showing for the President's cup on the links of the Yountakah Country Club, was the guest Wednesday afternoon at the Park Golf Club of Wm. R. Faber.

The proposed scratch cup at the Park Golf Club has found much favor with the members of that club. It is now planned to give a more elaborate trophy than was first expected and make it for the club championship. The qualifying round will probably be played on the morning of Labor Day and the first round of match play in the afternoon. The second round, semi-finals and the finals will be played on successive Saturdays.

TENNIS.

In the tennis tournament play at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday Dr. Whitford defeated Vail 6-0. A further schedule has now been arranged as follow: This evening Whitford and Rogers Saturday, Moraller and Robbie; Monday, Schomp and Denton.

The absence of so many members on their vacations has prevented the holding of any competitions at the Cedar Brook Tennis Club for the past month. The qualifying rounds for the Officers' cups are still to be played off. One round has been played when Fred T. VanAuken and Vincent B. Miner qualified. The other rounds will probably be played off beginning Labor Day and on the two Saturday afternoons succeeding.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

In preparation for the Labor Day meet at New Brunswick some good racing will be seen at the Plainfield Driving Park tomorrow afternoon. A. C. Vail's "Kenelm" will trot against Charles Brower's "Rover R." "Merritt Wilkes," owned and driven by Edward A. Campbell, Thomas Brantingham's "Cigarette," and John Osborne's "Fairmount Maid," will compete in several heats. Horses owned by Mr. Jenners, New Market, Mr. Kipsey, Somerville, and Daniel Ginna's "Leota C." will also be seen at the track. Owing to the fact that no league games are on for tomorrow it is probable that a large crowd will turn out to see the races.

Driving Trip.

George Olmstead, the well-known horseman of East Millstone, passed through Plainfield yesterday on a driving trip for pleasure. He will drive through the northern part of New Jersey and then across into New York State, where he will stop at many places of interest.

—The Plainfield Business College will reopen its day and night sessions Tuesday, September 2. Prof. N. H. Roberts, who has been away three years, has returned to take charge of the commercial department.

ROOSEVELT EXPECTED.

Will be at Northfield to Address the Moody School There September 1.

The announcement of the programme for the post-conference addresses which are to follow the general conference at Northfield, Mass., has just been made. The conference closes on August 17, and the post-conference addresses begin on the nineteenth and last until September 7. President Roosevelt while on his New England trip will stop off at Northfield on September 1. It is planned to have the President speak in the Auditorium to the Northfield people, and later he will address the 500 students who will be at the young men's school founded by D. L. Moody at Mt. Hermon. The President's visit is most opportune for those who wish to stay over from the general conference, or have postponed their trip to Northfield till the last of August or early part of September. Rev. F. B. Meyer, of London, will give an address each day until August 29, after which other well-known preachers have arranged to speak. The post-conference work is the fifth and last of the Northfield conferences for this year, and its close will end, both in respect to the thousands who have attended and the seeming good accomplished, one of the most remarkable series of religious gatherings ever held.

—At Neuman Brothers tomorrow: Fifty large sized baskets of fancy Delaware peaches of an extra good quality.

—Gus. Force, of East Front street, has accepted a position at Campbell's confectionery store, where he and John Stevens operate the soda fountain.

NEW HOME FOR BAPTISTS

NEW QUARTERS FOR HOME FOR AGED TO BE BUILT AT NEWARK.

Will be Erected on Site Now Occupied by the Home—To Cost $70,000.

Without unnecessary inconvenience to the inmates of the Baptist Home for the Aged, located at 285-291 Roseville avenue, Newark, a new building will be erected as soon as funds are available, on the site now occupied by the present structure. In drawing the plans for the dwelling comfort has been given the precedence and the building will be substantial and attractive both in exterior and interior, and a feature will be sunny, airy rooms. The exact time work will be commenced is problematical, depending altogether upon the increase of the fund devoted to the purpose.

The subject of erecting a new building has been under consideration by those interested in the institution for some time, and recently the matter took tangible shape and plans for the structure were drawn. It will be a three-story-and-attic building and the cost will be approximately $70,000. It will be built in three parts, namely, a central section and two wings, and the latter will contain most of the sleeping apartments. One large enough to accommodate all those at present in the home will be erected first on a plot of ground which has a frontage of fifty feet on Roseville avenue adjacent to the old building. When this has been completed the residents will be transferred to their new quarters and the work of demolishing the old structure will be started.

It is estimated that the task of constructing the next section, which will be the main part of the structure, will take the longest. The portion of the building facing on Roseville avenue will be built of ornamental stone, and the main entrance will be in the centre. When this is completed a wing will be erected on the south side and the whole joined together. After being completed the total frontage of the building will be 167 feet, and it will extend back 200 feet. There will be accommodations for about 100 persons.

In addition to single rooms for the residents, there will be a completely equipped chapel in the central section, and this will be large enough to meet all ordinary requirements. On one of the upper floors there will be an infirmary furnished with the latest medical appliances, and on the ground floor a cosy parlor and reception room will be located. A porch will be erected on each floor so that the weaker and infirm inmates may have the advantage of resting in the open air without being compelled to descend one or more flights of stairs. Throughout the building will be furnished with completeness and particular attention will be paid to the sanitary arrangements.

SUSSEX'S CLAIM.

Member of Board Says State Sanitarium is Not Located Anywhere As Yet.

A strong effort is being made to have the projected State Sanitarium for Consumptives located in Sussex county, the claim being made that the climatic conditions in certain parts of that county are superior to any in the State for the treatment of tuberculosis.

The board of managers of the sanitarium will send a committee to make an other investigation into conditions in Sussex county with a view of giving that place further consideration. It is probable that the board will be ready to report on a site at its meeting to be held in the latter part of September.

Dr. Elmer Barwis, a member of the board, declared that there was no warrant for the statement that a farm had been purchased in Hunterdon county for a site for the hospital. He said that the board had given that section of the State serious consideration, but no purchase has been made, nor was there any certainty that a site would be selected in Hunterdon.

QUEEN TITANIA INVITES.

Arrangements for Baby Parade Festivities at Asbury Park Ready.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 15—Invitations have been issued for the coronation ball of Queen Titania, which is to be the opening feature of next week's baby parade festivities. The invitation takes the form of a royal command from Frank B. Conover, "Lord High Chamberlain." The exhibition of prizes for the baby parade at the Asbury Avenue Pavilion is attracting more and more attention daily, and the big showcase, with its numerous handsome cups, suggests the trophy room of some athletic club.

NEWARK COPS WERE BEATEN

The Famous Fourth Precinct Team Beaten by Plainfield Police Yesterday.

THE SCORE WAS 10 TO 7.

A Thousand People Saw the Great Victory on the Hope Common—It Looked Like an Even Thing at First, But Plainfield Took Lead in Third Never to be Headed.

Newark's finest found something finer in the baseball line yesterday afternoon. Coming to Plainfield with a high flying reputation and with the appearance of being great things, the famous Fourth Precinct team fell down before our own darlings on the force to the tune of 10 to 7. And now, Plainfield is wearing feathers in its cap and its coppers are thrusting out their chests another inch or two on patrol.

To tell the story of the great game on Hope Common would require many columns of printed words. Praise of Plainfield might occupy long, glowing paragraphs. But the public was there, to the extent of 1,000 people, and the glories of the guardians have already been spread far and wide throughout city and State. Going into the battle with suspicion and something of fear, they emerged with smiles and victory.

Pitching may be said to have been responsible for the fact that the game was a good one to look at. Whatever may have been the possibilities of the fielders on each side, the fact that the batsmen were unable to do any heavy connecting with the twisters sent from the box made the afternoon easy for most of the players. Errors, however, were among the glaring features of the game. As nearly as could be calculated, some twenty-six misplays were recorded, Plainfield carrying off the laurels with sixteen.

Winn pitched a good game for the home team, having eleven strike-outs among the Newarkers, with two more who gained first because of Conroy's in ability to hold the ball at the critical moment. Jack had several other passed balls, although he redeemed himself by good work in general throughout the rest of the game. Carr, the ex-League twirler who was in the points for Newark, fanned thirteen, also having strikes not caught by his back-stop. "Carrie Nation" Higgins took all the medals in the game for striking out, doing the trick on each of his four times at bat, although reaching first once because the catcher dropped the ball.

In the way of hits, the visitors had only four legitimate ones, with two doubtfuls which might be called scratches. Plainfield did slightly better, having eight, four of which were two baggers. Bolmer and McCarthy did good stick work. Winn scored four of the ten tallies for Plainfield, being credited with three stolen bases. McGinley also deserves special mention for good work at the bat and in the field.

After the third inning, when the locals took the lead by scraping together three runs, they were never headed. The fans had a slight attack of palpitation in the eighth and ninth, over the successful efforts of the visitors to add to their score, but fortunately the game was ended before they had come any nearer than the margin of three runs shown in the score of 10 to 7.

Then followed the dinner given to the defeated team at the Waldorf Hotel. It was a huge success. All the ball players, together with a few of the city officials, gathered about the tables and regaled themselves with the food and drink provided. Speeches and general jollity occupied two hours or more before the Newarkers, happy at the hospitality of the force, if defeated on the diamond, took passage for home.

Following is the score and summary of the game:

TO GET HEALTH.

Opportunity Offered by the King's Daughters for Sick Child Unable to Take a Vacation.

Ever since the King's Daughters' Camp on Johnston's Drive was opened July 14, many children of the poor of this city have been benefitted by a few days at the camp and under the care of Miss Evans, a trained nurse the sick children have regained their health. Monday Miss Olive DeLany, who was formerly the nurse of the King's Daughters, will take charge of the work, Miss Evans having resigned on account of an important surgical case.

It is the desire of the City Union of King's Daughters that all of the sick who cannot afford another outing shall have the opportunity of spending a time at the camp. If such persons will leave their names and addresses at the Relief Association rooms, also the name of their physician, they will be called upon and if possible will be taken to the camp. During the absence of Miss Lillian A. Force, president of the City Union of King's Daughters, and Mrs. Frank Jones, chairman of the camp committee, the work of the camp will be in charge of Miss Mabel Woodruff, of 215 East Second street.

HOPE CHAPEL'S GREAT DAY

FIFTEEN HUNDRED EXCURSIONISTS START FOR THE SHORE.

Great Crowd of Excursionists Departed From Grant and North Avenues Stations.

Fifteen hundred people accompanied the Hope chapel excursion to Asbury Park this morning. The North Avenue depot was crowded with anxious waiters for the train previous to 8 o'clock. When it finally steamed in to the depot more than half of the sixteen cars were carrying excursionists that had been taken on at Grant avenue. In fact, the majority boarded the train at that point. The two crowds combined made by long odds the largest excurison that has been pulled out of Plainfield this year. Although Old Sol did not shine his brightest this morning, Jupiter Pluvius was not unpropitious and kept the floodgates above well closed in spite of the sulkiness of the sun. The excursionists are having an ideal day at the seaside. This breaks another record.

The committee in charge of the crowd were Henry C. Squires, John Cose, George Firstbrook, Benjamin Evans, Charles Dixon, H. D. Thompson, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Brown. The train was in charge of Conductor F. O. Webster, of the borough.

SPECIAL PROGRAMME.

For Tomorrow's Session of the Park Ave. Baptist Sunday-School.

The session of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. The lesson will be taught from the desk by George Krause, of Cranford. There will be cornet solos by DeWitt Frazee and cornet accompaniment throughout the service. There will also be special music by a vocal quartette consisting of Miss Etta Cuming, Miss Adelaide Runyon, Harry Cuming and George F. Watts.

Those in charge will present a souvenir programme to each person present and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend this interesting session. There will be closing remarks by Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, of Lowell, Mass., who will also preach at the regular morning service.

Extensive Alterations.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to Mrs. Ruth L. Lounsbury, of LaGrande avenue, for extensive alterations to her dwelling house on that street. John A. Tompkins and Grosvenor Atterbury are the architects, and Charles Johnson the contractor.

May Macadamize.

In view of the increasing travel between Millstone and Finderne, Bound Brook and Somerville, there is some talk that the road running between those points is to be macadamized. This has never been done and the improvement would be greatly appreciated.

Gospel Service.

Rev. T. V. Parker, of Babylon, L. I., will conduct a Gospel service at the East Third Street chapel, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Road Repairing.

The main road between New Brunswick and East Millstone is being repaired in several places where the macadam is broken.

COMMENTS ON CITY'S NEW SEWAGE WORKS

Jersey City Journal's Editorial Notice of Expert's Report of Beds Just Completed.

NOTES ITS IMPORTANCE.

THE WORKS DO ALL THAT IS REALLY REQUIRED OF THEM.

The Purification is Satisfactory as Long as Streams Are Not Used for Drinking Water Purposes—The Journal's Comments.

The report of the expert of the State Sewage Commission has been prepared and will be submitted at the next meeting of the commission. It is a subject, not only of interest to Plainfield but to every community in the State. The Jersey City Journal comments editorially at length on the report. It says:

"The disposal of sewage is a civic problem of the greatest importance, where the population of any district becomes large or concentrated. The necessities of the case require a speedy and sure removal of the objectionable features. Unless the water is to be subsequently used for potable purposes, the removal of all putresible matter would be a sufficient treatment of the sewage for all practical purposes, as it is the decay of parts of the sewage that causes the filth and the smell.

"In many places experiments are being conducted to learn what can be done in the line of purification, and especially purification by what is known as a septic tank. These experiments are being conducted on a large scale in England and at a number of places in this country, notably in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

"The septic tank is simply a tank for the reception of sewage, in which it is allowed to stand for a number of hours, for the purpose of allowing bacteria, which naturally develop in the sewage, time to act on the organic solid matter. By their action this matter is reduced to a solution or to a gas. By allowing the sewage afterwards to pass through contact filters, beds of broken stone or sand and gravel, many of the bacteria are removed and the effluent is purified to a large degree. The results, however, are always problematical and little is known as to why the results vary in different places and at different times. The experimental stations are being maintained for the purpose of learning, if possible, the reasons for the variations

"Under the direction of the State Sewerage Commission, the city of Plainfield built a septic tank and contact filter beds last year and it was placed in operation during the winter to relieve the condition arising from intermittent filter beds, which were unsuccessfully in use. This has given the opportunity for observations, in New Jersey, of the septic action, and the State Sewerage Commission has had analyses made to show what is being accomplished. This will be of interest to the city of Plainfield, which has spent more than forty thousand dollars on the work, and it will also be of great interest to all connected with sewage work.

"The results show a great deal of variation from day to day which is not explained, but it shows that a bacteriological purification of 58 per cent. is accomplished by the septic tank, and of 29 per cent. more in the filter beds, leaving only 13 per cent. of the original bacteria in the effluent. This is not as good results as are obtained in many places, and as the percentage is much higher some days it suggests that a better understanding of the plant will produce a higher degree of removal of bacteria. The fact that intestinal bacteria are not entirely removed by the treatment shows that the resultant would be dangerous for drinking water. The chemical analyses show a great proportion of the solids dissolved by the treatment, but still to a less degree than is obtained elsewhere. The putresible matter, however, was entirely removed, which destroys the noticeable effects of the sewage on the water into which it is discharged.

"The discharge of the sewage at Plainfield flows into Green brook and thence into the Raritan river. The purification accomplished will probably be satisfactory for such streams, but would not be in a drinking water supply. The work of the commission on these lines is of scientific and local importance and will aid in the selection of plans for other municipalities which may need sewerage."

PLANNING SHIP CANAL ACROSS NEW JERSEY

Next Congress Will be Asked for An Appropriation to Build Such a Waterway.

NATURAL ROUTE EXISTS.

START FROM BORDENTOWN ON DELAWARE TO RARITAN AT SAYREVILLE.

Line Proposed Passes Close to City of Trenton and Also Includes Milltown, Two Miles From New Brunswick—The Plans.

Preparations are quietly making in New Jersey, and particularly in Trenton, to bring pressure to bear upon the next Congress for an appropriation for the proposed ship canal across this State. The effort failed at the last session, not because anybody doubted the feasibility and great importance of the canal, nor because any great influence was arrayed against it, but simply because the Nicaragua canal scheme and other great matters left no time for the adequate consideration of this project.

The friends of the enterprise will move upon the next Congress like an army with banners. The New Jersey contingent will be led by Edmund C. Hill and E. M. Coffield, representing the Trenton board of trade. Mr. Hill has taken a lively and influential interest in the project from the beginning.

It was practically his plan, evolved after a long and careful study of the topography of the region across New Jersey the canal will need to traverse from maps in the office of the State geological survey, that was finally adopted after its submission to Major Hutton, the consulting engineer, who elaborated and perfected it.

The route, after leaving Bordentown and Trenton, follows a line nearly parallel to the Pennsylvania Railroad, and on the southeasterly side thereof to a point near Monmouth Junction, where it deflects easterly to avoid a trap dyke; passes down the valley at Lawrence Brook to Parson's dam, which forms a long pool or lake, constituting a link in the canal; thence northeasterly, on higher ground, but avoiding the outcroppings of red shale, to the Raritan river at Sayreville. The total distance from Philadelphia to the ocean near Sandy Hook is seventy-eight miles; to the Battery at New York, ninety-two miles, while the distance by way of Cape May and the ocean are about 260 and 274 miles, respectively.

Across that portion of the State of New Jersey, by the route proposed for the ship canal, being thirty-one and a half miles long, there exists a topographic trough or depression, having a general elevation above the sea level of from sixty to 100 feet. It would run a short distance outside of the corporate limits of Trenton, but the plan embraces a branch into the city and perhaps up the Delaware a few miles.

It strikes Lawrence station, Princeton Junction, Milltown, about two miles from New Brunswick, ending at Sayreville, on the Raritan. All of these places, including Bordentown and Trenton, would feel the stimulus of being transformed into seaports. The commercial and industrial possibilities that lurk in the scheme are almost limitless.

United States Senators Dryden and Kean, and the delegation of ten members of the house of representatives will be asked to push this enterprise.

If they unite their forces and use their utmost influences in its behalf it may be carried forward to at least a more advanced and commanding position.

BOYS' ORCHESTRA.

Latest Project to Arouse Interest in Boys' Department of Y. M. C. A.

Since Kenneth Robbie, the recently appointed boys' secretary, has taken charge of that branch of the work at the Y. M. C. A., there has been an increased interest among the members in various lines of work. The most recent departure of the juniors is a movement to organize a boys' orchestra. That their efforts will be successful there can be little doubt. The services of Martin Korff have been secured and he has promised to aid in the project. A meeting is called for Monday evening, when some steps will be taken to give the contemplated move definite shape.

On Half Hour Headway.

The trolley cars between Bound Brook and New Brunswick are now run under a half-hour headway.

ASBURY'S GREAT FETE WILL BEGIN MONDAY

Baby Parade and Children's Carnival Starts With Arrival of Queen Titania,

THE PARADE NEXT DAY.

FAIRY FESTIVAL WILL BE IN THE AUDITORIUM ON WEDNESDAY.

Miss Rhoda Atkins, of Asbury Park, Will be the Fairy Queen—Her Attendants—The Parade and Its Divisions—The Details.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 16—Arrangements for the annual baby parade and children's carnival are completed and with favorable weather the event this year promises to be the most interesting since its inception in 1890 For two months President H. B. Ayres and his colleagues on the carnival commission have labored assiduously perfecting details and now appearances indicate that their labor will be crowned with success. The carnival will open Monday night, with the arrival of Titania, queen of Fairyland, who will be tendered the freedom of the city and proclaimed monarch of its thousands of children until the close of the fairy festival on Monday night.

Miss Rhoda Atkins, a beautiful young resident of the Park, will be the queen and among her royal attendants will be: Miss Ella Marie King, of this city; Miss Ada Davis, of Philadelphia; Miss Mary A. Davis, of Pittsburg; Miss Edythe Hill Armstrong, of New York, and Miss Esther Schaan Ely, of Newark.

A grand ball or queen's court reception in honor of the royal visitors has been arranged by the proprietor of the Coleman House and many distinguished guests have been summoned to attend it.

In the parade on Tuesday afternoon it is expected at least one thousand children will be in line. It will be under the direct supervision of President Ayres, Grand Marshal Claude V. Guerin and the following staff: David Harvey, Jr., Randolph Ross, Frank L. Tuttle, J. E. Gill and W. D. Conger.

The parade will be in seven divisions, arranged as follows:

First—Baby coaches.

Second—Express wagons with ponies or drawn by children.

Third—Go-carts.

Fourth—Doll coaches.

Fifth—Children costumed.

Sixth—Allegorical floats and novelties.

Seventh—Pony turnouts.

Handsome prizes have been received and will be awarded to each class together with special prizes for children entered from the most remote sections and twins and triplets. The awards will be made at the fairy festival in the auditorium on Wednesday evening. Elaborate preparations have been made for this event including eleven living pictures, especially arranged for this event by prominent metropolitan artists. More than a hundred prominent young women, residents and visitors from various sections will participate, and the spectacle promises to be a magnificent one.

WON BY BURR.

Ping-Pong Tournament in Boys' Department of Y. M. C. A.

The ping-pong tournament for the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. came to a close yesterday afternoon. The contest was won by Burr, with Long second and Aalholm third. Last evening the players sat down to a spread in the boys' room and enjoyed a social hour over the refreshments. During the afternoon they had elaborately decorated the walls with bunting and American flags. A merry time was spent in speechmaking, and songs were sung by several of the boys.

Barn Burned Down.

The fire department was called out at 2:30 this morning for a barn on fire in the rear of a vacant lot on Lyman place. The barn, which belonged to Mrs. Cox, was burned to the ground. It was almost totally destroyed before the alarm was turned in by a man employed at the Safe Works. The damage amounted to about $200. While the alarm box worked properly the whistle did not sound the alarm.

'Phone Connection for Bloomsbury.

Within a few days Bloomsbury, Hunterdon county, will have telephone connection with the outside world.

REINHART WON.

Defeated Findlay S. Douglass in the Open Tournament at Manchester, Vt.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Manchester, Vt., August 16—The contestants in the open tournament for the first President Isham cup, now in progress on the Ekwanok Country Club links, had fair weather for the second round at match play, yesterday. Large galleries followed the two principal matches over the course. Nearly all of the matches of the morning were well contested.

The surprise of the morning was the defeat of Findlay S. Douglas by F. O. Reinhart by 1 up. The former champion fought every inch of the way and displayed nerve in recovering after he had started off poorly. Reinhart played magnificent golf. Their cards follow.

Reinart:

Out	5	5	5	5	5	4	6	4	6	—45
In	4	4	4	2	4	3	5	4	5	—35—80

Douglas:

Out	6	6	4	4	4	4	4	3	6	—41
In	5	5	6	3	4	3	5	4	5	—40—81

F. O. Reinhart, in his match against C. B. Cory, failed to mainain his morning form and, playing without his usual dash, allowed the Bostonian to beat him by 2 up. His card showed an 82.

THE END CAME SUDDENLY

RICHARD S. FISHER STRICKEN AT HIS HOME IN DUNELLEN.

Train Despatcher and Freight Agent Died Very Suddenly Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 16—Richard S. Fisher, aged thirty-five years, train despatcher and freight agent at the local station of the New Jersey Central, died very suddenly at his home in this place between 10 and 10:30 o'clock last night.

He was enjoying his usual good health and retired at 9 o'clock feeling perfectly well. Soon after 10 o'clock he awakened his wife and she hastened to his bedside to learn that he was gasping for breath. He was assisted to the window where he might get more air. In the meantime Dr. Brakeley was sent for, but he was out. He went to the Fisher home as soon as he returned but Mr. Fisher was then dead. Heart trouble was the cause of death.

Mr. Fisher was born at Hopewell, N. J., where his folks still reside. He was given the position of general station agent at Dunellen, succeeding Charles English, who was promoted. He held the position about three years. He was generally well-liked and looked after the business of the railroad in an efficient and thorough manner.

He was a past master of Atlas Lodge, F. and A. M., of Westfield, and a member of Jerusalem Chapter, No. 26, R. A. M., of Plainfield. He is survived by a wife and two children, a boy and a girl.

HAD THEIR CHOICE.

But Prizes Were Wrapped Up and It Was All Guesswork—Euchre at Park Avenue Hotel.

Prizes for all the participants, with the delightful uncertainty as to the nature of the trophy, made the package euchre party at the Park Avenue Hotel last evening a source of interest and enjoyment to the many guests. Eight tables, with thirty-two contestants, marked the evening's play, which was featured with the usual social accompaniments.

Each player paid a nominal sum, which covered the cost of the favors. These embraced fancy articles of every description, but all carefully wrapped, so that the recipients were in ignorance of the prize until the parcel had been opened.

First choice in the selection of the packages went to the high tally cards. Mrs. Gordon Cameron and Mrs. Henry C. Stothoff made the best scores among the women, while the men were headed by George E. Dewey and Mr. Howell.

Four Bids for Carrying Mail.

Postmaster Elias H. Bird has received four bids from persons who desire to carry the mail between the postoffice and railroad station, and the same have been forwarded to Washington, where they will be opened by the postal authorities. Bids were again advertised for on account of the notice of David Martin's resignation.

NELSONS HEAR OF FAIRS' DEATH

Mother of Mrs. Fair and Her Son Prepare to Go West to Look After Interests.

MRS. H. NELSON TALKS.

Relatives Who Are Likely to be Affected by Mrs. Fair's Will—Her Half Brother Declares That She Provided for Her Family—What Mrs. Nelson Says.

Between ten and fifteen millions is the bagatelle of fortune which is the prospective legacy of some twenty-five persons more or less closely related to Mrs. Charles L. Fair, who, with her husband, was killed in an automobile accident near Evreux, France, on Thursday. Of all these interested parties, those most intimately concerned are residents of this section, chiefly at New Market, the former home of the dead woman. Even if the Fair millions be disposed of in some other way, owing to the technicalities of the law, about $350,000 of Mrs. Fair's private holdings will assuredly follow the terms of the will which bequeathed her property to her relatives.

With the shock of the sudden and awful death of Mrs. Fair came also the bewildering possibility from the news of the fortune which she left. Plans for taking the matter into the courts if necessary have already been made by the departure of Mrs. Hannah Nelson, the mother, and her son, Abram, for California.

News of her daughter's death reached Mrs. Nelson yesterday while on a visit to another daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Bunnell, of Union. The mother was almost prostrated with grief. Her story of the remarkable rise in the family fortunes through the marriage of the actress daughter to the California millionaire was full of motherly affection for the girl who had done so much for her family. She praised "Carrie" highly for all that she had done, showing that Mrs. Fair had always retained her close relationship with her own people, in spite of the changed circumstances in life.

Abram G. Nelson, of New Market, who had always been made a confidant by his half sister, Mrs. Fair, stated yesterday when seen by a Press reporter, that he and his mother, Mrs. Hannah Nelson, would start for California, Sunday morning, in response to a telegram from the lawyer in San Francisco who always had charge of the unfortunate woman's affairs. Until then, he stated, he did not know what action he would pursue in regard to the will but nothing would be consented to by him that would not be sanctioned by his relatives. He surmised that he would be absent at least a month.

The relatives of Mrs. Fair in this vicinity who are likely to be mentioned in her will are her mother, Mrs. Hannah Nelson, Abram G. Nelson and William B. Smith, of New Market; Mrs. Joshua Leonard, of Caldwell, Mrs. George Bunnell, of Union, Charles Smith, of Colorado, and Frank Smith, of Tennessee.

Speaking of Mrs. Fair, Mr. Nelson said that she always had a premonition that she would meet with asudden or violent death. She often mentioned it but supplemented the remark with the statement that in case such a thing should come to pass, that all her relatives would be taken care of. She left minute instructions with Mr. Nelson as to what he should do the moment he heard of her death and these he has been carrying out.

Attorney Charles J. Haggerty, of San Francisco, announces this morning that he has found the last will of Mrs. Charles Fair in a safe deposit vault. He refuses to make known the contents of the document. This is the will in which it is presumed Mrs. Fair left her individual fortune to her relatives in New Jersey.

Endeavorers Still Meet.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will meet as usual at 7:30 Sunday evenings, the notice that the services would be discontinued during August being a mistake. The topic will be, "The Life of Faith."

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Johnston, of Summit avenue, will spend next week at Asbury Park. The following week will be divided between Hackettstown and Easton, Pa. At the latter place they will visit Mr. Johnston's mother.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The taking over of many of the roads by the county and the consequent transferring of the expense of maintenance from the borough or township to the county is having its effect on the county tax rate. When the people realize that no matter whether the township, county or State takes control of the road the public has to pay the cost of maintenance just the same, there will probably be a reaction against promiscuous road building, but in the meantime the community is being greatly benefitted by the improvements, which are making local travel comfortable and economical.

It is well to keep in mind that it is not so much the amount of the tax as what one receives in return that constitutes high taxes and low taxes, and we believe roads are a good investment.—Asbury Park Press.

The announcement from Trenton that there are ten women already in the race for appointment as deputy factory inspector is not surprising, but it must be disquieting for Governor Murphy, who, if reports are to be believed, has not yet decided that he cares to select a woman for the vacant position. Evidently the first thing necessary is to bring the Governor to a realizing scene of the importance of recognizing the sex in filling the place. No better way of accomplishing this purpose could be devised than by the formation of a club by the aspirants. With ten names on the charter list, a Would-be Deputy Factory Inspector Woman's Club would be sure to attract new members, and the organization could be strengthened in time to ask for admission to the New Jersey State Federation of Woman's Clubs at its coming fall gathering. With the federation supporting the new club, a leverage might be secured on Governor Murphy which would pry loose the appointment.

Some of the half-score of applicants for the place are already familiar with club work, being members of old-established organizations of women, and it behooves them to take the initiative in this step, which promises to be of such profound importance to the struggling members of their sex. By working together in a club, of course, personal ambition will be made subservient to the good of the mass of working women and girls, and Governor Murphy could be the more easily convinced of the entire personal disinterestedness of the members.—Newark News.

John S. Johnston, manager of the carpet department at Woodhull & Martin's store, will leave Monday on his annual vacation.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

NEW SYSTEM WORKS WELL WITH WORKMEN

Classified Assessments Have Gone Into Effect in Local Lodges of A. O. U. W.

ADVANTAGES OF PLAN.

IT REDUCES THE POSSIBLE NUMBER OF ASSESSMENTS LEVIED.

No Bad Results Felt by the Local Lodges Which Have Only Lost One Member Since the Plan Has Been in Operation.

Five hundred Plainfield members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, together with thousands from other parts of New Jersey, have been watching with much interest the workings of the new plan of classified assessments, which went into effect throughout the State last month. Other Grand Lodge jurisdictions have tried the new scheme within the past six years with much success, and the outlook is for a similar result in this State.

What distinguishes the new system from that formerly in vogue is the varying scale of assessments instead of the level one, the same for all ages. Heretofore, the man of fifty years of age paid the same amount for a death as the young man of twenty-one. Now, in recognition of the fact that the older man is a greater risk to carry, he is compelled to pay a proportionate amount. Yet, even with the increase, he secures his insurance at a much cheaper rate than he could elsewhere.

Chief among the advantages of the new plan, however, is the reduction in the possible number of assessments levied. The number is now limited to twelve, after which application may be made to the national organization for relief. Under the old plan, last year's assessments in New Jersey amounted to twenty-four, and in the first six months of this year, thirteen had already been recorded. The disparity thus shown is practically offset by the amounts to be paid. The man who paid for twenty-four deaths last year, providing he was less than forty years old, contributed more than he will in the future under the twelve assessment, classified. Over the forty year mark, the member pays slightly more than before.

Owing to the increasing average age of membership, and the consequent enlargement of monthly assessments because of the growing number of deaths, the new plan was proposed as a means for recruiting the ranks of the order with young blood. Adopted at the instance of the national jurisdiction by the Grand Lodge of Illinois in 1896, the system proved so successful as to be followed in other states in rapid succession, until today there are only three States of the forty in which Grand Lodges are in operation where the classified assessment is not being used with the best results. The young men are being drawn into the order, because they are no longer frightened off by the bugbear of a dying membership, for which two and three assessments a month, under the former system, were the natural prospect.

Plainfield's two lodges, Columbia and Central, have no fault to find with the system. The members recognize the merits of the plan, and they expect to gain by its introduction. Only two members have been dropped from the Plainfield rolls since July 1, while four in one lodge was the record of June, when the level assessment was yet in operation.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

Sale of Delinquent Lands for Unpaid Taxes and Assessments.

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

JULY 26, 1902.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, and by the direction of the Common Council of said City, will expose for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, (but not for less than the amount due from the same, as appears in the following schudule, with interest and costs) on Friday, the twenty-ninth day of August, A. D., 1902, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day at the said Collector's Office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said City, certain lots, tracts and parcels of land situated in the First, Second, Third and Fourth Wards of said City, upon which the taxes and assessments have remained unpaid for the space of two years from and after the time when they were due and payable.

This sale is made under the provisions of the 13th Section of an Act entitled, "An Act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in Cities of this State, and imposing and levying a tax, assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to future taxation and assessment," passed March 30, 1886, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the lands to be sold may be obtained at the office of the subscriber on any week day prior to the day of the sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following list contains the lot and block numbers of the lots, tracts and parcels of land to be sold in pursuance of this advertisement, as they appear on the official assessment maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, together with a statement of the Wards of the City wherein said lands are respectfully situated, and the amount due from each of said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot or parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest as indicated, and also its proportionate share of the costs of this sale, which is hereby estimated at Three Dollars for each item of arrearage thereon.

All lots so sold will be purchased subject to all taxes and assessments levied thereon subsequent to November 23th, 1899.

GOLDEN EAGLES TO PARADE

SESSION OF GRAND CASTLE OF NEW JERSEY TO MEET AT TRENTON.

Will Meet There on Labor Day—A Parade in Full Uniform to be Held in the Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, August 16—There will be held in this city Labor Day a session of the Grand Castle of New Jersey, Knights of the Golden Eagle.

The session will be held in the rooms of the local castle in the Ribsam building.

There will be a parade through the streets in full uniform in the evening.

A local committee has been appointed to arrange with the three castles of this city to place in the parade three floats representing the order.

Adjutant General A. L. Clark will act as grand marshal. At the head of the line will be an escort of police which will probably be followed by a guard of honor composed of the Trenton companies of the Second Regiment of the National Guard, followed by Lieutenant General Harry P. Reinicke and members of staff, with visiting officers from Pennsylvania.

The First Regiment of Pennsylvania, under Colonel Murray, will aid their Jersey brotehrs in making this a grand event. Next in line will be the commanderies of New Jersey. The above will comprise the first division of the parade, which will be headed by a brass band of twenty men.

The second division of the parade will be composed of the castles of this State and will also be headed by a brass band.

The women of the order will be in carriages and will prepare a banquet for the members at the castle head quarters.

The grand castle will be banqueted at the Trenton House by the reception committee.

FREQUENT DEATH REPORTS.

President Cables Instructions Regarding Philippine Casualties.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The president yesterday gave orders that hereafter the names of the enlisted men of the army who die in the Philippines be cabled to this country once in every two weeks. When the volunteer army was in the archipelago, it was the custom to cable the casualties, but on the withdrawal of that army the practice was discontinued.

The subject was discussed while the president was entertaining a number of visitors at luncheon yesterday. Among those who sat at his table were Major Generals H. C. Corbin and S. B. M. Young, Henry Loomis Nelson, the author; Jacob A. Riis of New York, Robert A. Morris, chairman of the New York county Republican committee; former Governor David R. Francis of Missouri, president of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company; Henry M. Warren of Philadelphia, son of Bishop Warren of the Methodist church, and Congressman Mercer of Nebraska. The subject of cabling the names of the dead soldiers was broached by Mr. Riis. He made the point that under the present system the relatives of enlisted men who die in the Philippines are kept in ignorance of this fact for eight or ten weeks, while the families of officers who succumb there are informed at once. The president was greatly interested in the matter and as soon as it was explained to him ordered General Corbin to instruct General Chaffee, at Manila, as above stated.

Secretary of the Treasury Shaw was the president's guest at dinner. He is en route to his summer home at Thompson's Point, Charlotte, Vt., and, desiring to see the president for a few hours, he accepted an invitation to dine with him.

Bishop O'Gorman of Sioux Falls, S. D., who was in Rome during the progress of Governor Taft's negotiations with the Vatican regarding the friars' lands in the Philippines, will be the president's guest at dinner tonight. It is understood that he is the bearer of a letter to President Roosevelt from the pope as well as a present to Mr. Roosevelt from his holiness.

Typographical Convention.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—The International Typographical union, which has been in session here all the week, has disposed of more than 300 propositions for changes in its laws, as well as many resolutions. The spirit of the convention was most emphatically shown in the adoption of a resolution against socialism. Max Hayes of Cleveland had been elected as a delegate of the International Typographical union to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor, and delegates claim that they did not know he was a socialist until after he was elected, and for this reason a strong resolution of instructions was adopted. The following is the resolution referred to: "Resolved, That our delegates to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor do not work or vote for any proposition that has for its object the placing of the American Federation of Labor on record as advocating socialism or any other political idealism."

Savings and Loan Insolvent.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 16.—Vice Chancellor Reed filed an opinion yesterday in which he held the Republic Savings and Loan association of Newark, with branches throughout the state, to be insolvent and announced his intention to appoint a receiver to wind up the affairs of the concern. The receiver will be named in a day or two. In the meantime the association is restrained from doing any business. The application for the appointment of a receiver was made some time ago by the banking and insurance department after examiners of that department had found the company's assets to be $625,695 and its liabilities $695,166.

Havana Very Healthy.

HAVANA, Aug. 16.—The mortality in this city for the month of May was 588, June 540 and July 584. May was the last month under the American sanitary health officers. The increase in July was due to typhoid caused by the breaking of the main pipe of the aqueduct. No case of yellow fever or of smallpox was reported. There were four cases of typhoid in May, nine in June and twenty-three in July. Dr. Carlos Finley, chief health officer of Havana, shows that the sanitary conditions are of the best.

Peasants Riot In Sicily.

ROME, Aug. 16.—A serious peasant riot has occurred at Palagonia, Sicily, where great distress prevails. One soldier was killed in an encounter with the rioters, and several soldiers and peasants were wounded.

NOTED JURIST DEAD

Luther R. Marsh, Once a Partner of Webster.

FIFTY-TWO YEARS LEADER AT THE BAR

Deceased Also a Firm Believer In Spiritualism and Was the Dupe of the Notorious Mme. Diss De Bar.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Luther R. Marsh, the noted spiritualist, once the law partner of Daniel Webster and for years one of the foremost jurists of New York state, is dead of old age.

He was in his ninety-first year.

The funeral services will be held here on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be on Tuesday in Greenwood cemetery.

Luther R. Marsh was born in 1813 in Pompey, N. Y. By his ability and industry he pushed ahead into a law office. He was admitted to the bar when yet almost a youth and soon earned a reputation for handling successfully most difficult cases.

He settled in New York in 1841 and soon became known as an able advocate. Prominent law firms vied with each other to secure his advice as associate in famous cases.

Daniel Webster on retiring from President Tyler's cabinet entered his firm, styled Marsh & Sturtevant, where he remained until elected to the senate in 1845.

For fifty-two years Mr. Marsh held his place as a leader in the bar. He was for a long time president of the park commission and was for several terms a vice president of the Union league, of which he was one of the founders.

In Mr. Marsh's home in Fifth avenue he frequently entertained the notorious Mme. Ann Odelia Diss De Bar, who was sent to prison later for her part in the spiritualistic picture swindle by which he was deceived for years. He believed implicitly in her power.

In 1888 Mr. Marsh said his eyes were opened to Mme. Diss De Bar's character. He found many of her stories false and that he had been deceived by the medium. These disclosures and the ridicule that followed estranged him from friends of a lifetime, and he finally resolved to leave the city. He prepared to make his home on Lake Erie and sent on his household goods.

Among the many mediums who continued to besiege his home after the imprisonment of Mme. Diss De Bar was Mrs. Clarissa Huyler of Middletown, N. Y. He was invited to visit her home. He accepted, intending to remain only a few days, but he never returned to New York nor continued his journey to his country home on Lake Erie.

Bitter Attacks on Palma.

HAVANA, Aug. 16.—During the last few days several Havana newspapers have been making violent onslaughts upon the chief executive of the republic, accusing him of incompetence, ignorance and weakness in not having as yet done anything useful for the country. The Lucha claims that President Palma's promises to treat the various elements in Cuba alike have not been kept and declares that what the executive wants is to govern without law and to ignore the constitution. The paper says that in spite of the repeated requests of congress President Palma has not yet presented the budget.

Severe Storm at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 16.—Thirty minutes of inky darkness preceded one of the worst storms of the year in this city. The wind blew at the rate of fifty-eight miles an hour, and nearly an inch of rain fell in fifteen minutes, while the temperature dropped 20 degrees in as many minutes. Many telephones were burned out by lightning, and shade trees were blown down in all parts of the city. Street car traffic was interrupted in several places for more than an hour. Several residences in the suburbs were badly damaged, but no fatalities have been reported.

Turks and Bulgarians In a Fight.

VIENNA, Aug. 16.—Local newspapers publish reports of a sanguinary fight between two battalions of Turkish infantry under the command of Nedim Pasha and a band of Bulgarian-Macedonian revolutionists commanded by an ex-Bulgarian army officer named Stojanoff. The engagement occurred near Uskub, European Turkey. The revolutionists were cut to pieces, and the Turks had many men killed and wounded.

Three Killed by Explosion.

ANNISTON, Ala., Aug. 16.—While blasting a grade on the Eastern Alabama railroad forty miles south of Anniston Foreman Johnson of Birmingham and two negro members of the construction crew were instantly killed by a premature explosion of dynamite. The men had finished preparing a blast when the explosion occurred.

Giant's Remains Found.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—Jacob Burk of Bromley, Ky., a suburb of Cincinnati, while at work in the sand pits near Bromley unearthed the skeleton of a man of gigantic proportions. Further excavating discovered two more skeletons of the same size.

BRIEF EXCITEMENT AT SHENANDOAH

What Might Have Been a Serious Disturbance Brought to Naught by the Prompt Action of the State Guard.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 16.—There was an outbreak last night right under the nose of the troops in camp, and for a time it looked as though serious trouble would occur. The disorder was the result of a mob chasing an alleged unfair workman near the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company's washery in the southeastern part of the town.

There were fifty or sixty men in the mob. As they chased the man up the railroad, throwing stones at him, the night watchman of the washery, Anthony Flinn, tried to rescue the man. The watchman was promptly thrown into the creek running parallel with the railroad by some of those leading in the chase. The crowd kept after the workman, and he ran to the Reading railroad station, where a company of infantry was on provost duty. The company was immediately called into formation and attempted to hold the crowd back. The captain of the company exercised great patience with the crowd and prevented serious trouble.

The mob caused a large crowd to gather from all directions, and word was immediately sent to camp for reenforcements. In nine minutes the entire Twelfth regiment and a battalion of the Eighth were on the scene. The crowd quickly scattered, and three men, John Howe, Frederick Zimmerman and Matthew Bronz, who are alleged to have been participants in the assault on the watchman and the workman, were arrested and taken to the town jail.

The affair created intense excitement for a time.

Deputies Out on Bail.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 16.—The twenty-five deputies on guard at the Warnke washery, Duryea, when the riot took place Thursday and who were arrested and jailed by the authorities on the charge of inciting a riot and felonious wounding were brought down from the prison and given a hearing before Judge Halsey. It was shown that the two men shot were not seriously wounded. Judge Halsey then released the prisoners in the sum of $10,000 for a further hearing on Monday. The bail was promptly furnished and the men released.

All is quiet at the Warnke washery, but the owner says if they can get the machinery in shape they will start up again. Sheriff Jacobs is afraid that if he does there will be more trouble. A large number of deputies will be stationed about the washery, and if they are unable to preserve order it is said the sheriff will call for troops.

Nonunion Men Flock to Mines.

THURMOND, W. Va., Aug. 16.—One hundred or more nonunion men are arriving in the New River coalfields daily to take the places of strikers. At the Rend mines a great demonstration was made yesterday. Several hundred strikers, heavily armed, marched to the mine and forced sixty nonunionists to abandon work. Deputy marshals were powerless, and serious trouble is imminent.

Tientsin In Chinese Hands.

TIENTSIN, China, Aug. 16.—The turning over of the government of the city of Tientsin to the Chinese authorities has been completed with considerable ceremony. Yuan Shi Kai, viceroy of Pechili, arrived in the morning and was received by a guard of honor of Chinese troops. After meeting the foreign commanders in the city the viceroy was given a luncheon as the guest of the city council, and the employees of the council formally handed over the city's government. The day's proceedings closed with a banquet to Yuan Shi Kai.

Rebels Get Colombian Gunboat.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Aug. 16.—News has reached here from the camp of the Colombian revolutionists in the Agua Dulce district that after a naval engagement the Colombian government gunboat Boyaca was captured by the Colombian revolutionists. Three hundred government soldiers and Generals Ortiz and Henao and supplies of munitions of war and provisions were captured with the Boyaca. The Colombian revolutionists are said also to have secured a gasoline launch which was in the government service.

Alger Wants to Be Senator.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 16.—The News says that at a meeting of the advisory council of the State League of Republican Clubs at the Hotel Cadillac President Fenton announced that next Monday General R. A. Alger, ex-secretary of war, will come out with a formal announcement as a candidate for the United States senate to succeed the late James McMillan.

DEATH INSTANTANEOUS.

Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fair Made Ready For Shipment.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The fatal accident to Mr. and Mrs. Fair is the sensation of the city and the leading topic of conversation among American residents and in automobile circles.

The manager of the firm which sold Mr. Fair the automobile in which he met his death said that he had more than once warned Mr. Fair that he was too imprudent. He said Mr. Fair had the "speed madness" and had met with an accident the last part of June, when he collided with another automobile on the Avenue de Champs Elysees, in Paris, but luckily no one was killed. "I attribute the accident," said the manager of the firm, "to the condition of the road where the disaster happened.

"At this point there is a steep and treacherous incline, down which Mr. Fair must have gone at full speed, and his automobile, which was capable of running about sixty-eight miles on the flat, would then have attained a speed of from eighty-seven to ninety-three miles an hour."

Mr. Ellis of Hotel Ritz, who went to Chateau Buisson du Mai in accordance with cabled instructions from Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mr. Fair's sister, to arrange for the removal of the bodies and Mr. and Mrs. Fair's belongings to New York, says he saw Dr. Perriquet, who was summoned after the accident from the neighboring town of Pacy-sur-Eure.

Dr. Perriquet told Mr. Ellis that when he reached the scene of the disaster both Mr. and Mrs. Fair were dead. They had apparently been killed outright. The gatekeeper and other persons connected with the Chateau Buisson du Mai also thought that both the Fairs were dead when picked up.

Mr. Ellis found the bodies covered with beautiful flowers which M. Borson, the owner of the chateau, had gathered from his garden. Mr. Ellis had the bodies embalmed and placed in two oaken caskets lined with lead. They were enveloped in silken shrouds. A special car was engaged to bring the remains by rail to Paris. They will be dispatched to New York by the first steamer.

AWAITING BOER GENERALS.

Refugees at The Hague to Complain of Their Treatment.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 16.—The arrival here next week of the Boer generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey is expected to put a check to the recently renewed anti-British propaganda.

According to the present programme, the visiting Boer generals will first visit Amsterdam, where a great reception in their honor will be held. They will then return to The Hague to visit Mr. Steyn, former president of the Orange Free State, and from there they will go to Utrecht to confer with former President Kruger of the Transvaal.

Many of the Boer refugees here are awaiting the arrival of the generals to urge them to mediate with the British government in their behalf, but the greater number have complaints to make of the treatment they have received at the hands of those surrounding Mr. Kruger.

Severe Storms In North Carolina.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 16.—There have been a series of severe electrical, wind, hail and rain storms in this section of the state for three nights past. At Statesville a hotel was struck by lightning and destroyed. At Concord St. Andrew's Lutheran church was not only blown down, but its timbers scattered. The Odell cotton mills were damaged to the extent of $6,000, the Lippard mill was unroofed, and the Cannon Manufacturing company was damaged to the extent of $2,500. All over Concord chimneys and trees were blown down and buildings unroofed. The property damage in the town is estimated at $25,000. One life was lost, that of Feizer Morris, colored, who was drowned in a swollen stream.

Cornell Summer School Closed.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The six weeks' summer session at Cornell has closed, and a majority of the students have left Ithaca. The attendance this year was 547, a gain of 29 per cent over last year. During the coming month comparatively few of Cornell's instructing staff will be in the city, as all who were connected with the summer work will leave for vacations. The work of the regular university year will be resumed about Sept. 25.

Cold Weather In Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—The weather continues cold and rainy. The temperature in southern Saxony stood at 33 degrees F., and snow has fallen in the Erz-Gebirge and in the Vosges mountains in Alsace. The North sea summer resorts are practically deserted, and persons on vacations are returning to their homes. Army officers are wearing their winter overcoats.

MURDER MOST FOUL

Heinous Crime at Bennington, Vt., Revealed.

THE GUILTY PARTIES UNDER ARREST

Woman and Accomplice Enticed Her Husband Into a Wood, Chloroformed Him and Threw the Body Into the River.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 16.—A startling story was brought out at the inquest held before Justice Shurtleff into the death of Marcus Rogers, whose body was found in the Walloomsac river here Thursday, when Levi Perham, aged nineteen, confessed that the man had been murdered and implicated himself and the wife of the dead man as the participants in the crime. Levi Perham, his brother Boyd, twenty-four years old; Mrs. Rogers and Stella Bates were all placed under arrest as the result of the confession, the Bates woman, it is alleged, having obtained the chloroform with which the victim was first rendered unconscious.

Rogers separated from his wife several months ago and went to work for his brother at Hoosic Corners, his wife, it is alleged, having since been living here with another man. Rogers had his life insured for $500 for his wife's benefit, and this fact had a most important bearing upon the husband's death.

Rogers left Hoosic Falls last Tuesday morning for Bennington, was seen up to 8 p. m. and not again until his body was found in the river Thursday morning.

The fact that the lungs were full of air led to the general belief that the man had been foully dealt with, and because of the unfriendly relations said to have existed between the dead man and his wife Mrs. Rogers was placed under surveillance and an inquest was ordered. A hat was found near the river, pinned to which was a note purporting to have been written by Rogers, in which the writer said that he had ended his own life, as there was nothing further to live for.

At the inquest held before Justice Shurtleff eight or nine witnesses gave testimony as to the relations between Rogers and his wife, their frequent quarrels, the movements of Rogers, etc., but the climax was reached when the Perham brothers, Levi and Boyd, were placed on the stand. Boyd, the elder, was first examined, and to the amazement of those in attendance directly charged his brother and Mrs. Rogers with the crime of murder.

In his story Boyd Perham said that the deed had been under consideration for several weeks. He said Mrs. Rogers approached him a few days ago and offered to give him the amount of the insurance on her husband ($500) if he would go to Hoosic Corners and do away with him. He refused point blank to have anything to do with such an undertaking. He did, however, know all that had since occurred. Failing to enlist him in her service, Boyd said that Mrs. Rogers approached his younger brother Levi and exerted such an influence over him that the latter consented to lure Rogers to Bennington, where a trap had been set for him. Rogers, he said, was enticed to Morgan's grove, where on the evening of Tuesday he met his wife and Levi Perham. The meeting was apparently a friendly one, and under the impression that his companions were showing him a trick with ropes Rogers allowed them to bind him hand and foot. When in this helpless condition, they chloroformed him and threw him into the river.

Perham's story created a tremendous sensation, and the excitement was in nowise modified when Levi Perham took the stand at the conclusion of his brother's recital and confessed that all that had been revealed against himself was true.

Uncle Sam a Practice Boat.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—The American yacht Uncle Sam of the raceabout class, which was bought by Emperor William from Francis R. Riggs of New York after the boat had won the emperor's gold cup at the international regatta at Kiel, has been overhauled and turned over to the navy. The little yacht, which is 31 feet 10 inches over all and 21 feet on the water line, is to be used for practice in learning how to best handle small craft. The emperor knows that Germans do not get as good results from their yachts as do American and English yachtsmen. He observed that the naval cadets at Kiel were weak and failed to make the most of the Comet's strong points.

Tin Plate Workers Laid Off.

ELWOOD, Ind., Aug. 16.—Two thousand employees of the American Tin Plate company have been notified that the plant will be shut down indefinitely. The plant resumed last Monday after a shutdown following the refusal of the local employees to accept a reduction in wages. The reduction was accepted, and the mill started.

Peace Restored In Siam.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Minister King, at Bangkok, Siam, cables the state department that quiet has been restored in Siam and that the troops are in control. He says American interests are secure. An incipient revolution was started in Siam a short time ago, and this dispatch announces that it is practically at an end.

Many Perish In Chinese Floods.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL WORKS.

No matter how honest the local investigators may be, any report they may make concerning the condition of the city sewage disposal works is bound to be disbelieved by some people who will think they are trying to cover up a state of affairs which does not really exist. There can be no claim of partiality on the part of an expert in the employ of the State Sewage Commission. His report is bound to show the exact state of affairs.

Thomas LeClear, an expert chemist in the employ of that commission, has finished his exhaustive tests of the beds and has prepared his report which will be presented to the commission at its next meeting. The results of his investigations show that the claims made for the new method of disposal have been fulfilled. It was then said that it would require a few months to get the system in proper working order. The report of the expert shows that such has been the case. There have been some irregularities which the expert accounts for in just that way.

There is no use for the uninitiated to try to wade through the voluminous report. It is all so much Greek to those who are not acquainted with the subject. Briefly summed up, it shows that the beds accomplish the desired end. The water is clarified to such an extent as to be in condition to empty in a stream which is not used as drinking water. With all the various establishments which line Green brook, no one ever thinks of using that stream for drinking purposes.

Business men have learned that advertising creates business, says the Philadelphia Record. Thus a wholesale dealer in food writes: "To stop advertising in this age is like taking out your telephone—you have no way of telling people about your goods, and so you don't get the trade. Nor does the other fellow get it—there is no trade. People simply do with less to eat. Advertising educates them to buy the best."

When the Common Council meets again Monday evening, it is sincerely to be hoped that Councilman Lee will not allow his resolution demanding a purchase price for the water works to be lost in the shaffle of a caucus. That is a subject which would find much favor with the people of Plainfield. There is nothing binding in it and it enables the city to see just how much it would have to pay to have a plant of its own.

Union county is going to have its new court house. Another step toward that end has just been taken in that the contract for the erection of the new county structure has been signed, sealed and delivered. As soon as the bond for the completion of the work is ready, the contractors will lose no time in starting operations. The new court house must be completed by August 12, 1904.

There is every prospect that the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor at Trenton next week will be one of the most important gatherings of organized labor this State has ever seen. All of the trades have had an unusually prosperous year and will be well represented. Then there are several important questions to come up for discussion.

The question of to whom death came first, husband or wife, promises to be one of great interest to the village of New Market. That a lawsuit will result from the distribution of a fortune of such magnitude is a foregone conclusion. This sudden and violent death of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair has started excitement that will continue for many a day.

For the third time, Elizabeth has officially declared its small-pox epidemic at an end. Twice before it was declared over but the disease and the Health Board evidently had a misunderstanding for it promptly broke the board's official decree and appeared again.

CHURCH FIFTY YEARS OLD

A CELEBRATION AT PITMAN M. E. CHURCH, AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

Sketch of One of New Brunswick's Most Progressive Methodist Churches.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 16—Pitman Methodist Episcopal church, of this city, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary this week. The church is one of the most active in the city. Its membership is not as large as some of the other churches, nor is its church building as elaborate, but no church is more energetic and none makes itself felt in the community as much.

The church's organization was the outcome of a progressive spirit, and that spirit has always remained with it. In 1851 there was but one Methodist Episcopal church in New Brunswick, then known as the Shiloh M. E. church, but afterward changed to the First M. E. church. Its members, feeling the prosperous condition of Methodism and the prospective growth of the town in the section where the present church is located, deemed it well to branch out and erect another church.

The building, which is frame with brick basement, was dedicated to divine worship by Bishop Janes on Sunday, August 11, 1852. Seven years later another Methodist church was erected, the St. James. Methodism still has a large following in this city, divided between the three churches. Pitman church issues a monthly paper, called the Pitman Herald, and maintains several up-to-date auxiliary socities. The Pitman Union conducts annual excursions to Washington, D. C. Many pastors who are now prominent in Methodism in this State have ministered to the people of this church. Rev. Dr. D. N. Stafford is the present pastor.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

Rev. Fletcher Humphrey, a former State secretery of the Y. M. C. A. in Indiana, will address the men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. hall tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Good music will be provided.

To Preach Tomorrow.

Rev. Charles E. Dunn, of Freeport, Ill., will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church, tomorrow morning and evening.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Plainfield coal dealers, who recently advanced the price of that commodity to $8 a ton, are casting about in this direction to help renew their supply. The local dealers have been asked to sell while others are carting from New Market. An endless procession of wagons passes through the borough daily.

A party of Dunellen women enjoyed yesterday in a pleasure jaunt by trolley to Boynton Beach. Those who were numbered in it were Mrs. William Conly, Mrs. T. L. Ronayne, Mrs. Joseph Maier, Mrs. Catherine Maier and Mrs. Fred Huff, the latter of Somerville.

In continuance with its repairs being made to the road through the borough, the Central employes yesterday placed new rails on the passenger tracks. They are much larger and heavier than those formerly in use.

The local baseball club journeyed to New Market, this afternoon, where it will give battle to the nine representing the township. A large crowd of rooters also made the trip.

John Neely, a fireman on the Central, sprained an arm by colliding with a fire box. He is under the care of Dr. Brakeley.

James Vail and a party of friends are spending the day crabbing at Boynton Beach.

Miss Annie Campbell has gone to Martinsville for a short stay with relatives.

Rev. Father Dunphy conducted mass in St. John's church, yesterday morning.

Mrs. Cornelius Taylor is entertaining relatives from Paterson.

Miss Lulu Gise is the guest of friends at Clinton.

NEW MARKET.

The employes of the Pencoyd Bridge Company in charge of the construction work on the new bridge 28, have placed the false abutments in position and are almost ready to do away with the old overhead work. The new structure will not have any towering supports, the plans calling for a simple low girder. The company is hampered in its work by a lack of men as all the expert builders are engaged further up the line.

Charles Rogers, Jr., was in charge of a party which drove to Riverside Park, Thursday evening. It consisted of the Misses Elizabeth Sanders and Sadie VanHook, of Spring City, Pa., Miss Dent, of New Market, Mrs. C. T. Rogers, Jr., Jesse Peirman, of Pottstown, Pa., and John Splan, of New Market.

In honor of his eleventh birthday, Joseph Penrose entertained a number of young friends at his home today. The children amused themselves in various ways after which refreshments were served. The young man was the recipient of several remembrances.

The regular practice of the band will be held Monday evening instead of Tuesday as has been customary. At its conclusion a meeting will be held for the purpose of determining the date for the proposed concert.

Mr. and Mrs. David Vaugh and daughter, of Brooklyn, are guests at the home of J. E. Meeker.

Jesse Dunham is out again after two weeks' confinement to the house by illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Service at the Baptist church tomorrow will be Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching by the pastor, 10:45; a fresh air service for the benefit of Camp Woolfe, of Westfield, will be held instead of the usual B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7; no evening preaching.

The regular Saturday evening prayer meeting in the Methodist church tonight will be led by Rev. Mr. Glazer, who is occupying the pulpit in Rev. Mr. Bindenberger's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jimerson, who have been staying at Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marsh's while the latter were at Saratoga for a week, have returned to their home in Westfield

The baseball game between the locals and Safe Works team, of Plainfield, will be called this afternoon at 3:45 instead of 3:30, as has been the usual hour.

Miss Evelyn Buckley, who has been spending a few days with her grandmother, Mrs. James Buckley, has returned to her home in Plainfield.

Miss Mamie Merceir, of Plainfield, has returned home after a pleasant visit of several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Merceir.

A number of the younger members of the borough social set will attend the Saturday evening hop at the Hotel Netherwood tonight.

The Township Committee met in the town rooms last night. A number of bills were paid and other routine business transacted.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will hold its regular monthly meeting in its rooms Monday night.

Miss Susie Parse returned today from a visit of several days with Brooklyn friends.

Miss Edna Nicholl is spending a week with friends in New York State.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Services at the Baptist church tomorrow will be in charge of Rev. E. Thompson, who was formerly pastor of the church. For the remainder of this month the services will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society Sunday evenings at 7:45.

Mrs. Joseph Francolim is entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Keller, of New York.

A number from here witnessed the various baseball games in Plainfield today.

Mrs. Oscar Thorne is entertaining a friend from Plainfield.

AUTO DID IT.

Started a Blaze Which Destroyed the Machine and the Barn Which Held It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 16—After many false alarms during the past few weeks the fire gong sounded in earnest Thursday, at about noon, when it was found that the barn of Voorhees T. VanFleet, the well-known member of the firm of Ballantine & VanFleet Company, carriage manufacturers, was ablaze. The firemen were quick to respond and the blaze was soon checked, although the building was totally wrecked. The West End Hose Company was first on the scene.

Mr. VanFleet had been lighting his automobile as usual and left the door ajar when he went out for a few moments. The draught fanned the blaze. The auto was destroyed. The barn was insured for $300 and the machine for $800.

Miss Blanche VanFleet saw the blaze and heroically dashed into the burning building, rescuing her handsome team of Shetland ponies that is so frequently seen on the streets.

—Seventy-five eight-quart baskets of fancy Jersey peaches will be closed out at Neuman Brothers this afternoon and evening at 35 and 40 cents.

Charles Tallman, of Somerset street, will leave this evening to spend a week at Atlantic City.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Mrs. Charles E. Horne, of Willow avenue, sailed today noon for Europe.

HAS HUMOROUS SIDE.

Charity Work Sometimes Calls Forth Laughter or Smiles.

A Case of Pride and Coal Reported from New York—A Happy Reconciliation — How Mike Wanted to Be Helped.

How flexible and adaptable in its methods and how difficult to reduce to fast rules and principles the work of a great charity is, is illustrated by a few typical anecdotes which have been prepared by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. The following are reported by the New York Post:

Two sisters, unusually large, powerful women, applied for coal. When visited they admitted that they had plenty of work, but some neighbor had "got it," and they wanted some, too. Seeing that there was not the shadow of an excuse for their asking for the coal, the visitor began to explain why they should not have it given to them, appealing to their pride, when, in reply, one of them shrieked at her:

"Pride, did you say? Well, I'll tell you what, miss; you can have the pride and we'll take the coal."

Visits of investigation frequently result in lasting good to the beneficiaries, as in the case of a woman who asked for sewing to do at home, because it was difficult for her to go out. It was found that this "difficulty" was caused by the lack of a thick-soled boot, one leg having been shortened through a fracture which she had sustained several years ago. It was decided at once to supply this need, but a visit was first made to her "only relative," a sister, to see if she was in a position to help. She, too, was poor, but it was learned from her that there was a brother somewhere in the city with whom they were not on good terms, and whom the sisters had not seen for years. Through the city directory he was traced and found to be in comfortable circumstances.

TOO STOUT FOR COOKING.

When his sister's condition was tactfully presented to him, he expressed gratitude for this opportunity of learning her address, which he "had lost," and said that he would immediately attend to the need. He kept his word, and a reconciliation was effected between these elderly people, which did the lame woman even more good than the shoe.

A visitor, upon her first call, found at home a huge Irishman, comfortably eating a dinner of potatoes and codfish, his wife, a thin, faded little woman, and several pale young children, looking on. An equally thin, half-fed looking boy, of 14, the main support of this family of ten, was at home, too, that being his noon lunch hour, and had just finished his bread and tea, and was reading "Dombey and Son." Upon inquiry as to what their trouble was, the meek little woman waited for the head of the house to speak. In a few seconds he waved to her to explain, as he evidently did not wish his dinner interrupted, so she said that "Mike didn't seem to be able to get no work at all." The visitor promptly and cheerfully replied that the society could help him in that respect immediately, and would give him tickets to the wood yard. "Mike" suddenly became interested, and said that he did not know about taking the tickets, as he had never done that kind of work, but added: "I'll tell you what would help—if you'll just get my wife some work."

A rather difficult case to plan for and assist in is that of a woman 40 years old, who has grown to an enormous size, having passed the 400-pound mark. She worked as cook, and, during her earlier years, supported her delicate mother and sisters, until they died. She grew too stout to keep her place in a boarding house, and some friends gave her a little furniture with which to make a home for herself. She absolutely refused to consider going into a museum, which every one advised, and is now modestly trying to make a living at washing. As she cannot walk a block without being utterly exhausted and creating a good deal of amusement for the neighborhood, she took in a homeless, feeble-minded old woman, whom she knew to be respectable, to call for and deliver her work; and this combination promises well, as the old woman required very little food or clothing. But one day the feeble-minded old woman wandered off, and now the plucky fat woman is endeavoring to get on with the occasional help of a neighbor's boy, who treats the situation as a huge joke.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Heavy Crops Likely to Create a Stringency in Money Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Money market conditions are of especial importance just now. Heavy crops will call for much currency, and there is evidence of anxiety regarding the ability of banks to meet the demand without producing severe stringency. Transfers from this center were unusually large in July because of grain speculation, which is no evidence that subsequent withdrawals will be abnormal. On the contrary, interior institutions were never as strong, particularly at Chicago, where rates have been maintained for the express purpose of discouraging loan expansion. Moreover, there is good reason to believe that bank note circulation will be materially enlarged.

Prospects have greatly improved through the adjustment of numerous labor controversies, yet the anthracite coal situation is unchanged and supplies are nearing depletion. Distribution of merchandise has met with some interruption owing to freight blockades, the volume of business being very heavy. Earnings of the railways during the first week of August exceeded last year's returns by 2.8 per cent and those of 1900 by 17.9 per cent.

Statistics of pig iron production on Aug. 1, according to the Iron Age, are more satisfactory than might have been expected in view of the great scarcity of fuel.

Pressure for steel is undiminished, and the urgency of domestic consumers is shown by additional imports of large size.

Considering the official report of cereal crop conditions the firmness of quotations during the past week has been somewhat surprising. With even less than average favorable weather during the remainder of the season there is prospect of much the heaviest yield on record for the aggregate grain production.

Failures for the week numbered 196 in the United States against 168 last year, and 21 in Canada compared with 19.

Ball Family Reunion.

PENN YAN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The second reunion of the Ball family at Keuka Park, N. Y., was a success. Representatives were present from New York, New Jersey, New England, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Indiana, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Louisiana, and messages of regret were received from nearly every state and territory and also from Canada. During the year much information was gathered respecting ancestors of the family who came to America from the midlands of England about 1630-50. They were mostly relatives, and in one group were six brothers. Their descendants are numerous and widely dispersed. An interesting feature of the gathering was the interest taken in Keuka college, which was founded and endowed largely by members of the family.

Famine Gaining In India.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Official and other reports from India declare the famine situation there to be becoming more serious owing to the lack of rains throughout almost the entire country and especially in the Bombay Presidency. There has been a great increase in the number of natives to receive relief.

Prominent Hatmaker Dead.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 16.—Ezra A. Mallory, one of the most prominent hat manufacturers in this city, is dead at his home here of old age. He was eighty-two years old.

EVENING TOILETS.

Empire and Floral Decorations Dresses Made of Chiffon.

Evening dresses this season are wonderful garments full of intricacies. Chiffon and taffeta floral decorations are the most effective trimmings, not to speak of empire embroideries, and these offer enormous scope for the dressmakers' ingenuity. Some of the most beautiful effects are styled semi-empire—that is to say, the waist is defined by a wide belt of embroidery studded with precious stones, sometimes pointed at the waist to accentuate it more than is the case in the real empire style. Then there are full sleeves of chiffon caught with jeweled bands and drooping gracefully over the arm.

Evening gowns of chiffon are very dainty and have the advantage of never going out of style.

A beautiful evening dress recently imported from Paris had a long pointed bodice consisting of beautiful embroidery studded with emeralds. Pouching over the top of this and forming the decolletage was a wide bertha of mechlin lace. The skirt was shirred at the waist, falling plainly to the knees, where it was a mass of flounces over accordion plaited green chiffon, the lace here and there caught up with rosettes of the chiffon, having jeweled centers. It had a train of great length.

An attractive garden party gown is here shown. It is of dotted china silk, with a tucked blouse and sleeves that end in a full ruffle at the elbow. The skirt is laid into fine plaits, and the lower edge is trimmed with five folds. There is a strapping of white silk trimmed with jet ornaments. An original feature is the wide lace collar, which droops far over the arms.

MORNING GOWNS.

Many Linens Worn—Smart Linen and Zephyr Gowns.

A great many linens are being worn this year, and these are nice with plain Irish crochet collars. On such a fabric a very fine lawn or lace collar is out of place.

A very smart green linen dress recently seen at Narragansett Pier was made in the following fashion: The skirt at the top was cut corselet shape, with strappings arranged to reduce the size of the waist; below the knees came a deep shaped flounce. The bodice was closely tucked and only ornamented with a yoke piece consisting of strappings. The sleeves were treated in the same way, and the neck was finished with a little turnover white linen collar and a black fouland scarf dotted with green.

Blue and white, pink and white and red and white zephyrs all make up charmingly for country wear, with skirts that just clear the ground.

A dainty morning gown is the one illustrated. The waist is laid in fine tucks and is trimmed with bands of spotted foulard. The collar and frills are of fine mull. The belt is of the foulard, with a gold buckle.

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"Now we are in for it," muttered he to himself. "Here is the law in search of the prisoner."

The fat man drew up with a gulp and a gasp and mopped his red face wildly with his handkerchief.

"You seem to be excited, friend," said Job, soothingly.

"Excited? Well, I guess I be." Then, looking Hendricks over from head to foot: "I'm the town constable, and I'm lookin' for a man what hes skipped from jail."

"Sure of it?"

"How sure of it? Didn't he knock the bars out, the murderous young villain? Next time I get hold of him he shan't have no more privileges."

"There was a man just passed by here on a run," said Job, thinking of a ruse that would give the schoolteacher a respite until he could find out what his plans were.

"Slim fellow in a light coat?"

"Just so, and dark trousers. Come out of the house a minute ago," jerking his thumb in the direction of the lawyer's cottage.

"Must be the werry man, and which way did he go?"

Hendricks pointed in the direction the other visitor at the cottage had taken.

The constable sighed and mopped his brow vigorously.

"Phew! This is a job I ain't no likin' fur. And that it shu'd happen to the only gentleman criminal we ever had to town. Well, so long, stranger, and thank you kindly."

Then, with a mighty groan, he set off on a run in the direction pointed out. Job could not resist a laugh at the grotesque figure the man made as he disappeared in the night. He turned just in time to see young Barnett come out through the gate.

For a moment the latter hesitated, and then, recognizing his visitor in the moonlight, advanced:

"What, are you still here?" he asked, rather testily.

"Exactly, and it seems that I was just in time to save you from being captured."

"What do you mean?"

Job told him of his meeting with the constable and how he had sent that worthy off on the trail of another man.

"Well, you are a wonder," replied Dick, at the same time puzzled that a stranger had twice that day put him under obligations. "Still the poor man might as well have taken me now as later."

"I wanted you to have all the time possible for your talk. It may be that you will not have the chance again so soon."

Barnett's face fell and he became more serious.

"You think, then, it will go hard with me for taking leave as I did?"

"No doubt of it, but why go back? You might remain in hiding until your name is cleared of the charge."

But the other shook his head.

"No, no; that would look as if I were guilty. Come, I think I can slip back to the improvised cell, restore the bars and pretend that I have never been away from it. I dare say that the good Mr. Blivens will be so delighted to see me that he will not care to make the matter public."

"If you trusted to me, you might never need to go back," said Job.

"You are kind, but I think I shall be acting for the best part in going back. It will appear in my favor should it become known that I could have freed myself, and yet remained a prisoner." Then, before Hendricks could reply, Barnett turned and made off in the direction of his temporary prison.

"Good stuff in that young chap," muttered Job, as he watched the slight figure disappear in the dark. "Justice will be blind, indeed, if she errs in dealing with such an honest and right-minded man as that."

As he turned away a light appeared in the upper window of the house, and for a moment the figure of a woman was outlined on the opaque curtain. He stood there with clasped hands watching the silhouette, motionless, for an hour or more, and then turned with a sigh to seek his bed at the Bluebell.

CHAPTER X.

JUST A PIECE OF PAPER.

Job Hendricks passed an uneasy night, for he constantly was haunted by the belief that there was some one in the corridor moving back and forth, and occasionally paused to take a look at him as he lay there in the moonlight.

Once or twice he had risen and gone to the door to peer out, but found no one, and then stumbled back to bed, blaming himself for an old fool to be in such a constant state of fear over nothing.

Finally he fell asleep from sheer exhaustion, and the sun was high when he awoke and reviewed the events of the day before.

What he had to do he must do quickly, for it seemed that he was not altogether safe himself, and he felt that he could not trust Ellison.

"Once he is free," referring to the school-teacher, "and the young people are united, and I have settled matters with that other rascal, I shall go back to my old home with a smiling face," he said to himself, as he made his scanty toilet. Thinking over plans for the future made him alternately merry and sad, but the controlling feeling seemed to be one of satisfaction.

After a hasty breakfast he made up his mind that he would try and find out how Dick had fared since his experience of the night before, and whether they had taken any precautions against his repeating his nocturnal ramble.

He approached the building from the back, concealing himself behind the bushes that had sheltered him on his last visit. He had a good view of the place where young Barnett was confined, and noted that the window was now protected with new iron bars, instead of the flimsy ones that had been there formerly.

As Job watched, an utter stranger to him appeared at the window and peered out. Though he stood there for an hour or more, he did not see the young school-teacher, and at last turned away, believing that he must have been removed to some safer seclusion.

"That prank of his may cost him dear, in the loss of privileges that he enjoyed before," feeling disappointed in his visit. "Well, I guess he thinks it paid. It will brace him up—that stolen visit—for all that he may have to go through."

Approaching the front of the constable's house, he found a venerable man whittling a stick on the steps—a gaunt personage, whose garments seemed to have partaken of the earthy color of the land in which he worked.

As Job came up, the aged loafer expectorated with deadly precision at a passing bug on the steps, and said, without waiting for the other to begin:

"Ef yer waitin' to see Blivens, he hain't in."

"Indeed."

"No; I'm his pap."

"And where has he gone?"

"Went up with the prisoner this mor'n early to Ferrenford, the county seat. Be ther a week."

"Rather sudden, wasn't it?" asked Hendricks.

"Wal, raypher," with a hoarse chuckle. "Ye see, the young catymount got so obstrepulous that ther wa'n't no keepin' him in a place like this, and so Sim—that's my son—he jest thought he'd get shed of him by puttin' him away in the county jail, where he'd be safe. Stranger in these parts, I take it?" looking Job over from head to foot.

"Yes; a stranger. I'm much obliged to you," and then moved off, to the evident disgust of the patriarch, who was minded to get some amusement out of the stranger, as travelers were a scarce variety in that peaceful farming neighborhood.

Job, deep in thought, had mechanically pursued his way in the direction of James Ellison's estate, and he did not apparently think about where he was until the big lions by the gate loomed up before him.

He stood for a moment cogitating what to do, and then entered the smooth carriageway leading to the house.

"I can learn what I want from this model landowner," he said to himself, "and incidentally spur him on to do his best for the boy." A man who was trimming the grass on the borders of the road looked up at him in a contemptuous way as he passed, and then resumed his work.

Job, who had noticed this, smiled quietly.

"I suppose he thinks I am not a stlyish enough visitor to enter by the principal road to the house."

He had no hesitation in going up the great stone steps of the front entrance as bravely as if attired for a gorgeous function. His loud ring brought a man in livery to the door, who gave him a cold stare and did not attempt to answer when he asked if Mr. Ellison was at home.

The flunky was about to close the door on the seedy visitor, when the latter deftly inserted a large, roughshod foot, saying at the same time:

"If you want to keep your place, young man, you will tell Mr. Ellison that Mr. Hendricks would like to see him on matters of importance. Do you hear? Go and do as I say!"

These words, delivered in such a decisive tone, satisfied the servant that he was dealing with some one who had a right to be there, and he at once began to mutter apologies.

"Never mind about your excuses, but go and announce me," replied the visitor gruffly. "But see to it that you don't make such a mistake again or your time here will be short."

The lackey, still mumbling excuses, disappeared up the stairs, and Job strode into the handsome drawing-room without waiting to be asked, and threw himself down in a chair.

As his glance wandered from the Oriental rugs on the floor to the paintings on the wall, and the Brussels lace curtains on the windows, and then from the curio-cabinets to the verni-martin tables loaded with elegant trifles, he sighed

AGRICULTURAL SEEDS ONE of OUR IMPORTANT PRODUCTS

WE MEET THE DEMANDS OF HOME CONSUMPTION AND SUPPLY MUCH OF EUROPE.

IT is a little more than a hundred years since the United States has imported any considerable quantity of red-clover seed. For many years before that grain, clover and grass seeds had been gathered and sold in the colonies, but much had always been imported. This condition was reversed soon after the opening of the nineteenth century, and from that time the amount of seed raised in America for home consumption and for export has steadily increased, until to-day Europe looks to the American farmer for a large part of her supply of agricultural seeds. On our side, we import in quantity only a few kinds, the culture of which is still comparatively new in this country. Of necessity, the improvement of machinery for harvesting, thrashing and cleaning seed has kept pace with the increased output. This could not have been otherwise, since without better machinery the seed of some grasses, and even of clover, could not have been economically produced in quantities sufficient to supply a large demand. The domestic production of seed has tended to reduce prices, and to-day the seeds that are so expensive as to seriously limit their use are all imported. In some cases, not counting cereals and flax, the seeds of agricultural plants have assumed such importance in trade that they are quoted on the produce exchanges or on the boards of trade of all the large cities, and dealing in futures in clover and timothy seed is as regular a part of the trading as in the case of corn or wheat.

A FIELD OF PUMPKINS GROWN FOR SEED.

That the trade in agricultural seeds has assumed enormous proportions needs only to be mentioned. Unfortunately, data are not available for making reliable calculations of the quantities and value of all seeds produced or sold in the United States. Some statistics are, however, at hand showing the amounts of clover and timothy seed produced by a few states. The export trade in clover and grass seed during the year ending June, 1900, amounted to $3,050,193, and of course the domestic trade is vastly greater. In 1900 the clover-seed crop of Illinois aggregated 52,992 bushels, and Missouri sent out of the state 51,683 bushels. In 1899 Ohio reported 350,777 bushels of clover seed produced in that state; in the same year Michigan produced 68,744 bushels, Wisconsin 85,423 bushels and Missouri more than 30,000 bushels. In 1897, a year of large clover crops, 810,341 bushels were grown in Indiana alone.

In 1900 Illinois produced 103,401 bushels of timothy seed, valued at $188,831, and 60,649 bushels of Hungarian and millet seed, worth $37,770. The crop of timothy seed raised in the state in 1900 was the smallest for more than 20 years, the high-water mark for value, although not for production, having been reached in 1881, when the timothy seed crop was worth more than $1,000,000. The amount of timothy seed harvested in Wisconsin in 1899 was 61,786 bushels; while Missouri, in the same year, produced 72,535 bushels, besides more than 1,000,000 pounds of unclassified grass seed. In 1900 Missouri reported the amount of timothy seed exported as 2,976,648 pounds, and of millet seed as 2,851,300 pounds in the same year Iowa produced 114,700,950 pounds of timothy seed.

These figures serve to convey some notion of the volume of the trade in agricultural seeds in the United States.

While most of the important seeds can be produced throughout the greater part of the United States, yet there are centers where these seeds are produced most abundantly and most cheaply, and from these the commercial supply is therefore largely drawn. Not only does the trade look for sections in which such seeds can be most cheaply produced, but also where those of the best quality are to be had. Certain sections have the reputation in the seed trade—whether well deserved or not is in many cases still an open question—of producing the best quality of a certain kind of seed. For example, the more critical trade always demands Tennessee or southern-grown German millet seed, although the western seed is cheaper. Seedsmen believe that the southern seed gives better crops than seed produced in Nebraska or the northwest. So also northern-grown red clover seed is more valued than any other, and commands the highest price in the market. These areas of production are in some cases rather limited, and in others are coextensive with the boundaries of many states. Sometimes the areas of production are localized and separated by thousands of miles, chance or similarity in conditions having given birth to the same industry in widely distant places.

The trade in cereals for seed purposes must be carefully distinguished from that trade in wheat, corn, etc., which is a daily feature of the Chicago and New York markets. Seed wheat is not bought on 'change, nor is the price of high-grade seed corn affected by the fluctuations of the market. The great bulk of the seed of the cereals is undoubtedly grown in the locality where it is to be used; most of it does not move far. The seed that is offered for sale by dealers is obtained in three ways: Some dealers buy seed in the open market, selling by the name under which the seed was bought, without inquiry of any sort into the quality or the origin of the seed. Such dealers usually sell seed that should have found its way to the nearest gristmill. Other dealers, while buying by sample in the open market, use all the care the circumstances permit to obtain correctly named seed of good quality. This seed is, if necessary, recleaned, the light and injured seeds removed, and only good, sound seed exposed for sale. A third and small class of dealers make a specialty of some varieties, and these are grown for the dealer under contracts in the same way that vegetable seeds are grown. Such seed is of the highest quality and, what is of great importance, is almost always true to name. In general, good seed of any of the different classes of wheat comes from the section in which that class is most commonly grown. For example, seed of Turkey red wheat should be bought in Kansas, Nebraska or Iowa; Sonora wheat in California; hard spring wheats in the Dakotas, Minnesota, or states in that section.

HARVESTING KENTUCKY BLUE-GRASS SEED.

It is a commonly accepted rule that plants raised from northern-grown seed will mature earlier than those from southern-grown seed of the same variety. This rule holds good for spring-sown wheats, of which the northern-grown seed is preferred, but the contrary is true of fall-sown grain.

ON THE DIAMOND.

A world's record was broken at Terre Haute, Ind., this week when twenty-seven men were struck out in a game of baseball. It was a fifteen inning contest between the Terre Haute and Cedar Rapids teams of the Southern league.

Plans are already being considered for a return game between the Plainfield police and their victims of yesterday from Newark's Fourth Precient. The visitors believe that they could do better on their home grounds and they have invited the locals to make the trip to their city for another battle. As soon as arrangements can be made, the second meeting will take place.

GOLF.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team is scheduled to play a match gome with Englewood in this city August 31.

The weekly competition for the Boys' and Golf Committee cups are scheduled events at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course today.

TENNIS.

Members of the boys department of the Y. M. C. A. are arranging a tennis tournament when the seniors shall have completed their contest. Play will begin next Wednesday afternoon. All entries must be handed in at the office by three o'clock on Wednesday.

Made Good Time.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., excursion was forced to go to Asbury Park Thursday by way of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the run to the seashore was made in very good time, the train having arrived there at 10:45. The return home was made in one hour and forty-five minutes.

Slept It Off.

To give him a resting place and chance to sleep off an attack of numbness caused by over-indulgence, Patrolman Cash locked up Frank Scott, of Newark, in the city jail yesterday afternoon. The stranger slept off the effects of his folly and was dismissed under a suspended sentence by Mayor Jenkins this morning.

H. R. Reiter Will Speak.

H. R. Reiter, the ex-football player of Princeton, and now of the divinity school connected with the university, will preach at Monroe Avenue Methdist church tomorrow at both services.

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Andrew McCardell goes today to Longport, where his wife is spending the summer.

Mrs. H. C. Smith, of Prospect avenue, is home from a sojourn at Cortlandt, N. Y.

Mrs. Harold Jockson, of East Pittsburgh, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Herman Kellar, of Somerset place.

Wm. Harvey, of Hillside avenue, starts today upon a two weeks' vacation, which he will spend at Newton.

Mrs. Daniel McCarthy and daughter, Margaret, of Central avenue, are spending a month at Far Rockaway.

Harry Kesselring, of the carpet department at Woodhull & Martin's store, has returned from his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Ryno and daughter, of Jersey City, will spend Sunday with Mrs. Morse, of Jackson avenue.

Charles Wyndham, of Fairview avenue, returned home yesterday after two weeks' camping out at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. M. Leichtentritt and daughter, Miss Nettie Leichtentritt, of West Front street, will spend next week at Asbury Park.

TAKEN A STAND.

Seventh-Day Baptists at Shiloh Are Opposed to Amusements.

Seventh-Day Baptists in this city are interested in the affairs of their co-religionists at Shiloh, where a sudden stand has been taken in opposition to worldly amusements. Because of too much interest in social affairs, it is said, the pastor of the congregation, Rev. E. B. Saunders, has exacted promises from the young women of the church to abstain from dancing, straw rides, picnics and kindred affairs for a period of six months. Young men addicted to the use of liquor or tobacco also come under the feminine taboo, which is said to be general throughout the denomination in the community.

—Mr. Huston will lead the gospel meeting at the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. B. W. Hand will have charge of the music during the absence of Mrs. Honeyman from the city.

From Hot to Cold.

Dysentery is prevalent everywhere in summer and is due to miasmatic poisons, and begins abruptly with inflammation of the mucous lining of the large bowel. In America the disease is common, but properly treated does not result as seriously as in the tropics. Perry Davis' Painkiller is the best known remedy and the most efficacious in the treatment of dysentery.

GOVERNOR'S LATEST MOVE

SAID HE IS TRYING TO GET CONTROL OF N. E. M. A.

Has Not Appeared in New York Yet, So the Warrant Has Not Yet Been Served.

Charles Dean Kimball, governor of Rhode Island, for whom a warrant of arrest has been issued by Justice Stoeckler, of the Supreme Court on application for counsel for Andrew F. Power, of Netherwood, manager of the New England Manufacturers' Association, has made a new move in the case. A motion will be presented in Special Term, Part I, of the Supreme Court, New York, Monday morning, in an attempt to set aside the election of officers of that company on December 26 last, on the ground that one of the directors, was absent on that occasion.

The accomplishment of the scheme, it is said, would give Kimball and his friends an opportunity to elect new officers favorable to the Governor, and antagonistic to Power, and the company's attorneys, who are now pushing the case against Rhode Island's executive, would undoubtedly be ordered to discontinue suit. The freezing out of Power would follow.

The officer who has Justice Stoeckler's order of arrest has not been able to serve the same on Governor Kimball, since the paper loses all force outside of the State of New York, and the governor was in Rhode Island before the officer got in possession of the warrant. Mr. Power's attorneys have sent word to the Governor's legal advisers, informing them of the amount of bail they would accept as bond for their client's appearance, who will be arrested as soon as he comes to New York. Hunt, Hill & Betts, the New York attorneys of the Governor, say they do not expect the action of Power to keep Kimball away from the city.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Voorhees Laing and her daughter, Miss Ethel Laing, of East Front street, are expected home today after a two weeks' sojourn at Asbury Park.

Thomas E. Currin, cashier at the First National Bank, has been enjoying a vacation of one week. He will return to his position next Monday morning.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE.

Enjoying Summer Outing on Great Peconic Bay, L. I.

Plainfielders are enjoying life at South Jamesport, on Great Paconic Bay, Long Island. A party consisting of C. B. Egan, the Misses Egan, Miss Mary Buckle and Henry L. Maxson are at the resort, where the young women have gained a reputation for seamanship in the catboat which they have chartered. John A. Steiner, of the borough, was with the party for a few days, during which he was the winner of a first prize at a progressive euchre held at the Grand Peconic Bay House. There were twenty-five tables and Mr. Steiner's score was eleven out of a possible thirteen points.

Dance at Netherwood.

There will be the usual weekly hop at the Hotel Netherwood this evening.

Up the Hudson.

On August 7, 14, 21, 28 and September 4, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run its usual midsummer excursions on the "Upper Hudson," under personal escort. Special excursion tickets will be sold on those dates for regular trains arriving at Jersey City prior to 10:05 a. m., good to return on same day on any regular train leaving Jersey City after arrival of steamer.

A stop will be made at West Point, giving those who disembark an hour and a half at that point, and enabling them to view the United States Military Academy.

In order to insure an early return, no stop will be made at Newburgh, although the steamer will run to a point off that city and there turn.

Round-trip rates: Princeton, $2; New Brunswick, Metuchen and Perth Amboy, $1; Rahway, 80 cents; Elizabeth, 75 cents; Newark, 50 cents. Proportionate rates from other points.

LEAGUE TEAMS MEET DEFEAT

Scotch Plains Beat the Safe Works; St. Marys Defeated by Plainfield Athletics.

ONE GAME WAS EXCITING

'Plains-Safe Works Game Was a Good One—Won 6 to 4—St. Marys-Plainfield Athletics Contest Was a Poor Exhibition of the National Game—Westfield Beaten.

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

Scotch Plains, 6; Safe Works, 4.
Plainfield Ath., 18; St. Marys, 10.
Equitables, 4; Westfield, 3.

While there were no games played Saturday in the City Baseball League, there were several contests on the diamond which attracted almost as much attention as the league games. After the great record which Scotch Plains has been making this summer, there was more than the usual interest taken in the meeting with one of the league teams. The Safe Works nine went to Scotch Plains Saturday afternoon and met defeat by a score of 6 to 4. It was an exciting game, well played by both sides. The St. Marys and the Plainfiled Athletics, formerly the Clinton Avenues, attempted to see which could play the worse ball. St. Marys won out in that end of it but lost the game 18 to 10. The playing on both sides was extremely ragged. Most of the Hope Y. M. A. players spent the day at the shore with the Hope chapel excursion.

SAFE WORKS LOSE.

It was a great day for the rooters of Scotch Plains. The Safe Works team, fresh from victories at home, and thirsting for more abroad, journeyed to the suburbs Saturday afternoon and fell by the wayside. When the dust cleared away, the score was 6 to 4, in favor of Scotch Plains.

Safe Works got a lead in the first inning that looked difficult to overcome. An epidemic of errors in the infield let in four runs. Four fumbles of easy balls in succession was the record. Eight men came to the bat in that inning, but for the rest of the game errors by the 'Plains nine were an invisible commodity, and not another man for eight innings travelled as far as third.

'Plains tallied one in the first, and tied the score in the fifth. Franklin's miss of a fly at centre allowed the winning runs to be made in the seventh. It was an off day for Franklin at any a rate. He made two costly errors in the field, both responsible for runs.

Harvey for Scotch Plains pitched a great game. There was only one man on the Safe works team who struck out, Cooney, and he fanned twice. But none of them could rap the sphere beyond the infield. Throughout the game he allowed but seven paltry singles, scattered where they did the least damage.

Burns too pitched good ball, having been touched up for only nine hits, but his support was rocky at critical moments. Five of the 'Plains' sluggers, in desperate attempt to connect with his slants, failed to hit anything but microbes.

By defeating the Safe Works, the 'Plains team demonstrated its ability to go up against anything in Plainfield. Except for the ragged interval in the first inning, Saturday, the all round play of the team was of the variety to make them candidates for the professional bench.

Umpire Curo made a bad decision in the first inning. With three men on bases, the man up fanned, but Allen missed the ball. The man on third, thinking he was forced, or thinking to steal home, or not thinking at all, started on a race for the plate. He quit half way, when he saw that Allen was waiting for him. The man from third was undoubtedly out. According to rule, the man that fanned was also out, but despite protest the umpire called him safe. The decision, however, would not have

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Chauffeur Prevents Accident by His Quick Action, But Tears Up the Macadam.

While Robert Toney, chauffeur for Edward M. VanBuren, of Central avenue, was giving Mr. VanBuren's cousin, Mr. Morse, of New York, a ride in his Oldsmobile Saturday evening about 6 o'clock, the front axle of the machine broke and a serious accident was prevented through his quick action.

The machine was being run at a rapid speed along Ninth street, between Arlington and Madison avenues, when the accident occurred. Toney instantly reversed the lever, thus shutting off the power. The front of the carriage dropped very suddenly and for a short distance tore up the macadam. The machine was damaged but little.

PLEA FOR THE LITTLE ONES

MISS CURRY ADDRESSES GUESTS AT THE HOTEL NETHERWOOD.

Children From Summer Home Sing—The Sojourners Contribute Liberally—Music.

Miss Sara Curry, of the Little Missionary's Summer Home, with a band of the children under her care at that institution, were present at the Hotel Netherwood last evening. The children, who looked bright, happy and healthy, entirely unsuggestive of the crowded tenement, sang several choruses in a delightful manner. Miss Curry herself delivered a short address on the work to which she has devoted herself. Manager Brown had the hat passed around and the sum of $33 was realized. Before the children started for home again, luncheon was served to them. David M. Torrey, treasurer, and a director of the Little Missionary's Day Nursery, New York, was at the hotel with Miss Curry.

Other numbers on the programme that attracted attention were soprano solos by Mrs. Joseph Lux, and, by request, a piano solo of her own composition by Mrs. Blanche Dryden. The concert, as a whole, was up to the usual high standard.

Saturday evening the regular weekly hop at the hotel was another success. Many from Plainfield were present. More than fifty couples enjoyed the evening's dancing.

They have cleared $5 and added it to The Daily Press fund. The fund now stands:

A COSTLY PRANK.

Andrew McClellan May Be Disfigured for Life for Teasing Dog.

Annoying an Irish setter, having a litter of pups, may result in Andrew McClellan, of Watchung avenue, being disfigured for life. He was teasing the dog, which belongs to Fred Ivamy, of Scotch Plains, when the animal suddenly leaped up and sank its teeth in his nose. He managed to shake it off and Dr. Ward, who was stopping at the hotel, cauterized and fixed up the wound. A large gash was inflicted which may leave a bad scar.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Frances Traphagen Cose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cose, of Grant avenue, and Harry K. Lister, of Willow avenue. The wedding will take place in October. Both young people are very well known and have long been numbered among the workers at Hope chapel.

Watch for Returns.

Dr. D. C. Adams, H. C. Potter, George and Phillip D. Macintyre, all of this city, left this morning for Barnegat on a fishing trip. They expect to be away three or four days.

USUAL EVENTS AT GOLF CLUBS

The Links in Fine Condition, the Day Ideal, But Many of the Golfers Are Away.

RESULTS OF DAY'S PLAY.

E. T. Newkirk Was Low Man at Hillside and Took Lead for Golf Committee Cup—Gordon Abbott First for Boys' Cup—E. M. Honeyman Took First Honors at Park.

Vacation times still continue at the local golf courses and the weekly competions suffered accordingly. The day was an ideal one for the sport while both courses were in the best of condition. At the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, there was a shake-up in the standing for the Golf Committee cup which landed E. T. Newkirk on top, with D. H. Barrows second, both passing Robert Abbott, Gordon Abbott was low man for the Boys' cup. At the Park Golf Club, first honors went to E. Maxwell Honeyman while Charles B. Morse still leads for the President's cup.

HILLSIDE CLUB.

Despite the fact that Saturday was an ideal day for the popular game of golf there were but a few who turned in their scores for the weekly competitions at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The course was well filled with contestants, but many were playing independently of the scheduled events.

In the morning Gordon Abbott won the first honors for the Boys' cup, while W. T. Glenney and Arthur Peterson finished second and third. This puts Glenney in second position with fifteen and one-half points and Abbott third with thirteen and one-half points, while Arthur Peterson, who holds first position, increased his lead one point, making a total of eighteen and one-half. The scores for the Boys' cup were: Gordon Abbott, 91. 10—81; W. T. Glenney, 98, 10—88; Arthur Peterson, 119, 10—109.

The standing for the Boys' cup is as follows:

	Points.
Arthur Peterson	18½
W. T. Glenney	15½
Gordon Abbott	13½
N. P. Rogers, Jr	10
Wickham Corwin	6½
Kerro Knox	6
A. D. Beers	5½
J. T. Scott, Jr	4
Arthur L. Wills	3
H. Lapsley	1½
Charles C. Perkins	1

By making a net score of 75, E. T. Newkirk won first honors for the Golf Committee cup in the afternoon, and he now holds the lead with ten and one-half points. Dudley H. Barrows won second honors and is a close second to Newkirk, while Robert Abbott holds third position.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

	G	H	N
E. T. Newkirk	93	18	75
D. H. Barrows	89	10	79

NEGRO SLASHES CONDUCTOR

ADOLPHE SCHROEDER WAS CUT DURING A FRACAS ON TROLLEY.

The Trolleyman Was Performing His Duty When Atuacked by the Negro—Forefinger Split.

Adolphe Schroeder of Regent street, a conductor on a street car running between Plainfield and Westfield, had his hand badly gashed yesterday morning, in an attempt to put off his car two negroes who got into a fracas and made a free use of razors in the scuffle. The conductor thought it a mere piece of horse play between the negroes until he saw one of them making a desperate lunge at the other with a razor cutting through his shirt front, and making a broad gash from which the blood flood freely.

Immediately giving the signal to stop, he told the men to get off and settle their difficulties by the wayside. Still fighting, they started to do so, but just as one of them stepped to the ground he swung his razor around and caught Schroeder in the hand, splitting open his forefinger and taking a piece off the end of his thumb. The conductor is unable to take charge of his car today. One of the negroes was arrested yesterday, but as far as known the second man is still at large.

ANOTHER JUMP IN BEEF

GOES UP THREE-QUARTERS OF A CENT PER POUND TO CONSUMERS.

The Common Stuff Remains at the Old Price—Lamb is Much Lower Than It Was.

Beef continues to run a race with coal, to see which can reach the highest price. This morning beef again advanced three-quarters of a cent per pound. During the past week, the market for good quality beef has been continually strong, and choice cattle were higher in Chicago than at any time for ten years.

The present rise is on choice beef alone, due to the continued scarcity of the best article, common remains at the old price, but very little of anything in that line is consumed in Plainfield. There is no market here for anything below the medium with not much for that.

Fluctuation of the market a week ago showed a tendency for meats to drop in price, but the movement lacked consistency, and the law of supply and demand keeps control of the situation. No influx of Texas beef can make any material change in the price of the western product. Native lamb is a fraction lower now than the corresponding period twelve months ago.

INJURED IN A RUNAWAY

A TROLLEY CAR GONG FRIGHTENING HORSE CAUSES DAMAGE.

Four Plainfielders Thrown From the Rig Hurt—The Carriage is a Total Wreck.

Charles Kronimus, bookkeeper in Rogers' sea food market, is suffering from a bad gash on the left hand, and an injured arm, Miss Irene Epner has a broken nose, and Louis Gerlach and Miss Lillian Epner are badly bruised as the result of a runaway accident yesterday.

Near Richmond and East Third streets the horse attached to the rig in which the party were seated took fright at the clanging of a trolley gong of a car that dashed around the corner, and took the bit between his teeth and started to run away. Turning the corner the carriage upset, and threw the occupants to the ground.

The injured parties were removed to the residence of Charles Newman, Richmond street, where they received treatment. The carriage was a total wreck.

AGED DUNELLENITE DEAD.

Miss Terressa Runyon Passes Away in Advanced Years.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Augest 18—Miss Terressa Runyon, aged 89 years, an old resident of Piscataway, died this morinng at 2:40 o'clock at her home in this place of paralysis. She was born and lived in Piscataway for many years. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Elsie L. Dayton, New Market, at 3 o'clock from the Baptist church at Stelton. The interment will be in the cemetery at Stelton.

HOPE CHAPEL'S BIG EXCURSION

Largest Crowd of the Season Spent a Great Day at Shore Mid Exciting Incidents.

OVER TWELVE HUNDRED

Some of the Excursionists Had Rather Exciting Adventures—The Excursion Paid Expenses and Left a Balance in the Treasure for Next Year's Trip.

Hope chapel's annual 'excursion, Saturday, which had Asbury Park for its destination, is conceded by everybody to be the largest and most successful affair of its kind that has left Plainfield in years. A total of 1,259 persons attended, half of whom were other than members of the Sunday-school.

Sixteen cars had been provided by the New Jersey Central officials for their transportation to the seashore and even that amount proved inadequate, but owing to the strain being too much for one engine no more could be added to the train at Roselle. An effort was made to secure another locomotive and make two sections but as one was not handy at the time, it was decided to continue the trip as it had commenced. Some inconvenience was caused both ways by the limited seats but a Hope chapel crowd is always good natured and jolly and nobody minded the slight discomfort.

In a financial way, the affair was as successful as in every other. All expenses incurred through the gratuitous distribution of tickets were met by the sale of same and in addition a large amount was cleared. It will be kept as a nucleus for next year's excursion fund. This is the first time in the history of the chapel that this has been done and it is stated by officials that no other local church has ever cleared expenses.

Naturally, some members of so large a crowd will meet with some slight mishap and there were many of these, Saturday, but none of them of enough importance to mar the pleasures of the remainder.

James Weston, of Essex street, was the victim of an unpleasant experience through an impromptu bath which he took in the turbulent waters of the Atlantic. Attired in a natty fishing costume of khaki cloth he essayed to clamber aboard the yacht Emma B. for a day's angling, when he lost his hold of the slippery rope ladder and fell back in the waves. He was rescued by the crew, minus his bamboo rod fishing pole, and was immediately returned to shore. He donned a proper bathing suit while his angling costume was dried by the bathing house attendants.

A boisterous wave, which took Charles Dixon, of West Fifth street, unawares, left him with his left arm lacerated from shoulder to elbow. He was hurled against a pole and the arm was scraped. A physician made him comfortable enough to continue enjoying himself.

The playfulness of a friend was responsible for Walter Foster, of West Sixth street, ruining a coat in a most peculiar manner. The friend came behind him and attempted to throw him in the sand. A wrestling match followed, during which a cigar which the friend was smoking, became en veloped in Foster's coat. The lighted end set fire to the cloth and when the smoke was noticed by Monroe Squier, nearly the entire back had been destroyed. Foster extinguished the flames by rolling in the sand.

On alighting from the train at the North Avenue station, Mrs. J. E. McClintock, of Westervelt avenue, turned on her ankle, spraining it badly. She was assisted to a carriage and taken to her home.

Miss Helen Hall, of West Fifth street, was unfortunate enough to lose a handsome gold watch, the gift of her parents during her freshman year at Vassar College and Miss Janet Raymond, of Scotch Plains, lost her pocketbook with all its contents of money and tickets.

The credit for the success of the excursion is ascribed to the untiring efforts of Matthew D. Sweeney, who was chairman of the committee which completed all arrangements. He received valuable assistance from the oethr members who were George E. Firstbrook, John H. Cose, Benjamin Evans, Charels Dixon, Henry C. Squires, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Joseph Brown, Miss Carrie Konzert and Miss Nellie Bittle.

ATTRACTIVE SERVICE.

Enjoyable Programme at the Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday-School.

Superintendent George E. Hall presided at the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school yesterday. The lesson was taught from the desk by George H. Krause, of Cranford. There was a cornet solo and cornet accompaniment throughout by DeWitt Frazee.

A vocal quartette, Miss Adelaide Runyon, Miss Etta Cuming, Harry F. Cuming and George F. Watts, sang special music. The hymn, "More About Jesus," chosen by Mrs. Nelson Runyon's class as class song, was sung as a solo, the school joining in the chorus. Closing remarks were made by Rev. A. R. Dilts, Lowell, Mass., a former paster of the Park Avenue church. Souvenir programmes were presented to all present.

THE POLICE COURT CASES

HIS HONOR BECOMES DISGUSTED WITH THE COMPLAINANT.

Tells Mrs. Ball That He Doesn't Think Anyone in Christendom Could Get Along With Her.

Lawrence Bray, a young West End lad, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, for slapping Willie Ball, but he is still in doubt as to what disposition was made of his case. The complainant in the matter was Willie's mother, Mrs. Ellen Ball, who when called upon proceeded at once to give a rapid fire exhibition of talk, helped out by corroborations from the injured boy. A quick interchange of accusations and contradictions between she and Bray so nettled His Honor that he suddenly brought his docket down on the desk with a resounding thwack, sprang to his feet with the ejaculation, "Mrs. Ball, I don't tnink anything in Christendom could get along with you" and stalked out of the court. Bray looked at Mrs. Ball and Mrs. Ball returned the glance, after which both concluded they had better move on.

Other cases disposed of before the court adjourned so suddenly were as follows:

Herman Waes, arrested by Patrolman Lunger for drunkenness and disorderly conduct; sentence suspended. John Keely, for allowing his trick donkey "Dixie" to wander at will about the streets of the east end; sentence suspended on condition that the animal be kept confined.

A fine of $5 was imposed upon Patsy Rosso, the Park avenue barber, who was arrested, yesterday afternoon for quarreling and fighting with his workman, Paoli Caridi. The fight took place in Patsy's shop and arose over a question of wages due Caridi. The evidence was very contradictory but it was gleaned that Carisi had been struck several times and that Patsy resisted arrest.

ATE MANY CLAMS.

Outing at Allen's Grove Was Attended by a Hundred People—The Menu.

One hundred people were fed at a clam bake at Allen's Grove, near the end of the trolley line on Somerset street yesterday. Members of the "Old Oaken Bucket Society" were the hosts of the occasion. The bake was not served till 3 o'clock, but there was feeding all day. On the menu there were clams, in five or six varities, crabs, water melon, corn, chicken, fish, lobsters, and a whole lot of stuff falling under the head et cetera. Those present say the bake was a howling success, far surpassing the Republican jamboree at Galvin's recently.

The "Old Oaken Bucket Society" is a quiet, unassuming social organization that seldom comes before the public eye. The president of the society is Richard Boyce, vice president, Andrew Carney; treasurre, W. K. McClure.

In Grocery Business.

Edward T. Lynch, of West Second street, son of former patrolman Patrick Lynch, has opened a grocery store at 206 Liberty street, where he will have a full line of staple and fancy groceries constantly on hand. Mr. Lynch will be pleased to see his numerous friends and asks for a share of patronage.

—Two specials at Neuman Brothers tomorrow: 75 large baskets of Jersey Mountain Rose peaches and 50 baskets fancy Delaware fruit at a very low price, but with quality better than ever.

Rev. J. M. Morris, of Newark, who occupied Rev. Dr. Schenck's pulpit yesterday morning and Marconnier chapel in the evening, was the guest of Borough Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., and family.

DASHED AWAY FROM TRACK

A Bay Mare Cuts Up Mad Capers at the Matinee Races Saturday.

ANIMAL NOT INJURED.

Causes Great Excitement, But Little Damage—D. C. Smalley's "Ned Davis," a Winner, As Was Also A. C. Vail's "Kenelem"—The Programme.

At the first of the matinee races, held at the Plainfield Driving Club Park, Saturday afternoon, what might have been a fatal accident was narrowly averted. It was in the first heat of the race in which were entered N. B. Smalley's "Alicia," John Osborn's "Fairmount Maid," D. C. Smalley's "Ned Davis," and George Jenner's bay mare. The horses were being driven by their owners and were well under way when the first turn was made. It promised to be one of the best races of the afternoon and it was being watched with great interest by a large crowd.

Just as the horses were making the turn the brace which runs from the wheel to the shaft gave way on the sulky in which was seated Mr. Jenner. Quick as a flash he was thrown sideways, but with strong presence of mind, he held fast for a distance of fifty yards and did all in his power to bring his horse to a standstill. The animal was gaining, however, and Mr. Jenner realized his inability to hold the horse allowed himself to fall off the sulky, thereby escaping with a few slight injuries.

The horse then started on a wild run. He encircled the track three times, despite the efforts of a large crowd to capture him. On the third round he escaped from the track through a gate and dashed for the stables, where he made several turns. From there he ran to Park avenue and then to South Plainfield and finally got on the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, where he ran along the tracks a distance of a half mile. Just before going on the tracks a fast express train went by and the animal had a close call from being instantly killed. In the mean time he had broken loose from the sulky and was perfectly free. After running a half mile he came to a bridge, where his wild flight came to an end. His legs went through the cross beams and he was held a prisoner until extracted by railroad track hands. Aside from a few bruises and cuts the animal was not seriously injured. He will not be in condition, however, to trot again this year.

After this exciting feature, the race was started over again and D. C. Smalley with "Ned Davis" won in 2:32½. In two heats "Fairmount Maid" led to the three-quarter post, but every time "Ned Davis" pulled away from him in grand style and won easily. A second race between A. C. Vail's "Kenelem" and Chas. Brower's "Rover R" was won by the former. Aside from the accident the programme was enjoyed and no doubt these matinee races will be largely patronized in the future.

PLAINFIELDER WINS.

Award of Contract for the Westfield Municipal Work Made to M. Powers.

Michael Powers, of this city, was the successful bidder for laying 6,700 feet of flagging, 1,975 feet of curbing, 105 feet of flagging to be relaid and 110 feet of circular curbing at Westfield. His bid was $4,232.35. The work has been awarded to Mr. Powers, who will have to furnish a surety bond in the sum of $2,000 for the faithful performance of the work.

Council Meeting.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council this evening when the books of the Board of Assessors will be passed upon and a hearing will be given in the case of the complaint against L. M. Dunavan by Griffin Freeman, of the fire department.

Visitors Welcome.

WANT TO BE PRESIDENT

TWO CANDIDATES FOR LEADING PLACE IN THE STATE A. O. H.

Probabilities at the Election to Take Place at State Convention to be Held Next Wednesday.

The candidacy of James E. Clinton, of Trenton, for re-election as State president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians is likely to meet with some opposition when the State convention meets in Jersey City Wednesday. Mr. Clinton has for his opposing candidates James Brennan, of Jersey City, who is county president of Hudson county, and Captain O'Reilly, of Newark. Brennan has the solid support of the Hudson county delegation, while O'Reilly is figuring upon the votes of the delegates from Essex county. In fact, it is a case of nip and tuck between these two candidates for a majority of north Jersey.

The contest between Brennan and O'Reilly may so divide the delegates as to allow Clinton's supporters, who are from Mercer county and the counties of south Jersey, to win out by a small majority.

A large delegation will be sent from Passaic county to champion the cause of Richard McGinn, of Paterson, who is a candidate for State secretary. Mr. McGinn is the present State secretary and has been selected for another term. His position as chairman of the committee on foreign relations has placed him high in the councils of the order. He was also secretary of the national convention at Denver and was then appointed to act on the committee on resolutions.

The contest for the office of State treasurer is being waged by Frank Deveraux, of Camden, and Bernard Connelly, of Atlantic City. Edward O'Connor, of South Amboy, who has acted as State treasurer for two terms, has not announced himself a candidate for re-election.

Rev. Father Brady, rector of St. Joseph's church, Paterson, will be named as a candidate for State chaplain. The present chaplain is Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, who. it is expected, will be tendered the office of national chaplain.

The convention will be held in Lucia's hall and will be called to order at 10:30 Wednesday morning by State President Clinton. It is expected that Mayor Fagan will be present and extend the freedom of the city to the Hibernians. High mass will be celebrated at St. Lucia's church, at which the delegates will attend in a body. The convention will last two days.

Up the Hudson.

On August 7, 14, 21, 28 and September 4, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run its usual midsummer excursions on the "Upper Hudson," under personal escort. Special excursion tickets will be sold on those dates for regular trains arriving at Jersey City prior to 10:05 a. m., good to return on same day on any regular train leaving Jersey City after arrival of steamer.

A stop will be made at West Point, giving those who disembark an hour and a half at that point, and enabling them to view the United States Military Academy.

In order to insure an early return, no stop will be made at Newburgh, although the steamer will run to a point off that city and there turn.

Round-trip rates: Princeton, $2; New Brunswick, Metuchen and Perth Amboy, $1; Rahway, 80 cents; Elizabeth, 75 cents; Newark, 50 cents. Proportionate rates from other points.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

ANOTHER BIG TROLLEY BRIDGE

WILL CARRY TRENTON AND BRUNSWICK COMPANY'S TRACKS.

Must be Constructed Without Interfering With the Railroad Traffic Below.

The Tenton and New Brunswick Traction Company has on its hands the peculiar problem of putting up a bridge over the Freehold and Jamesburg Company's line without interfering with the latter's traffic.

To that end the Pennsylvania Steel Company, of Steelton, Pa., have been engaged, and has put up two huge derricks at the proposed crossing, which is about midway between the Monmouth Junction and Dayton stations on the Freehold and Jamesburg road. Sunday these derricks will raise into position the iron girders which will support the new bridge. Each of the eight girders weighs fourteen tons.

With the iron work in position the rest of the work on the bridge will proceed more leisurely, and the structure will be completed in about four weeks. This will complete the last link in the line, for by that time the overhead wires will have been strung and the road will be ready for traffic.

The plan of carrying trolley lines over steam railroad lines is the same put in force at Bound Brook, although the bridge at Dayton is an entirely different sort of structure. Instead of the cars running up a steep incline as at Bound Brook, they will ascend a long gentle slope over a wooden trestle until they reach the iron bridge. Very little time will thus be lost in the crossing.

The bridge will be supported on eight massive stone piers which have already been sunk, four on each side of the Freehold and Jamesburg line. The Pennsylvania is the lessee of the latter line and opposed for a time the crossing of the trolley company. Recourse to law was threatened then, but the matter was settled privately by the trolley company agreeing to cross by the overhead bridge.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1902.

Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring) that the following amendments to the constitution of this state be, and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fourth day of said month), in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

Executive.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 10, a new paragraph, as follows:

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor and the attorney-general, or two of them of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

ARTICLE VI.

Judiciary.

1. Insert in lieu of Section II, a new section, as follows:

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of a chief judge and four associate judges, or any four of them.

2. In case any judge of said court shall be disqualified to sit in any cause, or shall be unable for the time being to discharge the duties of his office, whereby the whole number of judges capable of sitting shall be reduced below four, the governor shall designate a justice of the supreme court, the chancellor or a vice-chancellor, to discharge such duties until the disqualification or inability shall cease.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk or this court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the court in writing; when an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the court of chancery, the chancellor or vice-chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the supreme court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the court of errors and appeals; but any writ of error pending in the supreme court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

Section IV.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor and such number of vice-chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom may exercise the jurisdiction of the court; the court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the court, where the same is not regulated by statute.

Section V.

1. At the end of paragraph 1, add the following:

The court may sit in divisions at the same or different times and places.

Strike out paragraph 3.

YAQUIS MASSACRED.

American Tells of Barbarity of Mexican Troops.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 18.—Alvin N. Jack, who was an eyewitness of the execution of thirty Yaqui Indians at Torin, state of Sonora, Mexico, has arrived here. He says the Indians came down out of the Sierra Madre mountains to get water and were surprised by Mexican soldiers, who captured them after a slight skirmish.

The Indians were marched two miles to Torin and placed in a large adobe building. One by one they were marched out, stood against the adobe wall and shot. A detachment of six soldiers lined up a few paces from the Indians and fired the bullets into them. The execution was in compliance with a general order issued by General Torres, which in effect means the total extermination of the Yaquis in Sonora.

There are now only about 800 or 1,000 Indians in the state, and they are being rapidly annihilated. The bucks are being executed wherever they are captured and the women sent to Yucatan. As many Yaquis as can are stealing over the line into Arizona.

Big War Fleet at St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 18.—The British cruiser Ariadne, flagship of Rear Admiral A. L. Douglas, one of the lords of the admiralty, has arrived here, making the port in a dense fog. The Ariadne was escorted by the British cruiser Indefatigable. Awaiting Admiral Douglas' arrival here were the British cruiser Charybdis, the sloop Alert and the special service steamer Columbine, all under the command of Captain Montgomery of the Charybdis, and the French cruiser Isly and the dispatch boat Manche, under the command of Commodore Montferrand. Together these seven warships form the largest fleet which has been here for many years past.

Pope's Letter to Mr. Roosevelt.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Bishop O'Gorman of Sioux Falls, S. D., has presented to President Roosevelt an autograph letter from Pope Leo, together with a beautiful mosaic picture of the Vatican gardens. The letter is in French and expresses the pope's good wishes, "especially at the moment when the negotiations of Governor Taft, having ended in a satisfactory result for both sides, have come to strengthen the excellent understanding between the church and the United States authorities." The pope also refers to the picture, which he asks the president to accept.

A Long Horseback Ride.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 18.—Professor C. Michelon, lately of Paris, now teacher of French here, has finished a thousand mile horseback ride. He made it in twenty-four days and won $5,000 offered by Count Villomeure. The count said that the American horse could not make such a trip at this season of the year in that time. The horse lost only three pounds in weight. Professor Michelon gained three pounds. The horse was an ordinary plug used to work and was driven in harness before the trip.

End of the Flour Trust.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 18.—Vice Chancellor Stephenson has advised a final decree confirming the report of former Judge Joseph Cross of Elizabeth as special master in the foreclosure proceedings instituted by the Central Trust company of New York against the United States Flour Milling company. The report of the special master accompanying the order shows the proceeds of the sale to be $5,185,255 less than the bonded indebtedness of the flour milling company.

Macedonian Committee Re-elected.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 18.—The Macedonian committee, which has been in congress here since Aug. 10, has re-elected the former committee. The adherents of M. Sarafoff, the notorious ex-president of the committee, who is believed to have planned the abduction of Miss Stone, held a separate congress and elected another committee. The actual leader of the committee is General Zontcheff.

Daughter of Vanderbilt Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Mary Alicia Vanderbilt La Bau, a daughter of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, has died in her sixty-ninth year at her home, 244 Riverside drive. Mrs. La Bau was one of the group of five daughters among whom the commodore's will divided $1,250,000 of Lake Shore bonds.

Double Murder In West Virginia.

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va., Aug. 18.—In a quarrel over some trivial matter at Anderson, a small town near here, William Douglass and son shot and instantly killed B. J. Johnson and his brother. The father and son made their escape, and at this time it cannot be ascertained whether they have been captured.

MAY HELP STRIKERS

Trainmen and Telegraphers' Officials In Conference.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL GOES WEST.

Growth of the Relief Fund Said to Be Too Slow—The Usual Crop of Rumors About Headquarters.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 18.—Grand Master Fitzpatrick of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen has about completed his tour of the anthracite strike region. He addressed local brotherhoods in many places and, it is said, pointed out to the members their duty if the coal carrying railroads should attempt to ship coal from mines where nonunion men were employed. Just what instructions were given was not made public. James Nelligan, an executive officer of the Brotherhood of Railway Telegraphers, was in conference with the officials at the miners' strike headquarters. He said his visit to headquarters had nothing to do with the miners' strike.

It is said an attempt is about to be made to start the Maltby colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company. About twenty electric lights have been strung within the inclosure, and fully fifty coal and iron policemen have been taken to the mines. The lights will enable the guards to be stationed at many points and have a clear view of all the surroundings. One of the minor superintendents of the company when questioned said he was unable to say whether or not an attempt would be made to start work at the colliery. At strike headquarters some of the officers are considerably exercised over the matter.

Rev. J. J. Curran of this city, who has figured considerably in the strike, said in an address at his church that if J. Pierpont Morgan did not do something to bring the strike to an end it would last for a long time.

President Mitchell has gone to Indianapolis. His chief object in going there is understood to be to make inquiries regarding the strike fund, the collections for which are not being made as regularly as is desired. It is said there is some trouble with the locals about getting the money from the miners and that the system must be rearranged to make it successful.

Mitchell will meet the leaders of the soft coal districts and discuss the situation with them. It is also said that he will see President Gompers regarding contributions from the American Federation of Labor.

While he says that no importance should be attached to this trip, the impression prevails among the strikers here that his mission is of much importance. The fact that the district presidents held two long conferences with him, of which none of those present would speak, creates the belief that there is something under way about which they do not believe it is policy to speak at present.

Ten Million Cotton Mill.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 18.—A site for a proposed cotton mill, projected by eastern and southern capital, has been selected at Holliday, fifty miles from Topeka. The promoters hold an option on 1,700 acres of land. Not only will the mill and buildings directly pertaining to the industry be built upon this land, but the project is said to involve the construction of a village where 5,000 employees of the mill and their families will live. Among the directors of the company are Joab and J. R. Multvane of Topeka, Edward Wilder, treasurer of the Santa Fe railway, and A. A. Robinson, president of the Mexican Central railroad.

Victim of Tug Explosion Found.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The body of a man has been picked up in the bay and towed to the quarantine station by two quarantine boatmen. It is evidently one of the firemen of the tug Jacob Kuper, which blew up off Tompkinsville last Wednesday morning. The body is that of a man about forty years old and has a black mustache and bald head. Both legs are broken at the knees, and the hands show signs of having been scalded. There was but little clothing on the body.

Daring Footpads In New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Charles L. Downes, a theatrical manager, and his wife Anna were held up by three footpads in West Thirty-first street at 1:30 o'clock in the morning, garroted and robbed of jewelry and cash to the value of $1,152. The holdup occurred in Captain Foody's precinct and within a few doors of the Downes' home at 362 West Thirty-first street. The police arrested two men whom they accuse of the robbery. The third man got away with all the money and jewelry.

Gold In Gage's Mine.

DENVER, Aug. 18.—Lyman J. Gage, after spending money for twenty-five years on the Brainard mine, has finally struck a rich lead that will more than compensate him for his heavy loss by the decline of silver. The strike was made simultaneously with the arrival of the former secretary at his mine. There is a rich pay streak of gold averaging fifteen inches in width, and it is estimated that the whole vein will run $160 to $200 the ton.

Puerto Cabello Not Captured.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The revolutionists in Venezuela are not in possession of Puerto Cabello. A dispatch from Commander Nickels of the Topeka, replying to an inquiry from the navy department as to a report that the city is held by the revolutionists, said: "No. Everything is quiet at Puerto Cabello. Will sail for Curacao for coal and supplies. German man-of-war remains here during my absence."

WAR WITH MOROS.

American Troops to Move on Bacolod.

AN ATTACK ON OUR OUTPOSTS.

General Chaffee Says That Such Outrages Must Be Severely Punished—Preparing For Taft's Return to Manila.

MANILA, Aug. 18.—The native crew of the interinsular steamer Mis Hermanos mutinied at Port Virac, island of Catanduanes, last Thursday. They murdered the chief engineer of the vessel and wounded the captain, the mate, the second engineer and one of the passengers, all of whom are Spaniards. Members of the native constabulary went to the rescue of the ship's officers. They fired into the crew and killed three of them. Twenty-five of the crew surrendered and five jumped overboard and are believed to have drowned. During the fighting on the Mis Hermanos she ran aground, but was subsequently floated.

The Moro situation in Mindanao is considered to be critical. It is believed that American troops will soon move against Bacolod, where the recent murder of two men of the Twenty-seventh infantry was plotted. A small party of Moros surprised an outpost of the Twenty-seventh at Camp Vickars, Mindanao, Aug. 12, and succeeded in killing two and wounding one American before they escaped. They were from Bacolod, which has a strong fort and other defenses. Bitter opposition to the Americans exists at Bacolod, and Captain John J. Pershing of the Fifteenth cavalry, commanding the American forces at Lake Lanao, has recommended the reduction of the Bacolod fort.

General Chaffee, who left Manila Aug. 12 on a final tour of the southern islands, reached Zamboanga, island of Mindanao, last Friday. In a conference with the local commander General Chaffee argued that unless the American forces moved decisively against the hostile they would lose

Governor William H. Taft is expected to reach here next Thursday. He left Singapore, Straits Settlements, last Friday on board the United States gunboat General Alava.

The plans for the reception to be given Governor Taft are most elaborate. The shipping in the harbor will be decorated when he arrives, and a procession of small craft is to accompany the General Alava up the bay. A series of arches are at present being erected along the line of Governor Taft's march from the office of the captain of the port, where he will disembark from a launch, to Malacanan palace, where a reception will be given him. There will be a banquet on the evening of the governor's arrival.

Father McKinnon, who first came to the Philippines as chaplain of the First California regiment and who is now pastor of the Catholic church in Ermita, Manila, suggests when the Philippine hierarchy is recognized that 400 of the younger native priests be sent to the United States for a year's training in Catholic seminaries. Father McKinnon believes such a training would impart to them the spirit of American priesthood and a beneficial knowledge of Americans and their language. He proposes to ask American bishops to assist this project financially.

The trial of Frederick Korr, proprietor, and Edward O'Brien, editor of Freedom, who are charged with libeling Benito Legarda, a Filipino member of the civil commission, was concluded Saturday. Judge Ambler has not announced his decision in the case. the support of the friendly Moros.

Cholera reports show few cases of the disease here, but a large number in some provinces. The total number of cases reported to date is 23,636, with 17,596 deaths. Estimating the cases which have not been reported to the authorities, the total number of cases is believed to have reached 30,000.

Edward Reviews Great Fleet.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Aug. 18.—King Edward completed the programme of the coronation festivities by reviewing the fleet for the first time since his accession. From a spectacular point of view the assemblage of a hundred and odd war vessels in the roadstead off Spithead was a magnificent show, but to those looking beneath the brilliant veneer of paint and polish it was evident that the fighting strength of the fleet was by no means formidable. The lines of ships were thickly dotted with ineffectives.

Hot Fight Against Dayton.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The Democrats of West Virginia, according to information received at the Washington headquarters of the Democratic congress committee, will wage a red hot fight against the re-election of A. G. Dayton, Republican member of congress from that state. It is said that J. T. McGraw, a reputed millionaire residing in Mr. Dayton's district, has declared war against Mr. Dayton for his attitude in the Schley case. Representative Dayton is a member of the house committee on naval affairs.

Tariff Treaty With China Signed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The state department has received a dispatch from T. S. Sharretts, the treasury expert who was commissioned by the state department to negotiate a tariff treaty between the United States and China, stating that the treaty was signed on the 15th inst. and that he would sail for the United States on the first steamer.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE.

Great Federation Predicted by Baron von Waltershausen.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Baron August Sartorious von Waltershausen, professor of political economy at Strassburg university and one of the leading German authorities on American subjects, will contribute a striking article to a forthcoming number of Zeitschrift Fur Social Wissenschaft on "The United States of Central Europe."

The writer will argue that the central European states will sooner or later be compelled to erect a common tariff barrier against the claims of the United States to economic ascendency or against those of Great Britain, with greatly moderated tariffs and perhaps free trade between themselves. Baron von Waltershausen believes that eventually a complete political union between Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland is probable and that this union will give these countries an impregnable economic position.

The baron will argue also that great states like the United States and Russia possess recuperative powers superior to those of the isolated and small countries of western Europe. In support of this statement he instances the fact that the United States issued loans at 7 per cent at the end of the civil war and refunded these loans at 2 per cent in 1892.

Collision on Chicago and Erie.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—George W. Farris, twenty-one years old, of Cave City, Ky., was killed and his brother, Daniel E. Farris, twenty-eight years old, of Millett, Mich., was fatally injured by a railroad accident at Hammond, Ind. They were on a Chicago and Erie railroad freight train which was standing on the tracks at Hammond, when it was crashed into by an excursion train running on a special schedule on the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville road. The excursion train had 600 passengers from southern Ohio and was running forty miles an hour. Several of the excursionists who were painfully cut and bruised had their wounds dressed at the Hammond hospital, but the hospital attendants did not take their names. The locomotive and the baggage car of the excursion train were badly wrecked, but the passenger coaches were not much damaged.

Hopetoun Says He Didn't Resign.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 18.—Lord Hopetoun, former governor general of the commonwealth of Australia, after spending Sunday in Montreal left for New York, whence he will sail on the Teutonic on Wednesday for home. Lord Hopetoun, speaking of the reports regarding his resignation, said: "I did not resign, as has been stated in the newspapers. I was recalled by the imperial government, and I am now returning home." His lordship would not discuss the reasons leading to his recall. He is accompanied by his aid-de-camp, Colonel Corbett, who declared that the salary allowed the governor general was too small, and the situation became so unpleasant that the recall became necessary.

Outlaws Tortured by Mob.

CORDELL, Okla., Aug. 18.—A mob of several hundred men took Levi Reed and Bud Wingo, outlaws, captured recently in a raid on the Casey-Craven gang, from the county jail here and strung them up to trees to force them to reveal the whereabouts of their leaders and to give information regarding their crimes. The outlaws finally gave the desired information, and the mob returned them to jail, disappearing apparently to get the rest of the gang. Reed was so badly strangled that he was revived with difficulty.

Generals to Be In Brussels Tomorrow

BRUSSELS, Aug. 18.—The Boer generals De Wet, Delarey and Botha are expected to reach here tomorrow for the funeral of General Lucas Meyer. Enormous crowds viewed the embalmed body of Lucas Meyer. The remains will be taken to South Africa. Among the many wreaths sent for the funeral of General Meyer were ones from former President Kruger of the Transvaal and Joseph Chamberlain, the British colonial secretary. The wreath sent by Mr. Chamberlain was composed of splendid orchids.

Ladislaw Konstantynowicz Arrested

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 18.—W. Ladislaw Konstantynowicz, who has been arrested, has confessed to the local police that he is wanted in Scranton, Pa., for the murder of a Polander in a boarding house in that city about a year ago. He admits killing the man, whose name the local police do not know, but claims it was done in self defense during a fight. He has waived extradition and will be taken to Scranton as soon as an officer arrives from that city.

To Elongate the Arapahoe.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The steamer Arapahoe, the newest vessel of the Clyde line fleet, has sailed from this port for Philadelphia, where, at the yards of her builders, which she left a year ago, she will be cut in two and a section of sixty feet added, making her length over 335 feet. Her sister ship, the Apache, is now at Philadelphia undergoing like alterations.

Thousand Chinese Rebels Killed.

PEKING, Aug. 18.—The viceroy of Szechuen reports that imperial troops attacked the rebel headquarters at Inchawan Aug. 12. One thousand rebels were killed, and their leader, Tong Yu Hung, was captured and executed.

Battleship Maine at New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The new battleship Maine came into port from Philadelphia and proceeded to the Brooklyn navy yard. The vessel will be placed in drydock No. 3 for painting.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

ONLY THE BEST paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. A WOMAN HORSE THIEF.

Rochester Furnishhes a Wild West Romance.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 18.—The vigilance committee composed of leading citizens of Ogden has decided that the horse thief who recently entered many stables in that town is a young woman prominent in the community. A secret investigation is now in progress before Justice Colby. It is understood that suspicion points strongly to this woman. The footprints were followed and a pair of shoes belonging to her secured, which is understood to have clinched the case against her, and a warrant for her arrest will be sworn out.

On Monday last the sheriff's office was informed that a horse and buggy, the property of Mrs. Selecta Brown of Ogden, had been taken from the barn on Sunday night. This being only one of a series of similar crimes, Constable Frank Russ of Spencerport followed the rig to within one mile of Rochester, where he lost the trail. At that time a young man who had served time in the penitentiary and who is well known in Ogden was under suspicion.

When the neighbors came to examine the premises after the horse had been stolen, a number of footprints were found in the barnyard and in the dust on the barn floor. All these were made by a woman's foot, and a small and shapely foot at that. The discovery was kept quiet in order that the woman might not be frightened away. It is believed that she had confederates in disposing of the stolen property.

The Awakening of China.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 18.—Liu Kun Yi, Chang Chih Tung and Yuan Shai Kai, respectively viceroys of Nankin and Hankow and governor of Pechili, in separate conferences with T. S. Sharretts, tariff commissioner for the United States, have concurred in making two significant and unequivocal declarations. The first is that the critical time has arrived when China must make a supreme effort for the promotion of commerce and friendly intercourse with America and Europe, and the second is that as an evidence of her good faith in this intention and her appreciation of the generous policy of the United States toward her China will make an unprecedented exhibit at the St. Louis exposition.

Pope's Health Excellent.

ROME, Aug. 18.—The pope is in such good health that it was not thought necessary to suspend the Saturday audiences, as has hitherto been the custom, in order to give the pontiff strength for a fatiguing ceremony such as the great Name day reception of Sunday. Dr. Lapponi, the pope's physician, insisted, however, upon limiting the number of guests to 200 instead of the usual 500. The efforts to obtain invitations to the Name day reception were so persistent and came from such high quarters that the pontiff, hearing of them, overruled his physician's advice and had an additional hundred guests included.

Charles Tiffany's Estate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The personal estate of the late Charles L. Tiffany, one of the founders of the business of Tiffany & Co., is found by appraisement to amount to $9,638,662. Such realty as there was did not come under the appraisement. Bequests of specific sums of money under the will aggregate $2,615,150 and include Louis C. Tiffany, son, $800,000; Mrs. Annie C. Mitchell, daughter, $800,000; Burnett Y. Tiffany, son, in trust, $450,000, and Louise H. Tiffany, daughter, $450,000.

A Horrible Mystery In Iowa.

MUSCATINE, Ia. Aug. 18.—The decomposed body of Mrs. Jessie Tuman was found a hundred yards from her home, near here, and her husband, unconscious and with mortal wounds, was found on the floor in the house, which showed signs of a desperate struggle. The couple are known to have had considerable money, which cannot be found. Dan Williams, who for two weeks made his home with the Tumans, has also disappeared. Williams is said to have come from Texas.

Mr. Frohman Imports a Pianist.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Daniel Frohman, after ten weeks' absence in London, Paris, Baireuth, Munich and Berlin, has returned on the steamer St. Louis with his new musical star, the Russian pianist Ossip Gabrilowitsch. Mr. Gabrilowitsch opens his American tour at the Worcester (Mass.) festival Oct. 2, with an orchestra of sixty Boston symphony players under the direction of Franz Kneisel.

Suicide of Ex-Mayor of Paterson.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 18.—David T. Gillmor, a former mayor of this city, has killed himself by shooting. Mr. Gillmor had been despondent for some time over ill health, which he believed would eventually drive him insane. Mr. Gillmor was sixty years of age. He was mayor of Paterson about twenty years ago. A widow, three sons and a daughter survive him.

Mrs. McKinley's Health Good.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—President Roosevelt and family attended Christ's Episcopal church. Dr. P. M. Rixey, surgeon general of the United States navy, and Mrs. Rixey spent the day at Sagamore Hill. Dr. Rixey stated that he had heard from Mrs. McKinley within the last few days and said that her health was very satisfactory.

BOERS SEE THE KING

Botha, Delarey and De Wet Visit Cowes.

PLEASED WITH THEIR RECEPTION.

Edward Greeted His Late Enemies Cordially and Introduced Them to the Queen—The Shah In London.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The Boer generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey, who reached here Saturday from South Africa, have visited Cowes, Isle of Wight, to see King Edward on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert.

The hour of the generals' departure from London was kept secret, consequently the streets were deserted when the three generals, accompanied by their secretaries, but by none of the ladies of their party, started for Cowes. They were stylishly attired in frock coats and silk hats.

Upon arriving at Southampton the Boer generals were welcomed on board the commander in chief's yacht Wildfire by Earl Roberts and General Lord Kitchener. They immediately visited King Edward on board the Victoria and Albert and were then taken for a trip around the fleet in the Wildfire. They returned to London, accompanied by Earl Roberts and General Lord Kitchener, who took leave of the Boers at Waterloo station.

In an interview with a representative of the press General Botha's secretary described the visit to his majesty. He said that when the Boer generals boarded the royal yacht King Edward came forward and after they had been introduced shook hands with each of them. The Boers were highly pleased with their reception. After a brief and informal talk of a nonpolitical character with King Edward they were introduced to Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria.

The reception by his majesty lasted a quarter of an hour. The king spoke of "the gallant and brave manner in which the generals had fought through the long and arduous campaign" and of "the consideration and kindness" with which the generals had treated British wounded. His majesty expressed his warm wishes for their futures. It was at the king's suggestion that the Boers took the trip around the fleet on board the Wildfire.

The first day of the Boer generals in England was spent quietly, the generals avoiding publicity as far as possible.

A tug carrying the Boer delegate Fischer met the Saxon at Southampton. The generals on landing got a splendid reception, which they acknowledged by bowing and raising their hats.

The admiralty officials escorted them to the Nigeria, where Lord Kitchener received them. After the formal introductions Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Roberts introduced them to Mrs. Chamberlain and Lady Roberts, with whom they chatted for some time.

The meeting was marked by much ceremony and bowing. The party kept up an animated conversation on the upper deck, from which reporters and others were rigorously excluded.

After this visit they disembarked and took a train for London. A great crowd assembled at Waterloo station to welcome them. When they left the train, they were greeted with loud cheers. The Boers smiled and raised their hats in acknowledgment of the salutes and bowed repeatedly.

A reporter who called at the hotel was received by Secretary Brebner and Adjutant Ferreira, the son-in-law of General Delarey. They asked that the generals be excused from making a statement.

Mr. Ferreira went so far as to say, however, that the Boer commanders fully appreciated the attitude of America during the campaign.

Mr. Brebner said on this latter point: "I know America well. The Americans will understand our business when we tell them we are over here to collect a bit of money and mean to go to America as soon as we can manage it."

Mr. Ferreira said the generals were not overdelighted with the enthusiasm of their reception. It was something to which they were not used and to which they had not got accustomed themselves, and they found it embarrassing.

Muzaffar-ed-din, shah of Persia, arrived at Dover on board the steamer Empress from Calais. At the shah's request the Empress made the trip over at slow speed. The steamer was escorted by the British cruisers Galatea and Immortalite and was greeted by salutes from the batteries at Dover and an imposing military display.

The shah is said to have exhibited great nervousness upon embarking on the Empress at Calais for his first sea trip. But he bore the journey well, and when Prince Arthur of Connaught boarded the Empress and greeted him the shah smiled and conversed with animation through an interpreter.

The shah and Prince Arthur walked together through the cheering crowds at Dover to the Lord Warden hotel, where Muzaffar-ed-din spent the night, coming to London today.

SHIP CANAL FOR JERSEY.

The idea of a ship canal from the mouth of the Raritan river to the Delaware river is rather startling to the average Jerseyite. It was generally expected that the next canal which the United States world build was that connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. It seems, however, that this project has taken quite a little hold and will be strongly urged before the House of Representatives at Washington this winter.

The Raritan canal now serves to furnish an inland waterway from New York harbor to Philadelphia and the other ports on the Delaware. It is for canal boats and craft of small draught, however. The new project has in mind a canal which will allow ships of fair size to pass through it and thus make their way from New York to the Delaware ports without the dangers of an outside voyage. Such a project would undoubtedly be of great value but it remains to see how much the Congressmen are impressed and to what extent they are willing to use the country's funds. It is hardly necessary to say that such an undertaking would be costly indeed.

The route proposed is not that of the present canal. In fact the northern terminus of the new waterway is planned to be located at a different spot from where the Raritan canal connects with the Raritan river. The new ship canal would start at Sayretown, which is much nearer the mouth of the Raritan than New Brunswick. The old canal passes right through the city of Trenton while the proposed one would just pass its corporate limits. The Delaware end of both canals would be Bordentown where Philadelphia and other southern ports would be reached by the Delaware river. It would be necessary to deepen the channel in that river somewhat to allow vessels of deep draught to pass through.

So far the project exists only in the minds of its advocates. It is said, however, that it has strong backing and that the project has a chance of becoming a reality before the world is many years older.

Trenton has started a first-class scandal in the Second Regiment. A commander for Company E is to be chosen and some of the members of that company claim that Col. Collins is using his official position to defeat one candidate and advance another. The Trentonites claim that the Colonel has taken action without precedent and in violation of the State constitution. Whatever the truth of the matter is, it has stirred up an unpleasant affair in the ranks of the Second which promises to sadly injure the harmony that has heretofore existed in the ranks of that regiment of the National Guard.

Some of the Republican newspapers of this county have been bravely asserting that the utmost harmony prevailed in the ranks of the Republicans of Union. The Democratic and independent sheets have been inclined to laugh at the rather amusing stand taken. Since the clam bake, however, the claims of complete harmony seem to be lessening.

The local supply of coal is getting very low and the days seem to be getting cooler than ever. The katydid has been proclaiming the near approach of frost and there is no apparent sign of a new supply.

The largest excursion of the season to go from Plainfield to the Twin Cities was that of Hope chapel, Saturday. Over a thousand people had a delightful, although chilly time.

While there were no league games Saturday, the baseball cranks found some interesting contests to witness.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

For neckties, cuffs, collars, shirts, or anything in men's wear, J. R. Blair's, Park avenue, is the popular emporium. Prices are always to suit.

W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer, keeps a large and assorted line of goods. There is no place in the Plainfields where you can be treated with greater satisfaction.

A model well-kept butcher shop is that of Smalley Brothers, North avenue. And the steak or the chop that you buy there is of the kind that gives you an appetite for more.

The business of McDonough Brothers, ice dealers, is constantly increasing. This is due to the quality of ice and the promptness with which it is delivered. The price is also an attractive feature.

Willett & Son, the Park avenue shoe dealers, always give satisfaction to their host of customers. They sell the best grade of shoes and fit and comfort are essentials before a customer is allowed to depart.

There is no disputing the fact that Putnam & DeGraw are popular dry goods merchants and this is all due to the fact that they have for years catered to the wish of the people. Their store is filled with just the kind of goods that are needed all the time.

When you purchase drugs, toilet articles, soda water or anything kept by L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, you are sure of having the best in the market. Compare the prices and notice how much better you can do at this store than you can in New York.

WOODHULL & MARTIN.

WHY LINE WAS NOT BUILT

A WOODBRIDGE OFFICIAL OUTWITTED RARITAN TRACTION COMPANY.

Company Was Going to Build at Midnight When He Secured an Injunction.

Township Counsel H. J. Thayer Martin, of Woodbridge, has thwarted an attempt by the Raritan Traction Company to lay tracks for the connection of two ends of a new trolley line over the bridge of Woodbridge creek without official sanction of the plans.

Everything was in readiness for a quick and quiet move at midnight, Saturday night, and the traction people expected that when Woodbridge awoke next morning its citizens would see the road in operation from Perth Amboy to Boynton Beach. Poles had been erected and wires strung, and it remained only to place the rails on the bridge and a portion of the new Woodbridge road extending a distance of 150 feet from the bridge to private lands owned by the proprietor of Boynton Beach, over which the trolley line runs from Woodbridge to that resort. Piled near the bridge were the rails. Other material and men were in readiness, and at the stroke of 12—but Township Counsel Martin served an injunction restraining the work at 9 o'clock that night, and there is still a missing link in the Perth Amboy-Boynton Beach trolley line.

Some time ago when the line was projected there was trouble over getting a franchise to run over the new Woodbridge road, upon which the township had expended $1,000 and expects to expend $4,000 more. Finally permission was given by the Freeholders of the county to use the road, but the township demanded a franchise tax. Then the traction company built its line almost to the bridge over the creek on the Boynton land, a right of way over which it had acquired, and beyond the bridge to Perth Amboy, but get over the bridge it could not without the consent of the township authorities. This was refused because the traction company declined to pay for the privilege of using the bridge and a short strip of the road from it to the Boynton land.

Township Counsel Martin was instructed to take every means to protect the municipality. He saw wires strung and poles erected on the bridge and on the little stretch of the road and learning on reasonably good authority that the traction company would spike down its rails in the dead of night and take chances on the courts upsetting its steal of road rights, he went to his offices in Newark, where he is a member of the firm of Guild & Martin, prepared the necessary papers and on Friday went to the home of Vice Chancellor Stevens in Morristown, was granted an injunction and then returned to Woodbridge and served it.

DUNELLEN.

Services in both the Presbyterian and Methodist churches yesterday were well attended and good sermons were preached by the occupants of the pulpits. Rev. L. E. Livermore was at the latter and based his discourse on the text as found Romans 1:16. Rev. Mr. McWilliams, of Somervville, was at the Presbyterian church.

The Dunellen Seconds journeyed to New Market, Saturday, and were badly worsted by the team at that place. The locals were defeated by a score of 17 to 0. Whitely pitched for New Market and in the first six innings struck out thirteen men, after which all count was lost.

Rev. L. E. Livermore and family, and Miss Florence Ely, have gone to Lebanon, Conn., where they will sojourn for a short time.

The Dunellen A. C. defeated the Raritans, Saturday by a score of 13 to 6. It was an easy victory for the borough team.

Miss Edna Vail has gone to Flemington where she will remain for the next two weeks.

Miss Mabelle Lewis returned home Saturday, from a visit with High Bridge friends.

George Churchill is entertaining his cousin, Miss Jennie Owens, of New York.

Mrs. Robert Giddes has gone to Boston, Miss., for a visit with relatives.

Miss Louise Conover, of Clinton, is the guest of Miss Margaret VanArsdale.

Charles Coriell, has returned home after a short stay at Atlantic City.

Walter Brokaw is confined to his home by an attack of appendicitis.

NEW MARKET.

An insolent tramp who appiled to Grocer W. J. Davis for alms, Friday, met with a rather warm reception. His request was really a demand and when the groceryman did not respond at once, he applied an insulting epithet. He had hardly spoken when he was seized firmly and hastily precipitated through the open door to the street. He disappeared around the corner without stopping to receive his battered tile which fell from his head.

Abram G. Nelson and his mother, Mrs. Hannah Nelson, left yesterday for SanFrancisco in response to a telegram received from the lawyers who had the affairs of Mrs. Charles L. Fair in charge. They expect to be away at least a month.

The State game wardens expect to be at New Market, this week, and draw off the water from the lake in order to rid it of German carp. Miller Otto is making preparations to lend assistance.

The Misses Emma Nelson and Irene Day left Saturday for Great Barrington, Mass., where they will remain the balance of the summer.

Fred Sutherland, of Neshanic, was the guest of friends in town, yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The baseball game on Saturday afternoon between the locals and Safe Works, of Plainfield, was attended by the largest crowds that has gathered on the local diamond this year. Manager Johnston made no mistake when he refused to have the game transferred to Plainfield as the treasury of the club shows a neat little balance, and there are but few of local rooters but who will be spending Plainfield money for a few days.

Special fresh air services for the benefit of Camp Woolfe, of Westfield, were held in the parlors of the Baptist church Sunday evening. A pleasing programme was rendered consisting of songs, recitations, prayers and an address explaining the work being done at the camp for the poor of the East Side, New York. At the close a collection was taken for the benefit of the work.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held a special meeting on Saturday evening to take action upon the death of the late brother, Richard S. Fisher, who died suddenly at his home in Dunellen. The deceased was also a member of Onward Council, L. A. B. A.

Lillian Lloyd-Williamson, the celebrated soprano, of Shannon's Twenty-third Regiment Band, of Brooklyn, and Miss Elsie Jones, are enjoying themselves at "The Evergreens," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Laurence.

The trolley company were running cars under a ten minute headway yesterday but this did not relieve the cars of the usual Sunday jam. Every car during the afternoon and evening was packed to suffocation.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott T. Collins, of Brooklyn, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. Collins's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Collins, of the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company will hold their regular monthly meeting in their rooms this evening at 8 o'clock.

T. Rombo Collins, who has been enjoying a two weeks' outing at New Hampton, L. I., returned home on Saturday.

Wm. B. Noble resumed his position today at the Nassau Bank, New York, after a pleasant vacation of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jimerson, of Westfield, were the guests of their daughter, Mrs. George W. Marsh, Sunday.

The baseball game Sunday afternoon at Buffalo is a drawing attraction for the lovers of the game in town.

Wm. Jimerson led an interesting meeting of the Epworth League in the Methodist church last evening.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A burglar was detected about 1 o'clock Friday night trying to effect an entrance into the home of Peter Johnson. The prowler was caught in the act of removing a screen in one of the windows on the first floor. He was frightend away by a slight noise made by Mr. Johnson, who was ready for him a revolver. A little later, a nephew of Mr. Johnson awoke in another part of the house to find the burglar coming in through his window, this time with his shoes removed. The burglar was frightened away a second time. Nevertheless, he persisted, and, when the household was asleep again, entered the cellar, where it was found afterward he procured a pitcher of milk and some fish.

Peter Johnson is celebrating his fifty-fifth birthday. A surprise will be tendered him this evening in honor of the event.

Mrs. Mary N. Pyatt and her grandchild, Mary E. Pyatt, are sojourning at Ocean Grove for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Voorhees, of Metuchen, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. W. B. Manning.

Mrs. H. Lewis has returned to Boston after a month's visit with Mrs. F. LaTourette.

Edward M. Pyatt and Samuel R. Pyatt have returned home from Madison, N. J.

Miss M. Bennett has returned to New York after visiting friends in town.

Mrs. David Bigley is entertaining Mrs. Francis Cornelius and children.

Lena B. Pyatt is visiting friends in New Market.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

ST. MARYS OFF DAY.

Ragged in the extreme was the playing on both sides in the game between Clinton Avenue and St. Mary's on the latter's grounds Saturday afternoon. Several hundred people gathered in the hope of seeing something reasonably like baseball, but agreed afterwadrs that they had witnessed the poorest exhibition of the season. Clinton Avenue won without much effort, to the tune of 18 to 10.

Changes in the St. Mary lineup, owing to the absence of Crotty, Keeffe and Scott, is the excuse offered by that team for its general yellowness. Barry was unable to hold Doyle, while "Doc" was away off his usual form, allowing thirteen hits, two bases on balls and three dead balls. Seven strike outs were recorded in his favor. Pohlman, the Clinton Avenue twirler, fared somewhat better, being touched up for only ten hits and giving four passes. The support given both pitchers was so discouraging as to be largely responsible for their unsteadiness at critcial times.

Clinton Avenue took the lead in the first inning with four runs, and they were never headed. Batting rallies, aided by the ever present errors, kept the crowd amused for two hours, but the loose playing detracted much from the interest. A summary of the game follows:

CLEAN AND ABLE; STRONG, LEARNED

Charles S. Sminck Espouses the Candidacy of William N. Runyon.

FORCE AND CHARACTER.

MR. RUNYON'S NOMINATION WOULD BE AN INSPIRATION.

Rests With Citizens of This City to Send a Solid Delegation to the County Convention in Advocacy of Plainfield's Claim.

A communication received from Charles J. Sminck is herewith published in full. It advocates the nomination of City Judge Runyon for the office of State Senator and needs no explanation.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Plainfield in offering Judge Wm. N. Runyon as a candidate for State Senator does not put him on a pedestal or seat him on a mountain top to be looked up to as a "holier than thou" man.

Perhaps it is not over-stating the case to say that Mr. Runyon is one of the brightest men of his age in the State and certainly the people of Plainfield must proudly concur in this opinion. Mr. Runyon is a man of force and character, clean and able, strong and learned and he would fill the position of Senator with ability and credit to the people.

Mr. Runyon knows the ropes, the curious turns that politicians take, is familiar with the pitfalls and can avoid the dark political places that have led so many promising young statesmen astray. Mr. Runyon is a young man, with the fire, energy and enthusiasm of youth, with the genius and ambition to achieve, not unworthily, but to win place and distinction by hard work, honest effort and noble impulse.

It rests with the citizens of Plainfield to send a solid delegation to the county convention in advocacy of Plainfield's claim to this honorable office.

Mr. Runyon's candidacy would be an inspiration to the young men of the party, it would fill them with cheer and hope and it would give renewed confidence in the belief that the pocket-book is not always a political winner.

How refreshing it will be to have a candidate selected whose only claim rests on ability! How enlivening it will be to have a candidate poor in purse but rich in wisdom! The people will jump to his cause and elect him by a large majority.

The ordinary citizen feels that no man has a mortgage on the position of senator which he is at liberty to foreclose in the interest of either himself or somebody else.

Therefore it is right and proper for Judge Runyon to be a candidate. Why not? The interests of the people of Elizabeth are not opposed to Mr. Runyon. Why should the people of Elizabeth be in opposition to him?

Like Mr. Kean he is to the manor born. A native of the county. The people of Elizabeth want just the same thing that the people of Plainfield want. They are inspired with the charms of youth, they want good government, they love honesty, they have civic pride and the hopes and possibilities of American citizenship are talked about at their firesides and in every way Elizabeth people are just like Plainfield people.

The idea of drawing a line of hostility between Elizabeth and Plainfield or between Plainfield and any other town in the county is one that can be entertained only by a man so far behind the age of breadth and liberality as to be afraid to ride on a railroad train for fear the engine might "turn turtle."

Small peanut politicians try to cultivate an animosity in order to personally gain in a local appeal to self-pride but the fact remains and stands out clear and bold that the interests of the people are the same throughout the county.

For this reason we confidently appeal to the people of the county to elect delegates to the convention who will nominate Mr. Runyon—a gentleman who will stand by the people, who will not be a slave to the third house and whose record as Judge in the city of Plainfield shows that the strong and the weak, the rich and the poor, the famous and the obscure, and all sorts and conditions of people are safe in his hands.

A man who lives up to the motto of democracy and champions the constructive principles of Republicanism.

Yours truly,
Chas. S. Sminck.

LITERATURE OF NEW JERSEY

NEWARK PUBLIC LIBRARY IS HUNTING FOR ALL IT CAN FIND.

Has Sent Out a Public Letter Asking for Assistance in Finding It.

The Newark Free Public Library has made the sad discovery that literary material having to do with New Jersey is scarce; at least, diligent efforts have failed to reveal that amount which would be expected concerning a State so rich in tradition and in history. Far from being discouraged, the authorities of the local institution have redoubled their search, and a letter has been issued calling Jerseymen and Jersey women to their aid. The letter, which has been sent to the newspapers, the libraries and the historical associations of the State, reads as follows:

"In connection with our work with the schools, we have been looking for literary material having to do with New Jersey—sketches of prominent men, stories of dramatic incidents, descriptions of interesting historical spots, etc., in prose or poetry. Thus far we have found very little indeed. Has none of New Jersey's history got into the field of belles lettres? Can you refer us to stories, poems, biographical sketches, etc., in this field, especially such as are brief and told in a way which makes them interesting to young people? We do not wish a bibliography of New Jersey writings. We wish a list of things written about New Jersey which can properly be classed as 'literature.' Do you know of any?"

Replies are eagerly awaited. In particular, are the library people eager to get hold of literature referring to Newark—an excellent field which, one would judge, has been singularly neglected.

This movement, engineered by the library, is deserving of hearty commendation in its object to reawaken interest in local and State history. Jersey children certainly should know about their own State, and it will not do the grown-ups any harm to be a little more familiar with it. If there are bits of literature about Jersey hidden away, by all means let them be brought to the light.

The circular is of interest, too, in directing anew, as it does, the thoughts of Jersey authors to the localities and the characters with which they are presumably the most familiar. The question is pertinent: Why go far afield when so much is at your hand?

—Frank MacDonald's new house in the borough is completed and ready for occupancy.

—Rev. Charles Dunn, of Freeport, Ill., preached two interesting sermons at the First Baptist church yesterday, and the servicse were largely attended.

—Mrs. J. Fred Wharton, of West Fifth street, will hold a missionary tea and sale at her home, Wednesday evening. The proceeds will be for the be for the benefit of the King's Daughters' Baby Camp.

HOME IN PIANO BOX.

Baltimore Fisherman Spends His Life in Tight Quarters.

Likes It Because He Has to Pay No Rent and Isn't Bothered About Anything—Hint to Prospective Hermits.

Not many of even the meek and lowly spirited citizens of Baltimore would take kindly to the thought of living nine months of the year in a piano box six feet long by two and one-half feet wide and five feet high, says the Baltimore Sun.

And yet that is what James Thomas Bailey, a weather-beaten and white-haired fisherman, 58 years old, has been doing for the past four years. He seems to thrive on it, too.

The box stands at the end of a row of others, all of which, with the exception of Bailey's, contain fishing tackle, on the shore of Spring Gardens, at the foot of Hanover street.

About ten years ago Bailey became a fisherman at the spot where he now lives. He says that the idea of seeking the piano box was first suggested to him when the snow of the famous blizzard of February, 1898, sifted through the cracks of a shanty he was then occupying and opened its sides to the weather. He thought a more compact apartment would be better, and, looking upon the row of boxes that line the shore, determined that one of them would be the very thing. He bought one for 75 cents, fitted it with some bed clothing, and has lived there ever since, cooking his meals on the open ground just outside.

To a visitor of the place Mr. Bailey hospitably showed his home. "Yes," he said, in reply to a question as to whether it really was true that he lived in a box, "there it is." And, lifting the tin-covered lid, he displayed the interior.

It is truly a lesson in economy of space. On a shelf running the length of the box, out a half-foot below the top, were placed pipes, tobacco, a coffee pot, comb and brush, fishing tackle and many useful articles. There was no attempt at ornamentation. In the bottom, with about three feet of space between it and the top, was Mr. Bailey's bed. It hardly looked like a bed, wearing apparel being scattered about it so promiscuously—blue overalls, spare trousers, and, sticking aggressively in the center, Mr. Bailey's reserve wooden leg, painted black and highly polished.

"Well, you will certainly never tumble out of bed," said the visitor.

"No, and I never have to hunt for the keyhole," was the answer, as Mr. Bailey showed that he had no lock on his street door, but it was simply fastened by a common padlock staple minus the padlock. "I don't live here all the year 'round," he further explained. "You see, in the real cold weather a man would freeze. That blizzard taught me that. But I come early in April and stay until late in December. The other months I usually spend with my daughter in town. I make my living by fishing here in the river. I own a boat and I own my own house, and I'm contented. When I go in and shut the lid down nothing bothers me—I'm dead to the world. If it rains I hear the patter of it outside, but it don't come in. You see, I have the top covered with tin. I don't pay any taxes—I don't pay any rent. I ain't bothered about anything."

It All Depended on Dinah.

A girl baby was recently brought to a clergyman to be baptized. He asked the name of the baby. "Dinah M.," the father responded. "But what does the 'M.' stand for?" interrogated the minister. "Well, I do not know yet; it all depends upon how she turns out." "How she turns out? Why, I do not understand you," said the cleric. "Oh, if she turns out nice and sweet and handy about the house like her mother I shall call her Dinah May. But if she has a fiery temper and displays a bombshell disposition like mine I shall call her Dinah Might."

Market for Stolen Goods.

In the City of Mexico is a Thieves' market, in which stolen goods are publicly offered for sale. It occupies an entire square. Here may be found everything that is portable, from a telescope to a ring, a silk dress, or a pair of stockings, and the articles are sold at about one-fifth of their actual value. The thieves do not sell the goods openly, for that would be dishonest, in the estimation of the Mexicans, but the sellers are they who purchase secretly from the thieves.

MASSACHUSETTS CAN'T SINK.

Survival of the Battleship After Some Narrow Escapes from Sudden Destruction.

The battleship Massachusetts has had more narrow escapes from destruction than most vessels survive. On December 10, 1898, she ran aground on the Diamond reef in New York harbor and sustained such damage that it cost close on $100,000 to repair her. In June, 1901, she made the perilous passage of Hell Gate and established a record for vessels of her draft by getting through in safety. Only one ship of any thing like her size had attempted it before, the ill-fated Maine, whose captain found himself in the position of choosing between running down an excursion steamer or running aground himself. He chose the latter alternative and saved many valuable lives, reports the New York Sun.

On another occasion she escaped injury as though by magic. She was on a trip from Nantucket to Newport when she touched the Five Fathom bank horseshoe. The engines were reversed, the guns shifted and she slowly slid off without any injury whatever.

The Massachusetts is a first-class battleship of 10,288 tons. She has a speed of 15 knots and carries four 13-inch, eight eight-inch, four six-inch, four one-pounder, 20 six-pounder and four gatling guns, besides being fitted with three torpedo tubes. Her crew consists of 37 officers and 438 men and her cost was $3,020,000.

UNEXPLAINED ENERGY.

Strange Properties of Metals Which Seem to Be Opposed to Existing Chemical Theories.

The new chemical elements of the last few years have impressed us with their suggestions of secrets yet to be revealed, says the London Trades Journals' Review. A French writer notes that the rare metals from uranium ores—prolonium, radium and actinium, discovered in 1898 and 1899—have startled us with properties that appear to be opposed to existing physical and chemical theories, and probably open the way to a new era in the history of science. They seem to create energy from nothing. Without perceptible loss of outside aid, they produce light and electricity, and their emission of Becquerel rays—which resemble Roentgen rays and were first noticed in 1896 in uranium—is 100,000 times greater than that of uranium. The self-luminosity of radium, sufficient to show writing, is not sensibly diminished at the end of the year. The new metals impart fluorescence to the diamond, alkaline substance, paper, etc., and their salts have powerful chemical action—converting oxygen into ozone, discoloring glass and porcelain, energetically attacking photographic plates, and attacking the skin and destroying the germination of seeds. These are effects of radiation.

WAS ENTITLED TO A SEAT.

Youthful Newspaper Vender Asserts His Right and Fools a Fussy Passenger.

The other day on an elevated train in New York a small boy stood before a huge pile of newspapers that occupied one of the seats. He was sorting them and dropping a package upon each station as it was reached for the news stand located there. The car was crowded and seats at a premium.

A fussy old man watched the boy for a time. Then he touched him on the shoulder and said in a loud and arrogant manner "See here, my son, what right have you to keep those papers on that seat when passengers are compelled to stand up?"

The boy looked up and politely said: "Do you object to my having those papers on the seat?"

"I certainly do," said the man. "I have paid my fare and have a right to sit down."

The boy carefully removed his pile of papers from the seat to the floor a small bundle at a time. The protesting passenger stood in an expectant attitude; the spectators looked on with absorbed attention.

When the seat was empty the boy turned about and sat down. Looking up at the man he said, quietly: "I paid my fare, too, and I guess this seat belongs to me."

WATER AS MOTIVE POWER.

It Is Believed in New York That Niagara Falls May Yet Turn Their Wheels.

Interest in the subject of a return to water power as a primary agent in supplying motor energy is stimulated by the news that Baltimore's trolley system is to be run by the Susquehanna river force. The methods to be applied are those of the Niagara plan, by which the great cataract evolves electric power for mills, traction lines and street and house illumination all through its corner of New York state.

It is the idea in Baltimore that the Susquehanna energy may yet run the cars and light the streets and buildings in a number of Maryland towns, says the New York World. So in the Empire state there is the dream, perhaps to be realized yet, that the tremendous Niagara power now going to waste will become of avail even in Manhattan. To the dawning of such an approach to a smokeless age we might give hearty welcome in the present days of soft coal menace.

EYES LIKE THE COLT'S.

A Western Horseman's Success in Subduing an Incorrigible New York Slum Girl.

Five families had successively volunteered to provide a home for the little "slum" girl, and the fifth had just sent her back to the arms of the benevolent organization which had charge of her. According to the reports from these families, says the New York Post, she was not only an infant fury, but a mendacious sneak, and the agent who was taking her back to the city felt discouraged at the prospect of having to misrepresent in order to make a sixth family take her.

A big, broad-jawed man, friendly with the spirit of the west, sat down beside him. Needing some one to share his troubles, the agent told him the whole story.

"I'll take that little girl," said the stranger. The agent gasped.

"You know I told you what a terror she is," he said.

"I know," said the man, "but I think she and I can get along all right. I don't know that I told you I was in the stock-raising business. I've got a colt on my farm that nobody can manage but myself. Well, that little girl has eyes just like that colt. As soon as we get to the station if you're willing, I'll telegraph to my wife and tell her about it."

The sequel to the story is the most satisfactory part of it. The stockman's prediction proved true. The little girl was perfectly happy in her new home, and the couple have recently adopted her and legally given her their name.

GAVE THE WRONG ROLL.

Best Man Makes Singular Discovery in Dress Suit Year After the Wedding.

Immediately after a wedding which took place in Washington the best man started for South Africa, where he remained more than a year. On his return, says a writer in Harper's Magazine, he was given a dinner, and wore evening clothes for the first time since the wedding.

In the midst of the evening, fumbling in his waistcoat pocket, he astonished himself and his friends by pulling out a hundred-dollar bill. Where had it come from? A sudden thought flashed across his mind.

The next morning he went to the clergyman who had married his friends.

"Do you remember marrying Mr. Armitage and Miss Bently about a year ago?"

"Oh, perfectly," replied the clergyman. "I see them constantly at my church."

"Well, will you pardon me if I ask you a delicate question in strict confidence. How much did you receive as your fee?"

"I will return frankness with frankness," returned the clergyman, smiling whimsically. "It was the strangest fee that ever came my way. After the ceremony the best man, with a profusion of thanks, slipped into my hand a small sliver of plug tobacco wrapped in a wad of paraffin paper!"

LET THIS BE A WARNING.

Strange Series of Disasters That Befell the Stingy Borrower of a Paper.

A man who was too stingy to take his home paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor, says the Kingston Leader. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 hive of bees, and in ten minutes he looked like a warty squash. His cries reached his father who ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy, and ruining a $5 pair of pants. The cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upset a four gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of kittens drowning them. In the hurry she lost a $7 set of teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the cream and the parlor, ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up 11 setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine night shirts. The man could have had a paper of his own for $1 per year and saved all the trouble and expense.

Quiet Auction Sales.

At the Crabbet sale of Arab horses an American lady, who was among the guests, expressed great contempt for the quiet method of Mr. Tattersall, the auctioneer, says the London Chronicle. "I'd like you to hear one of our auctioneers," she said. "He would be an orator; and he would make those prices jump. That man doesn't know how to talk." It was explained to her that the auctioneer knew that these tight-lipped, watchful bidders had examined the horses, knew as much about horses as he did, and knew just how far they were going. He knew, too, that at the first touch of oratory they would relight cigars and go for a stroll till he had finished. In this particular matter, as the American lady finally admitted, the English method is quicker, honester and more effective.

A MARVELOUS TREE.

Palm in Brazil Which Is Put to Many Uses by the People of That Country.

Undoubtedly the most marvelous tree in the world grows in Brazil. It is the carnahuba palm, and can be employed for many useful purposes, says the Boston Transcript. Its roots produce the same medicinal effects as sarsaparilla. Its stems afford strong, light fibers, which acquire a beautiful luster, and serve also for joists, rafters and other building materials, as well as for stakes for fences.

From parts of the tree wines and vinegar are made. It yields also a saccharine substance, as well as a starch, resembling sago. Its fruit is used for feeding cattle. The pulp has an agreeable taste, and the nut, which is oleaginous and emulsive, is sometimes used as a substitute for coffee. Of the wood of the stem musical instruments, water tubes and pumps are made. The pitch is an excellent substitute for cork. From the stem a white liquid similar to the milk of the cocoanut and a flour resembling maizena may be extracted.

Of the straw, hats, baskets, brooms and mats are made. A considerable quantity of this straw is shipped to Europe, and a part of it returns to Brazil manufactured into hats. The straw is also used for thatching houses. Moreover, salt is extracted from it, and likewise an alkali used in the manufacture of common soap.

TOMBSTONE AS EVIDENCE.

Importance of the Inscription in a Kansas City Lawsuit for Property Rights.

The title to Kansas City property valued at over half a million dollars has been clouded by a suit filed in the circuit court there by the heirs of the late Nancy Priddy. The property, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, includes 52 acres in the fashionable residence district. Mrs. Priddy died in 1892. It is contended by her heirs, who are residents of Central Point, Ore., that she was 60 years old at the time of her death, while the defendants to the suit maintain that she was 66 years old. On this point the suit hinges. If she were but 60 years old she had not reached a lawful age to execute a deed at the time she disposed of her property here in 1852. There is no record of her birth, the only evidence of her age being her tombstone, and the claim is made that it has been tampered with. The tombstone, a plaster cast of which was made in Oregon for use in the trial, shows this record: "Aged 60 years," but the cipher looks as though it might originally have been a "6," and it will be left to the court to decide whether it was or not. If the court declares her age to have been 60 years at the time of her death the heirs will win.

THE CITY DOG'S HABITS.

Will Quickly Answer to "Hello," But Doesn't Know the Meaning of a Whistle.

A dog fancier says that city dogs would have to learn over a good many things if they were sent to smaller towns or the country.

"When you want a dog in a small town or the country," he says, "you whistle. A city dog doesn't know what a whistle means.

"You seldom hear a city man whistle to his dog when the dog is untied, and, of course, there is no use in whistling to one that is at the end of a string. Most city dogs are taught to come at the crack of a whip, or the ordinary call: 'Come here.'

"The city dog is also familiar with the salutation: 'Hello!' He will frequently prick up his ears at that when he won't notice any other call.

"A city dog seldom barks on the street when he is at large. He may make night hideous if he is tied up in a backyard, but rarely in the streets.

"You will find dogs along the piers. They seem to have a fondness for sailors. An ordinary dog will follow a sailor when he wouldn't be coaxed by anybody else. The city dog's habits are peculiar."

Deadly Dukite Snake.

One who has been all over the world said to a reporter for the New York Press: "Your Martinique friend, fer-de-lance, is not to be compared with the dukite snake of Australia. It is like the pictures you have seen of sin, a long, red snake, with eyes the living embodiment of evil. The dukites never go alone. If you are unfortunate enough to kill one without killing its mate the latter will follow your trail remorselessly, like death, or fate, and, if you camp 20 miles from the spot, it will kill you as sure as you killed its partner."

Piff-Puff a New Game.

People who ping-pong too strenuous for hot weather may be interested in "piff-puff," a new New Zealand game, says the Boston Globe. It is played with a miniature pair of bellows and an air ball, which is very light. At each end of the table are upstanding goals, and the play lies in directing the ball through the opponent's goal. This, by a stroke of luck, may be done in a few minutes, or it may not be accomplished in a night.

BLACK AND WHITE.

New Shade of Red—A Grass Linen Model Gown.

Some of the most successful dresses this season have been combinations of black and white. This is almost invariably becoming, and it always gives an air of distinction.

One of these dresses was made of white satin foulard having a mosaic pattern in black. The skirt was enriched with incrustations of white Irish guipure tapering to points of irregular length. It was finished at the bottom with three frills of white silk muslin, each edged with narrow black chiffon ruching. The bodice was cut in a tiny V shape at the neck and was similarly enriched with lace. The elbow sleeves had frills of muslin and chiffon.

There is a new shade called geranium red which is being much worn at watering places. It is combined with black and a deep shade of ecru.

A very seasonable dress of grass linen is herewith shown. The waist is made with a full front of ecru net banded with black velvet ribbons. The fronts are of heavy ecru embroidery. The sleeves are tucked perpendicularly, and the fullness forms puffs at the wrists. The skirt is plain, with the exception of a wide flounce of the embroidery headed by tucks.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE DRESS OF THE HOUR.

Loose Effects In Boleros—Late Summer Millinery.

There is a craze for loose effects in the pretty boleros and sack coats of the moment. Nearly all the dressier frocks are made with some suggestion of a bolero, either in lace or chiffon.

The late summer millinery shows many picture shapes both in black and white. Bass straws are giving place to crinolines and chips, and a great many of the best hats are trimmed with ostrich plumes.

The curtain effect gained by plaitings of lace is getting less exaggerated, and women are becoming tired of the shepherdess shape, both large and small.

Many well dressed women are wearing hats to match their frocks. This is always considered smart, but it requires a long purse.

Sleeves are becoming daily larger, and skirts are getting fuller around the feet. There is no doubt the fancy for jackets is increasing, and many jaunty little models are cut away in the front, with abbreviated tails in the back.

An attractive rose trimmed picture hat is here shown. It would be becoming to almost any young face.

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"Honesty certainly pays—honesty on the surface, with keen roguery to back it," he muttered, lapsing into a thoughtful mood.

The fellow seemed to be a very long time on his errand, so that the visitor had ample time to examine the various beautiful objects in the room. As he stood up to have a better view of the general effect, he noticed on the floor by the table near which he was seated a scrap of an envelope that attracted his attention. He uttered an exclamation of sudden surprise as he reached out his hand for it. Just then there was the sound of a step in the hall, and he thrust the bit of paper in his pocket.

On the threshold stood a stout man in a greenish livery with a red vest. The latter garment was quite in agreement with the color scheme of his round face.

This person was evidently the butler of the establishment, or an upper servant.

"You wished to see Mr. Ellison?"

"Exactly."

"Gone away, bag and baggage, this morning."

Hendricks looked to see if the man were telling the truth, and then, having satisfied himself that such was the case, said:

"Then you can give me his address, I presume."

"Don't know it; he left none."

"To be gone a long time?"

"Don't know sir, and, if that is all——"

"Is he trying to slip out of my hands," was the thought that had entered Job's mind, but, seeing that the fat gentleman was standing waiting to see him out, he said:

"Sorry not to find him, but, I dare say, I shall run across him in the city."

The butler was silent, though his lips were moving as if there was something on his mind that he wanted to say, and yet hesitated about uttering. Such a seedy visitor deserved contemptuous treatment, and yet his audacity might be owing to the fact that he had some real business to discuss with the master of the house. So Job was ushered silently out, and the butler gave vent to his outraged feelings by slamming the door violently behind him.

Job Hendricks pursued his way peacefully to the gate, and so into the highroad, wondering what this sudden move on the part of Ellison might portend.

"He is too sensible a man to think that he can get rid of me so easily by running away," he said to himself. "I wonder if the appearance of the strange fellow in the garden during my last visit has anything to do with his running off?"

Then he remembered the bit of torn envelope he had picked up in the drawing-room, and he at once thrust his hand in his pocket and drew it out.

The envelope bore the simple inscription:

James Ellison, Esq.,
The Grange,
Exton, New York.

It was a peculiar handwriting, with certain features that made it distinctly orignal. Job Hendricks seemed to be intensely interested, and sat down on a bank at the edge of the road to study the paper.

Then, out of an inner pocket of his coat, he took out another piece of paper, and, placing it alongside of the other, examined them for some minutes with deep attention.

"The same writing exactly—a little changed by time, but the same man wrote them both." He thrust the papers back in his pocket and brought the palm of his hand down on his knee with a resounding slap, as if to express the exultation he felt over the discovery he had made.

"Well, I shall find my old enemy where I little thought to look for him. By watching Ellison I shall lay hold of him, and, when I do, perhaps the chance will come to settle our account, which has been running so many years. But, first, I must spin the web that will hold him fast."

Then, humming a song as if he had reason to feel glad of his visit, he strode on toward the town.

CHAPTER XI.

FRIENDS AND FOES.

It was strange that a bit of paper—a scrap of torn envelope—could have such a tonic effect on an elderly man's spirits, but Job Hendricks seemed highly elated over the discovery he had made in the Ellisons' house.

While the sudden flitting of Ellison was a surprise to him, he believed that he should have no trouble in finding him, for he would have to appear when the murder case came up for trial.

When he assured himself that the young girl had been taken away that morning by her father, he felt that for the present he had no business further in the town. What settled the question of his going was when he entered his little room at the inn and found his bag had been broken and its meager contents scattered about. It appeared as if the searcher, in a rage, had tossed the things recklessly around because he could not find what he wanted.

Job accepted the incident with good humor.

"So they have left some one behind to try and get hold of that paper," he said to himself. "With that in Ellison's possession he might bite his thumb at me. But he never will, as long as I am able to stand upright."

The most important articles of his belongings he thrust in his bulging pockets, and the rest he restored to the bag and left it lying on the floor. Then he wrote a note to the landlord, wrapped a bank note around it, that was more than his bill amounted to, sealed and addressed it, and left it on the bureau where it could be easily seen, and went quietly out of the room, closing the door softly behind him. He was rather glad that he did not find the landlord below stairs, but even if the worthy Peter had been there he should have said nothing about his going.

"Let this spy and thief still think I am in town," he said to himself, as he went out the door. "So much the easier for me to throw him off the track."

Thinking that perhaps there might be unseen eyes watching him, he approached the depot in a circuitous way, reaching it from exactly the opposite road he had set out. Then he kept out of sight until the train arrived that was to carry him to Farrenford, where he knew that poor Dick Barnett was confined. He felt satisfied as the train moved out of the station that his departure had not been noticed, and the thought that the man who had been left to watch him was outwitted filled him with quiet amusement.

So it came about that the little man in brown was never again seen in the town of Exton, and the landlord of the Bluebell, when he found his star boarder had taken French leave, mourned his loss for many weeks afterward, and was wont to regale the loafers of his establishment with the prodigality of the millionaire traveling in disguise who had honored his roof for a few short days.

Meanwhile Dick Barnett took his confinement coolly, and now and then his solitary life was cheered by a visit from Grace Ellison.

She generally came with her father, and it seemed to Dick that Ellison did not treat him with the same feeling as in the past, before this trouble came up. He often wondered, too, what had become of the little man who had acted in such a friendly way while he was enjoying, or rather enduring, Mr. Bliven's hospitality at Exton. He finally set him down as an eccentric, who had become tired of playing philanthropist in his case and was probably amusing himself on a fresh subject.

When he was examined he was surprised to find what a weight of circumstantial evidence there was against him. There were two things that counted in his favor. First, his good character and even temper making it seem impossible that he could in a fit of anger have killed the mother, simply because she opposed his suit; secondly, the discovery that Mrs. Ellison had been despoiled of her earrings of diamonds and emeralds. Still, there was some doubt whether she had worn them that night, though they could not be found in the receptacle where she usually kept her jewels.

That the young school-teacher could have been a robber as well as guilty of a deeper crime seemed absurd on the face of it. On the other hand, he was very poor, and had made arrangements to leave the town that night surreptitiously.

So the case remained, and he was remanded to await his trial with the prospect of some months in jail, anyway, before he could be free. As for Ellison, he promised to do great things. He would pay a force of detectives to search for new evidence, and proclaimed dramatically in court his belief in the young man's innocence. He did all he could to make his former protege comfortable in prison, and Dick, far from feeling downcast, as he expected to be when he found the weight of evidence against him, became confident that he had but to wait and all would be well.

On the very day of the examination, while James Ellison was still enjoying the proud feeling of a man who has been defending the cause of the poor and weak, a card was brought to him in his hotel room that drew from him an exclamation of surprise.

"Show the man up," he said to the servant, and straightway began to walk nervously up and down the room as if the prey to a violent excitement.

When he heard a step in the corridor without, and heard a timid knock on the door, he went and opened it, admitting a gayly-dressed young man, with a sharp face and closely-cropped hair, who stood for a moment on the threshold, twisting a light felt hat nervously in his hands.

HORSE AND AUTOMOBILE.

The Animal Made Acquaintance with the Machine and Was Easily Cured of His Fear.

There is some talk of a school wherein horses may be educated out of their fear of automobiles; whether this would serve or not is another question, but here is a little instance of what one sensible, considerate automobile driver did for the sake of a frightened horse, says the New York Post.

The automobile had come to a standstill in the roadway to permit the passage of a small and apparently very young horse in trotting rig attached to a training sulky. The motor had not been shut off, so the machine kept chug-chug-chugging as the horse approached. With a snort and a leap the horse whirled to the side of the road, nearly throwing out the man in the sulky. Then the automobilist shut off the motor and called to the driver: "Wait a moment until the animal quiets down; then drive him up slowly while I sit still."

This the driver did, and when the horse was within 10 or 12 feet of the machine his progress toward it having been slow and fearful, the automobilist got out, took the horse by the bridle, and led him carefully up to the car, patting the animal the while and talking to it. "Now, look it over, smell it, see there's nothing to hurt you."

For fully five minutes the horse was permitted to inspect the machine, and at last it seemed quite accustomed to it. After that the horse was driven back and forth several times without evincing the slightest feat. The automobilist did not start his car until the horse was almost out of sight.

WHEAT LANDS IN EUROPE.

Shown by Analysis, the Soil of Siberia Is Similar to That of America.

We are told that the south European wheat lands constitute a broad belt of prairie, 600 to 700 miles in average width, beginning in Hungary and extending northeastward to the Ural mountains, and then westward into Siberia to unknown boundaries, says the Export Implement Age. On the north and the west are the "gray forest lands," and on the south and west are salt and alkaline districts and sandy wastes, and finally the Caucasus and the Ural mountains. By both chemical and mechanical analyses the soil is shown to be remarkably similar to that of our own prairies, also commonly known by the similar term of "black loam." The depth is, on an average, probably a little greater than tht of our prairie soil. From a chemical standpoint the soils of the two regions are similarly characterized (1) by an exceptionally large amount of thoroughly humified organic matter; (2) by the presence of an unusual proportion of phosphoric acid, and (3) by a great amount, comparatively, of lime, potash and other alkalies. These soils are therefore alkaline, while others, especially of forest regions, are acid. It is well known that the substances thus more abundant in these soils than in others are just those usually needed by the wheat plant.

THE AUTHOR'S POWER.

Wields a Magic Influence Over the Mind of the Average Reader of Fiction.

Everybody knows that in a novel a commonplace person may be made interesting by a deliberate, patient exposition of his various traits, precisely as we can learn to like very uninteresting persons in real life if circumstances place them day after day at our elbows, says Atlantic. Who of us would not grow impatient with the early chapters of The Newcomes, for instance, or The Antiquary, if it were not for the fact that Thackeray and Scott know their business, and that every one of these commonplace people will contribute something in the end to the total effect? And even where the gradual development of character, rather than the mere portrayal of character, is the theme of a novelist, as so frequently with George Eliot, how colorless may be the personality at the outset, how narrow the range of thought and experience portrayed! Yet, in George Eliot's own words: "These commonplace people have a conscience, and have felt the sublime promptings to do the painful right." They take on dignity from their moral struggle, whether the struggle ends in victory or defeat. By an infinite number of subtle touches they are made to grow and change before our eyes, like living, fascinating things.

Dragon-Fly Farms.

The breeding of innumerable hosts of dragon flies, or devil's darning needles, as they are called by country boys in some parts of the United States, in order that these insects may extirpate the mosquitoes, is now advocated in certain quarters, says the New York Tribune. Are we to have dragon fly stock farms, with annual sales of weanlings of the choicest pedigree? Alas, it is to be feared that, no matter what we do, we shall have the mosquitoes always with us, like the poor. Nevertheless, the swarms of these pests can undoubtedly be lessened in numbers and in the evil which they work.

Five Thousand Miles of Cigarettes.

Inspectors of the Bristol (England) factory district have figured out that more than 5,000 miles of machine-made cigarettes are turned out weekly from the districts aforesaid.

GOOD BUSINESS MAN.

Heir to Mackay Millions Respected by Financiers.

Suggested Some Successful Schemes to His Father—His Weakness for Horses Has Never Become a Vice.

Clarence Hungerford Mackay, who, by the death of his father, John W. Mackay, becomes the head of the family and of the great business interests which it controls, has for years been familiar with the various business enterprises in which his father was engaged. Up to the present time he has never taken active part in the direction of the Mackay business concerns, but it is well known among the friends of the family and among the men who were the business associates of John W. Mackay that Clarence H. Mackay had the confidence of his father in business matters, who gave him credit for having suggested some of his successful business schemes.

Clarence H. Mackay was born in San Francisco April 17, 1874. With his brother, who died in 1895, he was taken to Europe, and his boyhood days were spent at Villebon, near Paris, the beautiful estate now leased by W. K. Vanderbilt, who has converted a part of the place into a horse breeding establishment, where he keeps Halma and other famous horses.

If Clarence H. Mackay has a weakness it is for horses. He had owned a number of good horses, but had never become known on the turf until he won the great international stallion race at Paris with Sweaze. The American colony at Paris was deeply interested in the race, because many prominent owners had entered horses. Little was known of the animal which Mr. Mackay had purchased at Little Silver, N. J., for $2,500. To the surprise of the natives and the great satisfaction of the Americans, Mr. Mackay's horse won in straight heats in 2:18 each. This was on the turf, and not on a level track, and the performance has not been equaled since that time.

Mr. Mackay's first venture on an American track was with Banastar,

CLARENCE H. MACKAY.
(He Will Control His Father's Great Business Interests.)

with whom he won the Metropolitan handicap. The Mackay stable was gradually enlarged, and although it is now not as large as many of the American stables, it contains about 15 horses which, according to an expert, "have a bright future."

Clarence H. Mackay, although he is a sportsman in everything that the word implies, has never been a "sport." He is never seen in the places frequented by the sporting fraternity; he is a temperate man, but not a total abstainer, and is not a gambler, although he occasionally sits in a friendly game of poker. He is an all-around athlete, but is not a big man.

Mr. Mackay married Miss Katherine Duer in May, 1898, and a daughter was born to them on February 5, 1900. His home at Roslyn, Long Island, is a beautiful place, which was completed recently at a cost of more than $1,000,000.

As to the fortune which will come to the young man there are no positive figures, says the New York Tribune, and while it has been variously estimated from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000, some persons who know the value of the investments place it as high as $80,000,000, and contend that John W. Mackay, despite his great business capacity and his thorough knowledge of the enterprises with which he was connected, did not know within $20,000,000 how much he was worth. He was so methodical and had the uncertainty of life so constantly before him that he left his affairs in perfect order, and even without his directing hand everything will go on in the Mackay concerns just as though he were still conducting them.

Among the larger concerns of which Clarence H. Mackay will become the head are the Mackay-Bennett Cable company, the Postal Telegraph company and the Pacific Commercial Cable company. The large sugar refinery at Yonkers, the Canadian Pacific railway, the Southern Pacific railroad and the White Knob Copper company are among the corporations in which he will be a prominent figure. There are also several large companies in the new gold fields in the Klondike in which much Mackay capital is invested.

John W. Mackay was always proud of his good name, and in this respect the young man also resembles his father, for whom he always showed great love and affection.

FRACTURED LEG.

Young Man Receives Serious Injuries at Galvin's Park—In Hospital.

Frank Carr, a young man who resides at Westfield, attempted to get on the carousal at Galvin's Park, yesterday, while it was in motion. He was thrown down and his left leg was fractured in two places. Dr. Lufburrow was called and attended him after which he was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. Today he was resting easily and the physicians have hopes of saving the fractured member.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

While the Park Golf Club course was quite a busy place, Saturday afternoon, there were comparatively few who turned in their scores for the regular weekly competion for the President's cup. E. Maxwell Honeyman, a newcomer in the race, was low man for the day. Roberts deS. Newhall, whose phenomenal score of the week before made a new course record, was way off his game. Morgan T. Townsend was not up to his best form. As a record of Saturday's play there was no change among the leaders for the trophy. Charles B. Morse still leads by two points with S. St. John McCutchen.

The scores were as follows:

	G	H	N
E. Maxwell Honeyman	113	30	83
H. G. Phillips	117	30	87
Morgan T. Townsend	99	10	89
Charles B. Morse	104	14	90

SHYSTER LAWYERS.

Practice Seekers Bother Fair Heirs in New Market—On the Way to California.

New Market has been a Mecca for lawyers since it became known that several of the Fair heirs were located there. Abram G. Nelson has been besieged with them since Friday and he has escaped them only by starting for San Francisco in company with his mother, Hannah Nelson. They expect to arrive there Thursday.

Another telegram was received by the Nelson family from Joseph Harding, of San Francisco, stating that he would meet the members of the family there.

Removing Landmark.

One of the landmarks of recent years, the tower on the old rink building, on Watchung avenue, is no more. It was torn down last week by Charles Hand, the owner of the building, and the property is more attractive. The tower was forty-five feet from the top to the base. Mr. Hand was fortunate in having the best kind of weather for the work.

WHY CENTRAL ADOPTED STANDARD TIME RULE

Required by Standard Code of Train Rules of American Railway Association.

REGARDING ITS AIM.

GENERAL MANAGER BESLER TALKED REGARDING NEW RULE.

While Some of the Jersey Central Employes Kicked at the New Rule, It is Generally Believed to be An Excellent Thing.

When the order applying the new system of standard time inspection to the Central Railroad of New Jersey was promulgated there was a great deal of "kicking" among the employes of the road, who claimed the purchase of the standard watches was an item of needless expense, imposed on many whose wages were not large enough to make it an easy matter for them to comply with the regulation. The "kicking," however, was of no avail, and the men must get the standard watches or take the "medicine" that goes to those who break the rules of the road.

Through the complaints that have been made the patrons of the road and the general public have been led to believe, in a vague sort of a way, that the order is somewhat in the nature of a whim of the management and that it will not be productive of any notable results. As a matter of fact, the inauguration of the new system, for which the new general manager of the road, Mr. Besler, is responsible, is right in line with progress and marks a step in the general and important plan of standardizing the various railway systems of the country.

In these "up-to-date" days of railroading the various lines are supposed to be operated in every department in conformity with other lines. A standardizing of the gauge of the tracks has been followed by a mutual exchange of rolling stock, uniform handling of locomotives, and a common system of signals, so that it is possible to run a train from one end of the continent to the other without changing engine, cars or crew, only supplementing the last with a pilot for the engineer and a coacher for the crew, at congested points or intricate sections of track. Were it not for the necessity of speed, the one engineer and crew, with the same engine and cars, could safely and satisfactorily make the run from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., or between almost any other two railroad points in the United States.

But the work of prefecting the universal standard to govern railway corporations is not yet complete. A great deal has been accomplished, but there are still some important rules which all the roads have not yet laid down as a general practice. One of these, as recommended by the American Railway Association, is the inauguration of a standard time service.

The watch inspection and standard time service system was put in effect on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad lines while Mr. Besler was general superintendent of that road and was productive of a marked improvement in the handling of trains. Standard time and standard watches are among the first requirements in the Standard Code of Train Rules of the American Railway Association.

Some of the large eastern railway companies have not yet complied fully in the matter of standard time and standard watches with the requirements of standard code, as adopted by the American Railway Association.

"One of the first and most vital requirements of railroad practice," says Mr. Besler, "is standard time and first-class timepieces. The Central Railroad of New Jersey intends that its service shall be second to none in the country. Out motto is, 'A satisfied patron is our best advertisement.' I think all will agree with me that one of the best methods to secure this end is to keep the trains on time, so that the public may set their watches by them."

Married a Week Ago.

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Wesley Dunn, son of F. W. Dunn, to Miss Olive Blanche Bickel, of Westervelt avenue. BRUISES AND CUTS FROM COLLISION

Four Persons Injured, But as Far as Can be Learned, None Has Broken Bones.

CRASH ON THE STREET.

A TROLLEY CAR AND A CARRIAGE COME IN CONTACT.

Mrs. F. R. Searles and Mrs. C. E. Bristol, Daughters of Dr. H. H. Lowrie, Hurled to Ground, as Were Mrs. Searles' Children.

In a collision between a trolley car and a phaeton at the corner of Madison avenue and Fourth street, yesterday afternoon, the vehicle was almost completely demolished and four occupants received more or less severe injuries. From the manner in which the two crashed together it is regarded as miraculous that all escaped with their lives.

Those in the wagon were Mrs. F. R. Searles, of Springfield, Mass., and her two children, Rufus, aged four and an infant, and Mrs. C. E. Bristol. Both women are daughters of Dr. H. H. Lowrie, of Park avenue. Mrs. Bristol was driving along Madison avenue and wished to reach Park avenue, turned into Fourth street. She claims she neither saw anything in the shape of a car approaching or a warning bell, but the horse had hardly cleared the tracks when the carriage was struck squarely in the middle by a west bound car in charge of Motorman Joseph Hansen.

All four were hurled to the street and Mrs. Bristol was caught in one of the wheels. The horse started to run away and she was dragged for some distance before the animal's progress was halted. When she was extracted it was found she was not injured to any great extent. Mrs. Searles and the two children were picked up in a dazed condition and with Mrs. Bristol were taken to a nearby house. Drs. Martha Stillman and T. E. Davis arrived in answer to summons but neither was able to determine to the full extent of injuries. The unfortunate people were covered with cuts and contusions but were able to be taken to their homes. There a further examination was made by Dr. Davis with the assistance of Dr. Fritts but it will not be known for a day or two whether there are any internal hurts. The physicians are satisfied, however, that there are no broken bones.

It has not yet been learned who was to blame for the accident but a rigid investigation is being made by the railway people.

TROUBLES GALORE.

Samuel Kledinski, of Somerville, Has a Bunch of Them All at One Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 19 — Samuel Kledinski, a junk dealer of this place is having trouble of his own. On Saturday a number of boys and young men tormented him to such an extent that he attempted to break in the door of the Lincoln Chemical Engine Co. quarters in his effrots to capture the mischief-makers. He was arrested for his assault on the building, and later he had six of his assailants in custody for throwing stones at him. Justice Sutphen held two of the boys for the Grand Jury.

Yesterday Clinton Carvell, the newly appointed dog warden, had captured Kledinski's dog, which was prawling about without the necessary registered collar. Kledinski and his brother Isaac, it is alleged, attacked Carvell, Isaac trying to stab him. Isaac, however, claims he merely got out his knife to cut the rope Carvell was leading the dog by. The Kledinskis were arrested and held for the Grand Jury by Justice Sutphen.

On the Tenderloin.

Dr. Alexander F. Irvine, of New Haven, Conn., will address the men's meeting next Sunday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. Dr. Irvine is well known in Plainfield, having addressed a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall here to a large audience a few months ago. He is a noted worker in the slum district of New York, and will relate what has fallen under his own observation. Dr. Irvine speaks with absorbing interest.

THE PLAINFIELD HIBERNIANS

WILL BE WELL REPRESENTED AT JERSEY CITY.

The State Convention of the Society Will Bring Together Many Delegates From All Over the State.

James Fosbury, Patrick Divier, John Driscoll and Patrick Harrington are the delegates of the Plainfield Division of the Ancient Order Hibernians and are in attendance at the State convention of the order which opens in Jersey City today. Nearly 400 delegates from New Jersey branches of the Ancient Order of Hibernians will assemble on the occasion. There are over 7,000 members of the order in the State

According to rumor, Rev. Father Brady, of Paterson, will be named as State chaplain, to succeed Bishop McFaul, who, it is expected, will be appointed to the office of national chaplain. For the office of State president there are three candidates. Mercer county will seek to re-elect James E. Clinton, of Trenton; Hudson county will name James Brennan, of Jersey City, and the Essex county delegation will work to elect Captain Cornelius Reilly, of Jersey City, who holds the position of county president of that county. This three-cornered race for the office will cause a lively contest.

Passaic county will name Richard McGinn, of Paterson, as a candidate for State secretary, to succeed himself. His position as chairman of the committee on foreign relations has placed him high in the councils of the order. The convention will last two days.

THE MARAUDER WAS FOILED

INTRUDER, HOWEVER, ENJOYS A MEAL.

Thief Entering Home of P. C. Johnson Fails to Obtain Anything of Value.

For an exhibition of coolness the palm is awarded to P. C. Johnson, of Plainfield avenue, just beyond the city limits. At an early hour Saturday morning a burglar visited his premises and effected an entrance to the house by way of the basement. Mr. Johnson happened to be awake at the time and looked out the window just in time to see the unwelcome visitor letting himself down the hatchway. Johnson immediately procured his revolver and sat by the bedside awaiting developments.

The burglar, unable to get from the cellar, finally departed the way he entered. Mr. Johnson followed the intruder into the night, but failed to land his quarry. The burglar, seeing he was pursued, made good his escape. Johnson fired no shots at the man.

An examination of the cellar showed that the milk and cream had suffered depletion at the hands of the marauder. Cold meats and other food stuffs also received a share of attention, but the burglar failed to get anything of value.

SECOND OPERATION.

Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh Successfully Undergoes Another Operation.

The many friends in this city of Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh will be pained to hear that she has passed through a second surgical operation. It was performed Sunday at the home of her parents in Elizabeth and was made necessary through the inflamed condition of the wound from the first operation and also to make sure that the limb would be perfectly straight when she recovered the use of it. Mrs. VanEmburgh bore the ordeal bravely, and her condition is now better than at any time during her illness.

Peter Thoms Dead.

Peter Thoms, son of Burton Thoms, who was well known to the older residents of North Plainfield, as was also the son, died at Vineland, N. J., Saturday afternoon. It was Peter Thoms who sold to the borough of North Plainfield the property upon which the High School now stands. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

Fountain at Duke's.

Saturday the water was turned on for the first time at the fountain on the extensive preserves owned by Jas. B. Duke at Raritan. It is the finest drinking fountain in America, and cost $80,000, which includes a bronze statue that Mr. Duke purchased in Italy for $25,000.

WANT ANTHRACITE MINES CONFISCATED

Labor Organization Desires Federal Government to Operate Coal Mines.

AGAINST INJUNCTIONS.

PROCEEDINGS OF N. J. STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR.

Employment of Children Considered—Union Label in Hats Causes Discussion—Ask That Label Be Put on All Wearing Apparel.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Aug. 19—Labor organizations from every section of New Jersey were represented when the twenty-fourth annual congress of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor convened here yesterday. It was 4 o'clock in the afternoon before the convention settled down to business.

A stir was created at the very outset by the introduction of a resolution by Thomas McHugh, of Newark, expression sympathy with the striking inners in the anthracite region, and urging the Governor and United States Senators from New Jersey to use their good offices in securing a settlement of the struggle.

The first resolution was too mild for many of the delegates and a more radical expression of opinion was demanded. A substitute resolution was later introduced demanding in strong and imperative terms that the Government forthwith confiscate the anthracite coal mines and operate them. This was more to the liking of the deleagtes and was passed without discussion. Copies were ordered sent to President Roosevelt and the members of the New Jersey delegation in Congress.

A stormy scene, in which the lie was freely passed, was created when the convention refused to seat James Waller, of Newark, representing the Patternmaker's Association of New York, on the ground that it is under suspension from the National body and not an organization. Waller was a candidate for the secretary of the federation. His rejection was by a vote 45 to 41.

The child labor question was referred to a committee, named to suggest action, and also to deal with "the indiscriminate granting of injunctions by State and federal judges." The committee will report today.

Amusement was caused by the introduction of a resolution that any delegate appearing in a hat without a union label be expelled until he obtained proper headwear. No straw hats are union made, and it was found that the resolution would cause complications. An amended resolution grew out of the incident to the effect that at all future congresses, the union label should be required on all wearing apparel.

HUGE MORTGAGE.

Given for $10,000,000 and Covers Numerous Shipbuilding Plants Around the Country.

A mortgage for $10,000,000, given by the United States Shipbuilding Company to the New York Security and Trust Company has been filed in the County Clerk's office at Elizabeth. The mortgage is a very voluminous document, covering 103 printed pages.

It covers the plants of the Crescent Shipyards and the Samuel L. Moore & Son's Company, of Elizabeth; Union Iron Works, of San Francisco; Bath Iron Works, of Bath, Me.; Hyde Windlass Company, Bath, Me.; Eastern Shipbuilding Company, New London, Conn.; Harlan and Hollingsworth Company, of Wilmington, Del., and Canda Manufacturing Company, of Cartaret.

The mortgage also covers all the raw material, wares and merchandise, the good will of the business, rights, credits, privileges and franchises in the possession of the company; also 300,000 shares of the capital stock of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Given Straw Ride.

Through the kindness and generosity of David Hand, of Netherwood, the children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home had a delightful hay ride yesterday afternoon. The little ones were conveyed in one of Mr. Hand's big hay wagons.

Infant Buried.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Mills, of Westervelt avenue, was buried yesterday afternoon in Hillside cemetery. Rev. T. L. Murphy was the officiating clergyman.

LAW BEARING ON FAIR CASE

Decisions Concerning Inheritence When Husband and Wife Die Together Vary.

IN THE FRENCH COURTS.

Statutes in California and Elsewhere—If Money Comes Here the State Can Collect the Collateral Inheritance Tax—What the Text Writers Have to Say.

Unusual interest in the final disposition of the Fair millions is taken here as a naturaly result of the fact that the heirs of Mr. Charles L. Fair mostly reside in the immediate vicinity of Plainfield. It is a matter of consequence to the State as well for should this vast wealth fall into the hands of the wife's relatives here the collateral inheritance tax exacted will amount to no mean sum.

As previously stated in these columns the whole question concerning the inheritance depends upon a question of fact, that is, as between husband and wife who died first? Should there be no circumstances from which this fact may be ascertained, the decision depends entirely upon a presumption of law. This question differs in various jurisdictions. The decisions rendered by the courts of New York, Florida, Maryland, Maine, Colorado and Kansas under the presumption of survivorship are negative, every case in which the question is involved being adjudicated according to its individual merits, or through the ordinary agencies of proof.

In California, however, when two persons lose their lives in the same calamity, and it is not shown who perished first, and there are no particular circumstances from which it can be inferred survivorship is presumed from the probabilities resulting from the strength, age and sex, according to certain rules, one of which is, if both be over 15 and under 60, and the sexes be different, the male is presumed to have survived. When the parties dying are a father and a son, if the son survive but a moment, his wife shall have dower, for the lands descended the instant the father died.

The old Roman law upon this subject enacted that when persons of different ages perished, and there was no evidence presented to show which survived, those under puberty were presumed to have died first, but if one person was above the age of puberty and both perished together, it was presumed that the former survived the latter. In the case of husband and wife, the husband was presumed the survivor.

According to the law of France if several persons, naturally heirs of each other, perish by the same event, without the possibility of knowing which died first, the presumption as to survivorship, according to the French law, shall be determined by the circumstances of the case, and in default thereof by strength of age and sex.

If those who perish together were under 15 years, the oldest shall be presumed the survivor.

If they are all over 60 years of age, then the youngest shall be presumed the survivor.

If some were under 15 and others over 60, the former shall be considered and presumed the survivors.

If those who perished together were over the age of 15, but under 60, the males shall be presumed the survivors where the ages are equal or the difference does not exceed one year.

There is no probability of survivorship afforded between the ages of 15 and 60.

In the case of a man and a woman perishing by the same calamity, the presmption of survivorship is in favor of the former when it is a question of physical strength and courage, although the question might have to be considered. When, however, the passive endurance of the party is considered, the presumption of death would be in favor of the woman.

The following extracts, interesting in their bearing upon the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair, are from Dr. Justis Herold's "Legal Medicine:"

"At one time it was said that where several persons have perished in the same catastrophe, the presumption was in favor of the survival of the stronger person, and again, many cases are to be found seeming to sup-

JERSEY'S LEADERSHIP AN OPEN QUESTION

Without Senator Sewell the Republican Condition is a Complicated One,

MANY SEEK CONTROL.

GOVERNOR FRANKLIN MURPHY IS AMONG THE POSSIBILITIES.

Griggs, Stokes, McCarter and Many Others Would be Candidates to Boss Republican Politics in This State—The Situation.

For the first time in many years the New Jersey Republicans are going into a campaign without the leadership of Senator William J. Sewell and without anything that corresponds to it. When Sewell died he left vacant a place which there was no one available to fill. For this campaign at least, and perhaps for some time to come, there must be a division of authority.

This condition of affairs is possibly due in large part to the absence of any urgent necessity for concentrated leadership. New Jersey is apparently as safely Republican now as it used to be safely Democratic. While the change has been going on the party commanders have been dropping off—Abbett and McPherson on the Democratic side, Hobart and Sewell in the Republican camp.

In the places of the dead and gone Democrats there is the leadership typified by ex-Senator James Smith—the kind which will not accept Bryanism and yet is not strong enough to set up any other doctrine; which still holds on to the impotent machinery and fails utterly to command either the respect or the confidence of the Jersey Democrats who cling to their party. If there were any vigorous, respectable direction of Democratic affairs in the State the Republicans might feel the need of closer organization and more individual leadership, but as it is they can well afford to leave the question to be determiend by the logic of events.

Senator Sewell's leadership was of a kind all its own. He was never a boss in the sense nor to the extent that Platt is in New York and Quay in Pennsylvania, and yet he was almost equally powerful in his bailiwick.

His authority had been a long time in developing and it had increased as the years went on because he was never disposed to strain it to the breaking point. It was a combination of personal, political and business influence. In south Jersey, which is Republican through and through, for many years there was no one to question it, no one that faintly approached the Senator as guide and mentor.

Unlike the southern half of the State, North Jersey always produced one or more men so big that they couldn't be overshadowed—men like Hobart and Griggs and Franklin Murphy and John Kean. Still the Senator or the General, as he was often called, was pre-eminent, if not always paramount; and this was more than ever true after the death of Vice President Hobart.

When Sewell died it was in South Jersey that his loss was felt most keenly. The skipper of the ship was gone, and some one must take the helm at once.

There was a young man—young as politics go, for he's only 42—all ready to step to the front. Edward C. Stokes, of Millville, had been coming forward rapidly for ten years in Republican affairs down in the Jersey flatlands. He had been Assemblyman, Senator from Cumberland county for three terms, President of the Senate and vice-chairman of the State Committee, and he is now Clerk of the Court of Chancery and president of a bank in Trenton. All of which goes to show that he is a young man of far more force and enterprise than you might suspect on first sight.

South Jersey Republicans rallied around him because they liked him and because they wanted to rally around somebody, and he soon became the biggest man in the party below the waist line of the State—and if you don't know what the waist line is just look at the map and you'll see that there distinctly is such a thing.

Stokes's only rival was ex-Sheriff Baird, of Camden, a local leader of considerable sagacity but nothing more—the kind of man people instinctively call "Davy" rather than "Mr."

He got up and began to hustle and said he was in the race for the United

PYTHIANS AT LONG BRANCH

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS TO ATTEND FIELD DAY.

Big Time Promised For September 1, When Order Holds a Grand Outing—The Programme.

Local lodges, Knights of Pythias, will send large delegations to the Pythian Field Day at Long Branch on September 1. A proclamation has been received from the Grand Chancellor P. Hall Packer, concerning the arrangements to be made for the event.

Some changes have been made in the line of march of the grand parade, which will be one of the principal features of the day. The Pythians will form in line on Railroad Square at 11 a. m., under command of Grand Marshal B. P. Morris, with Brigadier General Hitchcock and staff.

Dinners will be served at all the restaurants and hotels at Long Branch from 25 cents to $1 per head.

The Long Branch ladies' reception committee will meet the visiting ladies at the parlors of the Imperial Hotel and show them the beauties of the city. Special seats will be reserved for them at the Ocean House grounds during the drill. Mrs. P. Hall Packer, whose address is Seabright, N. J., is chairman of the ladies' committee. She will arrange in advance for the accommodation of any ladies who send her notice.

The members of the Sisterhood of Knights of Pythias will be received by Sister J. B. Wilson, Grand Chancellor, at the Imperial Hotel.

FAIR'S WILL.

Mrs. Oelrichs Removes Documents From Vault on an Order of Supreme Court.

On an order obtained by Mrs. Herman Oelrichs from Justice Giegerich, of the Supreme Court, the safe containing papers belonging to the late Charles L. Fair in the vaults of the Stock Exchange building, New York, was opened yesterday in an effort to find a will.

The safe was opened by experts and in the presence of Mrs. Oelrichs, Charles M. Oelrichs and Colonel William Jay. The contents of the safe were handed Mrs. Oelrichs and examined by her. She refused to make known the condition or the contents of the papers discovered. No new developments have occurred at New Market.

CAMP WATCHUNG.

Boroughites Return From an Outing Along the Shores of Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Cleaves, Frank Cleaves, Wililam Cleaves, Miss Florence Beekman, Miss Higgins and Walter Linbarger, all of the borough, returned Monday evening from Lake Hopatcong, where they were camping out for a week. The name of the colony was "Camp Watchung," and it was established at Bass Rock. The party enjoyed plenty of fine fishing, boating and other amusements. A Newark chef was engaged and the inner man was well provided.

Groundless Report.

The report that Bishop O'Connor, of the Newark Roman Catholic diocese, has been named to succeed Bishop Farley, of New York, in the event of the latter being elevated to the archbishopric, and that the Very Rev. Father Shepard, of Jersey City, would become bishop of Newark, is denied. Both Father Shepard and Bishop O'Connor term the rumor a pure fake.

Sad Death.

James J. Guinee, the six-year-old son of Cornelius Guinee, of Fourth street and Spooner avenue, died yesterday afternoon after a nine-days' illness with diphtheria. The boy was very ill from the start and little hopes were entertained for his recovery. The funeral services will be private.

An Aged Friend.

Mrs. Sarah Clifton, one of the oldest members of the Society of Friends in this State, has returned from a visit with Somerville relatives and is now staying with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Whitall, of East Fifth street.

On Eve of Marriage.

The wedding of Miss Louise Lunger, of Watchung avenue, to Randolph Marsh, Jr., of Plainfield avenue, will take place tomorrow evening.

Temporary Organist.

William Conger, of the borough, is acting as organist at the First Baptist church during the absence of Howard Case, who is on his vacation.

STIRRING UP MORE TROUBLE IN PARTY

Local Republicans Incensed Over the Fling at City Judge Runyon.

MR. BUCKLE'S LETTER.

COUNCILMAN VOICES THE SENTIMENT OF PLAINFIELD REPUBLICANS.

Can't Hurt Candidacy of Popular Senatorial Candidate by Calling Him the "Boy Judge"—Strong Communication.

An excellent communication received by The Daily Press, which needs no explanation, is herewith reproduced in full:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—My attention has been called to the account of the Republican clambake which appeared in the issue of August 11 of The Elizabeth Journal, and which, to my mind, is calculated to create a false impression in the minds of many people, owing to the peculiarly vindictive way in which it treats City Judge Runyon.

In the first place, he is referred to in a most patronizing way as "the boy judge of Plainfield." "Boy Judge" he may be, but the fact that he was re-elected for a second term without opposition of any kind is sufficient evidence that his mind of discharging the duties of his office was matured enough to merit a very unusual honor at the hands of his fellow citizens.

The Journal then proceeds to relate a fancial tale concerning a venerable New Providence man's surprise at being introduced to the "fellow" who is Senator Cross' opponent, and concerning alleged remarks of Mr. Runyon, which is not only false from start to finish, as I am reliably informed, but is designed to make people believe that Mr. Runyon is a mere puppet in the hands of a lot of adroit political shysters. We of Plainfield do not feel that we are brigands simply because we are contending for that which we honestly believe is our right, nor do we relish the idea of our candidate being wantonly misrepresented. Our purpose is to secure the Senatorship for Plainfield by the use of straightforward, dignified methods and not otherwise, and we do not think is unreasonable to expect decent, fair treatment from those who do not agree with us.

The entire article, so far as it refers to Judge Runyon, comes as a distinct surprise to me, as I have always considered The Journal to be a thoroughly fair and honest newspaper, whose code of ethics is of the highest, and that this selfish newspaper should descend to the level of pure fiction for the accomplishment of its end, I can account for in no other way than that the editor has mistakenly accepted for granted a statement which is at entire variance with the facts.

Trusting that this communciation, which I deem to be simple justice to Plainfield Republicans in general, and Judge Runyon in particular, may find space in your paper, I am

Yours respectfully,
James F. Buckle.

DIED IN WEST.

John C. Bonnell, Son of a Boroughite, Passes Away at Grand Rapids.

The Evening Press of Grand Rapids, Mich., in its issue of August 9, contains an account of the sudden death of John C. Bonnell, of that place, which occurred during the previous night. He was the son of the late Alfred Bonnell, of the borough, the latter being one of the oldest citizens of North Plainfield. He was also a brother of George C. Bonnell, who resided in the borough up to the time of his father's death two years ago.

Mr. Bonnell was found dead in bed. Only a short time previously Mr. Bonnell's wife died. He was born in New Brunswick, but had lived in Michigan since the age of 20 years. He was interested at times in the Standard Oil Company, the Simmons Knitting Company and in other corporations. He is survived by four children.

Remember the Date.

Thursday, August 28, is the day and date set for the trolley excursion to Riverside Park to be given by the Retail Clerks' Association. The start will be made from the Watchung Avenue station at 7:15 o'clock in the evening. At the park there will be a vaudeville show and dancing.

UNITED STATES WANTS MORE REVENUE CADETS

Examinations Will be Held for That Service on August 25, 26 and 27.

HELD AT NEW YORK.

THAT WILL BE THE NEAREST PLACE TO PLAINFIELD AND VICINITY.

Application Forms Must First be Filled Out—Then Come the Examinations—Chances of Promotion for the Cadets.

Young Jerseymen who think they would like to follow the sea in the revenue cutter service will have an opportunity to try for positions as cadets on August 25, 26 and 27. On those dates examinations will be held in nearly every State in the Union. They will not be held in New Jersey apparently because applicants in the northern half of the State may take the tests in New York and those in the southern half may go to Philadelphia.

All who desire to apply should write at once to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., for application form No. 304, which must be properly executed and promptly filed with the commission at Washington. The applicant will be told where he may report for examination. The medical certificate on form 304 need not be filled out. If the applicant passes the mental examinations he will be called on to pass a physical test before a board of marine hospital surgeons at Washington. Persons who are unable to file their formal applications and who notify the commission of this fact, either by letter or telegraph, with the request that they be permitted to take the examination, will be examined, provided their requests are received at the commission in sufficient time to ship examination papers.

The other information conveyed in the circular is as follows:

The examination will consist of the subjects mentioned below, which will be weighted as follows:

Subjects.	Weights.
1. Spelling.....(First grade)..	5
2. General geography.....	5
3. (a) General history, and (b) Constitution of the United States	5
4. Grammar, composition and rhetoric.....	10
5. Mathematics (arithmetic, complete; algebra, complete; geometry, plane and solid; trigonometry, plane and spherical).....	50
6. Physics.....	10
7. English literature.....	5
8. One modern language (French, German or Spanish).....	5
9. General information.....	5
Total.....	100

The subect of general geography comprises both United States geography and important features of the geography of foreign countries.

The subject of general history covers the history of the United States, and important features of ancient, mediaeval and modern history of some of the more important foreign countries.

The subject of grammar, composition and rhetoric covers the work commonly required in a high school course.

The subject of physics comprises work covered by the ordinary high school text-books on that subject.

English literature comprises the work covered by ordinary high school text-books on that subject.

Three days of seven consecutive hours each will be allowed for this examination, as follows: The first four subjects and the sheet of arithmetic of the fifth subject will be given on the first day, the remainder of the mathematics on the second day, and the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth subjects on the third day.

Under the regulations of the Treasury Department applicants must be not less than eighteen nor more than twenty-five years of age, of vigorous constitution, physically sound and well formed, not less than five feet three inches in height, of good moral character and unmarried. The marriage of a cadet will be considered as equivalent to his resignation.

While it is not a perquisite to eligibility, all applicants for the position of cadet who have served at sea, or who have served as deck officers of sea-going vessels of the United States merchant marine, should file with their applications, a certificate or certificates showing such service, from the master of the vessel with whom they served or from the Ship Masters' Association. It is proposed to give applicants credit for such service when satisfactorily shown.

Applicants are advised that cadets may be commissioned by the President as lieutenants after two years' satisfactory service. The salary of a cadet is $500 per annum and one ration per day.

A recent act of Congress provides that captains in this service shall rank with majors in the army, first lieutenants with captains, second lieutenants with first lieutenants, third lieutenants with second lieutenants, and that commissioned officers in this service shall receive the same pay and allowances, except forage, as are provided by law for officers of corresponding rank in the army, including longevity pay. This act of Congress also provides for the retirement of officers in this service at the age of sixty-four years with 75 per cent. of the pay and allowances of the rank upon which they are retired.

There are in the revenue cutter service commissioned officers as follows: Captains, about thirty-six, at a salary of $2,500 per annum; first lieutenants, about thirty-six, at a salary of $1,800 per annum; second lieutenants, about thirty-six, at a salary of $1,500 per annum; third lieutenants, about twelve, at a salary of $1,400 per annum.

As the result of this examination, it is expected that about eight or ten appointments will be made some time during the coming summer to the position of cadet.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements. Competitors will be rated without regard to any consideration other than the qualifications shown in their examination papers, and eligibles will be certified strictly in accordance with the civil service law and rules.

A Necessary Precaution.

LITERARY.

Eleanor Gates, whose graphic description of a prairie blizzard formed part of the "Chapters from the Biography of a Prairie Girl" in the August Century, will contribute a special paper in this series to the September number of that magazine. It is entitled "The Story of a Planting," and recalls the experiences of a little girl in a summer's day corn planting. It may be said incidentally that not only the writer, but also the illustrator of this paper, Miss Fanny Y. Cory, is from the far Northwest, and is thoroughly familiar with the life described.

PERSONAL.

William Coriell, of West Fifth street, is stopping at Long Branch for two weeks.

Miss Edith Miles, of Somerset street, has gone to Asbury Park with a party of friends.

Miss May Squier, of Astor place, left Saturday for Ocean Grove, where she will remain for two weeks.

Mrs. Amos Blazier, of West Fourth street, is confined to her home by illnest. Dr. Tomlinson is in charge.

Arthur and Bertram Sherman, of Astor place, are visiting relatives at Asbury Park.

Driver George Feiring, of Hose Company No. 3, returned to duty yesterday after a ten days' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin I. Cooley and their daughter, Miss Grace Cooley, of Rockview avenue, are spending the month of August at Castine, Me.

Mrs. S. A. Hendrickson and Miss Hannah Brewer, of Jackson avenue, left today for Cottage City, Mass., where they will spend a vacation.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. A FRIEND'S ADVICE.

Will Often Help You Greatly—Read What a Plainfield Citizen Says.

You may hesitate to listen to the advice of strangers but the testimony of friends or residents of Plainfield is worth your most careful attention. It is an easy matter to investigate such proof as this. Then the evidence must be conclusive. Read the following:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame and weak back and I never found anything which gave me any relief until I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store and began to use them according to directions. It was only a short time before I felt the good effects and from that time on I improved steadily under the treatment. My back pained me and was so weak and sore that I dreaded to bend and when I had a cold or over-exerted myself I suffered severely. I used several different kidney remedies, but got little if any relief. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for my improvement. I think they are a fine medicine for a lame back."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

UPRISING IN CHINA.

Missionary Society Hears of Boxer Activity.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Methodist mission board has received by mail a number of reports from its agents in China concerning the recent local uprisings in China.

The Rev. Joseph Beech of Chungking, west China, writes:

"Word has just been received from the Rev. W. Edward Manly and the Rev. Spencer Lewis, superintendent of the mission, who are in that neighborhood, that the Red Lantern society, the local name for Boxers, has burned the chapel at Tienkuchiao and killed the preacher and four other members. The officials have endeavored to suppress the Boxer practices and had previously decapitated six and crucified one. Through this section there has been drought for a considerable time, and this adds to the unrest. We are confident the officials can cope with it, but it may cause us much loss in the outlying districts."

Under a later date Mr. Beech writes: "Since last writing more news of the Boxer troubles has arrived. It indicates a widespread movement, with increasing power and violence. In addition to the destruction of the Tienkuchiao community, Wukwangtsang has been destroyed, but most of the people escaped. Between Tsicheo and Chentu the extent of the trouble is unknown, but a letter from Brother Cady states there is considerable alarm at Chentu, though the officials are confident there will be no serious trouble there.

"Throughout the country, however, there has been widespread destruction already, and it is probable that most of the Christians living outside walled cities, comprising several hundred persons, will lose all they have, if not life itself. There are now very many who have neither home, food nor clothing. Brother Spencer Lewis is doing what he can to assist them and has secured about 50 taels from the officials for this purpose and coffins to bury the dead. Brother Lewis telegraphs that the Boxers have been defeated. All is quiet here, and the officials seem confident that the trouble will be confined to the country districts."

Accused of Selling a Railroad.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—John W. Dickinson was arraigned before Judge Lowell in the United States circuit court on the charge of contempt of court in selling the Lancaster and Hampden railroad, an Ohio corporation, after the court had issued a restraining order. The case was continued until Sept. 11. The order was given in connection with lawsuits brought against Dickinson after he was arrested in connection with the failure of the South Danvers National bank of Peabody. Dickinson and Cashier G. M. Foster of the bank being charged with wrecking it.

Island Destroyed by Volcano.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 19.—The little island of Torishima was overwhelmed by a volcanic eruption between Aug. 13 and Aug. 15, and all the inhabitants, numbering 150 persons, were undoubtedly killed. The island is covered with volcanic debris, and all the houses that were on it have disappeared. The eruption is still proceeding and is accompanied by submarine eruptions in the vicinity, which make it dangerous for vessels to approach the island. Torishima is one of a chain of islands extending between the Bonin islands and Hondo, the biggest island of Japan.

Musketeer Breaks World's Record.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The Musketeer broke a world's record in the second race at Saratoga. He ran the seven furlongs in 1:25 flat. In 1894 at Coney Island Clifford established the record at the distance on a circular track of 1:25 2-5.

A LOVELORN SUICIDE

Engagement Broken, R. R. Remington Kills Himself.

GREAT SHOCK TO HIGH SOCIETY.

Girl In Case a Granddaughter of Mrs. William Astor and Dead Man Well Known in New York and Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Bitter disappointment over a broken matrimonial engagement is believed to have been the cause of the suicide at the Reading Room of Robert Reading Remington of New York. Mr. Remington came over to the Reading Room from his rooms at the La Forge cottage about 1 o'clock and shortly after 2 sought the seclusion of the committee rooms on the second floor of the clubhouse. About 2:30 two sharp but somewhat muffled reports were heard, but those in the building appear to have ascribed them to automobiles going by, and no attention was paid to them. About an hour afterward Mr. Remington's body was found, he evidently having been dead for some time. A local undertaker was notified, and the body was at once removed to his rooms. The report of the suicide caused a great shock to the summer residents in this city.

His engagement to Miss May Van Alen, daughter of James Van Alen and granddaughter of Mrs. William Astor, has been the topic of discussion for some months. At first it was denied and then affirmed, and it is generally believed that there was a definite engagement of the young people up to within the last three weeks, when it was broken. Since then Mr. Remington has been very gloomy and despondent, although when asked about the engagement he steadily affirmed that he was to be married in the fall. He left the city about a week ago, breaking up his domestic arrangements here and sending away all his effects. Last Thursday, however, he suddenly returned to Newport. He had frequented the Reading Room, which is the leading club of Newport and a general lounging place for the men of the summer colony, but had kept aloof from every one and seemed to desire to be left alone.

Mr. Remington was about thirty-five years of age and a member of the firm of Remington Bros., advertising agents, of New York. Although of no very large means, he nevertheless was quite closely identified with the social colonies of this city and New York.

He had great friends in both places and had been a constant visitor to Newport for the past seven or eight years. He met Miss Van Alen some years ago, but it was only during the past year that their names had been coupled. About two months ago the engagement between the two was announced, but soon after the marriage of Miss Van Alen's sister Sarah to Mr. Robert J. Collier in this city, July 26, it was stated the engagement between Mr. Remington and Miss Van Alen had been broken. It is said that Mr. Van Alen was greatly opposed to the engagement from the beginning.

Mr. Remington had always been known as a man of very quiet tastes. He was an expert automobilist and seemed to enjoy this amusement. He was well liked and had numerous friends.

When the news was broken to Miss May Van Alen, she was greatly affected. A physician was called in, and the entire family was greatly shocked. Mr. Van Alen positively refused to make any statement.

England's Exhibit at St. Louis.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The government's official exhibit at the St. Louis exposition will be limited to the subjects of education and fine arts, but it is expected that the wider range of non-official exhibits will include various features of applied arts. The fine art exhibit is to be controlled by a committee of the Royal academy. Arrangements for this exhibit are being made by Sir Edward John Pointer, president of the academy. The foreign office will facilitate all industrial exhibits.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The condition of the treasury, divisions of issue and redemption, at the beginning of business was as follows: Reserve fund, gold coin and bullion, $150,000,000; trust funds, division of redemption, $842,792,089; division of issue, $842,792,089; general fund, $290,717,431; current liabilities, $85,201,304; available cash balance, $205,516,127.

The Czar Greatly Alarmed.

VIENNA, Aug. 19.—A newspaper of Cracow, Galicia, publishes a report that the czar of Russia recently found on his desk a missive from a revolutionary committee threatening him with death unless he conceded constitutional government to Russia. The czar, according to the Cracow newspaper, was greatly alarmed.

Francis Joseph's Birthday.

VIENNA, Aug. 19.—The seventy-second birthday of Emperor Francis Joseph was celebrated here with a review of 30,000 troops, illuminations of the city and the granting of amnesty to all prisoners undergoing sentence for leze majesty. The emperor himself spent the day quietly at Ischl with his family.

FATAL FIGHT AT MINE

Striker Shot and Killed by a Deputy.

ORDER IS QUICKLY RESTORED.

Great Excitement Follows the Battle, but the Crowd Is Induced to Disperse Without Committing Violence.

NESQUEHONING, Pa., Aug. 19.—In a clash between strikers and deputies here Patrick Sharp, a striker, of Lansford, was shot and killed almost instantly by a deputy. The shooting caused considerable excitement for a time, but order was soon restored without any other persons being injured, and the town is now quiet. A deputy named Harry McElmoyle was arrested, charged with the killing of Sharp, and was taken to the county jail at Mauch Chunk.

Five deputies were on their way to shaft No. 1 of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company just outside of the town. In the center of the town they were met by a number of strikers, who began persuading them not to go to the colliery. The officers did not stop, but kept on their way, and tried to prevent any trouble. The strikers, it is said, then began to abuse the men and followed them nearly up to the colliery. There are conflicting stories as to what actually brought on the clash, but just before the deputies entered the place a shot was heard, and Sharp dropped to the ground. The bullet entered his body close to his heart, and he died almost instantly. Witnesses say that the shooting was done by McElmoyle and that he stood only six or seven feet from Sharp when he fired his revolver. Only one shot was fired.

The deputies immediately withdrew to the colliery, and a large crowd gathered about the place. When it was learned that Sharp was dead, there was the greatest indignation among the strikers and other townspeople, and for a time it looked as though serious trouble would follow. Cooler heads among the mine workers, however, prevailed upon the crowd to disperse, using the argument that if there is any bloodshed troops would surely be sent here from Shenandoah. The crowd dispersed, and the town soon calmed down to its normal state.

Witnesses to the shooting went to the office of W. R. Watkins, the justice of the peace, and made information against Harry McElmoyle, charging him with the shooting of Sharp.

The magistrate placed the warrant in the hands of Constable Deckert, who found McElmoyle at shaft No. 1 and, accompanied by a guard of other officers, took his prisoner to the county jail at Mauch Chunk.

Sheriff J. H. Gomebrt of this (Carbon) county is at Mauch Chunk. It is reported here that he may ask that a detachment of the troops now stationed at Shenandoah be sent into the Panther creek valley.

Duryea Deputies Acquitted.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 19.—The hearing in the habeas corpus proceedings in the case of the guards and workmen employed at the Warnke washery at Duryea who were arrested last Thursday by the authorities of the town, charged with inciting a riot and felonious wounding, came up before Judge Halsey in court. A large number of witnesses were examined, and the testimony was conflicting. The attorneys for the defense said it was a travesty on justice to arrest the officers and jail them for doing their duty. After hearing the evidence Judge Halsey discharged all the defendants except three—Kinney, Reynolds and Madden. They were held in $200 bail each for trial at court. Frederick Warnke, the owner of the washery where the riot occurred, says the acquittal of the deputies will justify him in starting up the washery again, and he has served notice on Sheriff Jacobs that if he does not provide ample protection for his workmen and property he will make an appeal to the governor for troops.

English Help For Coal Strikers.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—William Abraham, member of parliament for the Rhondda valley division of Glamorganshire and president of the South Wales Miners' federation, in an address delivered before the Rhondda valley miners urged the acceptance of the proposal of a financial contribution to assist the striking miners in the United States, who, he said, were fighting for the cherished principle of arbitration. The meeting passed a resolution in favor of contributions being made by the federation.

Passaic Loan Association Suspends.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 19.—After a secret meeting of its board of directors the Mutual Building and Loan association of Passaic, N. J., suspended business. Its books were closed and turned over to State Examiner Johnson pending future action. William Malcolm, the former secretary, through whose errors the association funds were $100,000 short, was not in Passaic. The suspension was brought on by a rule to show cause obtained from Vice Chancellor Stevenson of Jersey City by William R. Ryan of Passaic, representing Casper Yoms, one of the stockholders.

Operation on Ambassador Meyer.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Following out a determination reached long ago to submit to a surgical operation, which largely was his special reason for returning to America at this time, Hon. George von L. Meyer, United States embassador to Italy, has entered a private hospital to undergo an operation similar to the one performed some time ago. It is understood that the trouble is not of serious character.

MORE RIOTS OVER NUNS.

Fierce Fighting at Lesneven, France, Where School Was Closed.

LESNEVEN, France, Aug. 19.—Some fierce fighting occurred here in consequence of the government's decision to close the nuns' school. When the commissioner appeared upon the scene the peasants armed themselves with pitchforks and other weapons and took their stand on the tops of walls, from which they threw down the ladders raised by the gendarmes.

The commissioner and a lieutenant of the gendarmes succeeded in reaching the top only to be hurled to the ground.

An order for a general assault on the school was then given, but the advance of the gendarmes was stopped by the garrison of the institution, which strewed the road with petroleum soaked straw, to which a match was applied, causing flames to spread rapidly.

After their repulse at the garden wall the commissioners decided to await reenforcements. In the meantime Senator Pichon and Counselor General Soubigou persuaded the defenders of the school to open the door. After this had been done the sisters walked to the church, accompanied by the ovations of the crowd. The commissioners entered the school and made an inventory of the property. They then sealed the doors.

In the course of the rioting two gendarmes were slightly wounded. The leading inhabitants have taken the expelled sisters to their homes. Similar though less violent scenes attended the closing of the schools and the expulsion of the sisters at Folgoet and St. Meen.

DR. SCHENCK DEAD.

Man Who Thought He Had Discovered Secret of Sex.

VIENNA, Aug. 19.—Professor Samuel L. Schenck, the distinguished embryologist and author of "The Determination of Sex," has died at Schwanberg, Styria. He was a savant in the University of Vienna and for a generation had given his whole time to the work for which he was noted. The author's declaration that the sex of a child could be fixed at will by the mother undergoing a course of treatment before the child's birth created a considerable stir in medical circles when it first appeared a few years ago.

A number of persons, among them the czarina of Russia, were reported to have taken the prescribed treatment. In some few cases it was stated that the treatment had been effectual, among them the Countess of Warwick, the Archduchess Frederick of Austria and the Duchess of Aosta, but in the czarina's case, if she underwent the treatment, it was without result.

Professor Schenck maintained that the sex of the child is influenced solely by the mother and that the difference in the number of corpuscles in the blood of a man and of a woman is the basis of the difference in sex, the man having a great number.

He declared that the sex could be influenced by the food given to the mother and that nitrogenized food, which should rid the mother's system of sugar, was favorable to the birth of a male.

No Plot Against Czar and Kaiser.

VIENNA, Aug. 19.—The report that an attempt had been made to blow up the German imperial yacht Hohenzollern off Reval, Russia, recently while Emperor William of Germany and the czar of Russia were on board, which has previously been denied in these dispatches, originated in an irresponsible newspaper published in Budapest. The story is discredited by all the newspapers of Vienna, including the Neues Wiener Journal, which published the report Aug. 16.

Shah at Buckingham Palace.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The shah drove in state to Buckingham palace last night to attend the state banquet given in his honor. He was escorted by a detachment of cavalry. The sixty guests of the evening included the Prince of Wales, who represented King Edward; Prince Arthur of Connaught, the chiefs of his majesty's household, Prime Minister Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and other ministers and Earl Roberts, Lord Wolseley and Lord Kitchener.

Bicycle Records Broken.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 19.—Joe Nelson, the cycle wonder, supported his title at the Coliseum by breaking the world's record for twenty miles and beating Freeman and McFarland. The men were in a three cornered race for the distance, and Nelson set the crowd wild by his superb riding.

Tornado In Kansas.

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 19.—Meager information reached here last night of a tornado at the little town of Lost Springs which demolished a grain elevator, a church and five residences. Three men whose names are not given are said to be seriously hurt and several others slightly injured.

Y. M. C. A. World's Congress.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Aug. 19.—About 1,000 foreign delegates, representing thirty-one nations, are here to attend the Young Men's Christian association world's congress which opens today and lasts until Aug. 24. The United States sent thirty-eight official representatives.

Swiss Judge Falls From Alps.

ZERMATT, Switzerland, Aug. 19.—The body of Dr. Largin, chief judge of the Bern court, has been found at the bottom of a precipice of Mount Dom, which the deceased climbed last Saturday.

Rain Puts Out Forest Fires.

FLORENCE, Wis., Aug. 19.—A downpour of rain has put out the forest fires which have been raging for the past few days in this vicinity.

THE COLOMBIAN WAR.

American Officers Were Unable to Find It.

PANAMA, Colombia, Aug. 19.—Commander William P. Potter of the United States special service steamer Ranger, United States Consul Gudger and Port Captain Beers of the railroad terminal sailed on the tug Bolivar to make a tour of inspection along the coast. They went as far as San Carlos and then returned here. Mr. Gudger said that the party found no traces of revolutionists as far as they could see and that without doubt they are concentrated at the siege of Agua Dulce.

According to the latest reports, the soldiers of General Herrera, the revolutionary commander, had dug intrenchments about 500 yards from the town, where they remained all day because the sharpshooters of General Berti, the commander of the government forces, picked off every man who dared to leave the trenches. These men are exposed to the rain and sun and, it is claimed, must suffer severely now that the winter season has set in.

In government circles it is believed that the position of Generals Berti and Morales is not desperate.

The British cruiser Phaeton left here Saturday hurriedly. It is believed that she sailed for Buenaventura.

Consul General Gudger will leave Colon today for New York. General Salazar, governor of Panama, has sent Mr. Gudger a very complimentary letter thanking him for his services to the Colombian government, which, General Salazar said, have always been very valuable and highly appreciated. The governor regrets it is impossible for him to accompany Mr. Gudger to Colon, but wishes him a speedy return to his post.

VISITORS AT OYSTER BAY.

The President Has Many Important Callers.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Congressmen Babcock of Wisconsin, Hull of Iowa and Overstreet of Indiana were the guests of President Roosevelt at dinner. Mr. Babcock is chairman of the Republican congressional committee, Mr. Overstreet is secretary of the committee, and Mr. Hull is chairman of the advocacy committee of that body. They discussed the coming fall campaign and left on a late train for New York. This is Mr. Overstreet's second visit in two weeks.

The president's guests at luncheon were Francis C. Travers of Oyster Bay and Major John C. Crane of New York.

Edward J. Sullivan, a New York merchant, discussed Philippine affairs with the president. Mr. Sullivan is prominent in the Catholic church and assured the president that his policy regarding church affairs in the archipelago met with the approval of a large majority of the Catholics in this country.

The president has received an invitation to attend the anniversary celebration of the Beth Israel hospital of New York next January. The invitation was delivered to President Roosevelt by Joseph Borrhardt, superintendent of the institution. It is not likely that the president will be able to accept the invitation.

Dr. Rixey, surgeon general of the navy, and Mrs. Rixey, who were guests of the president, have left for Washington.

General Loring Dead.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—General Charles G. Loring, who recently resigned as director of the Museum of Fine Arts, has died at Prides Crossing at the age of seventy-four years. MORE MORO ATTACKS

Situation In Mindanao Very Critical.

HOT FIGHT TAKES PLACE NEAR MANILA

The Native Constabulary Has Three Killed In Battle With Ladrones at Caloocan—Details of Native Crew's Mutiny.

MANILA, Aug. 19.—The Moros in Mindanao are renewing their attacks upon the outposts and pack trains of the American column at Lake Lanao, which is under the command of Captain J. J. Pershing of the Fifteenth cavalry. The Americans have successfully repulsed the Moro attacks and have suffered no losses.

The commanders of the American forces on Mindanao report aggressive action against the Moros to be necessary and ask permission to move against Bacolod and other strongholds of the hostile Mohammedans. There are about 2,000 American soldiers on Mindanao available for the desired aggressive movement. It is believed this number is sufficient to defeat the Moros, although it would possibly be necessary to strengthen their base before undertaking the movement.

Judge Ambler, who has conducted the trial of Frederick Korr, proprietor, and Edward O'Brien, editor, of Freedom, who were charged with libeling Benito Legarda, a Filipino member of the civil commission, announced yesterday that he found the defendants guilty. They were not sentenced. Judge Ambler decided that the headlines of the article in question published in Freedom were libelous and that the text of the article was not privileged because it was published maliciously and was therefore libelous.

The trial of Dorr and O'Brien on a charge of sedition has begun.

Isabelo de los Reyes and four other labor leaders have been arrested here, charged with threatening to assassinate certain striking cigar makers if they returned to work.

The following details of the mutiny of the native crew of the interinsular steamer Dos Hermanos, which occurred at Port Virac, island of Catanduanes, last Thursday, have been received:

The crime was plotted under the leadership of the native boatswain of the Dos Hermanos. The mutineers purposed to steal $150,000 which they supposed to be on board. The officers of the steamer were dining when they were attacked. In addition to killing the chief engineer and wounding the captain, the mate, the second engineer and a passenger, all of whom were Spaniards, the crew killed the steward and carpenter of the ship. The last named were murdered while defending the officers.

In addition to killing three of the crew the members of the native constabulary who went to the rescue of the officers of the Dos Hermanos succeeded in capturing thirty-four of the mutineers, whom they conveyed to Albay, Luzon.

A force of native constabulary engaged a band of ladrones in a sharp fight last Saturday near Caloocan, about four miles north of Manila. The arrival of re-enforcements for the constabulary won them the victory. Four members of the constabulary were killed, and one was wounded. The ladrones left three of their number dead behind them, but carried off their wounded.

The chase of the Cavite ladrones through the mountains of that province continues. Forces of native constabulary have had encounters with the bands of Felizardo and Montallon. Several of the ladrones were killed or captured, and a quantity of their supplies was destroyed.

Chaffee Urges Active Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—A cable dispatch has been received from General Chaffee stating that in his judgment an active campaign against the Moros in Mindanao was necessary in order to curb the opposition that has been growing against United States authority. The dispatch was considered of sufficient importance to be repeated to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay. General Chaffee has been directed to use his own discretion in the matter and will no doubt engage in an aggressive movement against the insurgent Moros. Some time before Secretary Root left Washington the Moro situation was under consideration, and from a dispatch then at hand the secretary was of the opinion that the Moros must be dealt with severely before they would respect the authority of the United States.

Big Deal In Coal Lands.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19.—The deal for the purchase of all shipping coal mines in Sangamon and Menard counties and of the mines in Christian county north of Taylorville is practically closed. Twelve expert accountants sent here by the Audit company of New York have arrived and will examine the books of the companies involved in the deal and will report on what property they have in order that a syndicate representing $12,000,000 of eastern capital may know whether the values put on them are too high.

Secretary Cortelyou In Canton.

CANTON, O., Aug. 19.—Secretary to the President George B. Cortelyou spent several hours here. He and Judge W. R. Day are executors of the estate of the late President McKinley, which makes occasional visits to Canton by Mr. Cortelyou necessary. He spent most of the day with Mrs. McKinley and accompanied her to the cemetery, where he laid a cluster of flowers on the casket of the man with whom he had been so closely associated.

COMING EVENTS.

August 24—A. F. Irvine, of New Haven, an eloquent and fascinating speaker, at Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock.

ARE WE SORDID?

Viewed from an absolutely cosmopolitan standpoint there is nothing which attracts so much attention today as the insatiate race for wealth. The fling "Americans worship the almighty dollar" is borne out by facts time and again, but it must be conceded that the struggle for riches is not confined to this country alone. It is universal, but the ingenuity of the Yankee brings greater success to him and consequently this country is held up as a land of greed.

Right here in Plainfield there are people trying to figure out their relationship to the Nelsons, of New Market, and yet probably they never gave the subject a moment's thought before the sad death of Mrs. Charles L. Fair occurred. Of course the existence of testaments left by both husband and wife in this case removes the possibility of their sharing in the riches to be distributed, unless by some means the wills should be broken. It is quite natural for the Nelson family to be interested in the matter of the estate and to take steps to protect their rights, but this is as far as it goes. No doubt there will be a long drawn out legal battle for the possession of this horde of wealth and the general public will be pleased to see it come into the hands of the New Market people.

In their search for easily obtained wealth, there are not a few people in this land fighting for mystical millions. Nearly every body has heard of the so-called Wood estate. This furnishes an instance in point. In a daily paper yesterday was the statement that presumably deluded relatives in Staten Island "are expecting daily confirmation of the news that they are the sole heirs to a fortune of $40,000,000 left by a great grandfather, who, it is said, possessed large estates in England, and died intestate." This is one of the general class and there is a faint possibly that there was such man a Wood. Notice that he possessed vast wealth and notice also that he died intestate. These two points are sufficient to act as bait for any number of credulous persons who are seeking easily acquired wealth. The Baker estate is also in point. Another instance of the greed for wealth is seen in the report that heirs of Benjamin Franklin are grasping after a fund accumulated from a bequest made by the great printer for the purpose of aiding young journeymen. It appears that this bequest was to be used in Philadelphia and Boston, but up to the present time the testamentary direction has not been fulfilled. Now as descendants of Franklin, these people who have come before the public notice are not endeavoring to have his wishes carried out. No, they want the money themselves. It amounts to a fortune now and they propose to get hold of it by all legal means. It's the search for wealth: it's the worship of the almighty dollar.

United States Senator Kean in speaking of State Senator Cross is quoted as having said that "the opposition to his renomination comes almost entirely from one locality." Such statements as these carry with it the implication that the Plainfield Republicans are directing an attack on Cross. Such is far from the case. They oppose Cross, only because he is seeking the same office that they wish to see Runyon occupy. Kean's eulogy of Cross is perfectly proper. His official career is not attacked by the friends of Judge Runyon. The stand taken here, the citadel of Republicanism in Union county, is summed up in three statements: First, the Plainfield candidate is admirably qualified for the office; second, Plainfield has been rolling up Republican majorities for the rest of the county and has accepted such nominations as are left when Elizabeth, Rahway and other places have made their selections; third, Senator Cross has twice been honored with his present office.

An exchange says: "The census bulletin on printing and publishing shows that while the prices of other things are raising, the cost of newspapers advertising (for each 1,000 of readers) is steadily falling. In the ten years from 1890 to 1900 the aggregate circulation of the newspapers increased 74.5 per cent., while the amount paid by advertising increased only 34.6 per cent. In twenty years the newspapers have quadrupled their circulation, while the advertisers have only doubled their payments (and that chiefly for enlarged space)."

The stand taken by various municipalities against granting all sorts of franchises without proper compensation seems to be contagious. Bloomfield people are the last heard from and they too demand that a trolley company shall pay for the privileges extended to it. The Essex Cross Railway Company has applied for certain concessions and it is said that a majority of the Bloomfield Town Council will oppose giving away valuable privileges. The course is a proper one.

The popular theory that specially gifted men marry much less and more frequently later than men of average intelligence is denied in an especially interesting article in the Popular Science Monthly. Prof. E. L. Thorndike, of Columbia University, the writer, declares that there is no distinction in this respect. He proves his assertions with facts and figures.

The chauffeur of Oliver Harriman, Jr., was fined $10 the other day in Newport, R. I., for racing. Considering the great danger of this foolhardy practice the punishment was not commensurable with the offense. Better made it ten times the amount for the first offence.

Governor William A. Stone says politics doesn't pay. Just to think of it, this from a governor of corrupt Pennsylvania! Has "addition, division and silence" been discarded suddenly as a motto there.

New Yorkers say that Santos-Dumont has a case of swelled head. Considering the number of banquets he attended while in this country the report is no doubt true.

Wonder if beef and coal will be among the exhibits in a museum a century hence, or will they be memories.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

That it is dangerous to ride in an automobile at the rate of fifty or sixty miles an hour seems to be a new discovery to a number of persons, since Millionarie Fair and his wife were killed near Paris. When one considers that it takes a good roadbed and well-tested equipment to enable railroad trains to make such speed safely, the horrible recklessness of running a machine on a highway at that rate seems apparent enough. But the fate of the automobilist does not count. Nothing can be said or done for the protection of men who risk the lives of their wives and servants in such play. They are hopeless. The protection of others who use the highways is quite a different matter, and that must be secured at any cost. Fortunately, the automobilist is more afraid of jail than of death.—Newark Call.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

You want a new watch—that old timepiece of yours should have belonged to the antediluvians. L. Moraller & Son, Park avenue, have a line of chronometers that will take your fancy.

George Kirch, the Liberty street grocer, has a line of groceries that has made his store the mecca for many buyers. When you buy an article from Kirch you know that you are getting a good thing.

At T. L. Walsh's market on North avenue, there is always to be found one of the finest assortment of vegetables in the city. The supply is replenished fresh every day and the prices are always reasonable. All orders are delivered free.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, is gratified over the constantly increasing patronage that is coming to him. His stock of jewelry is complete and his assortment of watches, guaranteed time-keepers, is the best. He maintains a first-class repair department and satisfaction is always given.

In these days when the prices of the necessaries of life are constantly jumping up, it is a source of satisfaction to deal with S. Scheuer & Company. Their prices are always the lowest and the goods the best. For this reason the business at this store is increasing daily.

CONNOLLY RECEIVER.

Appointed to Take Charge of The Evening Times' Affairs—Will Continue Publication.

James C. Connolly, of Elizabeth, was yesterday appointed receiver for the Evening Times, of that city. Vice Chancellor Stevens made the appointment, W. W. St. John, the editor, readily assenting to the selection, as did also the majority of stockholders and creditors. The paper will continue to be issued daily and the receiver is empowered to dispose of it at either public or private sale. Mr. St. John states that he has received several offers but no definite action has been taken in the matter.

BABCOCK PLANS APPROVED

BUILDING INSPECTOR DOANE PASSED FAVORABLY ON THEM YESTERDAY.

The New Structure Does Not Materially Differ From the Old Building.

Building Inspector C. O. Doane yesterday approved of the plans filed for the re-erection of the burned portion of the Babcock building. The building will be practically the same as before. The question as to whether or not the fire walls shall be constructed through the roof is left unsettled until the erection of the same, but it is agreed that they shall be constructed to meet the requirements of the building inspector and board of fire underwriters. Ernest F. Guilbert is the architect who drew the plans.

The first floor will remain unchanged, except for a few repairs. The second and third floors have a row of offices along Madison avenue and Front streets, with similar rows directly across the corridor, light being provided by a large open shaft. The same arrangement is true of the fourth floor, except that provision is made for a banquet hall.

The fifth story will have on Madison avenue a lodge room, reception, smoking and ante room. On Front street there will be another lodge room and also a second banquet hall. In the rear will be situated an art gallery, with exhibition rooms, studio and dark room.

Dispensing with the bow windows on Front street will be the only material difference in the exterior of the building. But within the finishings with the marble work, mirrors, painting and decorating will be palatial. The plumbing, electric wiring, conduiting, steam heating and plumbing apparatus will be of the most approved and modern variety.

No contracts have yet been let for any part of the construction, but some contractors are now figuring on sets of plans that have been sent out for the purpose.

COMPANY M IS TO LIVE

SOMERVILLE'S MILITARY ORGANIZATION TO BE STRENGTHENED.

New Members Taken in and More to Be Recruited Soon—A Full Quoto.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 19 — There is now no doubt but that Somerville will continue to be represented in the military ranks. Company M will be strengthened to the full extent allowed by the law and a great effort will be made to have the company rank among the first in the Second Regiment.

With this view in mind a meeting was held in the rooms last Friday night when six new members were elected and eighteen proposed. These latter will be decided upon at a special meeting to be held Friday night of this week, when, it is expected, a number of other recruits will be proposed.

MR. NAYLOR'S FUNERAL.

A Former Resident, Who Died in Newark, is to be Buried Here This Afternoon.

Tunis Naylor, aged 64 years, a former resident of Plainfield for forty years, died last Saturday at his home, 77 Clay street, Newark, from chronic troubles. He had been ill a long time. Mr. Naylor was born in Bound Brook, but soon afterward came to Plainfield. Four years ago he moved to Newark. Mr. Naylor was a brother to John Naylor and Mrs. J. W. Burdick, of East Third street; Jacob Naylor and Daniel Naylor, of Orange.

The remains will be brought to Plainfield this afternoon for interment in the Methodist cemetery in Plainfield avenue, where a short service will be held at the grave. Mr. Naylor leaves a wife, a son and daughter.

DUNELLEN.

Funeral services over the remains of R. S. Fisher, who died suddenly at his home Saturday morning, were held in the Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon. Rev. William E. Davis, of Lebanon, officiated and he was assisted by Rev. A. E. Martine, of Marlboro, formerly of the borough and Rev. N. J. Sproul. During the service a quartette composed of Rev. N. J. Sproul, L. B. Meserole, Mrs. J. N. Apgar and Miss Edith Boice sang sweetly, "Some, Sweet Day" and "My Jesus as Thou Wilt." In addition to the large number of relatives and friends who attended delegations were present from Atlas Lodge, F. and A. M., of Westfield; Jerusalem Chapter, of Plainfield and the Royal Arcanum, of Scotch Plains. Following the obsequies the remains were taken to Hopewell where interment was made.

Dr. and Mrs. P. W. Brakeley spent Sunday at Lake Hopatcong as the guessts of the borough young men who are camping there. Max Brakeley, who was one of the party, returned home yesterday, his vacation having ended.

Frank Stites, of Jefferson aveune, has been awarded the contract to build two bridges on Greenbrook road for North Plainfield township. Both structures are to be of stone. He commenced work on the first yesterday.

Rev. Frank Fletcher was out yesterday for the first after three days' confinement to the house by illness. He is still feeling somewhat weak.

Chimney Rock is getting to be a popular Sunday excursion resort. Fourteen carloads of people from Newark were there last Sunday.

Sidney R. Craig has gone to Middlebury, Conn., where he will remain for two weeks as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Richardson.

States Senatorship to succeed Sewell. Stokes said he was in it, too, and they went down to defeat together; but Stokes came out of the fight with more prestige than he had when he went into it, and people are laughing yet about "Davy" Baird's aspirations. That's the difference between the two men.

In North Jersey the situation is more complicated. There is more to fight for and more who are suspected of a willingness to fight. The seat of power was pretty well disclosed when John F. Dryden, of Newark, was elected United States Senator to succeed Sewell.

His active partisans then were Gov. Franklin Murphy, and Attorney-General Thomas N. McCarter, both of Newark, both personal friends and business associates of Mr. Dryden and both bent on securing the honor for Essex county. Of course there are others who are consulted and who have influence, but the last say rests with these three, and one of them is likely to grow into the leader of North Jersey, certainly; of the whole State, maybe.

Franklin Murphy has strategical advantages over the other two. He is Governor, and when he was nominated for Governor he had been for several years chairman of the State Committee. Naturally he offered to resign the chairmanship, but the committee wanted him to stay and he stayed and is chairman still.

This was interpreted by his closest friends as meaning that he was the chosen and accepted leader of the party in the State—that no one cared to dispute the leadership with him, but that was not quite the fact. It would be nearer the truth to say that no one cared to take his place as executive director of campaigns, for no one could hope to improve upon his management.

Mr. Murphy's double responsibility as Governor and as campaign manager gives him and his friends more of a right to actual leadership than any one else can show, but it is not an undisputed right and it has not yet been established. When a real fight occurs within the party lines, when, for instance, another Governor is to be nominated, it may be challenged successfully or it may not be asserted at all.

Meanwhile there are several factors in the situation which cannot for a moment be overlooked. There is Attorney-General McCarter, only 35, energetic, self-confident, not always diplomatic, ambitious, a good lawyer and the son and brother of good lawyers, a young man who has put on too much steam and gathered too much headway to stop short or slow down. What are his plans? Where will he come out?

And then there is John W. Griggs, ex-Governor, ex-Attorney-General of the United States, a great lawyer and a great intellect. Be very sure that ambition of the right sort is not lacking in him. When he retired from the Cabinet and set out to make a fortune it was commonly believed that his hand would not appear again in active politics and that by and by he would realize his old ambition to sit in the Supreme Court of the United States.

Nevertheless, he was ready enough to be a candidate for the Senate last winter, which didn't look just like being out of active politics; and he is likely to confound the expectations of his friends and his enemies many times in the years that are to come. He must always be reckoned with, not as an aspirant for practical leadership, but as the keenest mind and the highest private in the party in all New Jersey, a man who doesn't propose to be ignored or forgotten.

These, then, are the elements of a situation replete with absorbing interest—a great party in a great State lacking, not leadership, but a leader. While the game is being played there will be sport for the players and the lookers-on. Who will be the winner? For there must be a winner. An organization like this can't go long without a leader.—New York Sun.

port the position that simultaneous death is to be presumed. But it must now be taken as the law that there is no artificial presumption in cases of this nature, either that any one in particular survived or that all died at the same time; and it will merely be considered, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that one of them survived, leaving it to be discovered from the evidence who was the individual survivor.

The question is one of fact, depending wholly on evidence, the real or supposed superior strength (as from age or sex) of any of the persons perishing by a common calamity being left merely to carry its natural weight, namely, as a circumstance proper to be taken into consideration by a judicial tribunal, but which, standing alone, is sufficient to shift the burden of proof. The onus probandi is on the person who claims derivatively through a survivorship of one out of several to prove the fact affirmatively; and if the evidence does no establish the survivorship of any one, the law will treat as a matter incapable of being determined."

LEAVE TODAY.

Plainfielder's Patent.

Richard B. Norwood, of 113 Madison avenue, has invented a device to be used as a street car spittoon. He has received notice from the patent office that a patent has been granted him. By touching a button the receptable is brought out from beneath the seat and in the same manner it is replaced.

Y. P. S. C. E. Meet.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church will have charge of the meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Thursday evening. Horace J. Martin will lead the service. The party will leave by the 7:30 car from the trolley depot.

Now a Collector.

Elmer E. Cutting, of Orchard place, has secured a position of collector for the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, succeeding Mr. Lyons, who has been transferred to special work in the Brooklyn office.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

TOLD ABOUT MACKAY

British Death Duty May Be Imposed on His Estate.

Mackay Mausoleum at Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, Is a Princely Tomb—Millionaire Was a Good Fighter.

Estimates published in London put the late John W. Mackay's fortune at $40,000,000 to $70,000,000, and in legal circles it is considered a nice point whether the British government is not entitled to claim a death duty of five per cent. on what Mrs. Mackay inherits under her husband's will, as, though not naturalized, she is domiciled in England. Then a death duty will have to be paid on all the testator's investments in English securities, so the chancellor of the exchequer calculates making a handsome haul out of his estate, as Mackay's English investments are said to be nearly $10,000,000.

His friends declare that four years ago, foreseeing a prospect of his estate being mulcted by the English treasury, owing to his wife being domiciled there, he asigned to her the greater part of the fortune he intended to bequeath to her, including his English investments, and that the remainder of his fortune goes to his son.

The Mackay mausoleum at Greenwood, Brooklyn, where the body of John W. Mackay will be laid at rest, is one of the most magnificent tombs in the world. It cost $300,000.

The mausoleum is situated on a promontory near the Ninth avenue entrance to the cemetery, facing the east. It is built of Hallowell granite, and is in the form of a Maltese cross, surmounted by a Grecian cross.

On each corner of the tomb is a large heroic group cast in bronze. The statues symbolize different attributes of sorrow and faith, death and life. With the exception of the carving on the cross surmounting the structure and the frieze around the pillars, the exterior is severely plain.

The entrances are guarded by four massive bronze doors. Fronting the main entrance is the altar. The base

THE MACKAY MAUSOLEUM.
(Said to Be the Most Expensive Tomb in the Country.)

is of white Carrara marble, and the altar proper is one large slab of black Irish marble from Connamara. It is a striking piece of work.

On the platform of the altar rest four columns of onyx, which are supported by two ornamentations of green small Irish marble. Between the ornamentations, over the altar, is a bas relief of pure yellow Carrara marble, representing the Virgin holding the infant Jesus in her arms. Both figures are of nearly life size. Beneath the mother and child is the figure of a cherub.

Underneath the altar are two of the catacombs destined to receive the bodies of the Mackay family. Large bronze doors guard the entrance to these vaults. On the other side of the main chamber are arranged ten more tombs. Each one will be hermetically sealed as soon as an occupant is placed in it.

On each side of the tomb is a large solid pillar, arching overhead into fretwork. The sides are composed of many varieties of marble. The floor is of Italian mosaic, and a large arrangement of the family monogram included in it. The ceiling is of mosaic work in glass, and the side windows are of stained glass.

The dimensions of the tomb are 33 feet from side to side, 33 feet from front to rear, and 47 feet from base to summit.

That Mackay was a fighter physically as well as with his brains was shown on January 29, 1891, when he thrashed W. C. Bonynge, a San Francisco broker, in the president's room of the Nevada bank. Mr. Mackay thought he had reason to consider that certain cowardly attacks upon his wife had been instigated by the broker, and he beat him within an inch of his life.

The Scriptures in Japan.

Thirty years ago in Japan the Scriptures were printed secretly, and copies were sent out only after dark. Those who were engaged upon this work did it at the risk of their lives. Now there is a Christian printing company in Yokohama, issuing the Scriptures, not only in Japanese, but in Chinese, Thibetan, Korean, and two dialects of the Philippines islands. Last year there were circulated in Japan alone over 138,000 copies.

Veterans of Spanish War.

There are 280 camps of the Spanish-American war veterans. Thirteen of them bear the name of Lawton, four of William McKinley, ten of Theodore Roosevelt, three of Guy V. Henry, three of Allyn Capron, three of Emerson H. Liscum and two of Worth Bagley.

GIRL ASTONISHES SURGEONS.

Performs a Feat Which Men of Science Regarded as Impossible.

It is nothing new for a man's head to be turned by a pretty girl, but the feat accomplished in that line by a nurse at a Philadelphia hospital the other day is probably without a parallel.

According to an exchange of that city Thomas W. Wright and a companion were skylarking and trying to imitate Jeffries and Corbett in front of Wright's home, when suddenly Wright received a blow on the jaw that turned his head half round and over on one side. An instant later a big lump appeared on his neck and he began to suffer greatly. He endeavored to get himself into his former shape, but was unable to do so. Try as he would the best he could do was to keep looking over his right shoulder. There was no getting him to "front face."

His friend helped him to the hospital, restraining his rather natural inclination to walk sideways, and there Drs. Lloyd and Merfin told him his neck was dislocated. They sought to reduce the dislocation, but were unsuccessful, and so the nurse said: "Let me jiggle his head into place."

Surgeons and patient agreed and the young woman took the sufferer's face between her hands and gently worked it first one way and then the other. In a minute or two there was a sound as if something had snapped and the young man was looking at the world once more over his waistcoat, instead of from the starboard side. The swelling in his neck disappeared instantly and there was no pain. He thanked the girl and the doctors praised her.

THE STRAIN OF SOCIETY.

What the Human System Has to Endure in Keeping in the London "Swim."

The enormous strain upon the system during a London season must have either one of two results. It must either break down and destroy the nervous system, or it must educate the brain and body to bear more than ever their ancestors were called upon to endure; that is to say, it must kill the present generation or breed a new race of men and women. Before this last consummation is reached, and for the sake of the frailer members of society, it is wise to consider whether nothing can be done to relieve the intolerable burden of a season, writes the London Globe. Reflection and experience induce the belief that dances, dinners, the theater, the opera, at homes, and all the rest of it, need not in themselves cause weariness and depression. What does seem to weigh heavily upon the brain is to have one's life "booked" for months ahead, not an hour of a day really free for perhaps several weeks. This long-drawn engagement list has a poisoning effect upon the mind; it causes a sense of servitude; it destroys freedom; it closes round one's life like the approach of some deadly disease.

PASSING ON NOVELS.

Young Women Who Read for Philadelphia Library and Reject Objectionable Works.

In a quiet office of one of the public libraries of this city three young women sit reading all day long. Fresh from the presses the various new novels come into their room, and they examine them to see if they are fit for the shelves. Immorality and worthlessness are the two main grounds for the rejection of books by the library, says the Philadelphia Record. Thus, on the former ground Alphonse Daudet's "Sappho," Guy de Maupassant's "Bel-Ami" and Henry James' "Two Magics" were rejected.

The young women read all manner of books, and they make notes of everything objectionable in them. It would surprise Anthony Hope if he could see how many passages are marked questionable, and Mark Twain would not be pleased were he to hear the young women's opinion of some of his humorous remarks. The head of the library glances over the objectionable passages in otherwise good books which his readers underline, and these passages cause him sometimes to reject a volume. But, whether he rejects it or not, he is apt to be censured by somebody, for to pass on the books to be admitted to a library's shelves is a hard, ticklish and thankless job.

Importance of Opium.

More than 33,000 pounds of opium were received at San Francisco in a single recent shipment from China. A distinguished physician in that city remarked some years ago that if he were banished to the moon, compelled to practice medicine there, and permitted to take with him only one drug in the entire list of the pharmacopoeia, he would choose the juice of the poppy. But he was as strongly opposed as anyone could be to the indiscriminate, injudicious use of this powerful mendicament, and denounced the sale of it anywhere except upon a doctor's prescription.

PLUCK OF KING EDWARD.

Has Bravely Endured Much Physical Suffering in Order to Please His People.

"Of all the soldiers the king has decorated within the last three years of the war for bravery in the face of the enemy none deserves the Cross for Valor more than himself, who grimly and silently faced disease and death, unarmed and without a comrade," says Richard Harding Davis, in Collier's Weekly.

"For now that the whole dramatic, pitiful story is out, England learns—now that it is too late—of the days of gnawing pain when her king forced himself to smile and bow at court, to watch a horse race, to review a regiment, to drive through London with an assured and cheerful countenance. It is not pleasant to think of the torture of those days, of the mental anxiety as well as the bodily torment, when the king kept on his feet against the protests of his physicians, when his endurance was tested by hours of unceasing pain—pain so great that it is not decent to disclose it. Nor is it pleasant to remember that last drive through the park to Buckingham palace, when the people for some reason failed to cheer him heartily, while all the time he sat erect, pale and with set teeth, holding himself upright only by his will, and that they might be gratified."

THE YOUNGEST PEERESS.

Lady Betty Bligh, Baroness of Clifton, Three Years Old, Has a Coronation Robe.

The youngest peeress of Great Britain who has the right to attend the coronation of King Edward is Lady "Betty" Bligh, now Baroness Clifton, daughter of the late seventh earl of Darnley and Jemima, countess of Darnley. Although the baby countess can be barely three years old, having been born in 1900, the same year in which her father died, she is having a coronation robe made for her on the lines of those of the other peeresses, and, owing to her extreme youth, she will without doubt be an object of much interest and attraction in the coronation show at Westminster. The father of Lady "Betty" was the sixteenth Baron Clifton and seventh earl of Darnley. He married Miss Jemima Blackwood, daughter of the late Francis J. L. Blackwood, niece of the present baronet of the name, and a relative of the duke of Manchester. The tiny countess comes of a distinguished lineage. She is seventeenth in succession from the first Baron Clifton. In the history of the family the right of succession has fallen to the women of the house about as many times as to the men.

BELGIANS HONOR MAY DAY.

The Subjects of King Leopold Celebrate the Arrival of the Month of Flowers Each Year.

The month of May is the most highly honored of the whole year by the Belgians. It is known as the virgin's month and consecrated to the Virgin Mary. In the province of Liege young maidens have a quaint way of predicting their love affairs this month. A group of girls arrange to meet at sunrise and start to walk through the fields until they come to a hedge, quite unobserved from the highway, where they generally choose a honeysuckle bush beneath the protecting branches of which to perform their mystic operations.

Each maiden selects three blades of dew-laden grass, the tops of which she cuts to equal lengths, and to each of which she attaches a colored silken thread. Black represents a bacholer, red an unknown lover and green the secret desires of the maiden's heart. Ten days afterward they return to the same spot where they left the blades growing, and that blade of the three chosen which has surpassed the others in height reveals the lover the maiden is destined to have.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG.

A Problem in Which the Gentler Sex Have Long Been Interested.

The problem of how to keep young or how to keep from looking old, has engaged the thoughts of both men and women ever since the world began. Women especially have shown a deep interest in the vexatious matter, for their influence with men has always depended much on physical freshness and beauty. Numerous writers have contributed their views as to defying the riddle of the ravages of time. The latest well-known writer to discuss on the familiar theme is Max O'Rell. Without giving a recipe for the preservation of beauty, M. Blouet drops many useful hints as to the causes which lead to the unnaturally early disappearance of youth in some people. Bad temper and a lack of humor are, in his opinion, the two greatest enemies of youth and beauty. Max O'Rell thinks that with the aid of a sense of humor and good temper a woman can be young and beautiful until 50. After 50 he can offer no advice on the subject.

Mica Veil for Automobilists.

The only successful substitute for the ugly goggles worn by automobilists are said to be a veil of mica invented by a Parisian milliner. It is intended for the use of ladies who object to the disfiguring effect of goggles. A sheet of mica in the form of a vizor, set close to the face, is attached to the cap. It is a great improvement over the ordinary devices for protecting the eyes.

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Beautiful and Picturesque Coats, Transparent Lace Collars.

High transparent collars are often kept up by a necklace of pearls or a dog collar. This is a very pretty fashion, but it should not be adopted by those with short necks.

Evening coats are both quaint and beautiful. For the very hot weather some leading French houses are making three-quarter length coats of fine lace lined with accordion plaited chiffon in a variety of shades; others are making little sack coats entirely of embroidery.

The plain taffeta or moire coat without a lining still holds its own. This is usually trimmed with a wide collar of chiffon fagoting or lace and is considered handsomer if kept all black.

The very elegant evening coat shown is of black bengaline silk trimmed with perpendicular strappings of satin. The sleeves are cut wide at the lower edges and are finished with wide and full frills of dotted chiffon. The large revers at the front are faced with white satin embroidered in black and gold.

DUST AND RAIN COATS.

New Linen Hats—White Canvas Shoes—Smart Dinner Blouse.

The dust coats and the mackintoshes of the hour are as chic as the dressy wraps. They are a kind of a compromise between the empire and the Japanese; that is to say, they hang from a yoke, but have large, loose sleeves and either a cape collar or a capuchin effect. It is practical to have one's dust coat made waterproof, for one is never sure of summer weather. Taffeta, too, still holds its own for wraps, and this fabric is now being manufactured in a soft but serviceable make.

For yachting and motoring there are some new linen hats in white, dark blue and even black. These are daintily trimmed with wings—red, white or scarlet—and chiffon veils draped carelessly around the brim.

White canvas shoes are once more in style for yachting and to wear with white pique and brilliantine dresses, but they are more carefully made and fitted than formerly.

The smart waist in the illustration is made of black peau de soie. The sleeves reach half way to the elbow, where they are finished with a bow and a wide frill of lace. The bolero opens over a softly draped underbodice of chiffon and silk. The fichu is of chiffon and lace.

A Long Row of Corn.

A Kingman county (Kan.) farmer is growing a row of corn a little more than twenty-five miles long for no other reason than to be singular and extraordinary. He commenced in a fifty acre field and went round and round in a circle with a lister until he had planted the whole in a single row, which commences at one of the edges and terminates in the middle. When he cultivated it, of course he had to plow the same way.

"Well, why don't you come in?" grumbled Ellison. And then, as the fellow seemed to have trouble in making up his mind, reached out his hand and pulled him into the room, closing the door behind him.

"Sit down," pointing to a chair.

The visitor, who seemed to be uncomforable in his new clothes, and at a loss to know what to do with his hands, slowly lowered himself to a resting position on the edge of a fauteuil, while his black eyes turned here and there about the room, as if looking for a means of escape.

Ellison, who had taken a seat directly in front of his visitor, eyed him with a contemptuous smile.

"Well, what have you done to earn your money?" he began.

"Blime me, Mr. Hellison, I ain't had a good night's sleep since I went on this here 'untin' hexpedition," speaking with a strong Cockney accent.

"That's all very well. But what did you accomplish by staying awake? The paper—did you get it?"

"No; I didn't."

Ellison made a gesture of irritation, and looked at his visitor in no very friendly way.

"What chance was there for me to lay 'ands on it?" explained the young man, energetically. "Didn't I plank myself down in the same lodgin' 'ouse with the party? Didn't I keep a'ter him all day—an', let me tell ye, he ain't a pedestrian you can give distance to. Didn't I ransact his baggage when he was hout?"

"Oh, that was all nonsense. You might have known that he carried it about with him."

"And I suppose I was to knock the gent hover in broad daylight, and take it from 'im?" remarked the other, showing that he had a pretty skill in the way of sarcasm.

"I don't care what you might have done. Your duty was to get the paper, and you haven't done it. I declare, you are not so clever as I thought you were."

"Come, guv'nor. I done the best I could, so just please wait until——"

"Well, go on. I am listening," replied Ellison, with the bored expression of patient resignation.

"Ye know ye wanted to find out who this here chap really was."

"Yes, but what can you tell me about him that I don't know already, Briggs? Don't try to make up a story so as to cover up your own stupidity." And he looked at the young man in such a threatening way that the latter cast an anxious look at the door, as if he would gladly be on the other side of it.

"Yer see, when I was on the trail of this gent," he began, as he regained some confidence and found out that he was not to be eaten, "I fell in with some of our folks camped in the woods. They allus makes known ther' whereabouts by some sort of a sign—a bit o' rag fixed to a tree or the like. So when I see this signal I thinks I'll go and pay the folks a visit. I plunges inter the woods and hadn't gone far when a big, rough chap comes runnin' hout of the bushes and axed me what I wanted. I explains the best way I could, and at the same time makes it known that I was onet at Romany myself."

"You are mighty long-winded with your cursed story," exclaimed Mr. Ellison, as he leaned back in his chair and yawned. "Do be brief."

"I ain't no telegraphic talker," grumbled the young man, sullenly. "I got to tell this in my own way or not at all."

"There—there, I was only trying to hurry you up a bit," said the other, seeing that he could gain nothing by his irritation.

"As soon as he finds out that I was one of the people—though he was nothin' but a low down sort o' half-breed hisself—we got to be quite chummy, and then I axes him if he knows anything about the party I was lookin' after. Bless ye, he knowed all about 'im. The feller had paid the camp a visit the day before."

"And who is he?" and Ellison drew his chair nearer, and the bored look disappeared from his face.

"His real name they don't know, but he goes by the nickname of Will o' the Wisp."

"Ah!"

"Yes, he's a escaped convict, for he was in for 20 years, and on'y escaped the other day, with a lot of others. 'Mong them was a man he'd got to know well in prison; his name," and here he paused and rubbed his chin thoughtfully for a moment—"well, I disremembers what it was?—stopping and shaking his head.

"Wasn't it Martin Frale?" asked Ellison, gently.

"That was it—how'd ye know?" his sharp face becoming overspread with a smile.

"Never mind how I came to know. But what of this Frale?"

"Well the party what escaped was once near gettin' caught, and Frale was mortal wounded in the row. They managed to get him away, but he died the next day, and they buried him. All the party was captured at last but this here Will, and as must be the man I been watchin'. That was now the story the fellow told me run."

"Well, you have not done so badly after all," and Ellison's face expressed deep satisfaction over what he had just learned. He rose and walked up and down the room a few paces, finally returning and standing beside the chair where the young man was seated.

"Well, what are you doing here? Why didn't you continue to keep your eye on the fellow?"

"Why? 'Cause he give me the slip—that's why. He left his bag and skipped. Must have got scared—suspected he was follered—"

"Well, you must find him again."

"Me?"

"Yes; it is more than likely that he is in this town. He takes a deep interest in the case of the young man who is in prison here for what happened at Exton."

"'Taint likely he'd be hanging round where you are, guv'nor. There ain't sense in that," wagging his head sagely.

"I tell you he must be here, and you are a poor stick if you cannot find him."

"If he is here, why, of course, I kin get 'im, and what then—"

"Let me know, that is all, and now go," and he went to the door, threw it open and the visitor, without another word, went out.

Ellison was watching him disappear down the stairs, and was about to return to his room, when a voice near him said pleasantly:

"Looking for me, Mr. Ellison? Well, I'm glad to meet you," and turned to face Job Hendricks.

CHAPTER XII.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND.

James Ellison was not the sort of a man who is easily moved or surprised, but the sight of Hendricks standing there, calm and smiling—the very person he had been discussing with his agent—for a moment disconcerted him. He began to experience a certain dread of a man who seemed to be so utterly careless of his own safety. So he stood for a moment staring at his visitor in puzzled amazement. He observed that Job had trimmed his beard, was better dressed, and otherwise changed. In short, he was in general appearance a very different looking man than when they had met before.

"Well, I suppose you are not too busy to see me?" said Hendricks, who seemed to enjoy the other's discomfiture.

"Certainly, I shall be glad to hear what you have to say," replied Ellison, quick to recover from his temporary torpor, wishing at the same time that his visitor was in a place not mentioned in polite society.

"Be pleased to walk in, Mr. Hendricks?" as with a bow, and a courtly gesture of his right hand, he motioned toward the open door. Job bowed gently, and strode past him into the room, where he selected the most comfortable chair, dropped into it with a sigh of relief, and waited for the other to speak. He saw that his host as he closed the door was still disturbed in mind, and that he was struggling to appear at least cool and collected as his guest, who certainly did not display the slightest embarrassment.

Ellison did not sit down, for he seemed to feel too nervous, and continued to walk up and down the room, twisting his gray mustache with his thin white fingers and occasionally casting a curious glance at his visitor.

"Didn't expect to see me, did you?" said Job Hendricks, after a pause. "I happened up to visit you the other day at Exton, and found that you had departed, bag and baggage, and had left no address."

"I left one, of course—for my friends——" began Ellison, who had now recovered some of his sang froid.

"Then you don't count me among your friends——"

"I can't say I do."

"You will find that I shall stick closer to you than a brother—not to say a friend, until I have had my way," replied Job, calmly. The speech seemed to wake Ellison out of his lethargy, and he came over to the place where Job was seated and glared at him with flashing eyes.

"Do you mean to threaten me?" he blustered.

"Not at all."

"I know who you are—certain things have happened since we last met. I know now that I have nothing to fear from you."

"Then why so excited," and Job covered his mouth with a red hand as if to conceal a smile. "You know all about me, eh? I suppose you learned it from the sneaking gentleman who just came out of your room? Strange that a man of your apparent good sense should put any confidence in the maunderings of a hangdog-looking fellow like that! Don't you see, man, that he would not hesitate to lie if he thought he could support his position and have a claim on your purse."

GRAND ARMY HONORS.

Friends and Comrades of John McElroy Boom Him for Commander in Chief.

A circular has been issued by the department of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic, setting forth the claims of Senior Vice Commander-in-Chief John McElroy for the office of commander-in-chief, to be voted for at the national encampment in Washington, D. C., in October. It is believed that he has the lead in the race, because of being in line of promotion. The circular gives Comrade McElroy's record, and the reasons for his election as follows:

"Comrade McElroy's military record, covering the period from October, 1862, to the close of the war, is above criticism. He enlisted at the age of 16 (having been born in 1846) in the MacClernand Guards, which subsequently became company L, Sixteenth Illinois volunteer cavalry, and was consequently only 19 when discharged.

COL. JOHN M'ELROY.
(Candidate for Commander in Chief of the Grand Army.)

"When a prisoner of war at Andersonville and other places, his excellent qualities as a soldier and comrade were fully tested. He refused repeated offers from the rebel authorities of assignment to duty outside the stockade, preferring to decline all favors and remain with his fellow prisoners in distress. He was known to all as 'Little Illinois,' and was a member of the band of Regulators, who arrested, tried and hanged six 'raiders,' July 11, 1864, and thus contributed to the restoration of law, order and security to life among the 25,000 prisoners then confined at Andersonville, many of whom were helpless and wholly at the mercy of the lawless. This incident shows his mettle as a boy, and was prophetic of the unswerving loyalty he has shown his comrades and the untiring efforts he has made to advance their interests continuously since the war.

"As a grand army man he requires no introduction anywhere among his comrades. His membership in the organization dates back to 1866, and he has been at all times during the intervening 36 years the loyal and unfailing friend of the order, never evading or shirking any duty or service within his ability to perform for the advancement of its interests or those of his comrades.

"In 1874 he became managing editor of the Toledo Blade, Toledo, O., a paper of wide influence and extensive circulation throughout the country, and immediately made it a strong advocate of veterans' rights, and in 1884 he accepted the managing editorship of the National Tribune, at Washington, D. C., which he yet retains; thus making a period of 28 years during which he has had editorial control of papers of national reputation and influence."

VEST NOT DISABLED.

Rumor That Missouri's Famous Senator Is Going Blind Is Emphatically Denied.

United States Senator George Graham Vest, who was falsely reported as going blind, is now 73 years old, but of as keen sight and clear an eye as any man of his age in the country. The senator is now serving his fourth term as the representative of Missouri in the national legislature. He has been in public life since 1860, in which year he first took his seat as a member of the Missouri legislature. He was born at Frankfort, Ky., and was graduated from Center college in 1848. He removed to Missouri in 1853, and settled at Sweet Springs, where he still lives.

AN IDEAL EDUCATOR.

Charles W. Eliot, President of Harvard University.

One of His Grandest Achievements Is the Introduction of the Elective System in American Seats of Learning.

Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard university, who has recently been elected president of the National Educational association has for 30 critical years been the prime minister of our educational realm. He was born in Boston in 1834, and his preparatory education was acquired at the Latin school in that city. Graduating from Harvard with the class of '53, he became a tutor in mathematics in the university, and later assistant professor in mathematics and chemistry. Being appointed to the chaid of analytical chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he served until he began his official life as president of Harvard in '69. He regards the administration of a university as a business. He is not, as are many educators, first an author or a teacher, and secondly an administrator. He illustrates the fact of making such presidency a business. President Eliot brought to his work a vigorous and impulsive personality, distinguished alike for moral and intellectual qualities. Some one has said that the normal man is two-thirds will and one-third intellect. Perhaps the two qualities possessed by Dr. Eliot which have done much to make all things possible to him in the line of his endeavor are the wonderful strength of his will and his absolute fearlessness.

The relations which a university president holds are probably more numerous and more important than those held by the average public officer. He holds a relation to the students, the faculty, the various governing boards, the preparatory schools, and, more important still, to the community at large.

President Eliot has put himself in close relation with the commonwealth of Massachusetts and he has closely identified himself with their system of public school instruction. He has pointed out serious defects in the system and has suggested practical methods of eliminating evils. The teaching of elementary science in the grammar and high schools is due to his recommendations. He believes that it is the duty of every educator to make American education of every grace better, and it is due largely to his criticisms and directions that public education has been organized upon a wiser and better basis. His ideas have resulted in increased respect for the teaching profession, less unnecessary labor for the student and have saved the people much unwise expenditure.

CHARLES W. ELIOT.
(New President of the National Educational Association.)

And it is in President Eliot's relation to public education that we touch the keynote of his career. In reality the success of his administration lies in the fact that he has kept himself and the university in vital touch with the community. He has coordinated it with the other social, commercial and educational forces of the time. He has made it a university for the men who are to rule affairs.

Perhaps President Eliot's most conspicuous work has been the introduction of the elective system, a subject which he discusses in nearly every one of his reports. According to his views on the subject, this system will promote concentration, individuality and equip each man to make the largest contribution to the betterment of the race. Its chief aim is to adjust a college education to at once the practical and the higher life.

His reforms have all been rooted in principles and purposes which are essentially moral and religious. He has gone the whole length of the educational line, condemning every defect and rebuking every form of inefficiency as an injury to the community and a crime against the individual. Of a university he says that it should be its principal function to train leaders—men who have the originating power, who reach forward in all fields of activity and push beyond the beaten paths of habit, tradition and custom.

The National Educational association has chosen for its president a man who stands for the highest ideals and new and progressive methods in educational reform. In truth, a man of "light and leading," who stands for the advancement of real knowledge in contrast to mere education.

Misunderstanding in Date Inconveniences Members of City Common Council.

Through a misunderstanding it was announced that the Common Council would meet last evening. Several members of the Council assembled at the rooms on North avenue only to learn that the meeting is to be this evening.

Several councilmen had a good laugh at the expense of Mr. Mellick. He was the member to set the date for the adjourned meeting, but like a few others was misled and he drove from his home to the Council Chamber to attend the meeting. He did not learn his mistake until he arrived at his destination.

The meeting will be held this evening when the books of the Board of Assessors will be considered and the hearing in the case of Griffin H. Freeman against Louis M. Dunavan will be given.

ARCHIE NILES IS MARRIED

WEDS MISS MAGGIE KLINER, OF THIS CITY.

Rev. George B. Shaw Officiates —Groom a Machinist in Potters.

To the surprise of many friends, announcement is made of the marriage of Archie Niles, of Orchard place, to Miss Maggie Kliner, of East Second street. The event took place Tuesday evening, August 12, in the study of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Rev. Geroge B. Shaw, pastor of the church officiated. There were no others present except two witnesses.

The groom is well-known and is popular. He is a machinist by trade and is employed in the Potter Press Works. He has been a member of Company K since its organization. The bride is also well-known in Plainfield. In the near future the couple will go to housekeeping.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

COUNCIL MET LAST EVENING

The Books of the Board of Assessors Were Examined and Approved.

THE SESSION WAS SHORT.

Freeman-Dunavan Was Matter Laid Over Until the Next Regular Meeting of the Council in September—Objection by Counselor Robert M. Clark.

The possibility of a hearing being given in the case of Griffin H. Freeman against Louis M. Dunavan, members of the fire department, for infraction of the rules and regulations of the department, attracted a large number of people to the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last evening. All were doomed to disappointment, however, for Councilman Lee offered a motion adjourning the hearing until the next regular meeting of the Council. The purpose of this is that Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh will be at home by that time and this is considered essential on the part of the officials.

Lawyer Robert M. Clark, representing Mr. Dunavan, asked the Council to note his objection to the adjournment on the ground that he had a number of witnesses present and it would inconvenience them and put them to unnecessary trouble to adjourn the hearing. The objection was noted.

The members then took a recess to examine the books of the Board of Assessors. This did not consume much time as there were no serious objections to the ratings, except one case, that of Councilman Pray, who felt that the rating on his residence property was too high. There was a good natured argument concerning the matter between Mr. Pray and Chas. H. Hand, the assessor from the Second ward.

After the books were examined Mr. Lee offered a motion that the books as presented by the Board of Assessors be accepted and the motion prevailed. There is every reason to believe that the rate for the coming year will be $2.50, the same as last year.

Mr. Lee offered a resolution that the $114.54 assessed against Reform Hall in error for the years 1898 and 1899 be cancelled. The resolution was adopted, after which the meeting adjourned.

SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL.

Plans of Commission for Erection of a Shaft at Antietam Next Summer.

The commission appointed by Gov. Murphy to erect a monument to the memory of the New Jersey soldiers who participated in the battle of Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862, has held a meeting at the Astor House, New York, to examine the plans and proposals.

There were sketches and proposals from sculptors of several States, but the commission seemed to feel inclined to coincide with the Governor's suggestion to give preference to a New Jersey firm.

As the monument is to be a large and rather elaborate affair, it will take six months to complete it.

The monument will be set up early next summer, but the formal dedication will not take place until the anniversary of the battle of Antietam next year.

Time to Get Time.

There are still a few employes of the New Jersey Central Railroad who have not yet purchased new watches according to the requirements established by the officials. The company is giving the men all the time absolutely necessary, but it is expected that the new timepieces will be purchased at the earliest possible date. The employes who travel between Jersey City and High Bridge are required to go to Bayonne every three months and have their watches adjusted and regulated, if they need it.

Thompson's Work.

In accordance with a request made by H. D. Thompson, correction is made in the list of committeemen of the Hope chapel excursion. Mr. Thompson states that he was the chairman and that he feels proud of the success he has attained. The error was unintentional and this opportunity is taken to give him the honor of the work achieved.

HE FAVORS LOCAL OPTION

GOVERNOR MURPHY'S SOLUTION FOR ATLANTIC CITY.

He Does Not Advocate Passage of General Law Removing Restrictions.

Governor Murphy in a recent interview expresses himself as opposed to the passage of a general act, but favors local option for such resorts as Atlantic City. As the matter is one affecting the entire State his opinion is one of general interest.

"The question," he said, "is one for the consideration of the Legislature rather than for myself. Whatever my opinions may be on the subject, the change you suggest can be accomplished by only one means. That is, by local option.

"The passage of a general law permitting and removing the present restrictions in force on Sunday would, it seems to me, be bad. While it might operate to the advantage of a place of the character of Atlantic City, it would not be true, I think, of the majority of the towns and cities of the State. There would be no gain, and I think there would be a loss.

"Of course I know the status of the question is different here. As I said, the only way to overcome the difficulty is by the giving to each community the power to make its own laws. I am a thorough Republican, and believe the will of the majority should prevail. Local option has been tried in this State, and the Legislature repealed the law. The people have settled the question, and there can be no change until the opinion of the majority of the citizens of the State prevails again, I suppose."

LOCAL ELKS ON EXCURSION

FIVE HUNDRED MEMBERS OF THE ORDER ENJOY THE DAY.

Spend Day at Point View Grove, L. I., Making the Trip by a Steamer.

Five hundred Elks and their friends, under the auspices of the Elizabeth branch of the order, enjoyed an outing yesterday at Point View Grove, Long Island Sound. One hundred pleasure seekers from Plainfield, many of them members of the fraternity left here in the morning to join the excursionists at Elizabeth.

The entire party sailed from Elizabethport on the steamer "Isabel," up the sound. A band discoursed music during the trip. On board the boat lunch was served and shortly after arriving at the grounds an elaborate dinner was provided.

The day was spent in a gala manner. The site affords not only an opportunity for bathing and all the advantages of a seaside resort, but baseball and other sports occupied the attention of the crowd. The excursionists started on the return journey home from the Grove about 7 o'clock.

The Plainfield contingent arriving home about midnight.

NO SANITARIUM.

Knights of Pythias Veto Proposition to Establish Such an Institution at Hot Springs.

The Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, in session at SanFrancisco, where several Plainfield delegates are in attendance has decided against the proposition of erecting a sanitarium at Hot Springs, Ark., for sick and disabled members of the order. The report of the special investigating committee appointed at the last session was disregarded. The Supreme Lodges does not think the constitution gives the right to take any such action.

Notice of Election.

Borough Clerk Frank Rowley, in another column of The Daily Press, advertises the special election to be held "over the brook," September 16. The boroughites will have an opportunity at that time to express their opinion on the question of annexation.

Cleared Neat Sum.

At a meeting of the Hope chapel excursion committee, held last evening, the members rendered their statements. When all bills had been deducted from the gross receipts it was found that a clear balance of $52.90 remained.

No Excuse Now.

A neat sign giving the city ordinance in reference to the regulation of the hack business has been placed on the North avenue side of the North Avenue station, where all men engaged in the hack business may read it plainly.

CHARLES N. FOWLER AS A CAMPAIGNER

Congressman Is Attracting Special Attention in Political Affairs at Present.

IS SUPPORTING RUNYON.

A REMARKALLY SUCCESSFUL CAREER OF A CONGRESSMAN.

Work He Has Accomplished for His Party in This County—His Services Much Sought After in Campaigns Elsewhere.

Campaigning of unusual vigor is promised in the congressional fights in New Jersey this fall. It is anticipated that much spice will be added to the contests by the sending here of speakers of national reputation to stump the State.

In the Fifth District, where Representative Charles N. Fowler has been renominated for a fifth time, it is expected Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, Speaker Henderson and other orators of note will appear on the stump. Mr. Fowler is himself a most vigorous campaigner. Just now he is in Vermont, where he has been taking part in the very lively gubernatorial canvass that is on there. With Secretary Shaw, he fired the opening guns of the campaign. Both appeared at Manchester on the same night and were accorded rousing receptions.

More than ordinary interest is taken in Mr. Fowler just now in view of the fact that it is almost certain that he will be a candidate for United States Senator at the expiration of the term of Senator John Kean. As Senator Kean is a resident of Mr. Fowler's home city of Elizabeth the contest in that city and district is one of the most lively that has ever been carried on in a good-natured way in the State. Mr. Kean is vigorously backing Senator Cross for a renomination for the State Senate, in order that he may have one of his lieutenants on hand when the question of his own successor comes up. Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, is opposing Senator Cross and while Representative Fowler has not taken a very active part in the matter his friends are giving Judge Runyon a most hearty support.

"I see no harm in a good-natured contest," declared Mr. Fowler to The Press correspondent while on a flying trip here one day last week. "Such contests if they are carried on in an honorable manner are calculated to do the party no injury and serve to stimulate a healthy rivalry."

Senator Kean is positive that Senator Cross will be renominated, and in this view has the support of the Elizabeth Republican organization, of which his brother, Hamilton Kean, the New York banker, is the chairman. The Kean forces are leaving no stone unturned to capture the nomination for their man. Senator Cross, like Judge Runyon, is a man of the highest type. He is a successful lawyer and was prominently mentioned for the presidency of the Senate last winter. He is at somewhat of a disadvantage, however, in coming from Elizabeth, which is a Democratic stronghold and which has for many years had all the good offices. Plainfield, the home of Judge Runyon, together with the townships, gives the Republican majority to the candidates, and Plainfield is making an earnest appeal for her favorite son. Elizabeth has had the State Senator for a score of years, and is argued that Senator Cross has had the satisfaction of being indorsed by his reelection three years ago. Previous to that time he served out the unexpired term of Governor Voorhees as Union county's representative in the State Senate.

Representative Fowler has had one of the most successful political careers in the State. He has been very much in the public eye for eight years, and his popularity has increased as the time went by. When he first took the nomination in the old Eighth District that political subdivision was strongly Democratic, and it was thought that his task was a hopeless one. He won by a substantial majority, and at each succeeding election, when he was a candidate, his majorities increased until in 1900 he carried the district by almost 10,000 majority.

The national leaders of the party are particularly interested in his campaign because of his wide knowledge on the currency question. He is chairman of the Banking and Currency committee of the House, and it is the expectation that a number of currency reforms will be carried into effect under his guidance. As he is making his present fight in a new district the national leaders are anxious to be sure of his re-election, and especial attention is to be paid to his campaign. It is expected that he will return from Vermont next week and the fight will be on in earnest in the district.

The Democrats have named DeWitt Clinton Flanagan, of Morristown, to oppose Representative Fowler. Mr. Flanagan is now serving out the unexpired term of the late Representative Joshua Salmon, of the old Forath District.—Philadelphia Press.

COAL IN PLENTY PROMISED IN FALL

Predictions of Alarmists Set at Naught by the President, Mr. Truesdale.

NO FURTHER ADVANCE.

THE COAL HERE REMAINS AT THE PRICE AGREED UPON A WEEK AGO.

Officially Stated That the Scale of Prices of Two Years Past Will Prevail as Soon as Coal Begins to be Moved From Mines.

Pessimistic statements of retail coal dealers that an anthracite famine would be in evidence by the time the fall trade sets in, and that the present fancy prices would be maintained throughout the coming winter, received a setback yesterday through assurances from authoritative sources. There is no question but what the retailers are profiting by the present strike situation and it has been intimated that the greater part of the "scarcity" talk has been gotten up by them with a view to spreading alarm among householders who are now figuring on laving in their winter supply.

To offset these rumors, a statement made public yesterday, by President Truesdale, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road, one of the greatest anthracite lines in Pennsylvania, gives an entirely different and more sanguine impression. He said: "I think work at the mines will be resumed in time to produce plenty of coal for the fall trade. Many of the strikers want to come back to work now and will return just as soon as they feel they will be thoroughly protected."

As President Truesdale has kept in close touch with the strike he is competent to prognosticate as to its end and his opinion that there will be an early cessation is not based on mere surmise. His statement was expressed and accepted at a meeting of the Temple Iron Company, in New York, yesterday, the directors of which are presidents of all the large anthracite coal roads.

The dreams of a golden harvest later on in the season harbored by the retailers have received a deathblow from another official statement made by the anthracite producers to the effect that when the strike was ended and the coal was rushed to market, there would not be the slightest advance in the price. The coal roads have announced that they will sell the anthracite and other grades at the same prices that prevailed a year ago. Further, it has been said officially also that the scale of prices which has been in vogue for two years past would prevail as soon as the coal began to move from the mines.

Local dealers have not added anything to the price during the past week and the cost of the necessary commodity to the householder is now $8 per ton for the egg and stove grades and $9 for nut. At Dunellen just three miles away the same grades are being retailed for six and seven dollars a ton, and even less at New Brunswick.

ENGINE SEARCHLIGHTS.

Central's Locomotives Equipped With Modern Lights Which Work Well.

A number of engines on the Central Railroad of New Jersey have been equipped with the new Rushmore Lens-Mirror searchlight. The engines are provided with 800 feet storage tanks to run them. A representative of the motor power department said they are proving entirely satisfactory. The new light apparatus is manufactured in Jersey City.

MUST NOT OBSTRUCT THE RIGHT OF WAY

Vice Chancellor Declares That McVey's Easement Should be Protected.

INJUNCTION MAY ISSUE.

THE HEARING OF CASE INSTITUTED BY MRS. LUCY C. M'VEY.

Cab Company to be Allowed Privilege of Using the Right of Way Through Place—Local Lawyers in Case—To File a Cross Bill.

The perplexing and oft-tried case instituted by Mrs. Lucy C. McVey against the Plainfield Cab Company and Mrs. Julia Peck came up for hearing yesterday before Vice Chancellor Stevens at Newark on a rule granted by Vice Chancellor Emery on July 23 to show cause why a temporary injunction should not issue restraining the defendants from interfering with Mrs. McVey's right of way from North avenue, through the livery stable to the kitchen door of the restaurant in the rear. The bill of complaint filed by Mrs. McVey showed that when the property was purchased from Daniel S. Roberts he also sold her a right of way as described. Mrs. McVey alleged that the Plainfield Cab Company had left wagons in this right of way and otherwise obstructed the same.

The cab company denied any intention of interfering with Mrs. McVey's right and after argument in the matter the vice chancellor stated that the company would have no right to allow the right of way to become obstructed; that it must be kept clear, and that inasmuch as the rights in the matter were clear to the parties concerned no injunction would be issued.

The vice chancellor further stated that the bill of complaint was not specific enough, that it was too general. In refusing the request for a restraining order and a stipulation, Vice Chancellor Stevens added that it is unreasonable to ask that the doors of the Plainfield Cab Company be closed all night, in view of the fact that it had not been shown that it is necessary that Mrs. McVey have the doors remain open.

"It must be shown that it is injurious to Mrs. McVey's business to have the doors closed from 11 p. m., to 5 a. m., and this you must show in order that you enforce your pound of flesh," said the vice chancellor.

It is understood that Mrs. Peck intends to file a cross bill to reform the deed granting the right of way, claiming an error in the transaction. It is alleged that the right of way referred to includes a distance from a brick wall to a wood partition and does not extend into the office of the Plainfield Cab Company. However, the vice chancellor said that if at any time the right of way was obstructed and proper proof of the same shown he would issue an injunction.

W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, represented the Plainfield Cab Company, and in presenting his case had an affadavit from D. S. Roberts taken before Nelson Runyon, showing the exact number of feet in the dimensons of the right of way. Between these and the dimensions in the bill of complaint there seems to be a difference. The cab company will, as usual, be allowed the privilege of using the driveway through the right of way and it is believed that so far as this particular point is concerned the matter is settled.

W. S. Angleman represented Mrs. McVey in her action, while Isaac P. Runyon, of the firm of Bird & Runyon, appeared for Mrs. Peck.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Plans for Three New Dwellings Filed With the Inspector.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted to William D. Bird, of Somerville, a permit for the erection of a dwelling, two and a half stories, 27 feet front by 28 feet deep, on Clinton avenue, near Clinton place. Also a permit to Mr. Bird, for the erection of a barn on the same piece of property.

James Borrup and Charles Kirchner were conjointly granted a permit for the erection on Central street, near LaGrande avenue, two dwellings, two stories high, 20 feet front by 28 feet deep. John Romman is the architect and carpenter, Wm. Howarth the mason.

—The regular services will be resumed at the Unitarian church in Park avenue early in September.

SALE OF THE COURT HOUSE

JACOB GORDON THE HIGHEST BIDDER FOR THE OLD STRUCTURE.

The Contractors for the Erection of the New Court House Building Have Filed a Bond.

The bids for the old Union county court house in Elizabeth have been opened and it has been found that Jacob Gordon's offer of $626.50 is the highest made. Mr. Gordon will be notified immediately. By the conditions of the bid he will have to remove the building in 60 days from the time he is notified to commence work by the county. He will secure none of the furniture, none of the piping and radiators and none of the gas or electric fixtures. All of this material will be used in the extension which is now being erected at the rear of the court house. Besides these the county will retain the bell and the statue of justice surmounting the cupola.

The October term of court from present indications will not be held in the present building. There is a room in the extension now being erected which may be used or permission may be obtained from City Council to hold court in the council chamber in city hall.

The county will notify the contractor for the removal of the building to proceed with his work as soon as the county clerk's records are removed to the new building in the rear of the present court house.

The John H. Parker Company, of New York, which has secured the contract for the new county court house, has filed a bond for one-quarter the amount of the bid. The contract and specifications have already been signed and filed. Orders for the stone to be used have been given, and it is now being cut at the quarries which furnished the stone for the Grant tomb in New York city.

PLANS FOR ENCAMPMENT

THE WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION ALLIED WITH G. A. R., AT WORK.

Various Asnociations and Places Where They Will Hold Sessions in October.

The work which women in Washington, D. C., are doing for the entertainment and comfort of the women's organizations allied to the Grand Army of the Republic, the national encampment of which will be held in Washington the second week in October, is on a most extensive scale and will excel anything of this kind heretofore attempted at such a gathering. The plan of entertainment is now well mapped out, and the committees are vigorously perfecting arrangements.

National headquarters of the Women's Relief Corps, ladies of the G. A. R., and Daughters of the Veterans will be at the Ebbitt House. The army nurses will have headquarters at the Bancroft, and will hold the sessions of their convention at the Washington Club 1710 I street.

The national convention of the Woman's Relief Corps will hold its sessions in the Church of Our Father, corner of 13 and I streets.

The national organization of the women of the G. A. R. will hold its sessions in the Lutheran Memorial church, Thomas Circle.

The Daughters of Veterans will hold their conventions in the hall at the corner of Fifth and G streets.

Committees of women from the various organizations, wearing plainly marked badges, will be on duty at the railway stations to meet the incoming guests and direct them to their quarters. It is probable that lodgings will be available at the rate of $1 a day.

There being no local organization of the association of army nurses Mrs. Mussey appointed as chairman for that body of women Mrs. Charlotte Mann, a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Legion of Loyal Women, of the District of Columbia, will make the comfort of the army nurses its especial care.

The chairman of the reception committee is Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant.

No Pastor Yet.

So far as can be learned the committee from the First Baptist church appointed to secure a successor to the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, has not yet decided upon anyone. When a pastor is chosen he will be submitted to the members for a vote.

Miss Alice Gaffney, of Somerville, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Julia McCann, of West Third street.

SMITH WILL GO TO FRISCO

When the Body of Mrs. Chas. L. Fair Arrives Here From Paris.

WITH MRS. OELRICHS.

He Telephoned to Mrs. Oelrichs at the Waldorf-Astoria—Mr. Smith Says That He is Not Looking for the Fair Millions—Has Sold Out His Bakery Business.

William B. Smith, an own brother to the late Mrs. Charles G. Fair, whose tragic death occurred with that of her husband in Paris, last week, called at The Daily Press office yesterday afternoon, and stated that he had sold out his bakery business to a Plainfield man for $500 and he and his wife were prepared at a minute's notice to go to New York to meet the bodies upon their arrival from Paris and accompany them to their final resting place in SanFrancisco.

Mr. Smith desires The Press to state for him that he is not going to the Pacific Coast for the purpose of getting any part of the millions of dollars in the Fair estate. He said that he is going simply out of respect for his sister whom he loved dearly. He thought it was an outrage the way the New York newspapers were publishing accounts concerning his sister and her husband. "They cannot even wait until their bodies are placed under ground," said Mr. Smith, "but they must constantly publish harrowing accounts about them and their millions. I want it distinctly understood that I do not care whether I get a cent of the money or not. All I ask is that the money which belongs to our side of the family is justly and rightly apportioned, and the relatives on Mr. Fair's side are welcome to all that they are entitled to."

During the afternoon Mr. Smith called up Mr. Herman Oelrichs at the Waldorf-Astoria on the telephone. He was informed that she had gone out for awhile, but he made an appointment to call her up last evening for the purpose of arranging for accompanying the bodies to SanFrancisco. Mr. Smith does not say how long he and his wife will remain in California.

A telegram was received by Mr. Smith on Monday morning informing him that his mother and brother, who started on Sunday for California, had arrived safely at Buffalo and all was well.

REAPPOINTMENT.

F. E. Higbie Again Becomes the Superintendent of Jersey Central Car Service.

Frank E Higbie has been reappointed superintendent of car service of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, to succeed W. M. Yount, who resigned to assume a similar position with a southwestern road. Previous to two years ago Mr. Higbie filled this position with the Central for many years when suddenly Mr. Yount, who was chief clerk, succeeded to the position. Now Mr. Higbie resumes the office.

A Speaking Record.

Dr. Alexander F. Irvine, who will speak at the men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Sunday afternoon, spoke on successive nights for two years at the Grand Opera House, New Haven, Conn. In the summer he delivered his addresses on the green in front of the building. It will be remembered that he lectured here most eloquently on Millet, the peasant painter of Normandy, in May last.

Entertained Friends.

W. J. Pearson, of Vine street, Monday evening, entertained about thirty of his friends in a social way. Miss Bessie Moore, from the south, rendered several piano solos, and Miss Viola Hagerty and Miss Sara Pearson sang several selections.

Society Editor.

Miss Katherine O'Keefe, of New Haven, Conn., is visiting her brother, John Arthur O'Keefe, of 652 South avenue, this city. Miss O'Keefe has just returned from a pleasure trip to Nova Scotia. Miss O'Keefe is the society editor of the staid, old New Haven Register.

Warren's Drill.

Members of Warren Engine Company went through a military drill on Watchung avenue, last evening, in preparation for the parade at Atlantic City in September.

Boys May Join Orchestra Formed at Y. M. C. A.—Next Meeting Monday Night.

Members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. have taken definite steps towards forming a boys' orchestra. Meetings for practice will be held every Monday evening. Any boy, whether he belongs to the association or not, may become a member of the orchestra without any expense devolving upon him. An invitation is extended to all interested to be present at the hall next Monday evening with their instruments for the first practice. The services of Martin A. Korff has been secured as musical director.

Land Speculation.

E. S. F. Randolph, of Park avenue, has completed a deal for a tract of land on Prospect avenue. As soon as that thoroughfare is placed in better condition he intends developing his acquisition.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The story that a New Jersey Sunday-school superintendent asked his flock "What is the best thing in the world?" and that a hundred little voices piped out "Money!" bears internal evidence of being true.—Chicago Tribune.

"The greed of the New Jersey relatives of the Fairs who were killed in France in their automobile is urgent enough. It seems that Fair, who was one of the heirs of Senator Fair (after a will contest), married a woman of varied history, after sundry experiences. She died with him, and the relatives in this State hope now to get his money as well as the money which he had lavished on her. His own family may prefer to let them have it rather than endure the scandal. But it is all nasty business. We dislike seeing New Jersey's name linked with such a case."—Newark Sunday Call.

What disloyalty is this! Does not the Call understand that if any of the Fair millions came into New Jersey, that they will be subject to the collateral interitance tax—and so swell the grandeur of our State? Is the business of grabbing for a share of the Fair millions any nastier than the processes by which the State makes thousands out of the trusts as an incorporation fee? Is New Jersey's name not already linked to the disgrace of changing the corporation laws and altering the relations between stockholders and corporations, because the steel trust threatened to go elsewhere and get a charter if the Legislature did not give it power to down its own stockholders?

Having swallowed the camel, we should not strain at a gnat.—Trenton True American.

The New Jersey towns and boroughs near New York are adopting ordinances which reduce the limit of speed for automobiles considerably below that allowed in New York, and no State has better roads for this twentieth century vehicle than New Jersey. Summit permits a speed of only seven miles an hour, Chatham eight, and Morristown ten. It applies to all vehicles, but the automobile is aimed at. This is fixing the maximum of speed at a figure which almost prohibits the use of bicycles and automobiles for either pleasure or practical needs. A cyclist riding seven miles an hour on a country road is going at a very slow pace, but if he exceeds it anywhere in Summit township he renders himself liable to arrest and fine. Even the driver of a buggy may properly protest when asked to pull his horse down to a seven or eight mile gait.

In New York State a speed of twenty miles an hour is allowed on the roads of incorporated villages, which is not dangerous when the case with which these vehicles can be stopped is considered. Perhaps twenty miles an hour may be regarded as too much for the said New Jersey boroughs, but surely the maximum of seven or eight miles is too great a concession to the margin of safety.—Evening Sun.

SOMERSET COUNTY POLITICAL TALK

J. S. Frelinghuysen Republican Candidate for the State Senatorship.

CHILDS A CANDIDATE.

MR. SCULLY'S NAME IS MENTIONED FOR SURROGATE.

The Situation at Present—Alvah A. Clark is Said Not to be a Candidate for State Senator—The Others Who Are.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 20—The nomination of a Senator is causing considerable anxiety among local politicians just now. While the county conventions will probably not be called until October, there has been much activity for several weeks past.

The nomination of Joseph S. Frelinghuysen by the Republicans seems assured at this time. No other candidate has yet appeared. Mr. Frelinghuysen is an insurance broker in New York City and is a scion of the distinguished family which has taken such a prominent place in New Jersey politics in years past. He has taken little hand in factional fights and it is believed that he will make a formidable candidate.

The Democrats are still in the air on the Senatorship. Samuel S. Childs has been regarded as the most likely man. Major Nelson Y. Dungan, a young lawyer, who was formerly prosecutor of the pleas, is a popular candidate, but he is against the field. Mr. Dungan claims to have the nomination in his hands if the leaders would not interfere with him.

Both parties are hopelessly at sea on the nomination of a surrogate. M. W. Scully and Wililam J. Demond, have been mentioned for surrogate and it is said that while both are popular Scully's chances are the better.

Alvah A. Clark, has also been named in connection with the State senatorial office but close friends of his declare he is not in the race. The Bryan wing of the Democratic party would naturally make strong protest against him, but there is little likelihood of his coming out.

AWARD OF PRIZES.

BOER CHIEFS IN HOLLAND.

Great Welcome Given Botha, De Wet and Delarey.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 20.—De Wet, Delarey and Botha, the Boer generals, and their party landed at Rotterdam during the day. They were given a hearty welcome by the municipal authorities and representatives of Boer associations. Many ladies presented bouquets to the generals' wives. The ships in the harbor displayed their flags.

From Rotterdam they proceeded to The Hague, where a public reception was accorded to them on their arrival. General Eyter in a speech paid a tribute to their heroic deeds.

General Botha replied, expressing the appreciation of the Boer officers at the warmth of their reception.

The visitors were escorted in procession through the town in open carriages and were everywhere loudly cheered by the crowds assembled. A number of Boers who served during the war formed a guard of honor for the generals.

The generals later attended the pro-Boer exhibition which is being held here. Responding to the welcome they received at the exhibition building General De Wet, in a voice broken with emotion, said:

"All those who organized this exhibition of art and industry have contributed to the growth of nations. We South Africans were on the road to the development of art and industry, but our legs were cut from under us, consequently we need help and support to rise again. It is for that very purpose that we have come to Europe, and we are grateful for the honors shown and the help given us by the Dutch."

It is reported that at the approaching meeting between General Botha and his colleagues and former President Kruger the latter will formally abdicate his position as Afrikander chief and hand over the reins and the residue of funds to General Botha and General De Wet and Messrs. Fisher and Wolmarans, who were formerly Boer delegates. Mr. Wolmarans, according to the correspondent's information, will endeavor to dispossess Dr. Leyds, the European agent of the Boers, of the power of signing checks. There are also rumors of an impending struggle for supremacy between General Botha and General De Wet.

SENSATIONAL ARREST.

Well Known Little Falls Man Accused of Murder.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Albert Christie, a well known politician and hotel keeper, has been arrested on a warrant issued by Coroner Douglas. At the inquest into the death of Daniel Ana, a locktender, some sensational evidence was given which tended to show that Christie was mixed up in the drowning of Ana. Christie declares that his arrest is an outrage and that he had nothing to do with the death of Ana.

At the inquest Joseph Lee, a watchman on the West Shore tracks at the Lovers' Leap cut, testified that on the night of the drowning he saw Ana walking down the towpath. He also saw two other men, whom he thought were Albert Christie and Robert Slattery. They came to the towpath and met near the grain elevator on the canal. Lee testified that the big man, whom he thought was Christie, caught hold of Ana, and a struggle followed. A train passing at the time distracted his attention from the men, and when the train had passed the men had disappeared.

When Ana was found, his coat was torn at the shoulder, and his lips were swollen. There were no other marks of violence. The body was found floating in the canal Sunday morning, Aug. 10, and it was generally believed that death was accidental. The police, however, began a vigorous investigation.

Robert Slattery left the city the day after the supposed drowning, but he was arrested in Hudson on Coroner Douglas' warrant and is now in jail. The police brought forward evidence which showed that Christie and Ana were on bad terms. They also showed that Christie and Slattery left Finck's bridge about 9 o'clock the night Ana was drowned and proceeded west on the towpath and in addition that Ana left Berry's lock and went east on the towpath at about the same time. The three, therefore, would meet at the point where Watchman Lee says the fight took place. Christie will demand an examination at once.

Defaulting Treasurer In Canada.

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 20.—Chief of Police Handry has announced that he has positive information that William Malcolm, the former secretary of the Mutual Loan and Building association of Passaic, whose defalcation caused the association's failure, is now in Canada and will try to head him off before he can sail for Europe. Three warrants for Malcolm's arrest have been issued by Acting Police Judge Van Derploog. They charge him with fraud, grand larceny and swindling.

Passengers Hurt In Collision.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Two sections of a Susquehanna and Western railway train were in collision at Westtown, Orange county, resulting in the injury of two passengers. Zopher K. Green, a traveling salesman of this city, had several of his ribs broken, and Dorothy Lawrence, five years old, of Sussex, N. J., had her nose broken.

Captain's Son Killed In Brawl.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 20.—Thomas Holt, son of Captain William Holt of the United States quartermaster's department, was shot and killed in a saloon in this city, and Harvey Harrell, a mail route agent, was arrested and lodged in jail, charged with the shooting. The two men became involved in a difficulty over a trivial matter.

CARD SHARPS FOILED

They Plotted to Rob Party of Millionaires.

UNMASKED BY THE SHIP'S CAPTAIN

W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., O. H. P. Belmont, Robert Goelet and Others Had an Exciting Time on Kronprinz Wilhelm.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The detection of two alleged card sharps in a poker game with Willie K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Oliver H. P. Belmont, Robert Goelet, J. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr., and two other men of wealth enlivened the trip across the ocean of the Kronprinz Wilhelm, which has just arrived.

The game was one of the largest in the annals of transoceanic gambling. The ante was $5. There was no limit. The majority of the players were millionaires, and the possibilities which the two sharpers saw before them were golden until the interruption came in the form of a denunciation by Captain Richter, in command of the vessel.

A woman adventuress, said to be well known in both New York and London, is alleged to have been behind the plan to fleece the American millionaires. She met some members of the party before they left England and made them acquainted with the two who were to fleece them.

But for the chance discovery by an onlooker that the two sharpers were cheating a considerable fortune might have been won by them from their intended victims. The discovery was timely, however, and, although there were large stakes in sight, the sharpers were caught in time to prevent their plans from being carried out.

The woman did not sail. The two men embarked at Southampton and grew friendly with the millionaires, although they held aloof from the cardroom. There was a lively card party every night from the day the vessel sailed, William Woodward, attache of the United States embassy in London, and Dr. F. W. Chapin being in the party.

On the third day the sharpers, with every show of reluctance, allowed themselves to be induced to take part in the game. They were gentlemanly looking fellows, with pleasing manners, and had succeeded in ingratiating themselves into the favor of young Vanderbilt and the others.

The game started, and at first the two sharpers lost. Their losses were not heavy, however, and in a short time they began to recoup. Several loungers in the cardroom were looking on at the game.

Suddenly one of the onlookers observed signals pass between the two men. He watched, became convinced they were cheating and left the room.

In a few minutes Captain Richter entered.

"This game will have to stop," he said.

The players looked up, startled. Vanderbilt, Belmont, Goelet and the others were amazed and angry. The two sharpers were evidently disturbed.

"These two men are cheating," said the captain, pointing to the two culprits. "They are professional card sharps."

Then, turning to them, he added peremptorily:

"Leave this room and keep out of it during the trip. You will take no part in any more games."

The two men slunk away, and their intended victims thereafter took no strangers into their game.

Race War on a Train.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 20.—Roadmaster Fred Stevers of Stevers, Va., was shot and killed and Jim Mitchell, a negro porter, was dangerously wounded in a fight with disorderly negroes on a southbound Seaboard Air line train near Middleburg. The negroes had taken seats in the coach reserved for whites. Conductor Clements ordered them to the coach for negroes. The negroes protested, but obeyed the order. When in the "Jim Crow" coach, one of the negroes named Joe Cole struck at the conductor. Roadmaster Stevers came to the conductor's rescue. The negro pulled a pistol, and Stevers clasped him around the body, but the negro twisted his arm around and, getting his pistol against Stevers' head, shot him, Stevers falling dead on the coach floor Mitchell, the porter, rushed toward Cole as he pointed the pistol at Conductor Clements and was shot in the abdomen. Passengers captured three of the participants, and two jumped from the train, escaping to the woods Bloodhounds have been sent from Weldon to track them down.

Factory Inspector In Trouble.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—The New Jersey State Federation of Labor unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon Governor Murphy to remove from office State Factory Inspector John C. Ward on the ground that he had been negligent in performing the duties of his office, particularly as relates to the enforcement of the child labor laws. Mr. Ward appeared before the convention and denied the charges contained in the resolution, after which he was subjected to a cross fire of questions by various delegates. Mr. Ward said that while the child labor laws might be violated in some instances he was not aware of any particular cases.

Famous Indian Scout Dead.

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 20.—Chief Charlots, the famous Indian scout of the Rocky mountain district, is dead on the Flathead reservation. It is asserted that Charlots' death removes the only barrier that has prevented the opening of the Flathead reservation for settlement.

SULTAN'S DEFIANCE.

Bacolod's Ruler Threatens to Attack Americans.

HE HAS THREE STRONG FORTS.

Captain Pershing Investigates the Conditions In Mindanao Preparatory to Active Campaign—Reenforcements Arrive.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The full text of the note of defiance sent the Americans by the sultan of Bacolod, now in open warfare against the Americans, has been received by the war department. It is as follows:

"To the Americans—We ask you to return to the sea because you should not be here among civilized Moros. If you stay here, we will fight you this month, and in no event do we wish to become your friends because you eat pork. We advise you not to look for the rifle because it is here with Moros who committed the assassination. They are people of the sultan.

"We say to you, if you do not wish to leave this region, come here, and the sultan will sacrifice you, and if you don't wish to come we will come after you."

Captain Pershing undertook to ascertain the condition of Bacolod and was informed by the sultan of Bacayuan that there were three forts, all of which were strong. The people had been strengthening them by lining them inside and out with stone, so that the projectiles of the American could not penetrate. He said that Bacolod had 300 men, but if the Americans went there the Moros adjacent would assist in the defense. Other native chiefs informed Captain Pershing that the sultan of Bacolod would kill them (the natives) if he knew they had been on friendly terms with the Americans.

A late paper from Manila states that many troops were being sent to Mindanao and that it was the evident intention of the government to occupy the country around Lake Lanao, which would require a considerable number. It is said that the health conditions in this region were perfect and that soldiers could stay in such a climate and enjoy all the delights of Camp Meade, Pa.

The board of health of the city of Manila has decided to rid the city of infection. The cholera, which has been raging in that city, is responsible for the determination, and every unsanitary building is to be destroyed. An estimate is made that it may cost $500,000 to carry out this plan. It is stated that there is a clash between the Americans and Filipinos in handling the cholera epidemic. The Filipino health officers are said to be more or less a failure, and it is therefore probable that the ideas of the Americans will be carried out.

NO DEVELOPMENTS.

Situation In Mindanao Remains Unchanged.

MANILA, Aug. 20.—There have been no developments in the Moro situation on the island of Mindanao. General Chaffee was expected to reach Cebu on the army transport Ingalls yesterday, but the vessel's arrival at that port has not yet been reported. It is possible that General Chaffee has decided to shorten his trip to the southern islands and return to Manila direct. An order received from the war department at Washington leaving action in the Moro situation to General Chaffee's discretion has been transmitted to him in the south, but has probably not yet reached him.

It is believed here that General Chaffee will increase the American forces on Mindanao and issue an ultimatum to the hostile Moros. There are at present 27,000 American troops in the Philippine Islands, a goodly portion of which could be spared for active service.

Captain John J. Pershing of the Fifteenth cavalry, who is in command of the American column at Lanao, Mindanao, has reported a fierce Moro intertribal fight near Camp Vickers, Mindanao. The contending factions met at Webding. Thirty-five men were killed outright and many others were wounded. No Americans were concerned in the trouble.

Pledged to Withdraw Friars.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — Major John Biddle Porter, one of the members of the American mission, who has just returned to Washington after negotiating with the Vatican for the sale of the friar lands in the Philippines, said that in the final audience with the pope both his holiness and Cardinal Rampolla gave verbal assurance that the Spanish friars and monks in the Philippines would be withdrawn.

Counterfeiter's Plant Unearthed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 20.—A counterfeiter's plant containing nearly $500 in spurious coin has been unearthed here by United States secret service officers. A mold for the manufacture of spurious silver dollars was also found. E. A. Frazer, alias E. A. Bryant, and Edward Brown were arrested in connection with the discovery, were arraigned, pleaded not guilty and were held in default of $3,000 bond each.

New Disease In Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 20.—There have been a number of deaths among the sailors on board ships in the gulf of Fonseca, on the Pacific, from a disease the nature of which has not been learned. The malady is declared not to be the bubonic plague.

Kansas Farmer's Horrible Crime.

SALINA, Kan., Aug. 20.—Joseph Anderson, a farmer, drowned his four children in a cistern near here and then committed suicide by shooting.

CUMANA CAPTURED.

Venezuelan Rebels Win an Important Victory.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Aug. 20.—News has just reached here that the seaport of Cumana, in the state of Bermudez, Venezuela, was occupied at noon by the Venezuelan revolutionists without the firing of a single shot.

The government forces commanded by General Velutini and the local authorities of Cumana evacuated that town the night before. They withdrew to the island of Margarita, about forty miles north of Cumana, on board the steamer Ossun.

A report is current here that a number of British war vessels under the command of an admiral will visit La Guayra, Venezuela, in a few days. No reasons for the presence of the warships in question at La Guayra can be obtained, and the report is causing considerable speculation.

Cumana, which is about 200 miles east of La Guayra, was occupied for a short time by the Venezuelan revolutionists last May. Upon this occasion also the government forces left the town without offering resistance. Cumana is about fifty miles east of Barcelona, which was captured by the revolutionists the early part of this month. The revolutionists now hold the customs ports of Ciudad Bolivar, Guiria, Cano Colorado, La Vela de Coro, Carupano, Barcelona and Cumana.

REVOLUTION GROWING.

Now Extends to Every Corner of Haiti.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 20.—Advices received here concerning affairs in Haiti say the revolution has now extended to every part of the country and that the situation is daily growing worse. It is said upon reliable authority that Petit Goave, which was destroyed by fire Aug. 8, was fired by the followers of Callistheme Fouchard, an aspirant to the presidency of the republic, who are coming strongly into the field.

The blockade of Cape Haitien by the gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot, which is in the Firminite service, has been completely abandoned. Business has been suspended in nearly all the towns of Haiti.

New Seal Rookery Discovered.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Captain Shoemaker of the revenue cutter service has received a report from Captain Charles H. McLellan, commanding the cutter Manning, recording the discovery of a new fur seal rookery in the Aleutian islands. While cruising among the islands as the executive officer of the Manning Lieutenant Berthoff went ashore with a boat's crew on the island of Bouldyer. There he found a rookery of fur seals similar to those on the Pribiloff islands. Bouldyer is between Bering sea and the Pacific ocean, fully 3,500 miles west of San Francisco, but still within American jurisdiction. The discovery is considered important by the officials here in view of the gradual decline of the fur seal on the Pribiloff islands.

Santiago Iglesias Again Arrested.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 20.—Santiago Iglesias, president of the Federation of Workmen of Porto Rico, has been arrested at Aguadilla for issuing a pamphlet criticising and attacking the insular authorities for their attitude on the recent labor strike. He was released in $500 bail. Santiago Iglesias was sentenced in December, 1901, to more than three years' imprisonment on the charge of conspiring to raise the price of labor in Porto Rico. The case was appealed, and the supreme court of the island reversed the decision of the lower court and acquitted Iglesias of all the charges against him.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

ONLY THE BEST paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

RETURN OF GUAM EXILES.

War Department Orders Repatriation of Filipino Prisoners.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Acting Secretary Sanger of the war department has issued an order for the return of the prisoners at Guam to Manila. The chief quartermaster at San Francisco by this order is directed to order the quartermaster in charge of the transport Sheridan or any other transport which may sail in place of the Sheridan on Sept. 1 to proceed to Manila by way of Guam. The transport quartermaster has an order to the naval governor of Guam directing him to turn over for transportation such prisoners and their servants as have taken the oath of allegiance to the United States.

The transport quartermaster will receive these prisoners, with the oaths they have taken, and proceed to Manila. The order then directs him to notify the commanding general in the Philippines of his arrival with the prisoners and to send the copies of the oaths of allegiance to the general to be turned over to the civil governor. After they have been examined by the civil governor and approved the prisoners will be allowed to land at Manila. The most important of these military prisoners is Mabini. It is not known whether he will take the oath of allegiance or not. These prisoners are to be released under the terms of the president's amnesty proclamation of July 4.

TROUBLE WITH TURKEY.

State Department Officials Admit Existence of Tension.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—It is admitted at the state department that there is a renewal of tension between the United States and Turkey, but the officials do not deem it prudent to disclose the present condition of affairs. They say, however, that the condition is in no way grave, but is of that strained character which has occurred from time to time with Turkey in recent years. It is gathered that the present tension grows out of the long pending claims of Americans who suffered loss during the Armenian outbreak. To some extent the Stone abduction gave added cause for irritation.

The American minister, Mr. Leishman, has been given wide latitude to deal with the situation as circumstances may demand. There is the fullest confidence on the part of the authorities here in the course being pursued by our minister, and as he has been given such a free hand in directing affairs it is not thought desirable to prejudice any steps he may be taking by official comments as to what has been or will be done.

Governor Reprieves Murderers.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 20.—Governor Murphy has granted reprieves to Lafayette Gruff and Peter Hernia, two murderers under sentence of death. The cases will be considered at a special meeting of the board of pardons on Sept. 19. Gruff was to have been hanged in Camden on Sept. 3 for the murder of his wife, and Hernia was to die in Bergen county next Friday for killing Barney Kantor, a butcher of Wallington.

Canada Seizes American Schooner.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 20.—Custom officers have seized the United States fishing schooner Howard Holbrook of Gloucester, Mass., at Canso on a charge of landing a cask of oil at Clarkes Harbor and seven pairs of rubber boots and a box of tobacco at Wrayton's Harbor without declaring to the customs or paying duty.

TROOPS AT TAMAQUA

General Gobin on Scene of Recent Rioting.

ALL IS QUIET AT PRESENT TIME.

Mine Workers' District President Inquiring Into Shooting of Strike Leader Sharp—Trouble Is Feared at Funeral.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 20.—General Gobin, who is in command of the battalion of the Twelfth regiment, national guard of Pennsylvania, sent from Shenandoah to the Panther creek valley, has opened temporary headquarters in the town. The general and his staff will not return to Shenandoah until the latter part of the week.

The funeral of Patrick Sharp, the strike leader who was shot and killed at Nesquehoning by a deputy, will take place tomorrow. All the miners' local unions in the region are making arrangements to march to Lansford and attend the funeral, and General Gobin will probably station troops along the route to be taken by the funeral.

Thomas Duffy, president of district No. 7, and Peter Gallagher, member of the executive board, came to Lansford to make an investigation of the facts connected with the shooting of Sharp. After interviewing several of the men who saw Sharp killed they went to Mauch Chunk to engage counsel and to make arrangements to push the prosecution of the deputy charged with the shooting.

House Dynamited by Strikers.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 20.—Unknown parties exploded a stick of dynamite under the front door of John Workis' house in Pittston township. The door was wrecked, and the inmates of the house were badly frightened. Six men were lodged in the dwelling. Two of them are working in the mines. It is said that the two men who continue at work had been warned that if they did not remain at home harm would come to them.

Protest Against Troops' Presence.

HAZLETON, Pa., Aug. 20.—President Thomas Duffy of district No. 7, United Mine Workers, has sent a formal protest against the presence of the Twelfth regiment at Manile park, near Coaldale. The note to Governor Stone declares that the situation does not require the troops and that an investigation by the governor would confirm the truth of the statement.

Schwab En Route to Europe.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 20.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, has passed through here on his private car Loretto, en route to New York, whence he will sail for Europe. He disclosed his destination to an old Altoona friend who talked with him since he has been at Loretto. He said that he was going to France, where he will take a course of treatment at the mineral springs of that country. His chief ailment is an affection of the nerves. The steel president's stay amid the scenes of his boyhood has evidently done him good. He told his friend, F. D. Saupp of this city, that he never felt better in his life, and Mr. Saupp emphasized this by stating that he had never seen him looking better. Mrs. Schwab is not with her husband. She will remain at Loretto during his absence.

Rose Coghlan Has Serious Accident.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 20.—Rose Coghlan, an actress, was severely injured because she mistook a bottle of carbolic acid for a face lotion. She applied the acid to her face in a dark room and barely escaped destroying her eyesight. Her face was badly burned before she discovered her error. Rose Coghlan of the stage, known in private life as Mrs. John T. Sullivan, recently declared her intention in the district court of Lewis and Clark county to become a citizen of the United States. Mrs. Sullivan came here from the Yellowstone park. It was announced that she would take up a ranch for cattle raising purposes, but gossip had it that as soon as she secured a legal residence there would be a divorce suit.

Shah Attends a Music Hall.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The shah of Persia was entertained last night at the Empire Music hall. He went to the hall in a carriage, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and escorted by a detachment of household cavalry. The shah was received with loud cheers when he entered the building, and he apparently enjoyed the ballet, the animated pictures and the other attractions offered. In the morning the shah gave a reception to the members of the cabinet and the foreign diplomats in London, and in the afternoon he took a long drive.

War Department Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The annual report of the auditor for the war department shows that the amounts allowed the several states on account of the war with Spain aggregate $4,057,585. Other accounts settled during the year are given as follows: Quartermasters, $54,507,699; engineers, $20,045,518; subsistence, $10,714,993; signal service, $560,637; paymasters, $59,792,474.

Fatally Burned by Molten Iron.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Casper Tomaszewski attempted to jack up a three ton mold in the locomotive works iron foundry, when it upset, and the molten metal poured on his feet and legs, burning them to a crisp. He will die.

Weather Probabilities.

August 21—A. F. Irvine, of New Haven, an eloquent and fascinating speaker, at Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock.

"THE BOY JUDGE."

Discounting William N. Runyon, the local Republican candidate for the State senatorial nomination, by making little of his youth, will be found to be a futile effort on the part of Elizabeth politicians. Not one word has been uttered in disparagement of his qualifications for the honor sought for him except that he is youthful. No one denies the fact. Judge Runyon is youthful, but as Councilman Buckle stated in a letter published by The Daily Press yesterday his re-election to the city judgeship without opposition is sufficient testimony concerning the maturity of this mind.

Neither Mr. Runyon nor any of his friends, and he appears to have none but friends here, should take offense at his being stigmatized "The boy judge of Plainfield." The people here feel all the more proud of him because he has demonstrated so much sterling worth at such an early stage of life. It has not been influence that has brought him to the fore. He is esteemed for his works, and by this alone is he judged in Plainfield. It might be said that he was very youthful to fill the office of common councilman some years ago, but we have no knowledge of his failure to size up to the requirements. Again when he discharged the duties of the city's judicial officer for the first term, we have no recollection of his not conducting himself officially as a friend of good government. In truth he served the municipality so well that he was accorded an unanimous renomination, although the position is much sought by others. The minority party recognizing his strength wisely concluded not to make any opposition and as a result nearly the entire vote of the city was given him. Plainfield Republicans desire that the honor of selecting the next State senator from Union county be accorded to them and they declare that it is merely justice due. William N. Runyon has beens elected as their standard bearer and his candidacy is one which instills enthusiasm wherever the popular judge is known.

It has not been so warm this summer as to produce violent disorders of the mind, yet a minister over in Hackensack, it is said, has had himself photographed in the jail there. He wants to use the pictures to illustrate a temperance lecture. Better use them to demonstrate to what device some sensational ministers will resort for notoriety.

An exchange says: The Real Estate Exchange of Denver, having collected a fund for advertising the advantages of the city to capitalists and others, has decided that the best way to achieve its purpose is to use the newspapers of the Eastern cities—no circulars, posters, booklets or anything of the kind, but simply newspaper space.

People in England had an opportunity the other day to see real generals, the three Boer commanding officers, and they honored the former rebellious soldiers by cordially receiving them.

Some Brookdale farmers have been duped by a "doctor" who claimed to effect cures with the aid of a mirror. Hiccoughs is about the only thing we ever heard of being cured by fright.

A man working in a store in New Brunswick has suddenly discovered that he is heir to a million dollars, but his mind has not become unbalanced by the shock.

Peter Power, the missing link in a suit against the Northern Pacific, has been found at last, although it took as much work to locate him as if he were Peary.

It is said that exactly 18,635 titled noblemen are sojourning, as it were, in the various prisons on the Continent. If this is the case, some have escaped.

Steps are to be taken to ascertain the cause for the collapse of the Tripler Liquid Air Company. They say that the hot air got into the stock.

NOTED AT THE NETHERWOOD

THE HOTEL WILL KEEP OPEN UNTIL LATE IN THE SEASON.

Some of the Attractions Down on the Programme—A Large Arrival of Guests.

There was another large influx of guests to the Hotel Netherwood last week. Notwithstanding the wail that comes from summer resorts in various parts of the country, complaining of the cool uncertain weather, and consequent lack of business, no such complaint is heard in the vicinity of the Netherwood. The season on the hill has been decidedly successful and the house will keep open late into the fall.

Among those who registered at the hotel last week are the following: Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lutkins, son and maid, Brooklyn; Miss Frances E. King, Franklin, Mass.; Mrs. J. W. Weiss, Long Branch; D. L. Korn, New York; R. K. Taylor, Westfield; Miss Florence Ellis, New York; Mrs. Charles A. Comp, Pittsburg; F. C. Freund, New York; E. S. Barlow, T. L. Bailey, N. V. B. COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

At Meissner's Hand Laundry on Watchung avenue, they use you "white." For finish without destruction try Meissner's.

For a cool soda of delightful flavor, or any of the popular drinks of the season go to E. S. F. Randolph, the North avenue druggist. When you step off the trolley it is the correct place to quench the thirst.

Fred W. Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, has built up a trade and established a reputation for himself in the West End. And all on account of the excellent quality of the goods and the reasonable prices.

It is said that a person is known by the company he or she keeps and it has often been said that a person who trades at Peck's can always be distinguished from others. There is a distinctive feature about Peck's goods found nowhere else.

The goods sold by Woodhull & Martin will compare with any to be found in New York and the people of Plainfield and vicinity have learned that they can buy more economicallly at home, besides saving themselves the trouble and worry of going to New York. This firm studies to please the public and give its patrons the best values.

Continued years of honest dealing with patrons has enabled R. H. Keenan, the East Fifth street grocer, to build up a substantial business. He has always made it a practice to buy close, sell for cash and thus give the customer the benefit. It is the way he will continue and the list of bargains he offers each week shows that it pays.

Neuman Brothers store on Watchung avenue continues to be headquarters for fruit and vegetables. At present they are featuring peaches of the delicious Mountain Roe and other varieties, Bartlett pear, green gages and plums, just the thing for canning, and a fine line of fresh vegetables. As to quality, the fruit and vegetables at Neuman Brothers is always of the best.

DUNELLEN.

While the New Jersey Central special gang was ballasting the tracks opposite the depot, yesterday afternoon, the Washington avenue crossing was closed to traffic. Flags warning carriages to this effect were placed at easy distances but dozens of drivers ignored the signal and then fumed and fretted because they were sent around to Prospect avenue. One woman insisted on going over and it was with difficulty that she was induced to turn about.

At a joint meeting of the proper committees from the Somerset and Middlesex county freeholders, held yesterday, it was decided to build an iron bridge on modern designs at Sebrings Mills. Bids for the work were ordered advertised for at once.

The Checker Club held a busy session, last evening, due to the visit of Thomas M. Reid, a New England expert. He defeated several members easily but came near meeting his match with W. H. Cole, whom he vanquished 4 out of 7.

The band held one of its weekly serenades last evening. After the collection was counted it was found the fund for uniforms had received a generous addition.

Manager Giddes of the locals has arranged a game with the Bound Brook A. C. Saurday. It will take place on the home grounds.

Miss Anna Ace, of East Stroudsburg, Pa., is a guest at the home of George Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Garretson enjoyed a day's outing at Glen Island, yesterday.

Mrs. Bernard Siriski has gone to Passaic for a stay with relatives.

NEW MARKET.

At a meeting of the band members held Monday evening, it was decided to hold the long heralded festival next Thursday evening. It will take place on the lawn of Dr. W. J. Nelson where ice cream and cake will be sold while popular airs are discoursed by the band. If the weather proves stormy it will be held in Friendship hall the following evening.

George Jenner's trotting horse, "New Market Maid," which injured itself by running away on the Avon Park track, Saturday, contines to improve. It will not be able to return to the track, however, for this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Taylor, the Misses Florence Nelson and Lillian Waglow and David Lawson and Joseph Waglow formed a party which enjoyed ocean breezes and varied attractions of Coney Island, yesterday.

Charles Rogers closed the doors of his ice cream parlor today as he has rented the house to a New York party who will retain it until the end of the season. He will continue to cater to the boat trade as heretofore.

Miss Elizabeth Souders and Miss Sadie VanHook, of Spring City, Pa., have returned home after a three weeks' stay with friends.

During the absence of Abram Nelson to California, his grocery route will be in charge of his nephew, Elmer Lefler, of Union.

John Dent is entertaining his daughter, Mrs. John Broadhead, of Easton, Pa.

W. J. Davis was absent in the Metropolis on business, yesterday.

The management of the baseball team started a good practice on Saturday afternoon. It was a case of pay 10 cents or leave the grounds. Baseball costs money and the team cannot be supported on "seeing you latter." Women are always admitted free and are welcomed by the management.

Several pistol shots fired in quick succession near the Italian Colony on Hunter avenue, Sunday evening, gave one the impression that something was doing in this part of town. Officer Guenier, who was on duty, investigated but was unable to locate the disturbers of the peace.

SAMUEL S. DAYTON DEAD

AGED RESIDENT OF PISCATAWAY SUCCUMBS TO BRAIN CONGESTION.

Lived Four Score Years—Has Relatives in This City—The Funeral Arrangements.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 20 — Samuel S. Dayton, a life-long resident of Piscataway township, died last evening at 9:40 o'clock at his home after a long illness with congestion of the brain. He was in the eighty-first year of his age. Mr. Dayton was the son of Isaac and Mercer Dayton, and was a farmer. He was a brother of the late Simeon Dayton, and a brother-in-law to E. B. Boice, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Peter Benwood, of Piscataway. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence and Rev. Bergen Stelle, of Stelton, will officiate. The interment will be at Stelton.

RELATIVE OF BLAINE.

Miss Harriet Blaine Coles Dies in Cranbury, This State.

Miss Harriet Blaine Coles, who was the oldest person living in Cranbury, was buried yesterday afternoon. She was ninety-eight years of age. She was a cousin of the late James G. Blaine, and was very proud of her relationship to the statesman.

She was born in Augusta, Me, and for a long time conducted a dressmaking establishment at Cranbury. She was of an independent disposition and preferred to live alone, and until recent years would not even have a companion in the house.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, Celebrate.

In celebration of the sixth anniversary of its organization, Martha Washington Council, Daughters of America, tendered a reception to its friends in Knights fo Pythias Hall, last evening. It was enjoyed by a very large gathering.

During the evening a programme was rendered which in detail was as follows: Recitations by the Misses Florence King, Grace Stephens, Maude A. Martin, Madeline and Alice Edgar and Geo. and Harry S. Allen; vocal selections, Madame Miers, and Miss Edgar; piano selections, Madame Miers and the Misses Edgar. An address for the good of the order was made by District Deputy Handscheue, of Elizabeth. The serving of refreshments terminated the evening's enjoyment. In addition to those present from this city, delegation from Elizabeth was in evidence.

WANTS TO REFORM.

Opportunity Given to John Giles to Mend His Ways.

John Giles, of Lake street, was a prisoner in the city court this morning, charged by his wife with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. She also charged him with cruelty and asked the court that they be separated. Giles begged hard for another chance to make a man of himself and as City Judge Runyon could not grant a separation he placed a sentence of $100 and fifty-nine days over his head to be imposed on his next appearance in court.

MUST ACCOUNT FOR RENT

HEIR MUST REIMBUSE ESTATE FOR MONEY COLLECTED BY HIM.

Decision of Vice Chancellor Allows an Heir to Occupy Premises Without Paying Rent.

Vice Chancellor Stevens has just handed down a decision in the case of Thomas Malay, of Orange, against his sister, Mrs. Peter Linzer, an action for rent claimed by the plaintiff on account of Mrs. Linzer's occupancy of a house on South Second street, in this city to which both of the parties are heirs. The court decides that Mrs Linzer is not liable for rent, but that Thomas Malay, her brother, shall account for all moneys previously collected from the letting of the house.

Some years ago Mrs. Malay, the mother, died leaving a house and lot on South Second street. After her death her son, Thomas Malay, rented the house and received the money. In August 1900 the property being vacant Mrs. Linzer, his sister, and an heir, took possession, acting on legal advice. Malay tried to collect rent, but Mrs. Linzer refused to pay. He began partition proceedings to have the property divided and have Mrs. Linzer account for rent at the rate of $10 a month for the period of her occupancy. Vice Chancelor Emery referred the case to Judge Atwater, as special master. He reported that Mrs. Linzer is not liable, but that Thomas Malay should account for the money he has collected. Vice Chancellor Stevens confirms this decision. W. S. Angleman appeared for Mrs. Linzer and Judge Harris, of Newark, for Malay.

Another Damage Suit.

Counsellor William G. DeMeza has been retained by Henry Taylor and Charles Graves in an action for damages against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company. A few weeks ago a wagon in which Graves and Taylor were driving was struck by a trolley car on Richmond street. The two men were thrown to the ground, causing Taylor's leg to break and causing injuries to Graves' foot.

BENEFIT BASEBALL.

Games Arranged Between Firemen and Policemen in Aid of Nurses' Home.

Captains Overbaugh and Townley, of the Policemen and Firemen's ball teams, have agreed upon two more games to be played this season. The first will take place Monday afternoon and will be followed by another the first part of September. This will make a series of three of which the police have already taken one. Captain Townley has secured some new material for his team and asserts that the bluecoats will not have the easy time of it they had in the first contest. The proceeds of the next two games will be donated to the fund for the new nurses' home in connection with Muhlenberg Hospital.

Notice of Special Election to be held in the Borough of North Plainfield, September 16, 1902.

Whereas the Council of the Borough of North Plainfield did by resolution adopted at a regular meeting thereof, held June 6, 1902, fix and appoint Tuesday, the sixteenth day of September, 1902, as the time for holding a special election in said borough to determine whether or not a majority of the qualified voters of said borough desire to accept the provisions of the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey entitled: "An act to annex the territory within the boundaries of the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield, in the county of Somerset, to the County of Union," approved April 16th., 1902:

Now therefore public notice is hereby given that such special election for the object and purpose aforesaid will be held in the said borough on the said Tuesday the sixteenth day of September, 1902: and that the polls for the First Election District of said borough on said day will be located at No. 83 Somerset street, and the polls for the Second Election District of said borough on said day will be located at No. 88 Somerset Street, in said borough, and will be kept open for the same time as provided by law for general elections.

And notice is further given that the boards of registry and elections for the said several election districts will meet at the said respective polling places hereinbefore specified, and which said several and respective places are hereby by me designated for such purpose, on Tuesday, the ninth day of September, 1902, to revise and correct the register of voters of said respective districts made for the last general election held therein; said meetings of the boards of registry and elections will begin at one o'clock in the afternoon, and continue until nine o'clock in the evening of said ninth day of September, 1902, for the purpose of revising and correcting the register and adding thereto in the manner provided by law, the names of persons entitled to vote in the respective election districts of said borough at said special election.

THE KING'S MALADY.

Location and Functions of the Vermiform Appendix.

It Resembles a Gland, Like the Liver and Pancreas, and May Perhaps Perform Important Digestive Work.

The malady from which King Edward has been suffering for several weeks past is an inflammation of the vermiform appendix. This is a slender, wormlike attachment to the intestine, from three to six inches long. It is situated rather low down in the abdomen, on the right side. In the accompanying drawing the stomach is indicated at E, the long, much folded small intestine (or ileum) at A, and the large intestine (or colon) at B. It will be noticed that the junction between the last two is not effected end to end, but that the former is inserted into the side of the latter in such a way as to leave a blind sac at the lower extremity of the colon. This sac is called the caecum, and is indicated by C. The appendix, D, hangs from it like a rat's tail, though not quite so slender or straight. In an attack of appendicitis the soreness often affects the caecum as well as the appendix, though the abscesses which form are generally attached to the appendix.

Anatomists and physiognomists have speculated a great deal as to the function of the caecum and appendix. In some animals the former is quite a large pouch, and is distinctly connected with the work of digestion. It is a useful organ, which is at times stuffed full of food, like an extra stomach. Birds have two caecums. Since the appendix is missing in many people, it has been suspected that the human race has reached a point in its evolution where the appendix is no longer needed, and that it has begun to deteriorate and disappear.

Dr. Clarence Kilbourn, of New Haven, in a paper contributed to the Philadelphia Medical Journal a few weeks ago, said that the appendix resembled a gland, like the liver and pancreas, which secrete fluids that perform some duty in digestion. The liver and pancreas discharge into the small intestine near its junction with the stomach. The tonsils are situated just at the junction of the throat and oesophagus. The position of the caecum is at another important station along the line of march. He then went on to say:

THE VERMIFORM APPENDIX.
(Cut Shows Exact Location of This Troublesome Gland.)

"The contents of the intestines become acid in reaction after passing the caecum, even if distinctly alkaline in the ileum. This is despite the fact that the mucous membrane of the large intestine, and hence the intestinal juice of that region, is alkaline. This is generally accounted for by the fact that fermentation processes are especially active in the colon. It is possible that the appendix has something to do with it. In the large intestine an enormous amount of microbic fermentation is constantly going on, as is shown by the hydrogen and marsh gas generated.

Of late a great deal is being written about intestinal sepsis (poisoning) and antisepsis (resisting poison). In special diseases, such as typhoid fever and dysentery, the idea is not recent, for therapeutists have long aimed at intestinal antisepsis in combating them. But in the vague cases associated with neuralgias, myalgias, headache, lassitude, slight fever, and even lethargy, a great deal of stress is being laid upon the absorption of toxins (poisons) from the alimentary canal, especially the large intestine. There must be some protection against this condition normally, and I think we find it in the appendix. The germicidal properties of the tonsils, and their protection of the pharynx, are well realized; and in the appendix we must recognize an organ having a similar structure and capable of doing a similar work in its own territory.

TRUTH ABOUT VERNE.

Famous French Author Has Never Been Blind and Is in Excellent Financial Condition.

There have been so many contradictory reports recently about the condition of Jules Verne, the most famous writer of purely imaginative fiction that the world has ever known, that the correspondent of the New York World visited his home the other day at Amiens for the purpose of ascertaining the exact truth.

It has been said that Jules Verne had become blind, that his eyesight had been restored, that he was in destitute circumstances, and that he was living in comfortable retirement upon the proceeds of his successful novels.

The truth is that he has never been blind, and that he is in excellent condition financially, a man of wealth, in fact, as fortunes are estimated in Amiens. His eyes, however, have long been a source of trouble and anxiety to him.

He lives in a plain house on the Boulevard Longueville with his devoted wife, who speaks of him with great admiration and recites his virtues with eloquence. It was she who received the representative of the World.

"Yes, he has some trouble with his eyes," she admitted, "but he has not been hampered with his work, the study where he works being so arranged as to let in only a ray or light. Of course, the operation for cataract will be postponed as long as possible, on account of the danger which might result from it at his age."

In order to show how exaggerated the newspaper reports were, Mme. Verne went out on the porch and called: "Jules," and in came the novelist, in his morning gown.

Tall, with his white curly beard, he looked the picture of strength. The half-closed condition of his eyes was the only indication of his infirmity.

He is now 74 years of age. The idea that his American friends were concerned about him was gratifying to him, and he began at once to give many details about his work. He expects not to lay down his pen until he has reached his hundredth book.

MARTYR TO SCIENCE.

Tries to Get Tuberculosis to Prove His Pet Theory.

French Doctor Believes That Consumption Can Be Transferred from Cows to Human Beings and Inoculates Himself.

Paul Garbault, a young and promising French physician, has placed his life in the balance in order to prove or disprove a theory. He does not believe with Robert Koch, the eminent German scientist doctor, that the tuberculosis of men and animals is so widely different that neither can be inoculated with tubercular germs taken from the other, and in order that the world may know which is right Garbault has taken a step which he believes may end his life.

Unlike most persons who offer themselves up for the benefit of science, Garbault has gone into the matter from a positive standpoint. Heretofore, when scientists have been desirous of proving that such a condition is, or is not true, they have taken up the problem on its negative side, and have shown how various contagious and infectious diseases cannot be acquired. Thus the subjects upon whom the experiments are performed are reasonably sure of passing through the ordeal and coming out safely enough. But Garbault occupies another position. He believes it is possible for man to contract consumption by inoculation from bovines.

Soon after Dr. Koch had conclusively proved one-half of his claim by demonstrating that cows inoculated with germs of human tuberculosis would not become infected with the disease, Garbault, who was intensely interested in the experiment, offered himself as a subject to test the validity of the other part of the claim—that the same results would be obtained by inoculating a human being with bovine tuberculosis. Dr. Koch was too conscientious to burden his soul with any such experiments, for, while he was convinced of the truth of his conclusion, he was not willing to go to extremes in proving it.

Garbault, however was not so easily satisfied. He argued that the world should know wherein Dr. Koch's arguments were correct and wherein they were lacking in fact. He was young, in perfect health, had received the degree of doctor of natural sciences, and had held the position of chief of the researches in zoology and comparative anatomy at the University of Bordeaux. Therefore when he offered himself to Dr. Koch for purposes of demonstration there was a perceptible stir among medical men. Dr. Koch consistently refused to consider the offer and Garbault continued his investigation to show that the theory of the German scientist with reference to tuberculosis inoculation was incorrect. When he offered himself to science he was firmly convinced that he would catch the disease and in all probability could not be cured. He spent a year or more in further research of cases of tuberculosis with the avowed purpose of refuting the Koch thesis.

Even then he was not satisfied. He still believed that a practical test should be made, yet he was not willing to ask for or accept volunteers, so in order that the world might be made the wiser he determined that he himself should carry out the experiment which Dr. Koch had refused to attempt. With this end in view he gathered about him several eminent French physicians, and with them went to the great butchershops of La Villette in Paris to carry out the demonstration.

Baring his right arm, the courageous physician with an unflinching hand cut a wound in the forearm. Then for more than two hours he applied to the wound a fragment of a bronchial ganglion affected by tuberculosis and perfectly fresh, coming from a cow that had been seized by the sanitary inspectors of the stockyards because it was infected with the disease. At the same time a fragment of the ganglion was taken to be applied to another animal. Thus Garbault inoculated his blood with the deadly germs of tuberculosis and exposed himself to a terrible death should his claim that the theory of Dr. Koch is untrue prove to be correct. If however, the outcome is contrary to his expectations, he has already fully decided to begin anew by using a form of injection still more dangerous being that of application between the veins.

Garbault's experiment has attracted widespread attention, and medical men throughout the world are eagerly awaiting the outcome.

The GRACIOUS WOMAN

"SHE doeth little kindnesses
Which most leave undone or despise,
For naught that sets one heart at ease
And giveth happiness or peace
Is low esteemed in her eyes," quoted the woman softly.

The girl at her side followed her gaze to where it rested on a plain, middle aged woman who was advancing into the room, bowing slightly and smiling to the other occupants as she did so. "And is that the secret of her popularity?" she said. "I have often wondered, for she is not wealthy, beautiful or clever."

"She is more than that," returned the other; "she has the divine gift of graciousness."

Then, as the girl was silent, she went on: "I wonder if you, or, for that matter, half of the women nowadays, recognize the value of graciousness. It would appear not, for the quality is plainly dying out, but it often means the diffenence between a happy and an unhappy life. You know there is a great deal of truth in the axiom that we receive in return the same coin which we pay out. If in our heart of hearts we distrust, we also shall be distrusted. If our hearts are full of kindness and we radiate smiles and good will, we call out to ourselves just those very characteristics in those with whom we come in contact. And that is the way with the gracious woman. A little smile, a bow, a pleasant 'Good morning!' a heartfelt 'Can I do something for you?' when another seems in trouble—these cost little, but mean so very, very much.

"A woman may be a paragon of stern, unflinching virtue, and she will find no one to love her. More than that, she will do actual harm by making virtue seem unattractive and hard when it is only that she herself lacks graciousness. On the other hand, I am sorry to say, she may be a shining example of all that she should not be and yet attract young and old to her because she possesses graciousness."

"I think I understand," said the girl, "and graciousness doesn't always mean doing kindnesses either. You know how little groups of women will form on hotel piazzas, and sometimes, when they are very interesting, one doesn't always like to have a stranger come in and join them. Well, yesterday about five of us were talking cozily when Mrs. Hunterton came striding down the piazza in that uncompromising way of hers and proceeded to settle herself down in our midst. Well, of course she had a right to, for we all knew her, and yet for some reason we mentally resented it almost as if she were an interloper. Then five minutes afterward that gentle little Mrs. Smith came along and, stopping, said in her timid, graceful way: 'Your group looks so interesting! May I join it and have a good time too?' That was all, and yet we made room for her in a body."

The woman nodded her approval. "It is born in some," she went on; "in others it is acquired. You will notice it in very little children—small beings, who radiate smiles and sunshine and whom every one loves—while there are others—mere tots, too—who stand aside pensive and distrustful and as a consequence are unloved. And yet their whole unhappy futures might be changed if their mothers realized that all they lacked was graciousness. It is the one quality that is the substitute for eternal youth, that makes the gray haired woman who possesses it the center of a little circle of which she is the queen, while her younger and more attractive rivals wonder why they are left to themselves."

And the girl grew very thoughtful.

Stairs of Sand

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Ellison began to think that he had been going ahead too rapidly. Job did not seem to be afraid of anything—he spoke confidently.

"If you think that I was running away through fear of you, you are very much mistaken," he said, after a moment's pause. "As for the information I have received, I believe it is true."

He was surprised when Hendricks leaned back in his chair and burst out laughing. His laugh was so hearty that for a moment the other seemed disconcerted, and strode away to the window to try and collect his thoughts by staring out on the street.

"I should very much like to know what your secret bureau (and I have reason to know that you have one) thinks about me. Any information on the subject cheerfully received, as they say when they advertise for missing heirs." And Hendricks laughed again.

His manner, his mocking tone, seemed to anger Ellison more than anything else, for he started away from the window, and, shaking a warning finger at his visitor, said:

"You are an escaped convict, and as such amenable to the law. What is there to prevent me from opening the window and calling an officer and giving you in charge."

Job shrugged his shoulders, and laughed softly.

"I don't see why you should consult me if you want to do a foolish action. By all means, if it pleases, call out of the window, or from the housetop, for any one you please."

Ellison for a moment eyed him in amazement. Could the story he had heard about this man be true, or had he been deceived. Certainly Job did not behave like a man who was afraid of being arrested, or of anything else. The banker found himself confronted by an enigma that, with all his knowledge of men and things, he was at a loss how to solve.

"You were saying something about poking your head out of the window and calling for a policeman," said Job, who seemed to enjoy the other's discomfiture. "Why didn't you think of it a few moments earlier, when that young jail bird was closeted with you?"

Ellison did not reply at once for fear he might make a misstep, but bit his lips to hide his chagrin and turned on his heel, walked away from the smiling face of the man he had thought he had no further reason to fear.

"The young man is still confined in jail and without bail. I will give you the credit, Ellison, of having done what you could to set him free," said Job, pursuing another subject.

"I ought to be very much obliged," and the banker bowed with an air of grim irony.

"Certainly you deserve the compliment, and it is not in me to withhold it from you."

"I thank you again."

"And your daughter, what of her?" asked Job, after a moment's silence.

"What business have you——" began Ellison, but the other checked him by a simple gesture.

"You are not talking to the gallery, my dear sir." Then, in a more decided tone: "James Ellison, why will you persist in running your head against a rock? It won't hurt the rock, but it might do damage to your cranial development. I know the tremendous secret that was effervescing in you. The alleged secret about me that you probably learned from the hangdog-looking fellow you seem to take into your confidence. He said that I was an ex-convict—or, rather, an escaped convict, and a great deal more probably to lend truth to his story."

Several times Ellison opened his lips to speak, but not a word came from them.

"That was what you wanted to tell me, was it not, and yet somehow the words stuck? Well, that is all there is to it. You should thank me for having relieved your mind."

Ellison was nonplussed at the coolness of the statement. Surely the whole story must have been a lie, or this man would not have carried it off with such a brave air.

"I ask you how your daughter is?" said Job.

"She is well, thank you," replied the other, feebly, and he dropped into a chair from sheer fatigue, confident that he had played his best card and lost.

"I am glad to hear it, for she must have suffered greatly through this terrible affair. Once the young man is free, and he will be free, won't he, Ellison?"

"Oh, I suppose so," carelessly.

"You don't seem to take much interest in the case, my esteemed and moral friend," and for a moment the black eye of the little man flashed. "Perhaps it might be necessary for me to refresh your memory and stir up a bit of enthusiasm. You remember that when I met you first I stated that I was in possession of a paper showing that you had adopted the daughter of Martin Frale in order to keep the fortune in the family, in case of the death of your wife."

"Yes—yes," and Ellison roused himself and began to take a keen interest in the conversation.

"I have that paper, which to-day might deprive you of every cent you now call your own. So I am, not without reason, demanding that what I ask you to do shall be done."

Ellison winced at what seemed to him such an insolent speech, but presently he rallied, and said, with a laugh:

"All that you tell me is very interesting—like a page from one of Montepin's novels. I should very much like to see this document of which you speak," and he leaned over the table, his face all eagerness, while Job, at that moment, seemed suddenly overcome with a cough, that caused him to turn his head. After he had settled the paroxysm he turned around, facing the banker, and said, pleasantly: "And so you shall—so you shall. Of course, I have no reason to make a demand on you unless I have the papers to back my statement up."

Ellison's eyes brightened, for, looking past his visitor's head, he saw a door open a few inches at the further end of the room, and part of a face appear. He made some signs, and, while Job was fumbling in the pockets of his vest, a man entered noiselessly and stepped behind the curtains of a closet, against which the table was placed where the two were seated.

Ellison, keeping his eyes steadily fixed on the little man, saw that he was still trying to get at the paper, which he had evidently concealed with extraordinary precautions.

He finally extracted what he was looking for, and, opening the document, which seemed to be old and time-stained, stood up, and, leaning over the table, opened it, holding it in one hand, while with the other, extended, he seemed to be guarding his possession.

"Here is the document in the case," he said; "you may look, but you mustn't touch," waving Ellison back. "See and read; there is no reason why you should take it in your hands."

Ellison read the paper over, which, from the signatures and the wording, left no doubt of its genuineness.

He sat back in his chair, and sighed, saying, after a pause:

"Yes, there is no doubt that you hold me in the hollow of your hand with the document that I signed with Martin Frale nearly 17 years ago. Come closer and listen. I want you to hear something that perhaps should be whispered, for a hotel is all ears, as one might say."

Job leaned forward to hear what this revelation was, leaving the precious document on the table. He had hardly moved when a hand reached out from behind the portiere over the closet, took the paper quickly, substituting another in its place, and then a man emerged from his hiding, and slipped out of the room without being heard by the others, deep in whispered conversation. It was only after he had gone that Ellison suddenly rose, and, changing the calm tone in which he had been speaking, brought his fist down on the table with a bang.

"It's no use, Mr. What's-your-name, your attempting to bully me. I don't believe in the existence of the copy of the agreement."

"But you saw it before your eyes?"

"I never saw anything of the kind."

"I laid it out before you. Here it is," and, reaching over, he picked up the paper that had been placed there and opened it, while Ellison seemed to enjoy his surprise.

"That terrifying document! Where is it?" he exclaimed, displaying a wild hilarity as Job opened the paper he had picked up and showed that it was blank.

"Now, then," harshly, "what do you mean to do, you scoundrel? You threaten me with your pieces of blank paper."

Job had retreated to the door. He showed evidences of fear at the other's vehemence.

"It was not a blank piece of paper that I showed you, Mr. Ellison; it was merely a copy of the original, which your confederate gathered in, and which he is privileged to keep!" and then, with a laugh, he opened the door quickly and went out.

CHAPTER XIII.

TRICKED.

James Ellison was so surprised at the sudden turn of events, and the thought of how neatly he had been tricked, that he could only stare at the door through which Hendricks had taken his triumphant departure.

He had been congratulating himself on his cleverness in securing possession of the agreement, only to find out that it was but a copy.

He was roused from his moody thoughts by the clicking of a door latch, and his brother entered the room, waving a paper gayly in the one hand, while he hummed a song.

"Well, James, my boy, you see that I am good for something after all! How neatly we tricked the old fellow," dancing up and down the room.

NEW YORK'S REFUSE.

Mayor Low Would Utilize It for Generation of Light.

Idea Advanced by Him Has Been in Successful Operation in English Cities for a Number of Years.

Concerning the opposition to establishing a covered dump at the foot of Jackson street, in New York, Mayor Low wrote a day or two ago to Alderman James J. Devlin stating his regrets that the city could not have the site and in conclusion said:

"I take advantage of this opportunity to say that the method of disposing of the city's waste by carrying it away by coats is a relic of barbarism. This waste ought, for the most part, be burned, and the city should never be satisfied until the heat so generated is made a source of income to the city. It is no easy problem to bring about this result in the city of New York. It probably will take years fully to accomplish it, but I am confident that in time it can be accomplished if public sentiment will support every effort made in that direction."

Mayor Low's suggestion for utilizing the city's waste products is probably based on his knowledge of what is being done in England along this line. It is not generally known here, but there are over a dozen towns in England where refuse is burned and the heat so obtained used for electric lighting purposes.

At least one of the towns uses garbage exclusively to produce its electric light. The others use ordinary fuel intermixed with refuse. The combination not only provides cheap methods of illumination, but it rids the towns of what would be a not very easily solved problem.

Some of the towns are of good size. St. Helens, for instance, with a population of 84,000, operates a refuse destructor with a capacity equivalent to 22,000 16-candle-power lamps. Accrington, which is a town of 43,000 inhabitants, is lighted by

HON. SETH LOW.
(Mayor of New York Who Wants to Utilize City's Waste.)

19,800 lamps. Warrington, population, 64,000, uses its refuse in supplying light to 20,000 lamps. Ashton-Under-Lyne, with 44,000 population, utilizes its garbage in lighting 30,000 lamps.

Some of the other towns are not so large, but the same method of economy is carried out. Among these are Nelson, 20,000 lamps; Darwen, 9,500 lamps; Llanduano, 13,000 lamps; Mexbrough, 3,500 lamps; Rhyl, 15,000 lamps; Shipley, 11,400 lamps; Wrexham, 12,500 lamps; Beckenham, 10,000 lamps, and South London, 86,000 lamps. These figures are stated on the basis of eight candle-power to a lamp, which is the method used by the English engineers in making a report on this subject. In some places the candle-power of individual lamps is more than eight, as in America, where it is usually 16 candle-power, but the equivalent of power is the same.

The method of refuse consumption is the same in all cases. The garbage is dried in a heater attached to the very plant in which it is afterward consumed. When it has been sufficiently dried it is thrown into the furnace and consumed like any other fuel. Generally the contract for electric lighting and for garbage consumption is taken by a private firm, or an electric lighting company, in return for its franchise, agrees to dispose of the town garbage and combines the two industries at a profit.

Just how such an arrangement could be made in New York remains to be seen. The problem here, says the New York Times, is, of course, much bigger than in England, but it could be handled on a large as well as a small scale.

Newspapers His Winding Sheet.

W. T. Hutcherson, editor of the Dickson county, N. C., Press, died at Charlotte, N. C., aged 72 years. He had worked in a newspaper office since the age of 12. He had always said that he wished to be buried in a winding sheet made of newspapers, and so he was laid away. His head was placed upon a copy of the last issue of the Dickson County Press, and copies of the exchanges he admired were carefully wrapped around his body in the coffin.

Hatching a Conspiracy.

A milkman and the driver of a sprinkling cart were observed in earnest conversation in Henderson, Ky. The spectators put this and that together, and inferred that the milkman was making arrangements for watering his stock.

MIGHTY MEAN DEAL.

Engineered by the Champion Mean Woman of Washington.

Her Dearest Enemy Got the Dress She Wanted Herself and Then She Bought Another to Get Even with Her.

The address of the champion mean woman of Washington doesn't make any difference, but for the sake of convenience she is designated in this story as Mrs. Gethunk, by the Washington Star.

Mrs. Gethunk's dearest feminine enemy is another young matron who lives next door in the same row of houses. Mrs. Howsad will about fit her for the purposes of this narrative.

A few weeks ago a Washington department store exhibited for sale in one of its windows a couple of "Paris model" pale blue pique dresses. They were mighty tidy looking affairs, both of the dresses. One of them was a little more elaborate as to the bottom of the skirt than the other, but they were both distinctly handsome and stylish, and, being samples, they were marked at a sacrifice figure.

Oddly enough, Mrs. Gethunk and Mrs. Howsad, next door neighbors and perfect loves of enemies, contrived to make a dead heat of it in getting into the department store after those gowns. They both wanted the one with the more elaborate trimming around the bottom of the skirt.

The wrangle waged pretty fiercely, but as Mrs. Howsad had crossed the wire, as it were, just a fraction of a second ahead of Mrs. Gethunk, she got the slightly more desirable gown.

Mrs. Gethunk must have framed her little scheme up then and there, for she took the other pique dress.

But she didn't wear it. She watched for Mrs. Howsad to emerge with hers, and she was bound to confess to herself when Mrs. Howsad did appear with her "Paris model" pique that she looked mighty stunning in it.

On the following Saturday morning Mrs. Gethunk, from her kitchen window, heard Mrs. Howsad, who was in her back yard, attending to her flower beds, tell the young woman in the next yard that she intended going to the White lot that evening to listen to the Marine band concert.

When Mrs. Gethunk heard this her eyes sparkled.

"It will cost me $15, the price of the dress," one can imagine her murmuring to herself, "but it will be worth the money."

"Lily," she said aloud to her likely looking yellow maid servant, "I've bought a nice new pique dress for you, and I want you to wear it to the White lot concert this evening."

Lily executed the appropriate grin of delight, which changed to ecstacy when Mrs. Gethunk brought the unworn dress downstairs and handed it over to the servant. Lily slipped up to her room and tried the dress on, and it fitted her to a T.

"Your beau has half a day off on Saturday, hasn't he?" inquired Mrs. Gethunk of the colored girl, and the reply was in the affirmative. Lily's beau, as Mrs. Gethunk knew, was a ragtimey-looking young yellow individual who drove a doctor's buggy, and who arrayed himself like a cake walker during his leisure hours.

"Well, get him to take you to the White lot concert, then," suggested Mrs. Gethunk, and Lily hustled out to nail the young colored person to the appointment.

That afternoon Mrs. Gethunk helped to tog Lily out. She even fixed the flowing green veil around Lily's hat, for she knew that Mrs. Howsad was addicted to the green veil habit, and would wear hers to the concert.

It went through magnificently, and just as Mrs. Gethunk had arranged it. Mrs. Gethunk, very neatly clad, was on the White lot, with her husband, waiting for Mrs. Howsad to see the dusky Lily in a makeup identical with her own. She saw the meeting between the two. Except for their difference in color it might have been thought that Mrs. Howsad and Lily had dressed so as to be taken for twins.

Everybody saw it, and of course everybody grinned over it and chuckled over it. As soon as Mrs. Howsad came full tilt into the grinning Lily she flushed many tints of scarlet, and raced off the lawn for a car. She hasn't worn her pique model dress since, but Lily is more than reveling in hers.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Pitcher Thomas Burns, of the Safe Works team, will be in the box for the All-Plainfield team in its game with the Xavier Deaf Mutes this afternoon. Burns has done some excellent twirling in the past few weeks, and with Allen for a backstop it is doubtful if the visitors will be provided with as good a battery. The remainder of the team will be composed of George Bolsterli and George Schoonmaker, of the Y. M. C. A.; Montross, Martin and Shortman, of the Hope Y. M. A., and Taylor and Doyle, of St. Mary's. The game takes place on Hope Common and is scheduled to commence at 4 o'clock.

GOLF.

Eugene McCarthy, the caddymaster and expert at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, made a score of 37 for nine holes on the course a few days ago. This was in competition with Howard Wright.

The many members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club do not realize what fine golfing they are missing while out of town. The local course has never been in better condition and the stay-at-homes are enjoying the game to the full extent.

TENNIS.

A tennis tournament for the juniors will begin at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon. The entry list has been large.

JUST A HABIT.

Arthur Boyd, of Westfield, Is Said to Have Left His Wife for the Third Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 20—For third time in their married life of twenty-five years, Arthur S. Boyd, of Central avenue, is said to have deserted his wife yesterday, taking with him $600 belonging to her and it is said, another female. The police have been unable to get a trace of him. He was a prominent member of the Baptist church.

Wants Fee Returned.

S. S. Swackhamer appeared before the Common Council of Summit last evening and asked that body to refund to Augustus Hahr, whose liquor license was revoked about two years ago, an amount of money proportionate to the cost of a license for the unexpired term. The matter was laid over until the next meeting of the board. The courts have decided that the license was illegally withdrawn and if the Council refuses to give Mr. Hahr compensation, he will sue the corporation.

FELL FROM CAR.

Mrs. Charles T. Overbaugh, Victim of Trolley Accident, is Very Ill.

Mrs. Charles T. Overbaugh lies in a serious condition at her home on Richmond street, as the result of injuries received by stepping off of a moving trolley car, Sunday evening.

The accident occurred at the corner of East Fifth and Richmond streets. Outgoing trolleys usually stop at that point to change the switch. Mrs. Overbaugh, who resides a short distance away, arose to leave the car, but just as she was about to step to the ground, the conductor, not seeing the woman, gave the signal to start and she fell to the ground. She sustained severe injuries to her back and arm. It is feared that as a result an abscess may develop on the elbow.

On account of the accident an action in a suit for damages may be taken against the street railway company.

NEWS CO. AFTER HIM.

Contention Arises Over Practice of Thomas Carty in Selling Papers at the Railroad Station.

The first move in what promises to be an interesting case has been made by the Union News Company against Thomas Carty, of Orchard place. For some time past Mr. Carty has been selling newspapers at the Park avenue end of the walk leading to the new railroad station. Most of the time, it is alleged, he has occupied ground belonging to the railroad company. This is in violation of certain rules under which the Union News Company buys the exclusive franchise. Recently the Union News Company communicated with Street Commissioner Gavett regarding the matter.

It is understood that Mr. Gavett informed Mr. Carty that he must not occupy railroad property. On the other hand Mr. Carty, it is said, claims that he has a right to sell newspapers on the street and denies the right of the Union News Company to prevent him from doing so.

Struck by Freight.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 20—While about to board a passenger train at the New Jersey Central station, yesterday, Richard Jones, of Whitehouse, was struck by a freight engine and thrown against a coach. Four ribs were broken and he was rendered unconscious. He was revived and sent home as he refused to go to a hospital.

Booming Raritan.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 20—The residents of Raritan are making a supreme effort to have a large Paterson silk factory locate in the town. The concern wants $12,000 to move and Joseph Frelinghuysen has already donated a tract of land and subscribed $3,000. The company will make known its decision in a few days.

Board of Freeholders Estimates That Annual Expenses Will Reach $110,000.

MANY NEW BRIDGES.

LARGE AMOUNT OF BUSINESS WAS TRANSACTED AT SESSION.

Meeting at Somerville Well Attended—Director W. J. Logan in the Chair—Various Committees Appointed—The Proceedings.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 20—At an adjourned meeting held in the Court House yesterday afternoon the Somerset County Board of Freeholders did more business than they have in a long time before. All the members were in their seats when Director Logan called the session to order.

The contracts for the painting of several large bridges in the county were given out, as follows: Bound Brook bridge, Rudy & Reedy, $223; Somerville bridge, Case & Saums, $120; Raritan bridge, Case & Saums, $120; North Branch bridge, P. Williams, $78. The contract for putting pipes on the Raritan bridge was awarded to W. T. Kirk, for $298.

The following bridges were ordered built and bids advertised for, to be opened at a meeting in the Court House August 28, at 10 a. m.: Bridge near the stone crusher at Chimney Rock; two bridges in Dock Watch Hollow; a bridge near Sebring's Mills; an arch bridge on Middaugh street in Somerville. Messrs. Codington, Mobus, Lutkins and Logan were appointed as the committee on the Dock Watch Hollow structures and Messrs. Codington, Lutkins and Mobus on the bridge at Sebring's Mills.

The following estimates of the probable cost of bridges in the different townships of the county were made by the members of the board: Bedminster, $3,000; Bernards, $3,500; Branchburg, $2,800; Bridgewater, $3,500; Franklin, $2,250; Hillsborough, $8,000; Montgomery, $2,200; North Plainfield township, $2,000; North Plainfield borough, $2,000; Warren, $3,200. Total, $32,450.

The annual appropriation for the expenses of the county was placed at $110,000.

A committee was appointed to wait on all the county officers, asking them to be economical in all their expenses during this year, owing to the great amount of money the board will have to pay out for bridges and roads. Then the board adjourned to meet on August 28.

HELD UP.

Thugs Attack C. S. Messenger, But Are Beaten Off in a Desperate Encounter.

Charles S. Messenger, whom robbers mistook for Fred Endress, the seafood merchant of West Front street, had a desperate encounter about 11:30 Saturday night with robbers in the alley between West Second and West Front streets, near Park avenue. It was evidently the intention of the thugs to hold up Endress, who returns about that time from the West End store, carrying the receipts of the day. When Messenger alighted from his wagon he was immediately set upon. But his assailants soon found they were up against the wrong man. He knocked one of them down and wrenched a knife from the second but in the darkness they managed finally to escape.

Too Much Liquor.

ALL-PLAINFIELD NINE WINS BENEFIT GAME

Local Aggregation of Stars Easily Defeats the Xavier Deaf Mutes Team.

PROCEEDS FOR CHARITY

A BIG CROWD OF BASEBALL ENTHUSIASTS WATCH THE MATCH.

Netherwood Fresh Air Home and King's Daughters Baby Camp the Beneficaries—All-Plainfield Rolls Up Score in Sixth Inning—8 To 1.

It may not be exactly proper to say that the New York baseball team which played the All-Plainfield team, yesterday afternoon, was struck dumb by its defeat, but at any rate it was given a great surprise. The visitors were the Xavier Deaf Mutes. They were defeated by a score of 8 to 1, but such was the result of the game. But there was no kicking, that is, not in the ordinary loud voiced national game way, but the mutes nearly broke their fingers trying to tell how it happened.

The contest was for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air and King's Daughters baby camp and was witnessed by a crowd larger than many of the Saturday attendances. It started off well and bade fair to be a close match for the first five innings. The score then stood two to one in favor of Plainfield when the locals developed a batting streak which netted six runs. The mutes tried hard to overcome the barrier and succeeded in shutting the home contingent out for the rest of the game but try as they might they could not send another man over the plate.

The result of the game was due in a large measure to the superb pitching of "Tommie" Burns, of the Safe Works team, who was in the box for the locals. Two hits, both of them far from each other, were all the visitors made while ten batsmen swatted the air in a vain endeavor to find the sphere. He received faultless support and the team as a whole demonstrated that Plainfield can place a nine in the field that with a little practice in team work would prove almost invincible. Those of the Mutes who did get to first by some means, invariably died at second as Allen and Martin formed a pair that let nothing escape. Taylor, Shortman and Doyle formed an outfield that robbed the visitors of several hits while the infield was the acme of strength. It consisted of "Smiling" Jimmie Montross, D. B. Martin, George Schoonmaker and George Bolsterle. All held their positions down as though they always played them.

The Mutes played good ball. Brown had excellent control of the ball in all but the sixth inning when he was touched up badly. After that he settled down and did good work. His backstop, Hamilton, was a wonder, and First Baseman Haydon, left field Bruton and Third Baseman Mulcahy, played in snappy style. All are good base runners but their inability to find Burns' delivery kept them from scoring.

WORK TO BEGIN MONDAY

CONTRACT FILED FOR THE ERECTION OF UNION COUNTY COURT HOUSE.

Extension to County Court House to be Pushed in Order to be Ready for October Term.

The contract for the erection of the new building for Union county, which will cost $488,750, has been placed on file with County Clerk Howard, at Elizabeth. The job is to be completed by April 1, 1904. Ground for the foundation will be broken Monday, if not sooner.

The work on the $30,000 extension to the county court house, and which, when the big building is finished, will be used as a prison for females, has been ordered to be pushed ahead rapidly so as to be ready by the October term of court. It is the intention that the county clerk, surrogate and sheriff's quarters shall be established temporarily in this new annex until the county building is finished. Meanwhile the old court house, built more than sixty years ago, will be torn down.

MARRIAGE AND RECEPTION

MISS LUE LUNGER IS WEDDED TO RANDOLPH MARSH, JR.

The Ceremony Takes Place Quietly, But Their Friends Subsequently Tender an Ovation.

A very quiet ceremony at the home of Rev. L. B. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, at 9 o'clock last evening, united in marriage two popular Plainfield young people. They were Miss Lue Lunger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Lunger, of Watchung avenue, and Randolph Marsh, Jr., of Plainfield avenue. The young people were attended by the bride's sister, Miss Ella Lunger and Fred H. Firstbrook, of Liberty street. There were no other witnesses to the ceremony.

Following the nuptial event, the bridal party repaired to the home of the grooms' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Marsh, Sr., where they found forty friends awaiting their coming. They were tendered a hearty reception which terminated at midnight with the serving of a wedding supper. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh left this morning for Hartford, Conn., where they will spend a week with relatives. On returning they will reside temporarily with the groom's parents after which they will take possession of their own home in the West End. Both young people were the recipients of many presents from their large circle of friends.

The groom is an employe of the Potter Press Works and is well known as a prominent worker in Hope chapel. The bride is a popular young woman and a member of Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school.

WANTS BEACH.

Asbury Park's Common Council Intends to Obtain Beach Front by Legal Proceedings.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 21—Councilman Kinmonth at a session of the Common Council took the first step toward the purchase of the beach front by the city from its owner, Mayor Bradley, by introducing a resolution, which will be acted upon at the board's next meeting.

Mayor Bradley will sail for Europe this week and will be abroad for an indefinite period. Councilman Kinmonth's resolution is so delicately phrased that the negotiations for the beach purchase may not be resumed with Mayor Bradley and the Council may decide, in view of the necessity for a speedy termination of the long-drawn controversy, to institute condemnation proceedings or a friendly suit to acquire the beach, as the shortest way to a climax.

No Report Yet.

A member of the committee from the Crescent Avenue church, appointed to secure a successor to Rev. Dr. W. Richards, informed a representative for The Daily Press, yesterday, that as yet nothing definite has been done. The committee is engaged in hearing various divines and no doubt a selection will be made early in the fall.

PRECIOUS OLD WORKS ARE CRUMBLING AWAY

The Valuable Collection of the New Jersey Historical Society.

IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS

A DESCRIPTION OF SOME NOTEWORTHY VOLUMES IN THE LOT.

Though Becoming Unreadable They May be Saved by Application of Special Process—Some State Papers Amongst Collection.

Crumbling away from old age and lack of proper care many interesting and valuable documents may be found in the New Jersey Historical Society's library. Some of them were written in the latter part of the seventeenth century. They take one back to the early days of the colony. There are many that were written or printed between 1700 and 1800. Time-worn, stained and faded, covered with dirty finger marks and frayed at the edges, the ancient papers are gradually becoming unreadable.

There seems to be only one way to save these precious relics from losing practically all value. That way is to have them treated with the Emery process. The latter is applied by the Emery Record Preserving Company, of Taunton, Mass. The sheet of paper to be preserved is enveloped in a transparent silk covering that is put on with a press in such a way that no seams are visible. It is said that the silk covering is so durable that it will last for an indeffinite time without showing signs of wear. The contents, meanwhile, are protected from the ravages of time, moths and constant handling. Should the silk eventually wear out it is claimed that the matter it incloses would be in as good condition as when the process was applied and could be again treated to the process if it is desired to keep it longer.

There is a large amount of matter in the Historical Society's rooms on which the Emery method could be used to advantage. Some of the manuscripts are official letters, while others record conveyances of land from the Indias and from the Board of Proprietors to settles in the colony. Many others on miscellaneous subjects are equally interesting and important. Most of them are written on stout paper, varying greatly in regard to their condition. Some over two centuries old are in a better state than others of only half that age. A few are on parchment, and these are naturally in much better condition than the others, except that they are fully as soiled.

Of the more interesting papers, one that is not very sound, is a letter dated June 1, 1700, from Andrew Hamilton, the Governor of the colony, to the Board of Proprietors in England. Governor Hamilton advises the proprietors to act speedily in relation to the surrender of the government to the crown in order to quell the disturbances in the province. The Governor brings a very earnest argument to a somewhat abrupt close, as follows: "I am unwilling to begin the other sheet, and therefore take leave." This document shows its age greatly. It is falling apart where it has been creased, being kept in a book, and it is badly faded. The Governor's letter is printed in "East Jersey Under the Proprietors."

A few of the old documents have been framed, but there are many others nearly, if not quite, as valuable that need to be taken care of in some way. The bulk of the ancient papers were pasted in scrap books many years ago. They are badly stained by the mucilage that was used, and most of them are cracked where they are folded. Although some very old ones look better than others, the ones damaged the worst are, as a rule, the most valuable. There are 137 documents in one book bearing dates from October 17, 1681, to December 19, 1754. Besides the deeds and official communications there are wills, receipted bills for clothing, etc., personal letters and broadsides, or printed sheets of paper of irregular publication, sometimes containing matter of a revolutionary nature, and therefore printed surreptitiously. There is part of the journal of the ship Catherine, a pirate and slave trader in 1732, plying between New York and Africa. It contains no account of anything very exciting or interesting.

There is also a portfolio containing

HIGH TAX RATE.

The Borough's School Needs Will Probably Cause an Increase in the Tax Rate.

Called expressly for the purpose, the Borough Council met Tuesday evening and examined the books of Tax Assessor Elston M. French. The session lasted only a few minutes, as the books were found in excellent condition and needed but a superficial examination. The members were much gratified at the satisfactory way in which they found the lists.

The tax rate will not be known until after the meeting of the County Board of Assessors, which will take place the first Tuesday in September. But it will be slightly higher than last year, owing to the fact that additional money has been voted for school purposes. The total valuation remains about the same as last year.

HOME FOR LOCAL MASONS

MASONIC ASSOCIATION RENEWS ITS LEASE WITH BABCOCK ESTATE.

Rooms to be Restored as Soon as Possible—Rumor of Building Now Set at Rest.

The Masonic Association of Plainfield has entered into an agreement with the trustees of the estate of the late George H. Babcock to lease the former headquarters of Masonry here, and this means that the handsome rooms occupied by them in the Babcock building will be restored on similar lines. It has been generally supposed, although there was no ground for the report, that the association would occupy quarters in the new Woodhull & Martin building as soon as that structure is completed. This rumor is effectually set at rest by the announcement made.

The terms of the lease agreed upon by the trustees of the estate and the association is ten years, and it is understood that provision is made for a longer term should the Masons desire to renew the contract. No time has been set for taking possession, but the trustees of the estate intend to restore the rooms as quickly as possible.

THE BABIES RECEIVING CARE

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS BABY CAMP DOING A GOOD WORK.

Miss Woodruff, Acting Superintendent, Receiving Support, But Funds Are Still Needed.

The work at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the mountain grows interesting each week and the appeal for aid and assistance is still urgent. At present there are three babies at the camp and a fourth one will be taken there today Of these three one baby is 10 months old and its condition is sad. Another one is a cripple and requires special treatment. All are doing just as well as can be expected and Miss Olive DeLany, the trained nurse, is doing her best to alleviate the sufferings of the little ones.

In addition to these cases there are two babies outside receiving the attention of an extra nurse. These cases as well as the others have been reported by physicians and they are worthy of the effort being put forth. Miss Mabel A. Woodruff, who is in charge of the camp while the president of the City Union, King's Daughters is away, finds plenty to engage her attention and she appreciates the support given by friends.

RECEIVER IN CHARGE.

A Number of Persons Desire to Purchase the Elizabeth Evening Times.

James C. Connolly officially assumed his duties as receiver of the Elizabeth Evening Times Publishing Company yesterday. His bond for $3,000 with the American Bonding Company of Baltimore was approved yesterday morning by Judge Gilhooly, a special master in chancery. Mr. Connolly received today his official notification of his appointment from the court of chancery.

No further steps have been taken in the negotiations for the sale of the paper. Four parties are now in communiction with Mr. Connolly in reference to the purchase of the company's property.

At Old Habit.

John Lannon was arraigned in the city court this morning on the old charge of helpless intoxication. At the request ol relatives he was remanded until tomorrow morning.

MASON ENTERTAINS THE MANNING FAMILY

The Sixth Annual Reunion of Clan Takes Place at "Stony Crop."

PLAINFIELDERS THERE.

ENJOY OUTING AT EDITOR MASON'S SUMMER HOME.

Spend Day in Social Way and Sit Down to a Fine Repast—List of Those Who Gathered for the Reunion.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 21—The sixth annual reunion of the Manning family was held yesterday at "Stone Crop," the summer home of W. B. R. Mason, at this place. Like all previous occasions this year's gathering was a great success. The host did all in his power to make the occasion one of pleasure and profit to all. The day was spent chiefly in a social manner, while the repast was not the least among the enjoyable features. Nearly all of the guests present were from Plainfield and vicinity and included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Joel D. Manning, the Misses Sarah T. and Harriet T. Manning, Mrs. C. H. Manning, Miss Emeline Manning, Mrs. Isaac F. Randolph, Howard A. Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Manning, Jeremiah L. Manning, Leland Manning, James Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Rocap, Clarence Rocap, Miss Katharine M. Rocap, Miss Marion Rocap, Mrs. Margaret M. Ransom, Mrs. S. A. Manning, Miss Elizabeth A. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Anthony, L. L. Manning, Mrs. Phillip B. Macintyre, Russell Mcintyre, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Manning, Miss Dorothy M. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Manning, Miss Edith Manning, Miss Mary E. F. Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Joel D. F. Randolph, Rev. T. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, L. Stanley Karner, Miss Esther Karner, Clara L. Karner, Miss Florence Taylor.

SIGNAL VICTORY.

Proceedings Against Cab Company Brought to a Close Through Judge W. A. Coddington.

The proceedings instituted by Mrs. Lucy McVey against the Plainfield Cab Company and Mrs. Julia Peck, which were terminated by Chancellor Stevens' refusal to issue the injunction prayed for, have attracted unusual attention. The complainant's contention was tnat the cab company has been interfering with her alleged right of way through its property from North avenue to the rear of the McVey Hotel property.

In handling the case for the cab company Judge W. A. Coddington took the position that the bill filed in the cause was not specific and that no rights of the complaining party had received any interference. As for closing the large doors leading through the company's stable, Judge Coddington maintained that it was not shown that it is necessary to have them open at night. All the contentions of the learned counsel for the cab company were sustained by the court and the victory for Judge Coddington's client is complete.

REMOVES FROM BOROUGH.

Fred Brown Leaves North Plainfield Today for Other Parts.

After a continuous residence in North Plainfield for thirty-five years, Fred Brown leaves today to take up his home in other parts of the country. At present it is uncertain as to his whereabouts or just where he will locate, but no doubt he will find the spot to his liking. He will be missed among the politicians and children, in whom he has taken a kindly interest. His views against annexation have been very pronounced but by leaving he misses an opportunity to cast a ballot against the proposition.

Bids Received.

Within a short time the work will be started on the addition to the new railroad station which will be used as a baggage room. Bids for the work have been received and it is expected that everything will be in readiness at an early date.

Ill in the South.

Word has been received by friends in the borough that Patrick McHugh, of Somerset street, who went down south about two weeks ago, lies seriously ill with typhoid fever in a hospital at Charleston, S. C.

QUIET MARRIAGE IN GOTHAM

WEDDING OF MISS CODINGTON AND WILLIAM G. ROCKAFELLER.

Takes Place at the Church of the Transfiguration—The Couple to Reside in Brooklyn.

In the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, Miss Estelle Codington, of this city, and William G. Rockafeller, a popular Somerville man, were quietly married last evening. The nuptial event took place at 8 o'clock and the officiating clergyman was the curate of the parish.

At the ceremony the bride was charmingly gowned in blue atamine over Nile green silk. Late in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Rockafeller departed for Saratoga, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return in a fortnight the couple will reside in Hicks street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The bride is a handsome daughter of S. A. Codington and has many friends here. Mr. Rockafeller, who holds a lucrative position with the Bank of Commerce in New York, is well known in this city.

THE REGIMENTAL RIFLE TEAM

IS COMPOSED OF THE OFFICERS AND THE ENLISTED MEN.

Col. Collins Announces the Names of Fortunate Ones—Team to Assemble at Sea Girt Monday.

Colonel Collins has made his selection of the regimental rifle team and the best shots in the Second Regiment are represented in its makeup. The order naming the men in full is as follows:

"General Orders No. 21:

"1. The following officers and enlisted men are hereby appointed as the regimental rifle team for 1902: Lieutenant Colonel Joseph F. Clime; Captain Robert W. Watson, Company H; Captain John H, McCullough, Company A; Captain John E. Wehrly, Company M; First Lieutenant E. Yarde Breese; Sergeant A. Gibley Spencer, Company M; Corporal R. Evans, Company H.

"2. Captain William B. Martin, inspectior of rifle practice, is hereby appointed captain of the team.

"3. Officers and enlisted men will report to Captain William B. Martin, inspector of rifle practice, at Sea Girt, on Monday, August 25, inst., not later than 12 o'clock noon, and will remain there until Friday, August 29, inst.

"4. Officers and enlisted men unable to remain at Sea Girt for five days will notify the adjutant as soon as possible.

"By order of Colonel Collins.
"John M. Rogers,
"Captain and Adjutant."

BRANCHING OUT.

New Jersey Central Railroad and Reading System te Spend Millions for Collieries.

Plans are being made by the railroads looking to the end of the coal strike and the Reading and Jersey Central roads and the Temple Iron Company, it is said, will spend $3,000,000 developing new collieries.

These companies are also planning for a more economical management of the distribution of the coal to the various markets and the concentration of the sale under one agency for these three companies.

It is said the Reading will confine itself to sale of coal in the eastern markets instead of dividing the traffic with other roads to hold the western trade, and have large storages to hold the supply which may not be called for directly.

The Reading has hundreds of acres of coal land, so far undeveloped, and it is to these the company looks for the future supply.

REED'S OUTING.

Cruising With Friends Along the Southern Coast of This State for a Week.

State Senator Charles A. Reed, Former Senator Johnson, Congresssman Loudenslager, Barker Gummere and W. S. Hancock left yesterday for a week's cruise along the South Jersey coast. They will make the trip on a pilot boat and while away will be the guests of the New Jersey Pilot Association. The cruise is an annual affair.

LOCAL COAL DEALERS ADVANCE THE PRICES

Stove and Egg Raised to Nine Dollars Per Ton, Same as Nut.

INCREASE ALSO MADE IN NEW YORK CITY BY AGREEMENT.

Prices of Various Grades in Gotham at Present—The Winter Coal to be $6.50 Which is Little Above the Normal Rate for Coal.

Coal took another leap in Plainfield yesterday. A week ago the price of nut was advanced to $9 per ton, but stove and egg remained at $8. All these varieties are now of a uniformed price. In the city at present there is not more than 1,500 tons of coal and the increase yesterday was in order to protect customers of these dealers who still have some anthracite in their bins.

Although the published price of coal is $9 those dealers who have coal are supplying their customers who had orders placed before the outlook became so serious at $6 per ton. A few who had orders in especially early, are fortunate enough to get the article at $5.50.

In New York the price also advanced yesterday. The committee of five retail dealers, which fixes the retail schedule price of anthracite decided early yesterday morning not to advance the price. Later in the day it met and raised the schedule price from $9 to $10 a ton. The coal dealers say the increase was necessary on account of the high prices charged by the wholesale dealers. The prices now stand: stove, $10, egg, $11 to $11.75; furnace, same as egg; chestnut, $10.

A member of the committee said yesterday that he expected winter coal to be $6.50 per ton, which is a little above the normal, but pending the end of the strike anthracite will be very dear. In case the strike breaks before the winter the normal supply will be on the market in about a month. The statement published broadcast recently that it would take three months is incorrect.

AID EXTENDED.

Kindly Disposed Persons Rendered Assistance to Mrs. Huffman, of South Plainfield.

Regarding the story recently published in The Daily Press concerning the death of Mary V. Huffman, who was reported to have been in want, a friend of the family has written a communication to this paper asking that the error be corrected. The writer says that the friends and neighbors feel grateful for the aid rendered by Plainfiled people, but adds that the people of South Plainfield had done everything possible for Mrs. Huffman and her daughter during the past ten or twelve years, in the way of provisions, money and in caring for them when in sickness.

Six months ago a purse of $28 was presented to them, besides food and fuel to keep them from starving. The back lodge dues of the deceased member were paid up so as to put her in benefits by a sister member of the Patriotic Order Sons of America. The writer states further that Mrs. Huffman's brother visited the latter and gave her money. Mr. Kapp and the girls in the local factory donated a purse of $18. In these various ways the family well provided for and was not allowed to suffer as some people imagined.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Rumors of the settlement of the coal strike thicken. Where there is so much smoke there ought to be some fire. And the smoke is thick enough, goodness knows. — Paterson Daily Press.

The tramp nuisance is more pronounced in this State than in any other, and for that reason the laws should provide for more drastic remedies than in other places.

If all tramps were arrested on sight and compelled to bathe and work for periods of three or six months they would soon wear a path around the State.

It would be a good thing for the trapms to have regular meals, work and sleeping places and if the sentences were long enought they might acquire the habit of work and cleanliness.

The attack on officers at Cranford this week shows that the policy of letting them alone is bad for the tramps and for places on the lines of their movement. Something must be done to eliminate the danger to respectable people, and the worst thing that could be done would be to kill the tramps. It would be far better to catch them and make them work.—New Brunswick Daily Press.

THEATRICAL.

Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre will open for the season with the matinee performance of "The Arabian Nights" on Monday, August 25, thoroughly refitted and refurnished throughout. New carpets and draperies and newly upholstered seats will change the interior to one of the brightest and most attractive in the city. The Permanent Stock Company, which has been selected for the winter, will include Frederic Bond, who is general stage director of all of the Proctor Stock Company's, who will enact the leading role in the opening comedy. Others will be George Pierce, William Cullington, Walter Willis, Dorothy Lewis, Leslie Lyman, Ceseylle Mayer, Lillian Goldsmith and Florence Gerald. The opening curtain raiser will be "Smoke," enacted by Louis Brassen, Harry Stanley, Wm. Cullington, Helen Dunlap and Florida Kingsley. Vaudeville of excellent class will be interspersed between acts.

Quincy Adams Sawyer has run the gauntlet of the Academy of Music's theatre-going pulbic, and New York City has adjudged it to be one of the best, sweetest, purest and most wholesome of rural dramas ever written. The dramatist has taken particular pains evidently, to follow the book as closely as possible, and in transferring the story to the stage has emphasized the farcical possibilities suggested by the broadly depicted characters of the novel. As in the book, so in the play, the principal character is a young lawyer, who seeks and finds rest and recuperation in the country. The place selected is Mason's Corner, far up among the Berkshire hills, where the entire action of the play occurs. The local atmosphere is perfect. It brings one in touch with the people of the Berkshire hill town, whose ways are so different from city ways, and yet whose qualities of head and heart are entirely similar. The play is beautifully staged and the company presenting it is one of the best ever seen in a rural drama. Ever since the opening night at the Academy of Music the attendance has been enormous. The engagement is limited to four weeks.

Miss Ethel Laing, of East Front street, has returned home from a sojourn at Asbury Park.

LETTER FROM LEW THOMAS

A FORMER PLAIVFIELDER RELATES A STORY OF AN ODD FIND.

The Manuscript Copy of a Robert Burns' Poem Was Picked Up in Philippiues.

Sometime ago a letter from Lewis L. Thomas, addresed to the Newark Evening News, relating the finding of a manuscript copy of one of Bobbie Burns' poems, was published in that newspaper. A couple of months ago the strange disappearance of Mr. Thomas, who was formerly a newspaper man in this city, caused much exicetment here where he has many friends.

It was generally believed at the time that he had been killed, his name being confused with that of a New England school teacher who had been murdered.

The Plainfielder is now engaged as a government teacher in the Philippines and his letter will be of interest to friends here. It is as follows:

"You can find any sort of old thing in the Philippines. Fou will find all varieties of wood, all kinds of fruits and all sorts of men—men whose people do not care to know anything about them; men whose people are weeping at home for them, and men whose creditors are looking for them. And they are all interesting. One of the strange and surprising things discovered in the islands is in the possession of Private Patrick J. M. O'Brein, of Company G, Nineteenth United States Infantry, now bound for 'God's country,' where such things as his find are apt to awaken more interest than in this land of money-getting. Private O'Brien carries with him a manuscript copy of Burns's 'A man's a man for a' that.' "In the spring of 1900 Private O'Brien was one of a detachment of eight men sent out to inculcate a little respect for the United States in the mind of the Filipino insurrecto or ladron. The region they were operating in was about Carcar. And the unusually poor marksmanship of the whole detachment indirectly brought about the find. If a certain escaping 'Tao' had fallen a victim to the ordinary skill of the deatchment he would have been left as any other dead on the field, and the men would have kept straight on without worming their way up a gorge lined with stiff underbrush. Into this gorge the Filipino had run and there had disappeared. A little search disclosed a part of his garments clinging to a jutting rock, and after a little clearing of brush an entrance to a cave was found. Within the cave was a large amount of legal loot. There was the usual quantity of Mexican money and clothing of all descriptions. It was speedily taken care of by the men, while the sergeant in charge was considering the best way to keep the soldiers safe from attack and preparing a report of the incident. O'Brien came to him and showed him a paper, but the anxious sergeant only gave it a passing glance and kept on with his duties.

"A few days later the Hospital Corps man (now a contract surgeon) looked over the various shares of loot and immediately saw that O'Brien's was the cream of the capture. He and the sergeant are both Burns enthusiasts and are well acquainted with the peculiarities of the poet ploughman's signature. O'Brien was approached in more than one way to exchange his find for more solid property, but the little Irishman steadily refused all offers.

"From other papers taken at the time it was learned that the copy originally belonged, long years ago, to a Scotchman named Cook, a native of Edinburgh. Cook's history is a romantic one. Early in the last century the mystery of the islands attracted him, and, with bag and baggage, he came over to enter the employ of Smith, Bell & Co., one of the oldest firms in the Philippines. He was assigned to duty at Cebu. After a time lung trouble took hold of him and he went up into the mountains in the vicinity of Carcar to try the benefits of a famous hot sulphur spring in the hills. He moved all his goods out with him and took up life in a Filipino shack with the invaluable bit of paper. But the sulphur baths of Carcar did not have the desired effect, and at last, in the final stages of the disease, the man went to a spring on the island of Negros, where he died, leaving all his property behind him. The careful natives took it all and hid it in the cave where at last it was found."

Miss Edith GaNum, of Steiner place, is spending a week with relatives at Bound Brook.

EIGHT DEAD IN EXPLOSION.

Digesters In Wilmington (Del.) Pulp Mills Blown Up.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 21.—Eight workmen are known to have been killed, six are missing and three others were badly injured by the explosion of two steel digesters in the Delaware pulp mills of the Jessup & Moore Paper company, on the Christiana river.

The digesters were located in a two story building. There were ten of them in the building, each one resembling a vat and about six feet in diameter. They were used for reducing wood pulp. Eighteen men were at work in the building. There were two terrific reports, and the next instant the building and other mills about the strucfure were completely wrecked. One digester was blown into the air and fell to the ground 250 feet away.

A dense volume of smoke for a time prevented the outside workmen from going to the immediate rescue of those who were caught in the ruins of the falling building. Several men made their escape without any injury.

An alarm of fire was sounded, and the entire fire department of the city and a large force of police were soon on the ground, and the work of rescue was immediately begun. Several of the workmen were taken out unconscious, only to die after being removed to hospitals. The wreckage was piled up for more than thirty feet, and the escaping steam made the work of rescue rather difficult.

Those who were not killed outright were mangled and burned by escaping acid that flowed over their bodies from the broken digesters. Up to this writing eight persons are dead, and, according to the officials of the company, at least six others are in the ruins. To add to the horror of the disaster the wreckage took fire, but after some difficulty the fire department managed to subdue the flames, and the work of rescue was continued.

Steam was used in the digesters. The officers of the company think that too much steam was generated in them and that this was the cause of the explosion. The monetary loss is estimated at $35,000.

Cape Parliament Assembles.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 21.—The Cape parliament assembled. Sir Walter F. Hely-Hutchinson, governor of the colony, announced in a speech that martial law would be removed on the passage of a bill indemnifying the governor and all persons concerned for acts committed under martial law. Bills were introduced in parliament covering unavoidable infractions of the law arising from the delay in summoning parliament, condoning illegal expenditures incurred for the suppression of rebellion, prohibiting the immigration of Asiatics other than British subjects, prohibiting the sales of intoxicants to the aborigines and providing for the segregation of the natives.

Two Crabbers Drowned.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Aug. 21.—Nellie Fralinger, aged twenty-two; her sister Bertha, aged eighteen, both of this city, and Peter Degen, a farmer of Roadstown, were drowned by the capsizing of a boat in Stoe creek, nine miles from here. They were with a large party which was crabbing in the creek.

BAFFLING MYSTERY.

Chicago's Great Murder Case Still Unsolved.

IS NOT MINNIE MITCHELL'S BODY.

Witness at Inquest Declares Corpse Which Had Been Thought Hers Was Too Far Decomposed For Identification.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—After an investigation by the Chicago police extending over a fortnight and a two days' coroner's inquest the authorities are still in doubt whether the body of the murdered woman found at Seventy-fourth and State streets was really that of Minnie Mitchell. Three men stand accused of complicity in her death and that of Mrs. Annie Bartholin and are held in heavy bonds to the grand jury. Yet Patrolman Watson, who found the body, could not tell its sex because of its advanced decomposition. Even the coroner's jury, when it rendered a verdict recommending that Oscar Thompson, Edward Counselman and John Claffy be held to explain the death, stated that the body was supposed to be that of Minnie Mitchell.

Minnie Mitchell has been missing from her home since June 30 and when last seen was in the company of her fiancee, William Bartholin.

While the important testimony of the wigmaker who identified the switch of false hair as one she had made for Minnie Mitchell came to help the theory of the police that the body was that of Miss Mitchell, Dr. Joseph Springer, the coroner's physician, steadfastly maintained that it was not her body and gave the coroner the following statement:

"On Aug. 8 I held a post mortem examination upon the body of an unknown woman. On inspection I found the body in a bad state of decomposition. I found the scalp, shoulders and arms totally destroyed by absorption. I found the abdomen contracted, the skin dried and the tissues of the pelvis destroyed by absorption. I found a bullet hole one-fourth of an inch in diameter in the center of the back of the head, in the center of the occipital bone. On opening the skull I found the brain totally destroyed, the skull empty. I found a small flattened bullet lying at the base, the vertebræ of the back protruding and the tissues destroyed.

"In my opinion the said unknown woman came to her death from a bullet wound in the head."

Dr. Springer declared it was his opinion that death must have occurred from nine to twelve weeks preceding the finding of the body in order to allow the disintegration of the body as it was found. He declared that quicklime had not been used.

The verdict of the coroner's jury practically leaves further investigation as to the supposed death of Minnie Mitchell to the September grand jury. State Attorney Deneen will return to the city soon and will take up the charges against Thompson, Claffy and Counselman.

More tangible results are expected from the postponed inquest in the case of Mrs. Annie Bartholin, which will be resumed today. For this murder Oscar Thompson is held as principal and Counselman and Claffy as accessories, although William Bartholin is being sought on the suspicion of matricide as well as for the murder of Minnie Mitchell.

Dastardly Crime In Kentucky.

RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., Aug. 21.—Zoda, the fifteen-year-old daughter of C. M. Vick, a prominent farmer of this county, was killed in sight of her father's house. She had gone to a spring for water, and, failing to return, a search was instituted. Later the body, with the head crushed, was found in a fence corner partly covered with leaves. One hundred men, with bloodhounds, have gone to the scene of the crime, and if the guilty person shall be caught a lynching will follow. The Vick home is about five miles from here, near the asphalt mines.

Convention of Nonagenarians.

BATH, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Twenty-five hundred persons attended the fifth annual harvest reunion of old folks of Steuben county, held on the fair grounds here. George Reynolds, colored, of Bath, who was 100 years of age a week ago last Tuesday, was the oldest person present, and Mary French of Bath was next oldest, being ninety-nine years old. The silver cup prizes were awarded to Charloote Little of Bath, aged ninety-six, and Josiah Thomas of Savona, aged ninety. One hundred were over eighty, and 237 were over seventy.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The condition of the treasury, divisions of issue and redemption, is as follows: Reserve fund, gold coin and bullion, $150,000,000; trust funds, division of redemption, $842,338,089; division of issue, $842,338,089; general fund, $291,286,416; current liabilities, $88,588,557; available cash balance, $202,697,859.

J. P. MORGAN HOME.

Refuses to Talk About Steel Trust Affairs.

LONG CONFERENCE WITH SCHWAB.

Latter Said to Have Turned Over Management of Great Corporation to King of Finance—Oceanic's Arrival Causes a Big Stir.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—J. P. Morgan had a long interview at his office with President C. M. Schwab of the steel trust, and as a result Mr. Morgan is believed now to be in absolute control of the entire trust, President Schwab having virtually turned it over to him to be administered during his own vacation in Europe, on which he will start at once.

When Mr. Morgan arrived from Europe on the Oceanic, he announced that he intended to go to his country home at Highland Falls, up the Hudson. His yacht, the Corsair, met him down the bay and steamed beside the liner to the White Star pier, where Mr. Morgan was taken on board.

On the trip up the bay he heard for the first time of the reported illness of President Schwab, but said he did not believe it.

Mr. Morgan steamed slowly up the river as if going to his home, but suddenly changed the course and stopped off Thirty-fourth street and went ashore. Jumping into a cab, he dashed to his office.

J. P. MORGAN.

At his office he first closeted himself with his partners, George W. Perkins and Charles Steele. After that President Schwab appeared and was alone with Mr. Morgan for nearly an hour.

Although no word was given out, it was currently believed that President Schwab, not knowing when he would be back from his unexpected vacation in Europe, turned over the management of the billion dollar trust to Mr. Morgan, temporarily at least.

E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the steel trust, gave out this statement:

"President Schwab spent considerable time in my office and also in his own office and at the bank of J. P. Morgan & Co. He is looking well, and he will soon be completely restored to health. We are all insisting that he take a much needed rest.

"During the last fifteen months he has had charge of more responsibility than one person should assume. However, he has so systematized the business of the company that it will not suffer during his absence. He will probably sail within a day or two and will take with him the best wishes of all his associates."

"I don't want to talk for publication," said Mr. Morgan to a reporter who was the first to greet him on the ship. "I want to keep my name out of the papers."

In reply to questions as to the coal strike, the illness of President Schwab, the ship combine, the Southern railway merger and other vast schemes Mr. Morgan said:

"I haven't got home yet. You have asked me questions like that every time I have come home, and I have always given you the same answer. Now, there is no use trying to get me to talk about things like that at present. They will all be announced at the proper time. I shall be at my office tomorrow, and if you want to know anything call on me there, and if I can tell you anything I'll do so. I want to keep my name out of the papers."

A few minutes later about twenty reporters and countless photographers crowded into the narrow passageway. Mr. Morgan and Miss Morgan came into the passageway and looked up in astonishment. The great financier was very angry, and he glared at the cameras.

"Mr. Morgan, won't you come out in the sunlight and pose for us?" said a magazine artist.

"I wouldn't pose for $500,000," exclaimed Mr. Morgan. "No, not for $5,000,000," he repeated.

The photographers then departed, fearing a disturbance. Mr. Beer took Deputy Collector J. P. Williams into Mr. Morgan's private stateroom, where Williams took his declaration.

When Mr. Morgan stepped from the ship, twenty-five or thirty business men formed a reception committee. They rushed forward, and Mr. Morgan was soon busily engaged shaking hands.

During the voyage over Mr. Morgan became very confidential with President G. A. Parkin of Toronto university. Mr. Parkin said:

"Mr. Morgan's word picture of the ideal industrial development is so vast that I confess I could not adequately comprehend it. Combination is the keynote of his idea. He claims the idea of combination will progress, growing wider and greater all the time.

"The steamship trust he used as an illustration, saying the present plan was only the beginning of an ultimately vast combination of shipping interests.

"His idea is so great that it has completely enthralled me, and I asked permission to visit him at his office and hear him more fully develop his idea for me.

"American boys, he declared, should not receive their college training abroad. That would tend to unAmericanize them. America rules the world, and our college boys should develop in an atmosphere of American ideas. All foreign nations should be kept aloof from them until their characters are developed."

COLOMBIAN REVOLUTION.

Rebels Now Have a Warship For Attack on Panama.

PANAMA, Colombia, Aug. 21.—The former government gunboat Boyaca, which left here July 29 to carry 300 soldiers to Agua Dulce and which was captured by the Colombian revolutionists, is now at sea flying the rebel flag. The rumors that the Boyaca had been sunk are therefore refuted.

Before she left here General Salazar, governor of Panama, ordered the commander of the Boyaca not to fire the guns on the vessel, because he feared the bad condition of the Boyaca would endanger those on board if her guns were discharged. Revolutionary reports of the capture of the gunboat are that she fought two hours before being captured, and it is believed in government circles that some accident to her machinery or rudder forced the commander of the Boyaca to accept unequal battle until further resistance was impossible. The Boyaca was a very old ship, and her machinery and keel were in very bad condition. She was built in 1883 at Wilmington, Del., for the Colombian government.

The hopes of the conservatives of Panama are now centered in the steamer which Senor Concha, Colombian minister at Washington, is supposed to have bought recently at San Francisco. Should this vessel sail promptly for the isthmus with good gunners on board it is believed by government officials that, with the reenforcements expected here from Barranquilla, General Salazar need have no fear of an attack from the revolutionary forces under General Herrera.

The steamer Palena has reached port from the south, and her captain reports having met the Boyaca flying the flag of the revolutionists off the island of Taboguilla, about fifteen miles from Panama.

J. W. Peet, local agent of the Pacific Steam Navigation company of Liverpool, declines to make any statement regarding the action of the Colombian authorities at Buenaventura in the case of the company's steamer Ecuador and says he knows nothing about the sailing of the British cruiser Phaeton for that port. The governor of Panama, General Salazar, however, has received a cable message from General Velasco, in command of the troops at Buenaventura, saying that the English company absolutely refused to transport troops to the isthmus. No further complications are feared at Buenaventura for the present.

Persons who have arrived here from Cartagena say that, according to General Velez, the government cruiser Cartagena will shortly leave that port for the isthmus, bringing 800 soldiers and $80,000 in gold.

The government gunboat General Pinzon has arrived at Cartagena after a slow trip from Colon. This vessel also will bring reenforcements to the isthmus as soon as possible.

Surrender of Agua Dulce Denied.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The Colombian legation has received a cablegram from Governor Salazar at Panama saying the report that the government troops at Agua Dulce had surrendered was entirely without foundation and that there had been no change in the situation.

Five Masted Schooner Launched.

WALDOBORO, Me., Aug. 21.—The five masted schooner Paul Palmer has been launched from the yards of George L. Welt, where she was built for W. F. Palmer and others of Boston. She will be commanded by Captain Charles E. Risley of Pleasantville, N. H. Her gross tonnage is 2,190. Work has already begun on the fourth schooner built by Mr. Welt for Mr. Palmer, which will be named the Dorothy Palmer. This vessel will be the largest of the Palmer fleet and the biggest five masted schooner in the world.

Alger Announces His Candidacy.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 21.—General Russell A. Alger, former secretary of war, has issued a statement announcing himself a receptive candidate for the United States senate from Michigan to succeed the late James McMillan. He says that, while he will not seek election as Senator McMillan's successor, he will accept the office if the people of the state through the legislature see fit to elect him to it.

Cuban Loan Abandoned.

HAVANA, Aug. 21.—It is doubtful if any attempt will at present be made to float the proposed loan of $35,000,000. President Palma and his cabinet are strongly opposed to the revolutionary element which has been clamoring for the payment of the Cuban army and which saw in this loan the only means to bring this payment about.

Transport Sails From Manila.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The war department is advised of the sailing of the transport Kilpatrick from Manila for San Francisco, with 518 casuals.

THE GAME AT SARATOGA.

Over Two Millions a Day Handled In the Ring.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Few persons realize just what a stout racing game it is on the metropolitan circuit in this year of grace. So far this season the Saratoga Association For the Improvement of the Breed of Horses has earned on an average $55,000 a week.

This represents enormous receipts from the Western Union Telegraph company for room service throughout the United States, the daily fees of the layers in the ring and the admission moneys after running expenses are deducted. On next Saturday the wheels of the Saratoga racing mill will have ground out $258,000, $8,000 more than the amount required to wipe off the indebtedness incurred in the creation of the new Saratoga. On a big stake day or a pleasant Saturday afternoon an average of $18,000 flows into the coffers presided over by Treasurer Andrew Miller.

No better illustration of the magnitude of the game here is available than Joe Ullman's statement of his daily operations. Ullman is one of the very first line of layers. He handles over $125,000 a day, winning or losing on an average $25,000. In the entire ring over $2,500,000 is generally handled. With clear racing days during the final week the association will clear up about $60,000 and have a surplus after paying its debt and a 5 per cent dividend to stockholders.

BIG COLLIERY OPEN.

Warnke Washery Makes First Break In the Strike.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 21.—The coal operators of the Wyoming region have taken a step forward. The Warnke washery at Duryea, under a strong guard, was kept in operation all day, and the Maltby breaker of the Lehigh Valley Coal company prepared a lot of coal which had already been mined for the market.

At strike headquarters it is claimed that the output of coal at the washery was very small and that fifty or sixty special officers were required to protect the few men employed at the place. Nothing was known at strike headquarters about the Lehigh Valley Coal company running coal through their breaker. National Board Member John Fallon said that there was no change in the situation. He thinks that the strikers are as firm as ever. The strike leaders here believe that J. Pierpont Morgan will consent to a conference of some kind with President Mitchell and that the strike will be over by the 1st of September.

SHAH VISITS EDWARD.

Wales and Connaught Accompany Him to Portsmouth.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The shah of Persia has visited King Edward, who is staying on board his yacht in the Solent. The Persian monarch was accompanied by the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught. The speed of the train was regulated to suit the shah's preference for slow traveling, and the journey consequently took an hour longer than usual.

Railway men were stationed along the whole route as sentries, practically in sight of one another. The Victoria and Albert, with the king on board, steamed from Cowes Roads to Portsmouth to meet the shah.

The king received the shah on the dock at Portsmouth. A guard of 300 marines, seamen and fusileers was mounted, and a royal salute was fired from the forts. The shah went on board the Victoria and Albert, which was moored to the dock, and took luncheon with the king.

NAVAL WAR GAME.

Admiral Higginson Sails to Seek Hostile Fleet.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE ATTACK.

Every Important Point on New England's Coast Being Patrolled to Prevent the Entrance of Pillsbury's Squadron.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Aug. 21.—Most of the warships composing the coast defense squadron of Rear Admiral Higginson's fleet have steamed away from Rockport in search of the enemy's division, comprising the cruisers Prairie, Panther and Supply.

The battleship Kearsarge, Admiral Higginson's flagship, remained for a few hours after the others left and then sailed out to sea. It is supposed, however, that she will keep in close communication with Rockport, where the enemy's squadron may be sighted.

The departure of the squadron marked the beginning of the search problem arranged by the general board of the navy. This should not be conflicted with the war game, in which the army will also take part. The search problem is a purely naval affair, having for its object the prevention of a hostile squadron from escaping the home fleet and establishing a base of supplies and operations at some part of the New England coast. The hostile division is known as the white squadron and is commanded by Commander John S. Pillsbury. The defense division is commanded by Rear Admiral Higginson.

The cruiser Montgomery, the torpedo boat destroyer Decatur and the converted yachts Mayflower and Scorpion, all fast vessels, left the squadron at noon and steamed away to take positions off important ports which the enemy may attempt to enter. The Mayflower will go to Portland, Me., the Decatur to Portsmouth, N. H., the Scorpion off the entrance to Boston harbor and the Montgomery to the vicinity of Chatham.

The main body of the defense squadron, composed of the battleships Kearsarge, Alabama and Massachusetts, the armored cruiser Brooklyn, the cruiser Olympia, three tugs and seven torpedo boats, will cruise in the vicinity of Boston, Rockport and Provincetown, ready to steam for the enemy whenever he is discovered. Meanwhile officers have been sent to all the ports which are being guarded in order that information received by them may be transmitted to the fast vessels on patrol duty. The position of the main squadron is known to the commanders of the scouts, but to secure quicker communication the torpedo boats will keep an eye out for the scouts and rush back to the squadron with any news that they may secure.

The search problem is expected to last five days. During that time the Kearsarge will keep in communication with Rockport.

The white squadron was last reported at Provincetown.

Blackmailers Frighten a Millionaire

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 21.—A dispatch from Rochester, N. H., says that for several days past City Marshal Allen or some other trusty officer has been the constant companion of George E. Wallace, the multimillionaire of that city. Allen has accompanied him on all carriage and automobile drives and very recently moved into a house close to Mr. Wallace's. Common report about town declares that the cause of this guardianship is an anonymous letter received by Wallace demanding that $50,000 be deposited in a certain place or his life would be forfeited. Neither Allen nor Wallace will admit it.

Deaths In Philippine Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Between June 25 and July 10 seventy-two deaths occurred among the enlisted men of the division of the Philippines. Of the total number of deaths thirty-five were due to Asiatic cholera. The war department received this information from General Chaffee, at Manila, together with a list of those soldiers who had died. In addition to the thirty-five who died of cholera, seventeen died of dysentery, six of malarial fever and the remainder of various other diseases. Of those who died of cholera nine were Philippine scouts and natives.

The Fuel and Iron War.

DENVER, Aug. 21.—Judge Mullins of the district court has issued an ex parte injunction restraining the shareholders of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company from holding their annual election of officers. The injunction was applied for by George F. Bartlett, who is understood to be friendly to the Osgood management. This move came as a surprise to the Gates party and is supposed to have been made to forestall any action which they may have contemplated.

Big Copper Company Incorporated.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 21.—The New River Copper company of New York has been incorporated here, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. The company is authorized to carry on mining and milling of ores, metals, etc. The incorporators are E. C. M. Rand, New York; T. W. Pratt, Huntsville, Ala., and E. D. Housbrouck, Wilmington, Del.

Stabbed by Midnight Burglar.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Mary Scofield, a widow of Nyack, was awakened late at night by a man in her room, who demanded money. When told she had none, he stabbed her in the head and then gashed her throat. The woman's cries aroused her sister, and the man fled. Mrs. Scofield is seriously injured.

COMING EVENTS.

August 24—A. F. Irvine, of New Haven, an eloquent and fascinating speaker, at Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock.

FOOLISH PRACTICE.

In the enforced temporary retirement of Charles M. Schwab on account of a general breaking down physically there is an object lesson for the business and professional men of the day. Anxious to attain success, men in their fraility, apparently forget the laws of nature and wear themselves out by driving the mind and body on to an amount of work beyond the fixed limitations. The loss of sleep and meals is not taken into consideration until the system is weakened and then frequentyl artificial means are resorted to in order to bolster up a fagged out system. Finally the inevitable collapse comes and then only does the victim of his own foolish actions realize how utterly absurd has been his attempt to defeat nature. The weighty business cares of Charles M. Schwab have at last proved too much for him to bear, chiefly because he essayed to overreach human limitations. There are countless others of less importance endeavoring to defeat nature in the same way, most of them having an insane idea that they constitute an exception to the rule, but unfortunately the awakening does not come until they are wrecked mentally and physically. It may be human nature to try to thwart the laws of nature, but isn't the idea idiotic?

An exchange says: "The need of persistence in advertising is obvious. Apart from the fact that the constant appearance of the advertising of an establishment impresses even those who do not read advertisements as a rule, there is too much push in the world today for the public to retain a memory of those who have ceased to appeal to it. Somebody will advertise steadily and will win the trade of those dealers who do not."

"Prophet" Jones' tidal wave did not materialize to swallow up Atlantic City, but the gullibility of some superstitious people at that resort certainly produced at least a ripple of laughter throughout the country.

Rumor has it that there is a movement on foot to consolidate all soap manufacturing concerns, and start business with $10,000,000 capital. Can this be a soap bubble?

—Street Commissioner Gavett is doing repair work along West Fourth street. In places the street needs considerable attention.

—The increasing patronage at Dr. J. H. Cooley's baths, on Somerset street, is very gratifying. The lovers of this kind of bath have learned that they are the equal of those given in New York, besides less trouble than a trip to the city.

It is not yet too late to invest in some fine summer furniture for your home. Powlison & Jones have a large line of porch chairs, cane couches and many other things.

For a delicious grape juice—that most popular of summer drinks—go to T. S. Armstrong's, corner of North and Park avenues, where you get the beverage at its best.

Bicycles are repaired and stored at VanWinkle's, North avenue. If you want to buy a new wheel at a price that will not break you VanWinkle can accommodate you.

The fact that Fowler's ice cream has been sold in ever increasing quantities during the present cool weather, is a guarantee of its popularity. It is delicious at all times of the year.

If you buy wallpapers or paints from the New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue, yet get your goods direct and thereby save money. Estimates will be cheerfully given on all work.

Bonn, the West Front street milliner, is always up-to-date. He carries goods that are seasonable. Just now he is advertising soft felt hats, in many colors, which are all the rage. He also has a select line of shirt waists, all at reasonable prices.

When you buy a new suit of clothes, you want to look natty and feel comfortable, as well as get wear out of the cloth. All of these requisites are included in the splendid line of clothes on sale at Harry Werner's. He keeps a complete line of gentlemen's furnishings.

The sale of a manufacturer's stock of women's skirts at the Paris Cloak Store, 322 West Front street, is a bargain event of the season. Some are rainy daisies, others are longer. The best material and trimmings are used in these goods. The prices are these skirts will suit every pocketbook.

—The work of resetting the cobble stones in the gutters on North avenue is progressing rapidly. When this is completed the avenue will be macadamized in first class manner.

about 100 maps. A few are engraved and some are drawn in ink on parchment. But most of the old and very valuable ones are rough ink drawings on ordinary paper. The latter are much more badly off from wear than the others. Several of those that have fallen apart by the creases wearing through have been pasted on linen. In some cases this must have been done a long while ago, for the cloth is yellow with age. One of the oldest maps is an ink sketch of the lands of Governor Barclay and Dockwra on the Passaic river and Third Mountain. It was made by John Read, being in lead pencil has name and the date 1688. There is an engraved map of the plan of battle fought near Camden on August 16, 1780. It was published in London in 1787. Several other maps of Revolutionary battle are in the portfolio. Then there is a very interesting map of Newark in 1806. It was drawn by Charles Basham, of Newark Academy, and engraved by A. Anderson.

There is little chance of any of these old documents and maps being treated with the Emery process for a number of years to come. The Historical Society is under a large additional expense in maintaining its present commodious quarters, into which it moved from three comparatively small rooms on Broad street about fifteen months ago. There is no money to spend on the Emery process, and no steps can be taken toward the preservation of the documents and maps, or a few of the more valuable ones among them unless the necessary funds are especially contributed for that purpose.

The process is expensive. The State of Massachusetts spent a large sum of money in having it applied to some of its ancient documents. Many of these could not be deciphered except by experts before they underwent the Emery method, but after the various pieces were put together and pressed out under the silk they were perfectly legible.

There was an appropriation by the New Jersey Legislature in 1900 of $600 and another in 1901 of $1,000 to be expended on the process. Fifteen books belonging to the State were repaired by it, when the appropriations were exhausted. This made an average cost of $106.66 per book, of over fifty cents per page. The process is a secret one. The Emery company sent its men from Taunton down to Trenton, where the men allowed no one to watch them do the work.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Inspector Doane Signs Applications for the Privilege to Erect New Dwellings.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to A. L. C. Marsh, architect, on behalf of J. K. Myers for extensive alterations and improvements to his residence on the corner of East Seventh and Sycamore streets. The Phillips Manufacturing Company will do the carpenter work and B. F. Tallamy the masonry.

G. H. Squires has filed plans for the erection of a dwelling, two stories and attic, at the corner of Eighth street and Arlington avenues. The building will be 40 feet front by 31 feet deep. Squires & Wychkoff are the architects and John Abbott, the contractor.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

A real estate man from a nearby city, was seen reconnoitering about the borough, yesterday. When queried as to his mission he appeared somewhat reticent but hinted that he was considering the erection of a number of houses in Dunellen. The fact that the Pederick-Ayers factory is being erected within the shadow of the borough and that hundreds of workmen who will be employed will need cottages is regarded as the incentive for his visit. The local Board of Trade is also of the opinion that Dunellen will experience a building boom as the result of the new industry about to locate at Clinton avenue.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle will return home from Mount Tabor, Saturday, and it is possible he will be in the pulpit of the Methodist church for both of Sunday's services. In the event of his wishing to leave the evening service to someone else, Rev. George Angleman, of Piermont, N. Y., will preach. The latter was in the borough, yesterday, calling on friends.

The members of the Methodist church are working quietly but surely to raise the amount of the mortgage which overhangs their structure. Assistance has been lent from many sources and the result has been most gratifying. It is practically assured that the entire sum will be subscribed or made before April and the mortgage burning willl take place at that time.

Riverside Park, the pleasure resort on the Raritan near New Brunswick, is becoming popular with the borough young people. Nearly every pleasant evening a party or two makes the trip by trolley and on several occasions several have made afternoon trips.

George and Harry Vliet left today for New York where they will spend two weeks with relatives. Their sister, Miss Hattie Vliet, left today for Bloomsbury where she will remain a similar period.

F. H. Gise is well under way with the mason work for J. H. L. Peters' new house on Dunellen avenue. He expects to complete it this week.

Mrs. Jane Moorehouse, of Montclair, and Mrs. George Moorehose, of Westfield, are guests of Mrs. George Churchill.

Mrs. Annie Abbot and son Percy, will leave tomorrow for Ocean Grove, where they will spend the next two weeks.

Mrs. W. J. Hamilton and chilrden, and her mother, Mrs. Stryker, have gone to Scranton for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Jane Randolph and her sister have returned home from Jersey City after a pleasant two weeks' stay.

Mrs. James Martin, of Somerville, has been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sutphen, of Somerville.

The Misses Lillian and Florence Jones, of Bedminster, are guests of Miss Rita Brokaw.

Miss Annie Fenner, of Brooklyn, is a guest at the home of Mrs. Harry Swackhamer.

A letter remains uncalled for at the postoffice addressed to Willie Boyle.

Walter Clawson has been on the sick list for the past three days.

NEW MARKET.

At her home in the village and afterward at the Stelton Baptist church, funeral services were held yesterday, over the remains of Mrs. Theressa Runyon. Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton, was in charge. Following the obsequies the remains were interred in the cemetery at Stelton.

Mrs. C. T. Rogers will return home today from Whitney's Point, N. Y., where she has been visiting Assemblyman and Mrs. Allen.

Jesse Pierman, of Pottstown, Pa., will return home tomorrow after a two weeks' stay in town.

Frank Sutherland, of New York, is spending two weeks in town with relatives.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The local baseball team will cross bats, Saturday afternoon, with the strong Sidneys, of Brooklyn. The visiting team needs no further recommendation than to say that Brogan, Ashcraft and Crusius, who are putting up such a star game for the locals, are fomer members of the team. The game on Saturday will be the twentieth game the team has played this season, meeting nearly all the crack teams through this section and taking into camp a number of the best around New York. The record to date is eighteen victories and two defeats.

Several of the admirers of the baseball team have presented a handsome buzzea to the team which will float to the breezes for the first time Saturday afternoon. The body of pretty gift is a rich scarlet with the initials of the club worked in silk across it. The gift is a very pretty one and the team will no doubt show their appreciation of it by defeating the Sidneys, who will be the visiting team Saturday.

Rev. G. M. Shott, of the Baptist church, will occupy the pulpit at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Plainfield, on Saturday.

Mrs. John R. Marsh, accompanied by her nephew, Thomas Collard, of Newark, are spending a week at Greenwood Lake.

Miss Ada Buckley, of Plainfield, has been spending several days with her grandmother, Mrs. James Buckley, of Stout avenue.

A number of the lovers of baseball attended the Deaf Mutes-All-Plainfiled game on Hope Common Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Edith Gere, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Thos. M. Paff, Jr., has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marsh and family left yesterday for Saratoga where they will spend several weeks.

August Scheelen, of Scheelen Bros., Fanwood, is spending a week with the cooling breezes at Atlantic City.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold their semi-monthly meeting in their rooms tonight at 8 o'clock.

The contract case of Storr against Ryno will be held in Judge Clark's court this afternoon.

Mrs. Wm. S. Terry, of Plainfield, spent Wednesday with relatives and friends in town.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

Falling Ladder Breaks Somerville Woman's Arm.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 21—Mrs. S. W. Salling had the misfortune to break her arm Monday evening in a very peculiar way. She was at the Clickner farm at Finderne and while one of her friends was up in an apple tree she steadied the ladder, which was an extension one. The upper section of the ladder suddenly dropped, striking Mrs. Salling on the arm with such force as to break it below the elbow. Mrs. Salling was taken to Somerset Hospital, where the injured member was set.

Baptized in St. Mary's.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Lynch, of Orchard place, was christened in St. Mary's church, Sunday, by Rev. M. J. Farley. The sponsors were Miss Marie Spane, of New York, and Andrew F. McKeon, of this city.

GOV. MURPHY ON REFORM

TALKS OF THE CHANGES NEEDED IN PRIMARY ELECTION LAWS.

After Commission Reports Public Meetings Are to be Held to Ascertain Sentiment.

In political circles much interest is being taken in the propositions to bring about reforms in primary elections. The commission delegated to investigate the subject is at work but little is known of the course being pursued.

Governor Murphy is especially evasive on the subject desiring no doubt to wait until the report is presented. In speaking of the subject the other day Governor Murphy said:

"There is no doubt in my mind that a bill of that kind is needed. We need a reform will which will effect equally all parts of the State. I have made several suggestions to the commission and I think the result of their work will be entirely satisfactory.

"Many attempts at reform have been signal failures, and I think the reason has often been that the aim has been too high. The commission of the primary laws now operative in other states, together with practical opinions as to their effects, and in what manner they might be improved. After this is done, a series of public meetings will be held, probably in Newark, Trenton and Camden for the expression of the opinions of both the political parties.

"The rule now in force in Essex county, by which the polls for primaries are open from early in the afternoon until late at night, seems to have a good effect. It is probable this requirement will be embodied in the reform bill.

"As to the obliteration of the city convention which has been proposed, I hardly think the people of New Jersey are ready at the present time for such a radical change. I think the conventions are an incentive to campaign interest, and that any attempt to abolish them would prove equally unpopular with both parties. I hardly think this will be a feature of the reform bill."

Like a Launching.

The laying of the corner stone of Lafayette Rosenstiehl's new building on Somerset street yesterday was completed with ceremonies characteristic of the launching of a ship. When the stone had been placed, Mr. Rosenstiehl stood back and smashed a huge bottle of champagne over the block.

LESSON FOR OTHERS.

Bright Ideas of Plainfielder Enjoying Vacation Helps a Local Charitable Institution.

An effort worthy of emulation has just brought to the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, $28 being received to assist on carrying of this noble work. Miss Curry received the amount yesterday from George A. Chapman who, with his family, is spending the summer at Breadloaf Inn in Vermont. Mr. Chapman was telling some of his friends at the Inn of the work being done at the Home and they all became interested to such an extent that a collection for the enterprise was taken. The sum of $28 was received and forwarded by Mr. Chapman. The gift is greatly appreciated by those at the Home.

POST GUARANTEE.

Those Intending to Enjoy Hope Y. M. A. Camp Must Make a Deposit Now.

At a regular meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., held Tuesday evening, twenty-five names were appended to the list of those who are to accompany the association on its camping trip to Lake Hopatcong, next month. It was also decided to make certain of the exact number who are to go and for that reason all who have signed have been requested to post half the expense as a guarantee. The treasurer, Thomas Muir, or any of the following committee will receive the money, William N. Runyon, George E. Firstbrook and John H. Cose.

J. N. IRVING DEAD.

Brother of Mrs. William L. Smalley, Sr., Passes Away.

J. N. Irving, of Cranford, well-known in Plainfield, died at his home yesterday morning from heart trouble. Mr. Irving was seventy years of age. He had lived in this section of New Jersey all his life, having been born at Liberty Corner. In Cranford, where he was a deacon of the Presbyterian church, his death will be a distinct loss to the community.

Mrs. William L. Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, is a sister of the deceased. A brother, J. S. Irving, of Westfield, is now on his way home from the west to attend the funeral.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 24. "Freedom For Service"—Text, II Tim. ii, 4; Gal. v, 1; Heb. xii, 1, 2.

It is a matter of common remark that many Christians do not live up to their duty. They neither enjoy nor increase in efficiency nor do much of any distinctively Christian work. The unconverted see little difference between themselves and such Christians and have little respect for such piety or attraction toward it.

The difficulty is that these Christians are in bondage. They may be unwilling to acknowledge the fact, but, however it may be disguised, it is still true that they lack freedom in God's service.

This has been one of the difficulties which the followers of Christ have met from the first and probably will meet until the end. It is not an easy task to give the life completely up to the service of God. Many prefer to serve in the militia rather than in the regular army. There is an attractiveness in volunteer service, a sense of independence which does not attach to the other. Some chafe under the sense of pledged responsibility and feel a constraint in being held closely to duty. They wish to be free, as they express it. The root of the trouble lies in the lack of the early discipline of obedience and self control. Instead of getting a real freedom, they are always chafing under restraint and never settle their shoulders into the yoke to pull the load.

Freedom for service comes first from a willing mind determined to fulfill all needful conditions and to compel success. It is willing to work hard if by such effort the results can be reached. It wants to be a good soldier. So it enlists and settles down to study military science and to practice the soldierly arts. It is not content with playing soldier and an occasional drill in the evening after the day's work is done and one week's encampment a year with home comforts. The one who really wishes to be a soldier of Jesus Christ is ready to lay aside the worldly lusts and entanglements and settle down to serious work.

Indolence is one of the most serious hindrances to all progress. No one gets ability to speak or pray without effort if the speaking and praying really amount to anything. Knowledge of the nature of the Christian life does not come spontaneously to any one. Some never master it because they will not apply themselves. The practice of the virtues of Christian speech and Christian activity is less common than it should be because of the dislike to get down to earnest application. It is hard routine to drill the lips to speak the truth and only kind words. It is irksome to many to cut off the questionable and frivolous reading, amusements and companionship. It is so much easier to drift down stream than to row against the current that many drift, but that is not freedom, nor is it permanently enjoyable.

Our enjoyment and sense of worthiness can be satisfied only as we put forth our best powers. Freedom is in the full exercise of all faculties. In the full swing of power comes keen joy. In time of battle we get results for all the long drill and are satisfied as we win.

How God Helps Us.

"God is my helper" is a truth as old as the Bible and confirmed by myriads of human experiences. But it is important for us to know how our loving Father helps us, for we may expect things that He never grants and lose things that He offers to give us. There are a right way and a wrong way of looking at God's dealings; the one sets us to murmuring and complaining, the other gives us a wonderful uplift. If we looked at God as always wise and always loving and always holy, we should know, in the first place, that He often helps us by a sharp discipline that tries us most terribly. It helps the grass on my lawn in summer to put the mower over it, and it helps my grapevines to apply the pruning knife. As head winds make a steamer's fires burn more briskly under the boilers, so adversity often drives a true Christian ahead in his spiritual life. Everything that makes you and me purer, humbler, braver, stronger or holier is a mighty help, and if we keep the eye of faith open we shall see a loving God behind the pruning knife and behind the furnace of affliction.—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler in Evangelist.

Vacant Churches.

We have a distressing way of talking about "vacant" pulpits and "vacant" churches. It is an unfortunate part of our overemphasis of the place of a minister in our various systems of church polity. It is of a piece with the talk about "Dr. Blank's church." A church is not vacant until the Holy Spirit has left it. As long as through humble hearts there is evidence of the divine indwelling a church is great and rich. A log cabin with a simple hearted layman's prayer and exposition of the word of God may rise to the dignity and glory of a temple, while a gorgeous architectural pile with a superb organ and an intellectually gifted preacher may be "vacant" indeed.—Congregationalist.

The Big Rewards of Life.

The man who sees in life the opportunity to express himself in the largest terms, who after ascertaining what faculties he has determines to develop them to the highest possible efficiency, who is capable of seeing the sweetness and joy that lie all about him, who, being proud, does not allow his body or mind to be defiled—he is the one who obtains the big rewards, the big successes.—Oppenheim, "Mental Growth and Control."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 24—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Freedom for service.—II Tim. ii, 4; Gal. v, 1; Heb. xii, 1, 2.

God says us not altogether for the sake of saving us, but also that our lives may be consecrated to Him. We are saved to serve. In the twelfth chapter of Romans Paul says, "I beseech you, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." That this consecration and this service may be performed to the fullest extent it is absolutely necessary that we should be free and untrammeled in our service. That freedom for service is necessary Paul suggests to Timothy by the illustration of the soldier. "No man that warreth and tangleth himself with the affairs of life that he may please Him hath chosen him to be a soldier." No soldier can be entangled with other affairs in life. He must give himself up entirely to the service; he must be free from worldly cares and avocations or it will be absolutely impossible for him to produce the best results as a soldier. The same thing is true of the Christian soldier. To be a good soldier of Jesus Christ we must have freedom for service.

We must be free from affairs of this life. There is nothing that so much interferes with active Christian service as unnecessary association with the things of this world. A spirit of worldliness crushes out a spirit of consecration and service. An unwise indulgence even in the harmless things of life seriously interferes with the faithful performance of our obligations and our duties to God. Unnecessary worries about the cares and the business pursuits of life deprive us of the power to serve God as we ought to serve Him. While in the world we are not to be of the world to the extent that our relations with the world interfere with the performance of our duties to God.

2. We should be free from false conceptions of the law. "Stand fast, therefore, in the liberties wherewith Christ hath made us free and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." The yoke of bondage here referred to was the bondage of the law. It was the conception of the ancient people of God that they were to be saved by the observance of the law. The result was that they became slaves to the law. It usurped the place in their lives that Christ should have had, and it was impossible under these conditions for them to render the cheerful and whole hearted service to God that was His due. The lives of many Christian people have been made miserable and they have been made incompetent for service by a false attitude toward the law. The early religious experiences of Martin Luther were of such a character. He was taught to look upon God as a severe judge ready to punish and to destroy him for the breaking of His law. He had no idea of God as a kind and loving Father or a realization of the fact that Christ had kept the law for him and had paid the penalty for it on the cross. The result was that his life was miserable and he was unfitted for the best and truest service. It was only when the scales fell from his eyes and he lived in the liberty wherewith Christ made him free that he was enabled to perform great service to God. Christians are not above the law; they are not immune from the penalties of the law, and yet in Christ they possess a freedom from it that should inspire them to better lives and should give them greater liberty for effective and whole hearted service.

3. Freedom from besetting sins. "Let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith." All sins have not the same attractive power for all people. What tempts one man may have no temptation for another. In each one of our lives are besetting sins or sins that easily intwine themselves about us. The apostle here likens the form of such sins to the flowing robe of the Grecian athlete. We can easily understand how the runner would be hindered in the race if he had about him the loose, flowing garment of the Greek. It would wrap itself so closely about him as to hinder his every movement. Such is the result of besetting sins in the life of service. If they are allowed to have power and influence with us, they hinder us and destroy our powers for effective service. That we may be free to serve it is therefore important that we should lay aside all cares and all besetting sins and that we should look to Christ for the power to overcome besetting sins and to continue in the life of faithfulness and of patient service.

The Main Battlefield.

The main battlefield is the one which moves about with us, go where we will—ourselves. So dingy and inglorious oftentimes that we would like to flee it altogether and lose ourselves in some great campaign which should keep us from ever being reminded of it again! Great things have sometimes been done by men who never won the battle of their own natures, but they are the standing incongruity and puzzle of the moral world. When the thing we want to do has outrun the thing we want to be, our thought about life has ceased to be real and moral and essential, and God and men will forgive us all the delay that is necessary in order for us to go back into that battlefield of our own souls.—Sunday School Times.

The Test.

The test of a fine character is attention to the minutiæ of conduct—to do the little commonplace service of love, the cheerful word, the cup of cold water, when rendered not grudgingly or of necessity.—Friend.

HOW MEXICANS LIVE.

Secular Customs Noted by Visitors from the States.

Light Breakfast Taken by Inhabitants of Our Sister Republic—Food of the Working People Is Very Plain.

The Mexican breakfast, like that of the French, consists only of bread and coffee. Lunch and dinner, or dinner and supper, as they are called, differ but slightly. Dinner is served usually about 2 o'clock. It begins with soup and eggs, and then follow a number of meats, each served as a separate course, with an entire change of service every time. The meats are eaten quite alone, few vegetables being served in addition to the salad course, and such as are used for garnishment. The dessert courses at a Mexican table differ even more radically from those served on American tables. Home-made pies, cakes and puddings are practically unknown.

The Mexican housewife, says Modern Mexico, pays comparatively little attention to the kitchen, and rarely cooks anything herself. If pastry is desired, it is purchased at the dulceria. Nothing is baked in a Mexican house, even the bread being universally bought from bakers. Mexican cooks do not, as a rule, understand pastry making, and their sweets are limited to stewed fruits, usually cooked to the consistency of the richest and sweetest preserves, so that a very small portion is satisfying.

Business hours in Mexico begin in the afternoon at 2:30 or 3 o'clock, and run until 7 or 8 in the evening, so that the supper hour falls anywhere from 8:30 to an hour later. This is probably one reason that Mexicans are not more given to evening entertainments. Attendance upon the theater entails the necessity of an unusually early supper, or else in postponement until after the performance, a thing that often occurs. On the other hand, a leisurely supper of an hour or more, beginning at

CURBSTONE DEALER.
(A Sight That Meets One's Eyes in Every Mexican Village.)

9 o'clock, brings the close pretty close to bedtime.

The Mexican day laborer swallows a bowl of coffee at a street stand, on his way to work if he is fortunate enough to pass one, and has the price, but usually he begins his daily toil upon an empty stomach. About 9 o'clock his faithful spouse, or some member of his family, and, not infrequently, all of them, mother and children, come trudging to the scene of labor with a basket containing a pitcher of soupy brown beans, tortillas (corn cakes that form the staff of life among the lower classes), some rice and possibly some bits of meat that are minced in a tortilla, which, in addition to serving often as both bread and meat, is also knife and fork and spoon. Bits are torn off, and by deftly curling it into semi-circular form and doubling the end it is used as an effective scoop for even liquid food.

A jug or pulque, the fermented juice of the maguey or century plant, that is the universal beverage among the masses on the tableland, is also a usual accompaniment of this meal. The Mexican laborer does not have a midday rest, but works until about 3 o'clock, when the morning repast is repeated without variation as to bill of fare. He begins his toil at daybreak, and is expected to work till dark, with little regard to a clock. On his way home he stops at a pulqueria to have all the drinks he can afford, and arrived at his home he may find something more to eat and he may not. It seems to make little difference to him.

The Mexican peon can eat more, or get along on less, than almost any other laborer on earth. In the southern part of the country, where the mountain Indians are at times drafted for work in the lower country, these men bring with them a ball of heavy cornmeal paste, about the size of their heads, slung about their necks with a string. When hungry they break off a piece of this and mix it up in a cup of water, and upon this single ration they will subsist for an entire week.

Steel Stronger Than Stone.

An experiment, with a view to ascertain the relative resistance, under pressure, of the hardest steel and the hardest stone, was recently made at Vienna. Small cubes, measuring 1cm., of corundum and the finest steel were subjected to the test. The corundum broke under the weight of six tons, but the steel resisted up to 8 tons.

THE ATTRACTIVE VEIL.

Fashion's Arbiters Have Decreed That It Shall Again Be Worn.

If women would only realize that a floating veil falling lightly in the back is exceedingly becoming to all and at all times, no costume would be considered complete without one, by day in the street and at home both day and evening. All regal costumes for queens have the floating veil of tulle or lace, and women in general are perfectly free to wear it, but somehow it has been many years since even the drapery has been seen at the back of the hats. How pretty and graceful this is and how becoming it is we are now allowed to know for the first time in two generations by that tyrant of tyrants—fashion.

Veils of all sorts of filmy stuff are tied around the crowns of the hats and left to float at the back, and not only that, but there are special arrangements of light fabrics set at the back of the hats and allowed to fall at will over the back hair. This is a boon in that it hides the frouziness of the average back hair, and it is also pretty—more than pretty. It is particularly summerlike, but from signs of the coming fall season we can foresee that the style is not to disappear into that mysterious receptacle for outlived fashions, for black velvet ribbon and other ribbon as well as beautiful barbes of real lace will take the place of the present diaphanous materials. It is the drooping of the trimming at the back in veil fashion that is so attractive that one wonders how it happened that no one thought of reviving it before. The floating veil goes so well with the Dolly Varden and Eugenie hats, with their drooping brims, and both are so poetic that it is not surprising that the summer girls have grown more beautiful than ever.

With a soft and delicately colored pongee shirt waist suit the very acme of summer comfort and beauty has been attained. Pongee itself has been found wanting in nothing that is necessary for an ideal summer gown, for now that desirable silk is produced in so many new and attractive designs and shades of color that it leaves little to be desired. It is firm yet pliable, strong yet soft, and its draping qualities are perfect. For some occult reason it takes any kind of trimming with excellent effect. Lace particularly shows up well. And a pongee dress can be cleansed indefinitely and come out like new every time.

In the illustration is shown a pongee dress of the kind called "shirt waist suits," and really nothing could be much prettier. This is in a soft beige shade with cardinal dots rather oblong than round. The waist and skirt are shaped by underlaid box plaits and these "run out" so as to afford the necessary fullness for the flare around the bottom and at the lower part of the waist. The sleeves are made in the same manner, with the full portion below the elbows where they are gathered into deep cuffs. The cuffs, stock and belt are all made of or trimmed with black velvet ribbon, and a row of this is also put upon the hat "to bring it out," as the milliners say.

It is surprising how much a little black velvet does brighten or at least accentuate anything on which it is applied. I do not think it will ever again be relegated to oblivion. For many years black velvet ribbon was not even remembered, but now that it has proved its value it will become one of the factors like lace, and so long as women now understand things better than they used to it will remain a standard.

The new hats are now being copied in such quantities that one can form a fair idea of what is to be worn this fall. I see many of the wide and irregular brims, produced in the loveliest, soft, silky felt, which is almost as delicate as the fluff of the milkweed and softer and more beautiful than thistledown. Such hats so far are remarkable principally for the scarcity of trimming. "Something rich and fine, but very little of it," seems to be the rule. Foliage is so beautiful and imitates nature so closely that it is sufficient in itself, and some of it is so made that it seems to have the very frost showing on the superb and gorgeous autumn colorings. For instance, there was a bunch of autumn leaves in all their colors ranging from pale yellow through all the russet reds and brown with an underlying tint of green to deep purple and all these leaves softened by this frosty overbloom.

Stairs of Sand

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

"You are an ass!" exclaimed his brother, sententiously, turning with a scowl, as if he resented his companion's ill-timed hilarity. The other came over to him and looked at him in wonder. He was much younger than his brother, and good looking in a reckless way. In his smart clothes and smooth-shaven cheeks, it would have been hard to recognize him as the wild and ragged being who a few days before had claimed his brother's hospitality at Exton.

"What's the matter, Jimmy?" he asked, fumbling the paper in his hands nervously.

"Matter enough!" growled the elder. "The rogue fooled us with a copy, and that is what you are now holding in your hand. He had evidently made arrangements to fool us."

"The deuce!" and the brother unrolled the document and examined it carefully. "Bless me if you ain't right!" and then, tearing it up with a gesture of rage, tossed the pieces in the grate. This done, he dropped down sullenly into a chair near his brother, and for some minutes neither of the men said a word. Finally James Ellison rose, and, coming over to where his brother was seated, said in an earnest voice:

"I tell you what it is, Frank; this fellow annoys me, and I wish you would take steps to relieve me of such an incubus—that is, I mean to get possession of that paper. I don't want him harmed, you know."

"He is a cunning rogue, whoever he is," replied the other, thoughtfully.

"Cunning; of course he is, and for that reason I am interested in clipping his claws. Actually, I have not enjoyed a good night's sleep since he appeared. I thought, when Briggs arrived with the interesting news that he was an escaped convict, that I had him sure. From the way he acted, I am convinced that Briggs simply concocted the story in order to have something to show, since he blundered when I set him to watch the man."

"That may have been mere bravado."

"Well, if that is true, he is the best actor I ever saw, or the cuningest rogue. Now, you have had experience with such people—"

Frank Ellison adjusted a gold monocle and stared at his brother with well-affected astonishment.

"Really, my dear boy, I am at a loss to know what you mean by such vulgar insinuations."

James Ellison knocked over a vase on the table as he made an angry gesture. "Don't provoke me—you are not performing—just remember your audience, if you please. Now, I never bothered my head about the people you consorted with."

His brother arose and said, with a sneer:

"Are you trying to show me how much more respectable you are than I? Well, we both started out in life to gain a living by our wits. You were lucky enough to marry an heiress, while I was forced to live as I could, brought up to no trade or profession, with a good education and a taste for a luxurious life, and no means to gratify it."

"There, there," said James soothingly. "I had no intention of hurting your feelings, but I simply stated the case that I wanted you to do what you could to get possession of this paper. Don't you see that this impudent scoundrel holds me fast?"

"But suppose he is the escaped convict?"

"Bah! I believe that is all moonshine, invented by that smug rascal, Briggs. I don't put any faith in what he may say in the future."

"Well, what do you want me to do?"

"I want you to find out, if you can, who this fellow really is. If it is true, as Briggs says, that he is that celebrated criminal, you can get some of your (he was going to say 'friends,' but hesitated) police friends to identify him. For the fellow seems careless and moves around in broad daylight as if he had nothing to fear."

"And what do I get out of this?" asked Frank, as he eyed his brother keenly.

"Get out of it?"

"Yes."

"Why, anything you want," replied James Ellison.

"That's rather a broad statement, isn't it?" and Frank laughed.

"No, it is not. I don't want this matter hanging over me, and I would give half what I own to be rid of the incubus."

"Indeed?" skeptically.

"Oh, I mean what I say. Come, now, Frank, don't act in an absurd manner—you know that you are under obligations to me."

"That is a poor way to begin when you want a man to do you a signal favor."

"Well, I thought that you perhaps needed touching up a bit on the subject."

"I know exactly who my creditors are and whom I owe," grumbled Frank, for the references to his obligations seemed to stir him up and fill him with a muntinous spirit.

"It isn't money I want," he said at length, with long-drawn emphasis. "I want you to stop protecting this young man, Barnett. Why on earth do you want to mix in on that affair, anyway?"

It was James Ellison's turn to be surprised.

"I don't exactly understand you," and he watched his brother, as if wondering what he should hear next.

"I believe I talk plainly enough," and Frank lit a cigarette and blew a smoke ring in the air, watching it fade into nothingness with a dreamy expression, as if in deep thought.

"Well, it is an enigma to me," replied James Ellison. "Why shouldn't I do what I can to help a young man whom I have protected, and who certainly is not guilty of the crime they accuse him of?"

"If I were as impolite as you, I should address the same remark to you as you applied to me but a moment ago," replied Frank, with a drawl. "If you want me to do what you have directed—to find this fellow who calls himself Hendricks, to get possession of the document of adoption—I have but this to say: I will do it on one condition."

"And that is?"

"That you leave matters as they are, and don't attempt to interfere with the course of the law."

James Ellison leaned over the table and eyed his brother for a moment anxiously.

"What on earth are you trying to get through your head, I should like to know."

Frank Ellison shook the ashes of his cigarette, and responded, with a smile:

"I believe you are the thick-headed one in this instance. I say that you must stop your interference in this affair. I acknowledge that, as the bereaved husband, you are anxious to protect the accused, and to find the real—er—er—unfortunate who secured you the fortune."

James Ellison laid his hand on his brother's shoulder, and the look on his face was far from pleasant as he said:

"You know that I had nothing to do with that."

A FRIEND'S ADVICE.

Will Often Help You Greatly—Read What a Plainfield Citizen Says.

You may hesitate to listen to the advice of strangers but the testimony of friends or residents of Plainfield is worth your most careful attention. It is an easy matter to investigate such proof as this. Then the evidence must be conclusive. Read the following:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame and weak back and I never found anything which gave me any relief until I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store and began to use them according to directions. It was only a short time before I felt the good effects and from that time on I improved steadily under the treatment. My back pained me and was so weak and sore that I dreaded to bend and when I had a cold or over-exerted myself I suffered severely. I used several different kidney remedies, but got little if any relief. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for my improvement. I think they are a fine medicine for a lame back."

SIR LIANG CHEN TUNG.

New Chinese Minister Attended Phillips Andover Academy and Yale University.

Sir Liang Chen Tung, just appointed Chinese minister at Washington, has a peculiar affection for the United States in that he was one of the first detachment of Chinese boys of high caste to be sent to America for education. Early in the seventies he was placed for study in an Amherst (Mass.) family, and later attended the Phillips Andover academy, remaining there from 1878 to 1881. He conceived the highest regard for Dr. Bancroft, the then principal, and has taken occasion many times since to manifest it.

He is a Yale graduate, and a man whose ability and integrity are undoubted. As interpreter at the Chinese embassy during the incumbency of Mr. Chang some years ago he became very popular in cabinet circles. His diplomatic accomplishment has been conceded by the various special appointments he has filled. On a mission to Japan, and later to London, on the occasion of the queen's jubilee, and as one of the party sent to Germany as apologists for the murder of Baron von Ketteler, he has served his country. His latest position has been that of the coronation embassy in London. His work at the jubilee secured his knighthood.

SIR LIANG CHEN TUNG.
(Just Appointed Minister from China to the United States.)

As to the United States' relations with China, Sir Liang Chen Tung said recently in Paris:

"You can assert emphatically that not only the Chinese government, but the people of China, are most grateful for the United States' fair dealing and for the friendly disposition shown throughout the recent difficulties, and her late action in the Tientsin question has still further increased China's gratitude. The United States will certainly receive as good treatment as any power in the commercial and industrial development of the Chinese empire.

"This mission returns to Peking by way of the United States. I shall accompany the mission to Peking, returning to Washington at the end of December or the beginning of 1903. I am going first to my home in Canton, in order to take my two boys to the United States with me, as I desire them to receive an American education, which has been such a great benefit to myself.

I return to Washington, with the greatest pleasure. I had many friends there, and college mates who are now prominent men, and had a friendship of several years' standing with Secretary Hay, whom I warmly liked."

CONGRESSMAN CANNON.

He Is Now Recognized by House Members as the "Watchdog of the Treasury."

Congressman Joseph G. Cannon, who has suddenly sprung into prominence as the successor of the late Congressman Holman, of Indiana, as the "watchdog of the treasury," is one of the most picturesque members of the present congress, and has always been a power in the house during the 14 terms he has represented his constituency back in Illinois. Mr. Cannon's recent outburst against the extravagance of congress is deserving of a record in history. It is not generally known that this sturdy republican oak, of Danville, Ill., is a southerner by birth, but such is the fact. He first saw the light in Guilford, N. C. He went to Illinois as a lad, and at 25 was attorney general of the state. Mr. Cannon has made a lasting impression by his recent plea for conservatism in national expenditures.

HON. JOSEPH G. CANNON.
(Illinois Congressman Known as Watchdog of the Treasury.)

TOLD ABOUT LOVERS.

Story of a Girl Who Eloped in Stocking Feet.

Troubles, asserts a writer in the Cincinnati Tribune, seems to be the lot of a great many lovers. Surely no one would be so daring as to declare that all persons, whose hearts are not their own, are constantly beset by vexatious incidents, yet one needs only to look about to learn that love and bliss are not necessarily analogous. Some of the troubles of lovers—many of them, in fact—are only slight, but they knit the brow and produce worry, nevertheless, and that is why the world should, as a matter of common justice, love a lover.

An incident occurring recently in Charlotte, Tenn., goes to prove the assertion that love is not all roses. Robert Sutherland and Miss Lorena Foster wanted to get married, and, as is sometimes the case, the girl's parents objected. Naturally, this made no difference, for the modern couple is not disposed to waste time in securing the parental blessing. Sutherland and Miss Foster eloped in the middle of the night, and, as might be expected, they were in a great hurry when they left the Foster homestead. In her excitement the bride forgot her shoes—a foolish thing for her to do, but she did it—and when she and Sutherland presented themselves at the squire's office they decided it would be bad luck for the girl to be married in her stocking feet.

Here John Sutherland, a brother of the groom to be, stepped in and offered to return to the Foster home and recover the shoes. It was then five o'clock in the morning, but the young man summoned courage to his aid and set out for the Foster's. When he arrived there Monroe Foster, father of the bride, was wending his way out into his garden to kill a rabbit that had been destroying his cabbages. The venerable Mr. Foster carried a large double barreled shotgun slung across his shoulder, and as he walked along he was softly whistling: "I'se lookin' for dat bully, an' he must be foun'." John Sutherland, the hero, heard him. He also saw the big gun with its cavernous barrels. He was then within a few yards of the house, bent upon securing Miss Foster's shoes. It occurred to him that he might be mistaken for the bully, and without stopping to reason it out he faced about and established a new world's record for a 200 yards dash, with a leap over a six-foot tight board fence at the end of the course. But the wedding took place, even without the shoes, which goes to show that lovers absolutely don't care what happens to them.

LEAPED OVER THE FENCE.

Talk about the world loving a lover! Think of this case reported from Scottville, Ky. Thomas Jones the other evening was married to his wife. It was their second attempt, and Mrs. Jones, although but 20 years of age, has even a better record than that. She has been twice legally divorced and four times legally married to two different men, which also goes to show that you never can tell.

But this isn't in the same category with what happened to George Sangfoss, of Larksville, Pa., and it apparently was love that got him into trouble, although in the light of tradition it is rather difficult to comprehend his case. In reality he played tag with tradition, for he eloped with his mother-in-law. The mother-in-law's name was Mrs. Helen Hestus, and the funny part of it is that when George and his wife began housekeeping five years ago, Mrs. Hestus made herself so disagreeable that the young people were forced to divide their time between their own home and the homes of neighbors. This condition of affairs continued until a year ago, when Sangfoss began to tolerate the old woman and finally cast longing glances at her across the dinner table.

At this juncture Mrs. Sangfoss made a big mistake. She supposed that George and her mother were just becoming acclimated and didn't even venture a guess at the real state of affairs until she woke up one morning and found this note:

"Dearest Wife: I am gone. Your ma is my wife; she is all wright. When she dies, see if me and you can fix things up again. Plese don't get marrit, because when your ma dies come back to you, maybe. Your husband."

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Hope Y. M. A. management has decided to place Rushmore in the box in Saturday's game with the Y. M. C. A.

Manager Monahan, of the St. Mary's, has practically completed arrangments with Scotch Plains for a game in September. He has also secured two new players who will be seen at the close of the League season and will be permanent features of the team next year. They are William Leonard and Michael Kavanaugh, both of whom have been playing with the Elizabeth Stars.

GOLF.

The finals for the club championship cup and regular play for the Hooley cup will be the leading attractions on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, Labor Day. It will mark the opening of the fall season when most of the members will have returned from their summer outings. There will also be men's foursomes and no doubt other events will be arranged for the day. On the tennis courts there will be play for the Labor Day cups, mixed doubles.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 21.—Bids for the construction of the new Carnegie Library, to be erected in this city, and for which Andrew Carnegie has promised $50,000, have been opened by the trustees.

The mason work was awarded to T. H. Prior & Sons, of Trenton, at a cost of $24,000, and the carpenter work to George B. Rule, of this city, at a cost of $15,475. The book stands will be furnished by Clark & Baker, of New York, at a cost of $3,296.50.

Othnile Sutton Dead.

Othnile Sutton, son of Charlotte and the late Levi Sutton, died at his home on Elm place, yesterday. He had been in ill health for a long time. He was thirty-two years old and leaves several brothers. The funeral will be held from the residence of his mother, 53 Elm place, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

STRIKERS WIN.

The Demands Made by Machinists Granted by Elizabeth Firm.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 21—The strike of machinists which has been on at Samuel L. Moore Sons' Crescent Iron Works, Elizabethport, since May 1, was settled yesterday and the men have all returned to work. The Crescent plant was recently absorbed by the new shipbuilding trust, of which Lewis Nixon is head, and he decided to end the trouble.

The dispute was over the hours of labor, the men demanding ten hours' pay for nine hours' work and recognition of the machinists' union by the Moore & Sons' Co. The strikers, it is said, were conceded all this by the shipbuilding trust.

HOPE CHAPEL AFFAIR.

A Church Organization Enriches Its Treasury.

A successful ice cream and cake sale was conducted at the home of Mrs. J. Frederick Wharton, of West Sixth street, last evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, of Hope chapel.

In addition an entertainment was given consisting of piano selections by Allen Squire and John Cortright and phonographic selections under the direction of Lewellyn Bevin. The proceeds from the affair will be devoted to the society's treasury.

FACTORY INTEREST HAS GROWN IN PLAINFIELD

Growth in Last Year Has Been Larger Than in Any Other City in New Jersey.

IT WILL BE CONTINUED.

SOME FACTS ON THE SUBJECT BY ONE ACQUAINTED WITH THEM.

Says That the Future Will See Plainfield the Home of Many Thriving Industries—It is Particularly Attractive.

Plainfield's principal fame is as a residential city. Her boast is her beauty. The casual stranger visiting the place might depart with the impression that few industries are here, and that fortunate nearness to the metropolis with quiet and pleasant surroundings, is her only excuse for existence among things mundane. The impression to be gained is a false one.

According to statistics just compiled it has been found that during the last year the factory interest has grown to a greater extent in Plainfield than in any other city of the State of New Jersey. A man, who makes regular visits here for the purpose of obtaining information for industrial directories, who is also in touch with the development in every other place of any importance in the State, was in Plainfield yesterday afternoon, and he is of the opinion that no other city in the Union has made such rapid strides in this direction as Plainfield. It was his prediction that before a great many years shall have passed away Plainfield will be a busy and thriving manufacturing town, outrivalling the communities of the present whose greatest fame is their workshops. From his intimacy with the marts of trade throughout the Union and their managers, he thinks that this city has superior advantages to offer for large firms that are anxious to locate in a desirable and convenient place.

The remarkable fact revealed by the reliable statistics referred to, is not remarkable at all after a little moment's thought. Frequently many of the older concerns here have built or are building extensions to their plant. Some of the firms are working both night and day to fill orders, and their goods are shipped and used in every part of the Union. The Pederick & Ayer Company, of Philadelphia, are even now having new buildings erected here for the purpose of locating their plant in this city.

PERSONAL.

Frank Rathbun, of Netherwood, left yesterday for Rhode Island to attend the funeral services of his grandmother, who died there recently.

A Generous Act.

Through the generosity of L. W. Randolph, the children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home were given a drive yesterday afternoon. Ninety of the little tots and a few of the mothers were driven about town and the suburbs. One of the places visited was Hope Common when the charity baseball game was in progress.

Only Slight Damage.

Sparks from a bonfire, started by boys, set fire to the outside of Daniel Ginna's pad factory on Sycamore street, yesterday afternoon. Fire headquarters was notified and the chemical engine responded. The blaze was quickly extinguished with only nominal damage.

Thieves at Work.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Aug. 21—Alexander Gulick, janitor of the Pitman Methodist church, yesterday discovered that thieves had been in the building. An attempt had been made to break into a box in which were a number of deeds and mortgages.

Stephen Lefler Buried.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Stephen Lefler were held at St. Stephen's Episcopal church, Netherwood, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Wm. Vincent Dawson was the officiating clergyman. The interment was at Hillside cemetery.

WORK OF SNEAK THIEF.

Home of James Anderson Entered and a Haul Made—No Clue to the Perpetrator.

A telephone message received at police headquarters last night informed the officials that the home of James Anderson, of West Fourth street, opposite the car barns had been entered by sneak thieves. The informant further stated that $51, a gold chain and a ring had been taken from a bureau on an upper floor.

Patrolmen were sent to the scene and found the information to be correct but could learn nothing of any importance. This morning Patrolman McCarthy heard that a West End boy of shady reputation had been about the premises and took him into custody. He was given the third degree at headquarters but no evidence was secured to warrant his being held.

BROKE HIS ARM.

Contractor Meets With Painful Mishap While Operating Windlass.

Benjamin Ruckman, a contractor living on Plainfield avenue, suffered a broken arm in a peculiar manner, this morning. He was called to the stable of Dr. VanHorn on West Fifth street, to remove a horse which had died during the night. In operating the windless attached to his wagon a clutch slipped and struck him a terrific blow on the arm. The broken bone was attended by Dr. VanHorn.

THOS. A. NEVINS, SR., PROMOTER, IS DEAD

Prime Mover in Organization of the Local Street Railway Company, Passes Away.

A REMARKABLE CAREER

DIES AT HIS HOME IN CASTLE CONNELL, IRELAND, YESTERDAY.

Starts Life as a Coachman, and Rises to Position of Promoter and Financier—At One Time Engaged in Banking Business.

A cable message received at Orange yesterday brought the news of the death Thomas A. Nevins, Sr., which occurred at Castle Connell, county Limerick, Ireland, yesterday morning. The elder Nevins had lived in Ireland several years, paying brief visits to this country each year. Coming to this country as a lad of twenty, Mr. Nevins began life here as a coachman, but his shrewdness and native ability soon led him into business as a contractor, and he became prominent as a successful promoter and financier. He was the prime mover in the Plainfield Street Railway Company and furnished considerable capital towards its construction.

He was a member of the Orange Board of Education from 1890 to 1894. He was born in Ireland on May 30, 1844, and in Orange was first employed by J. S. Otis, a member of the firm of H. B. Claflin & Co. Mr. Otis was the owner of large tracts of property, and was engaged in developing them, and this gave young Nevins his first ideas about money making. He worked hard and steadily prospered. He bought vacant land, cut it into streets, and sold it. He went into the electrical contracting business, and built trolley lines. He bought a large tract of land in East Orange, cut it up into streets, got the town to macadamize it, bid on the work, got the job, took the town's bonds in payment, and paid his own assessment for the improvement under the law which enabled him to make ten annual payments. He bought Holly Hall, the handsome residence of the late Gardner R. Colby in East Orange, named after H. Hudson Holly, the architect, lived there for a time and then went to Ireland and astonished people by buying Kileen Castle. He afterward sold it. Mr. Nevins made a substantial fortune by the consolidation of the street railways of Detroit, which he accomplished. He also consolidated all the gas interests in the vicinity of Haverhill, Mass. His latest scheme was to consolidate the trolley lines between Liverpool and Manchester. His son sailed for Europe a month ago to complete this deal. The lines were to be built entirely with American money. The father and son were engaged in the banking business at 45 Wall street, New York.

Among his near relatives is his son, Thomas A. Nevins, of Orange; a nephew, Michael Nevins, of this city, who is employed on the local trolley, and Harry and James McCormick, formerly of Plainfield. Mr. Nevins, the son, is now in Europe, as is also Harry McCormick, the latter having been there for a long time constructing trolley roads. James McCormick enlisted in the U. S. Army. His present whereabouts is not known.

SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

Ball Given by Warren Engine Company in Saengerbund Hall Well Attended.

Most successful of the series was the ball under the auspices of Warren Engine Company in Saengerbund Hall last evening. Notwithstanding inclement weather, the attendance was exceptionally large. Music for the occasion was discoursed by Naylor's orchestra. The committee in charge of the floor was David Allen, L. B. Bodine and Lewis Feiring.

Down in the basement refreshments were served. T. Kesselring, J. J. Stahl and A. Brokaw was the committee in charge. A little side show was conducted by Ed. Smith and E. Smalley. George Stewart and George Fairchild were the door committee.

The missionary societies of the Calvary Baptist church will give a musicale in the church Thursday evening, September 4, for the benefit of the church.

N. D. Drake to Lead.

"Life of Faith" will be the topic at the Christian Endeavor meeting in the First Baptist church this evening. N. Douglass Drake will lead.

MISS BLUE DIES.

New Market Resident Succumbs to Long Illness—Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon.

Miss Sarah J. L. Blue, one of New Market's best known residents, died at her home, yesterday afternoon. Death was due to capsus from which she had long been a sufferer. Miss Blue was sixty-eight years old and leaves one brother, Calvin Blue, three sisters, Miss Jane Blue, who lived at home, Mrs. Hilliard, of Dunellen, and Mrs. Abner Coriell, of New Market, also a half sister.

Funeral services will be held from her late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

ALMOST A CENTENARIAN

MRS. EUNICE BIXBY DIES AT HOME IN MT. PLEASANT.

Is Survived by Many Descendents—Father Fought in Revolutionary War—Was Well Preserved.

Mrs. Eunice Bixby, regarded as the oldest woman in Middlesex county, died at her home in Mount Pleasant, yesterday. She had attained the remarkable age of ninety-nine years and was possessed of all her faculties with the exception of hearing, which she lost three years ago. She was exceptionally bright and like the proverbial centenarian, remembered all the important events that occurred during the early part of the last century.

Mrs. Bixby was the daughter of Eli Phalet Mundy and was born in Vermont. Her father was one of the Vermont Continentals. She was twice married, her first husband being Jacob Farlee and her second Caleb Bixby who died in 1897. By her first marriage she had four daughters and one son and her second, two daughters, all of whom are living but two. She also leaves thirty-four grandchildren, fifty-seven great grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren. Her father and mother lived to advanced ages, the former dying at ninety-five and and latter eighty-seven.

The body has been shipped to South Framingham, Mass, where interment will be made.

JACOBS COMING.

The Evangelist and Chorus Leader to be at Camp Woolfe, Westfield, Next Sunday.

Plans are being formulated to make next Sunday a red letter day at Camp Woolf, Westfield. F. H. Jacobs, the evangelist and chorus leader, who was associated with the late Mr. Moody, will conduct the afternoon service at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp at 3:45 o'clock. A choir of two hundred voices will assist Mr. Jacobs. The trolley cars will run under 10 minutes headway from 3 until 6 o'clock for the accommodation of the camp visitors.

Last Chance.

The last opportunity of the season to visit Asbury Park and Ocean Grove at a popular rate is offered by Warren chapel's excursion, which takes place Thursday. It will terminate the series of excursions to the twin resorts from this city for the summer. The train will leave the North Avenue station at 8 o'clook and will allow a full day at the shore before returning.

Building a Home.

G. Harry Squires has signed an agreement with John Abbott, the contractor, for the erection of a house of stone and wood to cost between $9,000 and $10,000. It will be erected on the two lots facing the city park on the corner of Arlington avenue and Eighth street. The ground is valued at $7,000.

Wedded in Albany.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Frank E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, to Miss Mary E. Davis, of Albany, the affair being celebrated Tuesday, August 12, at the home of the bride. Following a bridal trip, the couple will reside on Sherman avenue.

Unique Features.

The Sunday-school session at the Park Avenue Baptist church next Sunday morning will be of especial interest, and will include vocal and instrumental music, cornet solos, recitations by Miss Aimee Emmons and music by a vocal quartette.

Mentally Weak.

No disposition was made of John Lannon's case in the city court, this morning. He has been examined by physicians and found to be mentally irresponsible for his craze for drink. If his relatives desire it, he will be placed in an institution.

INCIDENT IN HISTORY OF QUAKER MEETING

An Unostentatious Wedding in Days of Yore and the Poem it Inspired.

THE QUAKERESS BRIDE.

THE "BRIDE" IS STILL A RESIDENT OF THIS CITY.

Poem by Mrs. W. B. Kinney, a Very Gifted Writer—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Stedman, Mother of E. C. Stedman, a Witness of Marriage.

The stories of the Friends' Meeting House at Plainfield, N. J., published in the New York Tribune of May 25, and the Newark News of May 22, has recalled to the minds of the town's oldest inhabitants many interesting facts in connection with the ancient house of worship, founded in 1787.

One of these pleasant stories is full of romance and literary remembrance. In this quaint meeting house on the twenty-sixth day of 12th month, 1838, occurred the marriage of Mary W. Harned and Isaac W. Laing. According to the custom of Friends, no ritual was used but the simple one in which the bride and groom pledge their troth, without the intervention of minister or priest. Mrs. Elizabeth Clementine Stedman, the mother of Edmund Clarence Stedman, who was living at the time of her widowhood at the country home of her father, David L. Dodge, on the place well-known for many years as the Martine Estate, was one of the guests at the wedding. The simple beauty of the wedding inspired the following poem, entitled "The Quakeress Bride":

No, not in the halls of the noble and proud,
Where fashion assembles her glittering crowd;
Where all is in beauty and splendor arrayed,
Were the nuptials performed of the meek Quaker maid.

Nor yet in the temple, those rites which she took
By the altar, the mitre-crowned bishop and book;
Where oft in her jewels stands proudly the bride,
Unawed by those vows which through life shall abide.

The building was humble, but sacred to One
Who heeds the deep worship that utters no tone;
Whose presence is not to the temple confined,
But dwells with the contrite and lowly of mind.

'Twas there, all unveiled, save by modesty, stood
The Quakeress bride, in her white satin hood;
Her charms unadorned by the garland or gem,
Yet fair as the lily just plucked from the stem.

A tear glistened bright in her dark, shaded eye,
And her bosom half uttered a tremulous sigh,
As the hand she had pledged was confidingly given,
And the low murmured words were recorded in heaven.

I've been at the bridal where wealth spread the board,
Where the sparkling red wine in rich goblets was poured.
Where the priest in his surplice from ritual read
And the solemn response was impressively said.

I've seen the fond sire, in his thin locks of gray,
Give the pride of his heart to the bridegroom away,
While he brushed the big tear from his deep furrowed cheek,
And bewed the assent which his lips might not speak.

But in all the array of the costlier scene
Naught seemed to my eye so sincere in its mien,
No language so fully the heart to resign,
As the Quakeress bride's—"Until death I am thine."

"The Quakeress Bride" is living still in Plainfield and was one of the guests at the New York Yearly Meeting this year. She is the mother of Mrs. Charles Sandford, of East Front street.

The writer of this poem afterward became the wife of William Burnet Kinney, founder of The Daily Advertiser, Newark, N. J. During her widowhood and a long residence abroad her contributions to magazines and periodicals were extensive. Nothing in her writings shows more fully her reverence for simple truth than her appreciation of the poetical beauty of the unostentatious Quaker wedding.

Good Service.

Considering the great number of electric storms this year which have given the telephone company no end of trouble, Manager C. W. Runyon and his men have succeeded in keeping the lines in order. Only for a short time has the service been interfered with.

Illustrated Lecture.

The 4 o'clock meeting in Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon, will be in charge of Alex. F. Irvine, of New Haven, Conn. His topic will be "The Tools of a Carpenter," and will be illustrated. Every man in Plainfield is cordially invited to attend.

To Make Address.

A. A. Lake, of Dunellen, will speak at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Sunday, August 24. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

WILL OF MRS. FAIR VERIFIED BY FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith in Changing Their Plans, Decide Not to Go West.

CONFERENCE IN EAST.

THE BODIES ARE EXPECTED TO ARRIVE BY STEAMER ON SUNDAY.

Jewels of Dead Woman Bequeathed to Mother, With Understanding That They be Distributed Among Children—One Not Interviewed.

Responding to the efforts of William B. Smith, the brother of the late Mrs. Charles G. Fair, to communicate with Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, of New York, the latter's attorney sent a messenger to Plainfield Wednesday afternoon to see Mr. Smith. The two returned to New York where a conference was held with representatives of the Fairs regarding the arrival of the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fair from Paris. Mr. Smith was informed that he would be kept in touch with all important details concerning affairs of the estate.

Mrs. Smith was seen yesterday afternoon and she declared that she and her husband would not go to San Francisco as they originally intended to do. The change in these plans is due to the fact that the caskets will not be opened after their arrival in New York.

Mrs. Smith was shown a newspaper dispatch from SanFrancisco giving details of Mrs. Fair's will, and she confirmed the same, adding that it was not complete. She admitted that when Mrs. Hannah Nelson, the mother, left for the west she had a duplicate copy of the will, but this fact was kept a secret. She said that there are $10,000 worth of jewels left to Mrs. Hannah Nelson with the understanding that she is to divide them among the children, but she did not believe that the children are anxious to get the jewels, as they have little use for them.

Mrs. Abram Nelson, when seen by a representative for The Daily Press, refused to talk for publication. She has been sought after every day by lawyers and newspapermen and she is evidently tired of being asked innumerable questions.

William B. Smith was in Plainfield yesterday afternoon and completed the deal for disposing of his business, receiving the money. He still asseserts that he is not seeking the millions left by the dead sister and her husband, but declares that he only wants what is rightfully due him. He also says that if he or his relatives wanted to get the money involved there is nothing that could stop them. He spoke of a letter which he received from his sister last Monday. It was written several days before her death. In this letter, Mr. Smith says, Mrs. Fair informed him that she would be home September 1, but, he added, "Little did she think how she would come home."

The relatives in New York have promised to send Mr. Smith word the day prior to the arrival of the bodies in New York so that he or any of the relatives at New Market can go to the city if they wish to. So far as can be learned the heirs at New Market are apparently satisfied with the terms of the will of Mrs. Fair.

CELEBRATE THE FOUNDING

KNIGHTS AND LADIES OF HONOR TO HOLD GALA AFFAIR.

Members of Organization to Gather at Newark—History of Order—Other Details.

Lodges of Knights and Ladies of Honor of Union, Essex and Passaic counties have united in forming a general committee to make arrangements for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order. Doelger's Park, Newark, September 16, will be the place and date of the celebration.

The Knights and Ladies of Honor, organized in 1877, have now a membership of 58,000. There are nearly four thousand members in New Jersey. The headquarters are located in Indianapolis. Since the order was started death claims amounting to more than $19,000,000 have been paid. The order is in a highly prosperous condition.

—A special price for tomorrow has been placed by Neuman Brothers on 100 large baskets and 125 eight quart baskets of extra good quality peaches.

DR. ALBERT PITTIS AS A LIFE SAVER

Rescues Raymond Rockfellow, a Youth of Four Years, From Drowning in Brook.

IS AN ACT OF HEROISM.

PLUNGES IN AFTER LAD AND SUCCEEDS IN BRINGING HIM ASHORE.

Hard Work to Revive Youngster—Boy Fishing From a Log Fell Overboard—James Haggerty Assisted the Doctor.

At the risk of his own life, Dr. A. Pittis, the borough physician, this morning, rescued from drowning, Raymond Rockfellow, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rockfellow, of Elm place. The doctor leaped off the stone coping of the Elm street bridge into Green brook and unaided managed to get the unconscious form of the boy to shore. Without attempting to remove any of his wet garments, the physician set to work to resuscitate the lad and succeeded only after a half hour's hard work. But for his prompt action the boy would have been brought home to his mother a corpse, who, all unconscious of her child's peril, was performing her household duties within a stone's throw of the bridge.

The spot where Raymond fell in is one of the deepest in the course of the brook and one child was drowned there a few years ago. He, himself, had a narrow escape from a like fate by falling off the bridge three months ago. He had been warned to stay away from the spot but this morning he secured permission to go fishing and crawled to the end of a log which overhangs the pool. No one knows how it happened but in some way he fell off the log and sank unseen into the water. He had evidently been in some time when Dr. Pittis happened to pass over the bridge just in time to see the water close over his head.

The physician ran to the bridge coping and without even removing his coat, leaped into the water. He encountered the boy after a brief search and then swam ashore. The little fellow had swallowed a great deal of water and even if some one else had rescued him, it is doubtful if he could have been revived. With his knowledge of such cases and the help of James Haggerty, of Elm place, he set to work and as stated, brought the little fellow to consciousness. He was then taken to the surprised mother and not until then did Dr. Pittis think of himself. He hurried home to change his clothing and so far has felt no ill effects from his impromptu bath.

DESIGN CHOSEN.

Commission Selects Design for New Jersey's Soldiers Monument for Antietam.

The various designs for the memorial to New Jersey soldiers to be erected at Antietam have been examined, and the one submitted by John L. and William Passmore Meeker, of Trenton, has been accepted. There will be some minor changes in the design before the work is undertaken.

The monnment will consist of a base and shaft of granite, surmounted by a bronze figure of a captain of infantry in the uniform of 1862.

The monument will be erected on the battlefield and dedicated next fall, when the forty-first anniversary of the battle, which took place September 17, 1862, will be celebrated.

INTRICATE CASE.

His Honor Justice Hand Sits in Judgement.

Justice Hand reserved decision yesterday in an action in tort brought by L. C. Beekman against Joseph Metler in trover and conversion for goods that Wm. H. Bohl sold Metler, to be paid for one year from date. Failing to settle as agreed Metler was to forfeit both goods and amount already paid. When the year was up and certain moneys, it is claimed, still due, Bohl assigned agreement to Beekman who now demands settlement. W. S. Angleman appeared for Metler and S. S. Swackhamer for Beekman.

German Picnic.

Members of the German Lutheran Reformed church held a picnic at Koch's Grove, Watchung, yesterday. A very pleasant day was spent. The committee in charge of the arrangements was Rev. Theodore Duensing and Richard Warnick.

IMPROVING ROADBED.

Jersey Central Making Improvements Along Its Line in This Vicinity.

A gang of laborers is now engaged in putting new ballast along the westbound main line of the New Jersey Central Railroad in this city. The work was started near the North Avenue station yesterday. The dirt is being carted away and in its place substantial ballast will be used. It is expected that the eastbound main track will be treated the same upon the completion of the westbound. Along other parts of the road the company is making improvements tending to better the condition of the roadbed.

S. S. CHILDS NOT IN RACE

POPULAR RESTAURANT MAN IS NOT AFTER THE SENATORSHIP.

He Does Not Seek the Congressional Nomination Either, According to His Friends.

Sameul S. Childs, of Bernardsville, will not enter the race for the Democratic congressional nomination in the Fourth district, nor will he be a candidate for the State senate, according to reliable authority. The famous restaurant man is taking a rest and it is said that his business affairs have been a heavy strain on him of late. Entering the fight for either one of these nominations would mean hard work and it is said that he does not desire to undertake it.

Should Mr. Childs step out of the senatorial race, Major Nelson Y. Dungan, of the Second regiment, and former prosecutor of Somerset county, would very likely be named as the Democratic candidate. Mr. Dungan is a man of great popularity and is particularly well known throughout the county, where he has always resided.

There is quite a satisfactory understanding between Major Dungan and Mr. Childs, and in the event of the latter deciding to make a fight for the nomination Major Dungan is not likely to give him much opposition.

"Mr. Childs would make a good candidate and is my second choice," said Major Dungan laughingly when the subject was broached to him.

STUDY OF NEWSBOYS.

Interesting Narrative on Career of These Lads by Kenneth Robbie, of the Local Y. M. C. A.

In the last number of The Association Seminary, a monthly magazine published at the Y. M. C. A. Training School at Sprinfield, Mass., appears an article, entitled "A Study of the Newsboy," by Kenneth Robbie, secretary of the boys' department in this city. Mr. Robbie describes the checkered existence led by these lads in the cities of New York, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Springfield, Mass. He tells about the work that has been done in the way of housing and educating these waifs of the street in the metropolitan districts, and the narrative is interesting and instructive. In concluding Mr. Robbie suggests that among the newsboys there is a wide field for the Y. M. C. A. with its abundant resources, ability and influence.

Runaway Horse.

A skittish horse, driven by Walter Tweedy, of New Brunswick, ran away on West Front street yesterday afternoon. One of the traces was insecurely fastened, and falling, dangled about the animal's heels. The animal bolted out at once and started on a mad pace along the highway. Several people crossing the street at different points and a number of bicyclists had a narrow escape from being run down. Tweedy kept a tight rein on his steed and finally succeeded in bringing the animal to a standstill.

Battleship's Big Boilers.

The number of boilers to be put in the battleship New Jersey, building in the Fore River ship yard at Quincy Point, has been reduced one-half by increasing their size. Instead of having twenty-four boilers each measuring 17x14x12, the big war vessel will be given twelve boilers each 19x14x12.

Benevolent's Entertainment.

Benevolent Council, No. 256, J. O. U. A. M., will celebrate the first anniversary of its organization this evening by giving its members and friends an elaborate entertainment. The affair will take place in Washington Hall, which has been expressly engaged for the occasion.

Fraternal Visit.

Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will pay a fraternal visit to the Perth Amboy Council, this evening. The members will go by stage, which leaves the corner of Park avenue and Front street at 6:30 o'clock.

THROWN INTO ROAD; THREE ARE INJURED

Horse Takes Fright and Precipitates the Coachman and Others Into the Street.

WOMAN IS IN HOSPITAL.

THE ACCIDENT HAPPENED ON WEST SIXTH STREET YESTERDAY.

Wm. Ransom, the Driver, Confined to Home With Injuries—All Are Suffering From the Shock and Bruises—Injuries Not Serious.

As a result of turning the corner of Park avenue and West Sixth street at too rapid a pace, yesterday afternoon, a Stanhope belonging to Mrs. L. W. Serrell, of West Seventh street, in which were her coachman, William Ransom, of Cottage place, Mrs. Pruedence Lyman, of New street, and the latter's granddaughter, Miss Ella Wheeler, of West Front street, was suddenly overturned. The occupants were precipitated to the street and all more or less severely injured. Mrs. Lyman was rendered partially unconscious and appeared to be in such a condition that it was deemed advisable a short time afterward to remove her to Muhlenberg Hospital. Ransom was badly shaken up and was taken to his home where he is now confined. The little girl escaped with contusions and the loss of several teeth

Ransom started from the Serrell residence shortly after 5 o'clock to take Mrs. Lyman and grandchild to town. They were driving along West Sixth street, when a dog laying in the road, startled the horse and set it off at a fast trot. Ransom made an effort to stop it and succeeded so far as to surmise he could turn the corner, and was taken by surpise when the vehicle went over. He returned his presence of mind and continued his hold on the reins, thus preventing the horse from running away.

Assistance was quickly secured and the injured persons were taken to residence in the vicinity and physicians were summoned. All were suffering more or less from shock and were badly cut and bruised. Mrs. Lyman was greatly improved this morning and the hospital authorities think she will not be detained at the in stitution long. They regard it as providential that all three escaped without broken limbs. The Stanhope was partially wrecked and the harness was slightly damaged.

BOY ACCUSED.

James Anderson Declares Arthur VanNest Robbed His Home—Latter Held.

Suspicious circumstances connected with the affair, led James Anderson, of West Fourth street, whose home was robbed of $51 and some jewelry, Wednesday night, to charge Arthur VanNest, of Monroe avenue, with being the thief. The boy, who is but ten years old, was arraigned before Justice Huff, this morning, and entered a plea of not guilty. At the request of his counsel, Francis J. Blatz, trial was set down for Tuesday. He was released in Counsellor Blatz's custody until then.

VanNest has always had the reputation of being wayward and is already out on probation for robbing the home of Mrs. Vaughan, of West Seventh street. The police say he was about the Anderson house a short time before the theft was discovered.

DARING ROBBERY.

Thieves Enter a Metuchen Residence and Get a Large Haul—The Details.

The local police were notified early this morning that a daring robbery had been perpetrated at Metuchen. The home of J. R. Cranforce was entered and jewelry to the amount of $1,500 was taken. It consisted of gold watches, diamond rings and pins, gold chains and other ornaments. A painter who had been working about the house during the past few days is suspected. A reward of $100 is offered for information that may lead to the arrest of the thief.

Missing Since Monday.

Thomas Francis Higgins, of Lorriane, was reported Wednesday by his wife to the police of Elizabeth as missing. She said he had been gone since Monday morning, when he left his home. She says he has been acting strangely of late and fears that he has committed suicide. The woman asked that the police in surrounding places be notified.

STATE BANK NOTES TURN UP

MANY FROM THAT DEFUNCT INSTITUTION ARE BEING CIRCULATED.

They Appear Particularly in Middlesex County—Secret Service Officers on Watch.

"The bank notes of the defunct State bank of this city are turning up again quite numerously about the country," says the New Brunswick Home News, "having been put in circulation from several points, evidently. Henry G. Parker, the cashier of the National Bank of New Jersey, said today that he is receiving one or more inquiries daily about these bank notes, the inquirers wanting to be informed as to their value. Today he received an inquiry from a New York party enclosing four bills of $1 denomination. He has received so many similar inquiries that he has had a standing form prepared to send out in answer to them. It costs him considerable postage to be obliging to his correspondents.

"The notes which he received today had the name D. S. Lloyd signed to them as president. The writing was poor, and a forgery, as no one by the name of Lloyd was president of the bank. The bills were also dated 1878. This, too, has been filled in, as the State bank closed its doors in 1873. All the notes were signed by Cashier Coddington. These signatures were genuine.

"The secret service department has been endeavoring to get on the track of the circulators of these bank notes for some time. The way they became scattered about the country is of easy solution. When the bank became defunct, a great quantity of bank notes were on hand. They were allowed to remain in the building. After a time the place was cleaned out, and the contents, including a lot of the notes, were sold to a local junk dealer.

"He disposed of them to curiosity and stamp collectors, and in that way they became scattered. This transaction was innocent enough in itself, but some of the notes fell into the hands of counterfeiters and forgers, and they have put many into circulation."

Mrs. R. F. R. Huntsman and family, of Westervelt avenue, who are summering in Maine, will return home early in September.

The Misses Brown, of Prescott place, will return home the last of next week from New York, where they have been visiting friends.

Mrs. George A. Babcock, of West Eighth street, will return about the first part of September from Rhode Island, where she is spending the summer.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

EVERY YEAR SHOWS DECREASE IN RANKS

New Jersey's Grand Army of the Republic is Slowly Being Mustered Out.

INTERESTING HISTORY.

MEMORIAL DAY IS NOW CELEBRATED BY PEOPLE AS WELL AS VETERANS.

The Year 1892 Was the Turning Point in History of G. A. R. in New Jersey—Since Then There Has Been a Steady Decrease.

One of the most interesting chapters in federal history is the recruiting of the Grand Army of the Republic. Of especial interest to the people of this State is the mustering out of that Army in the department of New Jersey. Memorial Day is celebrated not by the surviving soldiers of the nation's wars alone but it has become dear to the hearts of the people as a whole. The veterans of the Civil War are rapidly dying off and it is only a question of a few years before the last survivor will have paid the penalty of mortality.

The Department of New Jersey, G. A. R., came into existence in 1866, and General Edward Jardine, who represented the State, was there obligated as a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and was appointed on the staff of the first commander-in-chief, and was made the provisional commander of New Jersey, to serve during the years of 1866 and 1867.

The first charter that came into the State was that of the Boonton Post, and it was No. 1. The charter was countersigned by General Jardine as aide de camp. This post afterward surrendered its charter, so that the Kearny Post of Newark is No. 1, it having a charter issued by the department commander of New York. For some time there was a controversy as to which post was to be considered the first. The Boonton charter was considered more direct.

The New Jersey department was organized in Newark on December 10, 1867, and the first encampment was held in Trenton, April 9, 1868. The following were the first officers: Commander, General Edward Jardine, of Newark; senior vice commander, A. J. Sears; junior vice commander, the late Adjutant General William S. Stryker. The original council of administration consisted of R. H. Lee, of Camden; F. Shellenberg, M. T. Dwyer, of Newark; H. M. Fagan and I. T. Brant.

The department commander in 1869 and 1870 was William Ward, and the progress made by the order was slow. In 1869 there were twenty-five posts, with a membership of 955. It was after 1880 that the department showed marked signs of improvement and increased membership.

Charles H. Houghton was the department commander, and he had sixty-three posts and a membership of 4,017. The largest gain in membership was made the following year, with an increase of 1,533. It was during the administration of Senator, now Judge, Nevius that the department turned the 6,000 mark. This was in 1887, when there were 109 posts and a membership of 7,075. Next came General E. Burd Grubb as department commander, and there were eleven posts and 7,604 members, a gain for that year of 529. After this the gains were very light.

In 1892 the turning point in the history of the Grand Army in this State was reached. The present quartermaster-general, Richard A. Donnelly, was the department commander, and there were then 117 posts, just the same as the year previous; the increase in the membership was only six. After that the number of posts and the membership decreased, and have continued to decrease. The decreases were as follows: 1893, 319; 1894, 194; 1895, 280; 1896, 309; 1897, 410; 1889, 267; 1899, 239; 1900, 500; 1901, 772.

Value of Black Diamonds.

Carbons, or black diamonds, are chiefly used in drilling for mining deposits—that is, in prospecting work. They have a combination of hardness and toughness possessed by no other material. They are used to point the steel bits used in rock boring by the prospector. They are found only in Brazil, where the natives collect them along the river beds. The finest grade costs the consumer about $42 a carat, and it is said anything offered for a lower price should be looked upon with suspicion, as certain dealers have become very expert in coloring imperfect stones and otherwise treating them so that an expert cannot detect their imperfection.

A Conscientious Thief.

Fourteen years ago Frank Lash, of Farmersburg, Ind., had a ring stolen from his room in his boarding house. A few days since he received a letter from a person unknown to him stating that he had stolen the ring, and that his conscience had since troubled him to such an extent that he wished to replace the ring. He had sold the ring, but was willing to replace it. Shortly after there came by mail a ring similar to the one stolen from him.

GENERAL SIGEL DEAD

Famous Veteran Passes Away After Long Illness.

PROMINENT FIGURE IN CIVIL WAR.

Regarded as Largely Responsible For Missouri Remaining In the Union—Rose to High Rank Because of Military Ability.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—General Franz Sigel, the grizzled old warrior who fought against the government in the German revolution of 1848-49 and valiantly battled for the Union through the civil war in the United States, is dead.

After a brief illness the beloved commander passed away at his home, 563 Mott avenue, in the Bronx.

If the general had lived until Nov. 18, he would have been seventy-eight years old.

For the last two months it has been realized that General Sigel might die at any moment, and yet his end was somewhat unexpected.

Around the deathbed were gathered three of General Sigel's sons, Robert, Paul and Rudolph, and his daughter, Mrs. Leila Schehl, who has made her home with General Sigel since her husband's death.

The general was quite conscious almost to the last and was able to recognize and converse with those gathered around him. When the final moments came, he sank into a deep sleep.

General Sigel was credited with doing more than any other person to keep Missouri in the Union during the civil war. Conspicuous in the military career of the dead general were his brilliant, masterly retreats when outnumbered by the enemy.

Born in Germany, General Sigel received a military education there. He never returned to Germany after coming to this country at the conclusion of the German revolution, although he was granted special amnesty in 1863.

He came to this country in 1852, went to St. Louis and at the outbreak of the civil war organized a regiment of infantry and a battery. The Germans flocked to him. He fought conspicuously throughout the war, taking part in all the principal engagements.

In 1867 he came to this city, and in 1871 he was appointed collector of internal revenue and later was elected register. He was pension agent under Cleveland in 1893.

Firemen Want to See the President.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 22.—J. J. Hannahan, acting grand master, and F. W. Arnold, grand secretary and treasurer, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, have presented to President Roosevelt a handsomely engrossed invitation to attend the eighth biennial convention of the order at Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 8. The president indicated a desire to attend the convention if it were possible for him to do so. Senator Pritchard of North Carolina, who was at Sagamore Hill when the invitation was extended, asked the president to visit Asheville, N. C., if he made the trip to Chattanooga. The president promised to do so.

Americans Entertained by Denmark.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 22.—The commanders of the United States cruisers Albany and Chicago, Captains J. E. Craig and J. H. Dayton, accompanied by the United States minister, Laurits S. Swenson, paid a visit to the foreign office, the minister of marine and to the Danish naval officials. Later the American officers will be presented to the royal family. The first of a series of entertainments will be given at the United States legation tomorrow. The United States cruiser San Francisco, it is now announced, is not coming here.

Postmasters Appointed.

PETER POWER'S SUIT

Lawyer Lamb Makes Sensational Statements.

BOURKE COCKRAN IS IMPLICATED.

Witness In Federal Court Declares Famous Orator and Well Known Financiers Were Back of Attack on Northern Securities.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Peter Power, the much sought witness in the Northern Pacific merger suit, was put on the witness stand before Examiner Maybey in the federal court. His testimony, while directly exposing those who backed him, fell flat after the remarkable exposure of Lawyer Lamb. He was tenderly handled by the railroad lawyers, and the only object accomplished was a corroboration of the testimony of Lawyer Lamb.

Immediately after the conclusion of his hearing he was sent back to Ludlow street jail. An effort was made to secure his discharge, but Lawyer Guthrie opposed it, and as Judge Lacombe, who signed the committing order, was absent in Athens, N. Y., there was no course left but to take Power back to the county jail.

Lawyer George Alfred Lamb, attorney for Peter Power, told all he knew about the Northern Pacific merger suit. He named the men who, with Power as plaintiff and Captain Henry Stern as go between, he said, had hoped to conceal their connection with the litigation and keep their identity hidden. Those he named were W. Bourke Cockran, Camille Weidenfeld, H. Content & Co. and Edwin R. Thomas of the firm of Thomas & Post, Wall street bankers and brokers.

The story of Power's wandering came out—a plan to send him to Europe was revealed, his quasi connection with the suit at issue, and, in short, a clear story of the most remarkable action ever begun to prevent a combination of capital. Lamb said that he was practically forced by the people back of him to send Power away and that they paid the expenses of his trip to West Hurley and to Montreal.

Weidenfeld, Cockran and other sponsors of the Power suit, Mr. Lamb declared, feared that Power would be broken down as a witness and would "give away the people behind it." Cockran was telephoned to for advice in his presence. Lamb declared he was one of the persons for whom Lamb was given to believe he was acting in pushing the suit, and he was one of those who advised Power to stay out of the court's jurisdiction and was ready to supply him with funds to enable him to do so. Mr. Lamb told the story readily, released, as he said he considered himself, by the action of his clients in repudiating him as their counsel.

Peter Power said to the best of his belief he had received the 100 shares of stock in payment for the use of his name. That was his sole interest in the suit. He had been instructed that the subpœna service was bad and had left New York city with that understanding. In a measure his testimony was corroborative of that given by Lawyer Lamb regarding the connection of Messrs. Cockran and Weidenfeld with the suit.

W. Bourke Cockran in an interview characterized all the testimony relating to him as false in every detail.

D. B. Hill Makes a Speech.

ALBION, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Former Governor David B. Hill spoke to a crowd of 8,000 persons at the Orleans county pioneer picnic at Oak Orchard. The speech was a general one, Mr. Hill saying he thought it poor taste to inject politics at such a time. Addressing himself to farmers, he referred to their courage and sturdy independence in admiring terms and said the Boer farmers had invoked the admiration of the world. "I wish to God," said he, "that the Dutch farmers had won." The speaker thought that farmers as a rule tried to work too much land.

The Maine at Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The new battleship Maine has arrived here from the Brooklyn navy yard. The entire trip took place under ordinary conditions. Everything on board the vessel worked well and to the satisfaction of her builders. The battleship was given a spurt off the Massachusetts coast coming up, and she showed a speed of 18.3 knots, which was practically attained earlier on her builders' trial. It is the opinion of her builders that she will have no difficulty in attaining the eighteen knots required by her contract on her trial trip.

The Kaiser's Visit to Posen.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Though the headquarters of the approaching army maneuvers have been transferred from Posen to Frankfort-on-the-Oder, Kaiser day at Posen, Sept. 4, will be celebrated fervidly by the Germans of the province. The emperor's route will be lined by 40,000 persons, thousands of whom will be German settlers brought from the surrounding country and many other parts, in addition to thousands of school children.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The condition of the treasury is as follows: Reserve fund, $150,000,000; trust funds, division of redemption, $842,438,089; general fund, $289,717,145; current liabilities, $86,435,575; available cash balance, $203,281,569.

Discharged Because Attended Picnic

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Thirty girls employed at the Frederic Conde Knitting mills have been discharged because they attended a church picnic without permission. The other employees threaten a sympathetic strike.

PATRICK SHARP'S FUNERAL.

Six Thousand Strikers March With Dead Leader's Body.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 22.—The funeral of Patrick Sharp was the largest ever seen in the coal regions, 6,000 being in line. Out of the windows of nearly every house along the route hung flags draped in mourning. Every man in line carried a sprig of evergreen, which he dropped into the grave.

The funeral oration was delivered by Father McConnon of Summit Hill, who denounced the killing of Sharp by a deputy sheriff as an unprovoked murder and called on the leaders of the mine workers to see that justice was done.

"He was shot down like a dog," he exclaimed, "without a chance to defend himself or to prepare his soul for eternity."

The priest lauded the leaders of the mine workers for their sagacity and forbearance and advised the strikers not to be led into acts of violence by the tools of the operators.

He said Sharp was a martyr to an able cause and that if the mine workers continue to follow the advice of their leaders his blood will not have been shed in vain.

Cresceus Trots a Fast Mile.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 22.—Cresceus, 2:02¼, stepped a wonderful mile here over the State Fair grounds track, clipping a quarter of a second off the track record for trotters, made by Nancy Hanks in 1892. His time by quarters was 0:31½, 1:02½, 1:34 and 2:01¼. Cresceus was forced to go against a bracing wind down the back stretch, which had its effect. The mile, however, was well rated and the time a decided surprise, considering it was his first start. He seems to have the power to reach the two minute mark if his improvement shall be as great as it has been since his preparation for racing began this summer.

Campbell to Confer With Hill.

BATH, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Chairman Campbell of the Democratic state committee has left here for Albany. He will meet Senator Hill there and will accompany him to Saratoga, where the committee meets tomorrow morning to fix the time and place for holding the Democratic state convention. Before leaving Chairman Campbell said: "Nothing has been agreed upon. Everything will be left to the convention, except that there is a general understanding that Judge Gray will be renominated."

Dohertys Win Tennis Championship.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—A grand defense and almost perfect team work enabled R. F. and H. L. Doherty to defeat Holcombe Ward and Dwight F. Davis on the Casino courts and win for England the tennis championship in doubles for the first time in the history of the game in this country. Although the victors carried off the match in straight sets, the score, 11—9, 12—10 and 6—4, shows at once the fierceness of the contest. In points the total score was 170 to 155.

Silver Vase For Captain Freeman.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 22.—The marine board, on behalf of the government, has presented Captain Freeman of the British steamer Roddam with a silver vase in recognition of his devotion to duty in getting his vessel away from St. Pierre, Martinique, when that town was destroyed by the eruption of Mont Pelee. Captain Freeman has previously received three medals for his gallant conduct at St. Pierre.

Chopped His Wife's Head Off.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Aug. 22.—James Hope, a farmer living seventeen miles west of Eufaula, has been arrested here, having confessed to the murder of his wife. He had forbidden the woman to join a certain secret society, but she ignored his command, and when she returned from the lodge he met her at the door of their home and chopped her head off with an ax.

Boers Going Home.

JAMESTOWN, St. Helena, Aug. 22.—A thousand more Boers, former prisoners, have sailed for South Africa.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

ONLY THE BEST

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

CHICAGO'S MURDER MYSTERY.

Coroner Finds Verdict on Mrs. Bartholin's Death.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The coroner's jury at the inquest over the body of Mrs. Anna Bartholin brought in a verdict recommending that her son, William Bartholin, be arrested and held as principal for her murder and that Oscar Thompson and Edward Counselman, who are under arrest, accused of complicity in the murder of Minnie Mitchell, be held to the grand jury as accessories to the crime. The jury found that Mrs. Bartholin came to her death on or about July 7, death being due to strangulation.

During the inquest Mrs. May Brown, a former neighbor of Mrs. Bartholin, testified that the old lady was suspicious and lived in deadly fear of her son. According to Mrs. Brown's testimony, Mrs. Bartholin in a conversation a few days before her death had told the witness that young Bartholin was nothing but a beast and that the Mitchell family would regret the day they allowed Minnie Mitchell to have anything to do with him. Mrs. Bartholin in relating her troubles declared that Bartholin was a dissipated ne'er do well and that she believed him capable of almost any crime.

DEFEAT FOR TAMMANY.

Leaders Said to Have Lost Heavily on Saratoga Track.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—In the swirl of race track betting it is estimated that four New York city politicians, three Tammany men and one Kings county senator, have in the last two weeks lost in the aggregate $50,000 on the turf.

These men, who are now known to be in the front among the plungers, are John F. Carroll, whose losses are estimated at $15,000; ex-Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, who is said to be out of pocket the same amount as Mr. Carroll; Martin Engel "of the Eighth," who is credited with contributing $7,500 to the bookmakers, and Senator P. H. McCarren of Brooklyn, who is said to have $12,500 on the wrong side of his racing account.

Warnke Colliery Still Working.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 22.—T. W. Hart, chairman of the Public alliance of Wilkesbarre, has issued an address to the press and public, in which he urges that every influence be used to bring about the settlement of the coal strike by arbitration. He says the situation is now becoming acute and threatens every business in the strike region. The Warnke washery at Duryea prepared considerable coal for the market. The washery is still under heavy guard, but the strikers have made no attempt to interfere with the employees. Doubt is expressed at strike headquarters whether J. Pierpont Morgan will use his influence with the presidents of the coal carrying railroads to bring the strike to a close, and the subdistrict officers of the United Mine Workers are of the same opinion as their chief officer, President John Mitchell, that the battle will have to be fought to a finish.

Damage to Illinois Slight.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A report concerning the accident to the battleship Illinois, Admiral Crowninshield's flagship, which went ashore while entering the harbor of Christiania, Norway, some weeks ago and which subsequently went into drydock at Chatham, England, for repairs, has been received by the navy department. It indicates that the damage to the battleship was comparatively slight. She ran on the rocks, but her bottom was not torn. A number of plates were dented and one of them cracked. The cost of repairing her is estimated at about $5,000.

Supreme Court Justice Resigns.

POTSDAM, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Announcement is made of the resignation of Supreme Court Justice Leslie W. Russell of Canton, to take effect Oct. 1. Justice Russell, it is said, will resume the practice of law in New York. Among the candidates for the appointment to be made by Governor Odell to fill the vacancy are Theodore H Swift, county judge of St. Lawrence county; John M. Kellogg of the court of claims, Ledyard P. Hale, former district attorney of St. Lawrence county, and Vasco P. Abott, former surrogate.

Report of Missionaries' Murder.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 22.—The rumors that an Australian missionary named Bruce and an English missionary named Lewis have been murdered at Chenchou, in Hunan province, continue persistently to be heard. They come from native sources. A missionary named Stewart of Changtefu, Hunan province, has started on a journey to inquire into the reports. He will be gone a week.

Memorial to Governor Flower.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The bronze memorial statue of the late Governor Roswell P. Flower, the work of Augustus St. Gaudens, to be erected in Watertown, will be unveiled on Monday, Sept. 1, at 11 a. m. As the statue was provided by popular subscription no invitations will be issued, but a general invitation is given to all friends of the late Governor Flower to be present.

Senator Clark's Niece to Wed.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Miss Sara R. Gilfry, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Gilfry, will be married in the fall to H. Armor Ward of New York. Miss Gilfry, who made her debut two winters ago in Washington, is the niece of Senator W. A. Clark and is not only a beauty of the southern type, but a universal favorite.

ECCENTRIC ALFONSO

Spaniards Fear Their King Is Unbalanced.

HE STARTLES THE PROVINCES.

During His Recent Tour His Disregard For Conventionalities Nearly Drove His Chief of Staff Insane.

MADRID, Aug. 22.—All Spain is aghast over the latest reports of the extraordinary eccentricities of King Alfonso. The details of his remarkable actions, which are now becoming known, cause the gravest fear that the rumors of mental aberration are true.

During his recent provincial tour the king repeatedly gave evidence of a lack of mental balance and almost drove General Pacheco, his chief attendant, frantic by his actions.

At Oviedo at the great reception the king complained of being bored and asked why he could not go to bed. Pacheco explained that etiquette demanded that the people leave first.

"Oh, must they?" replied his majesty. "I'll soon send them away."

A moment later Alfonso doubled his fists and placing them to his mouth in imitation of a bugle sounded taps. Everybody stood aghast and glanced toward the king, who again sounded taps, stretched his arms and yarned. The people took the hint and departed.

At Leon the king was met by a brilliant procession to escort him to the town hall. On the way a triumphal arch attracted Alfonso's attention. His majesty in a loud voice called on the driver to stop. The king then alighted, unslung his camera and proceeded to take pictures of the arch from every conceivable angle.

He continued to take pictures for ten minutes, while the timid Spanish dignitaries vainly tried to persuade him to desist.

At Santander the king received the city's keys on a street stand. As the keys were handed to his majesty the crowds shouted:

"Long live the king! Long live Asturias! Long live Spain! Long live Santander!"

In the stillness which followed the king leaned toward the Duke of Veragua, who was on another stand, and cried:

"Say, duke, you didn't get anything this time, did you? No long life for you."

He then laughed boisterously at Veragua's confusion.

While at Cabadonga the king visited the shrine, which is one of the most famous in Europe. After the "Te Deum" Alfonso said he was hungry and wanted something to eat. General Pacheco explained that he must first see the sacred relics. The bishop of Cabadonga conducted his majesty toward the relics and began an explanation.

The bishop showed the king St. Peter's toe nail and St. Paul's hair. The king stopped him with:

"Say, bishop, do you believe that nonsense?"

The scandalized bishop affirmed that he did.

"Well, I don't," replied Alfonso. "We have seen enough. I'm going to dinner." With which remark he marched off toward the dining hall.

A beautiful and costly dias for the king's use during the municipal reception had been erected.

Alfonso entered the hall, saw the dais and said:

"What's that? I don't want that. I won't have it. I prefer to stand here."

He then backed into the middle of the room.

On the road from Oveido to Mieres the king spied a small gauge railway and asked where it led. He was told to the mines, several miles away. This aroused the king's curiosity, and he said: "I want to go there. Let us turn."

General Pacheco remonstrated and said that the people of Mieres had been waiting since morning to see the king, and it was already late.

"I must disappoint them," said the king. "Am I not king? I'll do what I want, and I want to see the mines."

His majesty then compelled the entourage to go with him to view the mines. In consequence the people of Mieres, after a long wait, thought the king was not coming, and nobody was on the streets to welcome him when he arrived. The king constantly altered the programme without the slightest reason.

THE COAL STRIKE.

In a period of thirty years there has been no strike to equal in length that at present existing in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, and considering the attitude assumed by the contending forces there is little prospect of immediate settlement. Notwithstanding the condition, operators appear to be optimistic, promising the public, upon whom really falls the burden of the fight, that there will be no famine. Further than this they are sanguine in the declaration that the commodity will not be a scarcity during the bleak winter months, the time when the suffering would naturally be the greatest.

Naturally it will take some time for the operators to catch up with their shipments. As a principle of economics so long as the demand is greater than the supply the price will remain at an abnormal figure. There is, however, one thing of importance, in this connection, to be taken into consideration. During the time of the strike the coal handling companies have been able to clean up as it were and their facilities for transporting the commodity, when work at the mines is resumed, will be greatly improved. When operations do commence again it is certain that the operators will go about the business with a rush for there are too many interests now being jeopardized by the present idleness. The roads themselves have keenly felt the scarcity of anthracite coal as is shown by the fact that soft coal is being used for many purposes for the first time on record. As a rule the dealers have acted fairly with the public, not advancing prices except where absolutely necessary, and the assurance given by many that when operations are resumed the commodity will only be sold in small quantities is very encouraging. The end is not yet, but the morrow is apt to change conditions for the better and the people must be contented to wait.

The advertising manager of the Burlington railroad was the first to do general railroad advertising in the newspapers, states an exchange, and he says the results have been highly satisfactory. "By the generous use of newspaper space, paid for in cash at cash rates, in the principal dailies both East and West," he asserts, "we have diverted to our road a great deal of travel."

An agreement having been reached between the Masonic Association of Plainfield and the trustees of the Babcock estate, the Masonic fraternity here will again be comfortably housed. The loss of headquarters has put the local organizations to much inconvenience and they are anxious to occupy the new quarters as soon as possible.

In that little play at war off the New England coast, the Fourth Estate is still ahead of the game. Notwithstanding the Government's announcement that no information would be given in advance, the newspaper men have kept the public right up to day in the progress of the affair.

No, the hallucination of some misinformed individuals that Runyon is not desirous of being heralded as a friend of Congressman Fowler, is not taken seriously here. It is correct, however, that he is a man of the people and this can be verified by any Plainfielder.

General Franz Siegal, soldier, politician and editor, surrendered to the angel of death yesterday. His name will go down in American history as a patriotic citizen of the land of his adoption. Thousands of Germans rallied under his banner in defense of the Union.

Lady Raglan, whoever she is, posed in here coronation robes, in London, the other day for the benefit of charity. Some people seem to be surprised at this up-to-date sort of show. Nothing new, nobility in general is accustomed to make an exhibition of itself.

President George F. Baer, of the Reading system, declares that coal and politics do not mix. Thus he frustrates a neat little game of the Quay band of political brigands to have their liege lord selected as arbitrator. Good, for Baer.

An exchange says that there was much disappointment among the excursionists because the moon did not shine while a political club was enjoying an outing the other night. Strange, isn't it? Political gathering and no "moonshine."

The editor of The Commoner volunteers the information that although there is prosperity he foresees that it cannot last long. Isn't there anybody in Lincoln, Nebraska, who will kindly examine this unfortunate man's sight?

An exchange says that an unusually large number of icebergs have been seen off the Atlantic coast this summer. If you want to sight some icebergs just watch some county politicians greet each other nowadays.

Senator Frye, who is sventy-one years old, following in the footsteps of Senator Depew and Bishop Potter, has determined to get married. As "Tune" Mellick would say "Don't it beat all."

General Russell A. Alger, sometime secretary of war, says that he does not seek the office of United States senator but that if the people elect him he'll accept. Now just watch them.

Two men down in Newark were arrested for selling coal at $3.75 per ton. They were arrested on a charge of larceny. Should include lunacy in the indictment as well.

The ship trust has brought out the Elizabethport brass works. Most trusts start out in business pretty well supplied with that article.

The price of corn is sprouting. It shot up five cents a bushel yesterday in Chicago.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Rev. J. A. Cubberly, of South Plainfield, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church Sunday, both morning and evening.

—Several new members will be elected at the meeting of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, next Tuesday evening.

—Fancy corn, egg plant and large sound tomatoes are some of the vegetables in Neuman Brothers' large display. Order early tomorrow.

—The Retail Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association will hold a meeting next Monday in G. A. R. Hall. A full attendance of all the members is desired.

—The addition being built to I. H. Boehm's building on West Front street is now enclosed and within a short time the interior work will be well under way.

—The Barbers' Union met last evening and installed C. T. Anthony as secretary and T. A. Kurzhals, Jr., as recorder. Two new members were also elected.

—The members of the German Reformed church will hold a picnic next week, Tuesday afternoon and evening, at the home of Chas. Debele, on Rock avenue.

Abram Angleman, of West Front street, has returned home after a visit to his son in Rahway.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Bathers at Boynton Beach, including a number of Plainfielders, had an exciting experience one day last week. After the tide had receded a little, a huge shark, eight feet long, was left in insufficient water to enable it to swim off. The water getting stirred up and muddy in the vicinity of the man-eater, two of the bathers sprawled over it before they realized or even knew what they were up against. The shark was killed by some of the men at the beach, and was on exhibition for several days.

Robert Benner, of East Fifth street, has been unable to attend to his business in New York for some days on account of a peculiar accident which befell him a few evenings ago. Mr. Benner placed his pipe in his coat pocket, not knowing that it was lighted. Shortly afterwards thrusting his hand into the pocket he was soon brought to a sense of his condition, for the whole side of his coat was ready to break into a blaze He received burns on his hands while quenching the fire that has incapacitated him since.

DUNELLEN.

A bicycle rider who gave his name as James Meredith, of Roycefield, met with a painful accident on North avenue, near the trolley terminus, yesterday afternoon. His wheel slid on the car track and he was thrown sideways nearly twenty feet. He was badly cut about the knees and a gash was inflicted on his forehead. The wheel was so badly damaged that he had to continue his trip home by train.

Under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E., a band concert and sale will be held in the Park on Thursday evening next. Ice cream, cake, lemonade and peanuts will be the articles offered for disposal. The proceeds will be used for the joint benefit of the society and the band.

The members of W. J. Hamilton's Sunday-school class are making arrangements for a peach festival to be held in the Presbyterian church, September 11. Several unique features which will be introduced promise to make it an unqualified success.

In preparation for the opening of the fall term, a number of small improvements are being made about the Whittier School. One of them is the erection of a new fence in the place of the one torn down some time ago.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Dick Harvey, who has been pitching winning ball for the Scotch Plains team during the past two seasons, has a record to be proud of. Harvey has pitched in eighteen games this season out of twenty-one played. His record is sixteen victories and two defeats. The latter were softened somewhat as in a return game with the Garwoods, first to defeat the locals, they were shut out 10-0. The second defeat was administered by the Mutes. This was evened up several weeks later by defeating them by a score of 10-2. Dick can generally be depended upon for a hit, too, when it is needed.

The baseball game Saturday afternoon between the locals and Sidneys, of Brooklyn, gives promise of being one of the best games of the season. The visitors are considered one of the best clubs around the metropolitan district and claim the championship of Brooklyn. Manager Johnston's team are playing fast ball and are worrying all the pitchers with their work with the stick. So a good game is assured.

Ernest C. Kieb, of the borough, has been appointed by Mayor Low, of New York City, as stenographer for the investigating committee, who are investigating the riot at Hoe & Co. several weeks ago when the employes interferred with the funeral procession of a rabbi.

Borough Collector Charles Sheelean sold the property of M. L. K. Carter on Tuesday to Lewis W. Miller for a term of 30 years to satisfy the borough claim for unpaid taxes for the years 1900-01.

TENNIS CONTESTANTS FEAST

PARTICIPANTS IN Y. M. C. A. TOURNAMENT CLIMAX AFFAIR.

Award of Prizes—Unique Menu—Clever Speeches—Had a Good Time Generally.

As a climax to the tennis tournament that has been in progress at the Y. M. C. A., the contestants last evening sat down to a dainty spread and after the presentation of prizes to the winners carried out a programme of speeches and toasts.

First honors in the tournament went to A. L. Schomp. The prize was a picture frame artistically carved, bearing the insignia "Y. M. C. A." on a shield in each corner, two tennis rackets in the centre of the frame at the top, the date "1902" at the bottom; on one side the word torunament and on the other the winner's name. The second prize, carried off by C. M. Rogers, was a pair of championship tennis balls.

The menu card for last night's event was something unique. Gotten up as a blue print, a tennis racket and two balls surmounted a descriptive emblem. The menu itself was just as novel. There was ice cream a la single, cake a la angelic, and water a la Watchung. In the speechmaking line there were three minute blasts of hot air by Messrs. Schomp, Robbie, Denton, Neal, Brokaw, Vail, Moraller, Meeker, Emes, Sebring, McCarthy, Scull, Fuller and Dr. Whitford, players in the recent tournament. The room was prettily decorated in honor of the occasion with bunting and American flags.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For a cool drink prepared with care go to the fountain in the pharmacy of John P. Powers, Somerset street. The best place in the city to quench your thirst.

C. L. Stanley, the North avenue florist, has always on hand a large stock of cut flowers, palms, ferns and plants. Decorating and floral design work is a specialty.

Walk into John H. Doane's shoe store and examine his superior stock of fine shoes for men, women and children. He keeps a large stock in all sizes and the quality and price will also suit you.

Always alive to the needs of their patrons Foss & Jeter go to considerable expense to furnish their patrons with seafood that is strictly fresh. Their fish is brought directly from the nets and is retained at prices that defy comparison. All orders delivered free.

J. W. VanSickle, the North avenue market man, is still at his old stand, where he has been for many years. All who want to have the best of everything in the meat line should not pass him by. He sells nothing but high grade meat at very low cash prices.

A prescription department that will equal any in the State is a feature of C. M. Nagle's West Front street pharmacy. Only competent druggists are connected with it and it is under Mr. Nagle's personal supervision. He also recently added a thoroughly up-to-date fountain from which delicious soda is drawn.

There has been no lull in the trade at Hill & Shupp's store this summer, in fact trade has increased steadily. There are so many bargains in every department and the prices are so reasonable that people have shown their preference to this store from those in New York. The special sales at the store are well worth watching for in this way many dollars can be saved.

A Small Hippopotamus.

An interesting discovery has been made by Miss D. Bate in certain limestone caves in Cyprus. This consists of remains of a hippopotamus of even smaller size than the one from the Maltese bone fissures, and only about half the dimensions of the common African species. The describer, Dr. Forsyth Major, regards the Cyprian species as the true Hippopotamus minutus of Cuvier, and considers that it displays affinities on the one hand with the living pigmy hippopotamus of west Africa, and on the other with an extinct Italian representative of the group. The occurrence in Cyprus of this dwarf fossil hippopotamus is considered to be confirmatory of the view that many of the later tertiary mammals of the Mediterranean islands were slightly modified survivors of species which disappeared at an earlier date from the adjacent mainland.—Knowledge.

The Mulberry Bush.

In our baby days we used to sing: "Here we go round the mulberry bush," but as we had never seen one, we had no definite idea as to what it was like. Now we go round it and under it with a purpose—to pick the berries. As a family, we enjoy them very much, and as it is a fruit not widely known in this locality, I thought it might be a kindly act to pass the news along. Coming as strawberries depart and before blackberries, they are timely, and it is well to have a full succession of fruit on one's place, for the season is not always favorable for every kind. We enjoy them raw, stewed or baked in a pie. They resemble the blackberry in flavor, but without the objectionable seeds, and are tart and delightful. The tree is not large, but it is more than a "bush," and not more prone to be afflicted with caterpillars than other trees.—Piladelphia Ledger.

Love and Bamboo in Java.

The young shoots of the bamboo are covered with a number of very fine hairs that are seen, under the microscope, to be hollow and spiked like bayonets. These hairs are commonly called bamboo poison by the white men resident in Java, for the reason that murder is frequently committed through their agency. When a Javanese woman takes a fancy to a European she will either have him or poison him if she gets the chance. She seeks any and every opportunity of mixing these infinitesimal hairs among his food, and they serve the purpose of irritating the whole length of the alimentary canal and setting up malignant dysentery. It may take a long time and many doses of this so-called poison to effect the purpose, but the native woman does not tire and death will surely result. The male native will also try this method of revenge for an affront.—Japan Mail.

RATTLER IS POLITE.

Always Issues a Challenge Before He Makes Attack.

Never Goes Out of the Way for a Fight, But Fights Desperately When in Danger—A Boy's Thrilling Experience.

The rattlesnake, probably the most deadly American snake, is really a gentleman, as snakes go. He never eats his own friends, as most other snakes do, and he always plays fair and gives warning before he strikes. In the early pioneer days, west of the Rockies, rattlers were frequently eaten by hard-pressed travelers, and their flesh is said to be as good as chicken. Great skill must be exercised in catching this snake, if he is to be eaten, as he has a trick of biting himself when cornered, and so committing suicide, and, in this case, his flesh is as deadly as his bite.

The maligned pig, who is known by those who properly understand him to be a really brave and intelligent little beast, regards rattlesnakes as the greatest luxury, and attacks and kills them with absolute fearlessness. On a California ranch a certain field was so overrun with rattlers that it was practically useless. It was fenced in, and a pair of young pigs turned into it. The pigs grew fat and sleek, and in a short time they had gobbled up every last rattler. Piggiwig has been known to attack the largest and most deadly snakes, and come off victor in the fight.

Apropos of the well-known fact that a rattler will bite himself and commit suicide rather than fall into the hands of his enemies, the tale is told by hundreds in the far west that a little bird, a native of the Rockies, is extremely interested in the extermination of the rattler.

So far as is known, this bird does not feed upon the snake, but is actuated solely by motives of benevolence in ridding the world of these dangerous reptiles. Seeing a rattler asleep or sunning himself on a stone, this thoughtful and energetic little body flies off and returns with bits of very prickly cactus, which the bird places in a little circle around him. When the circle is quite complete, the enterprising bird, eager to see the results of its toil, swoops down and runs his bill into the sleeping snake, which starts to move away, only to encounter the cactus, over which he cannot crawl. He turns about and strikes the cactus again. Finding himself unable to escape, he bites himself and dies by his own deadly weapon.

A rattlesnake never goes out of his way for a fight, but when he is attacked he fights desperately. A lad, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who was trout fishing in a country where rattlers abound, slipped and fell.

In falling, he saw, to his horror, that he was going down on the cold body of a large snake. He heard the rattle, which is the snake's war cry.

He had the presence of mind in falling to grab the snake close to the head, and hold on like grim death. Like a flash the snake's body coiled around his arm and tightened in an effort to make him relax his hold. It moved its body so vigorously that in spite of holding with both hands, he feared it would escape. Fortunately, his companions came to his assistance and cut the snake from his arm before he was quite exhausted with the struggle.

German Sugar Production.

Last year the Germans produced 1,500,000 tons of raw sugar, representing 13 per cent. of the beet root crushed, which was an increase since 1840 of 8,000 tons of product as 3½ per cent. of the material used. The Dyeing industry earned $30,000,000 last year, against $6,000,000 in 1874, notwithstanding diminished prices and increased wages. Artificial indigo now employs over 6,000 men, including 148 scientific chemists, although started only about 35 years ago with less than 14 men. In 1898 Germany employed 14,000 persons in making scientific instruments, the exports being three times those of 1888. These are examples of the results of scientific training in the land of its greatest development.

Good Thing for Travelers.

When a traveler in Baden, Germany, wants to send a telegram while he is in the train, he writes the message on a postal card with the request that it shall be wired, puts on a stamp, and drops it into the train letter-box. At the next station the box is cleared and the message telegraphed.

REMINGTON MURDERED?

Reported That His Brother Thinks He Was.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 22.—It is reported from an authoritative source that Edward P. Remington is not satisfied that his brother Robert died by his own hands. When it became known that he was entertaining a suspicion of foul play, which originated before he left Newport with the body, a reporter called on Mr. Remington and requested a statement. He replied that he would neither deny nor affirm anything relative to his brother's death except that the autopsy performed revealed that the bullet in the mouth caused death. When asked if the bullet found imbedded in the dead man's brain fitted the revolver found by his side, he declared that he had nothing further to say. Asked if developments in the case could be expected, he said time alone would tell.

Mr. Remington and his attorney, Seth T. McCormick, as well as the physicians who performed the autopsy, were together in secret conference until late at night, and their action is surrounded by much mystery. They positively refuse to give out any further information.

The remains of Robert Remington have been laid at rest in Willowood cemetery. The interment, which had been announced as private, was witnessed by a curious crowd of men and women who had gathered at the cemetery. On the casket rested a wreath of American Beauty roses and lilies of the valley. The flowers were sent by Miss May Van Alen, former fiancee of Robert Remington.

Mr. Schwab Sails.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, has sailed for Europe in the Lorraine, looking strong and in his usual health. He was accompanied to the steamship by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation; George W. Perkins of Mr. Morgan's office, Joseph H. Schwab, Max Pain, T. F. Baker, S. A. Pope and Charles Sorck. Mr. Schwab was asked to confirm or deny the persistent rumor that he was to resign as president of the steel corporation and said emphatically: "Not a word of truth in it. I am going away on my vacation. I don't know how long I shall remain away, and that's all."

Jusseraud May Succeed Cambon.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—No announcement concerning the successor of Jules Cambon, French embassador to the United States, has yet been made. Inquiry at the foreign office elicited the statement that the selection of M. Cambon's successor would probably be made this week. A rumor, however, is in circulation that M. Jusseraud, French minister at Copenhagen, may be M. Cambon's successor. Le Soir says M. Cambon is mentioned as the successor of the Marquis de Montebello, French embassador to Russia.

Shah Visits Westminster Abbey.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The shah has visited Westminster abbey, accompanied by Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Marquis of Lansdowne, secretary of state for foreign affairs, and Lady Lansdowne and others, attended by his highness Atabek-Azam, grand vizier, and a large suit and escorted by a detachment of the life guards. Later he was present at a gala performance at the Hippodrome. The shah everywhere received ovations, and he greatly enjoyed the performance.

A FAIRY TALE OF INDUSTRY.

Interesting Facts About the Great Transformation Scene to Sault Ste. Marie.

Few people have any notion of the stupendous operations going on at Sault Ste. Marie, the little Canadian village on the shores of Lake Superior, where an industrial center of enormous magnitude is now being created by the energies of one man. "Harnessing Lake Superior" is the title of an article in Pearson's, which gives this remarkable story: "Five years ago the sleepy little Canadian town of Sault Ste. Marie numbered 2,500 inhabitants. Past its doors the surplus waters of Lake Superior, mightiest of inland oceans, emptied into Lake Huron. Untold millions of horse power energy lay latent in their idly flowing eddies, but only the slow-turning wheels of a few old flour mills stood to mark their commercial usefulness, while but an occasional steamer or a paddle propelled canoe disturbed the tranquil surface. Almost as in a night a metamorphosis has taken place.

"Where once was a scattered group of village dwellings, great stone buildings, with towers and shafts and connecting passageways, now stand, and at their base deep-dug canals wind in and out, spanned by bridges of massive stone. Nine thousand workmen now earn their livings in the shops at Sault Ste. Marie, beside the site where five years ago the total population was but a quarter of that number. It is a truly wonderful story, this story of the growth of the little frontier town into a great industrial centre; and its story is the history of the career of one man—Francis H. Clergue."

GOOD FOR JEWELERS.

Ping-Pong Is Said to Be Hard on Watches and the Repairer Will Profit.

"Ping-pong is a fine game," said a jeweler, who does a lot of repairing, to a Sun man. "No outdoor or indoor sport has ever given us so much to do. It is surprising how many persons have broken their watches since the game became a fad, says the New York Sun.

"You see, people play the game without removing their coats or waistcoats. In the excitement they forget about their watches, and the first thing a man knows his timepiece bounds out of his pocket. Sometimes it strikes the table, but wherever it does fall the watch is damaged.

"That is not all. A player may tie his watch to his pocket, but still it gets out of gear. The constant jumping around and the swinging of the arms disturbs the works so the watch has to be brought to us to be regulated.

"I have had as many women's watches as men's to repair. The women are even more careless than the men. Their watches dangle from their shirt waists, and as a result the watch jumps around like a weathercock in a gale of wind.

"Surprising as it may seem, my income from repairing watches has almost tripled since the craze of ping-pong began."

SAXONY'S ECCENTRIC KING.

Interesting Stories Are Told of the Peculiar Habits of the Former Ruler.

The newspapers have lately been full of incident of the life of the deceased king of Saxony, but they are mostly connected with his public military career. Of his private life little is told except that in its extreme simplicity it resembled closely that of Emperor William I.

It is reported that King Albert had a rooted objection to exchanging his old clothes for new ones, and it was only with great difficulty that his groom of the chamber could persuade him to have a new coat tried on. One day when he had just undergone the torment of having clothes tried on, the king happened to pass through the famous hall of the knights, in the Dresden palace. Looking up at the figures of the mail-clad knights, he said, with a deep sigh: "What a good time the old knights had in their iron armor; they were troubled with no creases."

A retired captain of the Saxony army, whom everybody knew as being under his wife's thumb, applied for permission to wear his old uniform on special occasions. The king wrote on the margin of the application: "I am quite willing, if his wife permits it."

Cleaner Transportation.

Some statistical losses are hailed with pleasure. New York city is glad to hear that it has only 65,086 horses and 3,326 stables, compared with 73,746 horses and 4,649 stables in 1896. Electricity and automobiles are responsible for the change, and it is an important one in the direction of cleaner streets.

Horrors of the Cinematagraph.

The exhibition of cinematograph pictures showing the operation recently performed on the Hindoo twins, Radica, and Doodica, has awakened a storm of disgust in Vienna. The pictures show all the horrors of the dissecting room, and the dreadful contortions of the limbs when under the knife.

Massachusetts' Smallest Town.

Gosnold, the smallest town in Massachusetts, comprises those little specks of land which, beginning at Woods Holl, at the shoulder of old Cape Cod's right arm, extend seaward till they terminate in that fatal reef of the Sow and pigs.

SMART COTTON GOWNS.

Fancy For Mercerized Linens—Silk Petticoats With Wash Gowns.

Cotton gowns this season are very dainty, and there is quite a fancy for the pinks and deep reds in glace linens. White trimmings have rather a tawdry effect on this type of cotton, but black is frequently used in the form of black velvet ribbon, chantilly lace, etc.

Some of the dress hollands and art linens are so bright and effective with the silky, mercerized effects that they make up into rather dressy gowns, especially when trimmed with coarse lace.

Silk petticoats are now worn with wash gowns. They are certainly more comfortable and lighter weight than the long, unwieldy cambric garments, which are both troublesome and expensive on account of the frequent launderings necessary.

Nearly all the cotton gowns are softened with little collars of embroidery or crochet lace.

A gown of white etamine is here shown. The waist has a wide sailor collar edged with Irish crochet lace. The inner vest is of tucked chiffon, as also are the undersleeves. The skirt is elaborately trimmed with the Irish crochet lace, and there are two gored flounces edged also with the lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT IS WORN.

Dressy and Serviceable Boas—A New Tailor Made.

The prettiest gowns worn by the smartest women are invariably those of the picturesque order; by that is meant those which have little individual touches.

Some of the most effective boas are made of silk petals resembling roses and poppies. One of the latest things in neckgear is a large flat collar of glace, partly veiled with another collar of plaited mousseline de soie with hand veinings and lace inserted therein.

DRESSY TAILOR MADE.

A wide collar of lace set over chiffon and having ends of the chiffon is also very pretty.

For cold, dull days nothing is more useful than the marabou boa. Very smart neckpieces are made up of black or ecru lace shirred up skillfully and intermixed with narrow velvet ribbons.

A serviceable tailor made is shown in the cut. It can be worn on many occasions owing to its dainty finish. The blouse coat has round revers faced with white embroidered silk. The sleeves are slashed to show full puffs of corded silk. The skirt has five folds simulating flounces. These are beaded with tiny pipings of taffeta.

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"Nobody said that you had, and yet it has turned out well for you, after all," and Frank blew a big puff of smoke into the air. "I believe the late Mrs. Ellison had a tight fist, and that it was hard to get her to sign checks—there—there," as he saw that his brother appeared to be deeply moved, "I don't want to open a fresh wound, but, at the same time, I am stating cold facts. I am a cold, unfeeling person, as you have probably discovered before this."

"In Heaven's name, what do you want, man? I wish you would be quick about it!"

The other coolly tossed his cigarette in the grate before answering, then he looked at his brother a moment, and gave vent to a loud laugh.

"Why, I never saw you so much moved in my life," said he.

"I want to know what you mean?"

"You mean you want to know what my terms are for securing that document and otherwise suppressing in a gentle manner the little man who has been annoying you."

"Yes."

"The renunciation of all attempts to help young Barnett."

"Anything else?" and James Ellison eyed his brother, as if he was in fear of what he would say next.

"I think that is about all for the present," said the other, calmly.

"In fact, I should like things to go against him, if possible," continued Frank. "I would like him out of the way."

"You puzzle me more and more," murmured James Ellison.

"Why not come out flat with what you mean?"

"Ah," replied the other, with a laugh, "I surprise you, do I? Well, I am a fellow of infinite variety, as you might have discovered long ago, if misfortune had not separated us—or, rather, fortune in your case divided us."

"I am waiting to hear what you have to say," replied James, who now had become sullen through the references to his fortune.

"Well, I have taken a great fancy to your daughter, and I don't mean, if I can help it, that this young clodhopper shall have her."

Ellison rose, and, while his lips moved, not a word came from them. Frank, seeing how perturbed he was, broke into a noisy laugh.

"Why so surprised, my excellent brother? She is not your daughter, and, after all, there are cases of an uncle marrying his niece. I might add to the list of freak marriages. Now, the case stands in this light, and you may look as horrified as you please. It is my desire to marry the girl—to stop your amiable interferences with the course the law is taking. If you refuse, why so much the worse for you. Who knows but I may go over to the other side," and, with a malicious smile, he left the room, while his brother, as if stricken with a sudden palsy, stared after him, unable to utter a word!

CHAPTER XIV.

A BIRD OF THE NIGHT.

Pleasant avenue is a little New York street facing the East river that has long ago ceased to deserve such a complimentary appellation. Principally filled with empty houses, that at one time must have been occupied by people of wealth and position, it has fallen into a state of ruin and decay, while the road proper is filled with debris and almost impassable to wagons.

There are a few people who live there, because the rents are so cheap—hard-working people, not particular as to their dwellings so long as the rates are not ruinous, and evidently not possessed of a delicate sense of smell.

It was in a little house, at the end of a long garden, reached by passing through the wagonway of an empty factory, that Job Hendricks had established himself for some days.

While he had succeeded in outwitting Ellison for the time being, he thought that now the war between them would be open, and that it would no longer be safe for him to remain in the vicinity of Farrenford. For the present he might let matters rest, and there was other work he had cut out to do, that necessitated his presence in the city. So it was that he came to occupy the little cottage at the end of the long garden at the bottom of Pleasant avenue. It was little more than a pavilion, with two rooms on the ground floor and two above. He bought a few pieces of simple furniture and moved in, occupying the upper rooms. The others he left to the mice and spiders. At least, he could not believe that he had prying neighbors, for they worked too hard all day to bother themselves about the affairs of others, and since he had moved in in the evening, and the house stood out of sight behind the tall factory, it was doubtful if any but a few knew that the house in the garden was occupied. So it was that he felt genuine pleasure in his retreat, for it seemed to afford a refuge where he could pursue his task without fear, and where he hoped, for the present, no one could find him out. To make matters sarer, he had taken the precautions to change his appearance, so that even the worthy innkeeper at Exton would have had trouble in recognizing his former guest.

So far Hendricks had not been successful in his efforts to trace the man who had written the letter—the torn envelope of which had been treasured ever since. It bore a New York postmark, and he hoped that the writer was still in town, though it might be otherwise. At least, he might possibly come across one who knew where he was to be found. Though so far he had accomplished nothing, he still had hopes. A man of the type he was seeking must in time be found if he was in the city. Those of his class belonged to certain groups, and, however mysterious their movements, their presence in a place was always known.

Job had returned one evening, worn out with his search in the lower parts of the city, had finished his humble supper, which he had brought home in a paper bag, and had been napping on his cot, when an unusual sound in the empty rooms below him attracted his attention. He jumped to his feet, and, setting the candle on the table behind him, opened the window and peered out on the deserted garden. A faint moonlight lay over the ragged berry bushes along the walks, and on the pile of wood that was a most conspicuous decoration and rose like a funeral pyre in the center of the grass plot.

"That's queer," he muttered, drawing in his head. "Not a person in sight, and certainly I didn't dream that I heard that noise."

He took another peep out of the window and then closed it softly, shaking his head.

"Must be in the house—wonder if a rat could make a noise like that? The beggars do grow pretty big in these parts. Ah, there it is again—and comes from those rooms below. I suppose I must look into this a bit," and he sighed to think that perhaps he was not to enjoy his peaceful little abode much longer—that some one had found him out.

He took his revolver out of his pocket, examined it carefully to see that it was in working order, and then, holding it in one hand and carrying the candle in the other, opened the door leading to the stairs and went down. It was very quiet below as he paused at the last step to listen. He heard a scurrying sound in the wall, but there was nothing to be alarmed about in that; it was a man's step he thought he had heard in the first place. After a moment he stepped on to the floor and swung the candle around, to get a good view of the place.

Just as he did this he was suddenly conscious of heavy breathing close beside him, and at the same time the pistol was suddenly snatched out of his hand.

It was done so quickly that for a moment he felt stunned, then turned about to grapple with his opponent; but the candle went out, and his outstretched hand only fanned the empty air. He stood there unarmed, not daring to move, lest he should betray his whereabouts, and give this unseen foe a chance to locate him for a shot. So he stood silent, and was considerably surprised to hear not the crack of an exploding cartridge, but a cackling laugh, that in the silence of the place sounded so weird that it even startled him from his usual condition of calm imperturbability.

"Who are you? What are you doing here?" he called out.

"Just wait until I get this candle goin', and I'll make myself known," said the man he could not see, and at the same time Job heard a scraping sound, as if the other was trying to find the candle. This he was able to do, for, after a moment's hunt, the candle was lit, and out of the gloom a shuffling figure appeared. Job took the candle out of his hand and held the light up to the man's face. It was not a handsome face into which he peered. The fellow had doffed a ragged hat, that he might show his features better. His hair descended in ragged wisps about his hungry and cadaverous face, that, being unshaven, seemed sprinkled with coal dust. His dark eyes set in deep hollows, wore a half-amused expression, while his lips were parted in a grin that disclosed a double row of yellow and uneven teeth.

"Oh, it's you, eh," grumbled Hendricks.

"You know me—Jebbs—do you? Ah, I thought you would," and the stranger broke out into a cackling laugh again. "Here's yer pistol," said he, handing over the weapon. "Gave ye a jolly good scare, that's what I done."

"Nonsense—come up stairs and say what you have to say," and Job, angry at the way he had been treated, led the way up the stairs, while the other, evidently conscious that it would not do to anger his host further, followed him slowly.

SPARROW JACK'S HOUSE.

The Home of the Man Who Imported English Sparrows to Kill American Caterpillars.

The annual warfare of early summer against the troublesome English sparrows that persist in destroying certain seed planting and in feasting on the cherries and berries is now on. Even the friends of the sparrows probably know but little of the man who introduced them into Pennsylvania, or of his quaint little home still standing on Main street, Germantown.

This curious little old stone building, whose crumbled walls face Main street at the corner of Upsall, with the Upsall street side protected by framework that is in turn rotting away with the crumbling stone, was standing at the time of the revolution, and has been but little changed since. It was here that the Englishman, John Bardsley, made his home after the civil war; he was a painter by trade, quite successful in his chosen line, and eager to visit his native home at the time that William F. Smith was councilman of Germantown.

This was about 30 years ago, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, and at that time the caterpillars were infesting the trees of the city—probably to an even greater extent than the trees were raided by the pest last summer and fall. In despair over the destructive inroads made by the caterpillars, Councilman Smith used his influence in sending John Bardsley to England to bring over a lot of English sparrows to destroy the American pest. In order to show his appreciation of the opportunity to visit his old home in England, Mr. Bardsley brought back with him a great number of the sparrows, and it is believed that this was the first introduction of the sparrow into this country on any great scale, and certainly the first introduction into Pennsylvania. The old house has long been known as "Sparrow Jack house," and the name of John or "Jack" Bardsley will long be associated with the little English sparrow.

HAS UNIQUE RECORD.

Leander Sisco, of Clinton, Iowa, Has Been a Locomotive Engineer for 42 Years.

Engineer Sisco, of Clinton, Ia., who has just been placed on the pension list of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, has one of the most remarkable records of any locomotive engineer in the world. For 42 consecutive years he was employed as an engineer on the Northwestern road.

Engineer Sisco has kept an accurate account of the miles he has traveled. The total figures up to 1,402,297 miles. Had he covered 25,403 more miles he would have traveled far enough in his cab to have made three round trips to the moon. Had his engine always headed in the same direction he would have circumnavigated the globe 56½ times. If 208,725,445 men of the height of Mr. Sisco were to stand, one on top of each other, they would tower 1,252,354,670 feet in the air, representing the distance covered by him in an engine. This remarkable man was born on February 27, 1836, at Oswego, N. Y., and it was there that he learned his trade of machinist. In 1857 he came to Clinton and decided that he would make his home here for the rest of his life. He has served under 11 master mechanics and under scores of division superintendents. Mr. Sisco has an income sufficient to keep him in comfort.

Wisconsin Man Recovers from a Severe Operation.

It Was Performed to Rid Him of a Cancer in His Digestive Organs—But Few Cases Like It on Record.

Though nearly one-half of his stomach was cut away two months ago, Charles Stryzewski, of Oshkosh, Wis., is getting more healthy and stronger every day, and the process of digestion appears to be performed much more completely and beneficially than by a very large proportion of persons who are blessed—or, as some dyspeptics might put it, cursed—with a whole stomach.

Ten years ago Stryzewski was a robust man, apparently in perfect health. He was employed in one of the local factories, and so steadily did he labor that he was enabled to accumulate enough money to purchase a home for his wife and two sons, and also to lay up a sum for a rainy day.

About five years ago he began to have trouble with his stomach, and his health began to fail. It was supposed that he had catarrh of the stomach, and he was dosed and treated for that ailment. But all proved unavailing. He became emaciated, and was unable to perform his daily labor.

His ailment was finally diagnosed as cancer of the stomach, and he was informed that his case was hopeless.

But Stryzewski is far from a coward. He determined that rather than perish of starvation, he would die of the wound of a surgeon's knife. Although informed that there was almost no chance of recovery, he went to the hospital and prepared himself for the ordeal.

On the morning before the operation was performed he was given absolutely no nourishment. Borne to the operating room, the stomach was further cleansed by the application of a stomach pump. This, Stryzewski says, hurt him a good deal.

Then the anaesthetic was administered and he was oblivious of his surroundings until the middle of the afternoon, though he entered the operating-room at half past ten a. m. The operation itself, however, took only a little more than two hours.

The diseased portion of the stomach was severed from the unaffected part, and the membraneous walls were then sewed together. It required about 100 stitches to sew the walls of the stomach. The other organs were rearranged and the hole closed in the wall of the abdomen.

Then followed the weary and almost hopeless struggle for life. The patient rallied from the shock of the double wound, but on account of the enforced idleness of the ordinary digestive organs, his life hung by a thread.

For three weeks not a morsel of food, liquid or solid, entered the mouth or stomach. The patient was kept alive by injections of liquid nourishment and stimulants.

The wound caused thirst, but he was absolutely refused water, as a drink of water, the physicians said, would be almost instantly fatal. His thirst almost crazed him, but he kept before him all the time that if he struggled on and bore the suffering, he might live, and life was so dear to him, and the thought of leaving his wife and boys without a protector so bitter, that he gritted his teeth and grimly fought on.

At the end of three weeks he was allowed the first nourishment—a little milk. Gradually he was placed on a milk diet, and the crucial period having been passed with the assimilation of the lacteal fluid, he ate soups.

Now he is permitted to eat practically everything that goes to make up the bill of fare in households. Pastry, of course, he avoids.

He is getting stronger all the time, walks about and sits in the sun and reads. At present he weighs more than he did before the operation, and has the appearance simply of a man who is recovering from an illness, with no suggestion of death or decline. He expects that he will be able to resume his daily employment in a month.

The operating surgeons say that the portion of the stomach affected by the cancer and removed was at least one-third of the whole organ. The operation is believed to be the first of the kind in Wisconsin.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Westfield will go up against the Equitables in the second game of the series of three, tomorrow. The Westfields will make a determined effort to get the second contest as failure to do so loses them superiority.

"Tommie" Burns' exhibition of steady twirling in the All-Plainfield-Mute game, Wednesday, advanced him several degrees in the estimation of the fans. A total of two hits was all he allowed the visitors and there was very little batting beside.

Captain Townley has decided to place Dan Force on his staff of pitchers in Monday's game with the police. Force played second in the last game and held it down in good shape. Two new outfielders will also be seen Monday.

League baseball games scheduled for tomorrow are Hope vs. Y. M. C. A. on Hope grounds and St. Mary vs. H. R. E. Safe Works on St. Mary grounds. The games on the following Saturday are those postponed by reason of rain from June 21 and will complete the League season, tomorrow's games will commence at 3:30.

GOLF.

There will be two events on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow, the weekly competitions for the Boys' and Golf committee cups. The interest in these events is increasing every week as the competition is very close. Arthur Peterson leads for the Boys' cup, while E. T. Newkirk is in the lead for the Golf committee cup. Among the leaders there are only a few points difference.

The handicap committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association has just issued the fall ranking of the local golfers. The official sheet covers all rated at seventeen or less and includes about twelve hundred names. But very few important changes have been made by the committee. Walter J. Travis and Findlay S. Douglass, both being beaten this year by Frank O. Reinhart, are still rated in classes by themselves, four and two strokes respectively in advance of the other local first-class performers. Travis being left at scratch and Douglass changed from 1 to 2 is the highest possible tribute to the class of Mr. Travis by those who know him best not withstanding his two recent defeats. There are only two members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club listed and they are Frank O. Reinhart, who is given a handicap of 6 and J. Whitney Baker, who is given 8.

Death of Mrs. Smith.

Following a long illness from a complication of diseases, death came to Mrs. Annie Smith, wife of Adam Smith, of West Second street, early this morning. She was the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Monks with whom she has been living. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

LETTERS TO THE PRESS.

The Editor is Not Responsible for the Views Expressed in This Column.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Please allow me enough space in your valuable paper, to thank the Wetumpkah Tribe of Red Men, in their grand and noble stand against Sunday baseball playing. It is something appalling to witness the desecration of our Sunday.

Those who try to keep it sacred should be upheld by all professing Christians, and respectors of law and order. "Let us remember the Sabbath-Day to keep it holy.

A Church Member.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 22, 1902.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—My attention has been called to the article in your issue of yesterday entitled "Signal Victory," and as the article in question does great injustice to my client, Mrs. McVey, and to her property interests, I ask that you kindly make public this correction. The case of Mrs. McVey against Plainfield Cab Company and Mrs. Peck was not terminated by the proceedings before Vice Chancellor Stevens on Tuesday, as that was merely a preliminary skirmish, nor did the Vice Chancellor uphold the contentions of counsel for the Plainfield Cab Company. In fact, he did quite the contrary, for after the argument the Vice Chancellor said in effect—and out of professional courtesy I put it considerably milder than the Vice Chancellor did—that evidently the defendants had not been advised as to their exact rights in the matter, and then went on to state what they could do and could not do, and concluded by saying that now since the defendants had been informed that the right of way must be kept clear, and that Mrs. McVey's rights therein must not be interfered with, he did not think that the complainant would have any further trouble, but if she did, upon proof being submitted to him, he would sign the order for an injunction without a moment's hesitation, and that on the final hearing of the case the entire matter would be adjusted according to the deed.

The complainant applied for a preliminary injunction restraining the defendants from interfering with her rights pending the bearing of the case and the final determination of the court thereon. The Vice Chancellor said that he would make no order at present, either one way or the other, but he did give verbal directions from the bench that Mrs. McVeys' rights must be respected, and as that was what we were in court to obtain, it would naturally seem to a person of ordinary mind that the "Signal Victory" became lost, strayed, or stolen by the time the inspiration for the article in question reached your office.

Respectfully,
W. S. Angleman.

Talk on Battle.

George Lucas, Company K, Ninth Cavalry, U. S. Regulars, will speak at a meeting in the First Church of Christ this evening. He will tell what he saw and heard in the charge at San Juan Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Laird, of West Second street, returned home, last evening, from Illinois and Ohio where they have been spending the past three weeks with relatives.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

IN HONOR OF HIS LORDSHIP

SILVER JUBILEE OF BISHOP M'FAUL TO BE CELEBRATED.

Career of Prelate an Eventful one—Anniversary of Consecration to be Observed Also.

Priests of the diocese of Trenton met one day this week at the residence of Bishop McFaul to make arrangements for the celebration of the silver jubilee of His Lordship's priesthood, which will take place October 18. Very Rev. John H. Fox, vicar general, presided. The matter was placed in the hands of the board of diocesan consultors to make further arrangements.

Bishop McFaul received holy orders from the hands of the late Archbishop Corrigan and began his priestly career May 26, 1877. It was originally intended to celebrate his silver jubilee last May, but as the sixth anniversary of the Bishop's consecration occurs in October it was decided to honor both events on the same occasion.

Members of the cathedral parish will tender him a reception and the clergy of the diocese will assemble to express good will. There will be other events in connection with the anniversary, to be arranged later.

NEW JERSEY CROPS GOOD

EXCELLENT REPORTS FROM EVERY SECTION OF THE STATE.

According to Bulletin Just Issued by U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Crops of New Jersey, according to the bulletin just issued by the State section of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, are in splendid condition. Especially is this true of the central portion of the State. John Nagle, the Plainfield correspondent, reports all crops are growing nicely; that only one case of rot in potatoes has been heard from and that in low damp ground. The rainfall for the week ending Monday, August 18, was in this section 0.23 inch.

In the vicinity of Elizabeth the potato crop is the best since 1896 and the ground is in good condition for fall seeding. In the Somerville district, however, the frequent heavy showers have blown many apples from the trees and some peaches have rotted; oats, too, were much damaged by wet weather during the harvesting.

The general report for the whole State, from the experimental station at New Brunswick is highly gratifying. All growing and maturing crops are in fine condition. The sunshiny weather of the past week was favorable to finishing up the belated oats and hay harvest. Corn is earing well and promises to be a fine crop, both in grain and fodder. The yield of potatoes will be the largest for a number of years. Winter apples, in sections, are very promising, but the yield will be slightly below the average. All vine truck is doing well with the exception of late tomatoes.

During the week the temperature has averaged six degrees below the daily normal, and the precipitation less than half of the average. The sunshine was above the normal.

FIGHTS A WILD CAT.

Thomas Cooper, of Watchung, Has an Exciting Experience.

Battling with a wild cat in an old abandoned house at dead of night with no one near to aid him was the exciting experience of Thomas Cooper, living near Watchung, on his return home from a social gathering at about 12 o'clock last Monday evening. He now lies at his home suffering from scratches received in his desperate encounter with the animal.

Cooper had stepped inside the house to light his pipe. About to depart he noticed something in the far off corner, crouching, with eyes glaring. Thinking it a domestic feline of the vagrant variety, he tossed a small piece of brick into the corner. It was the signal for battle. The cat sprung at him. Cooper was afraid to turn his back and run. For twenty minutes he fought the infuriated beast. Contriving to pick up a club, he delivered a telling blow that stunned the cat. Cooper returned home and related his experience, but a search failed to locate the animal that had supposedly been killed, although the floor was covered with blood.

John Cooper, a brother of the man was in the city this morning, and is inclined to believe that the animal fought by his brother was other than a wildcat.

BENEVOLENT COUNCIL HOLDS CELEBRATION

Progressive Organization of Jr. O. U. A. M. Observed its First Anniversary.

ENTERTAINING AFFAIR.

SISTER COUNCILS IN THIS VICINITY WELL REPRESENTED.

Rattling Good Programme—Bountiful Repast—Midnight Before Affair Was Brought to a Close—The Committee in Charge.

One year's existence as a fraternal organization, attended with rapid growth, was not allowed to pass unnoticed by Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M. The first anniversary was last evening and in honor of the occasion an entertainment was given in Washington Hall, for the benefit of the council and visiting delegations. Among some of the sister councils represented were Franklin and Somerset, of this city, Twilight, of Scotch Plains; William G. Holton, of Dunellen; Friendship, of New Market; Elizabeth and Winfield Scott, of Elizabeth; George H. Adams, of Newark; Asbury, of Asbury Park; Union, of Rahway; Fairview, of Gallia; Goodwill, of New Brunswick, and Pioneer, of Bound Brook. With those from this city the number of Juniors filled the hall.

The visiting delegations were received by a committee appointed for the purpose and when all were seated an entertaining programme was commenced. It opened with an address of welcome made by Warden Robert M. Clark, followed by remarks on the part of State Councillor Brown, in the course of which he referred to the rapid growth of the order in the past year, which in round numbers was about 40,000. He spoke of Benevolent's work in congratulatory terms and at the close of his speech presented the Council with a charter, the first of the new style to be issued. Other addresses were made by various visitors who responded when called upon.

In continuation of the programme vocal solos of a high order of merit were rendered by Horace and Joseph Martin, guitar and mandolin selections by "Ragtime Tom" and "Jay," buck and wing dancing by the ever popluar Lusardi and Bowers, vocal selections by Thomas Muir, violin selections by Kenneth Stewart, with accompaniment by Charles Suhr, Jr., and in conclusion Whitney Frazee operated his phonograph.

With the completion of the entertainment, all adjourned to the supper table where an excellent repast had been prepared. While the viands were being disposed of, a flow of wit and sallies of good natured jollity which characterizes Junior gatherings in general and Benevolent in particular, continued without cessation. It was midnight before the affair terminated and the visitors began their homeward journey, but not before Benevolent Council had been thanked collectively and individually for its successful anniversary celebration.

The committee in charge of the affair and to whom credit is due for its complete success consisted of George M. Ballantyne, chairman, Walter Fisher, Edward C. Searing, Charles Suhr, Jr., and H. J. Martin.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE.

Social Event at the Hotel Netherwood—Honors Won by Various Guests in Interesting Play.

Progressive euchre was the attraction at the Hotel Netherwood, last evening. A large number sat down to the tables and enjoyed the evening's play. Among the men first honors were carried off by W. L. Johnson, Brooklyn; second, E. Grignard, New York; third, R. Schloss, New York. First women's prize was won by Mrs. J. D. Johnson, Brooklyn; second, Mrs. Adele Suau, New York; third, Mrs. Leaman, Plainfield.

By a Local Artist.

Counselor Wm. K. McClure has in his possession a valuable painting by George Wharton Edwards, of this city. It is a portrait of Petrus Aneke Jans, 1663, and is painted on a small size door. The work was done in 1887. It was exhibited at The Daily Press office yesterday.

This is a Peach.

Despite the poor crop of peaches in the vicinity of Califon this season, John Neighbour, of that place, shipped 40,000 baskets of peaches last week and is unable to keep up with his orders.

ADVANCE IN PRICE OF MILK

HIGH PRICE OF FEED CAUSES DEALERS TO TAKE THE ACTION.

Eighth Cents a Quart to be the Rate After the First of September.

Milk, not wishing to lag behind beef, ambitious to be in the same category as coal, will increase in price on the first day of September from the present plebeian charge of six cents a quart to the more patrician rate of eight cents. This action has been deicded upon by practically all the local dealers.

Scarcity of feed is the reason assigned for the sudden rise in value of the lacteal liquid. It is understood that notice has already been served on the majority of customers that the increase will go into effect as scheduled. "Two cents a quart, if you say it quickly, is not much of a rise," remarked a man who lives on a milk diet, but proportionatey it is greater than any advance in coal, or in that other product of the cow, beef." Watchung water may be that man's diet after the first of September.

SOME TABLEAUX.

Informal Programme at a Party Given by the Misses Mantz, of the Borough.

Miss Nellie Mantz and Miss Sadie Mantz, of 19 Pearl street, entertained a number of friends at their home last evening, when graduates of the North Plainfield High School gave several tableaux. There were twenty-five guests present and everyone was much pleased with the entertainment given.

Among those participating in the affair were Miss Nettie Bauersachs, Miss Nellie Davenport, Miss Nellie Mantz, Miss Sadie Mantz and Raymond Mantz. Mrs. Sarah Townsend, of Watchung avenue, assisted in the affair. At the close ice cream and cake were served and a social time followed.

NURSES TO BE THERE.

Young Women Who Care for the Sick at Hospital Will Attend the Benefit Ball Game.

To show their appreciation of the efforts to secure funds for their new home, Miss Young, matron of Muhlenberg Hospital, has consented to allow all the nurses, who can be spared, to attend the baseball game between the Police and Firemen teams, Monday afternoon. The proceeds of the affair are to be devoted to the Muhlenberg Hospital Nurses Home fund. The game will commence at 3 o'clock.

Recent Arrival.

Friends of Russell Johnson, formerly a resident of the borough, will be interested to learn that he and Mrs. Johnson, are rejoicing over the arrival of a young daughter. Their home is in Newark. Mr. Johnson has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, of the borough, for a few days. He returned home today.

Ready for Use.

On the Picton-Rahway branch of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, the trolley cars will pass over the elevated bridge over the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Rahway, for the first time Sunday. A number from Plainfield will ride in the first car to pass over the structure.

MYSTERIOUS DELAY IN SENDING REMAINS

Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair are Still in Church in Paris.

CAUSE UNKNOWN HERE.

THE DATE OF SHIPMENT IS NOW INDEFINITELY POSTPONED.

Consul General in Secret Conference—Cable to Washington—Alleged That a Post Mortem Examination is Desired.

There is evidently some mystery connected with the fact that the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair have not been shipped from Paris, France.

It was originally arranged that the bodies be withdrawn from the Church of the Madeleine in that city at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that hour two undertakers' vans were waiting at the door of the vault to receive the coffins, when orders came sending them away until 9:30 o'clock last night. At this hour the vans were again on time, but the removal of the bodies was again countermanded, and it is now said that their removal has been postponed to an indefinite date.

In the meanwhile lawyers representing the families of Mr. and Mrs. Fair have been closeted at the American Consulate in that city all last evening with Consul General John K. Gowdy, who, it is understood, cabled Washington earlier in the day for instructions in the matter. It is impossible definitely to ascertain the subject of this consultation, but it is reported that the lawyers representing one family desire that a post mortem examination be held before the bodies leave France. Mr. Gowdy has received no reply to his cablegram addressed to Washington.

Mr. Ellis, manager of the Hotel Ritz, in Paris, where the Fairs had apartments at the time of their death, has charge of the shipping arrangements. When questioned yesterday he was very reticent.

He said finally that the shipment of the bodies had been postponed because definite instuctions for forwarding them had not been received from the family of Mr. Fair. He professed to know no other reason why they should not be moved, and said they would not be shipped until such orders had been received.

The American line steamer St. Paul, which sailed for New York this morning, via Cherbourg, was to have taken the bodies of Charles L. Fair and Mrs. Fair, which were to have been forwarded to Cherbourg from Paris yesterday afternoon.

According to a dispatch from San Francisco, Charles J. Haggerty, of counsel for Mr. Fair's family, in answer to an inquiry yesterday, said that the community property laws of this State do not apply one way or the other to the Fair case. He added that under the California law Mr. Fair is presumed to have died last, and therefore Mrs. Fair did not become his heir.

C. J. Smith, one of Mrs. Fair's brothers, with his wife and children, is at the Occidenta Hotel, where he arrived last night. He is a mining man from Boulder Creek, Col. Just what steps he will take in the matter of settlement of the estate he will not discuss, and he is extremely reticent in talking of his affairs.

"I will do nothing without my mother," he said yesterday. "She is the one to be considered in this matter first and foremost. Her wishes will be given heed by myself, at least, and I believe by all her children. I have seen no attorneys for myself, nor have I consulted with the attorneys for Mr. Fair's sisters."

Mr. Haggerty said today that there was nothing new in the despatches going east. No wills bearing later date than those of April 18, 1900, have been found. It is barely possible, though not probable, that there may be such later wills.

"There have been persistent rumors," said Mr. Haggerty, "of wills drawn by both Mr. and Mrs. Fair just before their leaving for New York. These stories come from intimate friends of Mrs. Fair, who say she told them of bequests in her will which are not in any will of which we have knowledge. Were such wills made they are undoubtedly holographic, and are certainly not in this city.

In the proceedings yesterday before Judge Carroll Cook in the matter of Public Administrator Farnham's petition for special letters of administration of the estates of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair, the question as to whether the victims of the automobile accident could be legally proven dead by the telegraphic communications which have passed between Herman Oelrichs and his wife, Mrs. Oelrichs, and Mrs. Vanderbilt, came up.

The matter took the form of argument as to whether or not death could be proven in that way by family repute, and also whether telegraphic messages passing between man and wife could be legally construed to come under the law protecting the confidential relations of husband and wife.

Mr. Oelrichs was placed on the stand and admitted that he had received telegrams from Mrs. Oelrichs, but upon objection of his attorney, Judge Cook held that it was not necessary for him to divulge their contents. Several Western Union operators had been summoned as witnesses, but the company's legal representative entered an objection to any injury being made into its affairs, and Judge Cook practically sustained him. The case was then put over until today.

The relatives of Mrs. Charles G. Fair, living at New Market, have no knowledge concerning the delay.

SETTLING WAR CLAIMS.

Work of Commission Appointed to Ascertain Claims of Spanish War Volunteers.

Colonel E. W. Hine, Major J. F. Clime and Captain C. Albert Gasser, commissioners appointed by Governor Murphy to investigate the clothing accounts of New Jersey volunteers in the service in 1898, have organized by electing Colonel Hine, president; Major Clime, treasurer, and Lieutenant Charles J. Allen, Company K, First Regiment, National Guard, secretary.

The lieutenant will write to the captain of every company that saw service in the war with Spain to ascertain the exact condition of affairs in relation to the claims made by the volunteers. An effort will be made to give each man an opportunity to explain in what way he feels aggrieved and in what way he was overcharged by the State or the Federal Government. There is an idea prevalent that in some way the men have been charged too much money for their clothing, and in several instances these statements seem to be true. The commission expects to complete its report in the early session of the next Legislature.

MISSIONARY SESSION.

Attractive Service at the Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday-School Tomorrow Morning.

The regular Sunday-school lesson will be omitted at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning, and instead there will be a missionary session. The programme will include a cornet solo by DeWitt Frazee, vocal solo by Miss Anna Clark, with the chorus by her class, recitations by Miss Aimee Emmons, vocal selections by a quartette composed of Miss Etta Cuming, Miss Adelaide Runyon, Harry Cuming and George F. Watts.

A missionary story, "God's Box," will be read by Superintendent Geo. E. Hall, and Charles L. Lewis will sing a solo. The session will close with a short period devoted to "Something About Missionary Work." A hearty invitation is extended to all interested and attractive souvenirs will be presented to all who attend.

ENJOYING THE TRIP.

Plainfield Pythians Now in California Write Concerning Fire Department.

Jacob Blimm, Jr., and J. E. Flannery, who are delegates from Plainfield to the Knights of Pythias convention at San Francisco, have written a card to Chief Doane as follows:

"We just saw firemen's drill. It was all right—just like the old truck company used to have—wish you could have seen it—they have it every other day; 33 engines, 12 trucks, 7 chemical engines, one chief, two assistants, seven battalion chiefs. Haven't seen Aaron Lyons yet. McGinley is having a good time. Will be home when broke. We mentioned your name at all fire houses. Yours, Jake and Ted."

Jersey Central's Small Tonnage.

During the week ending July 31, of the total tonnage carried out of New York city, the New Jersey Central Railroad carried 1.5 per cent. The New York Central carried 23 per cent., the Pennsylvania 19.2 per cent., the Erie 18.8 per cent., and the Lehigh Valley 11.4 per cent.

METHODIST SOCIETIES PLAN TO CONSOLIDATE

Why Unity of Various Organizations Would be Beneficial.

MANY HAVE SAME AIM.

A LARGE COMMITTEE IS WORKING ON THE PROPOSITION.

Reduction in Collections Would Thus be Brought About—Six Societies Carrying on Different Work Could be Fused in One.

Methodists all over the United States are asking for a reduction of the number of public collections in the local churches. They say there is too much "begging" in connection with the preaching services, and both clergy and laity are demanding a change. Besides the various local needs—church expenses, neighborhood charities, etc.—there are general interests for which several millions of dollars must be raised annually. Some pastors claim that of necessity they are obliged to make a public appeal about every alternate Sunday, which they think is a little more than their congregations will endure for any length of time. For the purpose of relieving this unpleasant situation, the bishops have appointed a commission to consider the matter of consolidating the collections by uniting some of the benevolent societies. The gentlemen having this matter in charge—all representative bishops, clergymen and laymen—are:

Bishop Cyrus D. Foss, Philadelphia, Pa.; Bishop John M. Walden, Cincinnati, O.; Bishop Charles H. Fowler, Buffalo, N. Y.; Rev. J. F. Goucher, D. D., Baltimore, Md.; Rev. S. W. Thomas, D. D., Philadelphia, Pa.; Rev. D. L. Rader, D. D., St. Paul, Minn.; Rev. A. N. Fisher, D. D., Portland, Ore.; Rev. E. O. Thayer, D. D., Portland, Me.; Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D., New York City; R. T. Miller, Cincinnati, O.; George Cochran, Los Angeles, Cal.; F. W. Tunnell, Philadelphia, Pa.; E. S. Dobbins, Morristown, N. J.; J. A. Patten, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Archer Brown, East Orange, N. J.

The officers are: President, Bishop Foss; vice president, Dr. J. F. Goucher; secretary, Rev. E. O. Thayer; assistant secretary, G. I. Cochran. A secret meeting of this commission has been held, but so many questions were raised that it was found impossible to reach final conclusions. A large sub-committee was appointed to collate all material facts, compare the various propositions and report the same at the next meeting. This committee is now at work studying the legal and other phases of the proposed amalgamation of the societies. There are a variety of benevolent societies, each with separate management and charters, but all under the supreme control of the general conference, so that in their ultimate purposes they are a unit, although seemingly independent. The general conference is the only body that can make the consolidation suggested.

Although not so striking as the removal of the time limit, repeal of the paragraph on amusements or the admission of women delegates to the general conference, the question of congregational collections is one of vital interest to the 3,000,000 members of the Methodist church in all parts of the world. Within the past half century six Methodist societies have been developed for carrying on missionary and educational work of a universal character. They are the Missionary Society, Board of Church Extension, Sunday-school Union, Tract Society, Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society and the Board of Education. They are all essentially missionary. One-half of the money raised for missions exclusively is expended in this country among the foreigners, Indians on the frontier and in the cities. The other half is used in supporting central stations in Japan, China and Korea, India, Africa and Europe. About $1,250,000 is handled by the society each year.

The Board of Church Extension is a sort of Methodist co-operative bank organized for the purpose of helping weak congregations to build churches. It gives money and makes loans at a low rate of interest. By its aid over 12,000 churches have been erected, and it now has a working loan fund of $2,750,000, which is steadily increasing. The Freedmen's Aid and

CRUISE OF THE AUGUSTA

A PARTY OF YOUNG PLAINFIELDERS ABOARD THE SLOOP.

Entertain Young Women at Midland Beach—Enjoyed the Sea Food Dinner.

Reports from the party of young Plainfielders who are enjoying a cruise in the sloop "Augusta" indicate that they are having an exceptional pleasant time. The crew consisting of Roy and Hal Phillips, Fred Hillman, Homer Smith and Charles Wilson, sailed from Perth Amboy last Sunday, taking with them as guests for the day, Jack Slevin, John Phillips, Harold Chandor, Harold Davis, Garfield Pike and Fred Raff, of Elizabeth.

The crew spent all of last week in cruising off Sandy Hook, Atlantic Highlands, the Shrewsbury river and Midland Beach. Yesterday they were met at Midland Beach by a party of young women from this city composed of the Misses Elsie Smith, Aimee Emmons, Jean Dunham, Leila Howard, Mabelle Phillips and Miss May Graw, of Westfield. They were taken for a sail off the hook and before going ashore were treated to a seafood dinner, prepared by the young men.

RECITED WAR POEM.

Friday Night Literary Circle Holds Pleasant Meeting as Guests of Miss Firstbrook.

The Friday Night Literary Circle, held its weekly session at the home of Miss Mabelle Firstbrook, of Liberty street, last evening. The members were treated to a surprise by Lewellyn Bevin, of Metuchen, a new member of the circle, who recited with much force, Kipling's "Absent Minded Beggar." For an encore he responded with "The Islanders." Several selections from Robert Burns' works were read by A. Hacquer. At next week's meeting, Goethe's "Faust" will be discussed.

Dangerously Injured.

John Wahrheit, aged thirty-five and without a home, was struck by a New Jersey Central train at Bound Brook, early last evening. He was brought to this city and at Muhlenberg Hospital it was found he has a compound fracture of the leg, a broken arm a scalp wound and several minor injuries. He may recover.

Old-Fashioned Games.

Rev. George Bowers will lead the meeting at the Rescue Mission tomorrow afternoon. It will commence at 4 o'clock.

Scrapper Fined.

George Washington was fined $6 in the city court, this morning, for fighting.

B. & L. ASSOCIATIONS DEMAND REGULATIONS

Legislation to Protect Interests of Those Investing in Such Institutions.

UNFAIR METHODS USED.

STATE AND NATIONAL LOANS NEED ATTENTION.

What Prominent Men Have to Say on the Subject—To Guard Against the Innocent Public Being Fleeced by the Shrewed Promoters.

Directors of local building and loan associations endorse the proposition made by various men in similar organizations throughout the State that there is much need for legislation to protect their interests. They also declare that a closer supervision of the savings institutions by the banking commissioner should be made.

Ex-Judge P. Hamilton Gilhooly, of Elizabeth, is quoted as saying:

"When the amount of capital invested in these enterprises, and the owners of that capital, are taken into consideration, in my judgment the State ought to be more rigid and careful in the regulation of such associations than it is of savings banks and banks of deposit. The great bulk of the money in the hands of the managers of building and loan associations, has been deposited by industrious and thrifty people, mostly of small means, who cannot protect themselves against dishonesty and greed.

"There has been a feeling among the managers of local associations that there was no danger likely to result to the members except from the State and national concerns; and against these latter, the protest of genuine building and loan men all over the State has been constant and earnest, and the prediction among them universal that their methods would eventually result in their destruction. I think I am justified in saying that every national and State building and loan association has been originated and continued by self-seeking adventurers. Central offices are secured, respectable men are enrolled among the dircetors, canvassers are sent abroad armed with literature that is misleading and full of false promises, ingenious calculations are set before the unsuspecting public, whereby it is made to appear that enormous profits are to be realized, promises of eight and ten per cent. interest are given in writing, none of which have ever been fulfilled. Generally, the investments made by these concerns are of such character that local associations or local investors would refuse to take the risk. The canvassers are paid a certain percentage out of all the money that passes through their hands, large enough to consume any profit by way of interest that might be realized on that money. The officers obtain proxies from the members and by this means perpetuate themselves in power, and with the proxies vote themselves salaries that are only limited by the capacity of the concern which they operate.

"Up to the present time, State supervision over building associations has been absolutely nominal. All that is required of the associations is an annual report made by the secretary, never verified by any other authority. The State does not concern itself, or has not, up to the present time, about the management, nor has it ever inquired, so far as I have been able to ascertain, respecting the securities taken, nor examined into the investments made by the officers, nor concerned itself about salaries charged or expenditures incurred. There may be a score of rotten, worm-eaten associations in this State at present, and there is not a public official who has any intimation or suspicion of the fact. With banks it is otherwise. The examiners visit these institutions, scrutinize all the securities, compare the cash and other assets, look over the accounts, and if they do their duty, when they finish their work they can certify with reasonable certainty as to their condition. Savings banks are restricted in their investments and kept under strict surveillance. Building and loan associations should be placed under the supervision of the banking department, and submitted to like scrutiny.

"The objection against State control has chiefly arison because of the expense that would be entailed upon each association. The cost of the examinstion and compensation of the examiners is charged upon the bank

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Union county Board of Chosen Freeholders held on Thursday, August 7, 1902, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present—18.

The minutes of the previous meeting, reading of bills being omitted, were on motion approved as read.

The director announced that by reason of the death of Freeholder Frederick Miller the following named standing committees would be constituted as follows for the current year:

Collector's Bond—Connoly, Pierson, McCandless.

Lunacy—Adams, Krouse, Swain.

Elizabeth Drawbridges—Gerstung, Westphal Pierson.

PETITIONS, COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From the Westfield township committee, stating in part "That the consent of their committee be granted to the Board of Chosen Freeholders to build the bridge about to be constructed over Broad street up to the property lines on each side of said street." Received and placed on file.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the county building committee: To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union:

Gentlemen: The County building commitee of this county, appointed under Chapter 47 of the laws of 1901, which act is "An act to facilitate the erection of buildings for county purposes," respectfully report that since the last meeting we have received modified bids for the erection of the new court house, as follows, from Moffitt, Hewitt & Norris, complete, $527,872.

H. Prosbt, exclusive of structural steel work, $478,777. The cost of the structural steel work would be about $28,000.

John H. Parker Company, complete, $488,750.

This last bid, we are informed by the architects and builders, is as low as the contemplated building can be built for, and as the board have already decided that the present court house and offices are inadequate for the proper transaction of the county's business, we therefore recommend that the proper officials be authorized to execute a contract with the John H. Parker Company for the erection of such new court house, they being the lowest bidders therefor. Signed,

J. F. Hubbard, John Farrell, Jacob Brucklacher, County Building Com.

Freeholder King moved that the report be received and recommendation therein contained adopted, which was duly seconded.

Mr. Ackerman, of Ackerman & Ross, architects, being present, said that he would be pleased to give any information he could in reference to the bids as presented, and in reply to a question by Freeholder Woodruff said that the bid of the John H. Parker Co. represented a reduction on former bid of $80,000. The motion of Freeholder King was then adopted on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on Broad street bridge, Westfield.

Resolved, That the appropriation for the building of the bridge on Broad street, between Elm and Prospect streets, Westfield, be increased to the sum of $1,856, the same being an increase above former appropriation of $656. Signed,

W. W. Connoly, J. Robison, Noah Woodruff, E. K. Adams, W. A. Westphal, Committee.

Freeholder Westphal moved that the report be received and recommendation therein contained adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on Springfield avenue bridge, Springfield.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen: Your committee on Springfield avenue bridge, Springfield, would report that they have examined the bridge and find it in very bad condition.

Resolved, That a new bridge be built with iron beams, brick arches and picket rail, at a cost not to exceed $1,100.

Freeholder Tillman moved that the report be received and resolution contained therein adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on Lincoln avenue bridge, Roselle Park.

The committee on bridge on Lincoln avenue, Roselle Park, would respectfully report that they have examined the old bridge and find it in very bad condition, unsafe for travel, and would recommend a new bridge be built at a cost not to exceed $250.

Signed, Noah Woodruff, E. K. Adams, Henry Krouse, Committee.

Freeholder Robison moved that the report be received and recommendation therein contained adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By joint committee on bridges in Union and Springfield townships.

The committee on bridge, Valley street, Springfield and Union townships, report that they examined the old bridge, and found it in a dangerous condition, and decided to build a new bridge at a cost not to exceed $1,100.

Bids were asked for, and a new bridge built at a cost of $955.50.

Signed. Noah Woodruff, E. K. Adams, John Farrell, Henry Krouse, John F. Wahl, N. W. Bonnel, Joint Committee.

Freeholder Woodruff explained that this bridge had not heretofore been brought to the attention of this board. It, however, had been found in very bad condition, and it was the judgment of the joint committee that a new bridge be built at once, and the circumstances made known to this board at its next meeting. He would therefore ask that the action of the joint committee be approved.

On motion of Freeholder Tillman the report was received, and the action of the committee approved.

NEW BUSINESS

By Freeholder Krouse:

Resolved, That $300 be paid to Jas. G. Moore on account of amount due him on his contract for bridge at Aldene, near Amsterdam avenue.

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Brucklacher:

Resolved, That a committee of five (5) be appointed to consider the advisability of placing a new iron girder bridge on Prince street, Elizabeth, or to repair the same to place the same in safe and proper condition.

On motion of Freeholder Gerstung the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Brucklacher, McCandless, King, Farrell and Krouse.

By Freeholder McCandless:

Resolved, That a committee of five (5) be appointed to consider the advisability of constructing an iron truss bridge, or repair the same, at Crane street, Elizabeth.

On motion of Freeholder Gerstung the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Brucklacher, McCandless, King, Farrell and Krouse.

By Freeholder King:

Resolved, That the director and county collector be and they are hereby authorized to have printed and issued the bonds necessary to be issued by this county for the building of the new county buildings, under Chapter 47 of the laws of 1901, and the supplements and amendments thereto.

On motion of Freeholder Tillman the resolution was adopted without dissent.

Sale of Delinquent Lands for Unpaid Taxes and Assessments.

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

JULY 26, 1902.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, and by the direction of the Common Council of said City, will expose for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, (but not for less than the amount due from the same, as appears in the following schudule, with interest and costs) on Friday, the twenty-ninth day of August, A. D., 1902, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day at the said Collector's Office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said City, certain lots, tracts and parcels of land situated in the First, Second, Third and Fourth Wards of said City, upon which the taxes and assessments have remained unpaid for the space of two years from and after the time when they were due and payable.

This sale is made under the provisions of the 13th Section of an Act entitled, "An Act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in Cities of this State, and imposing and levying a tax, assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to future taxation and assessment," passed March 30, 1886, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the lands to be sold may be obtained at the office of the subscriber on any week day prior to the day of the sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following list contains the lot and block numbers of the lots, tracts and parcels of land to be sold in pursuance of this advertisement, as they appear on the official assessment maps of the City of Plainfield on file in the office of the City Collector, together with a statement of the Wards of the City wherein said lands are respectfully situated, and the amount due from each of said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot or parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest as indicated, and also its proportionate share of the costs of this sale, which is hereby estimated at Three Dollars for each item of arrearage thereon.

All lots so sold will be purchased subject to all taxes and assessments levied thereon subsequent to November 20th, 1899.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

In commenting on the failure of building and loan associations, and the duty of the State to supervise financial institutions, the Newark Sunday Call said: "The Republic Company, of Newark, has been enjoined from further business, and will be wound up by order of the court of chancery. A great many poor people will lose heavily by their faith in the scheme and in the State's supervision of financial institutions, and all concerned will suffer inconvenience and delay. This concern proceeded upon business methods which were sure to end in failure, and the Sunday Call pointed out the difficulties and dangers long ago. Yet men of respectable reputation gave it their names and support (and took a profit), and the State authorities let it go on until its creditors became so clamorous that action was compelled.

"To protect the ignorant yet frugal poor from such loss is the duty of the State. We do not expect New Jersey to regulate every concern which asks public subscription, but it is perfectly practicable to require all which do a banking, an insurance or a building and loan business to submit to public control, for the protection of those who invest. It comes to this sooner or later, for the courts have the labor and expense of closing out the swindling concerns. An ounce of prevention is worth pounds of punishment and dozens of receiverships."—Elizabeth Journal.

Is Golf Catching

on to popular favor? It seems to be. A noticable increase in sales of Painkiller comes from golf districts. The reason for this is clear, as Perry Davis' Painkiller is the oldest and best remedy extant for sprains, strains, bruises and soreness, all of which are of common occurrence; either in vigorous play or through accident. Everywhere the standard liniment and balm.

MYSTERY IN FAIR CASE.

Bodies Retained In Paris For Unknown Reasons.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—There is evidently some mystery connected with the fact that the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fair have not been shipped from Paris. It was originally arranged that the bodies be withdrawn from the Church of the Madeleine at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that hour two undertakers' vans were waiting at the door of the vault to receive the coffins, when orders came sending them away until half past 9 o'clock last night. At that hour the vans were again on time, but the removal of the bodies was again countermanded, and it is said their removal has been postponed to an indefinite date.

Lawyers representing the families of Mr. and Mrs. Fair were closeted at the American consulate here all the evening with Consul General John K. Gowdy, who, it is understood, cabled to Washington earlier in the day for instructions in the matter. It is impossible definitely to ascertain the subject of this consultation, but it is reported that the lawyers representing one party desire that a post mortem examination be held before the bodies leave France. Mr. Gowdy has received no reply to his cablegram addressed to Washington.

Mr. Ellis, manager of the Hotel Ritz, where the Fairs had apartments at the time of their death, has charge of the shipping arrangements. When questioned, he was very reticent. He said the shipment of the bodies had been postponed because definite instructions for forwarding them had not been received from the family of Mr. Fair. He professed to know no other reason why they should not be moved and said they would not be shipped until such orders had been received.

Cable Trains Collide.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 23.—A cable train crowded with passengers escaped from the control of the gripman in charge at the top of the Ninth street incline and, dashing down at a terrific speed, crashed into a train standing at the bottom. W. B. Taylor, gripman on the descending car, was killed instantly, and a score or more passengers were bruised, but as most of these were quickly taken away by their friends the number of the injured and the extent of their injuries are not known. The train at the bottom was being prepared for the return trip, but had not been switched to the second track, when the descending train, beyond control, came dashing down the incline. Passengers in both trains became panic stricken when the impending disaster was foreseen, and in the efforts to escape from both many had narrow escapes from death.

Accident on English Beach.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A harrowing holiday tragedy has occurred at Filey, a watering place near Scarborough. Five children who were playing on the sands were cut off by the inflowing tide and drowned before their mothers, who were sitting on the beach, had noticed the danger which threatened them. The shore at the scene of the tragedy was deserted, and no boats were available. The mothers of the children and others made heroic attempts at rescue. The eldest child made a futile attempt to save the youngest one by holding it up in his arms. Those who attempted to rescue the children had narrow escapes from drowning.

PETER POWER FREE

Dummy Plaintiff Released by Judge Lacombe.

MR. COCKRAN IS TO BE CALLED.

The Latest Developments In Regard to the Sensational Suit Against the Northern Securities Company.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Peter Power, the dummy plaintiff in the injunction proceedings against the Northern Pacific merger, has been released from custody after serving two days in Ludlow street jail for contempt. Judge Lacombe, who is at his summer home at Athens, N. Y., wrote a letter to Marshal Henkel instructing the latter to release Power if counsel in the case did not desire to ask him any further questions regarding the famous proceedings.

Power walked out of the federal building arm in arm with his lawyer, George Alfred Lamb. He said he was going to his wife's home in West Ninetieth street. He walked with the same jaunty air which marked his bearing when he surrendered himself on Tuesday, but he was no longer nervous. The same pair of detectives who trailed him for two weeks took up the chase again as soon as he left the building.

W. BOURKE COCKRAN.

Immediately after the hearing on Thursday Mr. Lamb sent an application for Power's release to Judge Lacombe by special delivery. In it he called attention to the fact that Power had surrendered himself and testified and therefore purged himself of contempt.

William D. Guthrie, attorney for the railroad, who was so relentless in his efforts to secure Power as a witness, telegraphed to Judge Lacombe and asked him to take no steps in the matter until he (Guthrie) could be heard in opposition.

Considerable surprise was expressed when Marshal Henkel made known the contents of the letter he received from Judge Lacombe.

It is said that Power will leave the city to secure a rest and build up his health. He will not be present at the hearing next Tuesday.

It is said that among the important witnesses who will be called next week will be W. Bourke Cockran. Mr. Guthrie says that the proceedings will continue to be of a highly interesting character. He will not affirm or deny the report that Mr. Cockran is to be subpoenaed. Mr. Cockran is the only one of the quartet Mr. Lamb says were behind him who has not been called. Camille Weidenfeld, E. R. Thomas and Walter Content of H. Content & Co. were heard last week.

Strikers' Estimate of Situation.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 23.—The United Mine Workers' Journal contains the following estimate of the strike situation: "Anthracite miners solid and unyielding. Prepared for a long siege. West Virginia practically unchanged. Strikers quiet, firm and confident. J. H. Kennedy, secretary of the Indiana bituminous miners, says that work is slow in the bituminous district. Little is being done about the mines at Evansville, Boonville, Montgomery and other points, but he says the time of year is approaching when work ought to be fair."

Monk Defeats Lord Derby.

READVILLE, Mass., Aug. 23.—The one great surprise at the Readville track on the grand circuit card was the appearance of Lord Derby in the 2:07 trot. The surprise was not carried out to the extent of his winning the race, for Ed Geers drove The Monk under the wire ahead of him in two straight heats and won, in the first heat establishing a new record for himself of 2:05¾ and a new race record for the track. Although $2,500 was offered in this trot, only four horses were entered.

NEW ENGLAND TOUR

President Spends First Day at New Haven and Hartford.

BIG MEETING OF WORKINGMEN

In Connecticut Capital Ten Thousand Greet Mr. Roosevelt and Give Him a Floral Horseshoe—Speech on Philippine Question.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 23.—President Roosevelt has begun his tour through New England. The presidential party left Oyster Bay at 9:30 o'clock and was taken on board the Sylph in a launch. Fifteen minutes later the Sylph weighed anchor and started for New Haven. The party aboard the Sylph consisted of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, Ethel Roosevelt, Secretary Cortelyou, Dr. Lung, the president's physician; two stenographers and two messengers.

The president arrived at New Haven at 1:20 p. m. and was received by Mayor Studley and a committee from the board of aldermen, who conducted him to the carriage in waiting. Troop A, Connecticut national guard, constituted the military escort.

The New Haven programme provided for nothing except a drive, and it took the visitor through the slums, factory quarters and center of the city. The city's factories were closed between 1 p. m. and 2:30 p. m., and workmen lined the windows and crowds thronged the streets. The city was gayly dressed in flags and bunting.

The president on his arrival at the depot at Hartford was cordially welcomed by a committee of representative citizens. He was taken for a drive around the city. He was enthusiastically cheered all along the route.

In Pope park the president was greeted by 10,000 workingmen, who presented him with a magnificent floral horseshoe inscribed, "Workingmen's Welcome to Our President."

In the evening a great meeting was held in the Coliseum, at which the president reviewed the success of the administration in dealing with the Porto Rican and Cuban questions and then took up the Philippines. On this subject he said:

"The easy thing to do—the thing which appealed not only to lazy and selfish men, but to very many good men whose thought did not drive them down to the root of things—was to leave the islands. Had we done this a period of wild chaos would have supervened, and then some stronger power would have stepped in and seized the islands and have taken up the task which we in such a case would have flinched from performing. A less easy but infinitely more absurd course would have been to leave the islands ourselves and at the same time to assert that we would not permit any one else to interfere with them. This particular course would have combined all the possible disadvantages of every other course which was advocated.

"Finally, there was the course which we adopted—not an easy course, one fraught with danger and difficulty, as is generally the case in this world when some great feat is to be accomplished as an incident to working out national destiny. We made up our minds to stay in the islands, to put down violence, to establish peace and order and then to introduce a just and wise civil rule accompanied by a measure of self government which should increase as rapidly as the islanders showed themselves fit for it. Well, it was certainly a formidable task, but think of the marvelously successful way in which it has been accomplished.

"The first and vitally important feat was the establishment of the supremacy of the American flag, and this had to be done by the effort of those gallant fellow Americans of ours to whom so great a debt is due, the officers and enlisted men of the United States army, regulars and volunteers alike. In a succession of campaigns carried on in unknown tropic jungles against an elusive and treacherous foe vastly outnumbering them, under the most adverse conditions of climate, weather and country, our troops completely broke the power of the insurgents, smashed their armies and harried the broken robber bands into submission.

"Step by step as the army conquered the rule of the military was supplanted by the rule of the civil authorities—the soldier was succeeded by the civilian magistrate. The utmost care has been exercised in choosing the best type of Americans for the high civil positions, and the actual work of administration has been done so far as possible by native Filipino officials serving under these Americans.

"The success of the effort has been wonderful. Never has this country had a more upright or an abler body of public representatives than Governor Taft, Vice Governor Wright and their associates and subordinates in the Philippine Islands. It is a very difficult matter practically to apply the principles of an orderly free government to an oriental people struggling upward out of barbarism and subjection. It is a task requiring infinite firmness, patience, tact, broad mindedness. All these qualities and the countless others necessary have been found in the civil and military officials who have been sent over to administer the islands.

"It was of course inevitable that there should be occasional failures, but it is astonishing how few these have been. Here and there the civil government which has been established in a given district had to be temporarily withdrawn because of some outbreak, but at last on July 4 that has just passed, on the one hundred and twenty-sixth anniversary of our independence, it was possible at the same time to declare amnesty throughout the islands and definitely to establish civil rule over all of them excepting the country of the Mohammedan Moros, where the conditions were wholly different.

"Each inhabitant of the Philippines is now guaranteed his civil and religious rights—his rights to life, personal liberty and the pursuit of happiness—subject only to not infringing on the rights of others. It is worth noting that already the Philippine people have received a greater share of self government, that they have more to say as to how they shall be governed, than is the case with any people in the orient which is under European rule.

"Nor should it be forgotten that while we have thus acted in the interest of the islanders themselves we have also helped our own people. Our interests are as great in the Pacific as in the Atlantic. The welfare of California, Oregon and Washington is as vital to the nation as the welfare of New England, New York and the south Atlantic states. The awakening of the orient means very much to all the nations of Christendom, commercially no less than politically, and it would be short sighted statesmanship on our part to refuse to take the necessary steps for securing a proper share to our people of this commercial future.

"The possession of the Philippines has helped us as the securing of the open door in China has helped us. Already the government has taken the necessary steps to provide for the laying of a Pacific cable under conditions which safeguard absolutely the interests of the American public. Our commerce with the east is growing rapidly. Events have abundantly justified alike from the moral and material standpoint all that we have done in the far east as a sequel to our war with Spain."

NAVAL WAR GAME.

Higginson Has Not Yet Sighted the Invaders.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Aug. 23.—The day has been one of little moment on the flagship Kearsarge. Together with the Massachusetts and Alabama this battleship is anchored in the same position it has occupied during the past twenty-four hours. The flagship holds a position about a mile off Straitsmouth light, and the other two ships are close by. Matters aboard are certainly on a war footing, as has been the case since the anchors were first dropped here.

Steam was kept up in the boilers during the entire day, and everything was in readiness to get under weigh at a moment's notice. The morning was given over to drill, together with rifle practice on the port forward deck. The thick fog was a cause for some worriment, and if the enemy is sure of his position and the fog does not lift it will appear an excellent opportunity for a rush to port.

About 4 p. m. the torpedo boats Biddle and Bagley came in from the southward and anchored ahead of the flagship. Conjectures as to the whereabouts of the white squadron are as many aboard ship as on land.

WANTS AMERICAN BRIDE.

Alfonso Continues to Shock Spanish Grandees.

MADRID, Aug. 23.—King Alfonso continues to startle the nobility of Spain by his eccentric actions.

He has disregarded all the proposals of his councilors that he marry a European princess and has announced his intention of wedding the daughter of some South American capitalist to mend the shattered state finances, reconcile the republican element by taking a plebeian consort and restore Spanish prestige in Latin America.

The king has instructed the representatives of the Spanish crown in South America to forward him full details of millionaires possessing eligible daughters.

The king has thrown a bombshell into the ranks of the nobility by stating his intention of dissolving the grand order of the Annunciade, the oldest order in Spain, and substituting for it the new order of Alfonso the Thirteenth.

Skeleton of a Mastodon.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 23.—E. W. Du Bois, a farmer living just outside of Newburg, has found imbedded in muck on his farm several bones of a mastodon, including a rib, part of the skull and several huge teeth. One of the teeth is 8 by 3½ inches. The bones were three feet below the surface. Search will be made for the remaining bones. Since 1845 four skeletons of mastodons have been found near Newburg, the finest being now in the Boston museum.

Admiral Von Diedrichs Resigns.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Admiral von Diedrichs has resigned his post as chief of staff of the navy. He has been succeeded by Vice Admiral Buechsel. Admiral von Diedrichs is the officer who, as vice admiral, was in command of the German squadron of five cruisers in Manila bay at the time Dewey was operating against the Spaniards.

Heiress to Widener's Wealth.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Widener at Pinard cottage No. 3. If she grows to womanhood she will doubtless inherit millions, as her father is one of the richest young men in America and will probably inherit vast wealth from his father, P. A. B. Widener, the traction magnate.

The Wilcox Trial.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., Aug. 23.—The law brief in the trial of Wilcox, accused of the murder of Nell Cropsey, has been completed and immediately forwarded to the clerk of the state supreme court. The hearing will not be delayed, as was feared, and the case will come up before the supreme court Tuesday, Aug. 26.

MR. BOND'S AMBITION

Wants to Join Newfoundland to United States.

HE HAS PERMISSION TO TRY.

The Famous Bond-Blaine Reciprocity Convention May Now Be Ratified After Twelve Years of Waiting.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Sir Robert Bond, premier and colonial secretary of Newfoundland, has sailed from Liverpool for Montreal on his way to Washington with full powers from the imperial government to reopen negotiations through the British charge d'affaires for the ratification of the Bond-Blaine convention.

The Newfoundland premier has declared himself in favor of free trade with the United States as against a union of the colony with the Dominion of Canada. His success in obtaining imperial sanction for his present American visit is the culmination of twelve years of persistent effort, and only this week was Sir Robert able to convince the government of the injustice done to Newfoundland by the nonratification of the convention and secure its consent to the resumption of the reciprocity negotiations.

The premier of Newfoundland will lose no time in getting to work, and the British charge d'affaires will communicate with the state department shortly after the premier's arrival in America.

The Bond-Blaine convention was a special agreement entered into between James G. Blaine, then secretary of state, and the premier of Newfoundland. On the part of Newfoundland it granted to United States fishermen considerable privileges in regard to purchasing bait and largely reduced duties on a large class of American imports into Newfoundland. The United States in return was to open its markets to Newfoundland fish and raw products and confirm the privilege of transportation of fresh fish in bond to the United States markets.

Inquest Into Sharp's Death.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 23.—Conflicting testimony was given at the inquest held to place the responsibility for the death of Patrick Sharp, who was killed during a clash between strikers and deputies at Nesquehoning on Monday evening. Twelve witnesses swore that Sharp had been killed by Harry McElmoyle, while five others held that the fatal shot had been fired by William Ronemus. The inquest was held in the Nesquehoning schoolhouse. As many people as could crowded into the place, while several hundred gathered on the outside. Twelve witnesses were examined, and each one of them testified that McElmoyle had fired the shot that killed Sharp. The witnesses claimed that Sharp had not struck or abused any of the deputies.

Senator Clark Suffers by Fire.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 23.—The reverberatory building of the Butte Reduction works, owned by Senator W. A. Clark, has been destroyed by fire. The fire originated at furnace No. 1 and was caused by the roof of the furnace caving in. The loss will amount to $30,000, on which there is insurance of one-half. The loss of the reverberatory will necessitate the closing of the smelter and three mines which supplied it with ore. One thousand men will be thrown out of work for two months.

Reception to Admiral Schley.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Rear Admiral Winfield S. Schley, who is visiting his son, Captain Schley of the Twenty-third infantry, at Plattsburg barracks, was entertained at a reception by ex-Congressman John M. Wever. The freedom of the city of Plattsburg has been tendered the admiral by a vote of the common council.

Reunion of Quantrell's Guerrillas.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 23.—The annual reunion of the survivors of Quantrell's guerrillas was held at Independence. Most of those present took part in the raid upon Lawrence, Kan., thirty-nine years ago yesterday, and a majority of the survivors were boys at the time. Jim Cummings was prominent in the reunion.

American Soldiers Arouse Cubans.

HAVANA, Aug. 23.—A resolution was adopted in the house of representatives asking the executive for information with regard to the landing of 100 American soldiers at Santiago de Cuba. The soldiers in question were sent to relieve the American troops quartered in the fortresses at Santiago.

Plot to Assassinate Sultan.

VIENNA, Aug. 23.—A newspaper published in Bucharest, Roumania, alleges it has learned that M. Sarafoff, ex-leader of the Macedonian revolutionary committee, has organized a committee the object of which is to effect the assassination of the sultan of Turkey.

Sugar Trust Robbed.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 23.—The discovery has been made that 100,000 pounds of sugar belonging to the sugar trust and stored in a Duluth warehouse is missing. The sugar taken is valued at about $6,000.

Diphtheria in Orphans' Home.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Diphtheria is prevalent in the Orphans' home here. There are eighteen cases, and one child has died. The home has 150 inmates and has been quarantined.

Smallpox at Barbados.

BRIDGETON, Barbados, Aug. 23.—There have been 1,876 cases of smallpox here since July 13.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

There is a limit to the people's patience and that has been reached in the coal strike situation. The refusal of the operators to meet Mitchell with a view of amicably settling the difficulty has incensed the public. With apparent indifference to other rights, the operators have surely placed themselves in a position which reflects no credit.

The plea is that there is nothing to arbitrate. Without arbitration settlement seems impossible. This is the condition at the present time, and the public is vainly calling for relief. It may be all right for the operators, but it is not for the consumer. If this haughty position assumed by the masters of the situation is continued what is to be done? Will it not be natural for the public to demand that the Federal Government take control and operate the mines? This appears to be in line with the trend of thought today. There's room for thought in the suggestion anyway.

THE TOBACCO FIEND.

Statistics concerning the amount of tobacco consumed in this country during the past year show some startling facts. The use of the weed is surely on the increase. Either more people smoke and chew or else those addicted to the habit are fonder of it than ever. Smoking in moderation, may not be harmful, but what can be thought of the unthinking individual who has cultivated the habit to excess. Gradually injuring his throat and lungs, shattering his nerves and generally wearing out his system, he is wont to give little attention to the fact that he is being wrecked by his own weakness. Some may pity a tobacco fiend, but should he be when the exertion of a fair amount of will power would remedy the evil?

The novel ideas that have been brought into play in order to raise money for two of Plainfield's charity institution, the Netherwood Fresh Air Home and the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, demonstrate that the people are interested in these worthy causes. Probably the most unique plan hit upon by any citizen was that of George A. Chapman, who, while sojourning in Vermont, succeeded in interesting the guests at the hotel in which he was staying to such an extent that they voluntarily contributed a neat sum for these Plainfield institutions. Donations are needed and any contributions will be gratefully received.

Colonel Henry Watterson, the Mount Pelee of the Blue Grass State, has shaken the temple again. This time the editor of the Courier-Journal pours out abuse on former President Grover Cleveland, whose mail is delivered at Princeton, N. J. Now if there is anyone who has not received any of the Colonel's lava of abuse, he will kindly take to the storm cellar for the Kentuckian is in full blast.

An exchange says: For years railroad lines have advertised mostly by booklets, folders, circulars and the like, using the newspapers only for time tables. Recently several managers have used newspaper space for display advertising, and one says that soon all the companies will reduce or abandon other forms of publicity in favor of the newspapers.

Richard Mansfield is to revive Julius Caesar. He announces that he will play a double part—Caesar and Brutus. There's still another part which this modest actor has been playing successfully during his professional career.

A session of the Pennsylvania Society for the Advancement of the Deaf was held in Philadelphia the other day. It was a quiet affair.

"Ye gods, it doth amaze me." Russell Sage attacks the trusts! What has come over the spirit of his dreams?

examined, and would be charge upon the association investigated. It is this expense that has alarmed so many of the managers, whose cardinal idea is to minimize the cost of running the institution, so that in the majority of local neighborhood building associations, the total expense for hall rent, secretary, treasurer and stationery, does not exceed one thousand dollars a year, and in many of the smaller institutions it does not exceed five hundred dollars a year.

"There are a great number of such enterprises still doing active business in this State. There are undoubtedly some local institutions that are not being justly and properly managed, but I apprehend they are very few. There are probably some dishonest officers among the many associations in this State. The case of the secretary of the Passaic Building and Loan Association, who is short about one hundred thousand dollars, which has just come to light, shows that it is possible there may be others among the local associations who are not faithful to their trust. The example of the Republic Savings and Loan Association and The Milliners Building and Loan Association of New York, both of which transacted a large amount of business in this State, together with a great number of other state and national associations that have come to grief, ought to convince the public that it is high time that legislation was had which would absolutely prohibit such concerns from doing business within the borders of this State.

"I am firmly convinced that every local building and loan association in out city is honestly and wisely managed."

Another well informed man says:

"I do not know how far the commissioner of banking and insurance can go into the matter of examination of building and loan associations. If he has not the power to examine them in the most critical manner, he ought to call the attention of Governor Franklin Murphy to the fact, and it is safe to say that the governor will see to it that the power is conferred by the next Legislature. I speak from what I know when I say that state and national loans do not exercise the caution observed by local loans.

"It is safe to say that the security offered by borrowers in state and national loans would not be considered by local ones. The failure of foreign loans is inevitable, the directors or managers pay no attention to their workings. The State should step in and protect the innocent public, who are fleeched by shrewd promoters representing national and state loans."

Southern Education Society carries on a work of education among the poor whites and the negroes of the South. It holds property and resources valued at over $2,000,000, and is reaching over 10,000 young people in the Southern States. Industrial training is being given to 3,000 students. The Board of Education has a loan fund of over $1,000,000, which is used to help young theological students and other Methodist young people to obtain education. The maximum amount loaned is $100 and the rate of interest is 4 per cent. Over $20,000 a year is used by the Sunday-school Union in supplying lesson leaves, hymn books and libraries to needy Sunday-schools. This society is auxiliary to the missionary society in its operations, as it sends literature or gives money for Sunday-school purposes in all parts of the world. In one year, beside rendering a large amount of help to remote localities in the United States, it sent money to Denmark, St. Petersburg, Austria, Rome, Calcutta, Tokio, Korea and South America to pay for the translation and publication of lesson leaves in the native languages. The tract society publishes more than 1,200 tracts in fourteen languages and dialects. Large quantities of these publications are given away to local organizations for general distribution, and in the foreign countries they are scattered by colporteurs and native workers.

These societies are constantly urging the pastors and churches to give them separate collections, so that they will get more money. Naturally, the officials are not in favor of consolidation unless it could be managed so as to not decrease their incomes. Each one is confronted by unusual opportunities for investing money in Christian enterprises to good advantage. The missionary society alone is actually embarrassed by its opportunities. In India, especially, the natives are being converted so fast that the missionary force now in the field cannot baptize or care for them. It is said there are 10,000 converts that the missionaries cannot receive, simply because there are not enough pastors and teachers to do the necessary training, which is very important. Strenuous efforts are being put forth to increase the income of the missionary society to $1,500,000. All the other societies are suffering in the same way.

The total amount of money raised by the church for all purposes is about $19,000,000 per year, over $15,000,000 of which is for ministerial support and current expenses. For purely benevolent purposes of a universal nature, which do not immediately benefit the local church, the expenditure is $2,822,437 per year. All of this money comes from the pockets of the members of the church and congregation, with the exception of a few hundred thousand in legacies and special gifts. The Twentieth Century Thanksgiving offering fund of $20,000,000, which is steadily being raised, does not directly help the benevolent fund, as it is being applied to the payment of debts on church and parsonage property and the development of endowments for universities.

BURNED BY COFFEE.

Boy Knocks Over Cup With Serious Results to Himself.

Frank Reynolds, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Reynolds, of Duer street, was badly scalded, this morning, while seated at the breakfast table over a cup of steaming coffee. The contents fell on his right side and scalded through to the flesh. Home remedies were applied to relieve his sufferings until Dr. Buchanan arrived. He is in no danger but continues to be in great pain.

Edward Alpaugh, of Plainfield, is visiting Mansfield Hummer, at Annandale.

Mrs. Lydia Hunt, of Junction, is visiting Plainfield friends for a few days.

DUNELLEN.

An attempt to burglarize the residence of Walter Clawson, early yesterday morning, was frustrated by the faithful watch-dog. Mrs. Clawson was awakened by the animal's barking shortly before 2 o'clock and listening intently she heard someone moving stealthily about the front porch. She raised a front window and as she did a man darted across the lawn and disappeared down the street. The prowler would evidently have succeeded in gaining an entrance but for the canine's barking.

The Republican voters of the borough will hold their primary in the office of Garretson & Gray, Monday evening. Four delegates are to be elected to represent Dunellen at the Congressional convention to be held at Asbury Park on August 28.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle has arrived home and will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church at tomorrow morning's service. It has been decided that Rev. George Angleman, of Piermont, N. Y., is to preach in the evening.

Recognizing his faithfulness, the New Jersey Central officials have promoted Albert Smith from the position of fireman to engineer. He will shortly be assigned to a regular run.

The local baseball team will go up against the Bound Brooks on the home grounds this afternoon. The game will be called at 3:30 and will undoubtedly be a good contest.

Mrs. Smith Watson and children have returned home from a four weeks' stay with relatives at Point Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Pruden and children have been the guests of William Pruden for the past few days.

Paul Kratzel, Jr., of Elizabethport, is spending a few days with his parents.

Walter Brokaw is on the sick list.

NEW MARKET.

Miss Sarah J. L. Blue, who passed away at her home yesterday after many months of patient suffering, was a charitably disposed person and in her quiet way performed many acts of kindness which she never mentioned. One of her last acts before she died was the gift of $100 to the trustees of the Dunellen Methodist church for the mortgage fund. The funeral services are to be held from her late home this afternoon and will be in charge of Rev. S. K. Doolittle.

Republican voters of the township are requested to meet in Charles S. Day's office, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of electing two delegates to the Asbury Park Congressional convention.

The New Market A. C. and the Orange Field Club, of Plainfield, will cross bats on the local diamond, this afternoon. Whitly and VanAuken will be the opposing twirlers.

Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Ackley, of Philadelphia, are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. R. L. Pierce.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Alice, the little eighteen-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Trayno, had a narrow escape from serious injury on Thursday. In some way the little one had wandered out of the yard and was about crossing the road to follow her older brother who was watching the ball game opposite the home. James B. Guttridge's delivery wagon in charge of Mr. Guttridge's son, Robert, was driving by. The driver and his companion were intently watching the game and did not notice the little one until it was nearly under the wheels. The wheel or hub struck the toddler in the face knocking her down and bruising her badly. Dr. Westcott was summoned and dressed the wounds. Fortunately no bones were broken.

Several weeks ago it looked as though the Scotch Plains and Westfield baseball teams would meet on the diamond this season but from present indications the game is as far off as ever. Manager Denman, of the Westfields, made two engagements to meet Manager Johnston two weeks ago. Neither engagement was kept, and it is hardly likely that the local management will make any more endeavors to arrange a game. It may possibly be that the Westfield management has concluded that Scotch Plains has some reputation at last.

The next meeting of the Borough Council gives promise of being a stormy one. An ordinance has been framed, and unless vetoed by the Council will become a law, for the removal of garbage and ashes from the residences by contract. Many are opposed to the ordinance and when the Council meets will endeavor to have it repealed.

Service at the Baptist church Sunday will be Sunday-school, 9:30; followed by morning preaching by the pastor, 10:45, subject, "Warned and Rewarded;" B. Y. P. U. meeting, parlors of the church, 7 p. m.; no evening preaching service.

Frank Hand's Junior ball team journeyed to Plainfield Friday afternoon and were defeated by the Richmond street team quite handily. In the morning the Juniors defeated the Netherwood Juniors on the local diamond.

Vacation time at the public school is fast drawing to a close, much to the regret of the children. School is expected to reopen on Tuesday following Labor Day, Septemer 2.

The locals and Brooklyn's crack team, The Sidneys, are battling for honors on the local diamond this afternoon; game called 3:45.

The Misses Merceir, of Grand street, have returned from a pleasant visit with their aunt, Mrs. Frank Keller, of Elizabeth.

The Misses Carroll, of New York, are spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John Sheelen, of Mountain avenue.

George H. Johnston, who has been spending several days with his family at Asbury Park, has returned home.

A number from Elizabeth will enjoy a trolley ride followed by a dance at Ivamy's pavillion on Monday night.

Augustus Sheelen, who has been spending his vacation of two weeks at Atlantic City, will return today.

Miss Tillie Schroder, of Brooklyn, has been visiting at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Hosinger.

Rev. Mr. Glazer will lead the Saturday evening prayer meeting in the Methodist church tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Riverside Park, near New Brunswick, seems to have become popular among the young people of this section. Already several parties from South Plainfield have enjoyed a day of recreation there, and more parties are to follow which will make that their destination.

There will be no church services at the Baptist church tomorrow until evening, when the Christian Endeavor Society will have charge of the regular Sunday evening meeting at 7:45.

Harry Peck, of Plainfield avenue, has resumed his work in New York after a vacation of two weeks.

Mrs. George Smith is visiting friends in Pennsylvania. She will return home tomorrow evening.

The local camp of the P. O. of A., held its regular bi-weekly meeting in Washington Hall, last night.

Howard Elliot, of Clinton avenue, is visiting at the home of Jesse Dayton, of New Durham.

Go and Hear Him.

Alexander F. Irvine, of New Haven, Conn., who will address the men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon delivered two lectures here in May. "The tools of a Carpenter," his subject for tomorrow, will be illustrated with a kit of carpenters tools. Dr. Schauffler of New York, in speaking of Mr. Irvine says: "He is a fine and fiery speaker and has plenty of matter from which to draw." Lemonade will be served free.

Picnic on Mountain.

The primary class of the East Third Street chapel went on a picnic yesterday afternoon to the mountains. Miss Deborah C. Winn and Miss Lella Titus were in charge of the outing.

P. G. Wyckoff, one of the principals in the Bayonne Public Schools, and who until recently resided at 78 Sandford avenue, Plainfield, is seriously ill at his home on Fourth avenue, Roselle.

THEATRICAL.

Grace George's assortment of theatrical manuscripts and pictures recently was enriched by a gift from James Young, of Mrs. Fiske's company, who desired to unite the two collections.

William A. Brady will have an even dozen attractions this season—Grace George, three companies in "Way Down East," three in "Lovers' Lane," two in "Foxy 'Grandpa," "Under Southern Skies," a revival of "After Dark," and a melo-drama as yet unnamed. Mr. Brady is also director of the Woman's Exhibition, announced for October 6-18 at Madison Square Garden.

New York is having a craze of musical comedies this summer. Rice's "Show Girl," "The Chaperons," "Wild Rose" "Dolly Varden" and "King Dodo" are all running to excellent business. Rice has re-established himself as a producer by his presentation of the "Show Girl" which is acconnted the best, liveliest of all, being distincty "A Rice Pudding" as Alan Dale expressed it in his recent criticism of the performance. Miss Katheryn Hutchnison, the prima donna of Rice's "Show Girl," is the most attractive prima donna from a beauty standpoint that New York has seen since the well-remembered and best beauty days of Lillian Russell. She has the honor and distinction of being the youngest (nineteen) prima donna at the head of an important production in this or any other country, and has surprised the regular theatre-goers and critics by the richness and quality of her voice and her ability as an actress.

Continuing Mr. Keith's policy of offering the strongest vaudeville attractions in the market, the bill at the Union Square Theatre next week will be of the usual high grade order, having for its headliner Milton and Dolly Nobles, who have one of the greatest laugh producing successes in the business, "A Blue Grass Meadow." The Three Roscarrys, the European comedy acrobats, present their turn, which is remarkable not only for high grade comedy, but for some really marvellous acrobatic work that is done with a finish not usual in acrobatic acts. Dave Lewis, better known as "Our German Friend," and well known to all patrons of the better class of vaudeville houses, has a good place on the offering. Ameta, the spectacular danseuse, whose fire and myriad dances are things of great beauty, and have attracted much attention, Barton and Ashley, the eccentric comedians; Ford and Cantwell, in their dancing specialties; Craig and Ardelle, the musical comedians, and seventeen other strong features will be upon this excellent programme at the Union Square. Noon to 11 p.m. Fifty cents.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Plans are being formulated for the erection of a new public schoolhouse at Basking Ridge.

—Percy Cannon will lead the Christian Endeavor meeting at East Third street chapel tomorrow evening.

—The annual meeting of the Hunterdon county W. C. T. U. will be held September 18, at Flemington.

—Mrs. George White, of Washington Park, who during the past three weeks has been seriously ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. VanHoagland, of Millstone, is much improved and is expected to return home soon.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

Courtship in Germany.

It is impossible for young people to marry in Germany without the consent of their parents or legal guardians. Certain prescribed forms must be gone through or the marriage is null and void. When a girl has arrived at what is considered a marriageable age her parents make a point of inviting young men to the house, and usually two or three are invited at the same time, so that the attention may not seem too pointed. No young man, however, is invited to the house until he has called at least once, and thus signified his wish to have social intercourse with the family.

A Misfit.

Little Henry was taken along one day when his older brothers went bathing in the river not far from where they lived. He went out very cautiously into the shallow part of the water, but finally stepped into a little depression in the bottom, which brought the water up to his shoulders, whereupon he cried out, quite lustily: "Take me out! Take me out! This water don't fit me!"—Woman's Home Companion.

A Handy Valet.

"I hear that you are looking for a good valet, Baron?"

"Yes, but have you any recommendations from your last employer?"

"No, but I am a clever liar and know every sheriff in the city, and, besides, I can get rid of all the creditors in an easy manner."

"Good! You are just the man I want. I engage you."—From Der Dorfbarbier.

Out at First.

Softleigh—I—aw—had a most de-delightful dweam lawst night, doncher know.

Miss Cutting—Indeed!

"Yaws. I—I dweamed that we were mawwied, doncher know."

"Had I dreamed that I should have classed it as a horrible nightmare."—Chicago Daily News.

All the Same to Him.

"Your hair seems to be falling out," remarked the barber, briskly wielding the shears. "I think I can save it."

"All right," said the customer. "Save it if you want to. I've got no use for it."—Chicago Tribune.

Silent Critics.

Beryl—A good deal is thought of her singing.

Sibyl—It's merciful they don't put their thoughts into words.—Baltimore Herald.

Scarcity of Fuel a Serious Industrial Handicap.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—R. G. Dunn & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Fuel scarcity is still the one serious industrial handicap. Protracted idleness at anthracite mines increased the pressure for soft coal and coke, and, despite new records of output, deliveries are utterly inadequate owing to the lack of motive power. This freight blockade of coke trains has closed many furnaces, while the increasing call for transporting facilities on crop accounts gives little prospect of early relief.

Textile mills are well occupied, business gradually increasing in the cotton goods division, and demands for quick delivery emphasize the fact that stocks are low and requirements for consumption are pressing.

Staple products average somewhat higher in prices owing to less uniformly good news from the agricultural sections. No serious disaster occurred, but excessive rain retarded the development of grain and interrupted harvesting. In many cases where the date of maturity has been postponed there is always the possibility of injury from early frosts. The other extreme of weather caused complaint at the south, drought being in evidence at many points.

Light stocks continue to facilitate speculation for an advance in the early options of grain, and losses abroad contributed to the good tone. The downward tendency of meats received a check from the firmness in grain. Wheat comes into sight at about the same rate as a year ago, western receipts for the week amounting to 6,730,250 bushels against 6,605,925 bushels in 1901.

Failures for the week numbered 207 in the United States against 205 last year, and 30 in Canada against 35 a year ago.

On Good Terms With the Sultan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The state department has received a dispatch from Minister Leishman at Constantinople saying that amicable relations have been re-established between the legation and the porte. The sultan has directed that a portion of the agreements reached between Minister Leishman and the secretary of foreign affairs be carried out. These agreements were annulled by the grand vizier. Minister Leishman has resumed negotiations with the secretary of foreign affairs upon subjects that had not been settled when the intercourse between the minister and the secretary ceased.

Bold Attempt to Wreck Train.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Aug. 23.—The Frisco system's southern limited train, southbound, laden heavily with passengers, was derailed at Edwards Junction, near here, while running at a speed of thirty miles. Some one had driven a spike between the switch rails and opened the switch half way. The engineer and fireman were injured, but none of the passengers was hurt. The engine was derailed, and the baggage car was thrown across the tracks, but the coaches and Pullmans remained on the tracks. Detectives are working on the case.

James R. Keene Home.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—James R. Keene was a passenger on the Cunard line steamer Lucania, which has arrived from Liverpool and Queenstown. On the steamer's arrival at quarantine Mr. Keene was transferred to the United States revenue cutter Hudson, which proceeded to New York.

LIMITS WIFE'S DRINK.

New York Judge Tells Woman She Can Have All Her Husband Will Give Her.

Magistrate Flammer, New York, decided a case in a novel manner in the West side court, and in such a way as to satisfy both complainant and defendant.

William Keim, a barber, haled his wife, Annie, to court, charging that she was an habitual drunkard. He said that within the last five years she had knocked his teeth down his throat, and in other ways had abused him.

Both husband and wife are Germans, and the wife speaks little English. To facilitate matter Keim acted as interpreter for the court.

GETS ALL SHE WANTS TO DRINK.

"What do you drink?" asked Magistrate Flammer of the defendant, who is a comely, jolly-looking woman.

Keim interpreted the question to his wife, who burst into a hearty laugh. "Why, you know," she replied in German.

"She drinks milk-punches," said Keim.

"Why do you drink too many of them?" asked the magistrate.

Again the woman laughed. "She says she only drinks what I give her," interrupted Keim.

"Is that so?" said Magistrate Flammer.

"Well, I don't know," answered Keim; "I do give her drinks."

The whole proceeding appeared to appeal to Mrs. Keim as a huge joke. She laughed continuously, and even the dignified magistrate was affected by her good humor.

"Now, I tell you what to do," he said to Keim; "will you be satisfied if your wife drinks only what you give her?"

"Yes," he answered.

"And you will promise not to drink any more than your husband gives you?" the magistrate asked Mrs. Keim.

"Sure," she laughed; "but he gives me too much."

"Well, go away, the two of you," said the magistrate.

As Mrs. Keim stepped down from the bridge she said:

O, that'll be all right; he gives me all I want."

WISE LITTLE PIGS.

They Surprised Their Owner by Addressing Him Familiarly by His First Name.

In the days before Hugh J. Chisholm, of New York, had become the president of the International Paper Company and a dozen lesser concerns he lived in Portland, Me.

A great delight to him, says the New York Times, was a fertile little farm which he owned in the suburbs, and in whose management he took great interest. Frequently he relieved the tedium of the business life with a trip out to the farm to inspect the place. On one of these visits he strolled out to the piggery. The ever-ravenous porkers heard him coming, and, persistently on the lookout for feeding time, they scrambled into the trough and braced their feet against the side of the pen.

"HEUGH! HEUGH!"

As Mr. Chisholm peered over the fence the hungry swine, with a huff and a puff, began to grunt, 'Heugh, heugh."

"Now, how," chuckled Mr. Chisholm, "did those cute little critters know my name?"

Violet-Scented Seaweed.

Violet-scented seaweed grows in the lakes of the Manyishlak peninsula, in the Caspian Sea, and the pleasant odor therefrom scents the air for miles from its source.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Modified Louis Coats—Skirts of Lace and Louisine Silk.

Smart women have adopted the modified Louis coat in chine or brocade to wear with net and chiffon skirts, and a charming black or white toilet relieved with dainty coloring can be evolved in this manner.

Skirts of chine louisine silk with slips of lace are popular. Very dressy black skirts to be worn over separate foundations are of tucked voile trimmed with black passementerie or inlet with black lace. With these are worn unlined black lace blouses.

FRENCH FOULARD DRESS.

No matter how fashion changes, the large black hat, simply trimmed, is always in good taste and wearable on almost every occasion.

The new neck ruffles give a sloping effect to the shoulders which is not always becoming to short people. These should remain faithful to the feather boa or the round neck ruche.

One of the smartest Parisian foulard models is here shown. The material is in a delicate shade of old rose and it is trimmed with Venetian lace. The waist is laid into shirrings that simulate a yoke, and the upper halves of the sleeves are treated in the same way. The skirt has a plain front gore with a shirred yoke and slightly full side gores finished with three folds around the bottom.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

GOWNS FOR COOLER DAYS.

Alpacas and Serges Are Trimmed With Kiltings and Strappings.

Kilting is once more coming into fashion, but it is mostly used below the knees, as few women care for the bunchy effect around the hips unless in a light fabric. Cream serge dresses treated in this way, with a great deal of fullness around the feet, have the waists simply made, with insertions of kilting and touches of black braid.

COAT FOR AUTUMN WEAR.

Next to serges come flannels, and these are much used for yachting and even country wear, while Parisians are wearing spotted flannels instead of the plain shades popular last year. Alpaca in pastel shades is also a favorite. The smartest colors are green and blue. Alpaca lends itself admirably to strappings, and for this purpose either the material itself or satin ribbon may be used.

The coat shown in the cut was seen recently at the races. It is of pale gray cloth, with revers and cuffs of ivory panne embroidered in black.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Hard on the Dog.

"Billingsley has taught his dog to sing."

"Does he sing well?"

"He sings as well as Billingsley could teach him."

"I never heard Billingsley. Is he a good singer?"

"Well, the dog has been shot at seven times."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"Now, how did you come to mat me?" asked Hendricks, as he set the candle down on the table and eyed his guest with anything but an amiable look.

"Well, I see you several times of late in the street, and somehow you slipped away 'fore I could catch up with you. To-night I had better luck."

"Hum!" Then, going to a box in one corner of the room, which he evidently used for a closet, he took a bottle from it and a plate of bread and meat, and set them down on the table before his guest. Job did not attempt to speak again; as he watched the man fall on the food like a wild animal, and it was only when the last crumb had been devoured and the bottle emptied that he ventured to say:

"Why did you come in like a thief?"

"I wasn't sure you was in, and I wanted to surprise you," with a grin. "When I see you come down in the dark with that pistol in hand I was feared you'd pink me 'fore I could make myself known, and so I had to take it from ye. Hope you'll excuse me for that. Ye might have killed me by mistake, and then an explanation wouldn't have did me no good. See?"

"Yes, I see," growled the other, to whom the subject was evidently an unpleasant one, and rankled, since it showed how easy it would be to disarm him another time.

"Well, and what do you wan't?" he asked, afer a moment's pause. "Why did you come and seek me out?"

"I thought that you might have some work on hand for me to do." Then, with a keen look, "I must say, Will—that you have changed—there are some things 'bout ye I can't make out."

"Changed? Course I've changed; who wouldn't in all these years. Well, I don't know but I have work for you to do."

The other drew his chair up nearer to the table and moved his thin lips together as if he was smacking them over a prospective treat.

"What is it, cleanin' chimneys?" with a knowing wink.

"I'm done with all such things."

"Get out—what sort of a story is that? Turned Methody, have ye, an' you one of the best in the business? Mind taking the bishop's gold snuff box at a weddin'—Oh, say, that was rich," and he broke out into noisy laughter.

"There—there. I wish you wouldn't make so much noise," grumbled Hendricks. I came here to keep out of people's way, and while I don't mind your finding me out—"

The stranger drew a long whistle, and then nodded sagely.

"I see. Wanted, eh? Well, naturally, you must lay low for a while. Now, what was the job you would put me on to? You always was a master hand for laying out work. If I had your brains I'd do nothing else, and it's much safer."

"I wish you wouldn't talk so much, and listen to me," said Job testily. "What a jabbler you are!"

"I'm shut up—so go ahead," said the other, subsiding.

Job became thoughtful, and they were not pleasant thoughts, to judge from his frowning forehead and the fierce look that came into his eyes. His big hands resting on the arm of the chair opened and closed now and then convulsively, but presently he grew calmer.

"It was before your day that this happened, maybe, or, at least you were but a lad, Jebbs. The Delamater Iron Works, over on the North river side, was robbed—the foreman happened to be killed—a man named Martin Frale was accused—found guilty and sentenced—to 20 years." He paused and drew a long breath.

"I've heard the story. I was not in business at the time," said the other. "But what of it? They say Frale is dead!"

"Frale never had anything to do with the murder. He was starving almost at the time. There was a man—an enemy of his—who that night wined him and dined him, and when he was fuddled led him into the trouble," and when Job was saying this his eyes wore a far-away look as if his thoughts were wandering back in the past.

Jebbs eyed him keenly and blurted out:

"Say, old man, what of this job you was talkin' 'bout? What's all this here ancient history to do with it?"

Hendricks roused himself as if returning from the past to the present and nodded his head.

"Maybe I was wandering," then with great earnestness: "This is what I wan't to know—who wrote those words—and where can the writer be found?" and so saying he laid on the table before his shabby guest the torn envelope he had found that day when he went to visit James Ellison.

Jebbs picked it up and held the paper where the light of the candle would fall full upon it, while his companion watched him with anxious eyes.

"Come, if you know, out with it," he said at length, impatiently. "I'm told that you have a great head for handwriting—the keenest of all."

The other poured over the paper and then let it fall.

"I know who wrote that!" he said slowly.

"He is living—you could find him—or show me where he could be found?" asked Hendricks, anxious and eager.

"I'm not so sure of that," said Jebbs, with a provoking grin.

"What do you mean—don't sit there like a ninny."

"Well," drawled the other, "'cause the fellow that wrote this is more of a shadow than a man!"

CHAPTER XV.

THE BLACK COUPE.

Hendricks stared at his shabby companion for a moment, wondering what he meant when he said that the writer of the lines was "more of a shadow than a man." Persons in his peculiar walk of life were not inclined to use figures of speech.

"I see you think I'm talkin' foolishness," said Jebbs, noticing the puzzled look on his host's face.

Job nodded gloomily.

"Well, I'm not having fun with ye, I tell ye. If I ain't mistook in the writer of that er queer dockerment, a shadder would be easier to lay hands on than him."

Hendricks sniffed contemptuously, but did not interrupt, for he was far too much interested in getting at the truth of the matter to delay his companion.

"Yes, sir," continued Jebbs, "I ain't tellin' ye no lie. Where he lives no one knows. He's here to-day and gone to-morrow. He has a finger in all the best pies, and then slips away until another promisin' job is to the fore. They has anxious times over him at headquarters, but never can get ther' hands on him. He turns up when he's least expected. There's many that works for him that never seen his face. He lodges here and there and ever'where. He is a shadow, for none of the people know his real name, and so it's 'The Shadow' they calls him."

Job, after a moment's thought, took a small roll of bills out of his pocket, and taking three fives from the top, spread them on the table, restoring the roll to his coat again.

"There's for the present. I am glad to know that he is occasionally heard from. When you next learn of his whereabouts let me know, and you shall have five hundred dollars—that is if your story is true."

The other stuck the money away in his coat and winked expressively.

"Mebbe by the time I let you know his stand, like's not he would skip fore ye got there," said he.

NEGRO NETTLES JUDGE.

Old Darky Gave Good Advice to His Honor, But Had to Pay $10 for Giving It.

An amusing scene which was enacted in a downtown courtroom the other day furnished the spectators much fun while it lasted, says the Chicago Record-Herald. The magistrate, a big pompous official with a voice like a trombone, took it upon himself to examine a witness, a small, withered old colored man, whose ebony-hued countenance was full of confidence as he faced his inquisitor.

"What is your name?" asked the justice.

"Why jedge," said the astonished

"YOU'D BETTER GIT OUT!"

witness, "you knows my name as well as I knows your'n."

"Never you mind what I know or what I don't know," was the caution given with magisterial severity. "I asked the question in my official capacity and you're bound to answer it under oath."

With a half-contemptuous snort the witness gave his name.

"Where do you live?"

"Now, jedge!" protested the old man. "Why," he continued, appealing to the laughing attorneys, "I been knowin' jedge all muh life and he's been knowin' me, an' bless Gawd, tuh heah him caih on you'd think—"

"Silence!" thundered the irate magistrate. "Answer my questions or I'll fine you for contempt of court."

Alarmed by the threat the witness named his place of residence and the examination went on.

"What is your occupation?"

"Suh?"

"What do you do for a living?"

"Oh, git out, jedge! Jus' laik you ain't nevah hied me tuh ten' youah gahden in de summah an saw youah wood in de winter!"

"As a private citizen I am perfectly aware of the fact, but as the court I know nothing about you," exclaimed the perspiring justice.

"Well, jedge," remarked the perturbed witness, "if you know's somethin' cuten de cohtroom an doan know nothin' in it, you'd better git out an' let some un try dis case whut's got hoss sense."

The advice may have been well meant, but it cost the witness ten dollars.

HE KEPT HIS WORD.

Said he Wouldn't Give Up His Seat to an Angel and, Sure Enough, He Didn't.

A somewhat fussy old gentleman one afternoon stood up in an electric tram car to give his seat to a young lady. Presently there was a vacancy and he occupied it, only to find at the next stopping station that another lady got in, and again he arose and offered her the seat, hiding certain feelings behind a smile.

Then the seat between the two young ladies became vacant, and, with a sigh of satisfaction, the old gentleman occupied it, saying, sotto voce, "I won't give up my seat again, even for an angel."

The first young lady started quickly and turned to him: "I beg your pardon, sir."

The old gentleman paused a moment before replying. "I mean, of course, I wouldn't give up my seat even for another angel." The young lady smiled her triumph.

Then there entered a somewhat masculinely attired lady, who fixed her penetrating eyes on the old gentleman. He turned to the young lady and said: "This has no reference to the previous conversation." Then he offered his seat to the incomer.

He was not even thanked. "Anyhow," he added, "I've kept my word."

ARTHUR J. BALFOUR.

England's New Premier and His Illustrious Predecessor.

Man Who Will Govern Great Britain for Some Years to Come Is a Nephew of the Retiring Government Chief.

The nephew succeeds the uncle, for Arthur James Balfour, incoming premier of England, bears that relationship to the marquis of Salisbury, who goes out cheerfully to resume his beloved studies of chemistry in the laboratories of his great house near St. Albans.

When Arthur Balfour was at Cambridge he got the name of "Aunt Fanny," but he has lived it down. There is nothing effeminate in the character of Arthur Balfour who today steps into one of the first administrative positions in the world.

He was born in Scotland July 25, 1848, and is the eldest son of the late James Maitland Balfour and Lady Blanche Gascoigne Cecil, sister of the present marquis of Salisbury. He practically began his political life as private secretary to his uncle when the marquis was secretary of state for foreign affairs. One-third of his 54 years have been spent in political service. that service finally bringing him into the position of conservative leader of the house of commons. Ever since he was first elected to parliament in 1874 he has been close to the person and deep in the counsels of Lord Salisbury. He is popular in many sections of the empire, and admired where he is not popular.

He was selected for the chief secretaryship of Ireland, because "he had the hardest head, the steadiest nerve, and the strongest hand," for the position. His self-possession is described as "indomitable and ever vigilant." The conservatives hold to him because he is an "aristocrat to his finger tips," and that kind of aristocracy is quite popular in England at the present time.

Scotland has taken especial delight in honoring this brilliant son of hers. There is scarce a university in the land of heather that has not conferred upon him an honorary degree of some kind or elected him to some position in its government. English universities have also signally honored him, and, although a graduate of Cambridge, Oxford has heaped its honors upon him with a friendly hand.

HON. ARTHUR J. BALFOUR.
(Lord Salisbury's Successor as Premier of Great Britain.)

Balfour has called himself a popular statesman, "and by that," he says, "I do not mean a statesman who is personally popular, but a statesman who aims at furthering the prosperity of the people."

Lord Salisbury looks back on a political career of more than half a century.

In 1853, when only 23 years old, he was elected to parliament as member for Stamford, and represented the borough for 15 years. He took an active part in all public measures which affected the interests of the established church and the chief political questions of the day. In his younger days Lord Salisbury was a frequent contributor to the Quarterly Review and kindred periodicals.

In 1866 he was appointed secretary of state for India, which post he resigned in 1867 on account of a difference of opinion respecting the reform bill. Two years later he was elected chancellor of the University of Oxford in succession to the late earl of Derby.

When Disraeli returned to office in 1874 Lord Salisbury was appointed secretary of state for India. These two great statesmen were the representatives of Great Britain at the congress of Berlin in 1878. On his return the queen invested Lord Salisbury with the Order of the Garter.

In 1881, after the death of Lord Beaconsfield, the marquis became the leader of the conservative party in the house of lords. On January 9, 1885, Mr. Gladstone was beaten on a budget vote and resigned, and Lord Salisbury took office as premier.

High Regard for Propriety.

Some regard for propriety was manifested by a widower in Kansas. Just two weeks after burying his wife he married another, and several of his neighbors came to serenade him with tin horns, etc. The discordant racket brought him to the door, and he said: "You ought to be ashamed to make such an uproar at a house where a funeral has been so recently held."

Edward Wilkinshaw, of Havant, England, has been bald from birth. Now, at the age of 62, a plentiful crop of dark-red hair covers his head, all grown in less than three months.

A Burst of Magnificence.

That glorious and renowned region in which Mauch Chunk is located is as far famed as the country itself. In the heart of a beautiful mountain range, the Switchback railway leads to the summit of one of the highest peaks, where marvelous views are in every direction. The air is cool and delightful and one cannot but become intoxicated with the wondrous outlooks. This celebrated locality is located on the lines of the New Jersey Central, and on Sunday, August 24, there will be a popular $1.50 excursion to Mauch Chunk. Special train leaves Plainfield at 9:22 a. m., arriving at Mauch Chunk at about noon, and if you want a day of genuine enjoyment don't let this excurson pass. Switchback tickets are 50 cents extra.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Rogers, of Madison avenue, have returned home from a two weeks' vacation, spent at Shiloh.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

Smart Young Man—Good morning, Mr. Bullion.

Mr. Bullion (irascible old gent)—Um—ah—good morn—remarkable dog you have with you.

"Ya-as; Siberian bloodhound. Terribly savage; takes this ox chain to hold him. If anyone should look cross at me this dog would tear him to pieces. Yes, indeed! I'm going to have him killed. Too dangerous, you know."

"I should say so!"

"Ya-as; must do it in the interest of humanity, you know. By, the way, Mr. Bullion, your daughter has accepted me, and I have called to get your consent."

He got it.—London Answers.

An Insinuation.

It was a warm Sunday morning in church. Fans were fluttering, hymnals flopping, handkerchiefs mopping streaming faces; and the minister thought his audience a little lax in attention. Finally he led up to a rebuke for their lack of consideration for sacred and important things. Said he:

"People are prone to attend to the unimportant things of life."

And he gave a few examples to illustrate the idea. Presently he made his pertinent application.

"Now," said he, "you are attentive to your own comfort this morning, to the sinful neglect of the holy word. Take no thought for the heat," he said, dramatically, "for you may be dead tomorrow."—Detroit Free Press.

There's grief in the camp of the Hope Y. M. A. followers. It's all because of a crushing defeat administered by the doughty Y. M. C. A. team Saturday afternoon, when the West End colts had gone into the game filled with expectation of a glorious victory. A look of distress overspread Manager Cose's countenance at the early stage of the contest and when the game was over he appeared as one attending a funeral. The victors in this contest have now well nigh clinched the championship and Hope will have to do some mighty tall hustling to even tie them for first place. Contrasted with the gloom among the Hope rooters wast he joy in the colony of Safe Works' people. The latter aggregation severely punished the St. Mary nine and Manager Alex. Muir is strutting about with the "I told you so expression." Both contests were well attended and excitement ran high on several occasions.

Y. M. C. A. IN CLOVER.

Failure to connect with Dupee's delivery at critical points, deprived the Hope team of victory in its game with the Y. M. C. A., Saturday, and incidentally subdued the buzzing of the pennant bee in the Hope camp. Four widely scattered hits was all the Hope batsmen made and if a couple more could have been secured at odd times twice as many runs would have been tallied. On the other hand, the Y. M. C. A. men landed on the West End team's reserve pitcher, Rushmore, for eleven singles and one double. There were numerous fly outs and other retirements between them, however, and despite this number the association contingent made only four runs, while with one third the hits Hope sent two men over the plate.

Rushmore received support that could not be improved upon and by his own cool headedness kept the score down. In the first inning he was touched up by Moore and Barnes for two singles but both died on bases. In the second Egan reached first through Martin taking his grounder to retire Smith at second. He stole second and trotted home with the first run on C. Dupee's opportune single. In the third the association men were held down to one hit that brought nothing but in the third a double by Schoonmaker and a single by Egan sent the former across the plate. Two hits and a little fumbling in the sixth gave the Y. M. C. A. two more tallies and despite three more singles made in the remainder of the game they were unable to score further.

Up to the sixth the Hope people got nothing but ciphers, only three widely scattered hits being made in those innings. Rushmore made the first run by getting a free pass to first, a steal to second and crossing the plate through Montross' beauty double. Martin flied out, Shortman sacrificed to send Montross to third but a short grounder to Bolsterle made by Hartfelder, blasted Hopes chances for another run. The second run was made in the seventh by Munro who was hit and sent to first. He was given third by Barnes' bad throw to Egan and scored on Dally's single. Matters then assumed a roseate hue for Hope but it soon faded away. In the eighth and ninth, the Hope men went out in one, two, three order, not one of them reaching second. In the last inning Hartfelder flied out to Bolsterle, Munro was sent to first on balls only to let Moore make a double play by tagging him out on second after catching Gordon's fly.

SAFE WORKS ALERT.

Safe Works was sporting a keen baseball edge Saturday; St. Mary's was off somewhere in dreamland. That is the story of the game in a nutshell. The score, eight to two, in favor of Manager Muir's colts, is a mere incident.

An error by Crotty let in two runs in the third. Burns' single, Winn's muff of Mack's assist from Jackson's grounder, a drive into right field by Allen, which Barry should have had, but misjudged, got lost in the bushes, and gave Allen three bases, bringing in two runs in the fourth. Before the inning ended Allen scored on Cooney's safe hit. A fumble and two singles were responsible for two more tallies in the fifth. Burns, after making a double in the eighth, scored on Wilhelm's single.

Inability to connect with Tommy Burns' twists was another reason for St. Mary's defeat. Burns has been pitching such good ball of late according to baseball economics, he was scheduled to go up in the air Saturday, but his balloon ascension was postponed till some later date. Only six scatterd hits were made off his delivery and seven men slashed the atmosphere in trying to connect with his curious curves. At the bat Burns made two singles and a double.

The Safe Works fielders were all on their mettle too. Franklin made two difficult catches of hard flys out in centre field. Kaiser Wilhelm who ruled over right territory, gathered in everything that came his way. His Majesty showed up well with the stick. Cooney ran up in the bleacheries in the early part of the game and picked a difficult foul fly out of the crowd.

Catcher Allen was knocked unconscious by being struck by a ball in the second inning. He was taken over to the engine house and revived, and after thirty-five minutes delay returned and pluckily resumed play. Most favorably commented upon every side was the action of the St. Mary team in waiting for Allen, and generously offering to play the game at a later date, should he be unable to resume.

MISS POLLY VANCE FALLS FROM CAR

In Attempting to Get Off a Trolley Car She Loops-the-Loop.

LOADED WITH PACKAGES

THE WOMAN IS SAID TO LIVE AT SEBRING'S MILLS.

Struck Earth Broadside and Rolled—Bundles Scattered Everywhere—Is Now Nursing Scars and Bruises.

Mrs. Polly Vance, of Sebring's Mills, is very much at home today and the friends who are admitted within the precincts of her dainty boudoir come away strongly convinced that she looks more like a second hand furniture store than anything else. They can think of Polly's sadly deranged condition came to pass thuswise. As a good wife and dutiful mother she left the rural fastnesses of her happy home on Saturday evening and came to Plainfield to make sundry purchases for her liege lord and the bunch of little Vances.

Laden with many packages, among which was a box of zu-zus, proving conclusively that Polly wanted a cracker, she boarded the Bound Brook car at Dunellen at 8:15. Swiftly the trolley bore her from Dunellen's busy glamour out into the wilderness she calls her home sweet home. In time, believing that she had proceeded far enough into the recesses of the virgin forest, and confirmed her belief by a few simple astronomical calculations.

Polly gathered her little assortment of love tokens into her capacious arms, gave the conductor a sweet confiding look and stepped off the car into the night. Now the New Brunswick Traction Company pursues a measly short sighted policy and never insists on its conductors being mind readers. As a result of this woeful incapacity the car in question was prevailing at right merry speed when Polly felt she had had her money's worth. She struck old mother earth broadside and although a large and stately woman under ordinary conditions she showed surprising agility on this particular occasion. Her first move on terra firma was to double herself up into the letter O, loop-the-loop, and start in pursuit of the car. Over and over, a veritable human hoople, she rolled and except for the fact that she swerved slightly and became entangled in the tall grass, would have established a new road record for the half-mile.

Her zu zus became lost in the shuffle as did a pair of pants for little Johnnie, and some new side combs for Carrie, but Polly didn't seem to care much about trifles. With some difficulty she untied herself and limped home. Johnnie wore his patched trousers to Sunday-school yesterday, while Carrie's rat and pompadour are still things of the future.

Remember the Date.

Thursday is the last day on which Asbury Park and Ocean Grove can be visited this season at popular rates. The excursion of Warren chapel takes place on that day, and it promises to be one of the most successful of the season. The latter part of August is considered the best time to visit the shore, so don't miss this chance. The train leaves Plainfield at 8 o'clock and begins the return trip at 6 in the evening.

Lost a Finger.

Wm. Clarkson, of Orchard place, lost the index finger of his right hand by an accident at the Pond Tool Works Saturday. His machine started suddenly catching the member between two frames. The injury was treated at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Follow Me.

"Follow Me" was the subject of J. D. Grul's address in English in the German Reformed church on Craig place, last evening. Mr. Grul is very much liked by the members of the little church and he is doing a good work in his new field.

Off the Track.

The street railway sprinkling car ran off the track opposite Cooley's Sanitarium, Saturday evening. Traffic beyond that point was suspended for more than an hour.

FALLING TREE KILLS GIRL

Horrible Death of a Child Playing in the Woods at Fanwood Yesterday.

HER LIFE CRUSHED OUT

Thoughtless of the Woodchoppers—Little Sadie Meisner, Was the Victim—She Dies Almost Instantly—A Funeral Instead of a Birthday Party.

Carlessness on the part of woodcutters, may be assigned as the direct cause of the death of Sophie Meisner, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Meisner, of Hunter avenue, Fanwood, whose life was crushed out, yesterday morning, beneath the branches of a falling chestnut tree. The huge trunk had been cut Satruday, and left just barely held up by the branches of another tree, so that it needed but a slight touch to send it crashing to the ground. Notwithstanding the fact that it was directly in the rear of the Meisner home and the spot was a favorite playground for the children, the tree was left to remain in this manner when the workmen ceased cutting. The mistake cost little Sophie her life.

Shortly after 9 o'clock, yesterday morning, Sophie and two smaller children of the family, started for the wood to spend an hour or two in play, and naturally, they were attracted by the inclined tree.

Totally unconscious of their peril they ran about it and it is supposed one of them must have jostled. The upper branches suddenly lost their hold in the other trees and without a moment's warning dropped directly on Sophie who was beneath it. When the trunk settled on the ground, she was pinned beneath it, with life extinct.

Mrs. Charles Krammer who lives in the vicinity, was attracted by the crash of the branches and cries of the frightened children and hastened to the spot. On learning the trouble she ran for help and brought several men to the spot, with whose help the tree was lifted from the body of the little victim.

It was taken to the house of the parents and Dr. Westcott was called. He could do nothing, however, as it needed but a glance to show that death had resulted almost instantaneously from a broken neck.

It was Sophie's intention to celebrate her eleventh birthday, Wednesday, but instead her funeral will take place on that day. The service will commence at 2:30.

INJURED ON TROLLEY.

New Brunswick Man Hit by Trolley Pole and Sustains a Fracture of the Shoulder Blade.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 25—George Kelly, of Somerset street, this city, is detained at his home with a fractured shoulder blade and injuries to his head, the result of colliding with a trolley pole while crossing the Albany street bridge on a trolley car last evening about 6 o'clock. His injuries, however, are not of a serious nature and he will recover.

Kelly accompanied the New Brunswick baseball team to Riverside Park in the afternoon, where a game was played with the Raritan team. The home team won by a score of 9 to 7. The trolley car which brought the team and and its friends home was crowded to the limit and Kelly was obliged to stand on the side step. He got along all right until the Albany street bridge was reached and then he met with the accident as stated above.

Chalk Talk.

An unusually interesting service was held yesterday afternoon at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, led by A. A. Lake, of Dunellen, who gave to a large audience a most helpful talk illustrated on the blaackboard by means of various colored chalk.

Stereopticon Entertainment.

George E. Hall, of Belvidere avenue, will give a stereoption entertainment at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, tomorrow evening. A hearty invitation is extended to all to enjoy the affair.

Best of the Season.

The grocers are making every effort to take the largest crowd to Coney Island with them on Monday, Labor Day, that ever went out of Plainfield.

STANDING AT PRESENT.

GLENNEY TIES PETERSON IN THE BOYS' CUP COMFETITION.

D. H. Barrows and W. L. Glenney Tie for Second Place in Golf Committee Cup Contest at Hillside—No Change at the Park Club.

As might be expected at such a season of the year, when it is customary for Plainfielders to enjoy their vacation, no special interest was attached to the play on the local golf courses Saturday. The Golf Committee cup contest was the feature on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club's links, while the President's cup competition attracted attention at the Park Golf Club.

HILLSIDE CLUB.

In winning the first three points in the competition for the Boys' cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, Saturday morning, W. T. Glenney is now tie with Arthur Peterson for first place with 18½ points. A. D. Beers and Gordon W. Abbott divided the second and third honors with 1½ points each. This gives Abbott a total of 15 points and places him in second position, while Beers has a total of 7 points.

The scores for the Boys' cup are as follows:

W. T. Glenney, 97, 10—87; A. D. Beers, 99, 10—89; Gordon W. Abbott, 99, 10—89.

MRS. M. R. SHAFFER DEAD

THE WIDOW OF CHAUNCEY SHAFFER PASSES AWAY.

Was Prominent in Woman's Christian Temperance Union Affairs—Funeral at Bound Brook.

The death of Mrs. Maria R. Shaffer, widow of Chauncey Shaffer, occurred at the home of her grandson, Chauncey M. Burt, of West Seventh street, Saturday afternoon. She had been ill about three days with peritonitis.

Mrs. Shaffer was in her eighty-first year and had resided in this city for the past five years. She was greatly interested in the Monroe Avenue church and was a faithful member. Her husband was a prominent Metropolitan lawyer and was very well known in Plainfield. He was an advocate of temperance and Mrs. Shaffer did much to advance the cause of the W. C. T. U. She is survived by eight grandchildren, most of whom live in this city.

The funeral will be held from Mr. Burt's residence this afternoon at 3:30. Interment will be at Bound Brook.

SON PREACHED.

Rev. W. R. Hart Occupies Pulpit of Trinity Reformed Church in Place of His Father, Rev. John Hart.

Rev. John Hart, of Neshanic, who was engaged to occupy Dr. Schenck's pulpit yesterday morning in Trinity Reformed church, was unable to fill the engagement and his son, Rev. William Reese Hart, who has recently accepted a charge in the Reformed church at West Farms, the Bronx, N. Y., was sent to fill his father's engagement. The young divine was only recently licensed to preach, in June, but he gives evidence of making his mark as a pulpit orator as he adds years to his life.

BADLY SCALDED.

Trolley Car Motorman Seriously Injured in in Westfield—His Face and Side Burned.

Stephen Hartman, motorman of car No. 84, of the Elizabeth-Plainfield line, was painfully scalded, yesterday morning. As his car was passing beneath New Jersey Central bridge at Westfield, an engine discharged a volume of hot water, part of which fell on Hartman. His face and side were badly burned.

Irvine's Talk.

An attendance of 150 men heard Alex F. Irvine, of New Haven, give one of his apt talks at the Y. M. C. A. meeting yesterday afternoon. The meeting was in charge of Joseph W. Gavett. Mr. Irvine will speak again at Sunday's meeting.

A Junior Besler.

Mrs. W. G. Besler has presented a son to her husband. The youngster was born Friday and the friends of the popular railroader wish that some day he may become as competent a general manager as his father.

MOTORMAN TOO QUICK.

THE INJURED MAN IS NOT IN A VERY SERIOUS CONDITION.

Wagon Demolished, Horse Slightly Injured, But Reidy Escapes to Receive Wound Later—Trolley Company May Prefer Charges.

Following the smashing of his buggy by a Middlesex and Somerset trolley car at Conover's corner, Saturday night, Thomas Reidy, a farmer, of West Dunellen drew a pistol on the motorman and it is said threatened his life. He received in return a crack on the head with the controller handle which gave him a scalp wound and necessitated the services of Dr. Brakeley.

Reidy started for Bound Brook early Saturday evening, driving in a buggy and it is alleged, barely able to do so on account of intoxication. The motorman of the car claims that the accident which happened at 8:30 p. m., was due to Reidy's carelessness. The rig was struck and the horse was carried for some distance on the fender, but strangely escaped serious injury. Reidy also escaped.

He walked home after the accident, but evidently brooded over the fancied wrong the motorman had done him, to such an extent, that he procured a revolver and started for the trolley track. He remained some time and on starting for home boarded a trolley car. Reidy immediately began bickering with the motorman and finally drew the revolver and it is said threatened to shoot him. Before he could follow up his threat the quick witted trolley man snatched his lever up and took all the fight out of Reidy with one stunning blow. It was thought at first the man was badly injured and he was hurried home as fast as possible. Dr. Brakeley's examination showed that he was not seriously hurt.

It is said that the trolley officials will prefer charges against Reidy, although as yet nothing has been done.

MRS. VILAS DEAD.

Former Plainfielder Passes Away in Newark After a Short Illness—She Leaves a Husband.

Word was received in Plainfield this morning of the death of Mrs. Willard A. Vilas, formerly of West Fourth street, but lately of 66 Kearney avenue, Newark. Her illness began with a severe attack of cholrea morbus several days ago. She leaves a husband.

JACOBS THERE.

Evangelist Conducts Interesting Service at Westfield Fresh Air Camp Yesterday.

At the services at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp yesterday afternoon F. H. Jacobs, the singing evangelist, was present and had charge. Assisting Mr Jacobs yesterday was a chorus of one hundred voices.

Mrs. Williams Dead.

Following a long illness from a chronic complaint, Mrs. William H. Williams, of East Sixth street, passed away at her home Saturday. She was fifty-six years old and leaves one daughter by a former marriage. The funeral will be held from her late residence, this evening, at 7:30. Interment will be made at Highland Falls, N. Y.

Stranger Than Fiction.

A party of eighteen Plainfield disciples of Izaak Walton in charge of John Wierenga, of Randolph road, journeyed to Perth Amboy Saturday night in quest of members of the finny tribe. They returned home with a total catch of three weakfish, which were given to Wierenga.

St. P. A. Excursion.

An opportunity is given the people of Plainfield to enjoy an outing with St. Patrick's Alliance on its second annual excursion to Orange Grove, L. I., Labor Day, September 1. The boats will leave Chancellor dock, foot of Livingston street, Elizabethport, at 9:30 o'clock sharp.

Picnic Tomorrow.

The German Reformed church will hold tomorrow both afternoon and evening, its annual picnic in the grove on Debele's farm, Rock avenue. The grounds can best be reached by way of Clinton avenue. No admission fee will be charged.

NEW JERSEY OWNS BATH TUB OF U. S.

Remarkable Growth of Summer Resorts Along the Coasts of This State.

DEVELOPED RECENTLY.

SKETCHES OF THE VARIOUS WELL-KNOWN SEASIDE COMMUNITIES.

Coast Property a Century Ago Not Worth $40,000, Now Valued at $100,000,000 — More Hotels Than Along Rest of the Coast.

There are not many Plainfield people who now daily make their pilgrimage to Elberon, Allenhurst, Asbury Park and Spring Lake for some ozone and a bath who know that their's is an ancient and honorable custom, that they are really following in the footsteps of the native Indians, who preceded this comfortable civilization. The New Jersey red man took more than one bath a year, and he did so because he discovered that for good convenient bathing the Jersey coast excelled all others and he was not slow to appreciate a good thing. The difference between now and then is that the Indian carried no commuter's card and worked his way through narrow paths to the short and "put up" in an improvised habitation of skin and brush, while the white man puts up many hundreds of dollars for cottage and hotel bills.

It may not be generally known by the Plainfield contingent who rush down by the sea that so far as history goes it was the quiet Quaker folks of Philadelphia that developed the New Jersey seashore coast, particularly the upper end where residents of this city are mostly found. The development was gradual until twenty-five years ago when the spurt began and now continues.

New Jersey has a right to claim that it possesses the bath tub of the United States, meaning her alomst continuous line of seashore resorts, old and new, which stretch from Sandy Hook to Cape May. There are fifty-four resorts in a stretch of ninety miles; many of them are contiguous. A statistician, who has given much time to the development of the New Jersey coast, ventures the statement that there are more hotels and cottages, places of amusement and safe bathing along the New Jersey coast than all the rest of the ocean front, and that it has a larger summer population than any other place devoted to summer pleasure. Real estate on the Jersey coast has been estimated in value at one hundred millions and that pleasure seekers during the season leave in the cash drawer of the grateful bonifaces upwards of forty millions of dollars. Some of this goes to hear the band play and for the jolly amusements of the aerial railroad and "ye old mill pond" kind.

The remarkable increase in the valuation of seashore property can be traced through the State reports and the New Jersey coast has become what it is within twenty years. The mushroom growth of many of the new resorts is not any more interesting than the story of how Jersey became a nation's great bath tub, and particularly how the white man followed the trails of the original Indian nations to secure a bath in the briny deep and camp within reach of the Ozonic breezes.

Old Father Neptune has had lots of fun with the New Jersey coast line, and in days gone by, he became so capricious and moody that map makers were not only confused, but it looked as if there would be no seashore left, so frequently did he change the coast line. There are maps now in the New Jersey State House, which show that at Long Branch more than a mile of the bluff and beach has been torn away in about one hundred years and that the United States Government was kept busy protecting the light houses at Barnegat City and Atlantic City. Nearly every resort along the Jersey coast has had its experience with the changing beach front, but at one place were the pranks of Neptune so noticeable and costly as at Long Branch and Atlantic City, but modern engineering feats have arrested the mischief.

Long Branch is without doubt the oldest resort on the coast. The Indians used it early for a bathing ground. It was settled by fishermen, and land was worth twenty shillings an acre in 1734. There was an Indian path from Philadelphia to Burlington, from Burlington across New Jersey to the Shrewsbury, and this was responsible for the establishing of a road which settlers in Philadelphia followed to the shore for fishing and bathing.

After Long Branch in age comes Long Beach and Tucker Beach, better recognized as Barnegat and Tuckerton. Here was great fishing. The fishermen would take the sea food to Philadelphia and bring back, in fish-scented, duck-covered springless wagons a group of summer boarders, who would rough it, or take pot luck at the fisherman's cabin. Old advertisements show that what were called "modern" hotels were erected in the last century. Long Beach is now still a favorite resort for those who do not care for style, but prefer plenty of sport. Beach Haven is distinctively a Philadlephia colony, while Barnegat City draws from all parts. There are near it several Philadelphia and New York clubs.

Cape May opened its gates to the summer boarder in 1810, and the visitors continued to arrive until 1863 by stage or vessel. The town was famous in 1858, as a great resort for southern aristocracy, and noted for its fine bathing grounds and Cape May diamonds. It is a picturesque place, because it is an old village, with plenty of green and quaint streets. In 1869, after the opening of the West Jersey Railroad, the largest hotel on the coast was erected at a cost of $600,000 and named after Commodore Stockton. It is still the pride of Cape May. President Harrison made Cape May his summer home in 1889 and 1890, a $10,000 cottage being given to him.

The twin cities by the sea, Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, have a cosmopolitan summer population, and while they have been practically a merged seashore resort, there is now a spirit of unrest, and the former, getting gayer, is breaking away from the latter because its religious tendency is becoming stronger. Founder Bradley's followers want more privileges, and they are looking forward to a day of emancipation.

The story of the establishment of Ocean Grove as a religious camp-meeting is well known. The resort is unique bceause of its restriction as to bathing, driving and the conduct of the visitors. It has been preeminently successful along the lines on which it was started, and the recent failure of an attempt to compel it to let down its bars for an ocean front boulevard indicates that it has an airtight charter that even the Legislature must respect.

Asbury Park is an example of what one man can do. James A. Bradley has improved somewhat on Ocean Grove. He was one of the original charter members of that organization. Both towns came into existence in 1869 and 1870.

The future of the New Jersey seashore coast, based on what has already been accomplished and what is proposed, is a continuous line of resorts, nearly connected by trolley by a direct line along the ocean front, with a boulevard from Atlantic Highland to Atlantic City, and later on down to Cape May point. A line of steamers from New York to Atlantic City has been under consideration for several years. The principal charm of the coast is its diversity of attraction. While seashore resorts are all alike, those along the New Jersey coast all possess distinctive characteristics.

An estimate haas been made that the seashore property at the beginning of the nineteenth century was not worth $40,000. This property on which values could be placed was located in Long Branch. At the close of the war the few resorts that had developed did not represent $10,000,000 actually devoted to the use of the seashore traffic. This valuation was confined to Cape May, Long Branch and Atlantic City.

The official valuation now is $65,000,000 for seashore property, but it is admitted that the assessment is low, as a rule, and that the actual value is at least $100,000,000, because hotels are going up so rapidly that it is impossible for the State Board of Taxation to keep track of them, and on that account, an estimate.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

THE BARTHOLIN CASE.

Important Developments In Chicago's Murder Mystery.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Whether or not the exhuming of the remains buried in Calvary cemetery as the body of Minnie Mitchell shall develop that the missing girl's family was correct in accepting the body as that of their missing daughter the police have secured ample evidence to indicate that some young woman was lured into the basement of the Bartholin house on the Wednesday night that William Bartholin and his sweetheart vanished from sight.

An important witness, whose name will not be made public for the present, has been found. He is a business man whose home is not far from the Bartholin house.

According to this witness, he alighted from a Forty-third street car shortly after 9 o'clock, an hour after Minnie Mitchell and her lover bade adieu to the Mitchell family on the steps of the house at 604 Forty-fourth street.

He walked along Calumet avenue, and his walk led him past the Bartholin home. As he went by he noticed a woman apparently quite young standing on the grass plot in front of the building. The pedestrian had gone beyond the Bartholin residence when he heard a man's voice, and, looking back, he could just discern a figure outlined against the staircase leading to the basement which two weeks ago gave up Mrs. Bartholin's body. The man on the steps, who is assumed to have been William Bartholin, said something that could not be heard, and the girl responded, asking why the first speaker wanted her to go into the "filthy" basement. Turning back again when he had progressed some distance in his walk, the pedestrian caught a glimpse of the woman descending into the basement.

The police have found a canvass overshoe covered with blood in the Bartholin house. Its size precludes it having belonged to Mrs. Bartholin, but it has not been identified as belonging to Minnie Mitchell.

Sunken Safe Saved.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Aug. 25.—United States Commissioner John Corbin of Plattsburg and a diver found an express safe that was lost in Lake Champlain a few miles above this point seven years ago last December in a wreck in which the express and mail cars were overturned into the lake. The safe when found contained about $120 in money, together with a number of other valuables. The diver, who was the same one that fruitlessly searched the lake at the time of the accident, states that the bottom of the lake is strewn with trunks and satchels which were in the baggage car when it was derailed.

Quiet In Anthracite Region.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 25.—Reports received at brigade headquarters show the entire anthracite coalfield to be very quiet. Brigadier General Gobin said that a settlement of the strike appears to him to be as far off as when he arrived here nearly four weeks ago. The troops will in all probability remain here until the strike comes to an end.

AMBUSHED IN LUZON

Constabulary Has Hot Fight With Ladrones.

TAFT RESUMES THE GOVERNORSHIP

Commissioner Wright Coming Home. Civil Governor Testifies as to Loyalty of Ex-Insurgents Now In Office.

MANILA, Aug. 25.—Ten members of the native constabulary have been ambushed at a point near Magdalena, in the province of Sorsogon, Luzon, by a band of sixty ladrones. The latter were armed with rifles and bolos, and a desperate fight at close range took place. One member of the constabulary was killed, two were wounded and three were captured. Seventy constables have taken the field in pursuit of the ladrones.

GOVERNOR TAFT.

Governor Taft has resumed the governorship of the archipelago, relieving Luke E. Wright, who has been acting governor during Judge Taft's absence. Commissioner Wright is preparing to visit the United States.

The defense in the Freedom sedition case has called Governor Taft as a witness to show that many former insurgent leaders who were guilty of various offenses not recognized by the laws of war have been appointed to civil positions. Governor Taft gave testimony to the effect that many such former insurgents had been appointed, but that they had proved honest, straightforward and earnest. He said that some of them had been guilty of murder from American standards, but that from their own standards they undoubtedly believed their conduct of the war to have been legitimate. Governor Taft said that he had found these appointees to be loyal and that they were not chosen because they happened to be insurgent generals, but because they were men of influence among their own people. He said the experience of the civil authorities with these men had been most satisfactory.

Mrs. Chaffee, wife of General Chaffee, who has been seriously ill for the past week, is now improving and is out of all danger.

Official cholera statistics show a total up to date of 25,664 cases and 18,040 deaths. The actual number of cases and deaths is greatly in excess of the official reports. In some of the provinces of Luzon the cholera situation is bad, 414 cases and 317 deaths being reported from the province of Ilocos Norte last Saturday.

General Sigel's Funeral.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Simple and unostentatious was the funeral of General Franz Sigel. Surrounding the flag covered coffin wherein lay the dead general attired in the well worn uniform he used during the war stood the few surviving comrades who had fought shoulder to shoulder with the veteran in wars in two hemispheres. Some of these spoke simple eulogies, and then the body was carried to its last resting place in Woodlawn cemetery, followed by a long and ragged line of scarred and crippled veterans bearing with them tattered flags. Conspicuous among those who paid tribute to the memory of General Sigel was Carl Schurz, his comrade in arms, first in the great uprising which swept Europe in 1848 and later in the civil war. For three hours the body lay in state, and during that time at least 10,000 persons filed past.

Verdict In Sharp Killing.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 25.—The coroner's jury selected for the purpose of placing the responsibility for the killing of Patrick Sharp at Nesquehoning has rendered the following verdict: "That Patrick Sharp came to his death by the malicious act of either Harry McElmoyle or William Ronemus, and in view of the evidence adduced we advise that both the said Harry McElmoyle and William Ronemus be held for trial."

Survivor of Big Horn Dead.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Aug. 25.—Old Bull, an Omaha Indian chief, who was a survivor of the wars waged against the Indians by General Custer, is dead at the Arapahoe Indian agency at Coly, Okla. He was in the Custer battle at the Little Big Horn in 1876 and afterward entered the regular army, serving until retired on account of age.

PILLSBURY CAUGHT.

Higginson's Fleet Surrounds Hostile Ships.

END OF THE NAVAL WAR GAME.

After Four Days and Nights of Sleepless Watching White Commander Could Not Get Through Blue's Defense.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Aug. 25.—The naval search problem on the New England coast was terminated at an early hour by the signal "Surrender, demand and unconditional" from Rear Admiral Higginson's flagship and the reply, "Accept surrender," from the fore truck of the Prairie, Commander Pillsbury's flagship. The battle between the blue, or defending, squadron and the white, or attacking, squadron was thus quickly ended eight miles south of Thatcher's island. The enemy had most signally failed to make a harbor having for its objective Salem. A preponderance of fighting strength, relatively 64 points, represented by the battleships Kearsarge, Alabama and Massachusetts, Scorpion and a torpedo boat, had overwhelmed the 45 points represented by the auxiliary cruisers Prairie, Panther and Supply.

To speak from a theoretic standpoint the white squadron was entirely destroyed by the guns of the defending battleships. Thus on the fourth night the game of naval strategy was brought to an end, it having covered a period of unceasing toil, sleepless nights of anxious and wearing vigil and of grave uncertainty to its participants.

The surrounding and "putting out of action" of the squadron in command of Commander Pillsbury was the culminating incident in one of the most interesting chapters in the peace history of the American navy. For the placing in operation of the maneuvers of the warships off the coast of New England the navy had long prepared itself and had long looked forward to them with keen anticipation.

As planned by the naval authorities at Washington two squadrons were to be put into the game, one the blue, the defending fleet, and the other the white, to be a hostile fleet bent upon effecting an anchorage into some unprotected harbor on the coast from Cape Elizabeth to Cape Cod, opposed all the time by the first named fleet. This anchorage had to be maintained against the defenders for a period of six hours.

Commander Pillsbury's white squadron consisted of auxiliary cruisers Prairie (flagship), Panther and Supply. The two former boats were each assigned twenty points of fighting strength, while the Supply was assumed to represent five points.

Admiral Higginson's fleet was actually superior in the number of its members, and, by the same arrangements made as to the Pillsbury ships, it represented a grand total of ninety-seven points of strength. The Kearsarge, the Alabama and the Massachusetts, battleships, were given twenty each, the cruisers Brooklyn and Olympia eight each, the Cincinnati and Montgomery, Gloucester, Mayflower and Scorpion three points each, while a number of torpedo boats made up the remaining numbers.

To win in the mimic war the blue squadron had to bring against the attacking vessels, as it did, warships superior in their combined assumed fighting power. Each side had the right to capture individual craft of the other fleet by overcoming them in point of strength, and under the rules of the "game" the captured vessels were to be withdrawn from the field of action.

In the defeat of Pillsbury the defense, with three battleships, the Scorpion and with a single torpedo boat, had 64 points, so that the balance was against the attacking squadron.

The capture came at the end of a night filled with rumors as to the location of the attacking squadron. At 9:30 p. m. the three battleships of Higginson got under way in a hurry and sailed to the eastward. The intention was to move on to Portland, and if that had been carried out Admiral Higginson, as it later developed, would have unconsciously swung the balance of his fighting force to that end of the coast line, as Pillsbury had intended he should, but which was not done on account of heavy seas running outside Cape Elizabeth. Higginson, however, deflected his course back to Gloucester after a swing seaward in response to a report that the enemy had not been sighted when it was believed she had been, but in the last hours of the night Pillsbury sailed toward Cape Ann from the outside and, as it proved, right under the very guns of the defending squadron. Commander Pillsbury, when still out to sea, after maneuvering, headed straight for Salem harbor, but the desired vantage point was never reached.

When his boats had arrived off Magnolia, they were sighted by the signal station on Baker's island. A message was sent to the station at Rockport, and the torpedo port Barney was sent out to notify the blue squadron. The station here had before this been informed that Higginson's battleships had been sighted off Gloucester and that later they had returned to their berths under the lee of Thatcher's island. The Barney's commander was mystified, therefore, when after rounding Straitsmouth he saw no evidence of the presence of the Kearsarge. On a hazard the Barney was steered southerly. After Higginson's ships had cruised up and down the coast they went to their anchorage off Thatcher's island.

At this time the officer on the deck of the Kearsarge was Lieutenant Ray Stone, with Midshipman William Dilworth Puleston as the junior officer in command. In contrast to others the morning was clear and star bright. On the bridge a dozen jackies stood on the lookout. One of these was Daniel Staehle, an apprentice of the first class. He stood well forward, peering on the lee side. The flagship was just falling down into a trough when he notified the ensign at his side that he could see the "enemy." The officer of the deck called Flag Lieutenant Evans and Flag Secretary Bistol, and it was but the work of a moment to inform Admiral Higginson of the probability that the time for decisive action was at hand.

It was real war then. General quarters were sounded. There was a quick rush of many feet, the manning of a hundred posts, the clank of the anchor chain, the ringing of bells, the giving of orders and a general clearing for action. Not many moments passed before the flagship was under way steaming at fourteen knots, with the Alabama and Massachusetts many lengths in the rear. Some distance back was the Barney, rapidly overhauling the ships ahead.

At 5:40 a. m. the three battleships, aided by the converted yacht Scorpion, which had chased in from the south in time to be in at the finish, and the Barney, which had overtaken the fleet, formed a horseshoe about the white squadron. The elation among the men on board the blue squadron ran high.

There was something pathetic in the picture when Commander Pillsbury, after he had signaled his surrender, passed in his barge from the Prairie, walked up the starboard gangway of the Kearsarge and offered his sword to Admiral Higginson.

"Keep your sword, sir," said the senior officer, his voice quavering a bit in spite of himself. "I would not accept the sword from so gallant a foe."

"And I, sir," responded Pillsbury, with dignity, "could not surrender to a nobler or better officer, sir."

This exchange of words ended the actual surrender, and at the invitation of Admiral Higginson, Comander Pillsbury stepped down to the cabin of the Kearsarge, and here the two officers discussed in privacy the incidents of the days since the "declaration of hostilities" on Wednesday.

Waterspouts at Cape May.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 25.—Between 11 and 12 o'clock waterspouts were seen about five miles offshore. Three were single shafts of water formed during the confluence of two electrical storms and a small sized hurricane almost in the nature of a cyclone. The other phenomena was a double waterspout seen to the southeast. The others were directly east. A succession of thunderstorms, with sharp flashes of lightning and quick crashes of thunder, prevailed. All bathers left the ocean, and many fled from the beach because of the turbulent waters.

The Fuerst Bismarck in Trouble.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The British steamship Sheppy Allison, from Middlesborough, reports that on Saturday, when in longitude 66.22 and latitude 40.44, which is about 300 miles east of Boston she sighted the Hamburg-American liner Fuerst Bismarck, which signaled that her starboard shaft was broken and that she was proceeding under one engine. Captain Berends of the Fuerst Bismarck told Captain Williams of the Sheppy Allison that all were well on board and that he was proceeding on his voyage at a speed of about fifteen knots.

Wreck On the Lehigh Valley.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 25.—There has been a wreck on the Lehigh Valley railroad half a mile north of Ensenore. The baggage and smoking cars of a passenger train left the rails and went down an embankment into Owasco lake, where they were overturned. The passengers escaped through the windows. E. L. Leonard, Jay C. Weeks, Frank Greenfield and Henry Wagner, all of Auburn, were painfully though not seriously injured. They were brought to this city.

Murder at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 25.—A sensational murder which may prove a double one and a more sensational escape and arrest have stirred up considerable excitement in this city. Leander Smith, colored, angered because Boyd Clinton was paying too much attention to his wife, shot and instantly killed Clinton in the Hotel Canfield basement and then shot his wife, who is dying in the City hospital. Smith has been arrested.

The Americanization of the World.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—The Localanzeiger sees an evidence of the growing Americanization of the world in a plan to establish a postgraduate medical school at Frankfort after an American model. A private person has contributed $500,000 for the establishment of this school.

NEW ENGLAND TOUR

Mr. Roosevelt Guest of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

ATTENDS CHRISTENING AT NEWPORT

President Assists In the Launching Into Society of Theodore Roosevelt Chanler—Short Stops at Massachusetts Towns.

NAHANT, Mass., Aug. 25.—President Roosevelt left Newport at 2 o'clock in a sumptuous train of four special cars. Accompanying him to the depot were Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Chanler and Senator and Mrs. Lodge, the two latter journeying with the party to Nahant, the home of the Lodges, where the president spent the night.

A more quiet day could not have been spent by the president. As is his custom, he rose early and after eating a light breakfast left the Chanler house about 9 o'clock and went out to meet Mrs. Roosevelt, who had come up on the Sylph during the night.

The president was aboard the ship for about two hours.

Mrs. Roosevelt accompanied him ashore and spent about half an hour at the Chanler residence taking a look at the baby, but did not remain for the christening. She left shortly before the event for Oyster Bay.

The christening of the baby was performed by the Rev. John Diamond of the Episcopal church in the presence of the president, who acted as godfather; Senator and Mrs. Lodge, the latter acting as godmother; Mrs. Julia Ward Howe and a large number of the personal friends of the family.

The affair was regarded as one of the most auspicious events of the season at that fashionable resort, due not only to the social prominence of the Chanlers, but to the fact that the president of the United States would act as godfather to the child, for whom it was named.

Traveling on Sunday was something new for the president, but in this instance he was obliged to depart from his usual custom, as he went to Newport for no other purpose than to attend the christening, and it was necessary to make the short journey to Nahant in order to maintain his schedule.

Lieutenant Governor Bates and Adjutant General Dalton of Massachusetts boarded the train at Newport and completed the arrangements for the entertainment of the president and party in Boston tonight.

That the enthusiasm attending the president's journey shows no abatement was evident by the crowd which gathered about the depot at Newport, which cheered his arrival and continued it until the train departed and was lost to view.

Stonebridge, R. I.; Fall River, Taunton and Mansfield, in Massachusetts, turned out in force to greet the president, and as each place was reached the train was slowed down, the president appearing on the rear platform and bowing his acknowledgments.

At Boston the entire party disembarked and entered the special which was standing on another track, the crowd in the meantime keeping up a continuous cheering.

Upon arriving at Lynn, where carriages were in waiting to take the party to Nahant, the sight was one long to be remembered.

Stretched from the depot through the city and across the peninsula to Nahant, a distance of four miles, were fully 60,000 people, who cheered and cheered as the president passed. There were two miles of carriages on either side of the road. Perfect order was maintained.

The president rode with Senator Lodge and was escorted from Lynn to Nahant by a troop of cavalry.

The arrival at Nahant was a signal for another outbreak of applause, and the two places seemed to vie with each other as to which should be the more cordial in its greeting.

Flags and bunting were displayed everywhere, and, indeed, Nahant took on a genuine holiday appearance. This afternoon the president will deliver an address from the steps of the public library building in Nahant.

Castro Reoccupies Carupano.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Aug. 25.—News has reached here from Venezuela that in consequence of the reoccupation of the port of Carupano, in the state of Bermudez, by government forces the blockade at that place has been terminated. The United States training ship Topeka has left La Guayra for Haiti. The departure of the Topeka from Venezuelan waters is taken to prove that the United States minister at Caracas, Herbert W. Bowen, believes that the final result of the Matos revolutionary movement will be long delayed.

Engineer Lippincott Arrested.

BELMAR, N. J., Aug. 25.—Engineer Lippincott of Point Pleasant, who had charge of the Central railroad engine which crashed into the Pennsylvania railroad train at this place last Tuesday night and killed two passengers, has been arrested at his home, charged with manslaughter. Mr. Lippincott is very ill and was unable to attend the coroner's inquest.

Mrs. Roosevelt at Narragansett.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, wife of the president, with her son Theodore, Jr., arrived at Saunderstown, on Narragansett bay, on board the Sylph and was entertained by C. Grand Le Farge of New York, a cottager at Saunderstown.

Wireless Telephony.

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Experiments in wireless telephoning have been successfully conducted between Sassnitz and Kolberg, a distance of 105 miles.

To the..2,000 persons whose estimates are next closest	($10.00 each)	20,000.00 "
To the .3,000 persons whose estimates are next closest	($5.00 each)	15,000.00 "
To the 30,000 persons whose estimates are next closest we will send to each one box of 50 "Cremo" Cigars (value $2.50 per box)		75,000.00
35,213 persons		$142,500.00

Every 100 bands from above named cigars will entitle you to four estimates.

(One "Florodora" band counting as two bands from the 5 cent cigars mentioned; and no less than 100 bands will be received at any one time for estimates.)

Information which may be of value in making estimates:—the number of Cigars now bearing $3.00 Tax per thousand, for which Stamps were purchased, appears below:

In December, 1900,	467,092,208 Cigars.	In March, 1902,	516,599,027 Cigars.
" December, 1901,	479,312,170 "	" April, 1902,	516,835,163 "
" January, 1902,	496,983,717 "	" May, 1902,	523,035,907 "
" February, 1902,	445,495,463 "

In case of a tie in estimates, the amount offered will be divided equally among those entitled to it. Distribution of the awards will be made as soon after January 1st, 1903 as the figures are obtainable from the Internal Revenue Department of the United States for December. Write your full name and Post Office Address plainly on packages containing bands. The Postage, or Express charges on your package must be fully prepaid, in order for your estimate to participate.

All estimates under this offer must be forwarded before December 1st, 1902, to the . . FLORODORA TAG COMPANY, Jersey City, N. J.

You do not lose the value of your bands. Receipts will be sent you for your bands, and these receipts will be just as good as the bands themselves in securing Presents. One band from "Florodora," or two bands from any of the other Cigars mentioned above, will count in securing Presents the same as one tag from "Star," "Horse Shoe," "Spear Head," "Standard Navy," "Old Peach and Honey," "J. T." "Master Workman," "Piper Heidsieck," "Jolly Tar," "Boot Jack," "Old Honesty," "Razor," or "Planet" Tobacco; or one "Sweet Caporal" Cigarette Box Front.

Send each estimate on a separate piece of paper, with your name and address plainly written on each. Blank forms for estimates will be mailed upon application.

Illustrated Catalogue of Presents for 1903 and 1904 will be ready for distribution about October 1st, 1902, and will be mailed on receipt of ten cents, or ten tobacco tags, or twenty cigar bands.

NEW JERSEY'S PEOPLE.

Especially interesting is the second volume of the census report of 1900, which has just been issued, so far as it relates to New Jersey. Quite some time ago it was announced that there were 1,883,669 inhabitants. It is the composition of this population that is engaging. In the total population there were 941,760 males and 941,909, or in other words a majority of 149 for the females, which is insignificant, particularly as women's sufferage has not crept into the statute law.

From the condition of the report it appears that some men would have to seek brides in other States, should all desire to be married, for there were 39,207 more unmarried males than unmarried females. The exact proportion was 538,796 single males to 499,759 unmarried females. There was 369,808 married men and 364,268 married women, but there were more widows than widowers as one would naturally suppose. The exact number of widows was 75,856 and of widowers 30,437. Evidently the "vidders" are not as ambitious in this State as elsewhere. So far as the divorces are concerned the women lead, there being 1,167 of this class of females against 753 of the same class of males.

Approximately six per cent. of the population, including those over six years of age, were illiterate. A gratifying fact is that only 624 native whites of native parentage were unable to read and write. Over 59,000 native colored persons were illiterate. The number of persons following gainful occupations was 757,759. This is over fifty-one per cent. There was a small army of women working for a living, the exact number being 154,522. 306,411 persons were following manufacturing pursuits and only 63,881 were farmers, which is less than nine per cent.

In an eulogistic editorial this morning the London Times says: "Within the past twenty-five years there has been a movement in the United States towards intellectual and educational independence, without trusting longer to ideas and systems borrowed from the Old World, but striking out in new conceptions of education that fit the conditions of American life and harmonize with the ideals of American citizenship." This tribute from "The Thunderer" well defines the purpose of the world renowned public school system of the United States.

A New York Sunday daily devotes much space to a sketch of New Brunswick as "the ninth town to present its claims as an ideal spot for a commuters' home." Nine hundred and ninety-ninth would have been better. What has New Brunwsick got to commend itself to commuters'.

If there is any woman who has not applied for the position of deputy State factory inspector, she had better hurry up for the Governor is becoming so deluged with petitions that he won't be able to be seen later on.

The report that a pennant bee had been found buzzing in the quarters of the Hope Y. M. A. baseball team proves incorrect. The noise from that quarter is only a moan, hardly audible but significant nevertheless.

Down at Coney Island the police raided a church fair last night and confiscated a gambling outfit. "Christianizing influence" is no doubt needed at home as well as abroad.

It is said that the trolley tunnel will be ready for business in 1905, but what a suffering public wants to know is when operations will begin in the coal mines.

A broom trust is to be organized according to an announcement in a Brooklyn paper. Surely we'll be swept off the earth.

The popular song in the West End Saturday night was "Aint It a Shame." Wonder why?

AUTOMOBILISTS ARRESTED

NEWARKERS VIOLATE THE SCOTCH PLAINS ORDINANCE.

Officer Guerrier Takes Offenders Into Custody—Were the First Arrests Made.

Yesterday was a red-letter day in Scotch Plains, in the way of enforcing the ordinance regulating the operation of automobiles. During the day two victims, both from Newark, were taken in by Officer Henry Guerrier, who was patrolling Mountain avenue on his wheel. He was looking for those who were exceeding the eight-mile an hour limit, and the first one to be caught was George Potter, who was accompanied by two women. He passed through town at a moderate speed, but when Mountain avenue was reached, according to the officer's story, the speed was increased to a two-minute clip. Mr. Potter made satisfactorry arrangements to appear for trial later in the week.

The second victim, Charles Grieb, was arrested about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Judge Clark was called in and arranged for a hearing tonight at 8 o'clock, Fred Ivamy going security for his appearance at that time.

DUNELLEN.

The Dunellen A. C. journeyed to Riverside Park Saturday and defeated the Bound Brook A. C. by a score of 12 to 4 in a one sided game. The batteries were, for Dunellen, Ettinger and Brown, and for Bound Brook Moynihan and Graerne. Ettinger held the Bound Brook's team safe at all stages of the game, allowing only a few scattered singles. Moynihan pitched a good game but was hit freely. The Dunellen team had several scrub players but nevertheless found their opponents easy. A large crowd witnessed the game.

Services in the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, yesterday, were largely attended. At the latter Rev. S. K. Doolittle was in charge in the morning for the first time in several weeks and in the evening Rev. George Angleman, of Piermont, N. Y., preached an excellent sermon.

Archie and Paul Brakeley returned home, Saturday, after their two weeks' camping trip to Lake Hopatcong. They were members of a party made up mostly of young men from Plainfield and Bound Brook. All report having an excellent time.

Superior pitching by Whitley, twirler for the locals, won for them the game with the Orange Field Club, of Plainfield, Saturday, by a score of 5 to 4. Whitley struck out eleven men and held the Plainfielders down to several hits.

The trolley company enjoyed a heavy patronage from the borough, yesterday. The pleasant weather induced many to enjoy a ride to nearby places and as a result nearly every car was filled to its capacity.

Henry Dunham, of Prospect avenue, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday morning, suffering with bladder trouble. An operation was performed yesterday.

Miss Annie Campbell spent part of Saturday and yesterday as the guest of friends at Whitehouse.

Miss Ella Boice has gone to Gladstone where she will complete her vacation visiting relatives.

Hudson Wilcox has been confined to his home on Front street for the past few days by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Conover, of Front street, are entertaining out of town friends.

Miss Stella Eick has gone to Newton to enjoy a visit with relatives.

Edward Brook entertained relatives from Roselle yesterday.

The regular meeting of the band is to be held this evening.

Miss Janet Lake is visiting relatives at Brooklyn.

NEW MARKET.

George Coriell, Jr., of this place, sustained a severe and painful injury Saturday while playing in his yard. In some unaccountable manner his hand became caught in a bean pole and a fall while the hand was caught cut a long gash. The services of Drs. Nelson and Whitford were called in and the hand was bandaged. The little fellow is doing well at present.

Funeral services over the remains of Miss Sarah J. L. Blue were held from her late residence, Saturday afternoon, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church, was in charge. At the close of the service the remains were interred in the family plot at Stelton.

A special meeting of the Piscataway township school board will be held in the New Market school house, this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Final arrangements for the contemplated festival will be made at this evening's meeting of the band.

Miss Olive Bodine has returned to her home in Quakertown after a visit with Mrs. A. G. Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bunnell, of Union, were the guests of relatives in town, yesterday.

Frank Nelson, of Jersey City, was the guest of his parents, yesterday.

Howard VanNest has gone to Neshanic for a visit with friends.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

One of the snappiest, cleanest and best exhibition of the National game ever witnessed on the local diamond, was given on Saturday afternoon when the locals met and defeated the strong Sidney team, last season's champions of Brooklyn by a score of 5 to 1. Not until the third inning were the visitors enabled to land a man on first. Two base hits assisted by a bad decision of Umpire Quereau enabled them in this inning to tally their one solitary run. Harvey's work in the box was gilt-edge allowing only five base hits and these so scattering that they were harmless. The support given him could not have been better, as the locals played without an error. Several long drives to the outfield which seemed impossible to pull down were covered by H. Flannery in centre and his namesake in left, J. Flannery. The local's work at the bat was, as usual. Resique's curves being found for a total of eight base hits made at the right time. Brogan knocking a home run drive to left field in the fourth which was the longest hit made on the local diamond this season. The visitors put up a fine exhibition of field work, making but four errors, two of which were costly, being wild throws to first by G. Dow, catcher. Harvey and Resique divided honors on strikeout, each striking out five. Following is the line up and score by innings.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

If you want to get inside of a neat suit, a thing of beauty and a joy forever, leave your order with John G. Bantle, the Watchung avenue tailor

At Gavett's—that's the place to get your crockery, lamps or glassware. Gavett has a display equal to those of the dealers of the largest cities and at prices that compare with the lowest.

Not only the premises are being altered at I. H. Boehm's, West Front street. Prices, too, have undergone a great change. To save cost of moving everything is being sold at rock bottom.

At the New York Bargain Store all spring and summer goods left over must go at prices below wholesale. Clothing, shoes, ladies' and gentlemen's furnishings are being sold at remarkably low prices.

The Gayle Hardware Company is prepared to serve your best interests. A full and complete line of hardware and household utensils is kept in stock and you are always sure of getting what you want at the most reasonable prices.

Everyone will admit that this has been a remarkably cool summer, but this has not interfered with M. Weinberger's clothing business. His stock of clothing is so large and complete that he can meet every condition in the weather.

Ice cream is no longer a luxury to the people, it is a necessity at least to complete dinner. But of course it has to be pure and delicious else it is worth nothing. Warnock's cream is just that kind and you should lose no time in trying it.

In selecting a watch or jewelry of any kind it is necessary to go to a reliable dealer, one who has had plenty of experience. Such a person is J. Hervey Doane, of Park avenue. Every patron is a pleased one for he gives satisfaction every time.

Charles Conover & Company, the painters and decorators of Elmwood place, have been unusually busy this summer. They are doing first-class work and this is one of their best recommendations. They will cheerfully furnish estimates.

The meat and grocery specials advertised by Callahan & Son cannot be equalled in price or quality. They are daily becoming more popular and as a result the Richmond street firm's business is increasing. They deliver all orders free of charge.

PERSONAL.

Bert Dickerson, of West Front street, is entertaining his brother from Springfield, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. William Symons, of North avenue, returned home yesterday from Brandon, Vt., where they have been visiting relatives for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Vanderbeek, of Duer street, returned home Friday after a pleasant visit at German Valley, Morris county. Their son, Roy, will return next month.

Mrs. J. Coard, formerly of East Ninth street, who has been abroad with her daughter, Mrs. Frank, in Germany, has returned to Plainfield and is stopping at Mrs. Rand's on Watchung avenue.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

THE COLOMBIAN WAR.

Belief in Surrender of Agua Dulce Growing.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 25.—Nothing definite is known on the isthmus of the situation of the government general Morales Berti at Agua Dulce, but many persons believe that General Berti, after withstanding a siege of several days, during which his forces were subjected, chiefly during the night, to a severe artillery fire from the insurgents, perceived the hopelessness of receiving re-enforcements and supplies from Panama and was forced to surrender the troops of his command to the insurgents.

Rumors are current on the isthmus that several detachments of insurgents have been seen at the various stations along the railroad line between Colon and Panama, and an attack at either end of the line is expected in certain quarters to occur at any moment. Because of the presence of insurgents along the railroad the government is most anxious to obtain re-enforcements on the isthmus as soon as possible. Fresh trouble, however, is said to be brewing in the interior of the republic, and owing to the frequent refusal of steamships to carry government troops the bringing of re-enforcements to the isthmus is apparently no easy matter.

Re-enforcements Reach Colon.

COLON, Colombia, Aug. 25.—The British steamer Bernard Hall of Liverpool, which was chartered by the Colombian government to transport troops, has reached Colon from Savanilla with 600 government soldiers on board.

QUAY AND THE STRIKE.

Mitchell Willing to Co-operate With Pennsylvania Senators.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 25.—The committee from the Public alliance of this city which waited on Senators Quay and Penrose at Atlantic City last week and urged them to use their good offices to bring about arbitration in the coal strike performed a like mission in this city when it called on President Mitchell and requested him to co-operate with the Pennsylvania senators in bringing about a settlement of the strike.

Mr. Mitchell said he would do anything that was honorable to bring about an adjustment, and he furnished the committee with the statistics of the strike from the miners' point of view, which were forwarded to Senator Quay.

It has just been learned that President Mitchell was badly shaken up in a railroad wreck at Reising, Ill., early last Monday morning. The train ran into a washout, and nearly all the cars left the track. The sleeper in which Mr. Mitchell was riding left the rails, and he was thrown with much force from his berth. The engineer and fireman of the train, however, were the only persons who were injured.

Five Suffocated In Fire.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 25.—The four children of William Kronberg and the servant girl have been suffocated in a fire. The fire was in a two and a half story house. When the firemen arrived, Mr. Kronberg, the father, stood half clad on the sidewalk calling piteously for them to go to the aid of the children. But there was no chance for them. The Portland firemen never worked harder than they did as they raised their extension ladder against the front of the house. Two men ran up, but they met the deadly flames at the second floor windows. The body of the servant girl was found when an entrance was gained to the third story. Two of the boys were lying dead on the floor near the front window. Mr. Kronberg's wife was taken to the hospital Friday night and is in such a condition that the death of her children has not been announced to her.

Fatal Wreck In Indiana.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—A special from New Albany, Ind., says that in a disastrous freight collision on the Southern railway near Georgetown, ten miles west of there, Engineer "Red" Duval, Fireman B. Cox and Brakeman Ross of one train were killed outright and Engineer Harry Goodall and Fireman George Myers of the other train were probably fatally hurt. Fourteen box cars loaded with wheat, with two locomotives, were tumbled over a trestle to a ravine forty feet below and were demolished. All the traffic on the Southern railway between Louisville and St. Louis has been blocked Explosion at Sharon Steel Mills.

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 25.—Sharon was shaken from end to end by five successive explosions at the National Steel company's furnace, north of the town. The explosions were caused by the molten iron breaking out of the stack and running into the water around the bosh. The shock was so great that houses were rocked as if by an earthquake. Great damage resulted to the furnace, and the stack has been forced to close down and will have to be partially relined. The plant will be idle probably a month, and the loss to the company will amount to thousands of dollars.

Three Dead In Collision.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 25.—In a head on collision between two cars on the Bay Shore Terminal line three people were killed and many others badly injured. The accident occurred 400 yards beyond Futas Siding, about three and a half miles from Norfolk.

DINNER FOR A MONKEY.

Members of Gotham's Four Hundred Entertain an African Ape at Newport, R. I.

That jaded, blase section of New York society known as "the fashionable set" has succeeded in getting a new soul stirring and small talk producing sensation and for a few moments is a lap or two ahead in its tireless race and contest with ennui.

"Jocko," a long-tailed, blue-nosed, pink-eyed, chattering "monk" from Africa, the mascot of the steam yacht Taurus, was the happy medium through and by which the innermost circles of the "400" were stirred into life and animation.

This little animal chanced to flit across the gaze of Mrs. Stuvesant Fish as he lightly skipped in and out of the yacht's rigging. Mrs. Fish has an unrivaled reputation for getting up novel entertainments in the social world, and when she cast her eye on "Jocko" an idea struck. On the trip to Newport "Jocko" was taken to dinner in the saloon of the yacht and given a seat at the table. This was more for rehearsal of what was coming than anything else.

THE GUEST OF HONOR.

When the yacht arrived at Newport Mrs. Fish immediately began to carry her idea into effect. "Jocko" was taken ashore and driven to the tailoring establishment of Mr. O'Connor. That gentleman was informed that a fashionable suit of clothes was required for the little animal.

"Jocko" was driven to Arleigh, the villa of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lehr, where he was the guest of honor at dinner, invitations having been issued to the select few to meet M. Jocko. He was given a seat at the table, and, it is said, behaved finely. The suit he wore was a cardinal colored cloth trimmed with black braid and brass buttons, cut like a Russian blouse, with belt.

SHE LIKED PERFUMERY.

But Her Fondness for It Got Her Into Serious Trouble at the Doctor's Office.

They were discussing the fondness for perfumery manifested by many persons, which reminded the physician in the group of a queer case that recently came under his observation.

"Two ladies called on me," he said to a New York Times man, "and while one was in consultation with me in my private room the other whiled away her time by investigating the contents of a large case of bottles, jars, etc., in the outer apartment. Between the two rooms is a glass door, over which is drawn a shade, but the shade happens to be torn across one corner, so that it is possible to see from the inner room into the outer office.

"Hearing a rattling among the bottles, I stepped to the glass door and discovered the lady in the act of taking down one bottle after another and smelling the contents. At length she got hold of something which evidently had a pleasing odor, for finally she poured some of the liquid into her hand and smelled of it again, then hastily rubbed the liquid upon her nose and portions of her face contiguous thereto, replaced the bottle and took her seat, as she heard a rustling in the inner room.

"Knowing what the result would be, I detained the ladies in consultation for several moments. By that time, as the one with the desire for perfumery sat near a warm stove, her nose and portions of her face began to turn a deep olive color, and before they departed had assumed a beautiful dark brown. She had mistaken my favorite hair dye for perfumery. Needless to say that she became an 'invalid' and was not visible to her friends for a week."

New Woman Words And Works

WHAT have women's clubs done that is worth while? Here is one thing at least. The women's clubs of Orange, N. J., secured the appointment of a sanitary inspector of their own sex. She is Miss Helen D. Thompson. Investigating unclean back streets and back yards and nosing into unpleasant tenements seem rather odd work for a Vassar graduate, yet this Miss Thompson is and does, and the result shows her to be the right woman in the right place. It has been proved that there are localities in which a woman sanitary inspector is more efficient than a man and that the interior of a tenement house is one of these. Part of the region known as "the Oranges" is noted for its eminently high tone and admirable sanitary condition. This is specially true of East Orange. But there are also the city of Orange itself and the township of West Orange, and all these are under the eye of Miss Thompson. Orange has a considerable population of Italians and Hungarians of the laboring classes, and what they know of common sanitary cleanliness could be printed in large type upon a ten cent piece and leave room for an ornamental border. In one instance in Orange a large block of tenements was drained outright into a swamp at the back of them, and this menace to life and health remained year after year. Miss Thompson is working to have it removed. Her best results are obtained by house to house visitations. Sanitary reform, like charity, must begin at home, and the mothers of the poor and ignorant classes trust a woman where they would be offish to a man inspector and suspicious of him. Miss Thompson learned Italian enough to talk to the women. She has also a native tact and kindliness that opened their hearts to her so that good results from her work appeared very soon.

The famous school of architecture in Paris has 1,200 American students, but had no American women students until now. The first one is a California girl, Miss Julia Morgan. Before entering the school she studied and worked with a noted Paris architect, M. Chaussemiche. Her tutor says she has especial talent for invention and conception, which are the gifts particularly needed in our barren and incongruous American building schemes. Miss Morgan will practice her profession in San Francisco.

Deliver me from the whiner and slumper!

Miss Eleanor M. Thomas, a young society lady, formed an automobile party of friends and with her own hands steered her machine on a trip from New York to Boston and return. It is the fad among fashionable ladies to possess automobiles and guide them themselves. Well, they cannot smash up and run over people and things any more frequently or effectually than men mobilists now do. That is one satisfaction.

The Boston hotel for women was opened somewhat ahead of the date fixed. It has all the conveniences of a first class hotel, and to permanent residents it gives room and board, use of library and reading room and a weekly concert ticket for from $3.50 to $6.50 a week. Its name is the Franklin Square House. It is managed by women, Mrs. Susan B. Bangs being superintendent and Mrs. Harriet A. Roberts stewardess.

Here is a good little story which proves that women take an interest in politics where they have the opportunity: The women in Topeka did not approve a certain candidate for nomination as city councilman. They resolved to defeat him. They organized a united, harmonious, secret movement against him and in favor of another man who suited them better. At the primary the women's candidate was surprised to find himself nominated, while the other, supposed to be the more popular, was nowhere.

The secret of getting your own way is to be silent and tactful. Gather your mental force inside of you and launch it in few words. Never waste it in storm and bluster or babyish sniveling and tears.

A leading company of model tenement house builders and owners has as its renting agent and collector a young lady, Miss Blanche Geary. She is so successful that out of a rent roll of $50,000 she loses through bad tenants scarcely more than $50 a year. One reason for her success is that her housekeeper instinct enables her to maintain without trouble a close watch on janitors and plumbers. Her most grievous trouble is with scrubwomen and engineers who furnish the heat and the hot water supply. These people seem not sufficiently mentally developed either to know their duty or to do it.

It is surprising that so few women have undertaken the house and apartment renting agency business. It would come naturally to them, and they could be very successful.

"I'm run the risk—find out who he is. He is one man here, and another there, but I want to lay him by the heels," and his face darkened over.

"What for—what for——?" and for a moment Jebbs eagerly leaned forward. Hendricks pushed him back with an oath, and strode over to the window, where he stood for a moment looking out on the garden. Then he turned, and, walking back, laid his hand on the other's arm.

"You ought to know me by reputation, that I don't allow any one to pry into my business."

"Y-e-s," and the other winced under the shine of the bright eyes that seemed searching his very soul.

Job took the haggard face in his hands and examined it keenly, as if he were examining a bit of bricabrac—searching for the hidden mark of the potter. Then he removed his hands and turned away, walking up and down the limits of the little room.

"I'm not sure whether I can trust you or not. But you ought to know that I have a way of rewarding those who serve me well, and of making it very unhealthy for those who deceive me."

"Yes—I—know that," replied Jebbs, crouching back, as if he feared his companion.

"There, there," and Hendricks patted him on the shoulder; "I don't want to frighten you when there is no necessity for it. Don't make it necessary for me to be harsh with you. Now tell me, has this ghost of a man been heard of lately?"

"Oh, yes," brightening up since the storm had passed. "It was him that had a hand in that affair on Fifth avenue the other night; that, we think, was handled like one of his jobs."

"And you would know him if you saw him?"

"Bless ye, I seen him onc't, but he's a masterful actor and makes up for any part he means to play."

"Hum!" and Job continued his pacing up and down the room. He was beginning to feel that the task he had before him was not a light one, and would he ever be left free enough to carry it out to success? "You are no friend of this man?" he asked, as if not entirely free from suspicion of his guest.

"No; I don't know as anybody is. Ye see, it's this way: When he has a plan of work on hand, why he sends for the men he wants, and they meets him wherever he happens to fix. I guess few ever see him lookin' his real self, but a bit o' writin' fell into my hands I knew to be his, and it was main like that piece you showed me. I kep' it 'cause it was so queer, and ain't likely never to forget it."

"Well, you have done me a service I'll remember, too," said Hendricks heartily. "Now, remember, if you serve me well you shall lose nothing by it. What I have given you is merely a retainer—there will be more coming as soon as you have earned it. Anyway, if you are in want, come to me and I will see that you have enough to keep you going."

"Now, that's the kind of talk I like to hear," exclaimed Jebbs, with a lavish display of teeth. "It ain't in my line o' work to give a man away, but this one is such a high and mighty cuss, and puts on such airs that I guess none o' the boys would be sorry to see him druv out o' business," then with a sly wink, "I suppose now you couldn't gin me a hint how you mean to manage him?"

"Do you want me to warn you again to 'tend to your own affairs," and Hendricks made a threatening gesture that caused the other to shrink back in alarm, real or assumed.

"There, I forgot you was so techy on the subjec', ye know; as I am aimin' to help ye, it's natural I should feel some interes'."

"You need only what I choose to tell you," replied Job, grumpily, "and now," as he took up the candle, "I will show you out, for it is time I went to sleep, and you would do well to do the same," and he led the way to the stairs.

"Go on ahead," motioning to Jebbs to precede him. "I'll hold the light so you won't break your neck."

"Bless ye, I'm kind o' used to findin' my way 'bout a house in the dark, but thank ye kindly just the same," and humming a gay tune the strange man went down the stairs.

"Remember that you are not to let any one know where I am," said Job as he stood on the step before the house shading the candle with his hand.

"No one at all?" asked the other.

Hendricks eyed him for a moment, suspiciously.

"When I say no one that is enough."

"Well I wa'n't sure you meant every one—ye see there must be lot o' yer friends what would like to see ye after bein' gone so long."

"For the present not a word—not a word to any one," said Hendricks, decidedly. And now good-night. When you have news, come here—you will seldom fail to find me in."

"All right—you can expect me in a few days, I take it. Time he was heard from again," and with these words he disappeared among the shadows of the garden.

Job stood there a moment, and then blew out his candle. It needed such keen eyes as his to follow that slinking figure slowly disappearing in the distance. He caught sight of him again as he was passing through the tunnel that ran through the old factory building, and then, as if urged on by a sudden impulse, he laid the candle on the steps and ran noiselessly after his late visitor. When he came into the street he crossed without being seen to the other side of the way, and behind a pile of rubbish peered out to see if anything peculiar would happen.

Jebbs was pursuing his way, looking neither to right nor left. Job, slinking along in the shadows, watched him until they arrived in this way at the end of the block. Perhaps, after all, his suspicions of Jebbs were unjust. He hoped they were, but he felt that he could not be too careful to ward off any attempt at treachery. Then he noticed what was a peculiar sight in that shabby neighborhood, a black coupe drawn up near the street lamp on the corner.

"Ho! ho! Could he have come in a carriage?" muttered Job to himself. "This is getting to be interesting."

His visitor had reached the corner, and paused there for a moment, looking up and down the street. Then, out of the coupe stepped a man, who, walking forward, laid his hand on Jebbs' shoulder. The latter started with a violent gesture, but presently calmed down, and they stood there for some moments in conversation.

"I would give a good deal to know what they are talking about," muttered Hendricks. "I was a fool to trust the fellow; but I have confidence in some one, and only those of his class will be able to tell me where I can find the man I want."

It seemed to him they must be talking about him, for now and then the man who had alighted from the coupe made a motion in the direction of the cottage.

Hendricks could no longer remain a witness of a conversation he felt sure it was important that he should hear, and, profiting by the debris in the street, he wormed his way over to a short distance from where the pair was standing.

What was his anger and disappointment, when, just as he came within hearing distance, they suddenly turned about, went over to the coupe and entered it. A moment later it was clattering away along the uneven street, finally disappearing in the shadows.

Job shook his head and heaved a deep sigh as he started to return to his cottage, greatly disturbed by what he had seen.

"I wonder if there could be any other meaning to this than that the fellow had been put on my track by Ellison? And I thought I should be safe for a while—in peace. How I wish it was all over, my work done—and then rest." And, with the heavy steps of a heartsick and tired man, he entered the little place he hoped would have been a refuge, but might prove to be no more.

CHAPTER XVI.

AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

On the day following the incident of the black coupe, Superintendent Barnes, the chief of police, was seated in his office, studying a mass of written reports that lay before him on the desk. Evidently what he read was not to his liking, for his generally smooth forehead wore a deep frown and now and then he uttered an exclamation that showed his anger and disgust.

Inspector Barnes, as he was better known in the city, looked more like a prosperous banker than a man who had spent the principal part of his life in investigating the undercurrents of society. He did not wear that worn and worried look we are accustomed to associate with a man who has so much work laid out for him. He was none the less a capable officer, and if his smile was "childlike and bland," he was feared and respected by the lawless world, and justly so.

Barnes was not in good humor on the morning in question, and after he had finished his reading leaned back in the big chair and puffed for a moment on his black cigar, sending forth such clouds that he resembled a fat idol surrounded by incense. His glance fixed on the ceiling, it only changed to look now and then with a scowl at the pile of papers before him. Suddenly he leaned forward and rang the bell sharply at his elbow.

The folding doors in the center of the room opened and his personal attendant appeared.

"Send Mac here at once!" he said, and lolled back in his chair again, smoking more vigorously than ever and engaged in deep thought. The attendant bowed himself out and a moment later the chief of detectives entered, and, closing the door behind him, advanced to the desk where his superior was seated.

CROWN PRINCE OF SIAM.

He Will Arrive in the United States in September and Will Be Received Cordially.

While the crown prince of Siam, during his approaching visit to the United States, will not be the guest of the government, he will be entertained and shown every consideration, the money for this purpose being taken from the contingent fund.

The crown prince's visit has been hastened by the deferment of King Edward's coronation. The prince was going to attend the coronation and afterward make a tour of the United States. He will now come earlier than at first planned. He will reach this country about September 1, possibly before that date.

CROWN PRINCE OF SIAM.
(He Will Arrive in the United States About September 1.)

A committee of entertainment will be appointed by the state department officials, and pains will be taken to make the crown prince's visit an event of importance. The Siamese minister, Phya Akharaj Varadhara, has been in consultation with Secretary Hay as to the arrangements for the crown prince's reception. The minister was assured that the reception would be as cordial and as elaborate as the government could make it.

The suggestion has been made that if the crown prince is pleased with his visit to the United States his father, the king of Siam, will then visit this country.

Soon after congress assembled last December Senator Frye introduced a resolution authorizing the president to formally invite the king to visit the United States and be the guest of the nation. It was explained that the king had expressed a desire to make a tour of this country. The American minister at Bangkok, Mr. King, in a communication suggesting an invitation to the king, called attention to many unpleasant episodes attending the king's visit to Europe, although their precise character was not made clear, and saying his majesty would desire to guard against a repetition of these unpleasant episodes. Mr. King intimated that his majesty would not make the trip unless he received an official invitation, as otherwise he would consider that he was not wanted.

No action was taken by congress and the king of Siam did not receive an official invitation to visit the United States. He then abandoned the contemplated journey and announced that the crown prince would take his place.

Minister King, in describing his majesty's hesitation about coming to this country without a formal invitation, said:

"He would be very glad to go in a private capacity for the sake of the education it would be to him and his people, but he naturally feels a shrinking and fear to go in such a capacity, especially in view of the grasping position Uncle Sam is just now described as assuming."

THE TRUST QUESTION.

Chairman Griggs, Democratic Campaign Leader, Says It Will Be a Paramount Issue.

of the trust question for the issue in the coming campaign, is the chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee and the representative of the Second district of Georgia. He has been a practicing lawyer in Georgia since 1883, and has served on the state bench for three terms. In 1896 Judge Griggs resigned from the judiciary to make the race for congress. He has been since relected to each succeeding term.

NEW GRACE CHURCH.

Its Corner Stone Was Laid by President Roosevelt.

Will Be Ready for Occupancy on December 1—Pastor Is One of the Most Learned Men in Washington.

Not only is the white house to be remodeled, but next season President Roosevelt will worship in a brand-new church. His pastor, Rev. John M. Schick, D. D., is now building a new Grace Memorial Reformed church, which will be ready for occupancy on December 1, about the time that President Roosevelt will begin the strenuous business of the next season.

The corner stone of this church was laid by President Roosevelt on July 1. It is to be a Gothic edifice of Cleveland Lower Canan gray stone, and will have a seating capacity of about 600.

At present Dr. Schick has a congregation of somewhat more than 200 communicants. The newspapers constantly refer to this church as the Dutch Reformed, but on this head and others Dr. Schick pleasantly explains:

"My church is not the Dutch Reformed church, although many persons prefer to mention it under that designation. Ours is the Grace Reformed church, and if it belongs to any national origin it is German. Our church is differentiated from the Lutheran churches in that its vivifying principle is republicanism, while Lutheranism is the church of the princes and monarchs. Our church took its origin in Switzerland when the Monk Zwingle, at Basle, proclaimed the republicanism of worship in opposition to the monarchical and feudal tendency of the Roman Catholics under the papal monarch. We are Reformed Catholics. The Dutch Reformed, German Reformed, Bohemian and Swiss churches all use the same catechism and have the same faith. The separation into nationalities came after the church had been established, and has little meaning. As a matter of fact we are older than Luther's church, because Zwingle had proclaimed his doctrine of opposition to Roman mon-

REV. JOHN M. SCHICK.
(Pastor of Church in Which President Roosevelt Worships.)

archical ideas before Luther began his reformation.

"I have been urged to erect a large church, but have thought that the structure now designed will be sufficient to accommodate my flock. The president is one of my communicants. The new church has been under consideration ever since the present modest edifice was completed. If after we have completed the new one there be sufficient money, we will remodel the parsonage, so that the two structures may be harmonious in their Gothic outlines. My congregation is not a rich one, but I have not found it difficult to collect the necessary funds, about $40,000.

"It has been said that we have been largely helped by contributions from sources outside the church. There have been some such, but not enough to detract from the enterprise of the local congregation. Of course I must refuse to divulge the contribution of the president, as neither he nor I consider it seemly to enter into such details. My congregation consists of sturdy Germans, Dutch and Huguenot families of the District of Columbia. We hope to be established in our new church about December 1."

Dr. Schick is a gentleman of medium size, with a placid, kindly countenance. He is very learned, but at the same time very charitable in his views. He can discuss doctrinal disputes with calm dignity and is thoroughly liked by his dissenting brethren of the cloth. He visits around among his flock and is especially popular with the children. At the white house the pastoral visits of Dr. Schick are gala times for the children. He is the especial prey of Baby Quentin and Miss Ethel. They rifle his pockets, make him disgorge candies, ride on his knees and interrupt his priestly admonitions to their father with the license of affection. Dr. Schick is the same genial, kindly pastor in the home of the humblest of his congregation. He is frequently invited by President Roosevelt to participate in the Sunday night suppers at the white house, which President Roosevelt reserves for a reunion of his family and personal friends.

Dr. Schick is one of the local authorities on all moot points concerning the period of the reformation. His historical reading is such that the most learned divines of other churches never contradict his assertions without careful revision of the authorities.

A WAR BETWEEN NEIGHBORS

MRS. DOOLEY'S CHARGE AGAINST MRS. COOPER DISMISSED.

James Duffy and Arthur Allen, Too Free With John Barleycon, They are warned.

A different statement in the city court, this morning, than what she first made in her complaint, resulted in Mrs. Edward Dooley's charge against her neighbor, Mrs. Howard Cooper, being thrown out of court. She alleged that Mrs. Cooper had called her improper names and repeated several of them. When questioned by City Judge Runyon this morning, she positively asserted that the names specified had not been used, but that others had. The court without further parleying dismissed the complaint.

James Duffy was arraigned in court, charged by Patrolman Meyers with helpless intoxication, Saturday night. As he had been confined thirty hours, he was released with a warning. A similar disposition was made in the case of Arthur Allen, who was picked up on Norwood avenue by Patrolman Saunders. He was in the last stages of intoxication when found.

WAS A NOVEL PROGRAMME

INTESESTING SESSION OF PARK AVENUE BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Ice Cream Checks Given to All Who Were in Attendance at the Session—Features of Affair.

An unusually attractive programme was presented at the session of the Sunday-school in the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday morning, and there was a very large attendance present. Superintendent George E. Hall is untiring in his efforts to render these summer sessions interesting and attractive to those who remain at home during the warm weather.

The programme, which was in charge of Superintendent Hall, was opened with a cornet solo by DeWitt Frazee, followed with the singing of the hymn "Glory to His Name," by Class No. 14 with chorus by the school. "Missionary Work in Cuba and Porto Rico," was the subject of an interesting paper by Miss Florence G. Hawkins. Charles L. Lewis then sang a solo, which was followed with a soprano solo, "What Will You do With the King Called Jesus?" by Miss Anna Clark, with the chorus by her class. "Mary Elizabeth," was the subject of a missionary recitation given by Miss Aimee Emmons in her usual effective manner. The programme closed with a vocal selection "He Knows," by a quartette composed of Miss Etta Cuming, Miss Adelaide Runyon, Harry Cuming and George Watts.

During the session pretty souvenir programmes containing a photograph of the Park Avenue Baptist church and a check for ice cream soda were distributed among all present.

DR. LEE PREACHES.

A Milwaukee Divine Occupies the Pulpit of the First Baptist Church Yesterday.

At the request of the officials of the Crescent Avenue church the pulpit at the First Baptist church was occupied yesterday morning and evening by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Immanuel Presbyterian church, of Milwaukee, Wis. This was a special arrangement, as Rev. J. A. Cubberly, of South Plainfield, was to have occupied the pulpit, but gave way at the request of the supply committee from the church. The change was made that the committee from the Crescent Avenue church, which is in search of a successor to Rev. Dr. Richards, might have an opportunity of hearing this celebrated divine from the west. Some of the members had heard him before and were favorably impressed, and others desired to hear him.

Mr. Lee delivered two very strong and practical sermons. He has an exceptionally easy manner in the pulpit and uses no notes. He talks in a clear and forceful way. He is about 36 years of age and is attractive in appearance

Aside from the committee from the Crescent Avenue church there were many other members from that church present at both services and they all seemed favorably impressed with the divine. Mr. Lee is now in the east enjoying his vacation. It is not known whether he could be secured for the Crescent Avenue church if a call should be extended.

KENELEM BREAKS RECORD

A. C. VAIL'S SPEEDY TROTTER MAKES A REMARKABLE SHOWING.

Honors Divided Between Palatina and Merit Wilkes—Fairmount Maid Wins Against Fild.

There were several interesting races on the track at the Plainfield Driving Park Saturday afternoon, including some sensational finishes on the part of A. C. Vail's "Kenelm," who trotted to a road wagon. He made the first mile in 2:38, the first half in 1:21 and the last half in 1:17. The second mile was made in 2:29, the first half in 1:16 and the last in 1:13. The next mile was made in 2:23¼, the first half in 1:12 and the last in 1:11½. The fourth mile trotted by this horse was made in 2:22¾, the first half in 1:12 and the last in 1:10¾. The last quarter was made in 34¾ seconds. This exhibition is considered remarkable and has never been equaled on this track.

Honors were divided between Chas. Brower's "Palatina" and Edward Campbell's "Merit Wilkes," the first heat going to "Palatina," in 2:33 and the second to "Merit Wilkes," in 2:29. The third race was between D. C. Smalley's "Ned Davis," John Osborn's "Fairmount Maid," and N. B. Smalley's "Arion Maid." On account of a tire coming off the sulky, N. B. Smalley dropped out of the race. Osborn won both heats in 2:31 and 2:28.

"Palatina," has been shipped to New York, where he will be matched in a race on the speedway for $100 a side. The race will come off next week.

RED SHIRTS HANDILY TROUNCE BLUE COATS

In Close Game of Baseball the Fire Laddies Defeat the Coppers 5 To 3.

BATTLE OF TWIRLERS.

DAN FORCE DOES GREAT WORK FOR THE WINNERS.

McGinley Gives a Free Pass for Bases in Second Inning—Daly's Kindness Permits Winn to Do the Merry-Go-Round Trick.

The unexpected happened at yesterday's baseball game between the local police and firemen teams, the second in the series of the three. To the surprise of most everyone but themselves, the red shirted contingent which was defeated recently by a score of 18 to 6, trailed the bluecoats in the dust to the tune of 5 to 3. As a whole, a reversal of strength was responsible for the change about but the majority of it centered in the fire fighters' new twirler, Dan Force. He did even better than Winn who was at one time a pitcher of no little repute and backed up by a better outfield that was all that was needed to give the cops their first trouncing of the season. In every respect, barring the few errors made, the game was as good a one as any fan would wish to see.

The cops were retired in the first inning without a run and in the second McGinley was practically given free passes around through errors made by E. Townley and McCabe. Winn chased around the bases in the second through the generosity of Daley and others but that was all they made until the eighth. Then McCarthy reached first on a scratch hit, went over to third on more errors and trotted home on McGinley's sacrifice.

In the meantime, the red shirts had made two in the third, one in the fifth and two in the seventh, not one of which was earned. Another was probable due them in the fifth when Captain Townley was called out at third. It raised a howl for a few moments from the constitutents of the side but they were pacified into letting the umpire live. It was explained afterward by Chief Doane that the player and umpire were related and the latter feared if he gave the decision in Townley's favor, the crowd would say it was for relationship's sake.

The pitching of both twirlers was one great feature of the game and was remarkably good, especially for Force, who is a newcomer as a slab artist. Each struck out ten men, Force held the bluecoats down to four hits and gave but one base on balls. Five hits were made off Winn's delivery but he did not give a free pass.

The outfield of the firemen was strengthened by the substitution of Vail and Feiring for Cose and Force. Feiring did himself credit and will be retained permanently.

Elizabeth Evening Times Taken Over by Friend of Present Management—No Changes.

Receiver James Connelly, accepted the bid of John Moody, of Cranford, for the Elizabeth Evening Times, last night, and this morning, in company with Edward Nugent, counsel for Editor W. W. St. John, appeared before the Court of Chancery, in Newark, for the purpose of having the sale confirmed.

Mr. Moody's successful bid was $5,000.50, and his closest competitor was the Trenton Times which offered $5,000. The paper will continue in its present policy. Editor St. John and Manager Chauncey Stout, as well as the entire force, will be retained.

IS NOW OPEN FOR TRAFFIC

THE FIRST CAR TO GO OVER THE PICTON TROLLEY BRIDGE.

Trip Made by Officials of Road and Contractors—Description of the Span Over Railroad.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the first car passed over the new street railway bridge over the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Rahway Junction. On board the car were Colonel Hine, General Manager Ackerman, Riker Brothers, several officers of the company, the bridge contractors and others. A. B. Steele was the conductor of the car and William Fosse the motorman.

The new bridge is 110 feet long from tip to tip, and 24 feet high, built of iron and strong enough to hold a freight train. It is not intended for traffic of any sort except the trolley cars. About six months ago work on the structure was begun, after two years or more of bickering with the Lehigh Valley Company over the conditions and privilege price. Several times the work was delayed by strikes.

A Picton jiggar car is now running across the bridge on schedule time, until a timetable can be arranged for a through service.

DOINGS AT THE NETHERWOOD

SATURDAY EVENING HOP AND SACRED CONCERT LAST NIGHT.

Mrs. Belle Hanford, Pianist, and Mrs. Joseph Lux, Soprano, Among the Participants on Programme.

The hop at the Hotel Netherwood Saturday evening was largely patronized, both by guests of the house and by many from Plainfield. Up to a late hour the couples enjoyed the dancing. The music by the Hotel Netherwood orchestra, under the direction of Frederick H. Landolt, was up to the usual high standard.

At the sacred concert last evening there was excellent music by a full orchestra, Mrs. Belle Hanford, of Atlanta, Ga., presiding at the piano. Mrs. Joseph Lux, of Hoboken, who is a great favorite with the musical fraternity at the hotel, sang a soprano solo, and responded to several encores. A violin solo by J. B. Hollinger was much enjoyed.

REUNION OF SMITHS TO BE AT PEAPACK

Arrangements for Annual Meeting of Remarkably Large Family.

HISTORY OF THE CLAN.

THE FIRST REUNION OF THE FAMILY WAS HELD IN 1876.

The New Arrivals Are Registered as Additions to the Family Tree—The Family is Now Widely Scattered.

The Smith family reunion, an annual celebration of some magnitude in this vicinity, will take place at Peapack tomorrow. Members of that family, not only from this region nor from the State alone but from all over the country will assemble there. A sketch of their history is timely and it is herewith reproduced.

In 1740 John Schmidt emigrated from Holland to this country and settled on Long Island. In the 162 years since his posterity has grown to the number of nearly 2,500. Tomorrow the twenty-seventh annual reunion of his descendants, constituting the Smith family, will be held in the picturesque grove situated about one and a half miles from the village of Peapack, at the headwaters of the lake recently made by the Ravine Association.

When John Schmidt arrived in America he spent a few years with Holland Dutch friends on Long Island. Later he removed from there to Stanton, Hunterdon county, this State, and changed the spelling of his name to Smith. At Stanton he worked as a farmhand for Christopher Hasseler. He fell in love with his employer's daughter and they were married. From this union sprang the branch of the Smiths that on the last Wednesday of August has made an annual holiday for Peapack for many years.

Sixteen children were born to John and his wife. The sons were Christopher, Martin, John, Andrew, Joseph, Isaac, Peter, Jacob and Zachariah. The daughters were Charity, Laney, Catherine, Elizabeth, Rebecca and Sarah. The youngest of these died at the age of sixty years, the oldest, Mrs. Charity Sheats, lived to be 104. Four of the brothers settled in the region about the present villages of Peapack and Gladstone, and at one time owned a strip of land over two miles long extending from the headwaters of the lake to Union Schoolhouse. The average price which they paid per acre for this land was $10. Zachariah Smith was the progenitor of the Peapack branch of the family. About the year 1800 he bought his farm upon which he is now situated the picnic grounds. Traces of his log house may still be seen. Zachariah, being a "Smith" to the core, was loth to let the family tree suffer and in turn became the father of a large family, among whom was Peter Z. Smith. To his efforts are due the annual reunion. It was in the early part of the nineteenth century that the old homestead was built in which Peter spent the greater part of his life. The house is now occupied by one of his sons John Dayton Smith.

The first reunion was held on Wednesday September 6, 1876. At noon of that day the meeting was called to order by the venerable Peter. After making a few remarks upon the object of their organization, he requested that another chairman be chosen, as he was in ill-health and was not capable of performing the duties that would be required of him. The election of officers then followed, with the result of making Isaiah Smith, of Millburn president, and Abraham, of Peapack, secretary and treasurer. The same executive board has been chosen at each succeeding reunion of the clan.

At the first gathering of the family twenty-three members of the third generation of Smiths counting from the original John Smith were present. Father Time has since taken away these twenty-three the last being Mrs. Celinda Logan, who died in 1898. At the first gathering 600 names were enrolled, and the list has grown until now it is near the 2,000 mark.

At each reunion it is a familiar sight to see proud parents of "new Smiths" bringing their additions to the family tree to be registered. Many of the Smiths deem it as necessary to have their offspring registered in the roll book as to have them baptized. Abram Smith, the aged secretary, who still has in his keeping the roll

DEATH, A RELEASE FROM SUFFERING

Pain Endured With Christian Fortitude by Mrs. William H. Williams.

THE FUNERAL SERVICE.

REV. DR. J. R. BRYAN OFFICIATED AT THE IMPRESSIVE OBSEQUIES.

Beautiful Floral Tributes—"One Sweetly Solemn Thought," Was Sung—Interment in Family Plot at Highland Falls.

In the death of Mrs. William H. Williams which occurred Saturday at her home in East Sixth street, a sincere and faithful Christian, a helpful wife and mother passed away. Mrs. Williams was a great sufferer for several years, and death came as a happy release. None knew Mrs. Williams but to admire her for her noble life. She was thoroughly devoted to her home and her church.

Mrs. Williams went to the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, two years ago for an operation, but after an X-ray examination the physicians could only discover a slight inflammation about the gall duct and it was the opinion that the gall stones had been passed. No operation was performed and Mrs. Williams returned home, only to suffer more intense pain. Following her death a post mortem was held on Sunday by Dr. Zeglio. It was then that fifty gall stones were discovered, one a peculiarly shaped one being in a such a position as to prevent the gaining of strength and proper digestion of food. The other stones were scattered about in different places and all tended to aggravate the stomach and vital parts.

Mrs. Williams was fifty five years of age and was married to Mr. Williams eight years ago. Her home was in Monroe, N. Y. She left one daughter by her first marriage, a husband and the following step-children: Will F. Williams, Mrs. Fred Smalley, Miss Clara Williams and Miss Florence Williams. She also left three brothers, one sister and a mother, living in Orange county, New York. The funeral services were held at the home on East Sixth street last evening at 7:30 o'clock, when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered to pay their last respects. Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, of Albert street, a former pastor of Mr. Williams, conducted the services. Mrs. Williams for thirty-five years was a member of the Methodist church and at the time of her death held a membership in the First M. E. church.

Dr. Bryan spoke touching words in reference to the beautiful life and character of the deceased, and he also spoke of her strong home ties, where she would be missed much. In conclusion he offered a fervent earnest prayer. During the service E. E. Runyon sang effectively, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

There were many beautiful floral tributes from friends, relatives and neighbors. Early this morning the remains were taken to Highland Falls, N. Y., where they will be interred in the family plot.

WELCOME VISITORS.

Miss Sara Curry, of the Fresh Air Home, Attends Trinity Reformed C. E. Meeting.

Miss Sara Curry, who is an honorary member of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, accompanied by Mr. Torrey and three children from the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, paid an unexpected visit to the meeting last evening. Miss Curry spoke and so did Mr. Torrey. Willie Ponsford, a bright little fellow, sang a hymn very sweetly, as did also one other little fellow aged about five years.

The meeting was in charge of Miss May A. Randolph, and the visit of Miss Curry and Mr. Torrey was thoroughly enjoyed by all. At present there are 128 persons at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, including children and mothers. It is expected that the Home will be closed about September 10, but if the warm weather continues the home will be kept open a longer time.

Almost Sixteen to One.

A jolly party of fifteen women and one man, all guests at the Fairview House, for the summer, came to Plainfield, yesterday, on a strawride and spent a few hours at the Hotel Kensington. They arrived in the forenoon and after dinner saw the sights.

Attractions Scheduled at the Popular Summer Resort For This Week.

HOUSE FULL OF GUESTS.

BOYLE, THE BLIND ENTERTAINER, IS TO AFFORD FUN.

Tally-Ho Parties Visit Hostelry—Concert Thursday and Progressive Euchre on Friday, to be Followed by Hop Saturday.

With the close of the month of August near at hand, the season at the Hotel Netherwood continues to be one of activity. The departures from the hostelry thus far have been few, while every day witnesses a new arrival of guests. During the past week there have been a number of jolly tally-ho parties to various points in the surrounding country.

There are many attractions on the programme for the present week. This evening, E. I. Boyle, the well-known blind entertainer, will be present to amuse the guests. On a previous visit to the hotel he made a decided hit. Thursday evening Frank Young, monologuist and impersonator, will give one of his concerts. Friday will be devoted to progressive euchre, and the hop as usual will be held Saturday evening.

Among the arrivals last week were the following: A. C. Stallman, New York; Miss Nell Blackwell, Brooklyn; Mrs. M. Levy, New York; Robert J. Keller, Jr., Brooklyn; Charles Weisises, New York; W. F. Hall, Cranford; A. Willard Moore, New York; Mrs. A. M. Bright, Pottsville, Penn.; Mrs. Hildebrandt, Miss E. Hildebrandt, New York; W. A. Drake, New York; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Keller, New York; D. Greene, Jr., Miss Emma Louise Greene, New York; Donald E. Williams, South Orange; Raymond L. Shutz.

BIRTHDAY FETE.

Mrs. Susan Coles Stout, Now Eighty-Five Years of Age, Was Tendered Elaborate Affair.

Mrs. Warren Ackerman, of Lyde Park, Scotch Plains, on Saturday, gave an elaborate dinner in commemoration of the eighty-fifth birthday of Mrs. Susan Coles Stout. Mrs. Stout who is the widow of Jared S. Stout, is the only surviving sister of the late Dr. Abraham Coles, and resides at Scotch Plains, in the memorable colonial homestead built by her father, Dennis Coles. Mr. Stout, Warren Ackerman and Dr. Coles were largely responsible for the erection of the beautiful gothic brick church at Scotch Plains.

Mrs. Stout, although in her eighty sixth year, retains all her faculties, is bright and happy, and, as the guest of honor, was very entertaining in relating of incidents connected with the early history of Scotch Plains. Mrs. Ackerman, as always, proved herself a charming hostess. The guests found her cozy, picturesque cottage profusely decorated with choice flowers and plants from her conservatories and grounds.

DISCONTENTED PEOPLE.

Property-Owners Along Rahway Road Are Complaining.

Property-owners living on Rahway road express the belief that the city is neglecting them in the matter of keeping their road in repair. It was macadamized according to the terms of the city, the owners paying their share. Now it is in poor condition, large stones being scattered along the road. One owner says that he has not a single horse in his stable that is not bruised from travelling over this road. They claim that when the city officials have been spoken to about the matter the latter say that the road will be fixed, but that is as far as it goes.

Bad Gash From Fall.

Daniel Hogan, Jr., of West Third street, while running on New street, Sunday, sustained a painful gash in the knee by falling against a curbstone. A physician found it necessary to take several stitches to close the wound.

DEMOCRATIC OUTING.

Great Event Scheduled for Thursday—All the Big Guns to be There—The Attractions.

The committee having in charge the annual Democratic outing to Point View Grove, Long Island, Thursday, contemplates making it the most successful affair the county party has ever given. In addition to the elaborate dinner, there will be speeches galore, athletic games and a baseball contest. Among some of the prominent Democrats who have accepted invitations to be present are James E. Martine, of this city; James M. Seymour, of Newark, Bob Davis, of Jersey City; Congressman William A. Sulzer, of New York, and Leon Abbett, of Hudson county.

SENATOR SEES PHENOMENON

MR. REED WITNESSES MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE ON CRUISE.

Terrible Water Spouts Off Cape May, a Very Close Range Attraction.

State Senator Charles A. Reed returned last evening from a week's cruise along the coasts of southern Jersey. In company with him on the outing, which was given by the Pilots' Association, were W. S. Hancock, Barker Gummere, Congressman Loudenslager and others close to him personally and politically.

The trip furnished the Senator with the first opportunity of witnessing the phenomenon commonly called a water spout. This dreadful though magnificient spectacle was seen at close range off Cape May on Sunday afternoon. About five miles out from shore two storms that had come out of the west and south clasped in fierce embrace and were met by a storm out of the east. All the batteries of the heavens opened up with a mighty roar.

Like trails of smoke three cloud funnels formed and descended towards the surface of the water and at the same time funnels of water rose from the ocean to meet those descending. It was very dark while the hurricane raged.

ALL HANDY WITH THE GUN

THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF COMPANY K AT SEA GIRT.

Now Have Thirty-Nine Marksmen, Eleven Sharpshooters and Two Experts.

Captain W. Kempton Browning, A. I. Littell, C. B. Pope and Elias Giles, of Co. K went to Sea Girt yesterday to practice on the rifle range. Their work now gives the company 39 marksmen, 11 sharp shooters and 2 experts. Captain Browning and A. I. Littell qualified as experts. The former's score was 32 on 500 yard range, 32 on 600 and 34 on 800. Mr. Littell's score was 32 on 500, 34 on 600 and 34 on 800. On the 800 yard range he made six straight bullseyes.

C. B. Pope's score was 28 on 500 yard range and 30 on the 600, while Elias Giles made 28 on the 500 and 28 on the 600. Both Pope and Giles qualified as sharpshooters. It seems to be the general opinion that Co. K will lead the State militia as marksmen for the infantry class.

PROGRESS OF TOURNAMENT.

Play With Racquets and Balls Continue at Y. M. C. A.

A tennis tournament for members of the boys' department opened at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Only a limited number of entries were allowed owing to the fact that it is desired to finish up before school re-opens. The entries are as follows: Clarence Schmelzel, Bertram Leggett, Munro Long, Hudson Burr, William Burtiss, Arthur VanArsdale, Arthur Aalholm, Edmund Templin, Frank Webster, William Lambert. In the play yesterday afternoon Long won two, Webster won one, lost none; Burtiss won one, lost one; Burr won one, lost two; Leggett lost one. Play will be continued today.

A Jersey Boy.

Daniel H. Staehle, of Orange, N.J., the signal boy on the Kearsarge, was the first to sight the approach of the ships of Commander Pillsbury's squadron in the naval war game.

S. R. BLACKFORD DIES FROM HEART TROUBLE

Died Quite Suddenly in His Home at 325 East Second Street Yesterday.

A SKETCH OF CAREER.

HE LEAVES A WIFE, ONE SON AND A DAUGHTER TO MOURN HIS LOSS.

Was a Member of the First Baptist Church—The Funeral Will be Private—An Opportunity Given to View the Remains.

Stelle R. Blackford, aged 69 years, one of Plainfield's respected citizens, died yesterday about noon at his home, 325 East Second street, where he has lived for some time past. Mr. Blackford's death was quite sudden, for he had been about the house and down town as late as Saturday afternoon, when he called on some friends. Death was due to enlargement of the heart.

Early Sunday morning the family physician, Dr. Davis, was sent for and remained with Mr. Blackford for several hours giving him temporary relief. Shortly before his death he went to the second floor of his home and upon reaching his room he made a peculiar noise, which was quickly recognized by his daughter Mrs. John Brokaw. She used restoratives at hand, but they were of no avail, life passing away soon afterward.

Mr. Blackford was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Blackford, of Piscataway, and he was born in that township. For many years he was a farmer and he followed this occupation most successfully until a few years ago. He was a sincere and devout Christian and was a member of the First Baptist church. Mr. Blackford leaves a wife, who for two years past has been an invalid and on account of a stroke of paralysis has been unable to speak a word during that time. He also leaves a son, Herbert Blackford, of New York, and daughter, Mrs. John Brokaw, of East Second street.

The funeral, which will be private, will be held from the late home Thursday afternoon a 2 o'clock, but any friends wishing to view the remains will have an opportunity Thursday morning from 10 to 11:30 o'clock.

CHANGE OF DATE.

The Council Meeting to be Held on Tuesday Evening on Account of Holiday—Busy Session.

As the first Monday in September falls on a holiday the Common Council will probably hold its regular September meeting Tuesday evening, September 2. This has been the rule in the past and will likely be followed this year.

There will be some important matters to be considered at the next regular meeting, including the hearing in the case of Griffin H. Freeman against L. M. Dunavan, members of the fire department, charged with an infraction of rules. The hearing was adjourned to the next meeting, awaiting the return of Corporation Counsel Marsh. He is now home and will represent the city at this hearing.

LIKES SOLDIER LIFE.

A Plainfield Boy Who Has Seen Service in the Philippines is to Re-Enlist Shortly.

Walter Hunt, of West Front street, has returned home after three years' service as a private in the Philippines. He was one of the soldiers present at the capture of Aguinaldo and was in many of the most important engagements taking place in the islands. He is enthusiastic over the treatment accorded him while in the service, and it is his intention to re-enlist after spending a short time in Plainfield with his parents.

Good Time Sure.

If you want to have good time go with St. Patrick's Alliance on their annual excursion to Orange Grove, L. I., Labor Day. The fare is low and the committee in charge has made every arrangement for the comfort and pleasure of all who go on the outing. The boats will leave Elizabethport at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Prize Winner.

The prize picture, "A scene along the Springfield road near Baltusrol," published in the New York Tribune last Sunday, was taken by Miss Anna W. Booraem, of 112 Liberty street. The photograph is an excellent one and quickly recognized by anyone who has traveled over that road.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It is now said that S. S. Childs, of Bernardsville, will refuse the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Mercer-Somerset-Warren district. That is probably a good thing for the Republicans. Mr. Childs is the rich man who runs restaurants, and some folk seem to have thought he was merely a wealthy carpet-bagger of political ambition. He is a Jersey man, and his family connections are all with Somerset and Mercer counties. Good neighbors and kind, they are representative people of our State. And, like a good many other Jerseymen, when they leave the country for business in the city, they have no difficulty in keeping up with the procession.—Newark Call.

The arrest of a prominent citizen of Winchester, Va., for neglect to pour kerosene into his rain barrels, as provided by the Anti-Mosquito law, will doubtess remind other sufferers of the narrowing range of personal liberty in these days of the public's rights.

A man may no longer carry a private arsenal concealed beneath his coat-tails. He may not run over people in an automobile—if a policeman or a Nassau County District-Attorney happens to be at hand. He may not set spring guns for trespassers, nor keep savage dogs to mangle them. He may not slay deer or catch fish out of season, nor kill robins at any time. He may not spit on the floor of a street car, nor keep pigs in his cellar, nor burn soft coal—when he can get anthracite.

Some of these prohibitions may seem at some times grievous to some men. But the only safe rule is that individual liberty ends where infringement upon the welfare of others begins. And plainly that would justify the prohibition of mosquito-breeding.—New York World.

Now New Jersey joins the black record of Southern states which squeeze the life blood out of young children in factories run by Northern capital. The shame is greater than that of the Southern cotton mills, because in New Jersey public sentiment is against this practice and the State has a law forbidding it. And yet the State Factory Inspector stood up before the Federation of Labor at Trenton yesterday and admitted that the law was broken by the glass factories in the southern end of the State and that he was powerless to prevent it. He at least ought to be ashamed to acknowledge his own incompetence and his statement justifies the appeal of the federtaion to the Governor to remove the inspector. He should be replaced by a man who will not consider the profits of the mill owners so much as common humanity. It is unnecessary to recognize the reasons on which the law is founded. Every one admits its justice and its need. Nothing but shameless greed brings about its violation. The stories of death and suffering as the result of its violation in these glass mills, as told in this federation meeting, are enought to rouse indignation in a stone. In fact the feeling roused by such abuses does not stop with the abuse itself but inspires hatred of employers as a class, which finds vent in many hurtful ways, without remedying the evil.

If sheer shame will not stop the employers, then the strong hand of the law should step in and make a penalty equal to the offense. England went through this whole campaign more than half a century ago. At that time Americans looked on in wonder and the idea that in the twentieth century any part of our own country would be fighting the battle for child life, for decency and the recognition of the rights of our common humanity, would have been received with indignant scorn. And yet here we are in the fight, driven to it not by ignorance but by greed which sins against the light.

In the English battle, the poem by Mrs. Browning, "The Cry of the Children," was one of the potent influences in awakening the sense of justice which drove the wretched system out of England. The revelations in the Southern cotton mills and the New Jersey glass factories make the republication of that poem, familiar to readers of '50, but passed from the knowledge of the younger generation, timely. The effect of child labor upon civilization has nowhere been better stated than in the stanzas which concludes:

Do you hear the children weeping and disproving,
Oh, my brothers, what ye preach?
For God's possible is taught by His world's loving—
And the children doubt of each.
—Brooklyn Eagle.

LITERARY.

The author of "Elizabeth and her German Garden" will make her final contribution to an American magazine with an essay "On the Giving of Books," which is to appear in the September Century, and which hits off with characteristic humor the foibles of people who give books to friends.

There was one famous building of antiquity, it is said in an article on Lightning, in Leslie's Monthly for September, which, according to the records, was never once damaged by lightning during its thousand years of eixstence, although placed high on a hill above a city in a mountain region where thunderstorms are very frequent. It was the Temple of Solomon at Jerusalem. The temple was overlaid within and without by plates of gold. Now gold is one of the best of electric conductors, and in this way the whole building was protected with a perfection and thoroughness that has never been attempted before or since.

William Allen White has got into the game again, and takes the leading place in the September McClure's with an article on "Cuban Reciprocity, a Moral Issue," in which he speaks his mind about beet-roots and insurgents and the administration policy—which, incidentally, happens to be Mr. White's policy, too. Shortly after he and Thomas Platt had had their says about each other last winter, Mr. White's health gave way; and this is his first magazine article for six months. To judge by the style of it, however, Mr. White's convalescence is now complete. It has the familar vim and dash, which give promise that from henceforth there will be something doing pretty regularly in the line which the Emporia editor has made his own.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Meeting in Somerville.

The New Jersey high court of the Independent Order of Foresters will hold a special session at Masonic Hall, Somerville, on September 25. At this session the reports of the bylaws committee and such other special committees as were appointed by the last high court will be acted on, and such other business transacted as is permitted at special sessions.

Camera Club's Quarters.

According to the plans for the rebuilding of the Babcock building the Plainfield Camera Club will have more commodious quarters than before and several improvements will be introduced which will tend to increase the interest in amateur photography.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

ALL WRONG.

The Mistake is Made by Many Plainfield Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief is cure. Backache is kidney ache.

You must cure the kidneys.

A Plainfield resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. Jos. VanArsdale, carpenter and contractor living at 213 Spooner avenue, says: "For several years I suffered from severe pains in my back, hips and loins so bad at times that it was almost impossible for me to get around and attend to my work. Any stooping or heavy lifting aggravated it and if I contracted a cold it always settled in my back and at such times my suffering was something intense. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice I was in pretty bad shape and procuring them from L. W. Randolph's drug store I took a few doses when I found they were helping me and on completing the treatment I was quite free from pain. I always keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand so as to have a sure remedy close by if the trouble should ever return."

WINTER EVOLUTIONS.

Preparations Begun For Rendezvous In the Caribbean.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—While the joint army and navy maneuvers are progressing work will be carried on steadily at the navy yards along the Atlantic coast upon a number of vessels which have been long out of commission and which are being hurried into shape for the great naval maneuvers in the Caribbean next January.

At the Portsmouth (N. H.) yard the protected cruiser Raleigh and the unprotected cruiser Detroit are getting ready, while at Boston the protected cruiser Newark and the supply ship Culgoa, at the New York yard the protected cruiser Baltimore and at Norfolk the second class battleship Texas are being put in shape. These vessels, together with a number of torpedo craft which are now laid up, constitute all of the additional warships which will be pressed into service for the big rendezvous in the West Indies.

Fast Mail Wrecked.

TOCCOA, Ga., Aug. 26.—The fast mail on the Southern railway, southbound, was wrecked by an open switch near Harbins, S. C. The entire train except the sleepers turned over, but none of the passengers was hurt. Engineer Henry Busha of Atlanta was seriously but not fatally injured, and a negro tramp who was stealing a ride was fatally hurt. Slight injuries were sustained by Fireman Charles S. Williams of Atlanta and Mail Clerks N. E. Lowenthal, E. E. Smith, J. R. Anglin and J. W. Gray, Jr. Three switches near the scene of the wreck were found to have been tampered with intentionally, it is believed. An attempt is being made to discover and capture the supposed wreckers.

GREAT WAR GAME.

Explanation of the Army and Navy Maneuvers.

NAVAL ATTACK ON THE FORTS.

Hostile Fleet Will Attempt to Force the Eastern Entrance to Long Island Sound—Operations to Begin Friday Night.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Major General MacArthur has made public the text of the rules agreed upon for the coming army and navy maneuvers. The whole scheme of operations is based upon the assumption that in anticipation of a declaration of hostilities a strong hostile fleet, without torpedo boats, determines to make a sudden dash on the eastern entrance of Long Island sound to secure a naval base in the expectation of finding the land forces in the absence of a declaration of war in a somewhat unprepared condition.

The periods of the maneuvers are to be divided into two distinct phases, period of preparation and period of hostilities. During the first period it is intended that there shall be a day attack and a night attack by the fleet and if posible a bombardment and the forcing of a passage. During the ensuing period mines and obstructions may be planted by the defense, and the conditions of war are to be followed as closely as possible.

On the part of the army the information to be gained relates to the general efficiency down to the smallest detail of all that appertains to the construction and armament of the land defenses and the training of the forces manning them. The navy will concern itself with the best means of obtaining ranges, the effects of mines and obstructions, formations of attack, efficiency of signals, the use of searchlights and the general control of artillery fire.

Umpires of both services are to be detailed to all ships and forts and will report to a board of arbitration of five officers, whose judgment will be final. In addition a number of observers will act with each of the forces as the representatives of the other.

The period of preparation will be from midnight Aug. 29 to midnight Aug. 30, the period of hostilities extending from the latter hour to noon Sept. 6. The defense will consist of Forts Rodman, Adams, Wetherill, Greble, Mansfield, Wright, Michie, Terry and the fort on Gardner's point. There will be no floating defenses. The attack will consist of about fifteen ships, of which five will rank as battleships and the rest as cruisers and gunboats.

The umpires and observers will assemble at the War college at Newport on Aug. 27 to discuss the rules and on Aug. 29 will be distributed to their various stations. The naval militia will embark at Newport on Aug. 30 to be distributed to the ships. At the close of the maneuvers the attacking fleet will pass in review before the forts.

Elaborate rules are laid down to estimate the value of the fire of guns of all calibers, so as to determine when any ship or fort shall be considered to have been put out of action or silenced. All mines are to be fully connected and furnished with dummy charges and fuses, the explosion of which will be supposed to entail the destruction of any vessel passing over a mine. No communication will be held with the shore by the fleet except under a flag of truce, and no boats will be allowed alongside the ships.

Chinese Magistrate Punished.

PEKING, Aug. 26.—The government has removed the magistrate in whose jurisdiction the missionaries Lewis and Bruce, the former an Englishman and the latter an Australian, were killed at Chenchou, in Hunan province, and has sent troops there to restore order. When the trouble which resulted in the death of the missionaries began, the prefect of the district asked them to come to his yamen for protection, but the missionaries refused to leave their missions.

Teachers Had Nonunion Relatives.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 26.—The school board of Mahanoy township has removed six of the oldest teachers in the township. The reason given was that members of the families of these teachers were nonunion mine workers. Among those affected is Miss Anna Beddall, sister of Joseph Beddall, who was killed during the riot of July 30. The board unanimously decided that applicants in any way connected with nonunion workmen should not receive appointments.

Bartholin's Last Appearance.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Chief of Police O'Neil has received information that leads him to believe William J. Bartholin, the suspected murderer, was in Chicago Aug. 16. He said he thought the fugitive was not dead and that he was seen with a valise and probably left the city two days after the discovery of the body of his murdered mother in her home.

THE TRUST QUESTION

Discussed by President In His Boston Speech.

HE WANTS FEDERAL CONTROL.

Says That With Present Laws Corporations Cannot Be Dealt With as the Situation Demands They Should Be.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—The week's work for President Roosevelt in his trip through New England began in earnest when he departed from the beautiful summer home of the junior senator of Massachusetts, Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, at Nahant, and amid the enthusiasm of the greatest number of people he has faced since the Pittsburg visit on July 4 rode into Lynn under cavalry escort and spoke from a platform at city hall. Then he was taken to Boston by special train and on arrival went to Symphony hall, there addressing a great gathering of Boston business men. His speech here was devoted almost entirely to a consideration of the trust question.

From the hall the president went to Hotel Touraine, where a little later in the evening he was the guest of Governor Crane at dinner.

This morning bright and early the presidential party started for Maine.

The president said in part:

"It is a little difficult to set clearly before us all of the evils of the trust question, but I think that those gentlemen, and especially those gentlemen of large means, who deny that the evils exist are acting with great folly. I am far from being against property when I ask that the question of trusts be taken up. I am acting in the most conservative sense in property's interest. When a great corporation is sued for violating the antitrust law, it is not a move against property. It is a move in favor of property, because when you can make it evident that all men, big and small alike, have to obey the law you are putting the safeguard of law around all men.

"When you make it evident that no man shall be excused for violating the law, you make it evident that every man will be protected from violation of the law. I am inclined to think that much the greatest trouble in any immediate handling of the question of the trust comes from our system of government. Let me go back one moment. I want to guard what I am saying. I want you to understand that my words are being taken at their exact face value. Remember, I am not saying that even if we had all the power we could completely solve the trust question. Gentlemen, if what we read in the papers is true they are speaking of a number of international trusts now.

"It would be very difficult for any set of laws on our part to deal completely with a problem which becomes international in its bearings, but a great deal can be done in various ways now. A great deal is being done, and a great deal more can be done if we can see that the power is put somewhere to do it. On the whole, our system of government has worked marvelously well, but it has its limitations.

"Everything has been revolutionized in the business world since the government was founded, and the progress of civilization from being a trickle has become a torrent. There was no particular thing at that time to bother as to whether the nation or the state had control of the corporations. They were easy to control. Now, however, the exact reverse is the case, and remember I say 'corporations.' I do not say merely trusts, merely combinations of corporations or corporations under certain peculiar conditions. For instance, some time ago the attorney general took action against a certain trust. There has been considerable discussion as to whether the trust aimed at would not seek to get out from under the law by becoming a single corporation. Now, I want laws to enable us to deal with it no matter what shape it takes. I want to see the government to be able to get at it definitely, so that the action of the government cannot be evaded by any turning within or without federal or state statutes.

"At present we have really no efficient control over a big corporation which does business in more than one state. Frequently the corporation has nothing whatever to do with the state in which it is incorporated except to get incorporated, and its actions may be taken in entirely different communities, communities which may object very much to the methods of incorporation in the state named. I do not think you can get action by any state, action by all the states, that will give us satisfactory control of the trusts or big corporations, and the result is at present that we have a great, powerful, artificial creation which has no creator to which it is responsible.

"The creator creates it, and then it goes and operates somewhere else, and there is no interest to the creator to deal with it. It does not do anything in that state. It operates outside entirely. Of course it is a mere truism that the corporation is the creature of the state, that the state is sovereign. Now, I want to make a real and not a nominal sovereign, to have some one sovereign to which the corporation shall be really, really and not nominally, responsible.

"At present if we pass laws nobody can tell whether they will amount to anything. Now, that has two bad effects. In the first place the corporation becomes indifferent to the lawmaking body, and in the next place the lawmaking body gets into that most pernicious custom of passing a law not with reference to what will be done under it, but with reference to its effects on the opinions of the voters.

"That is a bad thing. When any body of lawmakers passes a law not solely with reference to whether that law will do good or ill, but with the knowledge that not much will come of it and yet that perhaps the people as a whole will likely think was good on the statute books, it does not speak well for the lawmakers, and it does not speak very well for the people either.

"Now, what I hope to see is power given to the national legislature which shall make the control real. It would be an excellent thing if we could have all the states act on somewhat similar lines, so that it would be unnecessary for the national government to act, but all of you know perfectly well the states will not act on somewhat similar lines.

"The first thing we want is the publicity, and I don't mean publicity as a favor by some corporations, I mean it as a right from all corporations affected by the law. I want publicity as to the essential facts in which the public has an interest. I want the knowledge given to the accredited representatives of the people of facts on which those representatives can, if they see fit, base their actions later. The publicity itself would cure many evils. The light of day is a great deterrent to wrongdoing. If the mere fact of being able to put out nakedly statements which would show the condition of things to be wrong, it would go a long distance toward curing that wrong, and even where it did not cure it it would make the path evident by which to cure it.

"We want to be striving to see what is good and what is bad, to know what the facts are and to be able to shape our course accordingly. Some of these things I have said can be done now. A good deal is being done now. As far as the antitrust laws go they will be enforced. Now, no suit will be undertaken for the sake of seeming to undertake it.

"Every suit that is undertaken will be begun because the great lawyer and upright man whom we are so fortunate as to have as attorney general, Mr. Knox, believes that there is a violation of the law which we can get at, and when the suit is undertaken it won't be compromised, excepting on the basis that the government wins.

"Of course, gentlemen, no laws amount to anything unless they are administered honestly and fearlessly. You have got to have the administration before the law amounts to anything.

"Then I believe, I am not going to say I am sure of it, but I believe it is possible to frame national legislation which shall give us more power than we have now, at any rate over corporations doing an interstate business. I cannot guarantee that, because in the past it has more than once happened that we have got laws on the statute books which those who made them intended to mean one thing and when they came up for decision it was found that the intention had not been successfully put into effect. But I believe that additional legislation can be had. I think we have got to make up our minds to the fact that if it proves on effort that we have not under the constitution as it is given the national administration sufficient power in dealing with these great corporations then no matter what our reverence to the past may be our duty to the present and to the future will force us to see that more power is conferred upon the national administration.

"And when the power has been conferred it will rest with the national government to exercise it. At present we are going to do the best we can with strawless bricks, but remember they are bound to be strawless.

"And finally, gentlemen and women of New England, men and women of a state that represents so much, that has always represented so much that is highest and best in the spirit of true Americanism, I ask you to remember that after all that has been done, that can be done by governmental action, after you have exercised your best wisdom and exercised it in the most resolute and lofty spirit, after you have given all the needed power to the national government and after that power has been exercised in the wisest and most resolute fashion, it will still mean that what has been done is not to make everything smooth for each man, but simply to give a better opportunity for each man to work out his own future on good terms for himself."

Movement of Pennsylvania Troops.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 26.—It is learned that a portion of the First battalion of the Twelfth regiment, stationed here, will be moved into Lansford to protect nonunion men on their way to work. Joseph King, a nonunion man, went to Lansford and swore out a warrant for the arrest of a dozen strikers, who, he alleges, threw a lariat over him while he was on his way to work and held him a prisoner until he was rescued by the coal and iron police. With one exception all the men arrested are foreigners.

STOLEN BY GYPSIES.

Sixteen Years Ago—Doesn't Know Who She Is.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The police have received a letter from Alfred B. Williams, editor of the Richmond News of Richmond, Va., asking that an effort be made to find the parents or family of a sixteen-year-old girl who has been abandoned by gypsies near Richmond and who is believed to have been stolen by them when a small child. The letter contained a clipping from a Richmond newspaper giving the girl's story.

She was deserted by a band of gypsies, one of whom she says was known as Stanley. She knows no name for herself but "Lucky," and it is supposed that she was stolen from home when but three or four years old, probably from New Jersey or Pennsylvania. The clipping said that owing to a dispute two of the gypsies had concerning the girl they decided to leave her behind them.

Lynching in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 26.—Tom Jones, the negro who outraged Mrs. William Smith near Seven Springs, on Friday, has been lynched. He was caught by a posse of three, taken to Mrs. Smith's house and identified. He confessed his crime and gave up a razor he had stolen from his victim's husband. He was put in a barn to await the arrival of the sheriff, but ten men disguised as negroes came from the woods and demanded him. Officer Walker refused to give him up and was shot in the neck. The men battered down the door, put Jones on a tram car, ran it into the woods, bound him to a log and fired a volley of shot at him. He was not killed by the first fire, and another volley ended his misery. Buttons and pieces of cloth were taken as souvenirs from his body. His victim will live, but is horribly disfigured.

French Premier to Resign.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—In a dispatch from Paris the correspondent there of the Daily Chronicle says M. Combes, the French premier, has announced his intention of resigning on the reopening of the chamber of deputies. M. Combes considers that he has fulfilled the mission intrusted to him by President Loubet in carrying out the law relating to unauthorized congregationist schools, and, according to the correspondent, he will now advise the president to call M. Rouvier, minister of finance, or M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the previous premier, to succeed him. M. Combes assumed the duties of premier early last June.

A Georgia Town Destroyed.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 26.—The principal part of Ruskin, a little town seven miles west of Waycross, has been burned. The town was formerly the home of the Ruskin commonwealth, a colony of socialists from Tennessee, and it is now owned by J. G. Steffes and two other former members of the Ruskin commonwealth. The large building used as a hotel and officers' headquarters of the socialist colony, one store, the postoffice building and a residence were burned. There were no facilities for fighting the fire in the town. There was no insurance on any of the buildings or contents.

TO SEARCH FOR POLE

Ziegler Has Another Expedition on the Way.

HE IS DISSATISFIED WITH BALDWIN

The Frithjof Will Not Wait For the American Explorer, but Will Continue an Independent Investigation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Always skeptical as to the success of Explorer Evelyn Baldwin to reach the north pole, William Ziegler, the millionaire who spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on Baldwin's expedition, had two strings to his bow.

He has announced that he has fitted out another expedition totally independent of that of Baldwin and that he had given its leader instructions to "reach the pole at all hazards."

This second expedition is on the steamship Frithjof, now thought to be at Camp Ziegler, Alger Island, Franz Josef Land.

Who the leader of the new party is is a mystery. Mr. Ziegler will not tell beyond the fact it is one in whom he has the utmost confidence.

Mr. Ziegler has been reticent concerning the trial of Baldwin, and he has hitherto refused to talk of it for publication. He is far from satisfied with the reports the explorer has sent of his failure to reach the coveted pole.

Although Baldwin's return was announced on Aug. 1 and there has been ample time for a written communication with full particulars of the expedition to reach New York, no such communication has been received.

Mr. Ziegler is a business man, and he summed up the whole situation when he said:

"Baldwin's messages are very vague."

There is another and later development in the history of the expedition which is causing Mr. Ziegler no end of anxiety, and that is the long silence of his former secretary and confidential adviser, William S. Champ. Champ left here in July to take the Frithjof to Camp Ziegler. Since leaving Tromso he has had time enough to make the trip and return twice over.

His silence is beginning to look serious, and Mr. Ziegler is anxious about him.

"Has the return of Baldwin altered your determination to reach the pole? Have you any disposition to throw it up and recall Baldwin?" Mr. Ziegler was asked.

"Certainly not," he replied. "I will get there if it is possible. Baldwin knows that he needn't come back to me until he reaches the pole. I told him so before he went, and I think he understands that part of it thoroughly.

"The truth is that Baldwin is only one string to my bow. On the Frithjof with Champ I sent a fully equipped party, entirely independent of Baldwin. I gave them very explicit instructions. If they didn't find Baldwin, they were to go forward on their own hook. They are under a competent leader, in whom I have confidence.

"Baldwin is lying still in Norway, and, if I am correctly informed, it is too late in the season for him to reach Franz Josef Land this fall. He has planned to go back next summer and make his trial in the spring of 1904. If everything has gone well with the Frithjof party, they are now in Franz Josef Land. They will pass the winter there, after establishing themselves as far north as they can get.

"They will not wait for Baldwin, but will make their expedition independently under the man I have chosen to lead them. If they reach the pole, well and good. The man who gets there is the man who will get the glory.

"Baldwin will receive orders to proceed to Camp Ziegler as soon as he can next summer. He will remain there through the winter and will go north to relieve the other expedition or to find the pole in the spring of 1904. If things turn out that way, Baldwin's expedition will in a sense be a relief expedition for the one carried up on the Frithjof."

"Who is the leader of the expedition on the Frithjof?"

"I do not care to give his name at the present time. I will only say that he is a perfectly competent man, in whom I have great confidence," replied Mr. Ziegler.

"Is it Mr. Champ?"

"No. Mr. Champ will bring the Frithjof back to Tromso. When he gets back, I shall at least learn the full particulars of the Baldwin trip. You see, the way things stand now I don't even know what instructions Baldwin left at the camp in Franz Josef Land. When I have full information, I shall know better how to act. But you can put it down I shall reach the pole if it can be reached."

Manila Editors Sentenced.

MANILA, Aug. 26.—Frederick Dorr, the proprietor, and Edward O'Brien, the editor, of Freedom, have each been sentenced to six months in Bilibid prison and fined $1,000 each for libeling Benito Legarda, a native member of the civil commission, by publishing a certain article in Freedom. Both Dorr and O'Brien have also been convicted of sedition, but have not yet been sentenced on this count. The cases have been appealed to the supreme court of the islands.

Suit Against City of Kingston.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Former Senator Jacob Rice has commenced an action in the supreme court against the city of Kingston for $228,253.73, which he claims is due him for constructing a septic sewer system. The original contract was for $135,000. He was allowed for extra work, but the difference between the amounts claimed and allowed is $50,000.

COMING EVENTS.

Aug. 31—A. F. Irvine, of New Haven, will speak again at Y. M. C. A. meeting at 4 o'clock. Subject "A Railway Journey."

TROLLEY ACCIDENTS.

Woman is known for her ease and carriage, but the number of trolley accidents convinces one that there is an exception. This is when she alights from a trolley car. You have probably noticed that in many cases a woman pays little heed to her own safety in this respect.

Almost invariably a woman will step from the car sidewise or backwards. Fortunately, however, she waits until the car comes to a full stop, but the testimony in countless damage suits shows that negligence in getting off the car is the direct cause of the accident upon which the claim is based. Frequently trolley conductors and motormen are at fault, and it must be said that they are held responsible for many accidents for which they are not blameable. If a woman would consider her own safety and wait until the car stops and then alight in the direction in which it has been moving the number of such accidents would be reduced to a minimum.

A word to you fellow citizen and able Manager Besler. In another column will be found a praiseworthy communication regarding the rule adopted by the Jersey Central, which has made wonderful strides for the betterment under your direction. This rule prohibits laborers from removing the old discarded railroad ties. Under this order the ties are burned along the tracks. Coal is expensive but the poor must have heat and warmth. Allowing them to use the ties will be a great benefit. It is taken for granted that the order would not have been issued without good reason, but why not waive that aside while the coal strike lasts?

There is a vast difference in the opinions expressed by great men regarding the present coal strike. Russell Sage, the financier, attacks J. P. Morgan, the captain of industry, for not settling the difficulty at once, while Abram Hewitt, former mayor of New York, attacks John Mitchell, the leader of the mining host, and arraigns the strikers. Henry C. Potter, the prelate, seeks arbitration and therein is the keynote of settlement.

According to an exchange the general manager of a department store in Newark says: "We put the big portion of our appropriation into the daily newspapers, because the returns are quick and entirely satisfactory. It is difficult to trace returns from advertising, except that done in the newspapers."

Atlantic City has been heard from again. This time it's a whale story. According to a dispatch a large school of whales were sighted the other day by an incoming vessel. Not only this, but the ship in question struck one of these monsters and cut it in half. In the absence of a sea serpent story this will do.

Devery employed a young fellow with literary talent to act as his secretary and then wondered why the reporters did not want the "interviews" drafted by him. The scribes preferred the classical English from the tongue of Bill, himself, no doubt.

That theatrical naval battle off New England's coast was successful from a theoretical standpoint, but fortunately the country will be saved from a dispute over credit for the victory.

To deter others as well as to punish the offenders themselves, the Scotch Plains justice will do well to inflict severe penalties on those automobile speed violators, should they be found guilty.

While cruising just off Cape May Sunday State Senator Reed was in the violent storm, but he's used to that sort of thing.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For the best groceries go to George Kirch, Liberty street. His line of goods are the best that money can buy, and the prices are set at a figure to attract the popular trade.

For delicious pastry, wholesome bread and pies of the variety "mother used to make," consult with John Wirth, the Front street baker. One order will surely result in another.

The devotees of "My Lady Nicotine" are daily increasing. For good cigars of aromatic flavor, smokes that will drive away the blues, try the Pinar del Rio or the Yara, made by M. C. Dobbins, North avenue.

You may be able to tell the time by the sun in the day like the antideluvians, but if you are a night owl and know nothing of astronomy you want a good watch and you can get it at L. Moraller & Sons, Park avenue.

The Plainfield Art Store in the Y. M. C. A. building is prepared to do any and all kinds of picture framing. Their prices at present are just half those charged by other firms. A full line of artists' materials always on hand.

For a good soap, intended for bath and toilet purposes or for cutaneous diseases, nothing compares with the hard water brand sold by R. J. Shaw. It makes a thick lather and after being used leaves a feeling of freshness that is delightful.

If you will allow Willett & Son, of Park avenue, to fit your feet with shoes you are sure to have comfort and besides your shoe bill will not be so large. This firm's stock of shoes for men, women and children is one of the most complete in New Jersey.

Putnam & DeGraw, the hustling and enterprising dry goods merchants, are enjoying a constantly increasing trade. Their stock of goods is just the kind that appeals to the people and their prices always meet the average pocketbook. Examine their goods and be satisfied.

Coal has been at a premium this summer, but as yet the trust has failed to get hold of the ice business in Plainfield. That is why McDonough Brothers are selling the pure article at a low figure. You can keep cool at a reasonable price, if you cannot get coal so cheap.

For anything in the drug line, toilet articles, soda water, as well as Hyler's celebrated confection, go to L. W. Randolph, the prescription druggist on West Front street. He studies to please his patrons and always gives satisfaction Prompt service given at all times, day or night.

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded is one of the maxims of the A. and P. Tea Company's store at 137 and 139 West Front street. This large concern which has a world-wide reputation, handles nothing but standard goods and retails them at the lowest market price. Handsome premiums given with many articles.

P. G. DuBois, of West Front street, keeps the only store of his kind in Plainfield. Oriental delicacies in wide variety and only one quality—the best. He was formerly with Vantine, of New York, and he sells the kind of goods to be found at the New York house. His line of Japanese goods is very attractiv . He also sells the best teas and coffees on the market.

LETTERS TO THE PRESS.

The Editor is Not Responsible for the Views Expressed in This Column.

Hard to Understand.

To the Editor of the Daily Press.—The officials of the New Jersey Central have issued orders that all old ties removed from the roadbed shall be burned and not sold or given away. The laboring men were formerly allowed to use them for firewood and they cannot understand why such an order should be put into effect at this time when coal is eight and nine dollars per ton. Observer.

THEATRICAL.

Grace George was the subject of a recent illustrated article in the Parisian journal, "Les Femmes." This periodical characterized her impersonation of Gilberte in "Frou Frou" as "a completely wonderful performance."

For Worthy Object.

The combined church prayer meeting and Christian Endeavor Society service will be held tomorrow evening in the Park Avenue Baptist church. Miss Sara Curry, of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, will be present and give a talk concerning her work. She will bring two children to sing. A cordial invitation is extended to all. The collection will be for the Netherwood Fresh Air Home.

An Opportunity.

Warren chapel's annual excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove takes place, Thursday. If you haven't visited the popular twin resorts this season, this will be your last opportunity to do so at a popular rate. Train leaves Plainfield at 8 o'clock and the return home commences at 6 in the evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Manager Johnston has closed out three games for Saturday and Monday (Labor Day). On Saturday the strong "Celluloids," of Newark, will be the visitors, and on Labor Day the Y. M. C. A., probable winners of the City League, will be the attraction both morning and afternoon. The latter two games should be a great drawing card as the Y. M. C. A. boys have had to put up fast ball to get hold of first place in the City League race.

Charles Grieb, of Newark, who was arrested for speeding his automobile on Mountain avenue Sunday afternoon failed to appear before Judge Clark for a hearing last night as agreed. Unless something is heard from him within a few days steps will probably be taken to have a warrant served upon him.

A merry party from Elizabeth enjoyed a dance and collation at Ivamy's pavilion last night, making the journey by trolley. Dancing was indulged in until near the midnight hour when refreshments were served, after which the happy gathering indulged in tripping the light fantastic again until after 1 a. m.

Wm. Boyle, who was charged by his grandfather, James Riley, with assault and battery, was arraigned in Judge Clark's court Saturday night. The evidence presented held the prisoner under bonds for appearance before the September Grand Jury.

book, turns with pride to the year 1877, when there were over 10,000 people present. Although the annual picnic has grown in fame and importance since the, then attendance of 1877 has never been equalled.

Rev. Charles S. Woodruff, of Montclair, N. J., who was the speaker of the day at the first reunion in 1876, will again be present to address the Smiths and their friends this year. The Smith family is now widely scattered, and many who attend tomorrow will come from distant points. Some dwell by the Atlantic, and from there to the Pacific, and from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico they have made their homes.

May Wilkes & 3-months-old Colt For Sale.

Here is a chance to get a great pair right. May Wilkes is a great road mare, safe for ladies and children to drive, and a grandly bred one.

She is by Madison Wilkes, 2:28, dam by a son of Volunteer, and her colt is very large and a grandly proportioned one. He is by Sidnut 2:25. Sidnut is by Sidney 2:19¾, dam by Nutwood, the sire of the dam of Arion, two-year-old, 2:10¾, that sold as a two-year-old for $125,000. Sidnut, the sire of this colt, has six at one-year-old who took records from 2:22 to 2:26.

If this colt is taken care of he may make a good yearling. The reason that I sell these two is that I have five and cannot pay the attention this colt should get.

GOOD WORK COUNTS.

New System of Promotions for the Pension Bureau.

Commissioner Ware Announces That Merit Alone Is to Be Considered in the Selection of Men for Positions.

Pension Commissioner Eugene F. Ware has adopted a system of promotions for his bureau which he intends to make a permanent feature. The system is explained in the following letter of instructions to a special committee on promotions:

"I want you to pick out the best men you can find in the bureau for each place, three from which I can select. I want to promote for merit. I want to establish an incentive. Therefore you will not overlook the quiet man who attends to his duty. Do not forget the man who has no statesman interceding for him. Remember the old soldier and prefer him when his merits and capability are equal. Give no precedence to political pull, and do not let religion or nativity cut any figure. When merits are equal, and only when equal, take a republican instead of a democrat."

In explaining his system, Mr. Ware said to a New York Times correspondent:

"My first lesson on assuming this office was that the most remarkable pressure was brought to bear on the commissioner of pensions to appoint men to positions in the bureau who had had no experience in the office. I had two $1,800 positions to fill, and I hoped to postpone the selection of men for those places until I had fully familiarized myself with the office conditions. But I found I had to make those appointments and make them soon. I think there were over 400 men presented to me with the strongest indorsements for those two jobs.

"Well, nearly all of the applicants were well fitted for the work, but as I looked about the office I saw a good many other men who had worked here for years, who had developed the most valuable knowledge and experience here—many of them old soldiers—and I made up my mind that if anyone was made an $1,800 clerk it should be the man who had proved his ability and his steadiness right here under fire, so to speak. I'll appoint outsiders as places for them may be created, but they will have to go in at the bottom of the ladder.

HON. EUGENE F. WARE.
(A Firm Exponent of Civil Service That Assures Reform.)

"That was my first principle—that no outsider should be jumped over the heads of efficient clerks already in the office. My second principle was this: That men in the office should be promoted, not jumped half a dozen grades at once, and should be promoted entirely on merit. Those two 'dictums,' so to speak, are the basis of this new system of promotions.

"I meet my chiefs of divisions, assistant chiefs, chief clerk and deputy commissioners every week. We have a little congress here with about 40 members. This system was evolved little by little by that congress. I explained my purpose as to promotions. I told them all that merit, tried and proved, was to be the only consideration. Then, when the first vacancy arose, I appointed a special committee of three chiefs of division to serve as a select committee on promotions in that one instance.

"Those gentlemen acted exactly according to my instructions. They sent me a list of men from whom I could choose. Every man on that list was of the highest possible grade. A good many were democrats. The democrats feel that when head-lopping is to be done his head will be the first to go. So he has two incentives to become one of the best clerks in the office.

"I made the promotions with this help from the selection committee of division chiefs. Then when I gave each man his commission I gave him a letter along this line:

"'This is to say that you do not owe your promotion to political influence or to the commissioner or to your friends. You were promoted solely on account of merit, and I hope that while you remain in the bureau you will continue the course which gave you this promotion.'"

Family of Heavyweights.

Three remarkable children are possessed by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Egert, of Newark, N. J. Harry, aged four and one-half years, weighs 185 pounds; Esther, aged two and a half years, tips the scale at 120 pounds, and Minnie, a baby of ten months, weighs 85 pounds.

DAVIS MEMORIAL ARCH.

To Be Erected in Richmond, Va., in Honor of the President of the Late Confederacy.

The arch to be erected in Monroe park, Richmond, Va., to the memory of Jefferson Davis was designed by Louis A. Gudebrod, of New York.

The completed arch will have a height of 65 feet, a width of 70 feet and a breadth of 24 feet. The archway is to be 25 feet wide and 40 feet high in the clear. The entire arch is to be constructed of finest southern granite, and to have an interior stairway leading to the top. The sculptor has adopted the Corinthian style of architecture as being most in harmony with the prevailing style in the south, as well as especially adapted to express the purposes of the arch.

The intended ornamentation has been only generally expressed in the model submitted, the smaller details of ornamental work being too difficult to execute in so small a model. The ornamentation involved in the various inscriptions in raised letters are absent; these in themselves will serve as to further embellish the arch.

DAVIS MEMORIAL ARCH.
(To Be Erected at Richmond, Va., by Daughters of Confederacy.)

Two bronze figures are to be placed on either end of the arch, and will be symbolical of Fame and the "Lost Cause," and are to be more than twice life size.

The sculptor has endeavored to express in his work the life of Jefferson Davis, as well as to perpetuate the ideals and principles which he represented. To this end the two bronze statues represent Fame and the "Lost Cause."

In the spandrels, two on each side of the arch, will be placed four bas-reliefs, representing Glory, Truth, Justice and Valor. These further illustrate Mr. Davis' life as connected with his people. The figure Glory represents the glory won by Jefferson Davis and the people of the confederate states during the most trying period of their history. The figure Truth represents their united devotion to the cause which they championed. Justice represents the unswerving belief in the righteousness of their cause and the justice of the struggle. Valor represents the many deeds of heroism of Jefferson Davis and his people both in their homes and in the field. The 13 seals in the attic represent the confederate states the central one being the seal of Virginia while upon the five low relief panels in the attic and upon the two panels in the archway will be inscribed such tributes to Jefferson Davis as may be chosen by the committee.

FAMOUS CHURCHMAN.

Bishop John Lancaster Spalding, of Peoria, Who May Be Created Archbishop of Chicago.

Rt. Rev. John Lancaster Spalding, who is the senior suffragan bishop in the archiepiscopal see of Chicago, and is being favorably talked of to succeed Archbishop Feehan, has been for 25 years bishop of Peoria. He was born in Lebanon, Ky., in 1840, and as a boy was a favorite of his uncle, Martin J. Spalding, then bishop of Louisville and afterward archbishop of Baltimore. The present bishop of Peoria studied in Rome as well as in America. His first charge as a priest was at the cathedral in Louisville, whence he went to New York city. On May 1, 1877, he was appointed bishop of Peoria, then a widely scattered diocese, but now, through his labors, comparatively compact and much more important. Bishop Spalding's writings have made him known all over the world as a scholar and a literary man; he is especially interested in education, and has written much on the subject. He lays special stress on cultivation of the moral and emotional qualities, believing that prevailing education is too exclusively intellectual.

The Yucca Palm.

Perhaps the most unique industry in the United States is the manufacture of artificial limbs from the yucca palm. Yucca brevifolia, which is really not a palm, but which belongs to the lily tribe and is the largest of that family, is the most beautiful of desert growths and is found on the Mojave desert. The yucca (yucca brevifolia) sometimes attains a height of 40 feet. The wood is light and pithy, though capable of bearing a heavy weight. For these reasons it is especially adapted to the manufacture of artificial limbs. The trunk grows from one to two feet in thickness and flourishes in some of the most abandoned portions of the desert. Short sections of another variety, whose interior is light and soft, being filled with a pith somewhat more elastic and firmer in fiber than the pith of a corn stalk, are sold as pin cushions. The yucca is usually a solitary tree, but on the Mojave desert is a beautiful grove extending many miles. The Spanish dagger (yucca filimentosa) is a smaller but better known representative of this strange family.—Detroit Free Press.

Willie and the Coffee.

Every present-generation Ann Arbor youth and many of the "old grads" of Michigan university know Tuttle's—"Tutt's" it is familiarly called—the coffee house, tobacco shop, and restaurant par excellence of the little college town. Most everybody, too, knows "Willie," the winged mercury of the establishment.

One day—so the story runs—some of "the fellows" were in Tutt's for coffee. They gave their order and presently Willie shuffled in bearing the cups.

One of the men noticed something amiss and remarked about it: "Why, Willie, you've got your finger in my coffee."

Willie looked down at the finger in question, left it where it was, and lifted the cup toward the table.

"O,'" said he, blandly, "it don't matter. It ain't hot."—Detroit Free Press.

Chloroform and Gaslight.

In general the profession in this country is united in the belief that ether is a much more satisfactory anaesthetic than chloroform. A not inconsiderable number, however, prefer chloroform, particularly under especial circumstances, and some operators who have no well-equipped clinics at their command tend to use chloroform when working by artificial light, and particularly in ill-equipped houses. It is, however, known by most pharmacologists and by many others that chloroform has dangers when used by artificial light, but this fact is by no means generally recognized. Persons have been killed by the decomposition of chloroform by gaslight. It has been attempted to overcome the danger of the production of this form of poisoning by placing soda or borax solution or milk of lime in the operating-room, but these methods have been shown to be wholly insufficient.—Philadelphia Medical Journal.

Why the Republic Is Safe.

"When you think of our glorious republic," said the apprehensive patriot, "are you not constrained to look back upon Rome and tremble lest we meet a similar fate?"

"Not a bit," said the plain citizen. "Rome did very well, considering its opportunities. But Rome didn't have the newspapers, and telegraph lines, and railway companies that we have. If anyone should start up any tyranny operation here his picture would be in every household, and the police would have him arrested before he could get into the next county. Cheer up. The republic is safe."—Washington Star.

The Successful Hostess

"SHE is one in a thousand," said the young matron appreciatively.

"What do you consider the chief requisite?" asked the engaged girl, with an eye to the future.

The young matron laughed. "Tact in the first place, tact in the second place, tact in the third place," she said.

"Oh, I suppose that means not bringing the wrong people together and saying the right thing at the right time! There is one woman I know who certainly can't do that. A guest of hers stepped up to make her adieus and say what a pleasant time she had had, and what do you suppose the blundering creature remarked complacently? 'Yes, I thought you would be glad to meet some nice people!' Fancy! You never could persuade the other woman that she didn't mean it maliciously, and she never put her foot in that house again."

"That's what happens to the woman who tries to entertain and makes a bad business of it. She sows her path in life with enemies instead of friends."

"When Jack and I are married," said the engaged girl, blushing, "we're just going to take a small house a bit out of town, so we can't attempt anything pretentious, but our little home is going to be wide open to all our friends just the same"—

"And that's one secret of being a good hostess," interrupted the matron—"to make people feel that you are always at home to them, not merely that the house is open on certain state occasions, when ice cream and cakes are served, and that on all others it is much better for them to stay away because of the disturbance their unexpected presence might cause in the household routine. No; the successful hostess is one who makes her guests welcome, no matter what the conditions. If it is Monday morning and she is helping her one maid, she will simply run down in her little cotton gown and not even excuse herself for the fact, and in the afternoon, if a friend drops in, she will urge her to stay for dinner without making any extra ceremony of the affair. That's the kind of house where people like to call. And if you live out of town," she went on enthusiastically, "you have a great chance. You can get up innumerable Sunday to Monday parties in the English fashion, which is becoming so popular here. Every one tries to get out of town over Sunday, and the acquaintance of a hospitable young woman with an attractive house is eagerly sought after. And this sort of entertaining is not expensive—a ping-pong board, golf, a pleasant drive through country roads. But, above all, don't ruin yourself providing an expensive table. The usual family fare, well cooked and appetizing, is good enough."

BRINGING THE WRONG PEOPLE TOGETHER.

"That's it," said the engaged girl. "When I go to see the Millers, who are really in quite straitened circumstances, I have a much nicer time than when I am invited by those horribly rich Bensons. Now, I know why—the Millers make me feel as if I were one of the family, and with the Bensons I am always labeled 'Visitor.'"

"Yes, that's the whole secret," returned the matron—"make your guest feel she is no trouble at all. Entertain so cleverly that you don't give the impression of entertaining. Don't map out a whole lot of events and drag your guest through them. Give her the opportunity to choose her own pleasures. Above all, be thoroughly simple and at your ease, and you will find that your guest will become so too."

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

He was a small man, looking not unlike an over-worked clerk, quick and nervous in his movements, with a long pale face and sharp eyes that almost glared from beneath bushy eyebrows.

"Want me, Super?" he asked, in a low voice. "Mac," was a man not given to eloquence or long speeches.

"I am thinking that this department—yours, mine, everybody's, is in a bad state," said the chief.

"Ah," but the little man's face was unmoved.

"Look at that stack of reports there," exclaimed the other, pointing to his desk. "Mostly made up of the hopeless attempts to find the fellow who is at the head of most of the robberies that have been committed in the city during the past year. And not one of our people has been able to get even a clew to his whereabouts. Now, that fellow must be caught or the department will stand forever disgraced. Never since I have been connected with the force have we been confronted with so many failures. Why, if things go on this way you and I will have to get out, that's all."

"I'm sure I wish it was different," sighed Mac, shifting nervously from one foot to the other. "After all, it may not be the work of one man. You know a thief gets a reputation, and then every other crime of note is set down to his credit, or discredit. Just like in our own business. We often get credit in the papers for unearthing a criminal, when it may be, like as not, entirely the work of one of our men."

Inspector Barnes looked at his companion to see if there was any personal insinuation intended, but the little man was busy eying the glass case containing criminal curiosities.

"Well, if these robberies are not the work of the same man, why don't you catch the ones who are guilty," he said, in a voice of exasperation. "I tell you I still believe there is one behind it all, for these affairs bear the same stamp. It is, of course, possible that some one else has copied his methods. Whoever he is, he is a clever man, and we have not heard of the like since the days of George Leonidas Leslie. If I were not sure that Leslie was very dusty, I should believe that he had a hand in these matters. Now, Mac, why don't you catch him?"

"Why, indeed?" with a smile, "Why don't I capture a rainbow to make ribbons out of it for my wife? I tell you, Super, we are doing all we can. We have had some men who work for him in hand, but, though industriously pumped, they know little more about him than we do. To call the man a 'shadow' is wrong, for he never stays as long as a shadow in one place. But I have an idea."

"You are fortunate—so early in the morning."

"It is this, that the head of these affairs is not to be found in the under world, but higher up. For all we know, one who passes as a gentleman."

"That I have thought of myself," said the chief, thoughtfully. "Perhaps we have been working in the wrong direction all along. Well, I can only urge you to do your best, or we shall find ourselves disliked by the press and the public and in general disrepute."

"I'll try a new tack," and the detective brought his teeth together with a snap. Don't think I haven't worked hard over this cursed affair. It worries me quite as much as it does you," but the chief did not seem to be listening, was leaning back in his chair as if half asleep, and the other, seeing him so preoccupied, took the opportunity to slip out of the room.

The closing of the door roused the chief from his reverie, for he sat up and looked around as if wondering to find himself alone. Just then a timid tap sounded on the door and the attendant entered.

"Well, what do you want?" asked the chief.

"There's a heavy swell outside who says he thinks he has news of importance, 'bout this last robbery on de aveny."

"Some other fool-crank, I suppose, to take up my time," growled Barnes; then, settling back in his chair, with an air of resignation, "well, tell him to come in."

The visitor tripped in gayly, as if bent on a pleasure mission. He was rather overdressed and wore a gardenia in his lapel. His face was smiling, but Barnes in an ill-humor frowned that down.

"You have some information—be brief. Sit down," motioning toward a chair. The visitor dropped into the seat.

"Inspector Barnes, I believe you are aware that a man known under the sobriquet of Will o' the Wisp recently escaped, with others, from the Auburn prison."

Barnes nodded stiffly.

"I have reason to know that he is still in this city. That he arrived here a few days ago."

"Are you sure of that?" eying his visitor keenly. "Our men have been looking for him, but I had no news of his whereabouts."

"Well, you see an amateur sometimes can beat a professional."

"But how do you know you have seen the man—do you know him personally?"

"Well, hardly, not being in the habit of associating with such people," with a laugh.

"Explain yourself."

"I need not go into details—in fact, I prefer not to. This man, it happens, called on us some time ago. He holds a paper—a document, which, if made public, would do a great injury to our family. Now, he could only have got hold of this paper through a fellow-prisoner—one Martin Frale—to whom it was confided many years ago."

"I see. Frale was the man who was killed when a crowd of them escaped from Auburn," and the chief examined a paper which he drew from one of the pigeon-holes above his desk. "This Frale and Will, it seems, had struck up a great friendship in prison. Frale, I learn, saved his life from the assault of another man when they were working in the shoe shop. Since that time they were like brothers. It's rather a pity that this Frale was shot; because, you see, he had but a short time more to serve, if he had not attempted to escape." He replaced the paper in his desk, and looked to his visitor as if waiting for him to speak.

"By the way, you have not told me your name," as the other maintained silence.

"To be sure, I forgot that. Of course, I don't want to appear conspicuously in the matter."

"You need not."

"My name is Frank Ellison."

"And you think that perhaps this escaped prisoner may be the head of these recent robberies. The supposition is not a bad one, for when he was at large he conducted some pretty clever jobs."

He took a memorandum pad from his desk, and dipped his pen into the ink, at the same time assuming an attitude of attention.

"Now, then, where is this place where our man can be found?"

"There are reasons why I cannot tell you as yet," said Ellison.

The chief dropped his pen on the desk angrily.

"Did you come here to have fun with the department?"

"Nothing of the kind." And the visitor looked anxiously toward the door.

"Then explain yourself, and briefly."

"I must arrange a meeting with this man—if I can."

"What for?" snapped Barnes.

"It must be part of our bargain. I first of all wish to secure possession of this document. It would injure us if this fellow should be arrested and that paper in his hands. He would make it public, and that would be a poor reward for what I intend to do."

Barnes examined his visitor from head to foot carefully. For all the flippant, foppish air of the man, he felt when he looked into his eyes that he was far from being the weak character he appeared to be. That he was a man of strong passions and impulses, and not inclined to be overscrupulous.

"So you want to make a bargain with the police, eh?"

"You can put it in that light, if you please," replied Ellison, calmly.

"And if we refuse——"

"Why, then, you will have to find the man for yourself, that is all," and the other laughed, despite the superintendent's frowning face.

"What is the paper you wish to secure—you can speak to me in perfect confidence?" said Barnes.

"I cannot tell you that."

"But if I demand that you tell me," for there was something about the manner of the man before him that roused his anger, and he was in a bad humor, anyway, that day.

"My answer would be the same," said Ellison, and as he said this he rose.

COURTS LADY VILLIERS.

Son of William Waldorf Astor Wants to Marry Noted British Society Favorite.

Lady Edith Villiers, one of the bright and shining stars of English society, has, it is said, received a proposal of marriage from Waldorf Astor, the son of William Waldorf Astor, who renounced his American citizenship and became a British subject. Lady Villiers is said to be hesitating between young Astor and a peer.

Lady Villiers, daughter of the earl of Clarendon, was born February 20, 1877. Her father, who is lord chamberlain of England, was born in 1846. He married, in 1876, Caroline, eldest daughter of the third earl of Normanton. Lord Clarendon was aid-de-camp to the queen in 1897. He has been lord lieutenant of Hertfordshire since 1892, and is honorary colonel and lieutenant colonel of the Hertfordshire yeomanry cavalry. In 1868 he contested the seat for the south division of Warwickshire, and sat in the house of commons as member for Brecon in 1869-70. His daughter, while not beautiful, is extremely bright and witty, and is much sought after.

Waldorf Astor is 24 years of age, and, unlike his father, is an American citizen. He has lived in England since his boyhood, and, both socially and politically, is English in his ways. He is a good oarsman, a fine horseman and is fond of hunting. He was born in New York, but knows little or nothing about his native country. He was a college friend of the son of Lord Rosebery.

Upon the death of his father young Waldorf Astor will inherit the greater part of an estate valued at $200,000,000.

THE PEOPLE OF ACRE.

Little Known Region of South America in Dispute Between Bolivia and Brazil.

The region of Acre, in northern Bolivia, has been disputed territory between that country and Brazil for nearly 50 years. The little country has come into public notice recently because Bolivia leased a part of the Acre region to an Anglo-American syndicate. Brazil objects to this business arrangement, and has threatened to break off diplomatic relations unless the contract is rescinded.

Except that the country is rich in rubber, little is known about it. It occupies a triangular space between the boundaries of Brazil and Bolivia, and Peru and Bolivia, with the Beni river as the base. The position of the sides of this triangle as interpreted by the two countries is the cause of the dispute. A traveler recently returned from Acre says, in the New York Tribune, of the natives that they are in many respects like the Bolivians, but that there are among them tribes of a lower class than can be found elsewhere in that part of the world. Some of them are said to be cannibals, and all are shy and averse to the invasion of their country by the whites. They are experts in the art of using darts, spears and javelins, and delight in practicing with these from the bush on intruders, whom they usually attack from behind.

NATIVE CHIEF OF ACRE.
(Wears No Clothes, But Has a Most Elaborate Headdress.)

They wear no clothes, but have elaborate headdresses made of feathers and beads, and the younger ones wear strings of coins and metal disks around their necks and wrists. There are no horses or mules in Acre, and the llama is used as the beast of burden.

BREAKS THE RECORD

Coming Croesus of America Is Just Two Years of Age.

Within That Short Time Baby Lampe Has Realized a Fortune of Nearly a Million Dollars in His Own Right.

He is a record breaker—this young man. Starting life literally without a rag to his back, young Fritoff Vladimar Lampe in two short years realized a fortune of nearly a million of dollars. Men of more mature years [illegible] all their lives to attain. [illegible] taken the young man in [illegible] whole life to acquire this [illegible] but as he celebrated his second birthday only the other day it is thus easily seen that he is the most precocious financier up to date.

Just two years ago, says the New York Herald, young Fritoff Vladimar Lampe—whose age at the time was a matter of no consequence at all, being figured in weeks—was the hero of the first christening party ever given in the Klondike. The immediate seat of the festivities was Anvil creek, but far and near all through the Klondike region the event was considered one of much importance and interest. From camp to camp the word spread like wildfire that a genuine, orthodox christening was to be held at Discovery claim and the invitations were all immediately and joyfully accepted.

From Cape Nome traveled the prospective godmother, Miss Margaret McKinney, daughter of Maj. John McKinney, of Seattle, one of the earliest and most successful pioneers in the Cape Nome gold fields. Miss McKinney, now prima donna of a comic opera company, is herself an extensive traveler in the far northwest, being one of the first women to cross Behring strait and sea.

The godfathers—for this farseeing baby, young Lampe, wisely concluded that he could not have too much of a good thing and so chose a plurality of

FRITOFF VLADIMAR LAMPE.
(Just Two Years of Age and a Millionaire in His Own Right.)

masculine support, considering, perhaps, that it would take three godfathers to equal one godmother of Miss McKinney's attractiveness—were three miners, the now famous trio who discovered gold on the Anvil and who organized the Pioneer Mining company—Messrs. Lindeburg, Lindebloom and Brynteson.

The day chosen for the christening was Sunday. It dawned radiantly cloudless—a typical Alaskan summer's day. The little settlement where the great event was to transpire awoke to the realization that it was a day of special import to the colony and that it must be up and doing in order to receive the expected guests.

In recalling the experiences of that eventful day Miss McKinney says:

"As the benediction was pronounced this young man looked up, his blue eyes full of baby wonder, his mouth wreathed in baby smiles, and softly cooed what seemed to us to be an 'Amen,' or, at least, signified his august babyship's approval of the ceremonies and appreciation of the honor of being the first child ever christened on Anvil creek."

Among the many gifts received by Master Lampe on this auspicious occasion were three staked claims in the Klondike, given by the three godfathers. These claims were considered nice little presents, the value of which was problematical. A pleasant feature of the gifts was the wide fields of speculation which they afforded. Perhaps they were not worth the paper on which the deeds were written—perhaps they represented a gold mine! Other presents afforded apparently just as much chance of surprising realization.

The unexpected happened! Within a short time these little claims "made good," developing first good returns, then great, and now have yielded considerably more than $700,000, all of which belongs solely and indisputably to Baby Lampe.

Almost a millionaire at the age of two years, in Master Fritoff Vladimar Lampe who knows but that we behold the coming Croesus of America!

When the claims yielded such rich harvest, the parents of Baby Lampe did not forget his godmother, Miss Margaret McKinney, but ordered made for her a necklace and pair of bangles composed of little gold nuggets taken from Baby Lampe's mines.

Dull Market for Horses.

A Missouri horse dealer who went to Washington to sell horses is reported to have explained his ill-luck of disposing of his animals as follows: "The people travel there on cars run by cable or electricity and don't need draft or roadsters; they ride on bicycles and automobiles and don't need fast trotters; they gamble by wire and don't need race horses, and the government is run entirely by jackasses, so there you are."

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

A baseball team from the Knights of Columbus Lodge, of this city, defeated the Elizabeth Council in a game at Linden, Sunday, by the score of 18 to 14. Doyle and Reinhart formed the battery for the locals.

Two teams representing the Hygiea and Watchung Ice Companies played the first of a series of three games, Sunday, at Watchung. The former won by a score of 12 to 11. Peterson and Ackor and Coddington and Titus were the opposing batteries.

"Teddy" Shortman's work in left field, in Saturday's Hope-Y. M. C. A. game stamped him as an all around player and a crackerjack. His catch of Egan's long drive and the quick return of the ball to second where Schoonmaker was caught, was one of the prettiest double plays made this season.

And now the borough firemen's team is after the scalp of the local policemen's nine. The North Plainfield fire fighters have a team which it is claimed only needs a chance to show what it can do and is trying to arrange games with the bluecoats. A series will probably be played before the season closes.

A remarkable exhibition of baseball was given by the Ingersolls, of Easton and the Pottsville team, at Easton, Saturday. Sixteen innings were played when the game was called on account of darkness with the score standing 2 to 2. During the progress of the game two triple and several wonderful double plays were made. Four hits were made on one side and three on the other.

Manager Muir and his band of invincibles will invade Hunterdon county, Labor Day, to go up against the High Bridge team. He asserts with confidence that he will return with a scalp. Next month he will take his team up the Hudson and play a series of games with some of the crack nines in the eastern section of New York State, including the one at Saugerties, the home of Center Fielder Franklin.

At last evening's meeting of the executive committee of the City Basbeall League, the umpires for Saturday's games were assigned as follows: Hope-Safe Works, Young and Townley; St. Mary-Y. M. C. A., Melvin and Brown. In the event of the Y. M. C. A. team winning out in the pennant contest, Saturday, a final meeting will be held Monday evening when all affairs in connection with the League will be settled.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE.

The Question is Whether the Dog Shall Die—Chief Campbell, of the Borough, in Pursuit.

"What happened to the dog?" is a question likely to become as famous in the borough as the much mooted and yet unanswered query, "Who struck Billy Paterson?" Friday evening the fourteen-year-old son of Louis Bimble, of Cedar street, was bitten or supposed to have been bitten, by a dog belonging to L. E. Perry, of Harrison avenue.

The dog must die, said Mr. Bimble. Chief Campbell, armed to the teeth, galloped in hot haste to the scene of restlessness. But the canine scented danger in the wind and disappeared as completely and mysteriously as if the earth had silently opened and swallowed him up. To all intents he became a John Doe. The Chief returned without his quarry. Mr. Bimble says that if that dog is not shot something is going to happen to somebody.

Still Another Quiet One.

Miss Margaret Polon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Polon, of Cottage place, and William E. Conger, also of this city, were quietly married, Saturday evening, by Rev. G. M. Shott at the parsonage of the Scotch Plains Baptist church. Miss M. E. Donahue and E. T. Nauttall, of this city, attended them. The young couple will reside in this city as the groom is in the employ of Hand & Son.

Funeral of Mrs. Shaffer.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Chauncey Shaffer, who passed away Saturday, were held yestreday afternoon from the residence of her grandson, Chauncey Burt, of West Seventh street. Rev. J. R. Bryan, of this city, was in charge. The remains were taken later to Bound Brook where they were interred in the family plot.

Another Fortune.

Joseph A. Neal, of East Second street, has received word from Thos. B. Wallace, an attorney at law in Dromore, Ireland, that the death of a widowed sister at that place has left him the heir to a considerable fortune. Mr. Neal has retained Hetfield & Hetfield to attend to dis interests.

Another Feast.

Next Monday a ping-pong tournament for the seniors will begin at the Y. M. C. A. Only a limited number of entries will be received. When play is completed the contestants will discuss the fine points of the game around the festive board.

Plainfielders Win.

L. L. Manning & Son got a verdict before Justice Davis at Whitehouse yesterday against Lucretia Anderson, of Califon, for the cost of erecting a tombstone over her husband's grave. S. S. Swackhamer represented the plaintiff.

George Somers, of Orchard place, has been entertaining relatives from Bayonne yesterday.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

William Lauthlin, of West Second street, has returned home after a visit to friends in Rahway.

Hiram Humes and Fred Dunavan, of East Second street, left yesterday for Niagara Falls on a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, of West Eighth street, arrived home yesterday from their European trip.

William McD. Coriell, of West Fifth street, has returned home after a two weeks' vacation spent at Asbury Park.

Miss Nellie MacGinness, of Somerset street, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell, of Newark, for a few days.

Christopher Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, left yesterday for a two week's vacation to be spent at Niagara Falls.

Miss Marguerite McQuaid, of New York, has returned home after a visit to her aunt, Miss Etta Burns, of Liberty street.

Among the guests registered at the Mountain House, Mt. Pocono, Pa., are Mrs. Thomas Cogan and Miss May Cogan, of Plainfield.

George VanCamp, of the firm of Lockrow & Co., of Albany, N. Y., spent Saturday and Sunday with his family on Somerset place.

Notes from Sea Cliff, L. I., announce that Miss Marion Shaw, of New York, and Miss Louise McCoy, of Philadelphia, have left that place to visit friends in Plainfield.

PROMISING ASSISTANT.

A. W. Wardle May Prove a Valua-Man at L. W. Randolph's City Pharmacy.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, has engaged as an assistant Alfred H. Wardle, formerly of Poughkeepsie and Hudson, N. Y. Mr. Wardle was for eight years secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Poughkeepsie, resigning his position July 27 last, to accept the position of State Y. M. C. A. Secretary for New Hampshire. He was to have entered upon his duties Septebmer 1, but Mr. Randolph brought much pressure to bear and induced him to come to Plainfield.

Mr. Wardle was given a touching farewell at Poughkeepsie in which all the pastors of the city united. The Eagle of that city paid him a high compliment for his excellent services, as did also the Hudson Republican in speaking of his coming to Plainfield. Mr. Wardle was graduated in 1885 from the New York College of Pharmacy and has been licensed as a prescription clerk in New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts. He and Mr. Randolph were classmates and college chums. Many will remember Mr. Wardle when he was with Mr. Randolph thirteen years ago. He then reamined for a few months preparatory to a change in the store.

A Hustler.

The Hartford Globe, under date of August 24, contains a long article concerning the cultivation of Sumatra leaf tobacco on the Ackerly tobacco farm in Connecticut. Paul Ackerly was formerly a reporter for The Daily Press, and his sucqess in the raising of tobacco has won for him many pleasant words from the press. A sample leaf of the tobacco is 16 inches in length and 11 inches in breadth.

Nothing of Importance.

The Borough Board of Education met last evening. There was hardly a quorum present and no business was transacted except the passing of a few bills. School matters were not broached. A. V. D. Honeyman occupied the chair.

All Will Go.

Members of Warren Engine Company had a military drill on Watchung avenue last evening. Nearly every member of the company has signified his intention to attend the celebration at Atlantic City in the early part of next month.

More Babies.

A dozen babies and children needing the fresh mountain air were taken to the King's Daughter's Baby Camp this morning.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

MUCH NEEDED CHANGE NOW GOES INTO EFFECT

Improved Quarters for the United States Express Company's Business.

IN NORTH AVE. STATION.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE WELL-APPOINTED OFFICES.

To Take Possession on Tuesday—The New Arrangement Greatly Facilitates Business—Is Now the Best in the State.

Commencing with September 1, the local office of the United States Express Company will be moved from its present location on North avenue, to that part of the North Avenue station formerly occupied for the Western Union Telegraph purposes and baggage offices for so many years. For several weeks past workmen have been busy making the necessary improvements for the change and when Manager E. W. Mills takes possession he will have the best equipped offices along the line of the New Jersey Central. They will be electric lighted and steam heated and arranged so as to make the best service possible.

Manager Mills and the cashier, C. D. Bastian, will occupy the office, which was used for the telegraph office. This office has been divided off, giving the manager ample room, as well as the cashier and the furnishings will be up-to-date and attractive. This office leads into another large room, which will be occupied by Fred Voorhees, the bill clerk. With the change the necessary extra room for the handling of express matter will be given and this will greatly facilitate in getting goods out on time. The offices have been attractively painted and thoroughly renovated.

This change will also give the much-needed shelter for goods in rain or snow storms. The old driveway and platform will be used as at present, and a great improvement to be made is the location of two extra gates in the iron fence separating the east and westbound tracks. One gate will be at the east end of the fence and the other at the west end opposite the express platform. This will be a great benefit in taking express matter off of trains and will prevent unnecessary steps to the one main gate now in use and will lessen the possibility of accidents.

CRACK SHOT.

Local Sharpshooter Makes a Record at Shooting Contests in New England.

Neaf Apgar, a local marksman, has just returned from an extended trip through New England, where he attended a circuit of trap-shooting tournaments in the interest of a cartridge concern. Apgar did some fine shooting and led all of the experts, winning high average at almost every tournament he attended. At the Inter-State tournament held at Brunswick, Me., he was high man, breaking 370 out of 400 targets shot at. He made a straight run of 106 breaks and scoring 99 out of the last 100 shot at.

POISONING DOGS.

Scoundrel at Work in New Brunswick Kills Twenty Animals.

Residents of New Brunswick are aroused over the continued poisoning of valuable dogs. The fox terrier owned by ex-Mayor William S. Strong, was killed and Mr. Strong will pay $25 for information as to the poisoner. About twenty dogs have been killed since Friday morning.

Another Victim.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, N. J., Aug. 27—Chandler W. Riker, Prosecutor of the Pleas, received a letter yesterday from a Watertown, Conn., lawyer who says that one of his clients was defrauded of $300 by a Newark "greengoods" men. The victim will be used as a witness against the West Street band, captured a few days ago.

More Members.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club has just elected the following active members: Mrs. E. F. Wright, E. L. Walz, Frank deL. Hyde and Elston M. French, while Mrs. Frank deL. Hyde and T. M. Day, Jr., have been elected associate members.

To be at Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, at its meeting last evening, accepted an invitation to be present at the men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon, September 7.

SAVING SOULS.

The Camp Meeting Causes Many to Gather at Ocean Grove—The Programme.

As the culminating event in the religious programme at Ocean Grove, the annual campmeeting is now in progress. Custom is strong in Ocean Grove and the camp meetings this season are practically a repetition of the scenes witnessed in former years. Rev. Joseph Smith, the great exponent of holiness, is among the workers.

The daily programme during the days of campmeeting is as follows: Sunrise meeting in the tabernacle, family prayer, a meeting instituted by the late Dr. Stokes, at the auditorium altar from 6:45 o'clock to 7 o'clock, holiness meeting in the tabernacle, young people's meeting in the temple, and Helping Hand meeting in Thornley chapel, all at 9 o'clock; preaching service in the auditorium at 10:30, prayer and praise service at 1:30 in the tabernacle, children's meeting in the temple at 3, twilight service at 6:30, the day closing with another preaching service in the auditorium at 7:30.

ENTERTAINED THE CHILDREN

STEREOPTICON VIEWS WERE SHOWN AT WESTFIELD CAMP.

Young People of Park Avenue Baptist Church Attended and Gave a Service of Song.

George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school, gave a stereopticon entertainment at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home last evening. Forty young people from the Park Avenue Baptist church were in attendance. Seats were arranged on the lawn and the side of the house served as a canvas. The pictures included the ships and naval boats of various nations, scenes in Colorado, California, Newport, West Indies and a number of comic pictures, among the latter being "Foxy Grandpa." The evening was greatly enjoyed and enthusiastic cheers were given for Mr. Hall.

At the conclusion of the pictures the young people from the church gave a service of song with organ accompaniment by Miss Etta Cuming. As the visiting friends departed from the Home the mothers and children sang "God be With You 'till We Meet Again."

NOT ONE PER CENT.

Debt of Union County in Proportion to the Assets is Insignificant.

The Union county assessors' official abstract of ratables shows an increase in taxable property for 1902 of $2,494,000, or nearly two and one half millions. This brings the ratables of the county up to $45,269,400, so that the debt of the county is less than one per cent. of the assets. Plainfield's increase for 1902 is $299,700. The local assessors' list, which is now in the hands of the county board, shows an increase of North Plainfield ratables of $5,695 for the year.

LOST AT HOPE CHAPEL.

New Yorker Dropping Pocket Book There Recovers It.

Frederick Metzler, a representative of a New York publishing house, lost a pocketbook containing over $50 in Plainfield yesterday afternoon and recovered it about three hours later without testing the virtues of advertising, or suffering any further inconvenience than a walk about town to several places he had visited, and an attack of nervousness at the thought of being stranded. Early in the afternoon Mr. Metzler was in the West End of the city and sat down on the steps of Hope chapel while waiting for a car. He came up town and it was when seeking coin to pay for an article he purchased in a West Front street emporium that he discovered he was minus his gold. After going the rounds of several places where he had stopped and making inquiries he returned to the place where he sat down to rest three hours before and found the pocketbook with the money intact lying beside the steps.

Hospital Report.

The medical report for the month of August at Muhlenberg Hospital, submitted at the meeting of the Board of Governors Monday evening, shows that 18 patients were received since last report. There were 23 discharged during the month, while four were discharged improved. There were two deaths. In all forty-six patients were treated and there are now seventeen patients at the hospital.

STARTED CARNEGIE LIBRARY

FIRST SHOVEL FULL OF EARTH WAS REMOVED YESTERDAY.

The Honor Fell to Rev. Linn E. Wheeler, of the Library Board of Trustees.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 27—Rev. Linn E. Wheeler, who is a member of the building committee of the Board of Library Trustees, had the distinction yesterday morning of raising the first shovel of earth from the excavations for the foundation for the new Carnegie Library, to be erected on Livingston avenue.

He was the only library trustee present at 9 o'clock, when the work for the excavations was commenced, and Architect George K. Parsell tendered the honor of removing the first dirt to him. The act was photographed by Myron Pollard, who caught a snapshot of it, and the photograph in future years will be a cherished souvenir.

It is expected that the work commenced yesterday will progress so rapidly that it will be possible to lay the cornerstone of the library building in about two months' time. This will be done with appropriate ceremonies, with an address by some local or out-of-town speaker. Architect Parsell expects to have the building completed by July 4, 1903, when a dedication celebration will take place.

SALARY TOO SMALL.

Rev. J. Beveridge Lee Says $5,000 is Entirely Too Little to Live On.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27—Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, of Immanuel church, Milwaukee, preached in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in Plainfield, N. J., last Sunday, where there is a vacancy. Mr. Lee spoke at the request of a committee which is selecting a new pastor. It is said that this would indicate a possibility that Mr. Lee may leave Milwaukee.

Recently he asked his Milwaukee congregation for more pay than the $5,000 a year he is now receiving, saying that no preacher could afford to live in the style demanded by fashion on a salary of $5,000. This request was denied. Mr. Lee has been in the east for a vacation.

JURORS DRAWN.

The North Plainfielders Who Will Serve at September Term—Sentences Pronounced.

Sheriff McMurtry, in the presence of Law Judge Schenck, yesterday, drew the petit jurors for the September term of court. Those selected from North Plainfield are J. Worth Coddington, George A. Fairchild, Daniel Ackor, John P. Emmons.

The following prisoners received their sentence at the hands of Judge Schenck: Louis Jackson and Samuel VanLiew, who pleaded guilty to shooting fowls, two months in the county jail; Augustus Baker, assault and battery, three months; Martha Johnson, who raised a check from $6 to $16, four months, and Charles Williams, who broke into The Annex at Bound Brook, one year in State prison.

STUNG BY WASP.

An Insect Causes a Horse to Kick and Runaway.

Thomas Stephens on his way home over the mountains yesterday afternoon alighted from his carriage beyond the trolley line on Somerset street and left his horse standing by the roadside while he talked to a neighbor. He had barely walked away from the animal when it gave the dashboard a terrific kick and started on a wild gallop down the road. For a moment Stephens was nonplussed and was at a loss to account for the actions of his usually quiet horse. On going to the spot where the animal stood Stephens himself was stung by a wasp. Hastening from the spot he soon learned that wasps likewise were the cause of the runaway. There was a swarm of them buzzing around a nest in the vicinity.

Narrow Escape.

While John Carruthers was driving along West Front street last evening he ran into a young lad that was crossing the street. The youth ran headlong into the body of the horse, was knocked down, but luckily was not hurt. He rolled under the animal's feet, and when Mr. Carruthers checked the animal the lad's head was almost beneath the wheel.

Another News Stand.

The Union News Company has just opened a stand at the North Avenue station which is in charge of the agent, Alfred Lacey. This is for the accommodation of westbound travelers.

J. F. Matthews, of Jersey City, Was First Victim—Mrs. J. H. Cobb and Mrs. W. D. Pizzini Died at the Hospital Last Night—Accident Happened Yesterday Afternoon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Long Branch, August 27—By the plunging of his new $8,000 thirty horse power automobile off the railroad bridge at Elberon to the tracks of the New York and Long Branch Railroad, thirty-five feet, yesterday afternoon, J. F. Matthews, a wealthy real estate dealer of Jersey City, was instantly killed and his guest, Mrs. J. H. Cobb and her sister, Mrs. W. D. Pizzini, of Atlanta, Ga., received injuries which later proved fatal. The women were removed to the Monmouth Memorial Hospital where Mrs. Cobb died three hours later and Mrs. Pizzini passed away at 10 o'clock last night.

In the machine also when it took the fatal leap were the chaffeuer, Rudolph Meyer, and Rev. Patrick J. Grant, of the Paulist Fathers, of New York. The latter emerged from the wreck with hardly a scratch and by jumping, Meyer escaped with a broken leg.

Mr. Matthews was an enthusiastic automobilist and one week ago imported the machine, of Rhoder-Snyder make, and was learning its intricacies under the watchful eye of Meyer. Yesterday he invited a party of friends to accompany him on a run from the Hathaway Inn at Deal to the surrounding countryside. The railroad bridge at Elberon is always crossed carefully by automobilist on account of its height but as Mr. Matthews approached it, yesterday, the wheels of the vehicle slid on the car tracks of the Atlantic Coast railway which have to be crossed at that point. He attempted to straighten the machine out without first stopping it and to further complicate matters, just at that moment, William Havens, a gardner, got in its way and was knocked down. Immediately after the auto swung to the right, crushed the guard rail of the bridge like paper and turning a half somersault landed on the railroad tracks.

Mr. Matthews was beneath and the entire weight of two tons was on him. Mrs. Cobb was caught and held down, while Mrs. Pizzini and Father Grady were thrown in the air. The chaffeur leaped before the plunge was taken.

Bystanders hurried to the railroad tracks and the wreck of the machine was tossed to one side. A New Jersey Central train coming up at that moment took all on board and conveyed them to the hospital.

Mrs. Pizzini regained and lost consciousness several times but died without knowing that her sister was dead.

Among the passengers on the train which conveyed the injured was Miss Constance Patton, of Plainfield.

NO MORE INSPECTORS.

Labor Candidate Receives Notice From the Governor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, August 27—Private Secretary Swayze yesterday wrote a letter to Mrs. John T. McDonald, of Paterson, informing her that Governor Murphy has no intention at present of appointing any additional factory inspectors.

Mrs. McDonald was a candidate for the position of woman inspector under a law passed last winter, and had the indorsement of a great many labor organizations. Secretary Swayze says the Governor was impressed with her strong recommendations, but the law is an optional one, and he feels satisfied that the present force of inspectors is sufficient.

Clam Bake Didn't Pay.

The deficiency as a result of the G. O. P. clambake amounts to $700. The total receipts were about $1,000 and the expenses $1,800. The committee in charge of the affair met this week and discovered the deficiency. Provisions will now be made to pay the shortage.

WOULDN'T PAY FOR TOMBSTONE

THEN L. L. MANNING & SON SUED THE WIDOW FOR IT.

And the Court at Whitehouse, Hunterdon County, Gave a Verdict in Their Favor.

L. L. Manning & Son, through counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, got a judgment before Judge Davis at Whitehouse Monday against Lucretia Anderson for the cost of erecting a tombstone over the grave of her late husband.

It seems the plaintiffs sold a stone to a customer, who, when the monument was completed, decided to have a more expensive one. This same monument they engaged to cut down and remodel for the defendant, and place the same at the head of her dead husband to mark his last resting place for the sum of $40. When the stone was placed in the graveyard, Mrs. Anderson disputed the claim saying the monument was not the one she had ordered.

The Mannings produced lithographs proving conclusively that it was the same stone, and satisfying the justice that their claim was valid. He awarded them the full amount and costs.

It was the general opinion in the neighborhood that L. Manning & Son had acted fairly in the matter and lived up to their agreement and that the suit was an attempt to fleece them.

WEDDED SECRETLY.

A. M. Lederer and Miss Florence Vreeland Were Married in Allentown on Monday.

Word has been received in this city of the marriage of Albert M. Lederer, son of Isaac Lederer, the West Front street merchant, and Miss Florence Vreeland, which took place, Monday, in Allentown, Pa., at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Freeman Stecker.

It was not known by either family that they contemplated marriage. Monday they left for Allentown, ostensibly on a visit but in reality to take the step of which announcement has been received. The young people have since gone to Delaware Water Gap where they will spend two weeks. Mr. Lederer is a well known young man and is associated with his father in business.

JOINT MEETING.

Hope Chapel and the Elizabeth Endeavorers at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp.

Thirty Christian Endeavorers from Hope chapel journeyed by special car to Westfield, last evening, where they took part in the service at Camp Woolfe. The Plainfield society was scheduled to take charge but on their arrival an Elizabeth band of Endeavorers was found to be conducting the meeting.

Miss Luella Harris, of the First Baptist church choir, sang acceptably, and prayer was made by H. D. Thompson, Rev. L. R. Howard and Henry A. Pearce. The Hope society is making preparations to spend an evening in the near future at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp.

TRAINER GILBERT DEAD.

Was a Familiar Figure in Sporting Circles Years Ago.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, N. J., Aug. 27—Jacob P. Gilbert, who was well known to sporting men, especially those of the older generation, died Monday. He was in his eighty-first year. A prolonged illness had kept him confined to his house for nearly a year. The funeral was held today. He was head trainer of the stable of William Rockefeller, and managed the stock of Robert Bonner and Joseph Harker when they were leading figures in the horse world.

DOWN EMBANKMENT.

Serious Accident to Motor Car and Its Passenger at Whitehouse.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Whitehouse, Aug. 27—While Theodore McDowell, auditor of the Rockaway Valley Railway, was journeying from this place to Peapack on his motor car Monday the vehicle struck a small stone that had been placed on the track and was hurled thirty feet down an embankment.

McDowell was thrown against a fence. Several ribs were broken, an ankle sprained and he was otherwise badly bruised.

EDUCATION THE TOPIC.

Important Annual Session of Society of Friends at Asbury Park—500 Delegates Expected.

In the Beach Auditorium, Asbury Park, from September 5 to 11, the Society of Friends will hold national sessions. About 500 delegates are expected.

The chief business which will occupy the attention of the convention will be that of the educational system of their society. Among the prominent educators who are expected to address the Friends' meetings are Elizabeth Powell Bond, dean of Swarthmore College, who is well known here in Plainfield; John William Graham, principal of Dalton Hall, Manchester; J. Eugene Baker, principal of the Friends' Central School, Philadelphia; Dr. Luther Gulick, principal of Pratt Institute High School, Brooklyn; Joseph S. Walton, principal of the George School; Charlton C. Lewis, president of the Prison Association, New York; Joseph Swayne, president of Swarthmore College, and former Congressman Newton S. Curtis, of New York.

UNITE TO FIGHT SKEETER

LONG BRANCH CITIZENS ORGANIZE IN CAMPAIGN AGAINST IT.

The Society Thus Formed Will Urge Remedial Legislation on Lawmakers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Long Branch, Aug. 27—Those interested in the extermination of the mosquito along the north Jersey coast expect to incorporate soon under the title of "The Manmouth Beach Improvement Association." Colonel William Barbour, of Monmouth Beach, and D. D. Cook, of Seabright, are in charge of the incorporation.

The new association is working to accomplish such within a few months. Petitions will be circulated among residents and property owners of Long Branch, Monmouth Beach and Seabright, addressed to the New Jersey State Legislature, asking for stringent legislation which will have a remedial effect upon the "skeeter" nuisance, together with an appropriation for the continuance of the work and the appointment of officers to enforce the laws.

Among the new subscribers to the fund are Colonel William Barbour, Bayard Dominick, H. L. Thornell, G. C. McKesson, John L. Riker, William M. Whitney, I. S. Platt, Henry L. Thornell and W. L. Walker. Already $600 has been contributed to assist in the extermination of the mosquito.

QUEERLY MATED.

Bride Sixteen, Groom Forty and Both Are Italian Residents.

The residents of Cottage place, other than Italians, are discussing at great length the marriage of a couple of that extraction from among them, which took place at Westfield, Sunday. The bride is Angela Pastora, who recently turned sixteen and is comely. The groom who answers to the name of Cammon Kossuth confesses having passed the fortieth mile stone in his life's journey.

Kossuth is not as spry as some men of his age and beside he has a generous sprinkling of gray in his hair. The couple have gone to Elizabeth where they will make their home. The bride's father is a member of Street Commissioner Gavett's sweeping force.

VanNest Hearing Adjourned.

The case of James Anderson against Arthur VanNest, who is charged with committing a theft at the home of the complainant, was called in the city court yesterday before Justice Huff. The State asked for an adjournment on the ground that several witnesses were absent. Francis J. Batz, representing the defendant, made a strong plea to have the case tried as it had already been adjourned once. Justice Huff finally decided to adjourn the case until next week Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Sprained Her Ankle.

Mrs. Anna Hill, of Bedminster, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John DeWitt, of Westervelt avenue, slipped and fell on Elm place, this morning, sustaining a badly sprained ankle. She was assisted home and a physician who attended her declared she would be unable to walk for several weeks.

Building Permit.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to Peter Thomsen for the erection of a dwelling on La-Grande avenue, near Berckman street. The structure will be two and a half stories, 18 feet front by 22 feet deep. F. C. Lancaster is the architect and William Wyckoff the mason.

SOCIETY CIRCUS BY NEW BRUNSWICK FOLK

Real Thing is Being Planned to be Held There in September.

BY BRUNSWICK CLUB.

THERE WILL BE THE MENAGERIE AND ALL THE SIDE SHOWS.

Programme Will Include Special Acts by Outside Talent and Turns by Well-Known New Brunswick Performers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 27—The people of this city are in for a treat. The members of the Brunswick Club are to give a society circus on Friday and Saturday, September 19 and 20. The affair will be on the order of the society functions given at Newport and will eclipse anything ever held here in the way of an amusement.

The performances are to be given under the management and personal direction of Alexander A. Duchemin, of New York City, who has conducted numerous affairs of the kind. There will be a side show and menagerie besides the regular performance, which will be given in a 100-foot ring in a tent accommodating between 1,200 and 1,500.

There will be special acts by outside performers and burlesques and other attractions by the local men. The patrons will have the opportunity of seeing young townsmen as clowns, bare-back riders, acrobats, tight-rope walkers, etc. So far there has not been a great demand for the high trapeze artist's position.

Menagerie and side shows will be composed of Brunswick Club members. The bearded lady, the fat lady, the living skeleton and the Wild Man of Borneo will all be recruited from the members. The circus tent will probably be located on the VanCleef grounds on Somerset street. The tent, seats, horses and other paraphernalia will be furnished by Mr. Duchemin, who will be here tomorrow to conduct the first rehearsal and assign parts.

The committee selected by the club to take charge of the circus is as follows: T. Henry Rastall, chairman; Dr. W. D. Rice, W. Frank Parker, John E. Clayton and Henry F. Miller.

Mr. Duchemin, the manager of the circus, conducted a society circus at Newport last August. He also managed the carnival of sports in the Twenty-second Regiment armory, New York City, last winter. From September 6 to 7 of this year he will conduct a circus at Paterson.

On Friday and Saturday evenings, September 19 and 20 in this city, the admission to the society circus of the Brunswick Club will be 50 cents with reserved seats 25 cents extra. The matinees will be 25 cents straight.

A local band will be engaged to furnish music and two big street parades are talked of.

BIDS FOR SENATE CHAMBER.

A Trenton Contractor's Offer Was the Lowest Submitted.

Bids for the construction of the new Senate chamber, for which the Legislature last winter appropriated $125,000, were opened yesterday by the State House Commission. Lewis Lawton & Son, of Trenton, bid $124,450, and are likely to get the contract.

The other bids were: Joseph H. Cutley, $133,000; William Johnson, $139,575; Samuel W. Mather, $142,724; James W. Lanning, $143,500, and Robert Johnston, $163,524. The contract will not be awarded until next Tuesday.

Change in Price.

All of the local milk dealers have agreed that commencing with September 1 they will charge a uniform price of 8 cents a quart for milk. During the summer months some dealers have been charging customers 8 cents, while others but 6 cents a quart. The reason for this raise is that the price of feed is so high that the dealers cannot afford to sell milk at a profit for 6 cents.

Another Beneficial Society.

A branch of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association will be instituted at St. Mary's School Hall next Friday evening by Mrs. Maria Quinn, of Newark. This will be the twentieth branch instituted by her in New Jersey.

Case Adjourned.

The contract case of James W. Trimmer against William Brown was adjourned yesterday in Justice Huff's court for one week.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The late Thomas Nevins was a remarkable man and, while he owed much to the opportunities which this country affords, he gave in return a wonderful energy and vigor which should have gained recognition anywhere.—Newark Call.

It might not be a bad idea to use a part of the contingent fund appropriated for the extermination of the mosquito for the purpose of killing off some of the slanderers of the Jersey bird. The first example should be made of those newspapers which declared that a Bloomfield man who was shot with a rifle ball thought he had been stung by a mosquito.—Newark News.

Congressman Fowler did spendid work in Vermont's lively gubernatorial campaign. He went to the granite state with Secretary Shaw, and they were accorded rousing receptions. In a short time Mr. Fowler will begin a vigorous campaign in this, his own, district. He will be aided by Secretary Shaw, Speaker Henderson and other speakers of note. The campaign will be interesting from a speechmaking standpoint, and while the oratory may not be necessary to secure Mr. Fowler's election, the voters will have an opportunity of hearing the great issues discussed by men qualified to present them with force, and the effect should be to give a great increased majority for the Republican ticket.—Elizabeth Journal.

THEATRICAL.

"Lovers' Lane" gives evidences of the same longevity that has marked "Way Down East." Although the coming season will be the play's third it will be acted by three companies as heretofore.

In Rice's "Show Girl," the most attractive of all the recent conglomerations of song, dance, costumes and scenery, commonly called "musical comedy," New York has seen several new comedians who had never before appeared in the metropolis. The principal and most important of these is Frank Lalor, who had previously appeared only in the smaller towns with a practically unknown farcical comedy. Another is Robert Dailey, a younger brother of Peter Dailey, whose efforts have heretofore been confined to vaudeville, has an important comedy role in the production for which he is well suited. A western song and dance team, Frank C. Young and Bessie de Voie, were engaged for their specialty, but were placed in two leading comedy roles in which they made a most pronounced success.

"Peggy from Paris" is the title of the latest work of the successful humorist, George Ade, for stageland and Henry W. Savage is to make the production in the early autumn. As in all of Mr. Ade's work there is a delightful vein of satire discernible from the beginning until the end, for he sees human nature with extremely good eyes and invariably finds the features which are humorous. "Peggy from Paris" is American from start to finish, dealing with the way a little lady formed things at home in Indiana after an extended trip to the French capital. In style the libretto is said to follow the author's "Fables in Slang," more closely than his already successful "The Sultan of Sulu" which was one of the really great successes of the spring season. Henry W. Savage, who controls all of Mr. Ade's writings for the stage for the next three years, will give "Peggy from Paris" a very elaborate production, it is stated. The music will, in the main, be from the pen of William Loraine, but there will be several interpolated songs from popular authors.

UP IN THE AIR.

Union County Man Invents a Flying Machine, Which is Said to be a Wonder.

P. J. Reid, of Elizabeth, has completed an airship, which he yesterday placed on exhibition. His flying machine is fifteen feet long. It carries two aeroplanes, having a surface of 365 square feet.

The weight of the machine is twenty-three pounds, and it is intended to carry a weight of ten pounds and fly over a mile course. It is worked by four vacum tubes, and by a steam turbin, which furnishes power to a two-blade propeller.

Its owner intends to put it on exhibition at the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1904, and will enter it in the class to compete for the $2,500 prize. This class includes all airships not carrying an operator.

PRESIDENT IN MAINE

Enthusiastically Greeted In Many Cities.

HE SLEEPS IN BLAINE'S BEDROOM.

Talks With Representative Littlefield, but Not About the Trusts. Passes Through Three States During the Day.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt during the day passed through three states, delivered eight speeches and received the plaudits of a quarter of a million of people. The greeting which has marked his progress through New England has been flattering in the extreme, and his latest experience demonstrated his popularity perhaps more than ever before. Everywhere at the regular stops and the smaller stations along the road the people were frantic in their efforts to catch a glimpse of him or to hear him speak, and at Haverhill, Mass., this desire assumed such a form that the crowds completely overrode the police and surrounded the president's carriage, making it difficult for it to advance.

The day's journey was not without its incidents. As the president was about to board his car at South Lawrence, Mass., after delivering his address the leader of the band stepped up and made himself known to him. He said his name was Banan, a former cowpuncher and barber at Medura, N. D., where the president's ranch is located. The president immediately recognized him and greeted him as an old friend. The man, evidently desiring the president to know that he had profited by his advice given some years ago, said to him: "You told me to get married and settle down, and I did. I have got six children myself," which afforded the president no little amusement.

While on his way through the streets of Portland his carriage was stopped and he was presented with an album containing views of the city. He stood up in his carriage and briefly thanked the donor, Captain Charles F. Dam. He has been the recipient of many floral gifts, and where the admirers were unable to get near enough personally to hand them to him they threw them over the heads of the crowd into his carriage.

Conspicuous among those who boarded the train at Old Orchard to extend a welcome to the president was Congressman Littlefield of Rockland. His visit was brief, and the conversation turned on other subjects than trusts. Mr. Littlefield declined to comment on the president's Boston speech, pleading that he had not finished reading it.

When Danville Junction was reached, the president was greeted by Postmaster General and Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Garret A. Hobart and Mrs. Charles Emory Smith. Mr. Payne accompanied the president to Lewiston.

Some stops were made which were not on the itinerary. At Lisbon, Lisbon Falls and Brunswick, Me., immense crowds gathered, and the president, in response to their clamorous calls, was obliged to appear on the rear platform and say a few words.

Although the day was a particularly hard one on him, the president gave but slight signs of fatigue. For the night he was the guest of Governor Hill, who met him at the depot and escorted him to his residence, where the president made a short address.

The governor's house has become historic because of the fact that it was the home of James G. Blaine, and the president occupied the identical bedroom of the dead statesman.

The theme of the president's principal addresses during the day were the Philippines, Cuban reciprocity and the navy. At Lawrence, Mass., he said:

"In the Philippines our soldiers have fought and won. To do what? To leave the country and establish the rule of civil authority under the American flag. You have brought self governing individual freedom to the Filipinos of a kind that they could never have known under an anarchic tyranny of their own. Now we will govern the islands well. We will govern them primarily in their interests, but in our interests also."

At Lowell, Mass., the president had this to say on the Cuban question:

"Cuba has got to be in a sense a part of our international political system, and I ask most earnestly that in return we make her a part of our economic system by establishing reciprocal relations with her."

At Haverhill, Mass., the president made a plea for a stronger navy. He said in part:

"The only way to make safe our honor as affected, not by our deeds, but by the deeds of others, is by readiness in advance. The good work of building up the navy must go on without ceasing. The modern warship cannot with advantage be allowed to rust in disuse. Our navy is now efficient, but we must be content with no ordinary degree of efficiency. Every effort must be made to bring it ever nearer to perfection."

Torpedo Boats Accepted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The navy department has accepted the torpedo boats De Long and Wilkes, which have had their final trials. The former boat was built by George Lawley & Son of Boston and the latter by the Gas Engine and Power company of Morris Heights, N. Y.

Internal Revenue Collections.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — The monthly statement of the collections of internal revenue shows that for the month of July, 1902, the total collections were $22,236,359, a decrease as compared with July, 1901, of $7,107,537.

35,213 persons		$142,500.00

Every 100 bands from above named cigars will entitle you to four estimates.

(One "Florodora" band counting as two bands from the 5 cent cigars mentioned; and no less than 100 bands will be received at any one time for estimates.)

Information which may be of value in making estimates:—the number of Cigars now bearing $3.00 Tax per thousand, for which Stamps were purchased, appears below:

In December, 1900,	467,092,208 Cigars.	In March, 1902,	516,599,027 Cigars.
" December, 1901,	479,312,170 "	" April, 1902,	516,835,163 "
" January, 1902,	496,983,717 "	" May, 1902,	523,035,907 "
" February, 1902,	445,495,483 "

In case of a tie in estimates, the amount offered will be divided equally among those entitled to it. Distribution of the awards will be made as soon after January 1st, 1903 as the figures are obtainable from the Internal Revenue Department of the United States for December.

Write your full name and Post Office Address plainly on packages containing bands. The Postage, or Express charges on your package must be fully prepaid, in order for your estimate to participate.

All estimates under this offer must be forwarded before December 1st, 1902, to the . . FLORODORA TAG COMPANY, Jersey City, N. J.

You do not lose the value of your bands. Receipts will be sent you for your bands, and these receipts will be just as good as the bands themselves in securing Presents. One band from "Florodora," or two bands from any of the other Cigars mentioned above, will count in securing Presents the same as one tag from "Star," "Horse Shoe," "Spear Head," "Standard Navy," "Old Peach and Honey," "J. T." "Master Workman," "Piper Heidsieck," "Jolly Tar," "Boot Jack," "Old Honesty," "Razor," or "Planet" Tobacco; or one "Sweet Caporal" Cigarette Box Front.

Send each estimate on a separate piece of paper, with your name and address plainly written on each. Blank forms for estimates, will be mailed upon application.

Illustrated Catalogue of Presents for 1903 and 1904 will be ready for distribution about October 1st, 1902, and will be mailed on receipt of ten cents, or ten tobacco tags, or twenty cigar bands.

KLONDIKE ON THE WANE.

This Year's Gold Production but Half That of 1901.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The golden star of the Klondike is on the wane, according to the official report of George H. Hees, who recently was sent to Dawson by the Canadian Manufacturers' association to make a thorough examination into the business prospects of the Yukon territory. The state department has made public a communication from United States Consul Brush, at Niagara Falls, dated Aug. 8, giving some of the principal features of Mr. Hees' report.

Mr. Hees points to the fact that the total yield of the Klondike last year was $24,000,000 and that the production of the coming year will not, according to government estimates, exceed $14,000,000, a falling off of nearly one-half. Moreover, no new discoveries have been made for over a year, although since 1897 thousands of prospectors have been exploring every creek and mountain in the country. At Dawson Mr. Hees reports ten applicants for every job, yet boatload after boatload of men continue to arrive.

Direct Hal Lowers His Record.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 27.—The climax of sensational pacing races was reached in the great Park Brew ten thousand dollar stake at Narragansett park. Ed Geers piloted Direct Hal to victory in three straight heats, but the black stallion's record was lowered from 2:06 flat to 2:04¼. The second heat was the pace that kills. Scott Hudson made a rush down the stretch with Twinkle and would have beaten anybody but Geers. It was such a drive home that Twinkle went off her feet and broke almost under the wire, while Direct Hal won in 2:04¼. The last half was paced in 1:01 flat, with the last quarter in 29 seconds. Twelve thousand people witnessed the race, and they went wild with enthusiasm.

Fatal Automobile Accident.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 27.—An automobile containing Frank J. Matthews, a wealthy real estate dealer of Jersey City; Father Grant of the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, New York; a Mrs. Codd of Richmond, Va., and another woman, said to be Miss Matthews, a niece of Frank J. Matthews, took a flying leap over the embankment at Park Avenue bridge of the New York and Long Branch railroad at Elberon. Mr. Matthews was instantly killed, the two women were fatally hurt, and Father Grant was slightly injured. The chauffeur escaped by jumping. Mrs. Codd and her companion were brought to the Monmouth Memorial hospital, where Mrs. Codd died.

Accidentally Killed by a Hunter.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 27. — Charles Balliet was accidentally shot and killed on Lehigh mountain by ex-Councilman Charles A. Bachman while hunting hedgehogs. Balliet was lying in a thicket unknown to Bachman, who thought the rustling of the leaves was due to hedgehogs. Bachman called, but Balliet's hearing being imperfect he failed to heed the warning, and Bachman fired, striking Balliet in the head.

Mont Pelee In Eruption.

ST. THOMAS, Danish West Indies, Aug. 27.—Advices received from Dominica say that between 10 o'clock in the morning and 3 in the afternoon on Monday clouds of dust were seen in the direction of Mont Pelee, island of Martinique, and that detonations at long intervals were heard until yesterday morning. Light showers of volcanic dust fell on Dominica.

Killed by a Dynamite Cartridge.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 27.—A dynamite cartridge was exploded at a picnic here by John Cattiggni. The man was so badly injured that he will probably die. A boy was also hurt.

Daniel S. Lamont's Daughter Dead.

SORRENTO, Me., Aug. 27.—Miss Julia Lamont, daughter of Hon. Daniel S. Lamont, has died at her father's cottage here.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, premier of Canada, lunched with President Loubet of France at Rambouillet.

A Northern Pacific passenger train was held up at Sands Point, Ida., but the robbers got nothing.

Strikers at Hazleton, Pa., again prevented the working of the Lehigh Valley Coal company's colliery.

The Havana dock laborers and others who have been out on strike since Aug. 20 have resumed work.

A number of women and children were killed in a railroad accident near Bloemfontein, Orange River Colony.

MAY END THE STRIKE

Morgan About to Interfere, It Is Said.

HE CALLS BAER INTO CONFERENCE.

This Leads to the Belief That the Financier Will Force the Operators to Arbitrate—Many Rumors Current.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—After a conference which lasted nearly an hour President Baer left the private office of J. Pierpont Morgan.

Mr. Baer did not appear to be happy. He absolutely refused to discuss the nature of the business which was gone over by Mr. Morgan and himself, but it was plain that something important had transpired.

The conference of coal operators at which Mr. Baer usually presides was hastily abandoned when Mr. Baer was summoned to Mr. Morgan's office. The coal operators returned to their offices without comment.

One official said he had no doubt that Mr. Baer's pugnacious hostility to the miners' unions and his outspoken denunciation of the leaders, together with his refusal to arbitrate or entertain any suggestion of ending the strike had led Mr. Morgan to call him in and give him a lecture.

"I wouldn't be surprised," said this official, "if the question of arbitration would be taken up immediately. Mr. Morgan wants the strike ended. He does not want to excite public clamor, and the public look to him to end the trouble."

Mr. Baer was in consultation with General Manager Besler of the New Jersey Central for several hours. Later on he summoned Superintendent of Transportation McIntyre to take lunch with him and talk over "important matters."

"Perhaps Baer is getting a line on the coal carrying condition of his road. Maybe there's something doing," was the comment in Wall street.

An ending of the strike just now would be very disappointing to the operators from a financial standpoint.

Fifty thousand tons of anthracite coal are stored at the Dodge Coal Storage company's plant in Rochelle Park, N. J.

This is the remainder of 80,000 tons which the company had on hand at the outset of the anthracite strike. The coal already disposed of has yielded the company an excess profit of $1,595,000.

The statement is furtker made by one of the leading coal dealers of New York that the coal carrying roads have 500,000 tons of coal in reserve which they are dealing out in small quantities at top notch prices to local consumers.

These facts explain the unwillingness of the operators to arbitrate their differences with the striking miners. They will be entirely pleased if the strike lasts into the winter months and affords them an opportunity to dispose of this surplus stock at present exorbitant prices.

Mitchell Consults Strike Leaders.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 27.—President Mitchell and the United Mine Workers' executive boards of the three anthracite districts have been in session at strike headquarters. After the conference President Mitchell said that only routine business had been transacted. It is understood that reports were received from each of the three districts bearing on the amount of relief received, how it is distributed and how many, if any, of the strikers have returned to work. It is said all the reports were of a favorable character to the strikers.

Noted Horse Trainer Dead.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 27.—Jacob P. Gilbert, well known to sporting men, has died here. He was in his eighty-first year. He was a noted horse trainer and was born in Canada. He was trainer for William Rockefeller, Robert Bonner and Joseph Harker. When seventy-two, he drove Cleoria and Independence, two of the trotters connected with the Rockefeller stables, to the then record team time of 2:22.

R. F. Doherty Beats M. D. Whitman.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 27.—The international match between R. F. Doherty of England and M. D. Whitman of America in the final round of the national lawn tennis championship was won by the foreigner in 3 sets to 1 and by scores of 6—1, 3—6, 6—4, 6—0. William A. Larned, the present holder of the tennis championship, will defend his title against Doherty's challenge.

Jealousy Leads to Awful Tragedy.

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Aug. 27.—Jealous of the attentions being paid to his sister Celia by a young man named William Francis, Edward Goodrich attempted to take the life of the young lady and also that of an older sister, Mrs. Henry Morgan. In both instances he was unsuccessful. He then turned the revolver on himself and put a bullet through his heart.

Head of Spanish War Veterans Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Colonel William H. Hubbell, who during the Spanish war commanded the Forty-seventh regiment, New York volunteers, and who since 1901 has been commander in chief of the National Army of Spanish War Veterans, has died in Brooklyn. His death was due to an operation performed a week ago.

Ex-Governor Hoadley Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 27.—A special dispatch to the Democrat and Chronicle from Watkins says that ex-Governor George Hoadley of Ohio has died at that place, aged seventy-six years. He and his family had been at Watkins for several weeks. The remains will be taken to Cincinnati.

REGULATION OF TRUSTS.

Without doubt the leading and by all odds the most important question confronting the American people at present is that which has arisen through the combination of business interests. Time was when any talk against consolidations injurious to the people's interest was considered the speech of a demagogue, but the conditions now facing the people have brought them to a keen realization of the dangers.

No one can sensibly protest against such combinations so long as they conduct business within legitimate bounds. The source of the trouble, however, has been that these syndicates strive to control the market and then raise prices at will. They are the masters of the situation and the consumer is at their mercy. Herein lies the trouble. The poor suffer, while the trust magnate waxes rich.

The dictatorial policy of combinations of wealth has been especially injurious to the public. Take for instance the present coal strike. The mine owners, popularly called the "coal barons," absolutely decline to submit the contention to arbitration. The interests of the people demand a solution of this sort speedily regardless of the cost to the one party or the other. The arbitrary action of these mine owners in refusing relief in this way has been severely condemned by leading men throughout the country, but the public is helpless. It does seem that there should be more strict regulation of these combinations, and that the subject is one above party politics.

It is surprising but nevertheless true that the Market Street station, on the Pennsylvania's line, in Newark, is the largest way station in the country. All stations that do as much business as this one are terminals. In a single day recently by actual count 15,000 persons got on and off trains there.

An exchange says in an interview that just before his death the late A. M. Palmer, the experienced theatrical manager, said: "Of all methods of reaching the public the daily newspapers are by far the best. I say this after years of practical experience covering all kinds of publicity."

The British public is astonished over the fact that two American reporters got to the front at the King's coronation although not provided with passes. The resourceful Yankees "worked" the soldiers on guard. John Bull will have to keep awake all night to get ahead of an American.

The public does not lose sight of the fact that the great ovations given to Roosevelt during his present tour is because he is the chosen executive of the great American people.

Much ado is being made about it because a case has been in court for eighteen years in New York. How else do the clients expect the lawyers to get hold of the stake.

An Elizabeth man has invented an airship. These flying machines are like a good many gilt edged investments. The crash comes sooner or later.

About time for another revolution in South America. War news is getting dull from that quarter.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

This is the season of fruit and vegetables so take advantage of it. One of the best displays in this line is to be found at T. L. Walsh's North avenue market.

Thinking of building yourself a home? Call in on C. S. Nicholson in the First National Bank building and have him offer suggestion as to where to get the wherewithal.

E. S. F. Randolph, the North avenue druggist, has one of the finest prescription departments in the city. The greatest care guaranteed by a most efficient corps of assistants.

If you want the best groceries, for the least amount of trouble and for the least amount of money, one place that it will pay you to visit is the store of Fred H. Firstbrook, Liberty street.

"Wouldn't that take the starch out of you," was the homely expression of a famous character. To get the starch into you have your laundry work done at Meissner's Hand Laundry, Watchung avenue.

"There's as good fish in the sea as ever was caught," says the old saw, but some of the good ones that have been caught recently have made their way to the store of the Rogers Seafood Company. The Rogers company gets its fish from the nets direct and has nothing but the best.

S. Scheuer & Company, of West Front street, are giving the people of Plainfield and vicinity true value for their money. They do not take advantage of a slight increase in wholesale prices and put in on the consumer, but their goods are sold at the lowest possible prices, and the goods are first quality.

Charles E. Vail, the expert watchmaker and jeweler of Park avenue, is enjoying a season of prosperity in his business. Since entering upon business for himself his many friends have remembered him generously. His stock of jewelry is one of the best in the State and his repair department is second to none. He guarantees satisfaction in his work.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Miss Lottie Cockley, of West Front street, has accepted a position in Brooklyn, N. Y.

—Thus far over 600 feet of the Arlington avenue storm sewer has been laid and the work is progressing favorably.

—The third degree was worked on one candidate at the meeting of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., Monday evening.

—Otto Tramm, of East Second street, has resigned his position with Alfred Seidel, the Park avenue tonsorialist, to accept a similar one in Newark.

—There will be nomination of officers at the next meeting of the Retail Clerks' Association. There was not a quorum present at the last meeting.

—Commencing with next Monday Charles McCann and Raymond Cohen will return to duty as night operators at the local telephone company office.

—Daniel Guinee, of West Third street, has resumed his position with the local telephone company after several weeks of idleness from an injury.

—The many friends of T. Hazlewood Keller, Jr., will be pleased to learn that he is fast recovering from a severe attack of billious remittent fever and is now recuperating at Sea Girt.

—Don't forget the date of the second annual excursion of St. Patrick's Alliance to Orange Grove, L. I., on Labor Day. This excursion will afford a delightful outing at a nominal cost. The boats will leave Elizabethport at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

NOTICE!

This notice is to inform my many friends and patrons that I am still at the old stand, 227 West Front street, where I am prepared to serve all my old customers and the public in general with a full line of beers, also porter, wines, liquors and cigars on the shortest notice. I would also state that the whiskey delivered by the Eastern Bottling Company in bottles with my name on them is not from my place of business.

FRANK LINKE,
8 25 5 227 W. Front street.

Bear in Mind.

That tomorrow is the day when Warren chapel conducts it annual excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. Remember also that it is the last one of the season from this city, and if you would enjoy a day in healthful recreation, don't fail to attend. The train leaves this city at 8 o'clock and does not leave the Park until 6, thus insuring a full day at the shore and a return ride home in the cool of the evening.

Prohibition Picnic.

The Prohibitionists of Hunterdon county are holding their annual picnic in Hawke's Grove, Locktown, today. Rev. Henry C. Thompson, of Cranford; Rev. Ernest A. Boom, of Florence; Rev. George W. Wilding, of Elizabeth, and Rev. Charles H. Mead, of New York, will address the picnic.

Hope Y. M. A. Meeting.

A special meeting of the Hope Y. M. A. has been called for this evening to complete all plans for the camping trip which begins Wednesday. It will begin at 9 o'clock and President Runyon requests that all who intend going on the trip be in attendance.

Trinity's Prayer Meeting.

M. Seymour Purdy, of Marconnier chapel, will have charge of the prayer meeting in Trinity Reformed church tonight. Visitors are always welcome.

—Next Monday being a holiday the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union will not meet that day, but on the afternoon following at the same place and hour.

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane. Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it. L. W. Randolph.

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

When some minor improvements to the interior of Whittier School are completed everything will be ready for the opening of schools on September 2. The largest enrollment for some years is expected and all preparations have been made to accommodate the increased attendance. The school library has been well patronized during the summer and in the future the practice of keeping it open will be continued.

A new station agent has not been appointed here yet but it is said the former agent at Annandale will secure the place.

L. L. Block has opened a meat market in the Dealaman building and will be ready for business on Thursday.

Arthur Palmer, a former resident of this place, is spending a few days with Mr. Shotwell, of Green Brook.

Henry Dunham, who was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital Sunday, is in a rather critical condition.

Thomas Reidy is recovering from injuries sustained in a trolley accident last week.

A large number from here attended the band concert in New Market last evening.

Harry Swackhamer has severed his connection with the Central Railroad.

Adam Dealaman and family will leave today for a visit in Easton, Pa.

James Craig and son, Howard, spent yesterday fishing at Perth Amboy.

Lud Frazee has secured the contract for some work in Whittier School.

The Juniors met last evening and transacted routine business.

O. L. Cowen, of Cranford, visited friends in town yesterday.

Mrs. Naylor is spending today with out of town friends.

The band will meet for practice this evening as usual.

NEW MARKET.

A beautiful clear evening was one of the things that helped to make the band concert on Dr. Nelson's lawn, last night a success. The large lawn was prettily decorated and was filled with a large crowd which materially helped the band's project of getting uniforms by buying out the large stock of eatables which had been arranged. The programme of music which was present was much appreciated and applauded.

In defeating the Orange Field Club last Saturday, the local ball team proved itself worthy of being placed among the first of the second teams in this vicinity.

The old Faulkner place, which has been purchased by Mr. Morgan, of Plainfield, is being overhauled and will shortly be taken possession of.

Miss Kate Coriell is entertaining out of town relatives.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The handsome pennant which was presented to the ball team last week by several admiring friends will no doubt float from a flag staff at each game during the balance of the season. There was hardly time enough between the presentation and Saturday's game to allow for the erection of a suitable flag staff, but admiring friends say such a pretty gift will not float from the top of the backstop again.

Funeral services of Mrs. Smith, mother of C. A. Smith, who died at Jacksonville, Florida, last week were held Tuesday morning at 11:30 in the parlors of the Baptist church, Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks, officiating. Mrs. Smith at one time lived with her son, Charles, before the latter and his family removed to Westfield. Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

The Celluloids, who will cross bats Saturday afternoon with the locals, is considered one of Newark's strongest teams. On Saturday last they met and defeated the strong team of the Roselle Field Club by a score of 3 to 2.

Miss Sarah Cliffton, one of Plainfield's oldest and most respected residents, has been spending a few days with Miss Susie Parse. Miss Cliffton has nearly reached the century mark in life, being 92 years of age.

Miss Agnes Monte, who has been spending two weeks at the home of Mrs. Chas. N. Flanders, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Miss Hattie Guest, of Forest avenue, is enjoying a vacation of a week which is being spent with friends out of town.

Morton C. Noble, of Newark, has been visiting at the home of his brother, Wm. B. Noble, of Park avenue.

The Ladies' Circle of the Baptist church met in the parlors of the church this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Majorie Collins took a group picture of the ball team on the local diamond on Saturday afternoon.

Fanwood Council, R. A., met in their rooms last night and transacted considerable routine business.

There will be dancing at Ivamy's pavillion tonight. Music by Naylor's full orchestra.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Henry A. Meeker will resign his position in Jersey City, Saturday, and enjoy a short vacation before the opening of the Plainfield High School, which he will attend this year.

Mr. and Mrs. TenEyck, of Newark, are on an extended visit with the latter's parents, of this place.

Regular Tuesday evening prayer meeting was held at the Baptist church last night.

Miss Elizabeth Smith entertained a friend from Plainfield, yesterday.

HERMIT INSANE.

Man Beaten by Roughs Has Lost His Reason and is Now in the Hospital.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 27—Daniel B. Ross, the aged hermit who was attacked by two unknown men one night about ten days ago while alone in his barn home, has become insane as the result of the blows which the ruffians gave him on the head. The old man was taken to the Somerville Hospital after his unmerciful beating He then became so violent, imagining that burglars were continually after him, that it was found necessary to send him to the State Hospital at Trenton.

HORSE BROKE NECK.

Peculiar Accident to W. H. Brokaw's Horse That Ended in Death.

A peculiar accident happened on Watchung avenue last evening, when a horse owned by William H. Brokaw, the contractor, stumbled and fell and as a result died an hour later.

It was in front of the old rink building and Mr. Brokaw's son, Morris Brokaw, was driving home from work. Those who saw the accident say that the horse turned a complete somersault and it is believed that the animal broke its neck. The general opinion seems to be that the horse was suffering from blind staggers.

A hundred people gathered in a few minutes and many assisted in taking the animal to the vacant lot opposite, where it died shortly before 8 o'clock. The horse was a valuable one, having been owned by Mr. Brokaw for a long time.

STOPPED RUNAWAY.

Iron Pole Brought Runaway Team to a Sudden Standstill.

The large clock and iron pole supporting it which stands in front of Peter VanFleet's jewelry shop on West Front street, undoubtedly prevented a serious accident yesterday, when Conover's heavy team of horses, attached to a big truck ran away.

The team started from in front of Yaeger's auction rooms on West Front street, and making a dash across the street, collided with the pole, supporting the big clock. The pole, as well as the clock, was twisted into many different shapes but served as a barrier for the team, which was quickly caught before it was allowed to run at breakneck speed through the main street which was filled with horses and wagons. There was no damage to the team or truck.

HOWELL'S SUCCESSOR?

Republicans of Third District Will Meet at Asbury Park Tomorrow.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 27—The Republicans of the Third Congressional District will meet here Thursday to nominate a candidate to succeed Representative Benj. F. Howell, of New Brunswick. Mr. Howell is a candidate to succeed himself. T. Frank Appleby, of Monmouth county, expects to get the support of his own county in the convention.

Martens Have Left.

The martens, who have been making their home on West Front street, opposite W. W. Coriell's residence during the summer, left yesterday for their other quarters. This is interpreted by some to mean that there will be an early fall.

Sarcasm That Failed.

He is such a little man—only three years old—yet he insists upon intruding his presence and advice upon his elders, often to their intense annoyance.

It was only a few days ago that his mother and his Aunt Belle were discussing some household problem—something which an infant was not supposed to know anything about. Suddenly Cliff appeared on the scene, and in a moment was informing both of the feminine members of the family just what the facts were.

"Oh, Wisdom, when did you arrive?" exclaimed Aunt Belle, thinking that she might be able to "squelch" the youngster.

"Just come dis minit," replied the mite, not in the least abashed by the sarcasm. And Aunt Belle gave it up as a hopeless case.—Duluth News-Tribune.

The Task Impossible.

The committee waited upon the successful man.

"Your fame has preceded you," they said as he entered the room. He smiled serenely. "I am rather well known," he admitted, modestly.

"You have given names to sleeping cars, new cigars, health foods and games—names that have pleased the public and your patrons."

The successful man bowed.

"Well," said the spokesman, "we have a new baby at our house, and we have come to you to select a name that will please her parents, sisters and brothers, grandparents, cousins, uncles, aunts and friends of the family, and herself later on."

The successful man frowned sternly.

"Sir," he said, "I do not undertake the impossible."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Couldn't Find the Combination.

At a suburban auction of household goods an active and successful bidder was a Montgomery county farmer. His purchases were piled high in one corner of the room, and he was still eager when a thermometer was offered There was no bidding from any quarter, and the auctioneer, reaching it out to the farmer, said:

"Here, give me a quarter for it and take it along!"

"No! Not for me!" said the farmer, backing away.

"Why, that's dirt cheap!" exclaimed the auctioneer. "Don't you want a thermometer?"

"Nup!" was the decided reply. "I had one a year or two ago, and fooled around it an' lost time without being able to regulate it at all. Why, I couldn't even open the darned thing!"—Philadelphia Times.

Taking It Literally.

One day while Pat was walking along the street he caught sight of the bill, "Apartments Furnished," whereupon he boldly knocked at the door.

It was opened by the landlady in person, and the following conversation took place:

"Phat would you furnish my room for?" asked Pat.

"Furnish your room for?" said the landlady. "What do you mean?"

"Why, you've got 'Apartments Furnished' in your windows," said Pat.

"Well, that means that I've got a room to let already furnished," and she slammed the door in his face, leaving Pat to think it over.—London Spare Moments.

Matrimonial "Ads" Explained.

The reasons why a man should employ a matrimonial advertisement in order to get married, are often a source of bewilderment.

A widower who had married a second time through this agency and sought a divorce from her, was asked the question in court.

He replied that he advertised on the theory of a man who advertised for a lost dog. He did not get the dog back, but he got better ones. So he knew he could not get his lost wife back—he thought he might get offers of three better ones. He took one of the three, and he was disappointed.—London Express.

The Direct Road to Heaven.

"Out in my district," says Representative Biedler, of Ohio, "there is a very clever preacher. One day a man who does not think much of religion thought he would stump the preacher.

"'Parson,' he said, 'what is the best way to heaven?'

"'Turn to the right and then keep straight ahead,' replied the preacher without an instant's hesitation.—Washington Post.

MILES' VISIT TO MANILA.

To Be Made Under a New and Revised Application.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—It has developed that General Miles' application to go to the Philippines was of comparatively recent date and was in no way connected with his application of several months ago. When the first application was made, it was coupled with certain suggestions as to terminating the war, and Secretary Root's refusal to grant the first request was based largely upon these phases of the application.

In view of this it is understood that General Miles restricted his second application so as to make the trip one for purely military purposes. Although the text of the application was not given out at the war department, it is said that one of its features is a request that the return from the Philippines be by way of the eastern route. As the application is approved General Miles will return by this route, which insures his visiting Europe on his way back to America.

It is expected that Mrs. Miles will accompany the general to the Philippines, and it may be that his married daughter, who is the wife of Colonel Reber, one of the general's aids, will also accompany the party. When the general returns from his New England trip, his plans will be more fully made known.

To Study the Steel Trust.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—The object of the journey of Count von Thiele-Winckler, a mine owner and prominent German financier, to the United States in September is specifically to study the United States Steel corporation. The count takes with him two or three experts, and he may be regarded as an expert himself since he is a practical iron man, though no "chimney baron," as the German nobility sneeringly characterize the newly ennobled business men. Count von Thiele-Winckler has asked the managers of the United States Steel corporation for an opportunity to really study its organization and details of administration at first hand, and the count has been informed through the Deutsche bank, which made the inquiry, that he would have every facility for so doing, and a tour has been sketched out for him and suggestions have been made as to how he could best accomplish his mission.

Army Telegraph to Alaska Open.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Major Richard E. Thompson, acting chief of the signal office of the war department, has received a telegram announcing that the army telegraph line between Fort Liscum at Port Valdez and Fort Egbert at Eagle City, Alaska, which has been in course of construction for nearly two and a half years, has been opened. This is welcome intelligence to the officers of the signal corps, for now all that is needed for the complete opening up to communication of the Yukon territory is the successful installation of the wireless systems, for which contracts have been let.

Big Lumber Company Fails.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—The Culver Lumber company, successors to the Kansas City Southern Lumber company, owning extensive timber forests at Craighead, Okla., with lumber yards in Kansas City, Mo., and a sash, door and box factory at Kansas City, Kan., has been placed in a receiver's hands on application of H. A. Culver, the company's manager. Assets are estimated at $650,000 and liabilities at $250,000.

Uprising In Transvaal Feared.

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 27.—A strong force of British troops has been dispatched to the western border of the Transvaal ostensibly to relieve troops ordered to India, but it is currently reported that this step is taken owing to disturbances among the natives. Rumors are also current here of an intention to annex or establish a protectorate over Swaziland, where a strong force of constabulary is now posted.

A Syracuse Soldier Dead.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—John C. Melligan, sergeant major of the Third battalion, national guard, is dead from paralysis. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war, having gone out with Company C, Third New York volunteer infantry. Subsequently he was commissioned first lieutenant and captain in the Two Hundred and First New York volunteer infantry.

Substitutes for Panama Hats.

Panama straw hats are highly fashionable in Japan, though on account of the price, which is much higher than that of the ordinary straw hats, they are bought only by the rich or the fashionable. This obstacle may be removed if, as reported in an Osaka paper, the substitutes for the Panama straw found in middle Formosa are really adapted for the purpose. The substitutes are said to be the fibers of the leaves of a certain tropical tree of very rapid growth. Six fibers can be obtained from each leaf, which is about four inches wide and four feet long, and it is said that the cost of 10,000 fibers is about six yen. A certain foreign firm of Yokohama is said to have already given a large order for the fibers, and the Panama hats made with this new material may therefore appear on the market this summer. If the new fibers are really suited for headgear Formosa may be said to have hit upon a new resource.—Japan Weekly Times.

Joys of Camp Life.

Camping—living the day long in "God's own out-of-doors," and sleeping at night under the stars in the fragrant forest—is one of the sweetest modes of existence this world can offer; and in all America there is no section, of equal area, affording better or more diversified opportunities to the camper, boatman or canoeist than does the Adirondack region. Every requisite which goes to make up a perfect camping or cruising ground has here been lavishly supplied by nature; captivating scenery, sublime in places, yet always reposeful, millions of acres of verdant forests, thousands of navigable lakes, streams and ponds, range on range of majestic mountains, innumerable crystal springs, a climate and an air that are incomparable in their life-renewing properties—all these, and more, are found in most fascinating combination in the Adirondacks.—Harry V. Radford, in Four-Track News.

Fishing in City Streets.

In the town of Winchester, England, people may be seen in the public streets fishing for trout. Several minor streams feed the river Itchen, which flows so calmly and clear through the city. These streams often run open down a Winchester street here and there, or they thus run for a certain distance and then are conducted through underground passages for a fair length, after which they emerge once more to the light of day. Where they run underground there are in many places gratings that cover them from the street and lead the rain into them, but which are not sufficiently inclosed to prevent the keen fisherman from dropping his baited line through the grating and patiently waiting for a bite. He often gets such a bite, too, from a trout of good size, and he finds his line carried away some distance.—N. Y. Sun.

Trees as Cooling Agents.

We are in the habit of seeking the shade of a tree as a means of getting cool, but that is not the only power it has of reducing the temperature. On the same principle that a lump of ice will cool the air around it, because its own temperature is uniformly about 45 degrees; that is to say, the temperature of the tree as a body. This is little understood, perhaps, but it is a recognized scientific fact, and it adds much force to the argument in favor of planting trees in cities. A clump of trees is capable of making a material reduction in temperature. The woods, therefore, are cool, not only because they are shady, but because the trees are constantly fighting off the heat.—Science.

Troubles Enough.

Having once lost a case in New York "Counselor" Nolan sadly remarked: "My poor client is little likely to get justice done here until the judgment day."

"Well, counselor," said the court, "if I have an opportunity, I'll plead for the poor woman myself on that day."

"Your honor," replied Nolan, "will have troubles of your own upon that day."—Argonaut.

Sticking to One Location.

A singular illustration of the persistence with which the Japanese adhere to their family vocations is seen in an announcement in a Japanese newspaper that a certain celebrated dancing master was to hold a service in honor of the one thousandth anniversary of the death of his ancestor, who was the first of the family to take up the profession.—N. Y. Sun.

One Way to Avoid It.

"Dearie," said Mrs. Lovedovey, "I see in the papers that a man out west has had his stomach removed. I wonder why?"

AN OUTDOOR ROOM.

How a Comfortable Hot Weather Apartment May Be Made.

A summer room is a great comfort during August and September. It may be erected in the midst of a splendid garden or in a city back yard—it makes no difference.

In the first place, four poles or pieces of scantling are fixed in the ground where the room corners are to be. The tops of these are connected by four other pieces of wood, which should be screwed in position so at the end of the summer the structure may be taken to pieces. This is all the woodwork required. Indian or Chinese matting is used to cover the frame. This is lined on the inner side with plain colored cambric, preferably green. The matting is secured to the framework by tapes, so that if desired the sides may be raised or lowered. A pole is placed in the center of the room in order to raise the roof that the rain may run off easily. The wall matting at its lower edge is tied to pegs driven into the ground.

Now, as to the furnishing, the entrance may be hidden by a drapery on a bamboo rod. Folds of cheap figured cretonne will hide the inner framework. The floor should be the natural grass. Two or three lounging chairs and a table are all the furniture necessary. These are of bamboo or wicker. A hammock is a great comfort, but as it is not safe to swing it from the room posts it should be secured to a portable support consisting of two A shaped pieces joined together by two crosspieces one above the other. The highest crosspiece is secured to the apexes of the two A's, and the lower has its ends secured to the centers of the crossbars of the A shaped pieces.

A room of this sort may be constructed also of canework, and the only things needed are a wooden frame bored with a quantity of small holes just large enough to take the cane freely, a number of tiny pegs to fit the holes and a quantity of split cane, which may be obtained from a chairmaker. R. DE LA BAUME.

COOKING FOR THE SICK.

How to Tempt the Capricious Appetites of Convalescents.

Cooking for the sick ought to be taught as a special art, for much depends upon it. The slightest thing will "set" a sick person against food, to say nothing of the injury done to the delicate stomach by food hastily and crudely prepared.

In the first place, let me give a word of advice: Don't place too much food at one time before a person who is ill. Serve in grudging quantities and in the daintiest manner in order that the appetite may be aroused. More than one convalescence has been retarded through the patient being swamped with food which she had not the courage even to attempt to eat.

TOO MUCH FOOD.

Only the freshest and best of everything should be used—the purest filtered water, the reddest, soundest beef, the most perfectly ripe fruit. Nothing should be used after it has been left standing any length of time, and no food should ever be left in the sickroom. Always keep food and drink for the sick in china, never in metal, not even in silver. A napkin over a saucer makes an air tight cover.

Milk used instead of water for poaching an egg for an invalid will impart a delicate flavor.

Wine whey makes an excellent dish. Take three ounces of sherry wine and half a cup of milk. Scald the milk, add the wine and remove quickly from the fire. Put on ice until cold and sweeten to taste.

"Where are you going?" demanded the chief.

"Naturally, I was going home, since we cannot come to an arrangement."

"Who said we could not?" grumbling. "I merely wanted to find out all I could about the matter. Well, now, I must leave you to arrange a meeting with this fellow," and he made a grimace as if he did not like to think that the direction of the capture was to be taken out of his hands.

"Yes, I hope to perfect my arrangements so that he can be nabbed in a couple of days. When everything is fixed beyond the possibility of failure you shall hear from me."

"How very kind." The superintendent was talking to himself. Then, in a louder voice. "Well, I shall count on you. How do you mean to go about it? You know he is apt to show a vigorous fight. You will need help."

"I well know the desperate nature of the man from reputation. I shall ask you to post your men in the street. When I fire a pistol you can rush in. But the details can be arranged later. Now, it is too early in the day to think of everything."

"I shall be anxious until I hear from you," said the chief.

"For reasons it is unnecessary to mention I am quite as anxious as you that the affair should be terminated," and Ellison bowed and left the office.

"The deuce!" he exclaimed when he found himself in the street. "How Barnes did glare at me at times. I wonder if I have done well to put my head in the lion's mouth? Bah! the race is to the swift!" and with a careless laugh he went his way.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE FACE IN THE HEDGE.

James Ellison stood before an open safe built in the wall of the study in his city house. He was examining its contents, and occasionally comparing what he found with a list written down in a little book he held in one hand. Now and then he sighed, while a worried look came over his face. Suddenly at the sound of a door being opened he closed the safe hurriedly and turned the knob.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" with a weary air, as his brother entered the room looking light-hearted and debonair. He went back to his seat by the desk, and sat there with his head resting on one hand in an attitude of deep dejection.

"Yes, it's only me," replied the brother. "Why, you started, Jimmy, when I came in, as if you had been a burglar surprised in the act of rifling that safe."

"You have an unpleasant way of plunging in on people when you are not expected——"

"Or wanted," continued the other, with a malicious smile, as he flung himself down into a chair and lit a cigarette.

"I thought I had locked the door; I was busy with accounts."

"Preparing to give an account of your stewardship, I suppose," and Frank, watching his brother's face, saw a faint flush gather at the words.

"That is my own concern," he said, testily. "I hope you did not come here to be quarrelsome. You know we never could get along well together."

"That was not my fault, for I am naturally of a mild disposition," replied the other, with mock earnestness.

"You happened to marry a fortune, and then became so airy that it was no longer possible for us to pull together in harness. Now, as I said before, I am glad to see that you are preparing to give an account of your stewardship." James looked at his brother in surprise.

"I don't know what you are driving at, nor do I see what possible business it is of yours."

"A great deal my business. Your daughter, when she marries, will, naturally, want the bulk of the fortune. Well, as I intend to mary her, I am interested that my wife should receive her fortune intact."

James Ellison laughed, but there was little heartiness in it.

"You still cling to that absurd idea. I thought the other day you were merely joking."

"I never joke on such a serious subject. Apart from the fortune, I find the young woman charming, and I am not too old to appreciate the charms, mental and physical, of so attractive a personage. I know you will find it hard to surrender the fortune, or the biggest part of it, to me, but you will have it in the family, and that should be a satisfaction," with a grin.

"Oh, a great satisfaction," replied James, grimly, as he looked at his brother keenly, to make sure that he was really in earnest. "And Grace, does she consider your attentions in any light but that of ridicule?"

"Oh, I have not been precipitate. I mean to win her by kindness.

"Since that—er—er—unfortunate tragedy she is in a sympathetic mood, and I can do much to comfort and console her." Frank Ellison reeled off this speech with apparent satisfaction, as if he was quite sure of his ground.

"And the school-teacher, what of him?"

"I don't think I need fear him any—he is as good as done for."

"You evidently are not aware of what has taken place," said James Ellison, with a pleasure that he could not disguise.

"What do you mean?"

"Why, the police have made an arrest. It is in this morning's paper." Frank Ellison allowed the cigarette to fall from his fingers, and the air of smiling complacency disappeared from his face.

"The police have found an earring, one of those my poor wife was robbed of on the night of the murder, in a pawnbroker's shop in this city. They have found the man who pawned it, and, though he denies that he had anything to do with the crime, they have still hopes of getting him to confess. Why, you seem very much disturbed over the news," as Frank flung himself out of the chair where he was seated, and walked back and forth with a nervous air, as if unable to keep still in one place.

"And what might this fellow call himself," he asked, as he paused by his brother's chair.

"He rejoices in the name of 'Reddy,' as the police know him. What his real name is no one knows."

Frank Ellison looked relieved, and went back quietly to his seat.

"Well, perhaps they will find that the poor fellow's story is true. That need not interfere with my plans."

"But she will never forget Barnett. You don't know what a will that little woman possesses," said James. "To tell the truth, I would rather see her his wife than yours."

It was well that he did not notice the expression of anger that came over his brother's face as he said this, for it was not pleasant, but Frank could control his features, and the cloud was but a passing one.

"I thank you for your good opinion. Perhaps if I had been favored by fortune in capturing an heiress I I might have lived as virtuous a life as you," with a sneering intonation in his voice.

"Now, that you are frank enough in saying that you prefer the schoolteacher to me, I will give you a piece of interesting news."

James regarded the other with a certain uneasiness, wondering if it were well that he should anger him.

"I have made arrangements that cannot fail to get hold of that agreement."

"Ah!"

"When it is in my possession I shall be in a position to dictate terms. You will be interested in helping me in this marriage, because otherwise I should be tempted to make the paper public, and then every penny you have in the world will go to your wife's relatives."

James Ellison was silent, wishing that he had not provoked his brother. But, after all, this might be mere bravado.

"When can you prove beyond doubt that the paper is in your possession," he said, cautiously, "we may be able to come to an arrangement."

"Well, I expect in a few days to show you that I am not building a house of cards." And then, going over to his brother, he laid his hand on his arm. "In the meantime, Jimmy, I am sure that you will not resort to any double dealing that would prejudice my case."

For a second their eyes met, but it was James Ellison who first looked away.

"I will do nothing for a week," he said. "Then I will act as I wish."

"A week be it," replied Frank. "And where is Grace now?"

"I think you will find her in the garden. Now, don't make yourself absurd. You know the poor child has had trouble enough of late."

"Don't fear that I shall do anything to make her unhappy. I can be very agreeable when I wish." And he went out and left his brother alone.

"If he really could get hold of the paper he might have the upper hand of me," said James Ellison to himself. "Unless," and he cast an anxious look in the direction of the safe, "unless the fortune could be placed out of his reach. Without that he would never care to marry. It is the money that he wants, and nothing more. Bah!" with an angry gesture. "Rather than throw her into the arms of such a rascal, I—I——But pshaw! What am I talking about? She loves the other, and this cunning rogue could never win her in a century." And, comforted by this thought, he went to work again at his accounts.

Frank Ellison was smiling to himself as he made his way down the stairs, as if something amused him greatly.

THE WAR GAME.

Brisk Warming Up Exercise at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 27.—The warming up exercise of the army of the defense of this vicinity has become quite brisk, with almost continuous target practice and a general alarm over an imaginary foe. No leave was given to the men from any one of the three forts defending the entrance to Narragansett bay. The booming of cannon from Forts Greble and Wetherill resembled closely a cannonade. Every gun in those two forts as well as all the mortars were used.

Shortly before 8 o clock came the roll of the drum and the scurry of troops to the parapets. Almost at once a dozen searchlights burst forth and began a critical inspection of the channel, while signal lights were used in addition to the telephone in communication between the two forts. As only a few belated fishermen were discovered running in from sea the game did not seem worth the candle, and the troops were recalled. Searchlight practice was kept up, however, for some time after. The little flying squadron of torpedo boats has arrived from the eastward.

President of Union Pacific Arrested.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 27.—Ten warrants have been served on President Burt of the Union Pacific Railroad company, charging him jointly with W. Arnett, an Indianapolis labor agent, with false imprisonment. The warrants were sworn out by ten men who allege they were hired by Arnett to work in the shops of the Union Pacific road at Denver. The warrants charge that each of the men was imprisoned in cars and that they were not given their liberty until they reached the shopyards of the company in this city. President Burt acknowledged service and filed a bond for his appearance in court.

Most Powerful Warships.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The Connecticut and Louisiana, the two new battleships authorized by the last naval appropriation bill, will carry the most powerful guns, measured by caliber, in the world. With the building of each new set of battleships Admiral O'Neil, chief of the bureau of ordnance, has tried to increase the power of the main batteries, and for the Connecticut and Louisiana he intends to increase the length of the big turret guns to .45 caliber. Heretofore the longest naval guns built have been only forty times their caliber.

A New Revenue Cutter.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The new revenue cutter Tuscarora, just completed for the government at Richmond, Va., will have her trial trip tomorrow, running eight miles out to sea from Newport News. The trial will be observed by Captain Collins, chief engineer of the revenue cutter service, and a board of engineer officers from that service. The Tuscarora will be stationed on the great lakes, with headquarters at Milwaukee.

Troops Ordered to Gettysburg.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Orders have been issued by the war department directing that the band and two troops of the Second cavalry and the Fourth battery, field artillery, now stationed at Fort Myer, Va., shall march to Gettysburg, Pa., to participate in the ceremonies upon the battlefield there on Sept. 19 and 20, incident to the dedication of a monument in honor of the late Major General Henry W. Slocum.

THE HAITIAN REVOLT

Provisional Government Recaptures Limbe.

HEAVY LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES.

Battle Has Also Taken Place at Marmelade—United States Cruiser Cincinnati at Cape Haitien.

CAPE HAITIEN, Aug. 27.—The village of Limbe, eighty-two miles north of Port au Prince, has been attacked and recaptured by troops of the provisional government. Limbe was in the possession of Firminite soldiers from the Artibonite district. The fighting was severe and lasted from midnight to midday. Many men on both sides were killed. The town was completely destroyed by fire.

The defenders of Limbe were reenforced by marines landed from the gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot, which is in the Firminite service. General Alexis Nord has gone forward to take command of the troops of the provisional government.

A battle has also taken place at Marmelade, but details of this engagement are lacking. Cape Haitien is calm.

The United States cruiser Cincinnati has arrived here from La Guayra, Venezuela.

Troops of the provisional government under General Nord were defeated on Aug. 9 at Limbe by forces under General Albert Salnave, commander of the Artibonite Firminite soldiers. General Nord's cannon and munitions of war were captured in this engagement, many of his soldiers were killed and a great number were taken prisoners.

Marmelade was captured on Aug. 7 by troops under General Nord. St. Michael was captured the same day. General Nord is at present minister of war under the provisional government.

THE WAR IN THE ISTHMUS.

Uribe Uribe Drags In the Canal Question.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The proclamation just issued by General Uribe Uribe, one of the leaders of the revolutionary forces in Colombia, urging his followers to continue the warfare against the government forces until 1904, when, he declares, their franchise of the Panama Canal company will be invalid and negotiations can be carried on directly between Colombia and the United States, is regarded with considerable interest in Central and South American diplomatic quarters here.

The officials of the Colombian legation in Washington admit that the six years' extension to the Panama company's franchise granted by former President San Clemente is open to a question of legality, for the reason that, while it was approved by the Colombian cabinet, it was not ratified by the Colombian congress. Indeed, it is stated here the proposed extension was not even submitted to the Colombian legislature, the country being then in a disturbed condition which precluded a calling together of that body.

However, Colombian officials here point out that the questioned extension of time has nothing whatever to do with the present negotiations between the United States and Colombia in regard to the canal. No one in Colombia, they state, questions for a moment the validity of the franchise up to 1904. The intervening time they consider ample for the clearing of title by the French company and the transfer of its rights to the United States government. A disturbed condition, which precluded, they claim, would not enter into the matter at all.

The officials are inclined to scoff at the idea that a revolution of sufficient strength to prevent the government from carrying out its plans in regard to the canal can be kept up until 1904. A cablegram has just been received from President Maroquin stating that the interior of Colombia is entirely quiet, the only disturbance, barring the troubles on the isthmus, being in the state of Magdalena, near the Venezuelan frontier.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Captain Overbaugh is making arrangements to take his aggregation of bluecoats over to Newark for a return game with the Fourth Precinct team. Some day next week will probably be selected.

The Little Eagle A. C. defeated the West End Terrors by the score of 15 to 10, this morning. The batteries were J. Sullivan and J. Cullen for the winning team and G. Louden and Nugent for the losers.

Manager Townley made a rare find when he signed Force as twirler for the firemen's team. He is certainly a wonder and if he keeps up with the start he made Monday he will be shining among the larger lights among the League pitcehrs.

In an exciting game on Martine's Common, yesterday, the Park Club team defeated the Second Streeters by a score of 21 to 2. The batteries were Trembly and Keefe for the Park Club and Linke and Keefe for the Second Streeters. Trembly struck out sixteen men and Linke eight.

Manager Cose had decided to place Rushmore in the box for Hope Saturday. By his manner, Saturday, he demonstrated that he has a cool head and knows what to do at the critical point. He and Catcher Hartfelder are now practicing daily and will present a formidable battery on their next appearance.

Baseball lovers will have any number of opportunities for witnessing their favorite sport on Labor Day. All the League teams have practiclaly decided upon games either in or about the city and nearly a dozen amateur nines have arranged for battles on the diamond. A complete list will be given in Saturday's Daily Press.

The loss of Saturday's game was a great disappointment to many of the Hope followers but there are some who have not yet lost hope of seeing the pennant in the Y. M. A. trophy room. St. Mary has always been a hoodoo to the Y. M. C. A. aggregation and Saturday may see another defeat for the latter. Providing Hope turns the tables on the Safe Works and wins out they will again have an opportunity of securing the covetted prize. It is rather a forlorn outlook but still "while there is life Hope is in the strife," and truth is stranger than fiction.

It seems beyond belief that in the present era of baseball a man professing to be an American knows no better than to interrupt the progress of a fair hit ball, which he is but a spectator. Such was the case at Saturday's Safe Works-St. Mary's game, when Wilhelm made a pretty drive to left field that was worth two bases. It passed Fielder Barry and was headed straight along when a man stepped out of the crowd caught the ball and threw it back. His act was witnessed by Wilhelm who was compelled to stay on first, but not without giving the ignoramus a reprimand that made him slink away.

GOLF.

The Englewood Golf Club team will play a match next Saturday with the Hillside team on the local course. As the Englewood's have a very strong team an interesting match may be looked for.

Every one of these pleasant days there are a number of golf players to be found on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course. The course is in the best of condition and the popular game can be played with all the advantages that go with it.

Morris J. Dumont, the captain of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team, will return this week from the White Mountains, where he has been spending his vacation. He will then select his team for the match next Saturday with Englewood.

Despite the fact that there are not many scheduled events on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, many devotees of tennis are to be seen nearly every day on the club's courts and some interesting individual matches are frequently played.

The Metropolitan papers are devoting much space to the promising golfers who will be at Princeton University this year, and special mention is made of F. O. Reinhart, J. W. Baker, of this city, and Louis James, from the west, the winner of the National Amateur Championship. James is now at Princeton preparing for his entrance to the University.

FOOTBALL.

Preparations are being made by the Orange Field Club to take up football at the close of the present baseball season. This organization which has supported an excellent baseball team during the past season intends to keep up its reputation on the gridiron. The first practice game will be held Wednesday of next week and all club members who wish to be numbered in the contemplated team should report on that date. Practice games will be held often and regularly after that as the first scheduled game is to be with the Norwood A. C. on October 4. This year's team is to average 130 pounds and all elevens averaging 120 to 140 are requested to communicate with the manager, Harry C. Smith, 65 Westervelt avenue, city.

NO CAUSE FOR ACTION.

The Verdict in a Suit for Rent in Justice Huff's Court.

In Justice Huff's court, yesterday, a jury decided the question of ownership of a house occupied by Mrs. Emeline Ruggles, colored, on West Third street. John Engle, of New York, who it is said, purchased the property from Mrs. Samuel Dreier, of West Front street, and claims ownership, sued Mrs. Buggles for the July rent, $5. Mrs. Ruggles claimed ownership. After the case was argued by Francis J. Blatz for the plaintiff and S. S. Swackhamer for the defendant, it was given to the jury who returned a verdict of no cause for action after two ballots were taken.

The following persons composed the jury: W. W. Coriell, John DeMeza, Henry J. Talford, Richard Osland, P. H. Stillwell, Ernest Rapalje, R. Benson, F. Scheuerlein, James Davis, Charles S. McGinley, P. H. Latourette and J. W. Trimmer.

Church Picnic Was Success.

The picnic of the German Reformed church, held yesterday at Debele's Farm, was a great success. The day was most enjoyably spent by all. The pillow, given by Mrs. Joseph Angerbauer, was won by Mrs. Fred Endress. Games during the afternoon added greatly to the success of the affair.

A FERRYBOAT BROKE SHAFT

THE MAUCH CHUNK, JERSEY CENTRAL BOAT, WENT ADRIFT.

Passengers Were Frightened, But She Was Towed to Her Slip Without Injury.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, August 27—Shortly before 9 o'clock this morning the Jersey Central ferryboat Mauch Chunk, crowded to the rail with commuters, many of them Plainfielders, broke her crank shaft while rounding the battery. For almost an hour she drifted helplessly about the lower bay, narrowly averting several collisions with passing craft.

For a time there was a wild panic among the passengers, many of whom made a wild rush for the life preservers. The snapping of the shaft rendered the Mauch Chunk powerless and her shrill toots for assistance attracted attention from all over the water front.

Just at the time the accident happened the ferryboat Easton, the Mauch Chunk's big sister slip, left her slip at Whitehall street, for which the disabled boat had been making.

The Easton at once put to aid the Mauch Chunk, but before she could reach her the latter boat had been carried almost to Liberty Island by the tide.

Lines were then fastened to the Mauch Chunk and she was brought alongside the Easton, after which the panicstriken passengers were transferred. With the Mauch Chunk in tow the Easton, loaded down with her own passengers and the crowd that had been on the Mauch Chunk, started for Communipaw.

The hawser parted several times, and tugs were finally summoned to get the boats safely across the river.

SEEK THE OFFICE.

Many Candidates Anxious to be Secretary of State Association.

At the twenty-fifth annual convention of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association to be held in Atlantic City, September 10 and 11, among other business to be transacted will be the election of a secretary to succeed the late Horace Brown. Mr Brown held office for twenty-one years, his re-election never having been opposed. There are said to be about 100 candidates for the place now, the most prominent of whom is Assistant Secretary William Exhall, of Newark. He has acted as secretary since the death of Mr. Brown.

Killed Big Snake.

While walking through Boice's apple orchard on Brook avenue, this morning, Harry Pollard, of Plainfield avenue, discovered a large blacksnake in the grass a short distance from the path. He promptly despatched the reptile and found it to be five feet in length. It is rather unusual for a snake to get so far in the haunts of civilization and it is a mystery as to where it could have come from.

Couldn't Pay Cash.

Patrolman Fahn, of the borough, yesterday afternoon arrested Edward Kennedy on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Up before Recorder Doud last evening, he was fined $20 or given his choice of thirty days. Unable to come up with the dough, Chief Campbell took him to Somerville this morning.

Entertained Guests.

E. I. Boyle, the blind musician and entertainer, was present at the Hotel Netherwood, last evening. His programme consisted of whistling solos, imitations, songs and recitations. He was listened to during the evening by a large audience and his work was much enjoyed by all. A collection at the close amounted to almost $40.

Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Mrs. Ella B. Carter, of Newark, in a communication to the Newark Advertiser about Dr. J. Ackerman Coles' gift to the Newark Free Public Library, expresses regret that it is not on view. This was a large oil painting by Nechutrey, depicting the surrender by the children of the keys of the town of Naumburg in Saxony to the Hussite General Procopius, thus saving the town from sacking. The painting was given to the library over a year ago to be hung in the children's department opposite its main entrance. Mrs. Carter ascertained that the painting was not in the children's department. She later found it in the museum on the fourth floor and learned that on account of its size, 5x7, it would dwarf all the other pictures, hence it had never been placed as intended.

NOTHING DOING AT LEHIGH COAL YARDS

Only 20,000 Tons Remain of the Huge Stock Once Stored at South Plainfield.

ALL VERY QUIET THERE.

NO ONE IS ALLOWED INSIDE OF THE PREMISES NOW.

Manager Molineux Was Courteous, But He Refused to Talk to Visiting Press Reporter—Few Men Employed There Now.

With the end of the coal strike apparently as far off as ever, the stock of coal in the yards of the Lehigh Valley Railway at South Plainfield is almost depleted. Three hundred thousand tons piled in several large pyramids at the beginning of the strike have dwindled away to a mere pittance of less than 20,000 tons. There are also in the yards one hundred hoppers filled with hard coal aggregating about 1,500 tons, concealed from public view by a long row of freight cars.

Great care is taken at the yards that no one not officially connected with the railroad shall obtain admittance. Not even the section foreman or any of the trackmen is allowed to enter the area where the coal is stored. A watchman guards the premises night and day. Yesterday afternoon a Press reporter visiting the grounds was courteously received by Manager Molineux, but was not allowed to take even an optical inventory of the coal heaps, and the manager himself to all questions was in that state known as blissful ignorance.

"You see that stick there. I know that's wood. And that's all I do know about this yard," was the only information that Mr. Molineux would volunteer.

"Nothin' doing'" aptly described the situation at South Plainfield. Instead of the large army of Polish and Hungarian workmen that were employed there a few months ago there is now on duty but a corporal's guard. The men have either been discharged or sent to other points where they can be of some service to the company. Passing locomotives now leave in their trail ebon volumes of smoke, eloquent of bituminous coal in the fire box. Even the Black Diamond express has her tender filled with a composite of the hard and soft varieties.

WAS NOT ARRESTED.

A. F. Power Simply Responded to Summons to Appear in Court.

There are no new developments in the case of Andrew F. Power, of this city, against Governor Kimball, of Rhode Island, who is charged with blackmail. The governor is liable to arrest should he visit New York at any time within the next two years. He can at any time go to New York and subsequently be released on bail if he choses, but whether he will do this remains to be seen.

In the recent report of the action brought against Governor Kimball by Mr. Power it was incidentally stated in the heading that it was the result of Mr. Powers's previous arrest. Mr. Power was not arrested but simply appeared in court in answer to a summons.

REPRESENTED THE MEN.

A. F. Irvine Has Acted as Arbitrator in Several Labor Troubles.

A. F. Irvine, of New Haven, who is to address the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday, was waited upon recently by a committee reprsenting 1,500 strikers and asked to arbitrate their case with their employers. The men had confidence enough in Mr. Irvine to leave to his judgment anything that he decided upon.

After a conference which he had with the employers, he was able to obtain for them a satisfactory settlement in the way of a five per cent. increase in wages. At the recent street railroad strike in New Haven a committee was appointed to wait upon him but he was out of the city.

His subject for Sunday wil be "A Railroad Journey," and all men are cordially invited to attend.

—The fruit now arriving at Neuman Brothers is good to look upon. The peaches are large and nice and are being retailed at 50, 60, 65 and 75 cents per basket.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Y. Neighbor, of Somerset street, have gone to Far Rockaway to spend their vacation.

READY FOR CAMP.

Hope Y. M. A. Members Received Their Final Instruction Last Night.

Final instructions were given the intending Lake Hopatcong campers at last evening's meeting, of the Hope Y. M. A. The number in the party will be fully as large as expected as more names have recently been added to the list. Wednesday of next week will be the starting day and the return will not be made until the thirteenth. Tents will be pitched near Bishops Rock, on a site picked out by John H. Cose during a recent trip to the lake.

MEMORY OF WORTHY WOMAN

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. MARY ANN BINGAMAN.

Held From the Residence of Her Son, Samuel Bingaman, Last Night.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Mary Anna Bingaman were held from the residence of her son, Samuel Bingaman, 218 East Ninth street, last evening at 8 o'clock, when a large number of friends and neighbors were present to pay their last respects to one much admired and respected.

Rev. Edward Love, of this city, conducted the services. He referred in a most touching manner to the beautiful life of the departed. He spoke of the strong love existing between a mother and her children, how the first words in life were spoken to the mother thereby knitting the strongest tie on earth. He also referred to Mrs. Bingaman's exemplary Christian character which was so strong and helpful to those close to her. At the conclusion of his remarks, he offered a fervent prayer.

During the services a quartette, consisting of Nelson A. Miller, R. Wilson Derby, E. E. Runyon and E. S. Alpaugh, sang effectively "Lead, Kindly Light," "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and "Some Sweet Morn." There was a beautiful display of floral tributes including an anchor, a pillow and a wreath, the latter bearing the inscription "Mother."

BUILDING BOOM.

New Contracts for Buildings to be Erected in the Town of Lincoln.

The much bandied about town of Lincoln is at present enjoying a building boom such as was hardly ever dreamed of by its founder, S. D. Drake. Following closely upon the contract being awarded for the erection of the Lincoln Chamois and Leather Company's buildings, the Lincoln Steel Works Company has commenced hauling brick for a large addition to its present plant. The plans call for a structure 300 feet long, two stories in height.

The Lincoln Water-Proof Company, one of the town's first industries, has also felt the business boom and has awarded a contract for the erection of a building equal in size to the present structure. In a short time it will be able to double its output. Dewey Park modestly comes to the fore to make known that J. D. Loizeaux, of this city, will shortly reect four houses at that place.

MISS CURRY TALKED.

Spoke at Combined Church and Endeavor Prayer Meeting.

The combined church prayer-meeting and Christian Endeavor Society service at the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening proved to be a very helpful and interesting one. The president of the society, Miss Cora Brokaw, conducted the service, and Miss Sara Curry, of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, gave a talk concerning her work. D. M. Torrey also gave a talk and three children from the Home were present and sang several selections. The collection was given to the Home, as will all of the collections received on Wednesday evenings during August.

For the Holiday.

A very profitable way of spending Labor Day will be to join St. Patrick's Alliance in their annual excursion to Orange Grove, L. I. The sail is a pleasant one and besides there are many attractions at the grove which will help all to have an enjoyable time. This will make a cheap and delightful holiday trip.

Everybody is Talking.

And it looks as if about everybody is going to Coney Island with the Grocers, Labor Day. Don't be the only one left in Plainfield that day but come along. You would be very lonesome in town alone all day.

Schools Will Open.

The Plainfield public schools will reopen Tuesday morning, Sept. 9.

DEMOCRATS OFF FOR DAY AT THE SHORE

Elizabeth City Committee's Outing Started This Morning in Auspicious Fashion.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE.

IDEAL WEATHER BROUGHT OUT A LARGE CROWD FOR IT.

A Few Republicans Went Along to See the Fun—Lots of Prominent Democrats in This and Other Counties in the Party.

Democrats of Union county have evidently some influence with the weather bureau, even if their brethren are not wielding the gavel of authority throughout the Nation. On the occasion of the fifth annual outing of the Elizabeth city committee today to Point View Grove, Long Island Sound, Old Sol could not have beamed more brightly if he tried.

James E. Martine and a party of Plainfielders went to Elizabeth this morning to accompany the excursionists. Shortly after 9 o'clock the steamer Isabel put off from the dock at the Port, Captain Anning J. Smith in command. The boat was laden down from stern to prow with Democrats of every hue, regulars, independents, insurgents, together with a goodly number of Republicans who went along to enjoy the day's outing and laugh at the other fellows.

DeWitt C. Flanagan was early on hand. Noted in the crowd were Congressman Joseph Sulzer, of New York, and several other notables, including Mayor Ryan, of Elizabeth, Colonel Collins, who is still within the party lines, Bob Davis, of Jersey City, and Allen Benny, of Bayonne. The Elizabeth Democratic Club attended in a body. A band was on board and began to dispense divine airs as soon as the boat left the dock.

Arriving at the picnic grounds the whole party were photographed in one large group, after the cockle, in the shape of Republicans, had separated themselves from the good Democratic wheat. The athletic events were then taken up, consisting of 100 yard dash, tug of war between married and single men, and old fashioned races. Dinner will be served at 3:30 after which there will be a short programme of speeches. If the orators are not too tautological the festivities will conclude with a baseball game.

YOUNG WOMAN DEAD.

Miss Margaret E. Brown, Native of Plainfield, Died at Kokomo, Ind.

The Morning News, of Kokomo, Ind., under date of August 26, publishes the following item which will be read with deep regrets by many Plainfielders:

"Margaret E., daughter of Thomas E. Brown, of 214 West Walnut street, died Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, of tuberculosis. She was born at Plainfield, N. J., in January 1877. Just one year ago Monday Mr. Brown lost another daughter, Miss Stellar. The second blow has almost prostrated him."

Mr. Brown formerly lived in Plainfield, where he has a great many friends, and not a few will remember his daughter. He is an officer of the Monarch Mental Company, of Kokomo, and is very successful in business.

WONDERFUL FISH.

Mrs. C. E. Ball Captured Record Breaking Catfish at Hopatcong.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ball, of Washington Park, returned home from Lake Hopatcong, this morning, and are astonishing their friends with a view of a wonderful catfish which Mrs. Ball caught yesterday. It weighs just exactly seven and a quarter pounds and is twenty-six and one-half inches in length. Fishermen who haunt the lake declare the catch to be the largest ever taken from its waters. Mrs. Ball is handy with the rod and line and landed her prize unaided.

Piano Wanted for Carriage Hire.

A piano, located at the Hotel Kensington and belonging to C. S. Framme, of New York, was attached by John Keely, this morning, through Justice Hand's court. The instrument was about to be removed when the constable appeared. Keely claims that Framme left town without paying him for carriage hire.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barlow, of Prospect place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Adele Barlow, to Harry P. Henriques, of New York.

THOUSANDS OF SMITHS AT ANNUAL REUNION

Famous Smith Picnic Was Held Near Peapack Yesterday With Much Success.

'TWAS A GREAT EVENT.

THE SAME OLD OFFICERS WERE RE-ELECTED ONCE MORE.

Rev. C. S. Woodruff was Principal Speaker of the Day—Others Who Talked—No Fakirs Allowed at the Gathering.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 28—Smiths! Hundreds, yes thousands of them, and many who were not Smiths at all but married Smiths or else claimed relationship to that wonderful family in some other way. There they were, out in the grove near Peapack, yesterday, to the number of fully six thousand in the last and most successful of the family gatherings which have become so famous since their origin twenty-seven years ago.

That Smith family picnic is a great event in Somerset county. Like yesterday, special arrangements are always made to have fine weather and the hosts that take advantage of the day make it a sight worth seeing. And the picnic yesterday was no exception.

The first reunion was held in the same grove on September 6, 1876, and the officers then chosen still officiate. They are: President, Isaiah Smith, of Millburn; secretary, Abraham Smith, of Peapack, and treasurer, James D. Smith, of Peapack. The president for the first time in years is absent from the family reunion, being on a business trip to the Thousand Islands. Rev. Charles Rudolph Kuebler, of Hackensack, acted as president and called the clan together.

All of the officers were rechosen, and after a luncheon prepared by the Smiths for the members of the family who came from a distance, Rev. Charles S. Woodruff, of Bloomfield, N. J., was introduced as the principal speaker of the day. Mr. Woodruff is a Smith of the fourth generation, counting from the original John Schmidt, who emigrated from Holland in 1740. He made the opening address at the first meeting of the clan, in 1876.

Mr. Woodruff spoke in part as follows:

"This is the twenty-seventh gathering of the Smith family on these grounds. I had the honor to make the first address, twenty-seven years ago. I was then the only minister in the family. We have found quite a number since. We are not here from sentiment alone. Our family has stood for several things of which we are proud.

"First—We stand for the sacredness of the family. This meeting on the old homestead shows this. The family is the unit of the nation. No nation is secure that has not a pure and strong family life. We cannot in these days of degeneracy, afford to relax in our devotion to the home.

"Second—We stand for the Christian faith. The Hollander is religious. They brought their Bible and church with them, and they gave to this land one of the strongest and most stable of our religious denominations.

"Third—The Smith family stands for the true source of all legitimate national wealth as tillers of the soil. The Dutchman was a farmer. He knew how to get the the most out of the soil. There is a tendency to get away from the farm. Men are eager to get rich in haste. But there must always be the producer, to feed the great mass of consumers. The poet sings for a few, and the artist paints for limited number, but the farmer gathers the fruit of his toil to feed everybody. The land produces the only true wealth. Such gatherings as these, which tend to the development of the social element and qualities of which I have spoken, do much for home and God and native land."

Other speakers introduced were Rev. Nicholas Bowers, of Basking Ridge; Rev. George Sulter, of Newark, and Rev. L. M. Conrow, of Lamington.

Abram Smith, the aged secretary, brought out his rollbook, upon which twenty-five thousand Smiths had already enrolled their names. Many new names were added. Many little Smiths in long dresses were in evidence at the signing of the roll.

The crowd began to arrive early. At 2 o'clock it was estimated that

CRACK SHOTS GATHER AT SEA GIRT NOW

Tomorrow Will See the Opening of the Greatest of Target Shooting Meets.

THE PRINCIPAL EVENTS

SEA GIRT HAS THE BEST RIFLE RANGE IN THE WORLD.

Every Preparation Made to Give the Rifle and Revolver Experts an Opportunity to Do Their Best—The Team Matches.

Tomorrow the greatest of target shooting meets will begin at Sea Girt, and will continue through the next week. It will combine the tournaments of the National Rifle Association of America, the New Jersey State Rifle Association, and the United States Revolver Association.

The executive officer of the meet is General Bird W. Spencer, of Passaic, inspector general of rifle practice of the national guard of New Jersey and president of the National Rifle Association of America, of which Major General John R. Brooke, United States army, is honorary president. Lieutenant Albert S. Jones, of Passaic, is the secretary. The executive committee is headed by General George W. Wingate.

The rifle range at Sea Girt is perhaps the best in the world. It has permanent ranges of from 100 to 1,000 yards. The direction and force of the wind are shown on clock dials. One of these gauges is near the firing lines, and others are near the butts for the various distances. The butts are of beach sand, supported by wooden frames and sodded. The white numbers may be read a mile or more. The clubhouse, just off the range, has games for the members and guests, including ping pong, and the cup that cheers and the bite that nourishes are at hand.

The first match, a squad competition for the Wimbledon cup, presented by the National Rifle Association of Great Britain, will be shot Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

Match No. 2, for the Hilton trophy, will be held September 2. The interestate military match is scheduled for September 4. The prize in this match is the bronze "Soldier of Marathon," presented for competition each year. The President's match for the military championship of America will be shot on September 6, and the "members' match" for the gold championship medal on the same day. The Leech cup match is set for September 5. This cup has not been shot for since 1882, when it was won by Colonel R. F. Clark. The interclub match for the rifle club championship of the United States will be held September 1. The matches of the New Jersey State Rifle Association will be held in the week, at such times as may not interfere with the matches of the National Association.

Twelve teams are to compete for the Hilton trophy, from Maine, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois, Ohio, District of Columbia, United States marine corps and two teams from the Department of the East, United States army. In all probability there will also be a team from the engineer corps. There is on the programme this year a match for teams of cadets from Annapolis and West Point academies.

The war department has also detailed two officers to attend the meet and report. There wil be sent from the government arsenal at Springfield two experts to try out the new army rifle, and representatives from the Frankford arsenal, where the government ammunition is made, will also be in attendance to observe the work of the government cartridges in comparison with those of other makes.

Resigned Albany Pastorate.

Rev. Lester Leggett has resigned the pastorate of the Reformed church at Albany, N. Y., to take effect Nov. 1. The consistory and members of the church say they will try to induce Mr. Leggett to withdraw his resignation. He is now in Plainfield, having come here to occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church next Sunday.

Bank is Doing It.

It is the City National Bank that is making the improvements in Charles E. Vail's jewelry store in Park avenue, and not J. B. Coward, as stated. The bank owns the property and, at Mr. Vail's request, is having the store painted and thoroughly renovated.

MARRIAGE DENIED.

Albert M. Lederer Says Report of His Marriage is Incorrect.

The statement of the marriage of Albert N. Lederer, which was made in yesterday's Daily Press and a number of other newspapers, is denied by Mr. Lederer. He says he went on his vacation and happened to visit at the same place with the young woman whose name was mentioned in the article, thus giving rise to the story that he had been married. The Daily Press regrets that it fell into the error which seemed so general and gladly makes the correction.

TOOL MAKERS MAY STRIKE

EMPLOYES OF COLUMBIA TOOL WORKS HAVE MADE DEMANDS.

Want Fewer Working Hours—The Employers Say That They Cannot Grant Them.

Employes of the Columbia Tool Works will go out on strike Tuesday. They have made a demand on the management that the hours of labor be reduced from fifty-nine and a half hours a week to fifty-four, that is, a nine-hour day. The management has refused to comply. The men say that will strike in which case the works, if no other men can be found to take places of the strikers, will shut down.

About sixty-five men are employed at the tool manufactory at the corner of Washington and East Fourth streets. The men who have made the demand are those employed on the hand sewing machines and workers on the hypodermic needles, comprising about fifty-five hands. Employes at the branch shop on East Fourth street near Watchung avenue are not as yet affected by the difficulty. It is doubtful whether they will join the strikers.

Seen at the works this morning a representative of the company admitted that business was brisk and that more men could be employed if good skilled laborers were not so difficult to obtain in Plainfield.

Nevertheless he said that if the strike materialized on Tuesday the company would be forced to discontinue operations for a time rather than accede to the demands of the men.

LAST EXCURSION.

The Warren Chapelites More Than Filled Their Train to the Twin Cities This Morning.

Warren chapel's excursion—the last of the season to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove—drew away from the North Avenue station, this morning, with the prospect of enjoying one of the pleasantest days of the year. Ten cars had been provided to convey the crowd but this number proved insufficient and two more were added to the train at Roselle. In all about 600 people were in attendance.

The genial Frank Webster, of this city, who has piloted all the Plainfield excursionists to the shore this season, was in charge of the train. The return home this evening will be made at 7:30.

Brought Home His Bride.

John Cumerford, of the West Indies, a former resident of Plainfield, arrived home on the Lucania yesterday from Crewe, England, were he was recently one of the principals in a most interesting event. Mr. Cumerford's bride accompanies him. He is now visiting at the residence of his brother, Thomas Cumerford, West Fifth street, and will return shortly to the West Indies, where he is the manager of a large sugar plantation.

Bicycle Collapsed.

Archibald Hacquer, of Central avenue, was precipitated to the mud of East Front street this morning through the sudden collapse of his bicycle. A flaw in the tubing gave way and the machine divided itself, allowing the rider to drop with a jar that dazed him. He was assisted to police headquarters by Patrolman Lunger, where restoratives were applied.

Expect a Balance.

Franlin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet this evening when it is expected the excursion committee will report. It is said that there will be no deficiency, but a balance.

First Meeting Since Spring.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., met Tuesday evening for the first time since last spring, and although there was no special business a very interesting meeting was held.

Entertained His Friends.

Wm. L. Smalley entertained informally a number of his friends at his home on Somerset street last evening. Dancing music and games were enjoyed by those present.

AWOKE AND FOUND BURGLAR AT WORK

Nocturnal Visitor Departed in a Hurry From a Residence at Fanwood.

HE TOOK A WATCH.

LEFT IN SUCH A HURRY THAT OTHER BOOTY WAS FORGOTTEN.

Mrs. Anna R. Kyte Awakens to See Him Ransacking Her Dresser—She Gave the Alarm, But He Made Good His Escape.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, August 28—Roused from a sound slumber to see a burly burglar ransacking her dresser, was the unpleasant experience which Mrs. Anna R. Kyte, mother of Charles Kyte, of North avenue, underwent at 3:45 this morning. Her awakening was all that saved her son's silver and other valuables being taken as the prowler had everything packed and placed on the dining room table awaiting his return from the upper rooms.

As soon as he saw he was discovered he fled down the stairs and escaped before Mrs. Kyte could give the alarm. In his flight he dropped a candle on the carpet in the lower hall and when the family reached there, it was still burning, a conflagration narrowly being averted.

An examination was immediately made and it was found that all the burglar had secured for his trouble was a ladies' gold hunting case watch with the initials A. R. K. His precipitate flight prevented a much heavier loss. It was learned that entrance had been effected by prying off the catch of a parlor window. The Plainfield police were notified of the robbery and from the description Mrs. Kyte was able to furnish, the department has strong hopes of effecting an arrest.

COMING HOME.

Local Pythian Knights Have Left California Coming East.

Joseph C. Blimm, of East Third street, received word, yesterday, from Jacob Blimm, Jr., and J. E. Flannery, who are in California, to the effect that they had commenced their homeward journey and would arrive in Plainfield either September 6 or 7. They report having met Miss Calanthe, the Pythian goat, which visited this city last fall, and answered her anxious inquiries in regard to S. J. Robinson, who was her keeper while here. Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGinley, the other Plainfielders at the Golden Gate, will not start for home until next week.

SMALLEY FOR SURROGATE?

Rumor is Afloat Which Borough's Mayor Will Not Affirm or Deny.

There is a rumor in political circles that Mayor Newton B. Smalley will be the next nominee for surrogate of Somerset county. The rumor, if it proves to be correct, is fraught with political possibilities. Asked about the matter, this morning, Mayor Smalley would neither affirm or deny the report. He said the only office he was scheduled for at present was that of judge at the New Brunswick races on Labor Day.

ENGINE FELL OVER.

A New Jersey Central Locomotive Toppled Over in Mud.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 28—Engine 9 of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, a large and new locomotive, toppled over into an acre of mud, while hauling a train of freight cars along a siding near Elizabeth Tuesday. The engineer and fireman escaped injury by jumping. The only explanation of the accident is that the tracks were laid on insufficient ballast at the point where the engine toppled over.

STOPPED A RUNAWAY.

Colored Newsboy Prevented Damage in the Business Section.

A horse belonging to Wm. H. Rogers, of Washingtonville, left standing this morning at the corner of Park and North avenues, took fright and started to dash towards Front street. A young colored lad, a newsboy, jumped at the animal near Second street, grabbed the bridle and succeeded after being dragged for a distance, in bringing the horse to a standstill.

LITERARY.

The J. S. Ogilvie Publishing Company, of New York, announce for immediate publication a novel entitled "The Fortunes of The Van der Bergs," by Adele Weber, who is well known to concert audiences from Maine to California. The Van der Bergs are a young couple who seek their fortune in Colorado, and there are several chapters of ranch and mining camp experiences. Other scenes are laid in the east, and in these, four cornetists appear, whom readers will readily recognize as the Park Sisters. The book is handsomely illustrated, and contains an excellent halftone illustration of the Park Sisters.

The September magazine number of The Outlook has even greater variety of subjects treated in its illustrated articles than usual. Among the articles which are most elaborately illustrated are: An extremely readable personal article about the Sultan of Turkey by the well-known magazine writer, Ray Stannard Baker, who bases his comments on facts gathered in a recent visit to Turkey; a careful estimate of the career of Lord Salisbury, with personal comment, written by Justin McCarthy, author of "The History of Our Own Times," and forming one of a series of articles by Mr. McCarthy on living British statesmen; a paper called "The City for the Children," by G. W. Wharton, who tells of the recent advance in New York city in applying the schoolhouses and other municipal plants for the benefit and amusement of children outside of school hours; a description of "Modern Methods in the Cattle Industry," by Charles M. Harger; an appreciative and finely critical paper on the composer Saint-Saens, by Daniel Gregory Mason, whose series of personal musical articles is attracting attention among lovers of music; a pleasant descriptive article telling of "A Ramble in Normandy," by Hamilton W. Mabie, with original drawings by Miss Elizabeth Roberts; and another instalment of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years," which has for its general subject this month the Civil War.

A Desirable Book.

Handy Book for Trap Shooters and Sportsmen is the title of a very interesting and attractive work, the 1902 edition of which has just been published by The King Powder Co., and The Peters Cartridge Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio. This work contains a description of the plants of these two companies and their products. There is also a careful compilation of the game laws of the United States, the Interstate Association rules governing inanimate target shooting and live bird shooting, trap rules of the American Shooting Association, systems of dividing money, class shooting or percentage system, hints to beginners on guns and game shooting by Jack Parker, rules governing rifle and pistol competition, and directions for organizing a gun club and conducting a tournament by Jack Parker. This book can be obtained free of charge from any dealer in Peters ammunition, or to the Eastern Agency, 80 Chambers street, New York, T. H. Keller, manager.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—There will be a regular meeting of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., this evening.

—Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, has just placed a clock in the main part of the postoffice.

—Rev. Fred Taylor, formerly an assistant in the Peddie Memorial Baptist church, Newark, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church on Sunday, September 7.

—J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, has placed one of his modern clocks in the office of Postmaster Bird at the postoffice. Its position is such that passersby either day or night can be kept informed of the time.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Frank Trueman, of Pond place, left yesterday for Athol, Mass., to accept a position.

Miss Young, of Central avenue, has returned from her annual vacation of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Smith, of Madison avenue, have returned home from Ashaway, R. I.

Herbert S. Thatcher, formerly a resident of Plainfield, but a resident of Chicago during the past five years, is in this city. He may locate here permanently. Mrs. Thatcher is also here.

THEATRICAL.

Quincy Adams Sawyer enters upon the last two weeks of its very successful engagement at the Academy of Music, New York, Monday evening. This latest pastoral play has gone entirely contrary to expectations. Before the engagement opened at the Academy, those who were expected to know said that the theatrical going public were tired of rural plays, and that the country was flooded with down east dramas. Such may be the case, but the unexpected happened in this case, as in others. The New York public are not tired of a good, clean, wholesome rural drama, with a strong natural story, abounding in comedy and realistic situations, and are demonstrating the fact by crowding the largest theatre in America at almost every performance. The last two weeks of its engagement promises to be as large as any in the history of this famous place of amusement, and if present expectations can be taken as a guide, "Quincy Adams Sawyer" will be favored the entire season with very big business. Following this New England play, for a limited engagement of only four weeks, will be the original Bostonians in a special new revival of DeKoven & Smith's opera, "Robin Hood," which opens at the Academy Sept. 8.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

STEAMER RUN DOWN

An Ocean Liner Is Hit by a Freighthip.

FORTUNATELY NO LIVES WERE LOST

New York Harbor Scene of the Mishap—A Panic on the Passenger Vessel, but the Officers' Coolness Prevents Disaster.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—In broad daylight and bright sunshine a collision which might have resulted in a dreadful calamity occurred in New York harbor between an incoming passenger liner and an outgoing freight steamer.

The steamship Liguria of the Italian Royal Mail Steamship company, with over 1,100 souls on board, was run down in the Narrows by the British steamer Peconic of the Mediterranean and New York Steamship company, bound out for ports in the Mediterranean. A succession of whistle blasts, just how blown could not be learned, was followed by a tremendous crush, and the Peconic's bow smashed into the hull of the Liguria just forward of the foremast. The Italian liner's hull was cut to the water's edge, and water poured into the aperture. The Peconic as she drifted away scraped the white hull of the Liguria and carried away the companion ladder. The bow of the Peconic on the port side was stove in and the stem turned to starboard.

On board the liner all was confusion for a few minutes, but Captain Montano restored order promptly and forced the steerage passengers over to the starboard side in order to bring the hole cut by the Peconic above the water. This effort was so successful that very little water entered the liner.

The pilot who brought the Liguria into port, Frank Kramer, was little disposed to talk, but said that the fault was all with the Peconic. He said the Liguria was coming along slowly toward the Narrows. The Peconic and the British steamer Antilia, bound out for Nassau, were steaming to sea a short distance apart when the Peconic blew two whistles and then changed the signals. The Liguria sheered to starboard and then back at full speed. The impact came with terrific force, the sound being heard on the shore.

The Peconic was so damaged that she returned for repairs. The Liguria after the inspection of passengers at quarantine proceeded to her dock.

On board the Italian liner were 21 saloon, 29 second cabin and 965 steerage passengers. Among the saloon passengers was Father Rodriguez, general of the Augustinians. He was met at quarantine by Father Murphy of the Augustinian monastery at Tompkinsville, Staten Island. He will proceed directly to Washington.

There were no casualties on board the Liguria nor on the Peconic. The latter vessel was in charge of Pilot Charles Thompson and was deeply laden.

Four Girls Drowned at Pawling.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Four young women, Anna and Susan Beach of Danbury, Conn., and Stella and Martha Duncan of Pawling, Dutchess county, have been drowned in Lake Pearce, two miles from Pawling. The Beach sisters were visiting the Duncan girls, who were daughters of George Duncan, a lifelong resident of Pawling. The girls went rowing together on the lake in the forenoon and decided to go in bathing. They rowed to the shore, where they prepared for their bath. Supposing that the shore sloped gently, they joined hands and walked out into the water. In a moment they were beyond their depth. None of the girls could swim. They screamed for help, but before rescuers could get to them from the other side of the lake they drowned. Their bodies were recovered within an hour. Coroner Caulkin of Amenia took charge of them.

Sombrero Breaks a Saratoga Record.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Green B. Morris's three-year-old Sombrero has broken the mile and a half track record here, going the distance in 2:31 4-5. The previous record was 2:35½. It was an especially fine performance, as the son of Star Ruby and La Toquera was conceding from six to thirty-six pounds weight to his opponents. Despite this disadvantage he won easily by a length from Baron Pepper, who came with a strong rush from the rear. Rice failed to make his run soon enough. Douro ran well for a mile and a quarter and then dropped out of it.

Shaw Leaves Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Secretary Shaw has left for his summer home at Thompson's Point, Vt., where he will on Saturday and Sunday entertain President Roosevelt. The secretary will return to Washington next week.

MORE SOLDIERS OUT.

Philadelphia Cavalry Ordered to Shenandoah.

TO REPLACE GOVERNOR'S TROOP.

Latter Sent to Lansford, Pa., Where There Has Been Serious Disturbances—Coal Operators Continue to Make Gains.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—The Second troop, Philadelphia City cavalry, has been ordered by Governor Stone to report to General Gobin at Shenandoah for duty in the anthracite coal regions. The troop will take the place of the Governor's troop of Harrisburg, which was sent by General Gobin from Shenandoah to Lansford, where there had been serious disturbances. The request for the City troop was made by General Gobin, and the governor immediately directed that the troop start for Shenandoah and assist the militia now in the field to protect life and property.

No additional troops will be sent to the strike region unless there is another serious outbreak and General Gobin is unable to maintain order with the troops already in the field.

The coal operators in the Wyoming region continue to make gains. The Avondale mine of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company has sent 250 tons of coal to the breaker. It is also said that over 100 tons have been mined at the Dorrance colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company.

President Mitchell and the district presidents, Messrs. Nicholls, Duffy and Fahy, were in conference again at Wilkesbarre, but no part of the proceedings would be given out for publication. Mr. Mitchell said an official statement might be issued later. The chief officer of the miners' union declined to discuss the meeting of the coal presidents said to have been held in New York on Tuesday.

STRIKERS WON'T YIELD.

Mitchell's Answer to Coal Operators' Ultimatum.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers has made the following statement to a New York paper by long distance telephone from Wilkesbarre, Pa., regarding Mr. Morgan's refusal to interfere in the coal strike:

"I have no formal reply to make to the statements of Mr. Morgan and the coal presidents. The strike will go on indefinitely in spite of all that is said and done until the men are awarded their just demands. I deny the statement of Mr. Baer that the men are going back to work in groups throughout the region. There are isolated cases of defection here and there among the mine helpers, but the licensed miners are holding out firmly. It will do the operators little good to have their mines full of engineers, pumpmen, machinists and helpers if the only men licensed by the state to mine coal remain on strike.

"Our present plans will hold good. We contemplate no new movement. The men will simply remain on strike, and the mines will stay idle until their demands are acceded to or the operators consent to arbitration."

STRIKERS' FAMILIES EVICTED.

Great Excitement In West Virginia Coal Regions.

HINTON, W. Va., Aug. 28.—Great excitement exists in the vicinity of Red Ash and Beury, caused by the constables removing the striking miners from the company's houses. About forty families who were notified to leave the houses of the Red Ash Coal company refused to vacate, and when the constables began to remove their household goods a volley of shots were fired at the officers from the opposite side of the river. They returned the fire, using Winchesters, and it is estimated that 800 shots were fired. The shooting was all at long range, and no one on the Red Ash side was hurt.

About forty deputies who have been stationed at Thurmond and other points in the striking district were rushed to the scene of the shooting, and a late report now states that the men who began the firing are now surrounded. The officers are removing the household goods, and the houses will be occupied by other miners who are willing to work.

The coal output is steadily increasing. One hundred and ten cars of coal and twenty-three cars of coke were loaded in the New River field Tuesday.

To Make Chinese Money.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The state department recently received a communication from the Chinese government stating in effect that it was proposed to start up the government coinage mint at Tientsin and asking that an assayer and a machinist from one of the mints of the United States be recommended for employment therein. The matter was referred to Mr. Roberts, the director of the mint, with the result that Leonard McGruder, assistant assayer, and Mr. L. G. Emory, superintendent of machinery, both from the New Orleans mint, have been engaged for this service and are expected to sail for China within a short time.

Fire Chief Croker Reinstated.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Judge Hall in the supreme court has granted a peremptory writ of mandamus directing Fire Commissioner Sturgis to immediately restore Fire Chief Edward F. Croker to active duty as chief of the fire department. Practically every contention put forward by the deposed chief is granted by Judge Hall. The decision is lengthy.

IN PINE TREE STATE.

Mr. Roosevelt Continues His Swing Round the Circle.

MEETS HIS OLD GUIDE SEWALL.

Bill Has the Honor of Dining With the President and the Governor of Maine—Orphans Sing For Their Distinguished Visitor.

ELLSWORTH, Me., Aug. 28.—The president's second day in the Pine Tree State was full of interest. Starting from the governor's residence at an early hour, he was taken for a short drive about the city of Augusta and at 9:30 left for Bangor, where the principal speech of the day was delivered at the fair grounds in the presence of an immense audience which listened with marked attention to his address and which not infrequently drowned his words with applause. The same close attention was given him at Waterville, where from far and near came hundreds to see and hear the first president who has visited Maine in many years. In anticipation of his coming a general holiday was declared, and all business was suspended.

Just before leaving Augusta the president heard that his old guide, Bill Sewall of Island Falls, Me., who had accompanied him on many hunting expeditions and who had for a time been employed on his ranch in Dakota, was at Bangor. He immediately wired Congressman Powers at Bangor to corral him and hold on to him until he reached that city. That the congressman carried out these instructions was fully proved when he produced the tall, rawboned, red whiskered hunter upon the president's arrival.

"I am glad to see you, Bill," said the president, whereupon Bill replied, "You ain't no gladder than I be."

Then it was that the president told the story of his friendship of many years with the old guide and hunter and how many years ago while on a hunting trip through Maine owing to the shortage in the meat supply they had eaten muskrat together, which the president said was the last meat he had eaten in Maine before this trip. The president seemed to delight in the rural simplicity of the man and insisted that he should sit down to dinner with him. Bill therefore had the distinction that comes to but few of dining with the chief executive of the nation and the governor of his state at the same time.

While at the fair grounds some one suggested to Sewall, who was seated on the platform with the president, that he should go to Washington and secure an appointment as postmaster, but Bill had already received this honor and said to his inquisitor, "I be postmaster already."

On the drive through Bangor a pretty little incident occurred at the orphans' home. The president's carriage stopped in front of the portico where the little tots were assembled, and they greeted him in song in words especially written for the occasion.

Before beginning to speak at the fair grounds the president, noticing the jamming and pushing of the crowd in front of the grand stand, cautioned the people to be careful of the women and children and asked them to show their capacity to manage themselves, which immediately had the desired effect. The platform from which the president spoke was directly in front of the grand stand, which was packed with humanity. Behind him was another dense crowd. He humorously informed his audience that he did not think he faced both ways, but that on this occasion he would have to. He quickly caught his hearers, who were most enthusiastic, and upon leaving the platform drove around the race track in response to cries from the audience that he do so.

President F. O. Beal of the Fair association set the crowd wild when he proposed three cheers "for the noblest president the world ever heard of."

At night the president dined here at the home of Senator Hale, who accompanied the party from Bangor. At the depot, when the train pulled in, the president was escorted to a platform near by and delivered a short address. He then left for Nashua, N. H., and other points in that state.

Changes In Navy Personnel.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The navy department has announced that Captain Colby M. Chester will succeed Captain Charles H. Davis as superintendent of the naval observatory. Captain Davis will be placed in command of the battleship Alabama as the successor of Captain Willard H. Bronson, who in turn will succeed Commander Richard Wainwright as superintendent of the Naval academy at Annapolis. Commander Wainwright, who achieved great distinction in the sea fight off Santiago as commander of the converted yacht Gloucester, which destroyed the two torpedo boat destroyers of the Spanish fleet, will be assigned to the command of the protected cruiser Newark when she goes into commission Oct. 15.

Manila Editors Fined For Sedition.

MANILA, Aug. 28.—Frederick Dorr, the proprietor, and Edward O'Brien, the editor of Freedom, recently convicted of sedition, have been fined $1,000, without imprisonment. A. R. Dorr, manager of the paper, was fined $25. Dorr and O'Brien were each sentenced Aug. 25 to six months in Bilibid prison and were fined $1,000 for libeling Benito Legarda, a native member of the Philippine civil commission.

A New Torpedo Boat.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The navy department has accepted the torpedo boat destroyer Truxton, which was built by the Maryland Steel company at Sparrow's Point, Md.

GAGE DEFEATED.

Pardee Nominated For Governor of California.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 28.—The most hotly contested factional fight in the history of the Republican party in California came to an end when the sixth ballot was taken in the state convention for the gubernatorial nomination.

When the convention reassembled, the forces of Governor Gage were still hopeful of making some combination whereby the deadlock could be broken. Governor Gage reached his highest vote on the fourth ballot, when 339½ votes were credited to him, and on the next he dropped to 335½. The end came amid the greatest confusion. When Shasta county was reached in the sixth roll call, the Gage people began to cast their votes for Pardee, and then the slide toward the Alameda county physician commenced amid an uproar that interfered with the taking of the ballot. Long before San Diego county was reached Dr. Pardee's nomination was assured, and then the Flint men struck their colors and paid Pardee the compliment of voting for him. The final vote was: Pardee, 518; Gage, 13; Flint, 215; Hayes, 47; Edson, 13.

Alden Anderson of Solano county was the only candidate for lieutenant governor, and he was nominated by acclamation.

The candidates for chief justice of the supreme court were Chief Justice W. H. Beatty and Charles H. Garoutte. Beatty was chosen by a vote of 430 to 400.

For associate justices Lucien Shaw of Los Angeles and F. M. Angelotti of Marin were nominated on the first ballot. For secretary of state Charles F. Curry was renominated.

THE FAIRS' BODIES MOVED.

Great Secrecy Maintained by All Concerned.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The remains of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair, who were killed Aug. 14 in an automobile accident near Evreux, France, were removed from the Church of the Madeleine after a brief service held in the vault of the church in the presence of a dozen persons, who included Mr. Gowdy, United States consul general here; the lawyers of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Fair and Mr. Ellis, manager of the Hotel Ritz, who has had charge of the arrangements for the removal of the remains.

A cross and a wreath of white flowers were placed on the coffins before their removal. The coffins were taken away in two undertaker's vans. In order to avoid attracting attention the first van drove off as soon as it was loaded, the second following five minutes later. They proceeded separately to the freight station of the Western railroad, where the coffins were inclosed in packing cases.

So much secrecy was observed with regard to the shipment of the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fair that as late as half past 6 o'clock last evening Mr. Ellis declared that nothing had as yet been settled with regard to their removal. Mr. Ellis refuses to name the port from which they are to be shipped or the steamer which is to take them. The remains may be forwarded to Cherbourg and embarked on board the American line steamer St. Louis for New York, or they may be shipped to Havre and possibly sent over to Southampton and put on board the St. Louis at that port. The St. Louis leaves Southampton and Cherbourg Aug. 3.

ROBBER'S BIG HAUL.

Gets Express Package With $2,710 In It.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 28.—An express package containing $2,710 consigned to the Devonshire mills at Goffs Falls, has been secured by a masked robber, who overcame the youthful agent at the Goffs Falls station, four miles south of this city, by showering him with red pepper. The money was sent on the early train from Boston by the National Bank of the Republic and was intended to meet the pay roll of the 160 employees at the Devonshire mills.

The package arrived by the American express on the train which arrived at Goffs at 8:35 a. m. It was given to the station agent, who also is express agent. The young man deposited the package in the office, and the next moment a stranger dashed in and, throwing a big handful of pepper into the agent's face, grabbed the package and ran across the road and disappeared in the shrubbery. The agent was helpless with pain and completely blinded. When the alarm was given, no trace of the robber could be found save his disguise, which he had dropped as he fled.

King Victor at Potsdam.

POTSDAM, Prussia, Aug. 28.—King Victor Emmanuel was met at the station here by Emperor William, who drove with him to the palace, while Count von Bulow and Signor Prinetti, Italian minister of foreign affairs, followed in the next carriage. The party was escorted by a squadron of the guarde du corps. The empress of Germany received King Victor Emmanuel in the music saloon of the palace. The royal guest attended a family dinner in the evening, at which he sat between Emperor William and the empress.

CHINESE COMMERCIAL TREATY.

Exposition of the Convention With Great Britain.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 28.—An exposition of the British-Chinese commercial treaty was given recently by C. Dudgeon, one of the British special commissioners, to a special meeting of the Shanghai branch of the China association.

The first article, he explained, provides for the protection of trademarks, the second for increased facilities at the open ports for landing and reporting merchandise in bond with additional bonding facilities.

By the third article China undertakes improvements in Canton river and harbor, and the fourth provides that drawbacks shall be issued by the imperial maritime customs within three weeks of the presentation to the customs of the papers entitling the applicant to receive such certificates. Under the sixth article China will provide for a uniform national currency.

Article 7 settles the status of the liabilities of the Chinese shareholders in British joint stock companies. Article 8 is that in which likin is dealt with. Article 9 provides that China shall recast her mining regulations. Article 10 provides for drastic amendment of the present rules relating to inland navigation. The eleventh article deals with treaty port areas. The twelfth expresses China's desire to reform her judicial system.

Great Britain agrees to give every assistance in this reform. The thirteenth binds Great Britain to join any joint commission that may be appointed to investigate the missionary question. The fourteenth and last article relates to the movement of rice and grain.

ROSPIGLIOSI DEFIANT.

Italian Prince Causes Serious Trouble to Vatican.

ROME, Aug. 28.—The Rospigliosi controversy is increasing in bitterness, and nearly all the members of the Sacred college here have become participants. Prince Rospigliosi, under the advice of one of the cardinals, has formally protested to the congregation of the holy office against the order forbidding the assistance of a nun during the recent confinement of the princess, his wife. The prince is withholding the salaries of the priests on his estates who are allied with the prelates who oppose him and is turning over these salaries for the benefit of clergymen who are under the authority of those cardinals who sympathize with him.

The Princess Rospigliosi, who was Miss Marie Reid of Washington, was married to the prince after obtaining a divorce from Frederick Parkhurst of Bangor, Me. The Roman Catholic church did not recognize this divorce and refused to give permission to a nun to nurse the princess at her confinement, holding that the marriage to the prince was nonexistent. The princess gave birth to a daughter Aug. 2.

LARNED STILL CHAMPION.

Defeats R. F. Doherty, the British Challenger.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 28.—For the third time in eight years English aspirations for the highest American tennis honors in singles have been dashed when they seemed almost within reach of the persistent foreigners, for William A. Larned of Summit, N. J., has successfully defended his title as champion by defeating Reginald F. Doherty of England 3 sets to 1. The scores were 4—6, 6—2, 6—4, 8—6.

It was a grand game on both sides, but it sapped the vitality of each player until it became a question of endurance, and the American proved to be in better condition. A scorching sun was no insignificant factor in the result, and at the end Doherty, unused to such hot rays, almost collapsed. It was generally acknowledged that had the day been cool, like those of last week, the battle would have been fought longer, harder and perhaps with a different result. Larned, however, played the game of his life, for Doherty is undoubtedly the strongest player who ever came to America. The defeat of the Englishman was not only a surprise, but a bitter disappointment to the Doherty brothers.

FATAL EARTHQUAKE

Many Moros In Mindanao Are Killed.

NONE OF OUR SOLDIERS INJURED.

First Serious Seismic Shock In Philippines Since American Occupation—Upheaval Occurred In the Region About Lake Lanao.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The war department has received a cablegram from General Chaffee at Manila reporting the occurrence of a series of earthquakes on the island of Mindanao. Twenty persons were killed by falling walls, the victims all being Moros. The Americans in the vicinity escaped, and the dispatch says there were no reports that any of the soldiers occupying the portion of the island affected sustained any injuries.

The upheaval occurred in the country adjacent to Lake Lanao, in the Moro section of the island, near Camp Vickers, which is now the headquarters of the American forces stationed in Mindanao. General Chaffee's cablegram says the mountains and rivers and other streams were considerably disturbed, and much damage was done. The extent of the damage, however, was not reported. It is presumed here that the seismic shocks occurred about five days ago, though the date is not mentioned in the dispatch.

This is the first serious earthquake reported from that country during American occupation of the Philippines. The most important previous seismic disturbance in Mindanao was the one that partly destroyed Palak, Kotal, Batu and the villages on the banks of the river Mindanao in 1872. This phenomenon closely followed the eruption of the volcano of Makaturin.

General Chaffee also cabled that the military island in that section remains quiet and unchanged. No attacks have been made on the American forces at Camp Vickers since the last report, which was cabled eight days ago.

Alleged Counterfeiters Arrested.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 28.—Sisto Incognoli, Joseph Incognoli and Dominick Williams, Italians, have been arrested by secret service detectives at Port Blanchard, charged with counterfeiting. Molds and other apparatus used for coining silver dollars were found in the house occupied by the alleged counterfeiters. The Italians resisted, but were overpowered by the secret service men and the local policeman who accompanied the detectives. The accused came here from New York six months ago and rented a house at Port Blanchard. They passed themselves off as laborers. The detectives say Sisto Incognoli is the leader of the gang and has served three years in New York state penitentiary for counterfeiting.

Farmer Suspected of Murder.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 28.—James D. Cubberly, a farm hand who resides in this city, has been arrested pending an investigation by the police as to the cause of the death of his wife, whose body was found badly hacked as if by an ax. Cubberly returned from Bordentown, where he had been working, and reported to the police the finding of his wife's dead body at their home. Cubberly left home on Sunday and admits having quarreled with the woman on that day and says she threw a knife at him, but that he did not strike her. The police believe the woman has been dead for at least two days.

GOOD ROADS.

History has borne evidence to the fact that even the greatest reforms come slowly. The people have to be educated to appreciate those things which are really for their own advancement. Such has been the history of the "good roads" movement in the United States. Of late years, the more enlightened communities have realized the great advantages to be gained from the improvement of the highways and the work has gone steadily forward. Some of the very conservative places have still refused to see how well the problem has been worked out by their neighbors and put off the time when their roads shall be placed in the best possible condition.

Although counties like Union have already spent thousands of dollars in building good roads, there are a few counties in Jersey that remain in a benighted state and have refused to take advantage of the State aid in the work. Sussex has been one of the latter. Now comes the welcome news that the Board of Chosen Freeholders of that county has finally come to its senses and has started a campaign for good roads which promises to bring that county in the foremost ranks of any in the State. Out of 800 miles of roads in that county, it is planned to eventually macadamize 400 of them. It will, on the present lines, require something like sixty years to bring all this to pass.

It is welcome news to know that Sussex has started the campaign no matter on how modest a scale. It has not been done, however, without much opposition. And most of this opposition comes from the very men that will benefit most from it. The farmers of Sussex are now the chief opponents. They fail to see wherein they will gain and only see an addition to the tax rate without any corresponding advantage. If they would only look and see how the appearance of good roads in other communities has benefitted the men of their same class, they would be fighting for instead of against the movement. They refuse to gain from the experience of others and it is only when the advantage is brought to their very doors that they will have to admit, however unwililngly, that good roads are a wonderful thing for the rural districts.

It seems that factional differences are not the only things to trouble the Republicans of Union county. The clambake, at which thousands of politicians fell over each other in a wild scramble to partake of the feast, turned out to be a failure financially. After the committee summed up their receipts and expenditures, it was found that the expense account was a trifle more than $700 larger than the other. There is no assigned reason why the Republicans failed so miserably to make ends meet at their "harmony" outing. Certainly the harmony was lacking and that may account in a measure for the lack of cash to meet the expenses.

According to the Philadelphia Record Mr. Hanna, of the publicity department of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, says: "Every season the big railway systems are settling down to more newspaper advertising, and the results are very pleasing. The time is not far distant when the big railroads will use newspaper space like the big stores do today."

Tomorrow will see the greatest event of the season for the cracksmen with rifle and pistol. Sea Girt, which boasts of one of the finest rifle ranges in the world, will be the scene of action. Some of the most famous trophies will be competed for and every one interested in that branch of sport will carefully follow the results of the contests.

New Brunswick is going to have a society circus. The society folk are going to play the clown and do stunts from the bar and trapeze. There is prospect that the staid old Middlesex county seat will be quite waked out of its usual lethargic state by such an excitement.

There are big improvements being made at Princeton. A group of students were refused admission this spring for cribbing in their entrance examinations. Now the campus and dormatories are being improved.

One Elizabeth man thinks that he can accomplish more than all the airship inventors of the country by harnessing up a few thousand Jersey mosquitoes.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Prescriptions are always carefully compounded and only the best and most reliable drugs are kept in stock at the Plainfield pharmacy, T. S. Armstrong, North avenue.

If you have ridden your bicycle over a precipice it might be desirable to know that VanWinkle, the bicycle dealer of North avenue, can repair your bike, no matter how badly it is twisted.

Ask R. H. Keenan for a list of staple and fancy groceries before buying elsewhere. His are as low as the lowest while the grade of his goods is the best. A list of specials are advertised regularly in the columns of The Daily Press.

Hundreds of people have been away during the summer enjoying themselves, but it is well to note that upon their return they will find Peck at his old stand on West Front street. He is always ready to serve you with a select line of goods in exclusive designs.

This is just the season when a visit to Woodhull & Martin's store will be well worth your while. They have a most desirable stock of goods in every department and in some cases these goods are being closed out at low prices. There are many bargains in the housefurnishing goods department, such as rockers, hammocks, refrigerators, etc.

The canning season is once more at its height and the busy housewife is engaged in purchasing fruit to be put away for winter use. Her labor will be greatly lightened and her pocketbook will retain some of its present proportions if she watches the fruit displays at Neuman Brothers. They have nothing but the best quality of peaches, plums, Bartlett pears and crabapples, which they sell at special prices by the basket.

Trousers Caused a Fall.

Fred Jackson, a trainer at the Plainfield Driving Park stables, is suffering with a fractured arm and several cuts and bruises about the body, the result of an accident while riding his bicycle to town a few days ago. His trousers became entangled in the sprocket wheel and he was thrown from the bike. The accident happened near the city line, and Mr. Jackson was obliged to return home and seek treatment.

DESIRABLE DRESS GOODS.

The New Fall Dress Goods are now on exhibition, and already the tide of business is setting strongly our way. Only what is newest and most stylish is to be found on our counters. We make it a point always to carry over no old goods from one season to another. Each season brings its own new things, making our Dress Goods department a strong magnet to draw the trade of people who want what is most desirable in Dress Fabrics. This season's showing is a remarkably strong one.

Knickerbocker Suitings are among the latest. They are 54 inches wide, good weight, made of fine wool and sell for 1.00 a yard. We show some choice patterns.

English Homespuns in snowflake patterns are exceedingly stylish. They are also 54 inches wide and sell for from 1.00 to 2.00 per yard.

A 54-inch Oxford Skirting, good weight, strictly all wool, at 79c per yard, is remarkably cheap.

At 50c per yard a superior grade of Chamois-finish French Flannel for waists. 29 inches wide.

Plain Fabrics will be used very largely again this season.

NEW BUILDINGS.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane Has Issued Permits for Three New Structures.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted to Maurice Shannon a permit for the erection of a dwelling, two stores and attic, 22 feet front by 28 feet deep, to be situated on West Third street, near Spooner avenue. E. V. French is the architect, Thomas Werner the mason.

H. H. McMurray, of Mountainside, has been granted a permit to build a stable on property at West Seventh street, near Monroe avenue. The building will be two stories, 28 feet front by 22 feet deep. George Campbell will do the carpenter work.

J. N. Martone, of Somerset street, was given permission to erect a dwelling, two stories, 14 feet front by 24 feet deep, on the corner of Hillside avenue and Lake street. William H. Clum is the architect, Joseph Ravin the carpenter.

NOTICE!

This notice is to inform my many friends and patrons that I am still at the old stand, 227 West Front street, where I am prepared to serve all my old customers and the public in general with a full line of beers, also porter, wines, liquors and cigars on the shortest notice. I would also state that the whiskey delivered by the Eastern Bottling Company in bottles with my name on them is not from my place of business.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

TROLLEY LINE A MYSTERY

COMPLETING A GAP IN THE TRENTON-BRUNSWICK LINE.

Working on Bridge at Dayton—The Object of Line is Still Unknown.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Aug. 28—One of the gaps in the line of the Trenton-New Brunswick Electric Railway Company is being closed. This iron overhead bridge is now being laid across the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Dayton to carry the tracks of the electric railroad across those of the steam railroad. For some weeks past the trestle work has been completed on both sides, to a point just touching the railroad company's right of way. Now the iron bridge is being erected. Four stone piers have been erected, two on each side of the steam railroad's tracks. Upon these the eight main girders, weighing fourteen tons, are being raised by huge derricks. The work is being done by the Pennsylvania Steel Company, of Steelton, Pa., which has the contract for building the bridge on the company's line.

With the bridge completed the road will soon be ready for traffic. It is stated that the company expects to have cars running to Trenton before the Trenton Fair opens in September, and that passengers will be carried from Milltown, outside this city, where the road has its terminus, to Trenton, for twenty-five cents.

The mystery of the motives back of the construction of the road is still unsolved. In the twenty-six miles between its New Brunswick and Trenton terminals the road does not strike a single large village or town, and the prospects for passenger traffic are exceedingly small. It does not even possess a New Brunswick terminal, its line ending about two miles from this city, near Milltown.

It is stated that the company expects to arrange with the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company to run its cars into New Brunswick over the lines of the local company, but the officers of the local company state that no negotiations looking to that arrangement are in prospect.

Patrolman George Lunger resumed duty this morning after enjoying his ten days' vacation.

Councilman Charles S. Lee, of the borough, has returned home from a stay at Asbury Park.

fully six thousand people were on the grounds.

Peter Benbrook, of Somerville, was there. He is an octogenarian, and, altough in no way connected with the Smith family, has never missed one of the twenty-seven reunions. Besides the people from every village within a radius of fifteen miles, several came from the far western states. The Seneca county (N. Y.) branch was well represented.

One of the features of the picnic was the absence from the grounds of fakirs. The prohibition of such people was advertised by the family, but, notwithstanding this, a familiar scene on the grounds was to see a "Reuben" wending his way amid the crowded grove holding one hand firmly over his watch, which had been the family time-piece for generations, and the other hand jammed deep into his trousers pocket safely guarding his last week's egg money.

The grounds on which the reunion are held form part of what was once a six hundred acre farm. New York people have steadily been purchasing parts of it until now it has dwindled to one hundred acres. If the ground is sold, and the picnics are discontinued by this branch of the Smiths, the Seneca branch, which has grown remarkably within the last decade, will undoubtedly continue the gatherings in its State.

SOON TO BLOOM.

Two Night-Blooming Cereus Plants at Scott Press Works.

The Scott Press Works has two night-blooming cereus plants which are noted for the frequency and the number of flowers they produce. Each year they bloom four to six times, having a large number of flowers each time. Although one plant is two years older than the other, they both flower on the same night. At present one of them has fifty-four buds, the other over 100.

The latter has been removed to Mr. Scott's residence, No. 418 East Front street, where it can be seen from the sidewalk. It is expected to bloom on the night of Saturday or Sunday. They can be seen from 9 to 10:30 o'clock. This will be a good subject for the amateur photographers with flash-light.

TAKEN TO JAIL.

Melders, Who Defied the Cranford Police, Was Removed From the Elizabeth Hospital Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 28—Peter Melders, the Russian, who, on the morning of Wednesday, August 13, attempted to brain Police Officer James Hennessy, of Cranford, who, with Officer Otto Behnert, was endeavoring to take him in custody, and who was himself shot in the thigh by Policeman John Kuhn, has so far recovered from his wound that yesterday he was taken from the General Hospital and committed to the county jail.

Hennessy and Behnert were attempting to arrest the Russian whom they found lying asleep on a flat car. Melders at once showed fight when a desperate struggle ensued. Melders grasping an iron bar and attempted to brain the officers.

Hennessy drew his revolver and attempted to shoot the Russian, the ball taking effect in Behnert's shoulder. A moment later Officer Kuhn arrived on the scene and firing at Melders in the thigh, putting him out of business.

In Honor of Friends.

In honor of Rev. and Mrs. Beam, of the Mount Zion A. M. E. church, Mrs. E. B. Maynard, of North avenue, entertained a party of friends at her home, yesterday afternoon. Among those in attendance were Mrs. Ward, of New Brunswick, and the Misses Maude and Minnie Mitchell, of Asbury Park. Music was the feature of the affair and at the close a luncheon was served.

Want to Build Sewers.

Requests for specifications in regard to the installment of the recently ordered sanitary sewer additions are beginning to pour in upon Street Commissioner Gavett. Contractors in Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Passaic, New Rochelle and this city are anxious to secure the job and will present their bids at the Council meeting Tuesday evening.

Death of Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Annabelle McCullough Clark, aged eighty-seven, the mother of E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, died at her home in Germantown, Pa., Monday. She had been an invalid for years, but her last illness was of only a week's duration. The funeral services were held from the late home this morning at 11 o'clock.

Broke Finger, Didn't Know It.

While playing ball at Easton, Sunday, Thomas Connolly, of this city, was struck on the finger by a foul tip. It gave him such pain and continued to hurt to such an extent that yesterday he called on a local physician. The latter found the digit to be badly broken and immediately applied splints.

Foot Badly Burned.

Severe injuries were sustained by John Honey, a moulder at the Pond Tool Works, yesterday afternoon, by accidentally stepping into a ladle of hot iron. His foot was burned so badly that he had to be removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. He will be unable to return to work for several weeks.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 31, "Communion and Transformation"—Text, Ex. xxxiv, 29-35; Luke ix, 28, 29.

"As he prayed the fashion of his countenance was altered."

So has it ever been; so will it ever be. Whoever talks with God will change and become like Him. In a very real sense this is true among men. A strong personality impresses himself on all who come in contact with him. Their opinions alter, the tones of voice become different, the walk and bodily actions gradually change and become more like that of the teacher. Part of this effect is from conscious imitation and part is involuntary. It is not uncommon to find two elderly persons who have lived many years together resembling each other remarkably in features, speech and in many other respects.

Companionship leads to similarity of nature and action. If this is true among men, how significantly true it is when we turn to divine companionship! This is the clew to the human participation in the divine nature. If the pure in heart see God, as Jesus declared they do, then looking upon Him we may expect them to gradually grow like Him, so that godliness becomes their nature and we can see the divine characteristics in their words and work.

This is with us more than momentary ecstatic vision. Moses was in consultation with God alone in the mountain until he began to see the plans and to feel the thrill of the divine intention. The power and glory of God got hold of him, so that hunger and thirst were forgotten in the glow and uplift of a great thought and a mighty purpose. It could not be otherwise than that the face must show the radiance of the light which was in the soul. As clouds high in heaven show the radiance of the sun not yet risen, so the face reflects beams of soul light which have not come above the horizon of action.

The matter of most importance to us is neither the veil over Moses' face nor the white garments of Jesus, but the transformation which can come to us by like communion with God. Here lies one of the highest privileges of our earthly life. We can talk with God; we can enter into His thoughts, share His desires and aid in the accomplishment of His plans. Not only the preacher and religious teacher, but every one of God's children, can have companionship with Him. Our daily work can be glorified and all our doing lifted out of the dead level and mire of the corrupt and commonplace and transfigured and glorified. Moses' face, which shone, had the same old skin bronzed by forty years of desert life, but when God talked to him it shone like the face of an angel. Jesus' garments were the same everyday working clothes He had long worn, but when the soul glowed under the revelation of coming agony, crucifixion, death and resurrection, the raiment became white as snow. Let God by His Spirit fill our souls and all life, and its tasks shall shine with divine beauty and glory.

Silent Sorrow.

Far better the silence of sorrow than the sound of it. Far better the smile of trust than the tears of doubt. Far better the calm, serene brow than the wrinkles of petulance. The child that believes in his mother laughs at the foot that overturns his castle of blocks, and with a shout of glee he builds again the ruined towers into greater height. So do those who believe in God bear His strokes and take up the broken life and rear it into loftier spiritual attainment. Those who sulk and complain behold naught except blight and loss. And is there anywhere in the world a sadder sight than that of a dispirited man or woman? It is pathetic enough to stir the grief of angels. Ah, yes, in the silence of sorrow many a temple of nobler living has risen grandly to the bending skies of God's love, like that which Solomon planned; upon which the noise of workman's tools was not heard. Out of a quietness of soul such as this have reached the hands that have swung bells celestial into peals of joy.—Presbyterian Journal.

A Loss Indeed.

We can afford to lose much in this world. Most of our material possessions may be taken from us without any positive loss to life, but we cannot afford to lose faith in God or in each other. The man who has lost faith in humanity is ready to abandon faith in God, and such a man might as well be dead, for all the good he can be to the world or to himself. The great doers of the world are the great believers. A doubter has never yet been successful in this world in spite of the blessings that are sometimes heaped on doubters. "Send them home," said Gideon on the night when there was fighting to be done.—Baptist Union.

The Paths to God.

The paths to God are more in number than the breathings of created beings.—From the Persian.

God's Thoughts.

God has a thought for the maple;
You may read that thought in the tree.
Would you know His thought for the granite?
Look at the granite and see!

His thought for the springing grass
Is told by the cool, green sod;
The rose unfolding its petals
Discloses the mind of God.

His thought for the butterfly's life
Is writ on the insect's wings;
The word He spake to the skylark
You hear when it soars and sings.

We think we are more than the bird,
More than the tree and the sod,
Yet, say, are we living our lives
As true to the thought of God?

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 31—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Communion and transformation.—Ex. xxxiv, 29-35; Luke ix, 28, 29.

The two illustrations of communion and transformation which we have before us in the topical references are those of Moses and of Christ. The first one is that of Moses upon Mount Sinai. There he had held communion and fellowship with God, and when he came down from the mount the people saw that the face of Moses shone or that it had been transfigured with the light of God. The same thing happened to Christ upon the Mount of Transfiguration. While He had fellowship and communion with God we are told that He was transfigured, and this transfiguration took place while He prayed. The fashion of His countenance was altered, and His raiment was white and glistening.

In these two references we see that communion and transformation go hand in hand. Moses was in communion with God when he was transfigured with heavenly light. Christ was in prayer and communion with God when His countenance was changed and His raiment was white and glistening. The desire and the ambition of every Christian should be to lead a transformed and a transfigured life. The light of God should shine forth in our lives, and this can be the case only when we are faithful in holding communion and fellowship with God. Of an aged saint whose life was so beautiful the question was asked, How does it come that his life is so different from others? the answer was that he lived so close to heaven that he saw things that others did not see and heard sounds that they did not hear. His life of communion was rewarded by a life of transformation, the glory of God shone forth in his countenance and in his life above that which was manifest in the lives of others, and it was brought about by nearness to God in that and in life.

Communion and transformation are possible to all Christians. Communion with God is evidently possible to all. Through the Lord Jesus Christ we have access to the throne of God at all times and under all circumstances. God has encouraged us in His word to pray unto Him and to hold fellowship and communion with Him. The results of prayer in one case will not be different from other cases. If communion with God led to transformation in the case of Moses and in the case of Christ, it will also follow in the lives of all who spend much time in communion and fellowship with God. It would be absolutely impossible for the spirit of man to hold close fellowship and communion with the Spirit of God and this fact not to be produced in the life. The glory of God would necessarily shine forth in the life of one who holds constant communion and fellowship with God. We see those about us who impress us with the fact that the light of God is constantly about them. We oftentimes wonder why it is that certain saints of God seem to be surrounded with a heavenly halo. Undoubtedly the cause, if we could investigate it, would be found in the fact that they spend much time in prayer and much time in communion, and it is while they pray that they are transfigured and the light of the glory of God shines constantly forth in their lives.

We scarcely realize what a great thing it is to have the opportunity of communion with God. We would find it a delight to hold fellowship and communion with the great men of the world, but how much greater a delight it should be to hold communion with God Himself, who has made the world and sustains it by His power. There is not only the privilege of prayer, but there are many blessings attached to prayer. It is not only that God answers our petitions, but in this act of worship we come in close touch and contact with the divine one, and this is impossible without producing beneficent results in our own lives. The cares of life are lightened, its burdens are easier borne after we have spent time in prayer with God, the dark places are lighted, and the ways are made easier of travel by the light that shines from above during the time which we spend in prayer and communion with God.

The Church and Economics.

The church has a relation to the whole life. It enters society as a wholesome, leavening influence, touching all that pertains to the every day living of the people. Its message is first of all the love of God. The first effort is to bring men to God, but it also seeks to help men and so lift them up to a higher level of life as well as to the hope of salvation. Thus all of life comes within its sphere. Expediency must determine what should be done to alleviate present suffering and to change the surroundings of the individual so as to develop industry, economy, enterprise and general thrift, but a broad view of the sphere of Christianity will reveal numberless ways in which to work for a social uplift.—United Presbyterian.

Present Opportunities.

That is the best kind of optimism which sees in existing conditions opportunities for making the home, the life, the state and the church better. A cheery and expectant view of possibilities and attainments becomes a practical and animating incentive to the highest exertions toward an improved situation, whereby reforms are effected and worthy transformations come to the surface for the general benefit of all classes.—Presbyterian.

Revelation.

His mystic seal He sets on everything,
For great and small are one to visual sense,
And in the dust, upon an insect's wing,
As in a world, we trace omnipotence.

Phenomena of Pelle Eruption.

While the fiery tornado, passing toward the south and west, widened the sweep of its destructive power in order to extend its devastations further, another remarkable phenomenon came to stop it in its course. Two strong atmospheric currents, laden with rain, moving, one from the southeast, the other from the north, fell of a sudden upon the sides of the fiery spout, and, encircling it along a distinctly marked line, cooled it to such a point that I have seen persons who, finding themselves precisely upon this line of demarcation, were struck on one side by fiery missiles, while on the other, and only a few feet away, nothing was falling but the rain of mud, cinders, and stones which descended on the countryside everywhere.—Century.

Foiled Again.

"Villain," said the blonde and petite heroine resolutely, for she had at last pierced his disguise and knew that she must pass him up effectually or live unhappily ever after, "you are a wolf in sheep's clothing."

"Bah!" said the villain.

But this attempt to prove himself a sheep did not land, for the heroine, being a stage heroine, was not born yesterday or even 23 years from yesterday, and she knew a villain when she saw one. Consequently the hero came for her in the fifth act, the audience hissed the villain off the stage, and the curtain fell on the union of two hearts that beat as one.—Portland Oregonian.

Hearing with the Legs.

One of the strangest and most unexpected of the uses to which we could imagine a leg as being put is that of an organ of hearing. Yet such seems to be one at least of the functions of the forelegs in the cricket. On the outer side of the tibia a small oval space may be seen, in which the strong armature which covers the rest of the body is reduced to a thin and membranous condition, making thus a sort of window or drumhead. Communicating with this, inside the leg, are the ends of the nerves, and it can hardly be doubted, therefore, that the whole apparatus constitutes an auditory organ.—Knowledge.

Our Latent Nomad Instinct.

In our work we get further and further away from the earliest types of civilization, but in our play we come at times very near to prehistoric life. Our picnics are an attempt to satisfy our latent nomad instinct, our games and races are a symbol of the fierce struggle for existence which was a very real literal conflict in those far-off days, but has been modernized under the name of trade competition. And our love of shooting and fishing and hunting has no doubt been inherited from those who long ago hunted, not for pleasure, but for dinner.—People's Friend.

Italy's Pensioners.

A curious discovery has been made in connection with the veterans of the Italian war of independence. Instead of dying off gradually, as might be expected, they are actually increasing; Forty-two years ago Garabaldi sailed with 1,000 men from Querto. Of this gallant band there are to-day 1,200 survivors. Again, Italy is paying £60,000 a year to 18,421 pensioners of the 1848 campaign. According to the average rate of mortality four-fifths of them ought to be dead.—London Mail.

Intoxicating Beans.

Among the peasants of southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia a curious malady has been noticed by physicians, which is caused by eating beans. One of the most remarkable effects of the malady is a species of intoxication resembling that produced by alcoholic drink. In some cases persons predisposed to the malady are seized with the symptoms of intoxication if they pass a field where the bean plant is in flower, the odor alone sufficing to affect them.—Detroit Free Press.

PLAIN HOUSEWORK.

There Is Nothing Like It as a System of Physical Culture.

Would you be healthy and beautiful? Would you have strong, rounded arms, full chest, active, well shaped lower limbs that can dance all night and not feel it? Would you have a level head and a resourceful mind, trained muscles that never fail you in emergencies, a good digestion and a brave, steady heart that will pump for you with scarcely a perceptible hastened beat even while you walk up a steep hill or run upstairs?

Yes? Then do housework—just plain, common housework.

For developing lungs and chest sweeping is prime. Playing upon a washboard increases the limberness of the arms and wrists. It stiffens the fingers if one does too much of it, but we are not talking of too much of anything. Ironing is better than dumbbell practice. Polishing windows is better than swinging Indian clubs.

The rich man's daughter must search out devices for muscle development. For her have been invented tennis, pingpong, archery and dozens of cord and ring and bar arrangements. She is so put to it to get outdoor exercise that she must even take to hunting and galloping after hounds. The woman who does housework and gardening gets quite as healthful exercise without price and without trouble.

Nearly all country girls are healthy and comely until they get artificial notions from the city into their minds. Really and truly, in the matter of physical development and strong and independent character building, the country girl has infinite advantage over her sister of the city. Fine complexions and beautiful arms are found nearly always among women who milk cows and do dairy work. I have seen and studied girls of all stations and nations and have decided finally that the most fortunate of all are the daughters of well to do farm families in America, families in which the womenfolk do their own housework, tend flowers, ride horseback and rear chickens. A majority of the distinguished and successful feminine artists, teachers, writers, physicians and business women in the land today are from homes that gave them this noble bringing up. Those who later in life use their brains most effectively are the ones that in youth also learned to use their hands.

Though this fine country rearing is lost to the city girl, the healthful physical training of household work remains to her. Especially is she privileged in the matter of climbing stairs, which is so promotive of health in heart, lungs and muscles that running up and down stairs might almost be recommended of itself as a means to physical culture. Physicians are somewhat to blame for so much preaching of the ill effects of climbing stairs. There are none absolutely except to the confirmed invalid, and it is a genuine sign of the progress of the race that no woman except the most out of date is willing nowadays to acknowledge herself an invalid. Delicate females have gone out of fashion, for which let us be thankful.

I know a few women who pride themselves on their weak hearts, but none of them does her own housework. One eats too much, another takes no active exercise at all, while a third laces herself so tightly that she ought to be sentenced to prison for it. Not one of them gives her heart any chance. A good, strenuous course of domestic labor would cure every one of these dames of her weak heart.

I know of one woman who says kitchen work makes her ill. When she is absent from her own house, doing nothing but idle visiting, she is well, but the day she arrives home and begins her domestic duties she says she gets "kitchen backache." But this same woman also despises housework and proclaims it a "mean and sordid occupation." It is not. The meanness and sordidness are in the worker, not in the occupation.

There are not a few young women, and old ones, too, who make of household labor a really æsthetic employment. They begin their tasks with joy, singing as they go. Their fine, delicate sense of cleanliness and order revels in the polished floors, shining windows, crystal pure glassware and snowy linen, which are made thus by their own strong, skillful hands. These make of housework a real fine art. And their health is always good.

KATE SHARP.

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"Birds in their little nests agree," he quoted, "but not birds of prey! How James would like to show me the door, if he was not afraid of what I might do. It is pleasant to think that I shall soon have a weapon in hand that will keep him, if rightly used, in subjection. It is mighty unfortunate that man should have been captured. It complicates matters and makes my work doubly hard."

He entered the garden, which, though small, contained some fine old trees, and under the shadow of these a young girl was seated. She had a book in her lap, but did not appear to be reading. A sombre and pathetic figure in her dull, black dress.

"Now, then, look pleasant," he said to himself as, at the sound of his steps on the gravel, she arose and came toward him.

"I can see that you have heard the good news," she said. "You show it in your face."

"I must have a very speaking face, then, my dear," as he took her hand and pressed it warmly. "What is the good news that you refer to?"

"Why, surely papa must have told you?" Then, as he did not seem to understand, "why they have found the real criminal, and now it will be impossible for them to hold poor Dick any longer."

"The deuce! She can think of nothing but that fellow," murmured Ellison, under his breath, but he took care that she should not see that the subject was unpleasant to him.

"Your father certainly did mention that a suspect had been captured by the police, but it seems the fellow strenuously denies his guilt, and, for all we know, may be able to prove an alibi. So your friend, the schoolteacher, is far from being a free man as yet."

"Oh, dear, and I thought that the worst was over," her eyes growing dim.

"Well, we can only hope for the best," he said, soothingly, for he saw that to keep in her good graces it would not do to show any antagonism to Barnett. "I am afraid, though, that in their eagerness the police have seized upon a poor man who has only his previous bad record against him. If young Barnett is innocent, he will get free. The law seldom makes a mistake. In the meantime I would not brood so much on the subject. You ought to get away from yourself and your thoughts more. Come, what do you say to a drive this afternoon. I'm sure it would do you good!"

"Oh, as if I could enjoy anything when I know that poor Dick is deprived of every comfort, it would only serve to remind me of his miserable position."

Frank bit his lip, for a good round oath was on his tongue.

"But, my dear," gently, "you owe it to your father—to me—not to give way in this manner. You are getting more pale and ghostly day by day, and will end by collapsing completely. You must make an effort—fight against living such a moody life, take some interest in things, or you will go mad through melancholy."

"I can't take interest in anything but Dick's fate," she replied tearfully. "If you want to see me any different, why you must set him free; that is the only thing that will make me wish to change my ways of living."

"What can I do to kill this infatuation?" Frank was thinking. "The child has become a perfect monomaniac on the subject." Just as this was passing through his mind she suddenly seized his arm and pointed toward the hedge that ran around the garden.

"Look there. Do you see it?"

"What?" staring at the place pointed out.

"A face! The face of that strange little man who seemed to have taken such an interest in Dick's case. It seems that I saw the face peering in at us through the hedge."

Ellison waited to hear no more, but ran over to the gate set in the hedge, and dashed out of the grounds, staring up and down the road. There was no one in sight but a butcher boy pushing a handcart, and a man with a load of bricks passing. To satisfy himself, he went around the garden, examining every corner, and did not find his man. "It must have been your fancy, my dear," he said, when he returned to her side. "You see, you brood so much on this matter that you are getting to have hallucinations."

"No, no," shaking her head decidedly; "I saw the man there as plain as I see you."

"So we are hunting each other," Frank said to himself as they returned to the house. "Well, he will soon be where he can worry us no more," for he believed that it really was Job whose face she had seen watching them through the hedge, and he marveled at the man's audacity. He looked forward to be rid of such a persistent enemy, and the hour seemed near at hand.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE BLUE STONE RING.

Hendricks still occupied the little house at the end of the long garden, though he did not take as much comfort or feel so secure since the appearance of the coupe at the end of the street, and the mysterious meeting of Jebbs and the stranger.

After debating the subject over night, he could not make up his mind to move. If the worst happened, why he must try and find the way out of the difficulty as best he might.

He knew that the Ellisons had returned to town, and on several occasions he had attempted to get word to Grace, but the opportunity did not offer. He was delighted when he learned through the papers that a man had been arrested as a suspect in connection with the crime, and he felt sure that the young man would be acquitted. For the present he could let matters in that direction take their course. The work that he had cut out to do was quite as important, to revenge himself on the man who had been the direct cause of his years of misery. He had nursed the hope of bringing that man to justice for many seasons, and now it seemed the victory was at hand.

As the days went by, and there were no signs of Jebbs, he became more and more uneasy. He began to think that this strange man was treacherous, and had, perhaps, gone over to the enemy. Certainly he did not appear to be a person who was above selling out.

His surprise was therefore great, when, returning one night, he saw a faint light shining through the shutters of the room on the upper floor where he generally slept.

Prepared for anything, he entered the house quietly and climbed the stairs to his room, threw open the door—and found—none other than Jebbs coolly seated at the table, discussing bread and cheese, stopping now and then to lift a can to his lips. He did not seem to be at all alarmed when the owner of the place entered, nor did he act like a man who fears that his knavery has been found out.

"How did you get in?" asked Hendricks, for he had since that eventful night taken great precautions about barring the doors and windows of the little house. It hurt him to think that this fellow was able to enter a place he had thought so secure.

"Well, I wanted to get in, and when I feel that way, nuthin' can stop me," said Jebbs, with his mouth full. "I'd like to see the bolts and bars that could keep yours truly out when he wanted to git on the other side of a door."

"Well, you needen't try it again," grumbled the other. "You may have an unpleasant surprise the next time, so I warn you."

"Why so crusty, old man. 'Spec' I was goin' to set down in the garden, git pneumony waitin' for ye, when all I had to do was to let myself in. Not on your life." And he returned with fresh energy to his very frugal meal.

Hendricks, who had thrown himself wearily down in a chair, was regarding his visitor with such a malevolent look that even the careless Jebbs grew uneasy, and stopped the mechanical movements of his jaws for a few minutes to say:

"Whatcher eying me so fierce like—and when I had good news to tell ye," adopting an injured tone.

"When you left me the other night you met a man who came in a coupe, you talked to him for a time on the corner, and then both went off in the carriage together."

Jebbs seemed at first startled by this sudden charge flung at him, but it was only a moment before he recovered his equanimity.

"So it was that worried you, eh?"

"Yes, it looked like too much double-dealing."

ALL WRONG.

The Mistake is Made by Many Plainfield Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief is cure.

Backache is kidney ache

You must cure the kidneys.

A Plainfield resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. Jos. VanArsdale, carpenter and contractor living at 213 Spooner avenue, says: "For several years I suffered from severe pains in my back, hips and loins so bad at times that it was almost impossible for me to get around and attend to my work. Any stooping or heavy lifting aggravated it and if I contracted a cold it always settled in my back and at such times my suffering was something intense. When Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice I was in pretty bad shape and procuring them from L. W. Randolph's drug store I took a few doses when I found they were helping me and on completing the treatment I was quite free from pain. I always keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand so as to have a sure remedy close by if the trouble should ever return."

Books by the Pound.

Thousands of families all over the country treasure old Bibles, hymn books and volumes of sermons published in the eighteenth and seventeenth centuries, fondly believing that any of these works may be sold some day, if necessary, for a sufficient sum to pay off the household mortgage. Requests like these are being received constantly by newspaper editors: "Please let me know the value of a Bible published by Smith & Jones, London, in 1745. I am informed that it is worth a large sum." In almost every case the reply must be given that old religious books and Bibles are worth only so much per pound as the old paper junk man is willing to give. This seems like a reflection on public taste in book collecting, but it is true, nevertheless. There still is a popular impression that age alone gives value to a book, but a wheelbarrow full of theological treatises issued previous to 1600 may be bought for a few shillings apiece.—Detroit Free Press.

"The American Rhine."

In 1606 Henry Hudson, "the bold Englishman," urged his little Dutch boat, the "Haalve Maan," up the river that the Iroquois had christened the "Cohatatea," but which the English afterward rechristened the "Hudson." He courted the favoring winds until he anchored the "Half Moon" off the bank near where now stands the city of Albany. Others had discovered the river before his day, for French, Portuguese and Dutch had pushed the prows of their boats into the lower stream as early as 1524-'30, but to Hudson belonged the honor of navigating the stream for any considerable distance. And so it is conceded that the name of that early navigator has been justly bestowed upon "the American Rhine." The movement to celebrate the tricentennial of the coming of Henry Hudson, is now taking tangible form, though the nature of the observance, is as yet undecided. — Four-Track News.

A Musician's Face.

In certain musicians one observes facial trademarks. Flutists and clarionetists may be recognized by the position of their lips and their puffed cheeks. Violinists who hold their instruments in place with their chin hang their heads and incline them to one side. As to special senses and occupations, they are improved by use. One argument for child labor in the old days dwelt upon the fact that in certain forms of work unless the laborers were trained at an early age the necessary skill would never be attained. Tactile precision, sight, hearing and taste are among these. The excessive use, however, to which after life subject the senses brings about the trademark abnormalities. The shortsightedness of scholars and teachers is a case in point. The sense of hearing is dimmed, sometimes lost, for those who are constantly subjected to excessive noise such as boilermakers.—Chicago Tribune.

Time Saved.

"Some of the most successful Americans," said the sententious summer boarder, "were obliged in youth to study by the light of pine knots."

"Yes," answered Farmer Corntossel; "that's where they had a big advantage. They didn't have to spend a large share of their lives dodgin' live wires an' learnin' not to blow out the gas."—Washington Star.

Acetarious Plants.

Salad plants comprise a group which may be arranged under the head of acetarious plants. Some have long been known as common vegetables and cooked and served as such, while others have been regarded simply as weeds by most native Americans.—Science.

TRAPS A SWINDLER.

Excellent Piece of Detective Work Done by a Woman.

She Helped the Secret Service Office to Capture a Notorious Dealer in What Is Known as Green Goods.

One of the most sensational pages in the history of the United States secret service bureau is devoted to the exploits of Miss Hallie R. Saunders, of Irwin, Pa., who was instrumental in the capture of Henry Montgomery, alleged to be one of the most expert green goods operators that ever turned a trick on a gullible granger or "gold bricked" a man of easy conscience.

Miss Saunders has been in business at Irwin for many years and is wealthy. A few weeks ago she sold out her millinery store and retired to go into the real estate business. At this time she received a green goods circular from Montgomery setting forth how a shrewd business woman who could keep her affairs to herself could make money handling the "goods." She knew exactly what this meant and made up her mind to try to get the confidence operator into the hands of the government officers.

She told her plans to several male friends and answered the letter. She wrote that she had $500 or $1,000 to invest and asked to have mailed to her a sample of the goods.

In a few days she received a reply and inclosed in the letter was a new dollar bill that was genuine. More letters passed and Miss Saunders set a day and hour when she would leave home for New York. Then followed "come-on" instructions, a Broadway hotel to be the meeting place, and at Harrisburg she was to leave the train and wire Montgomery: "Mother and I are coming." The trap was then ready to spring.

Miss Saunders turned the letters and the dollar bill over to Postmaster Sowash and he sent them to the postal department. From there they reached the secret service operators.

"DID YOU REST WELL?"

At the New York end they cast about for a woman to impersonate Miss Saunders and one for the task was found in a department store. She was instructed how to meet the confidence man and all was ready.

From Harrisburg Montgomery got the "come-on" message signed by the Irwin woman and at the appointed time a woman was sitting in the Broadway hotel parlor, while a pair of secret service men were near by. Outside a dapper young man was walking back and forth. The next moment the young woman arose and walked to the sidewalk. As she approached the strange man turned, raised his hat and said:

"Did you rest well last night?"

"Oh, yes, considering my long journey from Irwin."

This was the prearranged greeting and the word of recognition, according to instructions. The couple entered the hotel and there is where the arrest was made. The man was taken to the Tombs and the fictitious Miss Saunders went back to the store, glad that it was all over.

Miss Saunders was summoned to New York to appear against Montgomery. He waived a hearing and was placed under $6,000 bail for trial.

Secret service men say that he is an old offender. He was arrested some years ago, but skipped his bail of $2,500. He ceased operations for awhile, but got back into the same old business and had eluded all attempts to run him down.

Artificial Rain Production.

A number of prominent Japanese scientists are at present engaged upon a series of experiments for the artificial production of rain by means of electricity. The first trial was made in the Fukushima prefecture, and the results obtained were very satisfactory. Operations were commenced at 11 in the evening, but no change was noted until nine the next morning, when clouds began to gather in the vicinity of the place where the experiments were being held. Rain soon began to fall over an area several miles in extent, and continued without intermission for 12 hours.

Elephant Topers in Africa.

The unganu tree of South Africa yields fruit from which an intoxicating drink is made. It is used by the natives, and elephants are also fond of it. These animals often become quite tipsy, staggering about, playing antics, screaming so as to be heard for miles and having tremendous fights.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Manager Monahan, of the St. Mary team, has an eye to business. He is already casting about for next season's make-up and it is said several players on other League teams will wear a St. Mary uniform in 1903.

The Orange Field Club will once more give battle to its old opponents, the Cranford A. C., on Saturday. The latter team has several times been defeated by the Plainfield club but it bobs up serenely with surprising regularity and asks for another try.

Manager Muir will in all probability have two games arranged for his pennant chasers on Labor Day. The game with High Bridge has long since been scheduled and now the Clinton team is asking for a battle in the morning. If terms can be agreed upon the deal will be closed this week.

The Newark Call states that the next game between the Plainfiled Police and the Fourth Precinct teams will take place at Newark on September 10. When seen yesterday, Chief Kiely stated he was unaware any date had been set and if the Newark people had arranged one, they did so on their own account.

The past season has been a fairly profitable one for the League teams, speaking in a financial sense. Two of them will quit the year nearly $200 ahead, excluding all paraphernalia, while the others are not as yet prepared to make a statement. While this may seem large to some not acquainted with the management of a baseball nine, it is comparatively little for the risk and outlay made at the commencement of the season. One association expended $150 in fitting out its players with the necessary uniforms and equipment, when there was practically nothing to give assurance of its return.

Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains baseball team, is on a still hunt for a good pitcher to help Harvey out on Labor Day. Three games straight with only a day's intermission is most too much for any pitcher. Saturday's game with the Celluloids will be one of the hardest fought games of the season and Harvey will have to do some great twirling to fool the heavy hitting visitors. Then on Monday the team crosses bats with the Y. M. C. A. team, of Plainfield, for two games. If the team holds its own in the three games played it is only reasonable to expect that Dick must have some help in the box.

GOLF.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers is now preparing to enter the National Woman's Golf championship tournament to be held in October at Boston.

The events on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course for Labor Day will include a men's mixed foursomes in the morning and play for the Holiday cup in the afternoon. There will be no mixed doubles at tennis, as planned.

It is the custom to close the course of the Morristown Golf Club during the month of August, on account of so many members going away to summer resorts. When this is considered, the success of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club is to be commended, for the course is kept open during the entire season and is frequently visited by a great many members.

TENNIS.

In continuation of play in the tennis tournament for members of the boy's department at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday afternoon, VanArsdale defeated Aalholm 7-5; Webster defeated Aalholm 6-4; Aalholm defeated Schmelzel 6-0; Aalholm defeated Templin 6-2; VanArsdale defeated Templin 6-2. Play will be continued today.

HENRY DUNHAM DEAD.

Aged Resident of Piscataway Township Passed Away at Hospital.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 28—Henry Dunham, aged seventy-three years, an old resident of Piscataway township, died yesterday at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, where he had been under treatment for a complication of diseases.

He was a tailor by trade, having conducted this business at New Market for many years. He afterwards sold out to C. T. Rogers. He leaves a wife, and a daughter, Mrs. Isaac Giles, of Plainfield, and a son who lives in New York State.

The funeral services will be held from the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery, Plainfield.

ELIZABETH'S NEW HOSPITAL

BRANCH OF THE NEWARK EMERGENCY HOSPITAL OPENED THERE.

Opened in the Middle of Factory District and Promises to be a Success.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 38—The Emergency Hospital is a new institution in Elizabeth. It is located at 347 Second street, in the midst of the factory district, and was opened last week. During the past week over sixty cases have been treated.

This hospital, which is known as the Elizabeth Emergency Hospital, is a branch of the Newark Emergency Hospital. It is a self-supporting institution. Certificates are sold, good for one year, for one dollar, and each entitles the holder to medical advice and surgical treatment at the hospital at any hour of the day or night, during the life of the certificate. Medicine will be furnished at the hospital at cost price. The doors are not closed to anyone, and whether a person is a certificate holder or not he is given the same treatment as though he was at no cost, but in the hope that he will become a subscriber. Men, women and children are admitted.

The Newark Emergency Hospital, of which this is a branch, was opened on August 11, 1901, and during its first year the number of cases treated was: Males, 9,891; females, 2,880; medical cases, 7,295; surgical cases, 5,476. The hospital in this city is provided with three beds. Cases which promise to take up any length of time are removed to the Newark Hospital, where ample room is provided.

Dr. John William Keough, of Newark, is the chief of the new hospital staff, and he has an assistant. An ambulance is on the ground ready to respond at a moment's call.

The hospital's representative, Harry Moon, is canvassing the factories for patrons. Last week his time was devoted exclusively to one factory, and from it he secured over 400 certificate buyers. It is the intention of the hospital authorities to cover every factory in the city in this way.

ROBBED SLOT MACHINES.

Gang Worked in Plainfield Streets Last Night With Success.

Thieves with a predilection for chewing gum and bon bons prowled through the streets of Plainfield last evening. Penny in the slot machines were taken from the doorway at P. Hepburn's pharmacy on Park avenue, and another from Paoli's, North avenue. Patrolman Lunger this morning found Hepburn's in the rear of Frucht's alley. Paoli's has not been found.

Town Hall Project Defeated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Hackensack, Aug. 28—The special election held Monday to vote on the question of bonding the town in the sum of $32,000 for a municipal building, resulted in a defeat of that question by ninety-one votes. The "uptowners" defeated the project because the commission proposed buying a building located down town. Over 200 commuters who failed to arrive from New York until after 7 o'clock were refused the voting privilege.

HAS MOTHER SETTLED?

Wm. B. Smith Does Not Think She Has and He Will Start for California Tonight.

William B. Smith, a brother of the late Mrs. Charles G. Fair, and his wife will leave the Grand Central Station, New York, this evening at 7:30 o'clock for Chicago, from which place they will go to California over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad. They expect to reach their destination within five days.

Mr. Smith was seen this afternoon regarding the published statement in this morning's New York papers which said that a settlement had been effected and that his mother had signed certain papers. He said that he did not believe it was true, and in any event his mother would have no authority to sign papers for anyone but herself. Mr. Smith said that he had heard that Mrs. Abram G. Nelson, of New Market, had gone to California, but could not confirm the report.

Despatches from SanFrancisco this morning state that Mrs. Harriet E. Nelson, of New Market, mother of the late Mrs. Charles L. Fair, on behalf of herself and children, has relinquished all claim against the estates of Fair and his wife, receiving a sum in cash, supposed to be $500,000. By the terms of the compact the estate of Charles L. Fair will then go entirely to his relatives, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who will also receive Mrs. Fair's property. The despatches state that Mrs. Nelson has announced her intention of remaining in California and making her home there.

CHOIR TO SING.

Crescent Avenue Church Choir Will be Back to Duty Sunday.

The choir at the Crescent Avenue church will return Sunday, but two of the members will be represented by substitutes, Miss Edith Joy taking the place of Miss Grace Carroll, who will be in her place the first Sunday in September. Mrs. Agnes Starburg-Hall will take Miss Henry's place as the latter is ill and will not be able to sing for a few Sundays.

Mrs. Corra Ryno, of Codington avenue, returned home last evening from Niagara Falls.

WHO WILL WIN THE PENNANT?

Tomorrow's Games Conclude The Season for the City Baseball League.

A TIE IS POSSIBLE.

But Only Defeat for the Y. M. C. A. and Victory for the Hope Y. M. A. Can Prevent the Y. M. C. A. Boys From Carrying Away the Pennant at Once.

Excitement generated by the race for the baseball pennant, which carries with it the championship of Plainfield, is likely to culminate tomorrow. The final games in the series are to be played by the four teams composing the City League but still the final result is in doubt. From the present outlook the coveted banner will be borne away by the nine representing the Y. M. C. A., yet there is a possibility that later in the season it will head westward and find a resting place in the trophy room of the Hope Y. M. A. So close has been the struggle that the schedule may result in these two teams locking horns, the only method of release being a new series of three games.

As the teams stand now Y. M. C. A. is at the head of the list, having won seven games and lost four, Hope is second with six victories and five defeats, the crack Hibbard-Rodman-Ely aggregation looms up in third place with five wins and six losses, and the one-time champions, the St. Marys, have clinched last place by winning but four out of eleven games played. Tomorrow Hope and Safe Works pair off and St. Mary will give battle to the Y. M. C. A.

If Hope wins its game and the Association nine loses to St. Mary, the Y. M. C. A. drops back and ties with Hope for first position, after which they must go it alone. On the other hand, if the Y. M. C. A. team wins, the question of supremacy is answered and should Manager Muir's men also win, Hope must divide honors for second place. In any event St. Mary cannot get away from the bottom.

The executive committee of the League will meet Monday evening and if the unexpected should happen, that is the tie-up, the new series of three games between Hope and Y. M. C. A. will be arranged.

The formation of the League, the success of which was scouted last spring, has been the shoulder to the mired wheel of baseball, which has again started the national game in this city. Since the disbanding of the pennant winning Crescents in 1894, interest in the sport has drifted along in a more or less desultory manner and the several attempts to put a semi-professional team in the field, ended in naught but pecuniary loss to the projectors. The crack P. A. C. team which gave good games in 1896 to poor crowds quit the season decidedly out of pocket, the Riverside A. C. struggled along for three months and then withdrew and until two years ago, Plainfield fans had to go elsewhere for their favorite form of divertisement.

In 1900 the St. Mary team came to the fore as a strong amateur nine and with the Arions, the present Hope team, attracted crowds of several hundred to its Saturday afternoon games. The West End shops also put teams in the field and for a time, vacant lots in the West End became the scenes of exciting contests.

Last season St. Mary strengthened itself greatly and with the new Hopes and Clinton Avenue A. C. giving battle to strong amateur nines from the Metropolitan district, enthusiasts saw a new era of baseball looming up.

Their predictions came true for with the opening of spring the well known sporting goods firm of A. G. Spalding & Brother offered a pennant for the champion team of Plainfield and as a result the present City League was formed. In addition there have been numerous independent teams, including those from the police and fire departments.

Each League team has had its quota of followers all summer and after every game, each inning was played over and again on the street corner and formed the one topic of conversation during the week. So enthusiastic were many fans over the merits and demerits of their favorites that large sums were wagered on the results of the games and each contest has been witnessed by crowds numbered in the thousands. It required a considerable outlay to put the nines in the field but each has proved a profitable renumeration and the season will close, irrespective of winner, with baseball once more in a healthy and vigorous state in this city.

BRIDGE CONTRACTS.

Awarded at Meeting of Somerset County Board of Freeholders Yesterday Afternoon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 29—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders held an adjourned meeting in the Court House yesterday afternoon and transacted considerable business. All the members were in attendance.

The following bridge contracts were awarded: Middaugh street bridge in Somerville to Richards & Gaston, of this place, at their bid of $6 per cubic yard; two bridges in Dock Watch Hollow to Mundy Brothers at $150 each; the Griggstown bridge to the Dover Boiler Works at their bid of $1,300; and the Chimney Rock bridge to Kirk & Company, of Plainfield, at $650. Director Logan was authorized to execute the contracts.

A communication was received from S. B. Jackson in regard to the white bridge near the Smith picnic grounds. Referred.

Next Monday the board will meet in Erner's grove near Chimney Rock.

CUT ARM OPEN ON A NAIL

PECULIAR ACCIDENT WHICH HAPPENED TO YOUNG RUSSELL DE CAMP.

Fell From a Platform, Catching His Arm on Projecting Nail—Taken to the Hospital.

Russell DeCamp, the ten-year-old son of Alonzo DeCamp, of Manning avenue, lies at Muhlenberg Hospital as the result of a peculiar and perhaps serious accident of which he was the victim last evening.

He was playing around a house in the course of erection in the neighborhood and climbed to a staging at an elevation of some distance from the ground. The young lad fell off and in his downward course, his arm caught on a projecting nail, ripping the member open from the tip of the thumb half way to the elbow.

The young fellow was carried to his home in a helpless condition. Dr. Zeglio was called and dressed his wounds, but it was later deemed advisable to take the boy to the hospital. The distance the lad fell was not great and this, combined with the breaking of the force of the fall, aided him to escape without breaking any bones.

SOUVENIR POSTAL CARDS.

It Has Been Suggested That Plainfield Have Same as Other Places.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has not placed the McKinley postal cards on sale at the local postoffice for the reason that he has quite a stock of the other kind to dispose of first. As soon as the old style is sold out the new ones will be offered to the public. In connection with this it has been suggested that it might be well for some enterprising person to get up souvenir postal cards for Plainfield. There are many beautiful scenes about the city and vicinity, and as the Government allows this kind of advertising it might prove an excellent way of showing to outsiders some of the attractive spots in Plainfield.

TERRIBLE DISASTER.

Today is Anniversary of Disastrous Wreck on Camden and Amboy R.R.

This date forty-seven years ago, August 29, 1855, there was a terrible wreck on the Camdem and Amboy Railroad, now a branch of the Pennsylvania and one of the few lines of railway in New Jersey at that time. Twenty-eight were killed and seventy-five injured in the disaster. George J. Bennett, of George street, has in his possession a photograph of a pen and ink sketch of the scene of death and devastation. The sketch was made on the spot by one of the passengers on the train.

May Exhibit Them.

As many members of the Plainfield Camera Club have secured excellent pictures during the summer season, it is quite likely that during the coming fall and winter they will be exhibited by the club. Such an entertainment would be interesting and profitable, and give those present a better idea of various places for spending one's vacation.

Suit Against Liverymen.

Peter Simmons, of North avenue, has started a suit against Pocock & Company for injuries received by one of that firm's horses stepping on his foot and thereby incapacitating him for business. Mr. Simmons has retained Counsellor R. M. Clark to look after his interests.

NEW QUARTERS FOR THE STATE SENATE

Contract Will Probably be Awarded to Lewis Lawton at Meeting Tuesday.

HE WAS LOWEST BIDDER

SOMETHING ABOUT NEW HOME FOR THE UPPER HOUSE.

Will Not be Completed Until a Year From This Fall—It is to Cost $125,000—The Interior Will be Handsomely Furnished.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Aug. 29—The contracts for building the new Senate chamber at the State house, Trenton, are to be awarded soon, and it is expected that the wing of the State house in which the old chamber is located will have been demolished by September 15. Already the chamber has been dismantled and its furnishings are being prepared for the auction room. The large chandelier which suspended from the centre of the ceiling has been hung in the supreme court chamber, where the Senate will hold its sessions next winter.

Six bids for the erection of the new addition were opened by the State house commission. Only one of the six, that of Lewis Lawton, of Trenton, was within the $125,000 appropriated.

Mr. Lawton's bid was $124,450 and the other bids were: Joseph H. Cutley, of Jersey City, $133,000; William Johnston, $139,575; James W. Lanning, $143,500; Robert Johnston, $163,524.

The contract will not be awarded until next Tuesday, but will undoubtedly go to Contractor Lawton, who built the new wing of the State house two years ago.

The new Senate chamber will not be ready for occupancy until a year from this fall. It will be nearly as large as the house of assembly. The improvement will cost about $125,000, and the new building will extend nearly to the top of the terrace on the west of the main building.

The new building will extend across the westerly side of the capital, offsetting the assembly chamber, which extends down Delaware street. Connection is to be made to the main building through a corridor from the main hall. This corridor will extend through the basement and first floor, and in it suitable provision will be made to shut off the new from the old buildings.

It is then to be continued across the new building, and on one side of it are to be four committee rooms, while opposite to them is the foyer or staircase hall, from which entrance is affected to the Senate lobby and to the stairways leading to the galleries leading to the court room.

The Senate chamber, including the corridors on each side, and the reception rooms, is to be forty by sixty feet. The central part to the dome will be thirty-six feet high. The interior of the chamber, it is proposed to finish with decorative panels and mouldings of plaster of paris, scagliola and imitation marble.

The doors and wood finish are to be of cherry, finished in mahogany. The arrangement of the rooms is such as to insure entire privacy to the members.

On the upper floor, besides the broad public gallery, a special gallery over the president's desk for the reporters is provided, back of which are to be four rooms and a lavatory. The seating accommodations of the upper gallery will be more than 200, and entrances are provided on both sides of the chamber by wide stairs leading to the first floor and up to the second floor.

The building will be made as nearly as possible fireproof throughout. The floors, except where carpet is used, will be covered with tiling, asbestalith or other similar material. All wainscoting is to be scagliola, with composition mouldings and ornamentations, highly finished. Stone stairs will lead to the second story.

The exterior of the building is to be faced with stone ashlar to the first floor and limestone above, and in general effect it will correspond with the rest of the Capitol.

Another Kind of Insect.

Counsellor Nelson Runyon was stung in the eye by an insect a few days ago, causing quite a painful injury. Someone suggested that it was a senatorial bee on a still hunt for his son, City Judge Runyon.

STRIKE BEGAN LAST EVENING

Demands of Employes of Columbia Tool Works for Shorter Hours Refused.

NO SETTLEMENT AS YET.

Notice Was Posted Yesterday Afternoon That the Demands Would Not be Granted so the Men Quit Work at Once—They Make Surgical Instruments.

The threatened strike of the employes of Becton, Dickenson & Company, manufacturers of surgical instruments, the place of business here being popularly known as the Columbia Tool Works, has materialized sooner than expected. The men walked out shortly before 6 o'clock last evening. A typewritten circular at the main entrance this morning reads: "The employes of this company who have left their positions will be paid in full at noon today."

The decision to strike was reached in double quick time. It was only Wednesday that the men handed in a petition to the managers, asking that a reduction be made in the hours of labor, from ten and three-quarters to nine hours a day. Saturday afternoon is a half holiday. Last evening a notice, the cause of the men going out immediately, was posted in the workshop to this effect:

"The petition of the employes of this company that nine hours shall hereafter constitute a day's work has been carefully considered and their claim that all factories in Plainfield and throughout the country have made this concession has been investigated. We find, after careful inquiry, that two of the largest factories in this city, all of our competitors and three-quarters of the factories throughout the United States have longer hours than requested in this petition. It is the policy of this company to maintain the most friendly relations between itself and its employes, and we regret that profits are so small that we cannot comply with the request. Becton, Dickenson & Co."

There was a rumor on the outside this morning that a compromise would probably be reached on a nine-and-a-half hour basis. The management said there was no foundation for the report.

Becton, Dickenson & Company are the manufacturers of high grade physicians' specialties with offices at 45 Vesey street, New York. It was said at the factory today that all the skilled labor remained at work, and that it would be possible to keep the works going satisfactorily till other men could be secured. No one could be found who seemed to have any delegated right to speak for the strikers, but the men generally are of the opinion that the company will attempt to make some agreement, probably a compromise. The men have no organized union here. They maintain that only the bosses and one fellow workman remained at work. The East Fourth street branch of the works has not been drawn into the difficulty.

HOWELL NAMED.

Republicans of Third District Renominated Present Congressman Without Opposition.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 9—Benjamin F. Howell, of Middlesex, was selected by acclamation here yesterday as the Republican nominee for the new Third district, comprising Ocean, Monmouth and Middlesex counties. No other name was brought before the convention.

United States Senator John Kean arrived at the hall before the convention began and held an informal reception under the trees. He was accompanied by his secretary, Mr. Biddle, and told the newspapermen that his presence was due only to a friendly interest in Congressman Howell.

A Railroad Journey.

"A Railroad Journey" will be the topic of Alexander F. Irvine's address in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon. Mr. Irvine spoke for every Sunday during the winter, for two consecutive years, at the Grand Opera House, New Haven, Conn. Those who heard him last Sunday and on a previous visit here know him for a pleasing and fascinating talker.

OLD SUSSEX DECIDES FOR "GOOD ROADS"

Despite the Opposition of the Farmers, the Board of Freeholders Took Initial Move.

FOUR MILES AT FIRST.

A LONG CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN PLANNED FOR THE FUTURE.

It Will Take Sixty Years to Complete the Plans Which Include Macadamizing of Four Hundred Miles of Roads.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newton, August 29—Old Sussex is at last in line for good roads. At a special meeting held here this week, the Board of Chosen Freeholders has appropriated $20,000 for building macadam roads with the State aid. Only four miles will be completed this year, but it is the intention of the board to go ahead with the work and build a few miles each year. Only the most public thoroughfares, those leading from town to town, are to be macadamized. Out of the 800 miles of road throughout Sussex county, 400 will eventually be macadamized.

There has been much opposition to the building of "stone roads" by the farmers throughout the county on account of the increased taxation which will result. At the meeting former Assemblyman William P. Coursen, of Fredon, asked the board to "go slow," and not increase the tax rate without due deliberation. John Ayres, of Andover township, said that not a farmer in his township favored macadam roads. He said that stone roads could be built for about half the price estimated for the macadam roads, and that they would answer the purpose just as well.

Jacob Wise, of Newton, in speaking in favor of macadam roads, said in part:

"The farmers are not the only ones who pay taxes in Sussex county. Newton has $2,000,000 of taxable property, and the corporations in Hardyston township are valued at about the same amount. The farmer is really the one who will be benefitted the most by macadam roads."

It is estimated that it will take about sixty years to complete the work as now laid out. It will cost the county about $1,280,000, or $3,200 per mile, with the State paying one-third of the expense, making the total cost for macadamizing 400 miles of road throughout Sussex county approximately $1,920,000.

The specifications for the building of three sections of road, with either telford or stone bottom, twelve feet wide, were approved by the board, at the cost estimated by Civil Engineer Andrew H. Konkle, as follows: Beginning at the residence of Dr. Andress in the village of Sparta and extending toward Newton, one mile, $5,110; beginning at the top of the hill in Stanhope, 2,100 feet from the Musconetcong bridge, extending toward Newton, one and one-half miles, $7,392; beginning at the top of the hill in Sussex borough and running toward Newton, one and one-half miles, $7,140.

Specifications for the section of road surveyed in Sandyston township, beginning at Tuttle's Corner and extending two miles toward Branchville borough, have not adopted as it is not yet determined whether the old road will be macadamized, or whether it would be better to construct a new road, beginning at Tuttle's Corner, and running up the brook and ravine to some point near the Mountain House or the Mountain Spring. Freeholder Jager wanted some part of the road built, and the board pledged to give him all the money remaining, after the other three sections were completed. The specifications call for a twelve-foot roadway, with macadam six inches thick. The work must be completed by May 1 next.

Dwelling for Madison Avenue.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to Mrs. M. B. Smith, of Prospect avenue, for the erection of a dwelling on Madison avenue, near Stelle avenue. The building will be 30 feet front by 34 feet deep, two stories. The architect is H. C. Smith; mason, William C. Smith; carpenter, D. N. Force.

Regular Board Meeting.

The Union County Board of Freeholders will hold its next regular meeting the First Thursday in September.

—Start the day right by including a cup of Neuman Brothers Old Government Java coffee with breakfast.

LAST DANCE.

August Balls of Warren Engine Company Came to an End With Successful One Last Night.

The last of the August balls given by members of Warren Engine Company last evening was the most successful of the series. A very large number were present and enjoyed the dancing up to an early hour this morning. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps marched over to the hall in a body last evening and alternately with Naylor's orchestra supplied the music for the occasion. The drum corps is to accompany the firemen on their trip to Atlantic City.

The floor committee last evening were David Allen, Louis Feiring, Bert Bodine; refreshment committee, A. Brokaw and F. Kesselring. The general committee in charge of the series were Julius J. Stahl, George Fairchild, David Allen, A. Brokaw. The dances as a whole have been successful from a financial standpoint and a neat sum has been realized towards paying the expenses to Atlantic City.

NIGHT ATTACK BY ROWDIES

MEMBERS OF ORANGE FIELD CLUB ASSAULTED NEAR NEW MARKET.

Were Returning Home When Unexpected Attack Began—Ended in Pitched Battle.

Twenty members of the Orange Field Club, of this city, which attended a lawn festival at New Market, Wednesday evening, were the unwilling participants in a pitched battle which took place on their way home.

Midway between New Market and Dunellen they were set upon by a gang of rowdies who laid in ambush and suddenly sprang out of the darkness. The Plainfielders were taken by surprise but when they began to be struck with things other than fists they retaliated and with telling effect. Several of the attacking party went to earth and although they outnumbered the club, the gang saw it was getting worsted and beat a retreat.

Two of the Plainfield party, George Bird and George McVoy, suffered some very severe bruises as a result of the onslaught. The club members recognized several of the gang whom they had seen at the festival, but why they were set upon, none of them has the faintest idea.

STOCK BROKER DIED.

Jas. W. Cunningham, of New York, Died at Hotel Netherwood.

James W. Cunningham, aged seventy seven years, who has been stopping at the Hotel Netherwood since last June, died at that place yesterday following an illness with pneumonia and heart failure. He had been in failing health for some time past.

He was a member of the New York Stock Exchange and resided at 332 West Seventy-seventh street, New York. He leaves a wife, son and daughter. The wife and daughter were with Mr. Cunningham when he died.

The remains were taken to New York this morning and the funeral services will be private from the late home.

Ton on His Foot.

Simon Mantz, colored, of West Fourth street, an employe of Hand & Son, met with a painful accident while unloading a printing press frame in New York yesterday. It became necessary to lower the mass, which weighs a ton, and Mantz's foot was caught beneath. From the fact that it descended slowly, the member was not crushed, but so badly bruised that he had to be assisted home.

Red Men at Elizabeth.

Opechee Tribe, No. 92, will give a reception and supper to the great chiefs of New Jersey in Columbia Hall, Elizabeth, this evening. This is the first time the State officers will have visited Elizabeth in a body. Mayor Ryan will deliver the speech of welcome to the visiting Red Men. Miantonomo and Wetumpkah Tribes, of this city, will be well represented at the affair.

Three in a Heap.

Three small girls who were riding their wheels on West Front street, this morning, accidentally collided with each other and all went down in a heap. James E. Martine happened to be near and he hastened to assist the girls. He helped to get the wheels disentangled and the girls on their feet. There was no damage.

Somerset's Freeholders.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will hold its regular September meeting at the court house in Somerville Tuesday.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR TROLLEYS

Will Go Into Effect on the Local Trolley System, Beginning Tuesday.

NO MORE CONGESTION.

Instead of All Lines Meeting at the Same Time, the Schedule Has Been Changed So That Only One Line Will be at the Transfer Station at One Time.

Conferences between the City Fathers and the officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway, have resulted in the latter adopting a scheme whereby it is hoped to relieve the congested condition on Watchung avenue which exists at present four times an hour when passengers are transferred. It will go into effect Tuesday.

Under the present arrangement of running cars in the city, a great deal of inconvenience and annoyance is caused to persons and teamsters by the blocking of the street at the transfer point, as it makes it impassable for other traffic. The city authorities have remonstrated but up to the present time, no solution of the problem had been arrived at. After inspecting the system in vogue in other cities, the street railway people concluded to adopt one which is generally used throughout the country.

The trolley company will rearrange its time tables so that cars of the different lines will arrive and pass separately at the transfer point. This will be a radical change in the manner of operating cars and may cause some annoyance at first until the public becomes accustomed to it. The company will fix up the waiting room so that those wishing to make transfers will have a place to stay until their car arrives.

Following is the schedule under which the cars of the different lines will proceed: Arlington avenue line: cars will leave Hillside cemetery every fifteen minutes from 6 a. m. until 11:15 p. m., then at 11:45 p. m. Leave depot every fifteen minutes from 6:15 a. m. until 11:30 p. m., then at 12 o'clock midnight.

Fourth and Somerset street line: Cars will leave Monroe avenue every fifteen minutes from 6:05 a. m. until 11:35 p. m. Leave mountain every fifteen minutes from 6:05 a. m. until 12:05 midnight, passing the depot in each direction every fifteen minutes from 6:35 a. m. until 12:05 midnight, then 12:35 a. m. to Fourth street.

Dunellen and Netherwood line: Cars leave Netherwood every fifteen minutes from 6:10 a. m. until 11:25 p. m. Leave Dunellen every fifteen minutes from 6:32 a. m. until 12:02 midnight, passing the depot in each direction every fifteen minutes from 6:25 a. m. until 11:10 p. m.

On the main line the cars will run on the present schedule, no change whatever being made, that is the first car leaves the terminus for Elizabeth at 5 a. m., the second at 5:30, the third at 6:08, fourth at 6:22 thence beginning at 6:45, every fifteen minutes until 12:15 midnight.

By this arrangement it will be discerned that the Arlington avenue line will profit by the change. Heretofore the traffic on this branch has been impeded through cars running on a half hour headway. They will now fall in with the fifteen minute schedule.

Kept the Change.

A member of the ticket-selling committee for the Retail Clerks' trolley excursion lost thirty of the cardboards a few days ago. They were picked up by an honest individual who sold them and marked up the proceeds to his own profit account.

Enjoyable Time.

Every arrangement has been completed by the committee from St. Patrick's Alliance for an enjoyable time, Labor Day on the annual excursion to Orange Grove, L. I. The sail alone is well worth the price of the entire trip.

Improving Roadbed.

In making the improvements to the New Jersey Central roadbed in front of the North Avenue station, new ties are being used to replace the old ones, and the old wooden platforms have also been removed.

Bible Society Convention.

The Somerset County Bible Society will hold its annual convention Tuesday, Sept. 23, in the Reformed church at South Branch.

THEATRICAL.

With September a new season in the theatrical world is begun. All over New York theatres are being hastily prepared for the autumn opening and the next few months will mean much to both managers and actors. However at Keith's there are no seasons, since this playhouse keeps open all the year round, and the coming of autumn will make little change on Union Square, save that the big European vaudeville acts which make their appearance in greater numbers. The past summer has been a very profitable one to Mr. Keith and, to insure the continuance of the enormous patronage which is his, no effort and no expense will be spared to make his shows even better than they have been in the past. Heading the bill for the first week in September is Lillian Burkhart who, with a strong supporting company, will present a sketch called "Jessie's Jack and Jerry," which is considered her greatest success. The Four Garganys, comedy acrobats, who have second place on the bill, form the advance guard of the great European novelty acts which are billed to appear here during the autumn and winter. Genarro and Bailey, acknowledged to be the best dancers upon the vaudeville stage; Stuart Barnes, the celebrated monologuist; Mrs. and Mrs. Lavarni, in a side-splitting comical sketch; Mills and Beecher, who also have a sketch; with a score of other strong acts, and new pictures for the biograph and stereopticon complete the Keith offering. Noon to 11 p. m. 50 cents.

The Labor Day crowds will be well provided for at the Proctor theatres as a week of excellent entertainment has been arranged. The Fifty-eighth Street Theatre will present for the second week of its season "The New Boy." Sol Smith Russell's old starring medium, "A Bachelor's Romance" will be presented by the Proctor Stock Company at the Fifth Avenue Theatre with an entirely new scenic equipment and a specially chosen cast. Up in Harlem, the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street will have "Mr. Walker's Ward" as its comedy bill, presented by the Proctor Stock Company. At the Twenty-third Street Theatre a big bill of clever vaudeville entertainers has been secured to present the usual continuous performance. Bills of even excellence, rather than a top-liner and mediocre assistants, is the Twenty-third Street's policy and next week's list will be up to the standard. Proctor's, Newark, is enjoying great prosperity and the presentation of the best vaudeville entertainers is continued. Princess Chinquilla, a full-blood Cheyenne Indian, in a clever musical act; the Yankee Comedy Four, comedians and dancers; Pauline Saxon, soubrette and mimic; the Nohreens, aerialists; and Sullivan and Pasquilina, in a comedy sketch, will be next week's leaders.

Labor Day Excursion to Mauch Chunk, Glen Onoko and the Switchback, via the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Special train will leave South Plainfield at 9:09 a. m. Fare for the round trip, adults $1.50; children 75 cents. Coupon tickets for ride over the Switchback, 50 cents additional, children 25 cents additional. Consult agents for further particulars.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

LITERARY.

The best descriptions, verbal and pictorial, yet published of the Martinique disaster, are to be found in A. F. Jaccai's paper, "Pelee the Destroyer," and in the illustrations to it in the September McClure's. No one has described with such vividness the gruesome sights among the ruins of St. Pierre, nor more movingly pictured the terrors and suffering among the native survivors of the eruption than the author, who writes with the greater feeling in that he had known the island and its people well for many years, and so is the better enabled to point the contrast between the beauty and peace of its former days and the desolation and havoc of today. Mr. Varian's illustrations of the various eruptions which he witnessed—some at very short range—are not only wonderfully fine pictures, but in their faithfulness to fact will be of the highest interest to students in showing the unique character of the volcanic disturbance in Martinique.

Ralph Connor's new Glengarry stories—two delightful sketches of boy life in a field which he has already made famous—form one of the most attractive features of the September number of Leslie's Monthly. The first installment of the Autobiography of a Thief, which is the personal account of the actual career of a well known thief and at the same time a most business-like and realistic statement of the development of a criminal, also appears this month. This is, indeed, a human document of the greatest value; an authentic account at first hand of the life of the under world. The thief tells of his boyhood and youth in this article, and traces in his racy and effective style the horribly certain development of the tough into the thief when circumstances shape the way.

Then there is an interesting account of the Humbert Swindle in Paris, perhaps the most daring and successful fraud of modern times, an instance where a game of bluff was carried on with a skill that has rarely if ever been equalled, even in this country; a suggestive and fully illustrated article on the historical development of the race of American negroes, and a sketch of that most familiar and least understood of natural phenomena, lightning, with a number of remarkable photographs.

Among this month's fiction the "Pickaninnies' Dream," a story of some little darkies with dramatic ambitions, most cleverly and amusingly illustrated, is one of the best pieces of work of its kind that has appeared.

Sunday at Lake Hopatcong.

That marvelously beautiful sheet of water known as Lake Hopatcong is a popular rendezvous for outing enthusiasts and the enjoyment one finds is without limit. Boating, bathing and fishing are some of the more important features and those can be indulged in without restraint. To reach Lake Hopatcong there is a wonderfully pleasant journey every mile of which is replete with scenic enjoyment, and those who take advantage of the $1 excursion the New Jersey Central is to run on Sunday, August 31, will be more ways than one repaid for the journey. A special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m., which arrives at the Lake in ample time for thoroughly enjoying the beauties of the place and the return trip does not leave the Lake until 5:15 p. m. This is the last trip of the season and you should not miss it.

—Rev. E. E. Valntine, of Ambler, Pa., will preach at the First Baptist church next Sunday morning and evening. He is a relative of Charles E. Rittenhouse, of West Sixth street.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

BORIS IN NEW YORK.

Russian Grand Duke Visits the Metropolis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—In most democratic manner Grand Duke Vladimirewitch Boris of Russia has made his entrance into New York. As he stepped from his private car attached to the Lake Shore limited, that arrived at the Grand Central station from Buffalo, he stood at the foot of the steps and shook hands with each member of the party of official Russians who were there to meet him. With little delay he entered a carriage and went direct to the Waldorf-Astoria, where he occupies the suit used by Prince Henry.

Denial was general among the members of the party that the grand duke, first cousin of the czar, has been cutting the capers in Chicago which have been credited to him. Mr. R. T. Crane, Jr., of Chicago and his brother, Mr. C. R. Crane, who have known the grand duke personally and who entertained him while he was in Chicago, were in the party.

The former said the stories which have traveled ahead of the royal visitor are untrue and most unjust.

"There's no truth in the stories that have been printed about him," said Mr. Crane. "He is here to see this country and to enjoy himself in every legitimate way, but he has not been treated fairly by those who have purported to report his doings and actions."

The secret service men who have accompanied him ever since he arrived in this country at San Francisco say the stories that he has been making merry with chorus girls and has had a "good time" generally are products of the imagination.

The story of his drinking champagne out of a Chicago chorus girl's shoe was denied by Mr. Crane with emphasis. It was declared to be utterly without foundation.

THE BERESFORD TRUST.

For Needy Turfmen, Founded by William C. Whitney.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—William C. Whitney of New York has founded the "Beresford trust" for the benefit of persons connected with the turf who are in need of assistance.

The Racing Calendar officially announces the benefaction as follows:

"Mr. Whitney of New York, out of respect for the memory of Lord William Beresford, with whom he was associated in the successes of Volodyovski and other horses, has most generously handed to trustees 400 preferred shares of the American Smelting and Refining company of New York, which are now yielding an income of about $2,800. Mr. Whitney's original intention was to confine the benefaction to the value of the Derby stakes won by Volodyovski in 1901, but he has now decided to increase it to the above sum in the hope that it may form a nucleus of a more important charity.

"The trustees are Lord Marcus Beresford, Mr. Leopold de Rothschild, Sir Edward Colebrooke and Sir Daniel Cooper, and the object of the trust, which is to be called the Beresford trust, is to benefit persons connected with the turf who may have become reduced in circumstances and when their cases have been investigated and found deserving of assistance. The trustees propose to meet twice a year at Newmarket to consider applications for assistance."

Harry Caldwell Beats Harry Elkes.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 29.—Harry Caldwell of Hartford defeated Harry Elkes of Glens Falls, N. Y., by two laps in a twenty mile race behind single motors at the Velodrome track here in 31m. 57s. Caldwell gained half a lap on the second mile, and, although Elkes made a number of spurts, he was unable to pass the giant rider. In the eighteenth mile Elkes burst a tire. According to the agreement, Caldwell let his pacemaker go by until Elkes jumped on a new wheel. The race was won on its merits. This is Caldwell's nineteenth victory behind pace this season.

Iron Strikers Issue Ultimatum.

LEBANON, Pa., Aug. 29.—At a meeting of 300 iron workers of the American Iron and Steel company who have been on a strike since May it was decided to notify the company that if the imported negroes brought here from Reading early in the week are not withdrawn within twenty-four hours all the machinists, bolt and nut workers, carpenters and other employees will also go out on strike, thus tying up the extensive plant, which when in operation employs 1,200 men and boys. Sheriff H. B. Coppenhaver has sworn in fifteen deputies.

SOLDIERS ATTACKED

Strikers Quelled by Bayonet Charge.

ONE MAN IS SLIGHTLY WOUNDED.

Five Others Arrested—Officers of the Twelfth Regiment Say Situation In the Panther Valley Coal Region Is Serious.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 29.—The first clash between the striking miners and the troops here has occurred, and as a result five prisoners are in the guardhouse at the Twelfth regiment camp, and Captain J. Beaver Gearhart of Company F, Twelfth regiment, is suffering from a wound on his shoulder, made by a stone thrown by a striker.

A report gained currency that the striking men were gathering in force to make a march on the No. 4 colliery, where the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company is mining and cleaning coal. The colliery is at the west end of the Panther creek valley, and the Governor's troop was ordered to that point.

Companies F and K of the Twelfth regiment were placed on trolley cars and run through the valley. When the cars reached Summit Hill, they were surrounded by a mob of strikers, who hurled rocks at the soldiers and called them hard names.

While Jimmy Marteen, an Italian, was in the act of hurling a stone at a car several soldiers jumped off and made an attempt to capture him. Marteen offered resistance, and the soldiers were compelled to fix their bayonets. In the melee which followed Marteen was slightly wounded in the left side.

The troopers started back to camp, and as the cars rounded the curve just outside of Summit Hill, at a point where the tracks take an abrupt dip, the motorman on the first car made the discovery that the rails had been greased. The cars were stopped, and soldiers were sent ahead to place sand upon the rails. When this had been done, it was possible by moving the cars slowly to reach Lansford in safety.

A mob had gathered there, and for a time it looked like a riot. As the first car was passing through the mob Captain Gearhart was struck on the right shoulder by a stone. Several soldiers jumped from the car in pursuit of the stone thrower. After an exciting scuffle they captured Joseph McCann, a young miner.

The cars proceeded again, but had not gone far when another crowd was encountered, and the soldiers were again taunted and stoned. Half a dozen soldiers jumped off and captured three men, who, it is alleged, were urging the crowd to attack the troops. The men gave their names as John King, Timothy King and John Kelly. They were taken to camp at Manila park, where, together with McCann and Marteen, they were placed under a heavy guard.

The officers of the Twelfth regiment all agree that the situation is serious. They say the feeling against the soldiers is very intense in Coaldale, Lansford and Summit Hill.

A council of war which was participated in by Colonel Clement and the brigade staff has been held at headquarters, at which the advisability of sending the other battalion of the Twelfth regiment to the Panther creek region was considered. After receiving the report of Major Gearheart to the effect that the turbulence had subsided it was decided that the battalion should remain here for the present. If it becomes necessary later on to take the balance of the Twelfth regiment, it is understood that the Ninth regiment will succeed it here.

Colonel Clement has issued an order to the troops on duty in the Panther creek valley calling attention to a recent act of the legislature providing a penalty for calling of obscene names. He directed that the officers in command rigidly enforce the provisions of the act.

FATAL FIGHT AT MINE.

Two Guards and Two Strikers Are Killed.

ROANOKE, Va., Aug. 29.—Advices received at the general offices of the Norfolk and Western Railway company from the coalfields say that two mine guards and two strikers were killed in a battle on Crane creek, in Mercer county, W. Va.

The scene of the shooting is in the vicinity of the Crane Creek Coal company's operation and that of the Thomas Coal and Coke company's operation. A body of mine guards numbering thirty or forty were fired on by a party of unknown men believed to have been made up of strikers armed with rifles. The guards returned their fire, and when the shooting had ceased it was found that two men on each side had been killed. The sheriff of Mercer county, whose office is at Princeton Courthouse, was immediately advised and left at once for the scene. Norfolk and Western officials say the trouble was confined to the Crane creek territory, where several of the operations have been closed down.

At Caswell creek a volley was fired by unknown men, wounding a boy who was employed as a driver in a mine. There is no clew to the identity of the men who did the shooting, and a search by a posse for them has so far been unsuccessful.

Governor White has ordered the Second regiment of the West Virginia national guard to the New river district, not, as he says, to settle the strike, but to protect life and property.

IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

President Guest at Hay's Summer Home.

HE SPEAKS TO CIVIL WAR VETERANS

At The Weirs He Emphasizes the Necessity of Preserving the Spirit of American Brotherhood.

NEWBURY, N. H., Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt is the guest of Hon. John Hay, secretary of state, whose summer home is located a few miles from here along the shores of Lake Sunapee. The secretary and his daughters met the president upon his arrival and joined with the assemblage in extending him a hearty welcome. The president delivered a brief address to the townspeople, in which he thanked the people for their greeting. He then entered Secretary Hay's launch Nomad and steamed away to The Fells.

New Hampshire's arms were open in readiness to receive the president. Long before he was awake a committee representing the governor boarded the train. The welcome they extended to him on behalf of the state was magnified later in the day in the smaller towns through which the train passed and at Nashua, Manchester, The Weirs and Concord, although the day was replete with the miscarriage of arrangements.

At The Weirs, where the Grand Army reunion was being held, the people in the excess of their desire to give the president a fitting reception came near causing a crush which might have resulted disastrously. As it was the president was for a time in the midst of a howling, surging mass and was all but carried off his feet. So inadequate were the police arrangements that the crowd had entire control of the situation, and much relief was expressed when the president after viewing the veterans was escorted into the hotel for luncheon. And here again the carefully laid plans for his entertainment went astray.

Luncheon was finally served through the gallantry of the governor's staff, who turned in and acted as waiters. The president's speech at the park, where the veterans were gathered, was most favorably received. He stood on a table at the extreme end of the platform, and his athletic figure made him strikingly conspicuous. As in the case of Bangor, he admonished his hearers to remain still and not to shove. A great crush occurred at Concord as the train was pulling out, and for a time it was feared people would be hurt.

The president's address to the G. A. R. at The Weirs was in part as follows:

Any American who has a proper sense of the relative proportion of things must realize that to the men who fought for the Union in the dark days of the civil war there is owing a greater debt of gratitude than to any others. Great were the deeds you did and vital the need of doing them, and many were the lessons taught the rest of us, both by what you accomplished in the war and by the way in which, when the war was over, you turned to the work of peace with the same spirit which had led you to triumph on the tented fields.

During the lifetime of our republic each generation has had its allotted task. Statesman and soldier, the man in public life and the man in private life each has had work to do for the nation. We have moved forward swiftly or have stumbled and halted according as the work as a whole was well or ill done. We have encountered many crises of importance and from time to time have been brought face to face with great problems, upon the rightful solution of which much of the nation's future welfare depended, but to you alone it was given to face with victorious valor the one crisis in which not merely the nation's well being, but the nation's life was at stake. To you it was given to solve the one problem which if not solved aright meant death for our people. All of the work of the men who founded this republic would have gone for nothing had you not done your part well.

It was the statesmanship of Lincoln, the soldiership of Grant and the loyal valor of those who upheld the arms of the one and followed the sword of the other which made permanent the work of Washington, of Marshall and their compeers. It would have profited little to us or to mankind at large if the experiment of free government by the people and for the people had been founded upon this continent only to go down in bloody wreck on the question of slavery. You saved the Union and you freed the slave and thereby freed the slave's master from the worst of all thralldoms. You did us the service of struggling in a cause and for a reward in that war based upon naught that was merely material. We pride ourselves, and properly so, upon our great industrial capacity, our great industrial skill. We need such success and such capacity to make broad and stable the foundations of our national well being, yet there are things higher than any possible material triumph.

We won in the great trial of the civil war and came through the fiery furnace unscathed; we sprang level to the height of our opportunity instead of sinking into the gulf of ignoble failure because in the early sixties you and those like you—in the flower of youth and early manhood—had in you the stuff that knows how to prize certain ideals more than material well being, more than life itself. There was no money reward for what you did. There was hardly one of you who did not during those four years receive far less than he could have earned in safety at home, but you were driven to your work by the lash of your own hearts. You were spurred onward by the lift which only comes to a people of great and generous soul. You felt instinctively that there were causes far greater than anything that had to do merely with wealth or bodily well being. You were willing to wager all for the prize of death in righteous war.

We are now in a time of abundance, peace and not in time of war, but woe to us if in peace we do not have ideals as lofty as yours and if we do not live up to them as you lived up to yours in the dark days of defeat and in the golden glory of the hour of triumph. Courage and loyalty, the stern determination to do exact justice, the high purpose to struggle for the right and the common sense to struggle for it in practical fashion—all these qualities we must show now in our civil and social and business life as you showed them when in the days of your youth and lusty strength you marched forth an army with banners and brought back the peace that comes, not to the weakling and the craven, but to those whose proud eyes tell of triumph tasted.

Among the greatest benefits of what you did was the fact that you have also left us the right of hearty and loyal comradeship with your gallant opponents who in fighting for what they conscientiously deemed to be right fought against the stars in their courses. We are all loyal Americans now—north, south, east and west—all alike jealous of the nation's honor and welfare, proud of the nation's past and resolute that her future shall stand even higher than her past.

Besides what you actually did, besides the reunited country, the undivided nation which we have received at your hands we have received also the lesson of the doing of the deed. There is a great need now that we should show if not in degree, at least in kind, the spirit that you showed. We need, in order successfully to face the difficult and complex problems of our industrial civilization, all the courage and loyalty and all the faith and clear sighted sanity and purpose which there are at our command. Above all, we need to learn aright and to apply the great lesson of brotherhood which you taught and practiced in the four grim years that began with Sumter and ended with Appomattox.

President Going to Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt will be the immediate guest of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen during his visit here, Sept. 8. The Seventh cavalry regiment, now stationed at Chickamauga park, has been requested to act as escort to the president while here. General H. V. Boynton of the Chickamauga National Park commission, will accompany the president to Lookout mountain, Missionary ridge, and Chickamauga park and will review the scenes of the military actions there during the civil war. President Roosevelt will speak at the opening meeting of the convention of locomotive firemen on Sept. 8.

THE CHINESE INDEMNITY.

State Department About to Begin Its Distribution.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The state department has decided to begin at once the distribution of the first installment of the Chinese indemnity funds, amounting to about $480,000, among the missionary societies and individuals who suffered from the Boxer uprising. The claims commission, composed of Minister Conger, Secretary Bainbridge and United States Consul Ragsdale, has adopted the plan of reporting upon the merits of the claims in installments instead of making one report at the end of the investigation. Their first report, which has just been received, passed upon sixty claims out of a total of about 250.

These sixty claims amount in the aggregate to about $800,000, so the first installment of the Chinese indemnity will not be large enough to defray that total. Instead of waiting until sufficient money is at hand for this purpose the acting solicitor of the department, Mr. Van Dyne, recommended that a payment of 25 per cent be made to each of the claimants immediately, and this plan has been adopted by the department. It is expected that the total of the claims allowed will amount to about $2,500,000.

Heroine of "East Lynne" Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Ada Gray, who for years played the leading role in "East Lynne," died in the Fordham Home For Incurables on Wednesday and has been buried by the Actors' Fund of America, which has practically supported her for the last seven years. She was about sixty years old. She first attracted attention in a stock company in Albany, where she married Charles Watkins. He died in 1891. Miss Gray early became associated with "East Lynne," and her success was so pronounced that she confined herself entirely to it for the rest of her career. In 1894 Miss Gray married Charles F. Tingay, an English actor, who had come to this country in Sir Henry Irving's company.

Grand Circuit Races.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 29.—Records continue to be smashed at the grand circuit races at Narragansett park. The free for all pace was the special feature, and the second heat in 2:02 flat was the fastest mile in a race this year. The last half was in one minute. Anaconda, 2:01¾, beat Prince Alert, 2:00¾, in two straight heats, both in wonderfully fast time. This is the first free for all of the year, and its presence on the card was responsible for a large attendance, approximating 12,000 people. The Roger Williams Ten Thousand Dollar stake, postponed, made eight heats. Scott Hudson's blind horse Rhythmic, the early favorite, was distanced in the seventh heat, and Nutbearer won the race.

STERN ON LAMB'S TRAIL.

A Hot Session In the Peter Power Investigation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Parker Chanler, a Boston lawyer, sprung a sensation in the Northern Pacific hearing before Special Examiner Mabie.

In speaking of the many meetings he had had with Lawyer George Alfred Lamb Mr. Chanler said Lamb once asked him to induce Camille Weidenfeld to loan him 100 shares of Northern Pacific stock.

Again, speaking of the fees due him in the Chapman-Weidenfeld land case, Lamb had told Chanler he would "rather run Bourke Cockran than get his fees;" that certain men, including W. C. Whitney and Thomas F. Ryan, were after Cockran, and that Cockran would soon be in trouble that he had never dreamed of.

If Peter Power's "nervous irritability of the heart" was a communicable disease, it might explain the outbursts of anger, resentment and pique which occurred in the Northern Pacific hearing.

The retort courteous by contending lawyers, the reproof valiant by Captain Stern and, indeed, every sort of denial save the lie direct were frequently resorted to and showed how the notorious case has got on the nerves of all the people concerned in it.

Boutelle, Bulkley and Moore, the western lawyers, were on the stand to tell their stories of the meetings with Power, Lamb and Stern in Chicago, and they explained with emphasis that they had repudiated Lawyer George Alfred Lamb.

Parker C. Chanler, the Boston lawyer, who has been counsel for Camille Weidenfeld, denied under oath the statement of Lamb that he (Chanler) had advised that Peter Power be sent out of the jurisdiction of the court and that he had paid money for Weidenfeld to Lamb for that purpose.

Captain Stern's connection with the Bouden and Chapman cases, similar to the Power case, was established by one of the Chicago lawyers. This has heretofore been denied.

Captain Stern furnished the chief sensation when he vehemently denounced George Alfred Lamb as a mad dog and said he was on his trail. He shook his fist under the lawyer's nose and turned purple and red with rage. The crowd in the courtroom laughed at the perturbed military man who has been described as a go between in the Power case.

Political Dissensions In Cuba.

HAVANA, Aug. 29.—President Palma finds himself today without the support of a single newspaper controlled by Cubans. The editorials published in the Cuban press are, considered collectively, remarkable for their bitterness and outspoken opposition of the chief executive. The only paper which supports the president is the Diario de la Marina, formerly the organ of the Spanish government and at present representing the Spanish colony in Cuba.

Great Disaster In India.

LITTLE DEFENDERS.

Remarkable Target Practice by Torpedo Boats.

A RECORD NEVER SURPASSED.

Out of Fourteen Projectiles Fired Only One Failed to Work, and All the Others Hit an Imaginary Battleship.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The navy department has made public an extract from the report of Lieutenant Chandler, U. S. N., commanding the torpedo flotilla, of the firing of his vessels during the time they were inspected by the secretary of the navy. It is as follows:

"Forming in exact column, the flotilla steamed north until abreast of the firing ground in Coddington cove, when the Decatur turned and headed for the target in the cove. This target consists of three platforms supported on casks, about seventy-five feet long in all, outside of which, one at each end, are two yellow flags, representing the two turrets of the 500 foot battleships. Outside of these again are two red flags, representing the ends of the same ships.

"Steaming bows on for the float, when 1,000 yards away the secretary pressed the firing key on the bridge and simultaneously discharged the two torpedoes, one on each side. They curved as set, and one went immediately under the center of the float, while the other passed inside the right hand yellow flag.

"While the Decatur was firing the rest of the flotilla continued to the northward, countermarched and returned close to the Decatur, about 500 yards from the target. The boats passed the target at from seventeen to twenty knots, and each one fired two torpedoes simultaneously from her port broadside as her tubes bore, firing while close to the Decatur. Of the twelve torpedoes fired by them one from the Stockton hung by the tail from the tube with the head in the water and finally wrenched the tail off, but not before it had been secured. Of the other eleven all but one passed inside the yellow flags, and that one passed just outside of the yellow flag.

"All these torpedoes and gyroscopes in operation except one of the pair from the Biddle, and that one hit the target also, and one of the casks composing it having to be cut open to get the torpedo out, it having breached just as it arrived under the floats.

"I believe that the results reported above have never been exceeded before, and I know of no record equal to them. It is seen that out of fourteen torpedoes prepared but one failed to run. Out of the thirteen that did run twelve hit between the turrets of the battleship target and the other one under one of the turrets. Fully three-quarters of the shot would have struck directly under the engine rooms. All boats except the Decatur were at high speed when they fired, and she was only slowed down so as not to overrun the target. Speed would have made no difference in her shots owing to the presence of the cap mark tube gyroscope. In considering the results the haste with which we got ready for the performance should not be overlooked.

"After the practice and leaving boats behind to pick up the torpedoes, all of which were reported uninjured, the flotilla formed column at full speed. It had been my intention to proceed to sea for tactical work, but I found that the visitors seemed inclined to prefer a spin in the bay, which was accordingly taken in column at full speed."

Situation on the Isthmus.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 29.—The steamer Nicaraguan has reached here from Colon, Colombia, bringing reports that the situation on the isthmus is still critical. The Colombian government is concentrating troops from all quarters at Panama and Colon to meet the expected attacks at these ports of the rebels under General Benjamin Herrera. Considerable anxiety has been caused by the reported victory of the insurgents at Agua Dulce, especially among the British residents of Colon, who fear that that place may be attacked when no British warship is in the harbor. It is said upon reliable authority that both the Colombian government and the insurgents are nearing the end of their resources.

Aged Couple Burned to Death.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Aug. 29.—The charred bodies of John S. Holmes and his housekeeper, Miss Katherine Shute, were found in the ruins of a fire that destroyed the large barn on his farm at Bowentown Wednesday night. Foul play is suspected. Holmes had discharged a man with whom he had had a quarrel. This man is a negro named Williams, and he has been arrested and locked up on suspicion of having set fire to the barn. His friends, however, deny his guilt and say that he was at Greenwich all the evening.

SOMERSET'S FACTIONS.

It is rumored that Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, will be the Republican candidate for surrogate in Somerset county. As to the truth or falsity of it, Mayor Smalley will say nothing as yet. When interviewed, he evaded a direct reply. Nevertheless the rumor has been quite persistent.

Just how much truth there is in the story, it is impossible to say. That is expresses the desire of certain of the Republican polliticians in the other end of the county, there is no doubt. If North Plainfield's mayor does accept, it means a truce in the factional fight which has threatened the defeat of the G. O. P. in that county. With Smalley for surrogate, Frelinghuysen would undoubtedly be the Senatorial candidate. That would mean a combination of the two factions which have been headed by Lewis A. Thompson, of Somerville, and Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield.

Last year, the Reed faction held sway at the county convention. For some reason, which has not been explained, the other party assumed that it had everything its own way this year. The fallacy of the claim was demonstrated at the Congressional convention when Mayor Smalley so neatly overthrew the well-laid plans of the band from the county seat. Now it begins to look as if the Thompsonites had learned their little lesson and wanted to divide the honors rather than taking their chances of not getting anything at all.

Senator Reed has no desire to return to the Legislature. He has so emphatically stated. As far as is generally known, North Plainfield has no candidate for the Senatorial nomination. While the friends of the present Senator would never stand for the nomination of Lewis A. Thompson, as was first suggested, it may be that they will be willing to meet the other faction half way and accept Mr. Frelinghuysen. There has been so much bad blood between the two parties heretofore that it is going to be rather difficult work to getting them into line, side by side. It will be interesting to watch developments in the case.

THE COMING ELECTION.

A popular error seems to exist in regard to the annexation election which takes place in the borough, September 16. This election does not settle the much discussed question of consolidation, no matter how it goes. The vote this time is merely to decide whether the county line shall be changed. North Plainfield might by the result of the election be placed in Union county and yet remain as distinct from this city as it is at present.

It is well to remember that a vote for annexation is not a vote in favor of consolidation for those questions are separate and distinct and must be settled at different times. No time has yet been set for the consolidation election. The question is subject to conference between the two Councils and it seems likely that some time will elapse before all the details can be agreed upon.

The final triumph of the American tennis player over the best of the English experts in the match of the national championship was a subject for general satisfaction on the part of all lovers of good sport. The Englishmen came over and played fine tennis. While they won the admiration of all by their straightforward, sportsmanship conduct, it is only natural to prefer to see the honors remain here and so the victory of W. A. Larned caused general congratulation. For Jerseymen, it is a fact to be proud of that Larned is a resident of the city of Summit in this same county.

The host of summer tourists still shun the cities although the weather has been remarkably comfortable. The trouble is that everything believes that it is going to be very warm sometime this summer and are patiently waiting for that time to appear. So far it has been conspicuously missing.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

R. B. VanArsdale, of Central avenue, is a practical tile setter. He will cheerfully furnish estimates.

C. L. Stanley, the North avenue florist, has a large stock of hardy plants, grown in pots for immediate planting, also large plants in flower in endless varieties.

Werner, the West Front street clothier, has inaugurated a pants sale for this month. Evrey purchaser of one of these pairs of trousers is sure to return for another in due time.

The best quality of drugs only are sold at John P. Powers' pharmacy, Somerset street. Prescriptions are carefully compounded and the dispensing department is the best managed in Plainfield.

It is not yet too late to secure some of those fine porch rockers which Powlison & Jones offer. They also have a large assortment of cane couches and settees, that add to the comfort of summer.

Crowds pressed about Fowler's soda water all day yesterday. The warm weather was assigned as one reason for it and the excellence of Fowler's soda is another. The latter seems to be the most prevalent.

If you have not yet made a selection of a hat it is not too late, for Bonn, the West Front street milliner, can suit you in style, quality and price. His stock of hats for women and children is always complete and never behind the times.

The Paris Cloak Company, of West Front street, reports a most successful season in the sale of women's suits and shirt waists. The stock has been very large, thus making a selection easy. Since the proprietor began making suits to order for women he has had great success. An inspection of his goods is invited.

The New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue, has been unusually busy this summer. Many large orders have been received and in every instance entire satisfaction has been given in the work. The stock of wall-papers and the quality of paints carried by this house are superior to many others.

PERSONAL.

Miss Thain, of North avenue, still continues to improve from a recent operation performed at the hospital.

The Misses Henrietta and Elizabeth Winn, of Madison avenue, have returned home after a six weeks' visit to Watertown, Mass.

Charles W. McCutchen and family, of Rockview avenue, who have been spending the summer in the Adirondacks, are expected home early in September.

Miss Tilly Schenck, of Hill & Shupp's, left yesterday afternoon on a visit to her uncle in the Pennsylvania oil region. Miss Schenck was accompanied by her mother.

The Misses Eliott, Miss Brokaw and Miss Laura J. Runyon, of Madison avenue, are expected home within a few days from the Catskills, where they have been spending the month of August.

—Melons, best quality and price low; 50 baskets of beauties at Neuman Brothers tomorrow.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

No better proof could be given that Dunellen is growing rapidly than the fact a man from New York City has advertised for a house in town which he would like to buy. When the new factories at Clinton avenue and West Dunellen are completely finished and workmen are employed permanently this demand for houses will doubtless be much greater.

A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held Monday evening at the residence of A. J. Hamilton. The entire corps of teachers will then be present.

The Thomas house on Dunellen avenue is being thoroughly cleaned and repaired. Superintendent of Schools Messerole has leased it and will move in shortly.

Fred Wrage has been incapaciated for work for the past few days by an injury to his foot caused while working on the railroad last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Winges and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor are enjoying a driving trip through Pennsylvania.

Wilson Fredericks attended the Congressional convention at Asbury Park yesterday as a delegate from this place.

The Misses Lizzie and Mary Martin, of Marlboro, are spending a few days with Mrs. William Wyckoff.

Preparations for the peach festival in the Presbyterian church Sept. 11 are nearly completed.

The party which went from here to Boynton Beach yesterday report having a pleasant time.

Mrs. Edmund Teel is entertaining her mother Mrs. Elizabeth Bercaw, of Easton, Pa.

Captain Geo. Liable and wife, of New York, have been visiting William Liable.

S. J. LeVan, of Mauch Chunk, has rented the house now occupied by G. T. Schenck.

Rev. Frank Fletcher and wife are spending their vacation in Massachussetts.

Ruliff Fisher has accepted a position in the Central offices at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Edward Brook entertained relatives from out of town yesterday.

Miss Ella Boice is spending a week's vacation at Gladstone.

Mrs. E. Cottrelly and daughter are visiting friends in New York.

The debt of the Methodist church has been reduced to $290.

NEW MARKET.

The funeral services of the late Henry Vail Dunham took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which the deceased was a member and at one time an officer. Rev. L. E. Livermore was in charge of the services which were attended by a large number of friends and relatives. The three brothers and a son of the deceased acted as pall bearers. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery in Plainfield. There were a number of beautiful floral offerings.

Several from here attended the funeral services of the late Stelle Blackford at his late home in Plainfield yesterday afternoon.

J. C. Morris and C. S. Day went to Asbury Park yesterday to represent this section at the Congressional convention.

The lecture room of the Baptist church will be closed for the next two Sundays so that some repairs can be made.

Frank Nye, of Easton, Pa., has moved into the Rogers house.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The public schools of the township will open for the current school year on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. A number of important improvements have been made at the village school No. 1. A steam heating plant has been installed to take the place of the old heaters which have never been satisfactiony for heating the large building. The walls of the assembly room have been beautifully tinted, the woodwork scraped and varnished and the hall walls painted. The improvement will mean the school both cozy and comfortable for the coming winter.

Wm. Alexandra, who received word last week that his brother was injured while performing with Sells Brothers circus in the west, has had an offer from Sells Brothers to come on and take his brother's place among the acrobats. Mr. Alexandra has not decided yet to accept the offer.

Miss Nancy Wade, who has been teaching at the Mahwah public school for several years, will not return to her old charge at the commencement of school next week but will take a much needed rest and will not teach during the coming winter.

It is reported that the parents of little Sophie Meisner, who was killed Sunday morning by a falling tree, will shortly begin suit against the ones who are responsible for her death.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met in its rooms last night. During the good of the order a number of phonographic selections were enjoyed upon the Council phonograph.

The Berkeley Heights Social Club wlil hold a picnic at Hess's Grove tonight. A number from town are arranging to attend.

"The Draw Net" will be the subject of the prayer meeting at the Baptist church tonight. Rev. Mr. Shott will lead.

The trolley employes' picnic at Galvin's Park last night was well attended by the residents of the village.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Burglars broke into the residence of Harry Sophield Wednesday night at about 11:30 o'clock, but were surprised by Mrs. Sophield, who heard the noise they made in coming through a pantry window. She fired three shots from a revolver to scare them away. They secured no booty.

Miss Emma Manning figured in a painful accident yesterday morning, at her home. She was stooping to unfasten a strap on a horse's leg, when the animal in lifting his foot inflicted a deep gash on Miss Manning's forehead. Two stitches were required to close the wound.

Wallace Brown, of Hotel Netherwood, Plainfield, and his brother, Melville, of Brooklyn, were guests at the home of W. E. Smith, yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Brantingham entertained, yesterday, Misses Marion Soper, of Jersey City, and Edna and Enna Eckert, of Plainfield.

The women's lodge, Camp No. 1, P. O. of A., of this place, will hold a festival in Washington Hall next Wednesday night.

The Township Committee will meet Tuesday, Sept. 2, instead of Sept. 9, which is the usual date.

John Cornell, of Metuchen, has returned home after a two weeks' visit in town.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—And still they come: Beauties, every one of them, 60 baskets choice table and canning peaches at Neuman Brothers tomorrow.

—A party of young folks living in the borough will take a trip to Riverside Park, this evening, where they will enjoy a dance.

—Rev. Elliott W. Brown, of Glen Ridge, Essex county, will occupy the pulpit at the Crescent Avenue church next Sunday morning and evening.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold its regular meeting this evening and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

Preparing for Winter.

Golden Eagles to Trenton.

It is expected that there will be a large delegation from Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, at the annual State convention to be held at Trenton on Labor Day.

LINCOLN WANTS ITS SCHOOL

WILL FIGHT ATTEMPT OF THE SCHOOL AUTHORITIES TO CLOSE IT.

Establishment of School at South Bound Brook Has Made a Change in the Situation.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, August 29—As a result of the new public school being built at Bound Brook on property donated by Dr. Pierce, the little public school at this place has been threatened with possibilities of being closed. It was through the efforts of S. D. Drake that the school building at this place was built and he was largely instrumental in securing a teacher for the forty children now attending the school.

When plans were formulated for the new school the people of Lincoln were assured that their school would not be closed and they felt satisfied. Now it is learned that the school authorities want to make the children attend the new school. To do this they would have to go nearly two miles in the trolley, besides changing cars at Bound Brook. The township agrees to furnish free transporation but the parents are up in arms over the affair and declare that their children, some of whom are very small, shall not go to Bound Brook.

This move has brought Mr. Drake into the case and he has declared that the Lincoln school shall be maintained at any cost and the children will not be forced to go to the new school. It is said that the land upon which the new building is being erected is situated in lowlands and at certain seasons is flooded with water. This would prevent the children from having a playground. In erecting the foundation it has been made an extra number of feet high so as to get above the water mark.

LABOR DAY FOR GOLFERS

PLANS FOR HOLIDAY AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB.

The Chief Event Will be the Start of the Club Championship —The Other Events.

While the regular competitions have continued at the Park Golf Club all summer, Labor Day will see a resumption of activity there when many of the members will be home from their summer vacations. A number of events have been arranged for the day, chief of which will be the opening play for the club championship.

Heretofore all the events at the Park Golf Club have been handicap and the better players have felt that they have had little or no chance on account of the generous handicaps. One season a scratch trophy was played for every week but there were so few of the players who stood any chance for it that it was given up. The idea of a tournament for the club championship has found much favor this summer and the golf committee has now arranged for the qualifying round and first round at match play for Labor Day. The number to qualify will be announced on Labor Day by the committee.

Monday morning will see the qualifying round for this event. There will also be a handicap ball sweepstakes, eighteen holes, medal play. Members will be allowed to take part in both events, the same score counting for both. Those who qualify for match play will be paired off for play in the afternoon when the regular holiday event, a handicap tournament for the Holiday cup eighteen holes, medal play, will also be held. The same scores will be allowed to count in both, one being match play and the other medal pay.

Late in the afternoon there will be a ball sweepstakes approaching and putting contest for mixed teams. It will be a scratch event. Then there will be the usual informal reception and tea at the clubhouse.

After Team's Owner.

Adam Stout, on behalf of hie wife, Mrs. Elfrida Stout, has instituted a suit for $5,000 damages in the Circuit Court against Henry Haurand on account of injuries received by being knocked down by Mr. Haurand's runaway team near the corner of Madison avenue and West Third street about three months ago. Counsellor Robert M. Clark is conducting the case for the plaintiff.

Stone Sidewalk Complete.

William A. Woodruff, the owner of the property on Elmwood place, occupied by Joseph Randolph, is improving the same. The foundation is being repaired and a new porch being built. Another improvement is the laying of a stone walk in front of the house. This is the last stone walk to be put down and completes the flagging in the street.

Funeral of Mrs. Vilas.

The funeral services of Mrs. Willard Vilas, formerly of Plainfield, were held yesterday from her late home in Kearney street, Newark.

HAD LOTS OF NERVE.

Thrilling Experience of a Youthful Stowaway.

Came to America in the Boiler of a Donkey Engine—Found a Friend and Was Permitted to Stay.

Rivaling the tales of mythical fortune hunters is the experience of a little Austrian stowaway in one of the boilers of the Umbria, upon its recent arrival in New York. After the lad, who is 16 years old, had traveled 15,000 miles in quest of America, he at last was placed in the hands of a friend who promised to care for him.

The boy's name is Bozo Gacino, and he comes from Dalmatia, a province of Austria. His wanderings began more than a year ago, when his father, a small farmer, gave him 100 florins and told him to go to America. With great glee the little Austrian left the village of Sebenico, for he and his elder brothers quarreled continually, and he had a friend in America whom he longed to join. After spending 30 of his florins, he reached Triest, the seaport, where he fell in with an obliging fellow, who, for the remaining 70 florins, agreed to embark Bozo for America. Bozo gave up his florins, and the stranger disappeared, leaving a discouraged little lad to return to Dalmatia.

Gacino's father then apprenticed him to a druggist, but the boy soon wearied of long hours and small wages, and ran away to Triest, where he hid in a steamship bound for Egypt. At Alexandria he stowed away in the Fabyan and reached Liverpool a week later. Then he crawled into the hold of the Cunard Saxonia. Upon reaching New York last spring he was deported, after he had obtained a fleeting glance of the busy harbor. When he was taken back to Liverpool he evaded the English immigration officials, and for 20 days lived off crusts found in the gutters, but always kept a weather eye open for an America-bound vessel.

June 13, just before the Umbria sailed, he crept upon the deck, looking for a hiding place. A lantern was flashed in his face, and the sentry, believing he was one of the cabin boys, ordered him below. Without realizing his danger the boy crawled into a boiler which furnishes steam to the "donkey" engine. This boiler was not used throughout the voyage, or the boy would have been burned to death. Friendly stokers discovered his presence, but instead of disclosing his secret, they fed him during the voyage.

Thursday, however, McKechan, the refrigerator engineer, climbed on top of the boiler and proceeded to hang up some of his washing to dry. Just as the engineer was preparing to descend he was startled to see a head bob up out of the opening in the top of the boiler and then disappear again. McKechan crawled over to the manhole and peered into the darkness inside the boiler. He could dimly discern the outlines of a person, and he shouted to him to come out.

Receiving no response the engineer attempted to reach inside and seize the boy's clothing, but he was severely bitten for his pains. The engineer, convinced that something was wrong, went to Chief Engineer Hardy. After a struggle and some tight squeezing past the tubes they managed to get their prisoner up to the manhole entrance, and he was pulled out.

All laughed when they saw the supposed lunatic. He was locked up in the steamship's hospital and when the vessel reached port a vigorous search for the bold lad's friend was made. He was found in Harlem and signed papers which permitted the young Dalmatian to remain in the United States.

Little of Brain Is Used.

Much of the larger portions of a brain is composed of white matter—that is, of nerve fibers—which has nothing whatever to do with real brain work and which only carries messages, says an exchange. Again, if research is to be trusted, it is only the brain cells of a very limited (probably the frontal) region which have to do with the highest mental operations. When, therefore, we talk about the size of head and brain and the weight of the brain, we should clearly understand that only an infinitesimal fraction of the three pounds' weight or so of an ordinary brain can be reckoned as representing brain cells—that are the agents of our nervous governance. Practically the brain cells (of the cerebrum of great brain at least) bear no larger proportion to the brain's mass than the rind of a Dutch cheese does to the eatable portion.

Our Ignorance of Earth.

It is beginning to strike the thoughtful that we know very little of the appearance of the earth. A mine that descends a quarter of a mile underground is, relatively speaking, scarcely more than the impression made by a ferrule of a walking stick on a wet road. The great heart of the globe itself remains untouched and unknown. Is it solid or is it liquid? But more humbling is the reflection that until we learn to fly we shall have no true conception of the picture of the earth. Our vision is lateral. We are looking at the earth as though, to see ourselves, we held a mirror with its end against our nose, and looked along it. We think we know how a tree looks, how a mountain looks, even how a man looks; but we do not. We only know as much of their appearance as a fly knows of the picture it crawls upon. To see a picture properly one must stand away from it, and until we get off the earth, either by flying machines or ballons, we shall have no faithful idea of how our planet really looks. Universal flying would surely breed an entirely new school of art.—London Graphic.

Trial Court at Ascot.

Not only the horses but the powers of the law are swift at Ascot, for the course has a special tribunal for the punishment of evil-doers. No sooner is the pickpocket, welsher or ticket-snatcher arrested than he is standing before Sir Albert de Rutzen in a little room in the royal stand, where the evidence is heard and the verdict and sentence pronounced before the offender fully realizes that he is caught. Nowhere else does punishment so swiftly follow crime as at his court. This race course tribunal arose curiously in the eighteenth century from an assault upon a royal personage. In his indignation at the impossibility of instant punishment of the assailant he ordered that in future a magistrate should always attend the royal race meeting. This has ever since been done. The chief magistrate of Bow street was constituted ex-officio a J. P. of the county of Berks in order to enable him to hold this court at Ascot.—London Chronicle.

Traveling Blindly.

If you are going to travel be sure to take your eyes with you! Too many people travel blindly, without getting all the recompense to which they are entitled. They merely go somewhere, they do not travel in the true sense. There is hardly a mile of railroad in this country that is entirely devoid of interest. From the car windows one can, at almost every mile post, see something scenic, historic, industrial or unique, that is worthy of notice. The traveler who does not anticipate his journey, and who knows nothing of the country through which his route may lead, misses the best of the trip.—Four-Track News.

Rescuing a Hero.

"Who is that fellow at the bat?" asked the stranger, addressing the baseball enthusiast sitting next to him in the grand stand.

"That's Bingull," said the other.

"I thought so. I've got a warrant for his arrest on an old debt, and I shall have to serve it on him as soon as the game is over."

Just then Bingull made a three-base hit, bringing in two men, and the crowd went wild.

"Say," shouted the enthusiast, producing a well filled pocketbook, "Mr. What's-your-name, what is the amount of your claim against that man?"—Chicago Tribune.

Opulence.

A hunting party of ladies and gentlemen was detained by a storm at the hut of a Virginia backwoodsman. Dinner being served, there was an embarrassing paucity of knives.

The mother, wishing to impress her aristocratic guests, called in a commanding tone to her young daughter: "Fetch some more knives, Sairey; you know we've got thousands of 'em."

"Law, no, mam; they's all thar! Thar's 'Big Butch,' and 'Litle Butch,' and 'Razor-back,' and 'Bunty.'"—Harper's Magazine.

Man and Mule.

One of the weekly papers has just unearthed a quaint army order. It deals with the machine guns provided for certain volunteer corps and advises that, where possible, "mules should be employed to draw them." "When a mule is not available, however," it goes on, "any intelligent noncommissioned officer will do instead." There are several ways of calling a man an ass.—London Globe.

In Old Kentuck.

"What are you doing in the mountains so early?" asked the hunter in Kentucky.

"Thought if I came out early I might find a still," responded the revenue officer.

"H'm! The early bird catches the 'worm,' I suppose."—Chicago Daily News.

Anxious to Learn.

"And so you have no swear words in your language, Mr. Omokura?"

"No, madame," the Japanese traveler replied.

"But, of course, you can think euss thoughts, I suppose, can't you?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Important Question.

When we hear of a man committing suicide on a woman's grave we always wonder if he treated her decent when she was alive.—Atchison Globe.

Appropriately Gowned.

Marie—How are you going to dress for the ping-pong party?

Gladys—I think I will wear my ping-pongee.—Judge.

The Earthly Paradise.

People at the federal capital have been groaning about what they are pleased to call the "calor excesivo," or tremendous heat. Here in happy Tabasco we have a constant heat, get used to it, and live as merrily as the gamboling monkeys in the jungle. And we are healthier here than people are up in the City of Mexico, where men chase the rolling peso to keep in funds to meet the demands of a society which worries them while pretending to amuse. Here full dress is a neglige shirt, as neglige as you please, a pair of light trousers (Carter is wearing yellow nankeen this summer), and a smile of contentment. The up-country plantations report good times, salaries are on the fareast schedule, champagne is no luxury, but a daily comfort, and missionary effort is unknown. —Tabasco (Mex.) Tageblatt.

Marriage by Proxy.

The curious custom of marriage by proxy still exists in Holland. A Dutch gentleman residing in Batavia was recently united by proxy to a young lady residing with her parents at Amsterdam, and, incongruous as it seems to our ideas, the bridegroom's sister represented him and took the young lady in his name, "for better or worse." It seems that the young man was tired of waiting for his love any longer, but found that she would not be married unless her mother was present. Her parents would not go to Batavia, and he could not go home. A compromise was happily possible, as they were both Dutch subjects, by the lady being married with her relations around her, and she is now sailing for Java.—Sheffield Globe.

Electric Waves from Thunderstorms

Father Schreiber, of the Haynald observatory at Kalocsa, Hungary, has invented an electric apparatus for recording distant thunderstorms. An electric wave, set in motion by a flash of lightning, is registered by the detector, resembling in its action that used in the Marconi telegraph system. The impulse is communicated to a pen connected with a disk moved by clockwork, and when the pen makes its record a bell is rung, whose vibration resets the coherer. Storms raging invisibly 20 miles away are thus recorded, and on one occasion, on a bright day, the apparatus made known the prevalence of a violent storm in Buda-Pesth, 68 miles distant.—Scientific American.

The Garrote in Porto Rico.

The garrote still flourishes in Porto Rico. It is popularly reckoned a relic of barbarism, but there is eminent authority for the proposition that it is the most scientific of all the methods of administering capital punishment. That is excites horror, however, is indicated by the fact that in the latest executions a convict murderer acted as executioner, as no other person could be obtained to perform the duty. At the garroting last year this same convict acted as executioner, for which service his term of imprisonment was commuted. He will now be set at liberty and will receive $100 for his work.—Detroit Free Press.

Only Thing He Had Red.

An unlettered immigrant applied to the Philadelphia court of naturalization the other day, when he was asked: "Have you read the declaration of independence?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

"Have you read the constitution of the United States?"

"No, sir."

"Have you read the history of the United States?"

"No, sir," he repeated.

"No," exclaimed the judge, in disgust; "well, what have you read?"

"Red hair on me head, your honor," was the innocent reply.—Stray Stories.

And the Girls Like It.

A curious custom takes place in villages of the Luxermburg district, Belgium, in May. After Sunday service numbers of lads cluster around the church entrance and as the girls come out seize them one by one, one lad grasping a girl by the shoulder and the other by the heels, the two lifting her well up, while a third bumpkin passes under the human bridge thus formed. This is done in the presence of the parents, who themselves have passed through the same ordeal.—N. Y. Sun.

Something in a Name.

Wife—Why, dear, do you object to having our baby christened Adelaide?

Husband—Simply, dear, because I am sure neither of us would like to spoil her chances in life with a name suggestive of her being "a bad egg."

Wife (expostulating)—A bad egg! My dear!

Husband—Well, what else can be suggested by "addlelaid?"—Punch.

Easy Diagnosis.

Mrs. Fondma—Sorry to disturb you at this hour, doctor, but we can't imagine what ails the child.

Doctor—Cold, perhaps. Did you have him out to-day?

Mrs. Fondma—Yes, but only to his grandmother's.

Doctor—Ah! Overfed; that's all.—Philadelphia Press.

Useless Work.

Mrs. Hiram Offen — I hope you washed the fish thoroughly before you put it on the broiler, Delia?"

Delia—Shure, what would the use o' thot, ma'am? Hasn't it been livin' in the wather all its loife?—Philadelphia Press.

Friendship's Tribute.

The Youth—I think Bessie Billus is as pretty as she can be. Don't you?

The Maiden—O, yes; if she could think of any way to make herself prettier you can bet she'd try it.—Chicago Tribune.

Civilized Birth Rate.

Turning to the births, which numbered 927,062 in 1900, the most prominent fact that meets us is the continued decline in the rate. This is the more significant when taken in connection with the increase in the marriage rate. The fact "gives furiously to think." We are in the habit of speaking of the French as a decadent people, who have ceased to increase and multiply. But the truth is that a declining birth rate is not peculiar to France. It is with us also, and with the Germans in a less degree. In some parts of England the birth rate now perilously approximates to the death rate. Taking the country as a whole, we have still a substantial difference, but if the present tendencies continue to operate that difference will not be obvious long. It would seem that the more advanced the civilization the greater the disposition to sterility, and one of the most potent factors in the South African problem is the remarkable fecundity of the Boers as compared with our own race.—London News.

Science Baffled.

A distinguished naturalist recently gave a dinner to a number of learned men. At the conclusion of the repast the company went out into the garden, in the center of which stood a large glass globe on a pedestal. Happening to touch this globe, one of the guests discovered to his amazement that it was much warmer on the shady side than on the side facing the sun. He immediately communicated his discovery to his friends, and a warm argument sprang up. The phenomenon was attributed to many reasons, and the debate dipped into abstruse science. The host, however, had his suspicion as to the correctness of the theories advanced and sent for his gardener.

"John, can you tell us why this globe is warmer on the shady side than on the sunny side?" he asked.

"Well," replied the man slowly, "the fact is, I just turned it round, for I was afraid that the heat would crack it!"—Family Herald.

Meaning of the "Points."

The interrogation mark or "point" (?) was originally a "q" and an "o," the latter placed under the former. They were simply the first and last letters of the Latin word "questio." So, too, with the sign of exclamation or interjection (!). In its original purity it was a combination of "i" and "o," the latter underneath, as in the question mark. The two stood for "Io," the Latin exclamation of joy. The paragraph mark is a Greek "p," the initial of the word paragraph. The early printers employed a dagger to show that a word or sentence was objectionable and should be cut out.—Chicago Chronicle.

Evicted by Bees.

An English writer says: "Some of the smaller birds are deliberately turned out of their nests at times by bees. I remember watching for the completion of a hedge sparrow's nest a few years ago, but before the birds had laid any eggs the nest was usurped by a small species of bumble bee and the rightful owners deserted. A friend of mine had two wrens' nests in his garden taken possession of by bees in a similar manner, and I once knew of a tawny owl being turned out of her nesting hole in a hollow tree by a swarm of honey bees which took possession."—Chicago Daily News.

Ugly Norwegians.

There is no denying the fact that beauty among the male population of Christiania is a diminishing quantity, and this ugliness of Norwegian men is accentuated by idiosyncrasies both of dress and toilet. German shoddy material of the most incongruous shades is dumped in Christiania, where it finds a ready sale. Again, Norwegians, by abstaining from manly sports such as prevail in England, develop a rotundy of body which is positively unsightly.—Christiania Dagbladet.

"Heepee-Hahpah" Hats.

Although Panama hats are quite the rage in this country, very few of our people know that the real, genuine article is known in its native home on the isthmus and South America by its Spanish name of "sombrero jipijipa." Given in English these words form the alliterative combination "heepee-hahpah hat." This statement is vouched for by a gentleman connected with one of the isthmian legations. —Washington Star.

A Theory.

"I wonder why brain work is not better paid?" said the ambitious youth.

"That is easily explained," answered Miss Cayenne. "When a man undertakes to do brain work for a living there is no way of catching him if he idles his time away. Even the X rays won't show whether he is working his brain or not. As a result, employers grow suspicious."—Washington Star.

FASHION NOVELTIES.

Indian and Persian Designs—Wide Lace Collars.

Indian and Persian designs of all sorts are having a great vogue. The silks in these patterns come very soft, so that they drape well, and for trimmings they are exceedingly rich.

Collars of lace insertion with stole ends will be worn on the fall coats. These can easily be made at home by any one with skillful fingers. One of the noticeable features of the late summer gown is the wide collar of lace, which extends well over the shoulders. Sailor collars of lace in every form are to be seen, as well as the vandyke and round shapes.

The blouse coat still retains the popular favor. It is made with or without tails and with an open or closed front. The triple coattails with rounding edges are considered very stylish,

CHEVIOT TAILOR MADE.

as are also the full Russian sleeves gathered into a band of silk or velvet, which material is also used to strap the coat.

The tailor made in the illustration is of black cheviot. The blouse jacket is collarless, and it has round revers faced with white silk. The skirt is plain with the exception of the triple gored flounce. JUDIC CHOLLET.

TO WEAR AT HOME.

Tea Gowns of Muslin and Point d'Esprit Are Very Fashionable.

Nothing is daintier for house wear than an artistic tea gown. Muslin makes up very prettily for this, provided one combines it with pale colored sashes and lace collars.

One of the easiest ways of evolving such a garment is to cut it on the empire pattern, with a round neck and flowing sleeves. A narrow double watteau at the back is a pretty break to the broad sash which ties over the bust on an empire gown, and the front can be draped to suit individual taste.

POINT D'ESPRIT NEGLIGEE.

It is one of the strong points of a tea gown, in fact, that it can be adapted to each woman's fancy regardless of the styles.

Some of the most beautiful muslins this year are so finely patterned that they resemble foulards. The pale green and white and blue mixtures are particularly effective, and the cream spotted muslins will always be in style, although they are not made so much over color this season, but rather over pure white.

The attractive negligee shown in the illustration is made of point d'esprit trimmed with white lace.

Luxuries.

"What does you consider de luxuries of life?" asked Miss Miami Brown.

"A luxury," answered Mr. Erastus Pinkley, "is sumpin what you has to be lucky befo' you kin git it."—Washington Star.

Stairs of Sand

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

"Well, s'help me, I never see that party 'fore in my life, an' I was s'prised as you'd be when he tackled me on the corner. He knew me, though!" with a grimace.

"How did he know you?"

"Well, sir, he had it all down fine how I was mixed up in a little affair some time ago—somethin' that would surely have landed me if they could ha' got the proofs. He could ha' got enough—he showed me that in a jiffy. When I found that out I was mighty meek."

"And you never saw him before?"

"Never I can call to mind."

Job remained in silence for some minutes, his eyes on the floor, only raising them now and then to cast a keen, inquisitive look at his visitor.

"Well, what is this great news that you have brought me?" he asked, after a time.

"Nuthin' more nor less than that I have found our man."

"Are you quite sure of that?" a little skeptically.

"No mistake about it," pursued Jebbs, cheerfully. "Ye see, it come about in this way. Ever since we had that last talk I been hangin' onto the heels of a feller who has gener'lly been one of his right-hand men. He's a big Dutchman, goes by the name of Browny on the Bowery, cause his hair is bright brown. Him and me has been great friends and emptied many a can together. I never could get him to talk of his work, or the man who employed him, but last night, when we was both feelin' kind o' proud, and him lookin's if he'd be more comfortable on the floor and a-aimin' in that direction. Into this joint, where we was makin' merry, come a little feller that passed the place where we sot, and gin the Brown man a jog, and passed on and out the other door, and so away.

"I see my friend, sleepy like, put his hand down in his pocket, and fetch up a three-cornered bit o' paper, and opens it and reads. There was on'y a few marks and a number that I couldn't make out. When I was seein' him home, though, I snagged it, and here it is," and from an inner pocket he produced a two-inch square piece of paper, which bore the figure of a fox, or what was meant to pass for such, and the simple numbers 1—3.

"Pooh!" and Job threw it aside. "I don't see anything in that."

Jebbs replaced the paper in his pocket, as if greatly disappointed.

"You been so long away that it's natural ye don't see nuthin' in it. Now, I'll tell ye what I get out of it."

"Well, I am listening."

"Ye see this figure what's meant to represent a fox. That is the sign of a French hotel, what they calls in that lingo Le Renard Rouge, or, in plain English, the Red Fox. Them numbers means the location of the meeting."

"But why should you suspect that it was this man who arranged the meeting?" asked Job.

"'Cause things ain't generally managed in sich a myster'ous way. G'wan, you ought to know that gents in our perfession ain't layin' no sich pipes. But it's the manner of this swell gent, when he makes a play, to have it fixed like a Bowery meller-drayma. Then, as Browny is knowed to be one of the steady men, why, the app'intment comin' to him in that way makes me sure that he will be there."

"And what do you want me to do?" asked Job.

"Well, if you want to sot eyes on the man yer lookin' fer, now's yer chance, and sich a one may not come again."

"How do I know but it might be a scheme to trap me," eying his companion for a moment. "You have not entirely explained that meeting with the man who came into the street in a coupe."

"Phew! are you worryin' 'bout that yit?" asked Jebbs, as he lit a dirty pipe and began to send forth clouds of smoke. "I thought I'd explained that. I never see the gent before, and he didn't get nuthin' out o' me. I was polite to him 'cause I see that it was to my interests. Now, if you are a bit scared about this, why, it's yer own affair, but let me tell ye the chance is one what won't come every day."

"Well, I'll run the risk," and Job, after a pause, for, while he suspected that he was not being fairly dealt with, he knew that he must trust some one, and this man was quite as honest as the rest of his ilk.

Going over to the corner of his room, he extracted a small box he had hidden in a hole in the molding of the window, and, without paying any particular attention to his companion, who was watching with eager eyes, he opened it, disclosing what seemed to be a few pieces of cheap jewelry. Out of the heap he selected a small and tarnished ring, which was set with three stones of a dull blue color, that resembled turquoise of an inferior variety. This ring he slipped on the finger of his right hand, and then having closed the box, restored it to its place.

From another corner he picked up a stout cudgel, and, shifting it under his arm, said, with a certain air of grim satisfaction:

"Well, I am ready if you are?"

Jebbs, who had been watching the preparations with attention, seemed to be a little uneasy, and made no attempt to follow his companion, who now stood with his hand on the knob of the door leading to the stairs.

"Well, I am waiting," said Hendricks, and, did he imagine it or not, but his companion seemed to be in no haste to go; in fact, he displayed a decided reluctance.

"Come, and do what you arranged to do," said Hendricks, grimly. "You will show me to that place you described. What is the matter with you? I declare, if it were not absurd, I should imagine that you were frightened."

"Me! Not on your life. Go on, and I'll foller," and so saying he blew out the candle, and, close behind Hendricks, they passed out of the house. Once they were in the garden Jebbs took the lead.

"You jest keep in the rear o' me at some space," he said; "it won't attract so much attention."

Hendricks nodded, and so, walking almost half a block apart, they took a southerly direction, never meeting to speak, and, to all intents and purposes, perfect strangers.

It was after a long walk that Hendricks saw his companion suddenly dart up an alley, and, after a moment's hesitation, he followed. "This is the joint," said Jebbs, who was standing by a closed window.

"What, the Red Fox?"

"Jesso."

"Well, what do you mean to do," as he looked up at the tall building, which at one time must have been devoted to manufacturing, and had been transformed into a lodging-house. From the other side of the building he could hear the sound of noisy laughter. It was there the bar-room was located, and, from the sound, it was evidently doing a roaring trade.

"Here is the room where they are to meet 'cording to them directions," said Jebbs, pointing to the window against which they leaned. "Too soon yet, but that'll gin ye a chance to place yerself where ye can see and hear everything."

Hendricks took a tight hold of his cudgel, and waited to hear more.

"Ye see, this is the third room in the basement, and that is what them figgers meant what I showed ye on the card," said Jebbs, in explanation. "You couldn't make nuthin' out of 'em, but it ain't the fust time that a meetin' was arranged for in the Red Fox."

"But to get in is another thing?" said Hendricks, looking at the black opening.

Jebbs gave a low laugh and nudged his companion in a way meant to be playful, saying at the same time:

DROPPING OF A PENNY.

Other Passengers in Street Car Usually More Interested in Its Fate Than the Owner.

Have you ever noticed the interest that money attracts, even if it is only a single cent? The next time that you see a copper coin dropped in a street car just observe, advises the Chicago Tribune. Every eye in the car will turn to the spot where it dropped, and there will be manifested a real general concern over its recovery. Two or three heads are likely to come in contact over the point of its disappearance, and then the owners will draw suddenly back and try to appear unconcerned; but in another second they are again leaning forward.

The man who dropped the cent is usually the first who appears to have brushed memory of the trivial occurrence aside, but just as soon as the eyes in the car have turned from him his own are sure to go back to the floor in the hope that the truant coin will be seen.

When he has gone there is a renewed interest among the passengers for the stage of "finders keepers" has arrived, and those near the spot of disappearance become quite diligent until they are aware they make a center of attraction. But interest in that little coin is not lost while there is a passenger left, and when the car is empty the conductor takes his turn and resurrects the cent.

COUNTING THE STARS.

A Task That Will Take Two Greenwich Clerks Three Years to Complete.

Two clerks at the observatory at Greenwich are essaying the extraordinary task of counting the stars. They are attempting in all seriousness a feat which has always been used satirically to typify the impossible. So far they have counted 212,507 stars which, if astronomical calculations be correct, is about one-fifteenth of the total number to be found in the firmament, states the Philadelphia North American.

The method of the tabulation is a new evidence of the far-reaching scientific possibilities of photography. The enumerators do not sit out in the starlight, and strive to count the infinitesimal spots of light outlined against the blue background. Instead, they have made a great photographic chart of the heavens. This chart consists of a number of plates exposed at different times in order to get all the planets and heavenly bodies.

After the entire chart was complete the two astronomers began the work of counting with the aid of microscopes. It is estimated that before the task is completed some three years must elapse, for to insure accuracy the greatest care must be exercised, and any attempt at speed is out of question.

SHAVED THACKERAY'S BUST.

American Collector Didn't Like the Whiskers and Had Them Taken Off.

The bust of Thackeray in Westminster abbey had several years ago upon its cheeks those pendant whiskers that are called "weepers" from their resemblance to the foliage of the willow. To-day the whiskers are no longer there, says a London paper. Their destruction was due to William H. Lambert, of Philadelphia, the greatest collector of Thackerayana in this country, who has many portraits in oil and many in ink, pencil and wash sketches of Thackeray, and hence should know how the novelist looked at every stage of his life. Mr. Lambert is sure that Thackeray never wore "weepers," and, therefore, he volunteered not long since to stand the expense of the removal of the objectionable whiskers from the otherwise accurate and spirited Marochetti bust. Mrs. Thackeray Ritchie arranged the matter; the bust was taken for a brief space out of Westminster and the whiskers were trimmed down to the proper length. Mr. Lambert was permitted to have a replica made of the Westminster bust, and it now stands on one of the landings of the stairway of his house in Germantown.

Where Newspapers Are Scarce.

In Paraguay there is a little communistic colony known as the Cosmo colony, which was founded several years ago by an enthusiastic band of Australian socialists. After many hardships and privations the colony is now in such a flourishing condition as to boast a newspaper of its own, called the Cosmo Monthly. The manner in which news is dispensed to the colonists is interesting. A horn is blown, generally twice, with half an hour's gathering time between. The colonists assemble and the reader for the occasion gives out his news, which consists of interesting items selected from the latest weekly papers and dispatches from the Asuncion daily paper, which the colonists receive twice a week.

Continuous Performance.

"Into an ounce of brandy put a small dose of cocaine, drink the mixture and in ten minutes you will find yourself in the mental and nervous condition which is the normal state of the citizen of Butte, Mont.," says the Boston Transcript. Men work in the mines and smelters in three eight-hour shifts, and the stores, restaurants, theaters, etc., are regulated accordingly. So the life of Butte is literally a "continuous performance." There is no distinction between night and day. It is gay and hustle all the time, and there are no old men in Butte.

REVEALED IN DREAM

Truly Remarkable Story Told by English Clergyman.

Compelled by Unseen Force to Secure a Copy of an Old Marriage Certificate from Vicar of an Obscure Church.

The following remarkable dream-story is given in the words in which it is told by the dreamer, a clergyman of high repute in England, of whose absolute truthfulness there can be not the faintest possibility of suspicion:

A few months ago I fell asleep and dreamed. In my dream I saw spread before me the open pages of a book, which a glance showed me was a church register book, and in clear writing I read the details of the marriage of Matthew H—— to Ellen R——. It seemed in my dream, as if the register were far away, although I could read it so distinctly.

I felt a strong impulse to go to the railway station, without knowing my destination, except that it was a country village. I asked for a ticket, and was told by the clerk that the train in the direction I wished to go had left some time ago, but that another train was due in half an hour, and he promised to call me.

I felt no surprise at receiving a ticket without giving the name of the place to which I wished to travel. To my great annoyance, however, the man neglected to call me when the train arrived, and again I had to wait for another. This time I was more successful, and after a journey of just under an hour I alighted at a pretty little country station.

I went to the vicarage and asked for the vicar, but was informed that he was not at home. I then begged the old servant, who answered the door, to lend me the key of the church. At first she hesitated, but when I persisted, saying I was myself a clergyman of the Angelican church, she acceded to my request.

I easily unlocked the church door and proceeded to the vestry. On a shelf were a number of old registry books, one of which I took down and opened. My eyes instantly fell on the entry I had seen a short time before, and then suddenly I awoke.

For three successive nights I dreamed this dream, until at last I began to believe there must be something in it. I made a few cautious inquiries, and, without betraying myself, gained the information that there actually was a village, not an hour distant by rail, which answered exactly to the description of the place I had seen in my dream.

My mind was made up. I went to the station and demanded a ticket for M——. I was told that the train had gone, but that there would be another in half an hour, and, as it was a beautiful day, I resolved to take a walk; unfortunately, I strayed too far, and on my return to the station saw the train just steaming out. Instantly I remembered that it was by the third train that I had traveled in my dream.

When, two hours later, I arrived at M——, I had no difficulty in finding my way to the vicarage, and was not at all surprised to hear that the vicar was not at home. Exactly as had happened in my dream, the housekeeper at first demurred to my request for the key, but finally yielded.

I went to the church and entered the vestry. Yes, there was the shelf with the row of brown leather volumes. I took one down, and my heart gave a great bound when I opened it at random and read "Matthew H—— to Ellen R——." I made a note of the entry in detail and returned to the vicarage.

By this time the vicar had returned, and, in a matter-of-fact way, I asked for the certificate of the marriage in question, giving dates, etc. As there was nothing unusual in my request or my manner, he complied as a matter of course, and I returned home armed with the certificate.

But now that I had got it, what was I to do with it? What was to be the next step?

I could think of only one course. Foolish as it may appear, I advertised it in one of the daily papers, and by return of post received an answer from a firm of solicitors informing me that they had vainly searched everywhere for the certificate, as it was of the highest importance to a family of good birth, but in very reduced circumstances. Now that the register had been found, it would mean affluence instead of poverty, as a large fortune depended solely on the production of the certificate in question.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Manager Monahan has decided not to arrange any game for the St. Mary team, Labor Day. Instead the players will take a day off or play individually with other teams.

The third game in the series between the Police and the Firemen's teams is scheduled to take on September 11. This will be the "rubber" and both teams are preparing for a hot battle.

League and other games scheduled for this vicinity tomorrow: Hope against Safe Works on Hope grounds; St. Mary against Y. M. C. A. on St. Mary grounds; Scotch Plains against Celluloids, of Newark, on former's grounds; Westfield against Equitables, at Westfield. The League games in this city are scheduled to commence at 3:30.

Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains baseball team, has three great games to offer to lovers of the game for tomorrow and Monday. Tomorrow at 3:30 the strong Celluloid, of Newark, will be the visiting team. The Celluloids are considered one of Newark's strongest teams and are capable of putting up a great game of ball. Labor Day the Y. M. C. A., of Plainfield, will be on hand for two games. The Y. M. C. A. boys need no introduction to the ball-loving public, as they are one of Plainfield's best teams.

GOLF.

The handicap committee of the Westfield Golf Club announces a "Labor Day Handicap" at thirty-six holes, medal play, commencing at 9 o'clock in the morning of Labor Day. Prizes, presented by R. A. Fairbairn and E. R. Perkins, are offered for best net and gross scores. Entries will close tomorrow.

TENNIS.

In the tennis play of the boys' tournament at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon Lambert defeated Templin 6-1; Schmelzel defeated Templin 6-1; Webster defeated Templin 6-0; Long defeated VanArsdale 6-1.

ALIS IN LINE.

Will Put a Representative Eleven on the Gridiron This Fall.

The first steps toward the formation of a representative eleven for Plainfield were taken at the home of Roy T. Philips, of Madison avenue, Thursday evening. The Alis eleven, which has done such good work in the past, will be reorganized and strengthened. There are plenty of candidates and they will meet Tuesday evening to discuss plans. If the public will give the team proper support, Plainfield will have one of the best teams in its history.

Will Blossom Tonight.

The blossoms on the night blooming cereus plant at the residence of Walter Scott, of East Front street, have appeared sooner than was expected. The plant will be in full bloom tonight instead of Saturday or Sunday evening as was previously announced.

WANTED TO DIE.

The Young Woman Threw Herself Across Railroad Tracks—The Neighbors Dragged Her Away.

The residents of Cottage place were startled yesterday morning, when a young woman ran from her home in a state of wild delirium crying "Murder" at the top of her voice. She declared, as she ran toward the New Jersey Central Railroad, that she would kill herself. She ascended the embankment to the railroad and threw herself across the main west bound track, with the apparent intention of waiting the arrival of a train to end her existence.

Neighbors would not stand for such a performance and before a train had a chance to do its work, she was taken from the railroad. When an explanation was sought as to the motive of the deed the neighbors were reticent and would have nothing to say. It is believed that family troubles was responsible for the act.

IN THE ADIRONDACKS.

Party of Plainfielders Will Return After Five Weeks' Stay.

Ma. and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, Miss E. J. Bainbridge and Miss Elizabeth Claypoole, of North Plainfield, will return from the Adirondacks, tomorrow, after a very pleasant and profitable five weeks' stay at Jay, Essex county, a village on the banks of the Ausable river. This place is within driving distance of Lakes Saranac, Placid and Cascades, St. Hubert's Inn, Ausable Chasm, Wilmington Notch and Falls, John Brown's farm and burial place. Jay is surrounded by the wonderful mountains of Whiteface, Giant, Marcy, Gothics, Saddleback, Jay and many others. Mr. LaBoyteaux is much improved from his sojourn in the midst of pines and will be glad to be with old friends again, especially with his church and Sunday-school.

TAKEN ILL HERE.

Guest at a Borough Home Stricken With Typhoid Fever.

Miss Margaret Malley, of Long Branch, who came to visit Mr. and Mrs. Corra Ryno, of Codington avenue, Wednesday, was instructed by her physician to leave the seashore as she had a very severe attack of malaria and seek a change of air. Upon her arrival here, she was so ill that it was deemed advisable to consult a physician. It was then found that Miss Malley was suffering from typhoid fever in a severe form. In order to obtain the best possible treatment, she was taken to a private room at the Muhlenberg Hospital last evening, where she will remain under the care of Dr. Clawson.

DINNER AT GOLF CLUB.

Given by Miss Lydie Loizeaux to a Few of Her Friends.

A pleasing event of last evening was the dinner party given at the Park Golf Club by Miss Lydie Loizeaox, a member of the club, for a few of her friends. Covers were laid for fourteen. It was 7:30 o'clock when the guests sat down to the table and it was nearly 10 o'clock when the affair terminated.

Mr. and Mrs. Loch were chaperones for the affair and among those present besides them were the Misses Kampman, Miss Davis, Miss Constance Patton, R. deS. Newhall, Henry W. Brower, Wm. Loizeaux and Edward Loizeaux.

CONDUCTOR MADE COMPLAINT.

Accused a Man Named Udall With Stealing $10 From Him.

Sammy Watson and Martin Whelan, up in the borough court last evening, arrested for fighting, had sentence suspended with a warning to be less bellicose in the future.

A man named Udall charged by James Anderson, a trolley car conductor, with stealing $10 from him, was before the court. The alleged theft occurred on this side of the brook, and there was some complication over the matter. The case was postponed for one week.

FUNERAL OF STELLE BLACKFORD.

Services Were Held From the Home on East Second Street Yesterday.

The funeral services of the late Stelle Blackford were held from the home on East Second street, yesterday afternoon, and although they were private, many friends and relatives were present. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, was in charge, and he was assisted by Rev. J. A. Cubberly, of South Plainfield, who offered prayer.

Dr. Yerkes in his remarks spoke of the exemplary Christian life and character of the departed and of his devotion and love for his home.

There were many floral tributes, including two large pieces and several smaller ones. The interment took place in the Baptist cemetery on Plainfield avenue. The bearers were Lewis Walker, Firman Walker, Peter Benwood, Isaac Dayton and William Dayton.

THROWN FROM WHEEL.

William Darling Seriously Injured in Tumble From Bicycle.

A rash action on the part of a playmate resulted in William Darling, nine years old, of West Sixth street, sustaining severe injuries, this morning. He was riding swiftly along on his wheel when the companion reached out and caught his handle bar. Darling was thrown with great force to the ground and when examined by Dr. Currie at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Mundy, he was found to be badly hurt. The extent of injuries so far as learned are a broken thumb, severe scalp abrasions and contusion and inward hurts.

OUTING BY TROLLEY.

Successful Party Was Given by the Retail Clerks' Association.

Under the auspices of the Retail Clerks' Association two well-filled cars of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company went to Riverside Park last evening, it being the last trolley excursion of the season. The party went to the summer theatre at the park, where a first-class vaudeville performance was given. After the show dancing was enjoyed until 11:30 o'clock, when the return journey was made. All agreed that it was the best outing yet given by the association.

FARMER ORATOR TALKED.

A Rousing Address at the Democratic Outing Yesterday.

A delegation of Plainfielders, headed by James E. Martine, Charles Moffett and Andrew Nolan, attended the outing of the Democratic Executive committee of Elizabeth to Point View Grove, yesterday. No speeches were made at the grounds yesterday, but aboard the boat on the way home Mr. Martine delivered a rousing address on the issues now prominently before the people.

Trip Through North Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. C. Glenney and their two sons, of Stelle avenue, left today on a trip through the Adirondacks. They will visit nearly all the prominent points of interest and will enjoy a brief taste of camp life. Mr. Glenney has carefully outlined his itinerary and made every arrangement for the transportation of the party. Railways, stages, buckboards and canoes will all be utilized and a three weeks' outing of a most delightful nature is before them.

A Gift, Not Stolen.

Frank Hallenbeck, of North avenue, appeared in Justice Harbison's court at Westfield, Wednesday, as complainant against John Philmore, whom he charged with stealing clothing. Philmore proved by witnesses, to the satisfaction of the court, that the clothing had been given to him by Hallenbeck and was not stolen. The complaint was dismissed and Philmore was released.

Captured at Last.

A dog belonging to L. E. Perry, of Harrison avenue, which bit Louis Bimble's son, of Cedar street, last week, and which has since been a fugitive from justice, was captured last evening by Chief Campbell and sent to the paradise of canines. The chief captured another dog on Somerset street this morning. It showed symptoms of madness and was shot.

Casting Broke His Ankle.

Daniel Conway, of East Second street, an employe of the Plainfield Foundry Company, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, suffering from a broken ankle. A heavy casting fell on his foot while he was engaged in some work. Although the break is a bad one the foot can be saved.

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it. L. W. Randolph.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—VanArsdale is clearing out all his men's $4 and $5 tan shoes at $2. Great opportunity to get good shoes ridiculously cheap.

—Bartlett pears are a delicious fruit. Neuman Brothers will have 125 baskets of the best procurable tomorrow, suitable for table or canning.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Martha R. Stillman, of West Fourth street, has returned from a two weeks' outing in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Morris J. Dumont, of East Seventh street, is expected home tomorrow from the White Mountains, where he has been spending his vacation.

Party to Her Friends.

Miss Abbie Demarest, of Somerset street, gave a party to a number of her young friends, yesterday afternoon and evening. A very pleasant time was spent with music and games.

STRONG ELEVEN FOR PLAINFIELD THIS FALL

Alis Team Will be Reorganized and Greatly Strengthened for Coming Season.

THE FINANCIAL PLANS.

CANDIDATES WILL MEET CAPTAIN PHILLIPS TUESDAY EVENING.

Alis A. A. Has Been Steadily Coming to the Fore and Will Now Have a Representative Team for Plainfield This Yeag.

While Plainfield has lacked a really representative football team for several years since the old Plainfield A. A. withdrew from the gridiron, the Alis A. A. has been yearly putting up a strong game and making a better showing. From being the crack junior team of this part of New Jersey, it has now arisen to a prominent place among the strongest amateur elevens. Plans are now on foot to have a representative eleven under the auspices of that organization this winter and only the support of the public will be needed to make those plans a reality.

A meeting of the Alis boys was held Wednesday evening at the home of Roy T. Phillips, of Madison avenue, last year's captain, when the subject was discussed and plans formulated. The subject of financial support has been a bothersome one in the past. A new plan was adopted which, if the games are supported as they should be, ought to put the team on a sound financial basis.

There is every indication that the team will equal in strength the famous old P. A. A. eleven which made such a reputation for Plainfield in football circles. There are already twenty men who have declared their intention of trying for the team. Nearly all of last year's team will be out and then there will be some splendid new material. Quite a coterie of old Princeceton players are among the new candidates. These candidates will meet Tuesday evening for the first preliminary practice. They will report at the home of Captain Phillips and there will be a chance to look over the material and outline plans for actual work.

Last season's team was a strong one but it is expected that the eleven which the Alis A. A. will put on the gridiron this fall will be far superior to it. There are several weak points which will be materially strengthened. Some of the new canddiates will add much needed weight to the line. While Captain Phillips is saying little, he has in mind some important changes behind the line as well. There are some of the old Alis boys who have played together for nearly ten years. They will form a nucleus for the reorganized team. It is too early to attempt to give even a vague idea of the composition of the team but it may be accepted that it will be the equal of any that has ever represented Plainfield if the present plans do not miscarry.

A BRANCH HERE.

Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association Will Establish One Here.

Miss Maria Quinn, of Newark, supreme vice president of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association, will institute a branch of the order in this city this evening at St. Mary's Hall The L. C. B. A. has in the neighborhood of 800 branches with a membership of 75,000.

The next national convention will be held at Minneapolis, Minn., in July, 1904. This order is the largest Catholic insurance order in the United States and is remarkable from the fact that it was organized in Pennsylvania but twelve years ago. It is composed and controlled entirely by women.

Boating and Bathing.

Fifteen members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., in charge of Kenneth Robbie, went on a bicycle trip to New Market, yesterday morning, where they spent the greater part of the day in boating and bathing. Before the party returned home a potato roast was on the programme and thoroughly enjoyed.

Nastursium Luncheon.

Miss Clyde Slater, of Jackson avenue, gave a nastursium luncheon, Thursday, in honor of Miss Louise Barker, of Sacandaga Park, N. Y., and Miss Jessica D. Harrison, of Rahway. Among the guests were the Misses Winifred Carroll, Mabel Stevens, Harriet Messersmith, Louise Barker and Jessica Harrison.

GILLMORE TO SEE DRILLS

GOVERNOR MURPHY WANTS HIM TO GO TO FORT RILEY, KAN.

To Witness the Military Manoeuvres at the Camp of Instruction Next Month.

Governor Murphy has asked Brigadier General Q. O'M. Gillmore to represent this State at the military maneouvres at the camp of instruction at Fort Riley, Kansas, and it is believed the General will accept.

General Gillmore will be permitted to take one of his staff with him, and it is said that he will take Major Gilkyson.

When he returns after the camp General Gillmore will make out a report in writing to the Adjutant-General.

Military men throughout the country are greatly interested in the Fort Riley camp of instruction. The following is the programme;

The troops will assemble at Fort Riley September 20 and the manoeuvres will begin September 29 and continue until October 9.

The troops will be marched during their exercises over a-tract of country about forty miles wide and sixty miles long.

The force will be organized into a division and will be commanded by General J. C. Bates, of the regular army.

Four regiments of regular infantry, two regiments of regular cavalry, six batteries of artillery, one battalion of engineers with hospital and signal corps outfits will comprise the force detailed from the regular army, in all about 8,000 men.

Two regiments of infantry from the State of Nebraska, two regiments of infantry from the State of Kansas and two battalions from Arkansas will be all the National Guard troops assembled.

The Governors of the various states have been requested by the Secretary of War to send a representative of their National Guard to witness and report on the manoeuvres.

FIREMEN WILL SOON MEET

STATE FIREMEN'S RELIEF ASSOCIATION TO HOLD A CONVENTION.

Will be Held at Atlantic City, September 10 and 11—The Plans Are Already Made.

The twenty-fifth annual convention of the New Jersey State Firemen's Relief Association will be held in Atlantic City, September 10 and 11.

The New Jersey State Firemen's Association is made up of members of the paid or volunteer departments of the cities of the state duly incorporated. Under their act of incorporation each department is allowed to elect three delegates, who, together with the chief engineer of their respective departments, constitute their representatives in the annual convention, where reports of the relief department and other business is transacted.

The main business before the convention this year is the election of a secretary of the association to succeed the late Horace Brown, who held the office for 21 years. The prominent candidates are William Exall, captain of truck 1, Newark, who has been a fireman since February 22, 1846, and is now an assistant secretary, and T. Howell Johnson, of Bloomfield, who is also an assistant secretary.

There are 193 associations in the State and in addition to the four delegates from each association, or 772 delegates in all, 200 life members are expected to attend the convention as well as fifty fire commissioners from various municipalities, making a total number of 1,000 members.

The afternoon of September 10 there will be a parade of the Atlantic City and visiting departments in full uniform. Mayor Stoy, of Atlantic City, will welcome the delegates and open the convention and the response will be made by General Bird W. Spencer, president.

Results of Benefit Ball Game.

The Netherwood Fresh Air Camp and the King's Daughter's camp were each made richer, this morning, by receiving checks for $33.50, the total being the net receipts from the All-Plainfield-Xavier Deaf Mute baseball game. The gross receipts amounted to $97.45 and in addition a number of tickets held by people now out of town, are to be accounted for.

Councilman and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., of Jackson avenue, are at Niagara Falls. They will return next Tuesday.

SHORE COAL TRUST.

Dealers on the Jersey Coast, Near Asbury Park, Combined and Have Now Incorporated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 30—The coal dealers in Asbury Park have formed a trust and incorporated under the title of the Consumers' Coal and Supply Company of Asbury Park. All but two of the dealers entered the combine, which is the direct result of the coal strike. The men in the concern control seventy-five per cent. of the coal trade in South Elberon, Deal, Allenhurst, Loch Arbor, Interlaken, Ocean Grove, West Grove, Bradley Beach, Neptune City, Avon, Belmar and Asbury Park. The officers of the company are: George W. Treat, president; Thomas C. Cottrell, vice president; Thomas Wyncoop, superintendent; John D. Beegle, general manager; John Hulshart, treasurer; Raymond Hawley, secretary.

The company is capitalized at $125,000 and the shares are $100 each.

HOME FOR NEGRO SCHOOL

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION HAS BOUGHT "OLD IRONSIDES."

Purchased Quarters at Bordentown Which Are Now Occupied by That Institution.

The State Manual Training and Industrial School for Colored Youths has now a permanent home by reason of the fact that the State Board of Education has finally decided to purchase "Old Ironsides," the property at Bordentown now occupied by the institution.

This famous tract of land contains 204 acres and was formerly the home of Mrs. Parnell, mother of the Irish leader, Charles Stewart Parnell. It will cost the State $15,000.

The purchase is already tentatively made and the board his instructed its standing committee to complete the purchase. The purchasing committee comprises W. D. Forbes J. B. Woodward, Sweeting Miles, Ulamar Allen and Joseph M. Byrn.

An appropriation of $35,000 was made by the Legislature last winter for the purchase of a site and for the erection of suitable buildings for this school. There now is left $20,000 with which to erect the buildings. Robert C. Dixon, of the town of Union, has been selected as architect and he has been instructed to prepare plans for the building.

The building for which provision is made will be but one of a number that will be required if the present plans for the work and scope of the school are to be effectuated.

It was largely due to the efforts of Rev. I. W. L. Roundtree that the $35,000 appropriation bill was passed last winter for the establishment of the school.

Rev. Mr. Roundtree has been constantly working for the school for ten years and his increasing labor in its interest was largely instrumental in the advancement of the institution.

FAIR WILLS FILED.

Husband Left All to Wife While She Left Bulk to Him, But Remembered Relatives.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

SanFrancisco, Aug. 30—The wills of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair were filed in court yesterday. Mr. Fair's will, executed April 18, 1900, covered but one page of foolscap and left all of his estate, with all property he should acquire thereafter, to his wife She was made executrix of his will without bonds.

Mrs. Fair's will, as already made public, bequeathed an annuity of $2,500 to her mother, Mrs. Hannah E. Nelson, and sums aggregating $60,000 to other relatives, to whom she also left her jewels. The residuary estate was bequeathed to her husband.

It is reported that $300,000 has been paid to the relatives of Mrs. Fair by those of her late husband to prevent any contest over the disposition of the estate, and that about $700,000 more will be paid under the agreement into which they have entered.

Blossomed Last Night.

A night blooming cereus, owned by Mrs. F. W. Westphal, of West Fourth street, unfolded its blossoms last evening. It is an exceptionally sturdy plant and the blooming was witnessed by a party of friends.

Warren Boys to Meet.

Members of Warren Engine Company will hold their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening. Final arrangements will be made for the trip to the convention at Atlantic City.

—Neuman Brothers will close out the balance of their large fruit display this afternoon and evening at especially low prices.

THE HOLIDAY IN THIS CITY

Some of the Attractions That Will Interest Plainfielders Here on Monday.

SEVERAL EXCURSIONS.

Outdoor Sports, Chiefly Baseball and Golf, Will be the Main Events of the Day—Trotting at New Brunswick—Some of the Other Things Scheduled.

Monday will be Labor Day. With that holiday, the summer vacation season is considered to end. While September usually developes a few days of warm weather, ordinarily the heated term has ended and the summer tourists are flocking homeward, tanned and healthy, ready for the activities of the autumnal and winter seasons. While any long continued period of hot weather has been absent so far this summer, the throngs at mountains and seashore have begun to turn their faces cityward and Plainfield is beginning to look itself again.

While many of the Plainfielders will remain over the holiday before returning home, there are enough in town already to spend a pleasant holiday. While there are many minor attractions, the city will see no special holiday feature and the day promises to be a quiet one. There are many who will take advantage of the last of the vacation period to enjoy a day's outing at one of the nearby resorts. Several organizations will run special excursions which will offer an easy method of reaching them.

Outdoor sports will probably occupy a prominent place in the happenings of the holiday for those who remain at home. Baseball and golf will be the principal features. In the baseball way, there will be no League games, but the Y. M. C. A. team will battle morning and afternoon with Scotch Plains at that place and the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works team will go to High Bridge in the afternoon. Westfield has two games on. In the morning the team plays the Pearsalls, of Bayonne, and in the afternoon the strong Brooklyn Field Club will be the opposing nine. The Plainfield A. C. and the Dunellen A. C. will cross bats at Dunellen in the morning and the New Market and East Millstone teams will battle at New Market in the morning also.

Two events will occupy the day for members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. In the morning there will be a men's foursome, eighteen holes, medal play, handicap. Two cups will be offered. There will be a handicap competition for the Holiday cup in the afternoon.

At the Park Golf Club, the qualifying round for the club championship and a ball sweepstakes will be the attractions in the morning. In the afternoon, the first round of match play for the club championship will be played and there will be a handicap competition, eighteen holes, medal play, for the Holiday cup.

Popular excursions will also be a feature of the holiday attractions. The Grocers Association will conduct its fourteenth annual outing to Coney Island, and St. Patricks Alliance will be in charge of one which will go to Orange Grove on Long Island Sound, starting from Chancellor dock at Elizabethport at 9:30. The New Jersey Central will also conduct one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk, the famed Glen Onoko and the thrilling Switchback. The train leaves this city at 9:20. Another excursion which starts from Elizabeth is that of the Knights of Pythias to Long Branch, where the Field Day of the order is to be held. Crescent Division, Uniformed Rank, of this city, and many Knights from Perseverance and Unity Lodges are to go on this train.

Picnics will not be so numerous as on last year but one has been arranged by the Carpenters Union which will take place on Johnson's Drive.

The races at the New Brunswick track under the auspices of the Raritan Driving Association promise to draw a large crowd from this vicinity. Several Plainfield horses have been entered in the different events and some fast trotting may be expected. Mayor Newton B. Smalley will be one of the judges.

Great preparations have been made during the past week by the Independent Shooting Club to make its

STILL ON STRIKE.

Men Made an Offer of Fifty-five Hours Which Was Rejected by Columbia Tool Works.

There are practically no new developments in the strike situation of the Columbia Tool Works. Spencer Scribner and a delegation of the strikers interviewed the management yesterday afternoon and offered to return to work on a basis of fifty-five hours a week, instead of fifty-nine and a half, the present number. The management, however, would not listen to any such overtures.

The men have decided to look for jobs in some other place. Five have already secured situations in New York. At the works this morning the wheels were buzzing as usual, and some five or six men were at the benches. The strikers complain that the first man to sign the paper demanding a nine hour day and to go on strike in case of refusal, deceived them by returning to work when there was trouble in the wind.

IMPROVEMENTS AT PRINCETON

CHANGES MADE TO DORMATORIES AND THE CAMPUS.

Most Important is the Erection of a Big Lighting and Heating Plant.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Princeton, August 30—Extensive improvements are going on in all the dormitories and on the campus, and 300 workmen are busily engaged in getting things in readiness for Old Nassau's 1,500 youths, who will put in their appearance three weeks from last Wednesday.

The big feature is the erection of a 2000-horse-power lighting and heating plant near the new $250,000 gymnasium. This plant, which will not be entirely finished until next winter, will furnish light for the dormitories and other buildings on the campus, and also for laboratory work. All wires will be placed in vitrified conduits and there will be no overhead wires anywhere on the campus. A large tunnel has been opened in the middle campus, through which the steam mains will be carried and from which sub-mains will be conducted into all the buildings. Bathrooms, including shower baths, have also been placed in all the dormitories.

Another feature is the opening of an entrance to Alexander Hall from Nassau street. The Osborne House has been removed, and where it stood an entrance 50 feet wide has been made direct to the big hall in which the inaugural ceremonies of the new president, Woodrow Wilson, will be held October 25. "Prospect," the home of the president, is being thoroughly renovated.

Work on the new gymnasium will be completed by March 1.

HOT TIME.

Paradise Alley Fracas Was Aired In Court, But Farmer Orator's Plea for Clemency Was Successful.

A hair-pulling, clewing, scratching fracas, which took place on Cottage place, Thursday afternoon, resulted in the arrest and appearance in the city court, this morning, of Mrs. Anna Robinson, Mrs. Mary Martin and Miss Ida Hinton, all colored.

The trio and five witnesses related a long series of causes of the disturbance and gave a vivid description of the climax. When all were through "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine entered a plea for clemency and taking the past record of the defendants into consideration City Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

EUCHRE AT HOTEL.

Progressive Euchre at Hotel Netherwood Last Night.

Progressive euchre was the attraction at the Hotel Netherwood last evening. Twenty-five tables were placed to accommodate the palyers. The first women's prize was won by Mrs. Isaac Schwed, Plainfield; second women's prize, Mrs. Joseph Lux, Hoboken; third women's prize, Mrs. Kline, Plainfield. The first men's prize was carried off by Miss Hibert, Brooklyn; second men's prize, A. D Keller, New York; third men's prize, Mrs. Goldsmith, New York.

CAPT. BROWNING TO RESIGN

DENIES THAT THERE IS ANYTHING BUT BEST OF FEELING.

Says That He Wants to Devote His Entire Time to Practice of Medicine.

Dr. W. Kempton Browning, who during the past two years has been the captain of Company K, of this city, has given notice of his resignation, the same to take effect about November 1.

In taking this action Captain Browning states that his sole purpose in retiring from the command of the company is that he may devote his entire time to the practice of medicine. He says that he had a talk several weeks ago with the colonel of the Second Regiment about retiring and he was induced to keep the command for the present. He has been promised a place on the colonel's staff as soon as there is a vacancy.

Captain Browning denies that the action taken by him is the result of any feeling among the members. He says that there is the best of feeling existing and he regrets to retire from the command. Many members, he says, have personally expressed their regrets in the matter. It is possible that the next captain may be selected from outside of the company membership. After Captain Browning's retirement the next officer in command, who is Lieutenant John M. Lewis, will take charge until an election is held.

AFTER ORDERS.

That's What Cubans Said, But the Judge Believed the Police.

Two Cubans, Manuel Gomez and Leon Garcia, recent arrivals from Porto Principe, were arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged by Patrolman McCarthy with selling cigars without the necessary license. Neither spoke English and through Interpreter Fred W. Bowden, they claimed to be merely taking orders. They had tickets for New York and both were given ten minutes in which to take a train to the Metropolis.

Nearly Dumped Out.

Patrick Muldoon, James Day, Clarence Waldron and Fred Clark, of this city, had an exciting experience while fishing near Amboy Thursday afternoon. They were out in a boat when a squall came up suddenly and threatened to upset the whole party. Assistance was given at once and the party taken to shore. As a result the usual luck was not forthcoming.

His Debut Among the Clouds.

At Boynton Beach, Labor Day, John Herlitz, of this city, known familiarly as "Spider" will make his debut as an aeronaut. Two ascensions will be made, at 1:30 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon. These will be the last of the season at the beach. The regular Saturday ascension and parachute leap will be made this afternoon.

Death of a Girl.

The death of Miss Venie Brighton, aged sixteen years, occurred last evening at the home of her parents on Tompkins avenue. The funeral services will be held from the late home Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock and from the Filmore Baptist church at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the M. E cemetery.

New Organization.

A meeting of the Home Protective and Educational Association will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. All friends of temperance and prohibition are coridally invited to be present.

Going to Parade.

The members of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle will take part in the big parade at Trenton Monday night. They will leave on the 5:29 o'clock train Monday afternoon and every member is urged to go.

Fanwood Township Schools Open.

The Daily Press was in error, in the issue of August 28, in stating that the Fanwood township schools would open on Tuesday, September 9. They will begin the fall session, Tuesday, September 2.

Partnership Dissolved.

Notice is given that the partnership lately existing between John Clacy and George S. Farlee, under the firm name of Clacy & Farlee, was dissolved yesterday by mutual consent.

Burning Soft Coal.

Schepflin & Company, of West Front street, are compelled to burn soft coal after this week, it being impossible to get the hard coal as formerly.

Miss Caroline Thompson will leave Monday morning for Bethany, College, Lindsborg, Kansas, where she will take up the study of art.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS TO EXCHANGE COURTESIES

Perseverance Lodge to Entertain Members of Volunteer Lodge, of Elizabeth.

WILL GIVE RECEPTION.

A RETURN OF HOSPITALITIES WILL BE MADE LATER IN SEASON.

Past Chancellor Asa Pope Will Review Field Day Parade at Long Branch and Other Members Will Witness—Last Night's Meeting.

Preparations for a renewal of the fraternal spirit, which is especially prominent among Knights of Pythias during the fall and winter months, was made at last evening's meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P.

A communication was received from Volunteer Lodge, of Elizabeth, asking if September 19 would be a suitable date on which to visit this city as the guest of Perseverance. The communication was received amid applause and a committee was at once appointed to secure Washington Hall on that date and arrange for an elaborate reception and entertainment. It consists of S. J. Robinson, David Bowden, Harvey L. Paterson, Asa Pope and William J. Mattox. A second committee was also appointed to make arrangements for a visit by Perseverance to Elizabeth late next month or early in October. The latter consists of Donald McInnis, David Bowden and Thomas Muir. The lodge will go by special trolley in two cars.

In the business session of the meeting, the resignation of S. J. Clouston as inner guard was received and accepted and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and Thomas Muir were nominated for the office.

A communication was read from the Supreme Lodge in which an invitation was extended Past Chancellor Asa Pope to accept a seat in the reviewing stand at Long Branch, Monday, when the annual Field Day of the order is to be held. The favored one signified his intention of taking his place among the notables and as a result many of the members outside of the uniformed rank which will attend in a body, announced their intention of taking part in the parade. The start will be made from Elizabeth at 8:30 and from present indications it will be one of the most successful Field Days ever held.

Following the business routine, the Lodge enjoyed an exceptionally pleasant hour of good and welfare, including a smoker. The latter came in the form of cigars, the gift of Brother Randolph Marsh, Jr., who recently joined the ranks of the Benedicts, an act which calls for Havanas to be passed among the Knights. The entertainment programme consisted of remarks from visiting Brother Mayo, of New Brunswick, Vice Chancellor Charles M. Ulrich, Robert L. Lee, William J. Mattox, Dr. N. W. Currie and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., piano selections by Harvey L. Patterson and Chancellor Commander William N. Runyon and vocal selections by Asa Pope and Thomas Muir.

Drank at His Expense.

Thirty-five young people from the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school went to L. W. Randolph's drug store, last evening, to redeem the checks for ice cream soda given out at the Sunday-school, Sunday morning, by Superintendent George E. Hall. The young folks, accompanied by Mr. Hall, assembled at the fountain, where all fully enjoyed the excellent ice cream soda served at that place. while the soda was being served there was a social time. Mr. Hall was heartily thanked for his generosity.

H. W. Relstab Honored.

At the closing session of the National Council of the Daughters of Liberty, held this week at Syracuse, N. Y., Herman W. Relstab, of Trenton, was elected national councillor. Mr. Relstab is well acquainted in this city.

Tornado Labor Day.

Tornado in the sale of tickets for Coney Island by the Grocers, Labor Day, at the North Avenue station, is what they want. They will have plenty of cars and a cheap rate.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Mrs. Cornelia M. Hunt, of West Third street, to John F. Haywood, of Richmond, Va.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Our fellow townsman, B. F. Howell, has again been nominated for Congress, and his election, of which there is no doubt, will make him the representative of this district for ten years. It is very complimentary to Mr. Howell that he should have so well served his constituents that no other candidate in his party has entered the lists against him. Mr. Howell has been a faithful, successful and creditable representative, and has done more for his district than any of his predecessors. He should have an increased majority in his own county.—New Brunswick Home News.

The recklessness of Frank J. Matthews, who killed himself and a woman and badly hurt several more people by the accident to his automobile at Elberon on Tuesday, is strongly illustrated by the fact that less than three hours before that awful tragedy occurred he was arrested and fined for over speeding on the Rumson road. The Newark News, taking this dreadful affair for its text, makes the excellent suggestion that no person should be allowed to run an automobile without undergoing an examination and getting a license, the same as any other engineer. In fact a chauffeur drives a machine that is a hundred times more dangerous to life and limb than a locomotive which is confined to rails.—Paterson Press.

The loss of two lives by an automobile accident at Elberon on Tuesday, folowing so closely upon that by which the Fairs were instantly killed in France, calls attention to the need of a State law restricting the speed of these vehicles. Under the act passed by the last Legislature, the regulating of the speed of automobiles is left to the various municipalities, and the penalty to be imposed is limited to five dollars, but non-residents are exempt from his small fine.

A general State law is needed, as many of the municipalities will delay action until its need is emphasized by an accident similar to that at Elberon. With an act that fixes the rate at which these new wagons may travel in town and country, there should be no exemptions. There are many who believe that the fifteen-mile rate permitted by the recently passed Trenton ordinance is too great for the less-traveled streets; but when it comes to allowing a reckless man to send his vehicle along at the rate of fifty miles, there is need for State interference.—Trenton Times.

A Labor Day Outing.

The delights of a journey to Mauch Chunk and trip over the Switch-back and a visit to Glen Onoko are without equal. The Switch-back is a most novel and ingenious contrivance for mountain climbing and excitement attends every moment. The view from Summite Hill is exceptional and broad vistas of an interesting character are in every direction. At Glen Onoko one finds a most beautiful place, innumerable water falls, picturesque glens and a weirdness which, to the city man, is little short of novel. On Labor Day the New Jersey Central is to run one of its popular excursions to Mauch Chunk, the rate for the round trip is to be $1.50, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:22 a. m., arriving at Mauch Chunk about noon, and as the return trip does not start until 5:30, there is ample opportunity for exploration.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

CALL TO PYTHIAN KNIGHTS

GRAND CHANCELLOR'S PROCLAMATION RELATIVE TO PYTHIAN DAY.

Has Been Received by the Local Lodges—Gives the Details of Field Day Monday.

The local lodges of the Knights of Pythias have received the grand chancellor's proclamation relative to Pythians' Day, which takes place Monday. "Pythian Field Day at Long Branch," says the proclamation, "is fast approaching, and I desire to inform all the members of this grand domain that all arrangements have been completed for the grand parade of the Pythian hosts. The parade will take place at 11 a. m., forming on Railroad square, under the command of Grand Marshal B. P. Morris, with Brigadier-General Hitchcock and staff. The route has been slightly changed: Down Third to Chelsea, to Ocean avenue, to Broadway, to Bath, to Westwood, to Third, to Broadway, to Ocean and to Ocean House grounds and dismiss, where the competition drill will take place, instead of east of Castle Hall, as first proposed.

"These beautiful grounds are directly facing the great Atlantic Ocean, and are smooth and most ecxellent grounds for drilling. Acoss the lawns, the broad verandas of the Ocean House overlook and busy driveway on the bluff, the beach alive with gay bathers, the tumbling surf, and away out to the eastern horizon incoming steamers, passing vessels, yachts and excursion boats make a ceaseless panorama. The sunset and moonlight effects are always grand, often gorgeous. The magnificent stretch of beach at Long Branch has a world-wide fame, and its slopes of silver sand attract many visitors, who pass any a delightful hour is health-giving and restful pastime.

"The judges of the competition drill will occupy the piazza of the hotel. As soon as the judges decide the grand chancellor will personally present the prizes to the winners. Special entertainments have been arranged at the open-air theatre at Pleasure Bay. Local ladies' reception committee will meet the visiting women at the parlors of the Imperial Hotel, and show them the beauties of Long Branch. Special seats will also be reserved for them at the Ocean House grounds during the drill. The parade will be reviewed from a stand in front of the Imperial Hotel by the governor, mayor and commissioners of Long Branch and the grand lodge officers.

"This is Labor Day. It is to be a day of recreation and pleasure, and from present indications you will see one of the largest and grandest . of P. parades ever seen in this State. A new Uniform Rank will shortly be organized at Harrison. Long Branch Company has been reorganized, and many companies have received a large increase of new members. Let the good work go on, and let every brave and loyal knight show his colors by helping make this day one long to be remembered.

"Awake! Awake! my Pythian brothers. Forward, march, on to Long Branch, with the colors of Pythianism waving, where a glad welcome will be extended to you all. The fires of Pythianism are burning brightly all over this State today. New members and new lodges are coming in through the portals of our castle halls, and if we show our colors on one day thousands more will see the grandeur of this young order, with over 500,000 members, and during the coming fall and winter will knock at our portals for admission. I want every subordinate lodge represented in line, if only by a small number."

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Summer Complaint

is not always brought about by change of air and water. The "stay-at-homes" are just as susceptible to diarrhoea; due, generally, to over-eating, as unripe fruits, etc., and, drinking ice water; all accompanied by painful bowel discharges; and, if not checked, results seriously. Perry Davis' Painkiller is the only purely reliable remedy. 25 and 50c.

KING OF HARNESS HORSES.

Dan Patch Paces a Mile In 1:59 1-2 at Narragansett.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 30.—The grand circuit meeting at Narragansett park was brought to a close in a blaze of glory. Dan Patch, the unbeaten son of Joe Patchen, paced an exhibition mile in 1:59½, reducing his record from 2:00¼. The mile was within a quarter of a second of the world's record of 1:59¼, made by Star Pointer at Readville five years ago.

This is the fastest mile in harness in half a decade, and Dan Patch is the second horse to beat two minutes. No other horse except Star Pointer ever went so fast, and he did it only twice and then beat Dan Patch's mark by only a quarter of a second. Star Pointer also went once in 1:59¾, so this is the third time a horse ever beat two minutes. Myron McHenry drove the famous brown stallion, and his owner, M. E. Sturges of New York, watched the performance from a box in the grand stand.

The fastest trotting class was also on the day's programme. Lord Derby won in two straight heats from Chain Shot and Dolly Dillon in 2:07¼ and 2:06¼.

Sensational time was made in the 2:11 pace, won by Billy H. in 2:05½ and 2:06½. Scott Hudson was second in both heats with Don Riley. Sufreet won the 2:17 pace after Buckthorne had two heats. Anna Held won the 2:27 trot in straight heats. Ed Geers got fourth money with John Patterson. Betsey started to beat 2:20 and got a record of 2:14½.

Trojan Sold to Chicago Team.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Troy's clever shortstop, Evers, has been sold to the Chicago National league club and will report to that club Tuesday at Philadelphia. Hardy, Troy's pitcher, will finish out the State league season and then report to the Boston National league club.

Vargas-Santos at Costa Rica.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Aug. 30.—General Vargas-Santos, chief of the Colombian revolutionary junta in New York, has arrived here. There were many demonstrations in his honor.

General Vargas-Santos, it was announced from Washington Aug. 22, made an effort a few days previous to that date to secure through the Colombian legation a passport that would enable him to pass through the government lines at Panama and have a safe passage to the revolutionary army at Agua Dulce, where, the general said, he desired to confer with General Herrera with a view to arranging terms of peace between the revolutionists and the Colombian government. The legation declined to issue the passport.

Fuerst Bismarck Safely In Port.

PLYMOUTH, England, Aug. 30.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Fuerst Bismarck, Captain Barends, has arrived here.

The Fuerst Bismarck left New York Aug. 21 for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Hamburg. She was spoken Aug. 22 and 23 with her starboard thrust shaft broke. The steamer proceeded, however, under one engine and was about a day and a half late in reaching Plymouth.

Violent Storms In France.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Violent storms are reported from the southwestern part of France. At Rodez a hurricane unroofed a number of houses and caused great damage in the vineyards and orchards. The vineyards in the Perpignan region have been seriously injured by rain and hail. A waterspout which burst over St. Etienne converted the streets into torrents of water and flooded many cellars.

WON'T TAKE INSULTS.

Gobin Issues a Warning to Strikers.

EPITHETS TO BE CAUSE FOR ARREST.

General Gives Orders That Troops Are to Shoot Any One Throwing Missiles—Says Forbearance Cannot Continue.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 30.—General Gobin has returned to headquarters from the Panther creek region. He received the report of Major Gearhart and made a personal investigation of conditions and then issued the following order:

"It is very evident from the recent conduct of the riotous element in this section that the conservative attitude with which the troops have heretofore borne insults has been misunderstood and has encouraged this element to repeated assaults upon the men in the performance of their military duty. This can no longer continue, and I have personally informed the chief burgess of Lansford and Tamaqua and directed that information be furnished the authorities of Summit Hill and Coaldale that the troops will no longer submit to insults or violence from any source.

"You are therefore directed to arrest any person using insulting language, epithets or violence toward the troops while in the performance of their duty. Have such parties arrested and taken to your guardhouse for future disposition. In moving troops place reliable, competent and skilled marksmen on the flanks of the command and arm your file closers with loaded guns and instruct them that in case of attack upon the column by stones or missiles where the attacking party cannot be reached the men thus selected shall carefully note the man attacking the column and, being certain of his man, fire upon him without further orders. For the execution of this duty select none but absolutely reliable men who will make no mistake. On a general mob, if resisted, use your bayonets and butts vigorously, if at all possible, before resorting to volley firing.

"It is evident that many of the licensed houses in this community are simply places of rendezvous for the riotous and disorderly element, thus creating them disorderly houses. You will carefully note such houses and report the names of the owners or parties holding the license to these headquarters that application may be made to the courts for a revocation of their licenses."

The general says that no more troops will be called out at present.

APPEAL TO PRESIDENT.

Public Alliance of Wilkesbarre Asks Him to End Strike.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 30.—The Public alliance of this city, which has been endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the coal strike in the interest of the business men of the anthracite region, has sent the following appeal to President Roosevelt:

"Since the inception of the barbarous and senseless struggle in the anthracite coal region we, the noncombatants, who stand upon neutral ground, have suffered the inevitable fate of such unfortunates. The tide of battle ebbs and flows over and about us. We have endured patiently. We have petitioned humbly. We had hoped for much upon J. P. Morgan's return. But now, after a struggle of four months' duration, a period of suffering and progressive business paralysis, when it seemed to us that the time was propitious for a settlement of some kind, if not as a matter of concession to public opinion, yet as a plain business proposition, Mr. Morgan has met with his henchmen, and the edict has gone forth, 'There will be no settlement, no arbitration, no conciliation, no mediation, no concessions. The fight must go on.'

"Mr. Morgan has placed a ban upon us which means universal ruin, destitution, riot and bloodshed.

"Is J. Pierpont Morgan greater than the people? Is he mightier than the government? Will he be permitted to retain this menacing power?

"It is time the people should speak. It is time that their voice should be heard.

"Representing the interests and sentiment of nine-tenths of our people, we appeal to you to use your influence to stay the juggernaut which crushes us. Encouraged by your recent utterances, relying upon your judgment and patriotism, confident of your great moral courage, we appeal from the king of the trusts to the president of the people."

President Mitchell said that there were no negotiations on for a settlement of the strike so far as he knew. Mr. Mitchell will leave here this afternoon for Atlantic City and will spend Sunday at the seashore. On Monday he will go to Philadelphia and deliver the principal address at the big labor day meeting to be held in that city.

More Riots at Lansford.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 30.—In an encounter between troops and strikers at Lansford Captain W. H. Heim of Company K, Twelfth regiment, was hurt and half a dozen strikers were bayoneted by the soldiers. Major Gearhart, in command of the troops here, states that he will appeal to the military authorities to put the town of Lansford under martial law. From daybreak the troops were active in quelling disturbances and protecting nonunion men on their way to work.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Representative Reese C. De Graffenreid of Texas has died of apoplexy at the Riggs House in this city.

GREAT WAR GAME.

Army of Defense Ready For Higginson's Attack.

MACARTHUR INSPECTS THE FORTS.

Signal Stations and Searchlight Established at Newport to Give Warning of the Appearance of the Hostile Fleet.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 30.—The eve of battle finds the army of defense in the several ports along shore between New Bedford and the east entrance to Long Island sound practically in readiness to repel the attack of the hostile fleet under the command of Admiral Higginson. The only thing that remains is the additional armament on both sides, the Massachusetts heavy artillery for the shore and the Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York naval militia for the fleet.

When these organizations arrive, the artillery will be at once distributed among the posts at the entrance of Narragansett bay and also at New Bedford. As to the naval militia, the gunboats Mayflower and Scorpion will be here in readiness to receive the Massachusetts and Connecticut troops, the New York naval militia arriving on the Supply. These three boats will immediately leave for sea, and the militia will be distributed among the vessels of the fleet. It is expected that the fleet of Admiral Higginson will disappear from the coast some time tonight and will not be heard from again until the attack is made.

The principal event of the day in this vicinity was the arrival of Major General MacArthur, commander of the department of the east, on a tour of inspection. He was received at Fort Adams by the commanding officer of the post, Colonel Hasbrouck, and, together with the leading officers of the post, a long consultation was held at headquarters. After his inspection of the three forts defending Narragansett bay General MacArthur will leave for New Bedford.

A large number of signal stations reaching from Fort Adams along the southern end of the island of Rhode Island, which is practically the city of Newport, have been established by the army. These stations are all in telephonic communication with headquarters at Fort Adams. A wireless telegraph system has also been established between Fort Adams and the mainland and also with the fort on Canonicut island and Dutch island, Port Wetherill on the former and Port Greble on the latter.

The main reliance of the army of defense in this vicinity is the searchlight station at Prince's neck, very close to the life saving station. It is hoped that this station will be able to pick up by means of its powerful light any vessels of the enemy. It is also a very exposed point and may be the scene of an attack with the object of cutting the wires. The mines at the entrance of Narragansett bay are practically in position, and the umpires have charts of the same.

Reducing Philippine Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—General Chaffee has cabled to the war department that he and his successor, General Davis, are of the opinion that another regiment of cavalry can now be spared from duty in the Philippine Islands. The necessary orders have been forwarded to him to send home one regiment, and the headquarters and six troops of the Ninth cavalry will be relieved from duty and will sail on the Logan for San Francisco Sept. 16. The remainder of the regiment will sail Oct. 1. The stations for this regiment in the United States have not yet been designated.

A Royal Wedding.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 30.—The betrothal ceremony of Prince Nicholas of Greece and the Grand Duchess Helen occurred at the Great Palace at Tsarskoye Selo. The marriage service was held afterward in the palace church, the metropolitan of St. Petersburg officiating. Prince Nicholas is the third son of King George of Greece. He was born in 1872. The Grand Duchess Helen is a daughter of the Grand Duke Vladimir, uncle of the czar of Russia. She was born in 1882.

To Reorganize Chinese Army.

PEKING, Aug. 30.—The Japanese government has appointed Major General Yamani, who was recently in command of the Japanese troops in China, to be military attache to the Japanese legation here. It is believed that General Yamani will direct the reorganization of the Chinese army. His appointment is intended also to give Japan an equal standing with Russia, who has long kept Major General Wogack as her military and political agent in China.

Fire Costly to Many Men.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 30.—The concentrator of the Montana Ore Purchasing company, better known as the Heinze concentrator, has been totally destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $100,000, which is covered by $60,000 insurance. It will take about three months to repair the damage, and fully 400 men employed by the company will be laid off.

General Weston Ill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—General John F. Weston, commissary general of the army, is away from his desk at the war department on account of a severe cold. The general's condition is reported to be improving, and he is expected back at the department in a short time.

Violent Earthquake In Italy.

ROME, Aug. 30.—A violent earthquake shock is reported to have been felt at Fabriano, in the province of Ancona.

PETER POWER CASE ENDED.

No More Testimony to Be Taken In the Matter.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—After thirty-four sessions before Special Examiner Mabie, at which 900,000 words of testimony were taken down, typewritten and printed, the Peter Power-Northern Pacific injunction case has been abruptly terminated so far as the examining of witnesses is concerned.

The great mass of testimony will be filed with the clerk of the United States circuit court in St. Paul on Monday, and a decision on the right of the Northern Pacific to retire its preferred stock is expected from Judge Lochran inside of a month, possibly within a few days.

Among many lawyers who have watched the progress of this proceeding the belief prevails that the suit will be dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff, Peter Power, not being nor at any time having been the owner of any Northern Pacific stock, has no equity in the matter.

As if in support of this prophecy Examiner Mabie has returned to Camille Weidenfeld the 100 shares of stock which were taken to Chicago pinned to the undershirt of Captain Henry Stern, which Power identified as his by means of the pinholes in the certificate and upon which the suit was brought. The evidence has shown that the stock belongs to Weidenfeld.

A MAN IN THE HOUSE.

Fleeing From Irate Husband, He Is Killed by a Mob.

MONROE, Mich., Aug. 30.—Walter Lemerand, lately from Toledo, came home and found a Frenchman in the house with his wife. A quarrel ensued, the Frenchman finally running from the house. An officer attempted to arrest him, when he ran down Third street, a crowd pursuing.

The cry "Assaulter!" was raised, and the mob began to shoot. The Frenchman ran into a cornfield, where he was surrounded and shot dead, a bullet penetrating his heart.

The woman denies that there was any assault. She has told the sheriff that the dead man is Joseph Labarge of 319 Cherry street, Toledo. She says that she and Labarge had planned an elopement.

An autopsy is now being performed on Labarge's body. No arrests will be made until after the inquest.

French Diplomatic Appointments.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—A decree making a number of diplomatic appointments has been signed by President Loubet, but it will not be officially published for a day or two. The new appointments include that of M. Jusserand, the retiring French minister at Copenhagen, as French embassador to Washington; the appointment of M. Cambon, whom M. Jusserand will replace in the United States, as French embassador to Spain, and that of M. Bompard as French embassador to Russia in succession to the Marquis de Montebello. The significance of M. Bompard's appointment to Russia lies in the fact that as he is chief of the consular commercial bureau of the foreign office it may be taken to mean that the diplomatic relations of France and Russia are now so satisfactory that closer commercial relations are contemplated.

C. L. Fair's Will Filed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—Theresa Oelrichs and Herman Oelrichs have made application for letters of administration on the estate of Charles L. Fair, the dead California millionaire, and have filed his last will and testament. The document bequeaths the entire estate to Mrs. Charles L. Fair, the wife, who died by the same accident that ended the life of Mr. Fair. At the same time a petition was presented by Hannah E. Nelson, Joseph Harvey and Charles S. Neal for letters on the estate of Caroline D. Fair and an order for the production of Mrs. Fair's will, now in a safety deposit vault. Her will makes bequests to the testator's relatives of about $60,000, and the remainder of the estate is left to her husband.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

NEWTON, Mass., Aug. 30.—The Woonsocket accommodation train from Boston over the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad ran through an open switch at Newton Upper Falls, crashing into a loaded coal car which stood on the siding. In the coal car was Michael Devlin, a laborer. He was buried in the wreck and received injuries which are likely to prove fatal. The fireman of the train jumped from the cab just as the train struck the siding and fractured his left leg. W. H. Cook, the engineer, stayed in the engine and was only slightly bruised. The passengers were shaken up somewhat, but no one otherwise was injured.

Heroic Father Fatally Burned.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—In attempting to rescue his wife and two children from his burning house at Tuxedo Henry Tomlins, a lineman for the Hudson River Telephone company, probably was fatally burned. One of the children will die as a result of burns. The other child and Mrs. Tomlins were rescued. The fire broke out in the building occupied by the Telephone Exchange as the result of the explosion of an oil stove. The building was totally destroyed, and the flames spread to the Tomlins residence. Firemen prevented further damage.

Quiet In West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 30.—The troops in the New river gorge had a quiet day, though a busy one, and there is nothing openly apparent that would lead the observers to think that any necessity for military intervention existed there. Governor White said he had received nothing from Thurmond that was not of an entirely satisfactory character.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

ONLY THE BEST paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

Satisfactory Conditions Outside of Coal Regions.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review of trade says:

Gradual resumption of anthracite coal mining is encouraging, although the output is not yet sufficient to have any commercial value. Business conditions are unsatisfactory at the strike center, but reports from all other sections indicate unusually prompt revival after the summer vacation season, with exceptionally large operations among dealers in the agricultural regions. Notwithstanding some bad weather, large crops are now practically assured, although the most sanguine results may not be attained. Manufacturing plants are now fully occupied as a rule, the least gratifying reports coming from furnaces that cannot secure coke owing to railway blockades. The transportation problem is becoming serious, as the factor of crop moving is about to be added, and, moreover, much coal must be moved by rail that usually goes to consumers by lake and canal.

Iron furnaces are suspending production because coke cannot be secured, and it is evident that the rate of output at the opening of the new month will show a serious loss. This scarcity of fuel was expected at the few plants using anthracite coal, but has come as a shock to the coke furnaces, for the Connellsville ovens have steadily maintained a weekly production of 250,000 tons. Inadequate railway facilities are responsible, and the situation is critical. As the stocks of pig iron were very low at the opening of August, consumers are in an embarrassing position, and there is a growing disposition to refuse contracts.

Grain markets opened strong because of the loss in visible supply last week, the comparatively light receipts and some dubious weather reports. Best prices were not maintained, however, and abundant harvests are practically assured, yet every trifling reduction in condition gives encouragement to holders of wheat. More rational quotations for corn will come when the new crop begins to move freely, and it is expected that foreign markets will be regained. The situation is shown by Atlantic coast exports of corn for the past week of only 58,561 bushels against 407,450 a year ago and 4,078,605 bushels in 1899, when prices were 30 cents a bushel lower than now. Receipts for the week were 1,086,093 bushels compared with 3,424,886 a year ago. Interior arrivals of wheat also fall behind last year's movement, being 6,249,312 bushels against 7,249,091, while the comparison of exports from all ports of the United States is still more striking—4,295,626 bushels, flour included, against 6,307,302 a year ago.

Failures for the week numbered 173 in the United States against 202 last year and 14 in Canada against 21 a year ago.

Odell Lays a Cornerstone.

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Governor Odell laid the cornerstone of the new hospital here. It was made a gala occasion, and the governor was given a flattering reception when he arrived. He was met by a reception committee at the depot, where an imposing parade was formed, and proceeded to the hospital.

T. Roosevelt, Jr., In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. — Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., has arrived here with H. R. McCullough, third vice president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company. The party went at once to Mr. McCullough's home at Lake Forest. They expect to leave on Sunday for a hunting trip in South Dakota and the Black Hills.

HUNTING BIG GAME.

Mr. Roosevelt Has a Fine Time In the Mountains.

HE RETURNS WITH A WILD BOAR.

Spends All Day In the Corbin Preserves With Senator Proctor and Leaves the Cares of State Behind Him.

NEWPORT, N. H., Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt has been entertained by New Hampshire in a manner much to his liking. Instead of making numerous addresses, meeting committees and indulging in handshaking he plunged into the forest of the Corbin preserve in the Croydon mountain region and hunted big game and just before dark succeeded in shooting a boar. In a few remarks preliminary to his talk here he had disclaimed any intention to go hunting, but Senator Proctor, who, like the president, is a good shot, induced him to alter his determination.

The president arrived shortly after 10 o'clock and after being driven through the principal streets of the town delivered a short address in the public square. The town had an air of expectancy, since the president's coming had been looked upon as the most notable event in its history. No sooner had he concluded his address than rain began falling, and the president and those of his party got a good drenching. The president refused all offers of umbrellas, saying that his mackintosh would be sufficient to protect him.

The arrangements included a visit to the Corbin mansion, where Mrs. Corbin, widow of Austin Corbin, received the president. After a short stay the long procession of carriages moved over to the home of George S. Edgill, who, with Mrs. Edgill, entertained the party at luncheon.

The president was given an hour's start ahead of his party in order that he might visit the clubhouse and don a hunting costume. Several times the party caught up with him, and finally he and Senator Proctor entered the woods and became lost to view. Darkness was coming on when the party returned here, and soon after their arrival Secretary Cortelyou telephoned in that the president had shot a boar.

Upon their return from the woods they spent the night at the clubhouse.

The President's Southern Trip.

NEWPORT, N. H., Aug. 30.—Secretary Cortelyou has announced that the president on his trip to Tennessee and North Carolina will stop over at Wheeling, W. Va., on the morning of Sept. 6. It is expected that the trip will consume about one week.

Bartholin a Noble Descent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The Daily News saws that assertions have been made that Frederick Bartholin, 689 North Humboldt avenue, is a half brother to William J. Bartholin and that the Bartholin property will belong to him unless some other claimants step in to prove their relationship. According to Frederick Bartholin, the family formerly was of the nobility in Denmark, that the father of William J. Bartholin was a Danish knight and that he had eloped to America with a German domestic. The supposed stepbrother of William Bartholin declares that he did not wish to have his name linked with that of the alleged murderer, and it was that which held him back from telling of his relationship before. The troubles of the family in Denmark are supposed to have led to the suicide of William Bartholin's father.

Big Battle In Venezuela.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Aug. 30.—Advices of an official nature which have reached here from Caracas, Venezuela, are to the effect that a severe fight has occurred between the government forces and the advance guard of the revolutionary army under General Matos. The revolutionists were commanded by Generals Zoilo and Vidal. They made an attempt to occupy the town of Taguay, but after a fight of five hours they abandoned the field to the government forces. Two hundred of the revolutionists were killed or wounded. President Castro is now at Cua, twenty-five miles from Caracas.

An Irish Land Trust.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 30.—At the annual meeting of the Irish landowners the Duke of Abercorn made an address in which he voiced approval of the idea of promoting a land trust and predicted that such a trust would be a valuable means of defeating the system of boycotting, blackmailing and conspiracy which, the duke said, had arisen again almost entirely because the imperial government was strangely blind to its growth and unwisely deaf to the warnings and protests of the Irish loyalists.

Alger In New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Former Secretary of War Russell A. Alger when asked his views on the political situation in Michigan courteously declined to discuss that subject, but wishes to say that he considered that President Roosevelt had more than met the expectations of his most sanguine friends. "That he will be nominated in 1904 I hope and do not doubt," General Alger said.

The Machias at Gonaives.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Commander McCrea, aboard the gunboat Machias, has arrived at Gonaives from Cape Haitien. He is under orders to proceed north if he finds the situation will warrant his leaving. The Cincinnati will remain at Cape Haitien until matters there have resumed their normal state.

THE RACE FOR THE PENNANT.

Today will, in all probability, see the end of the City Baseball League for this season. The Y. M. C. A. team now leads and cannot possibly be defeated. There still remains a chance for a tie for the leading place. Victory for the Hope Y. M. A. over the Safe Works nine and defeat for the Y. M. C. A. by the St. Mary boys would result in a draw between the Y. M. C. A. and the Hope Y. M. A. While, of course, there is a chance that such a thing will come to pass, it is rather doubtful. The likely end of it all is victory for the Young Men's Christian Association in the race for the pennant.

There is no doubt that the local league has been a great and good thing for the national game in Plainfield. Never since the days of the old Crescents has there been such universal interest taken in the games. The crowds, which have witnessed the weekly contests on the diamond, have been full of enthusiasm. Past year's records for attendance have been greatly exceeded. Altogether baseball has taken a very remarkable jump into popularity during the last six months and the league is responsible for it to a considerable degree.

While there have been a few incidents in connection with the games that were to be deplored, the sport has been remarkably clean and the enjoyment of it healthy. Thousands of people have been well entertained and the youth of the city given renewed interest in one of the best of outdoor sports. That it has been a good thing for Plainfield, there is not the slightest bit of doubt.

City Judge William N. Runyon has been president of the league and has filled a difficult position with success. As a strong partizan of one of the teams, it was not surprising that some might have thought him inclined to favor his own team. Such criticism has been unfounded, however. In George E. Firstbrook, secretary of the league, he has had a faithful assistant. To Mr. Firstbrook is due the credit of first suggesting the league and then carrying his suggestions to a successful culmination.

The coming holiday promises to be a quiet one for Plainfield. While several excursions offer special attractions to Plainfielders who wish to spend Labor Day out of town, lovers of outdoor sport will also find something to amuse themselves. Several interesting baseball games will be played while the gallfiacs will have their usual holiday programmes. Despite these things, however, the day will undoubtedly be a quiet one here in the city.

Somerville now comes to the fore with the story of a man-eating shark being found in the Raritan canal near Somerville. It sounds quite exciting but it has the possible element of truth in it in that the shark may have read what ferocious times the politicians have there and hoped to come in for its share of the victims.

Mr. Hires, the root beer man, says: "The daily newspaper is by far the best and most profitable advertising medium; but the papers selected should be those with unquestioned circulation. Only in this way can the advertiser calculate on a certain basis for his expenditure bringing in specific results."

A man was looking for gasolene in an old well with the aid of a match. It was necessary to buy a new pump beside making sundry repairs to the man.

The bitterness of the coal strike has spread to West Virginia and the militia of that State has now been called into service.

Monday will be Labor Day and The Daily Press will not make its appearance that day.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

You will find at Doane's bargains rich and rare enough for the most jaded bargain appetite. Quite a number of warm weather shoes that he is selling at half price.

Don't be inveigled into buying a poor quality of meat at a fancy price when you can have the best at a lower rate. VanSickle, the North avenue market man, makes a specialty of the latter.

The freshest groceries are always in stock at R. W. Barnes', Park avenue. Vegetables and fruits of all kinds are received fresh daily, and the prices are always set at a mark to please the popular purse.

"Little fishes in the brook, Papa gets them with a hook," goes the old rhyme, but Papa is up-to-date now. He gets his fish at Foss & Jeter's and they get them every day fresh from the nets. Wise Papa.

For flowers for decorations or any sort of floral design work it will be to your profit to see what William H. Brower's Sons, the New York florists, can do for you. Orders may be left at the residence of John L. Brower, East Fifth street.

Have you noticed the shoe display in the windows at John H. Doane's shoe store on West Front street. The goods as well as the prices are sure to attract your eye. The new fall stock will soon be received and room must be made for it.

One of the prettiest and most up-to-date pharmacies in the city is that of C. M. Nagle, of West Front street. He makes a specialty of the best of drugs, standard preparations and pure soad water. His prescription department is in charge of experienced pharmacists.

Vantine's teas are not only pure, but invigorating and the aroma is fragrant. These teas can be found in great variety at the oriental store conducted by P. G. DuBois, 326 West Front street. He also keeps a complete line of oriental goods at reasonable prices. An inspection is invited.

It is astonishing what bargains are being offered by Hill & Shupp, the dry goods merchants. The opening sale of suitings which has continued during the week has been well patronized and money has been saved to the purchaser. Today for one hour, 3 to 4 o'clock, the special sale of bed spreads will be held. Keep your eye on the firm's advertisement and it will keep you posted on great bargains.

Stephen Merrit at Westfield Camp.

The Sunday afternoon services of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp will be conducted by Rev. Stephen Merrit, the veteran evangelist and man of faith. F. Lewis Beckford, the celebrated baritone, of Cleveland, Ohio, will assist Mr. Merrit at this service, rendering several solos. The management of the camp is making provisions for an unusually large crowd at this service, it being the closing Sunday service of the camp. The trolley company will run cars ten minutes' headway to accommodate those wishing to attend this service.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

THEATRICAL.

On Monday, Labor Day, a special performance will be given at Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York. In order to allow time for this special performance the doors will be thrown open at 10:30 a.m., instead of at noon, as is usual. The management guarantees that each and every artist on the bill will positively appear at this performance.

Fainted at Station.

David W. Rogers, of West Second street, while at the North Avenue station, this morning, to see his daughter-in-law off, had a dizzy spell and fainted away. He regained consciousness in a few minutes and was able to walk home.

Labor Day Hop.

A full dress hop is on the programme at the Hotel Netherwood for Monday evening. This does not in any way interfere with the regular weekly function to be held this evening.

Finger Caught in Machine.

Lewis Drake, of West Third street, received a crushed finger at the Pond Tool Works, yesterday, by the sudden starting of a machine. It was dressed by the shop physician.

No Services.

Trinity Reformed church will be closed tomorrow, all day, to allow for the annnual cleaning and repairs.

ANY CHURCH or parsonage or institution supported by voluntary contribution will be given a liberal quantity of the Longman & Martinez Paints whenever they paint.

NOTE:—This has been our custom for twenty-seven years; any building not satisfactorily painted will be repainted at our expense; about one gallon of Linseed Oil to be added to every gallon of the paint to make ready for use; it's mixed in two minutes, and cost of the paint thereby made less in price than any other. Yearly product over one million gallons.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

A number of loving hearts have been made to beat as one by Judge Clark during his term as Justice of the Peace and the Judge hopes to be able to tie many more of the matrimonial knots before his term ends, but every one that has come before his honor to face the charge of "for better or worse," has had to be of legal age. Last week a loving couple from Plainfield under age appeared before the court to be sentenced for life without the consent of the groom's parents. The court refused to pass sentence and advised them to wait until they were of legal age.

Labor Day in Scotch Plains will be appropriately observed. The stores and other places of business will close for part of the day and nearly everyone will enjoy a holiday. Two good games of ball are scheduled with the Y. M. C. A. team, of Plainfield, both games to be played on the local diamond, the morning game at 10:30 and the afternoon at 3:30. A number will enjoy the Grocers excursion, of Plainfield, to Coney Island, while others will enjoy the day at other resorts near home.

TRYING TO SETTLE ESTATES

JUDGE SCHENCK KEPT BUSY WITH ORPHANS' COURT AFFAIRS.

Exceptions Filed to Accounting of Estates and Cases Postponed—Other Court Business.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 30—Judge Schenck was kept very busy yesterday for some time with Orphans' Court matters.

Exceptions were filed to the accounts of J. V. D. TenEyck in the estate of Harriet Wyckoff, of Branchburg. Edward TenEyck is the exceptant and his counsel is A. A. Clark. D. H. Beekman appears for the accountant. A hearing will be given September 19.

The exceptions to the accounts in the state of Mary Hatchett (colored), of North Plainfield, again came up and were postponed until September 19. This case has been before the court a long time and will probably be settled then. The exceptant is Geo. Hatchett, of Plainfield, a son of the deceased, and his counsel is Horace Codington.

In the estates of B. C. Amerman and Peter McNulty, rules to show cause were granted, returnable October 21, to ascertain whether or not lands should be sold to pay debts.

Peter Hardcastle and wife, of Somerville, have taken out letters of adoption for Mabel G. Smith. Her future name will be Edna Montague Hardcastle.

In the estate of John G. Kenner his daughter, Emma M. M. Laury, and his wife, Joanna M. Kenner, are endeavoring to see which shall act as administratrix. The former is represented by W. V. Steele and the latter by John A. Frech. The matter was postponed.

The September term of the county courts will open on the fourth Tuesday, September 23.

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it. L. W. Randolph.

RESTORED TO FAVOR

Lady Somerset Again Received in British Court Circles.

Noted Temperance Agitator Was Cordially Disliked by Queen Victoria, Whose Decision Has Now Been Reversed.

—For many years Lady Henry Somerset, the noted English temperance advocate, has been persona non grata in the royal household. The late Queen Victoria, who liked a glass of toddy once in awhile, was offended at Lady Henry's denunciation of the drink habit, and the members of the royal family were forbidden to have aught to do with the reformer. It is now announced that the ladyship has been restored to royal favor and has been the recipient of marked courtesies at the hands of some of the princesses of the blood. The youngest sister of King Edward, Princess Beatrice, long her mother's most devoted slave, has recently, with her brother's permission, if not his command, paid a visit to the temperance worker at Eastnor castle. It is very unusual for a princess of the reigning house to accept the hospitality of a woman who is living separately from her husband. At the time of the separation of Lord and Lady Henry took place the late queen, in whose household Lord Henry held a high post, privately investigated the charges brought against him by his wife, and as a result the husband was completely exonerated in the royal eyes, while Lady Henry, who had failed to live up to the queen's standard of wifely self-sacrifice and devotion, was obliged to continue her course without the sunshine of royal favor.

This is not the first instance in which King Edward has reversed his mother's decision. It is explained that both the king and the gentle Queen Alexandra have long admired the brilliant and very charming chatelaine of Eastnor castle. It is probable, too, that Edward VII., with his finger ever on the public pulse, recognized the feeling of a very large majority of his subjects in the matter. For the masses generally have a great respect and love for this daughter of a hundred earls, this rich woman, who has devoted her life and fortune so unselfishly to bettering their conditions and lightening the burdens under which they totter. Queen Alexandra has a knack of doing pretty things. And what more graceful compliment could be paid to Lady Henry than that Princess Beatrice, who is recognized as the one upon whom more than the others together the mantle of the late queen has fallen, should be the ambasadress of the new court to this greatest of English reformers, this acknowledged leader of several of the most important movements of modern times.

Lady Henry has had an eventful life. She was born Lady Isabel, elder of the two daughters of Earl Somers. She is the famous daughter of a famous house, being a descendant of the great Earl Somers, lord high chancellor of England in the reign of William of Orange. Her mother was a celebrated beauty in her day and was the daughter of that Chevalier De L'Eetang who perished with Louis XVI. on the scaffold and whose wife was a lady in waiting to Marie Antoinette. Earl Somers was a man of sterling qualities, a scholar and a lover of art, who, as he had no sons, bestowed especial attention upon the education of his pretty daughters. He was the friend of Ruskin and Turner and the intimate of Garibaldi, Cavour and Mazzini. An explorer of note in his day, he was the leader of the expedition which unearthed the ruins of Nineveh; a collector of art, he made Eastnor castle the greatest treasure-house on the western border, as it remains to-day.

When Lady Isabel Somers was presented at court she created a mild stir among the matchmaking mammas' younger sons. She was a great heiress. Eastnor castle and Reigate priory were her future portion, two splendid estates, comprising 31,000 acres of land and with nearly 125,000 tenants. She was also pretty, piquant, accomplished and of ones of the best English families. Unfortunately Lady Isabel's mother was something of a matchmaker as well and set her heart upon Lord Henry Somerset, second son of the duke of Beaufort. Lady Isabel was married, but not mated, to Lord Henry in 1872, at the age of 18, and two years later her only son came to console her for the unhappiness of an uncongenial marriage with a man with whom she had few tastes in common, to say the least. Shortly afterward the courts granted a legal separation, making Lady Herry the guardian of her boy.

Ancient Skyscrapers.

Numerous conflicting estimates have been made of the height of the Tower of Babel, but one fact never has been denied, and that is that it was a skyscraper. St. Jerome, in his commentary on Isaiah, says that the tower was already 4,000 paces high when God came down to stop the work. A pace is about two and a-half feet, therefore 4,000 paces must be 10,000 feet; consequently Babel was 20 times as high as the Pyramids (which are only 500 feet). Father Calmet says the tower was 81,000 feet high and that the languages were confounded because the architects were confounded, as they did not know how to bring the building to a head. Moreover, it is understood that the Chinese language of to-day was originally the same language as the high German.—N. Y. Press.

Knowledge Sharpens Sight.

Wonderful stories are often told of the powers of vision possessed by savage races. During the recent Cambridge anthropological expedition to Torres straits, the visual acuity of the natives was carefully tested, and Mr. Rivers, who made the tests, concluded that the excellence of vision shown by savages has a psychological origin; that is to say, it arises from knowing what to look for. When the European acquires familiarity with the environment he can see as far as they can. Thus the power of an Indian to tell the sex of a deer at such a distance that distinguishing features like antlers were invisible was found to rest upon his knowledge of the peculiar gait of the male deer.—Youth's Companion.

Measles and Ammonia.

A Detroit woman who labors among the poor children of the city was telling her experiences.

"One day there was a death in the neighborhood—a little girl died, and the children were visibly impressed. They told me about it in unison.

"'It was better for her, wasn't it, Missus?' one little girl said philosophically.

"'What was the trouble?' I asked.

"'O,' another spoke up, 'she had measles and ammonia on the lungs and a lot of things.'

"I was, of course, deeply impressed by the 'lot of things,' but more so by the 'ammonia on the lungs.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Tries Suicide Once a Year.

In Sharenton, France, lives a woman who on April 30, 1894, was left a widow. Her grief for her dear departed was so strong and it has continued unabated to such an extent that every year, when the anniversary of her husband's death comes round, she attempts to commit suicide. Seven times had she done so and seven times had she been prevented from carrying out her object. This year she lit her chafing dish for the eighth time, and again the neighbors rushed into the room in time to prevent the rash act. When restored to consciousness the woman exclaimed: "My darling, you won't lose anything by waiting. Wait until next year."—London Mail.

The Mystery of Walamo.

Some interesting additions to our knowledge, not only of geography but of anthropology, may be expected from the expedition of Mr. W. Fitzhugh Whitehouse, an American, and Lord Hindlip, an Englishman, into Abyssina and the regions of the Upper Nile. Among the curious places to be explored is the district of Walamo, reputed to be infested with devils. Mr. Whitehouse intends to spend a month in Walamo with the intention of discovering the reason why the natives of the country believe that it is possessed by demons.—Youth's Companion.

The Proper Term.

Martha, the colored washerwoman, was complaining of her husband's health to one of her patrons.

"He's ve'l po'ly, ma'am, vely po'ly. He's got got dat exclamatory rheumatism."

"You mean inflammatory, Martha. Exclamatory is from exclaim, which means to cry out."

"Yes, miss," answered Martha, with conviction, "dat's what it is. He holers all de time."—Christian Register.

An Idiotic Practice.

The tipping habit oversteps the limit when a man growls all through a meal at the inattention of the waiter, and then "turns to" and fees him as a reward for his abominable service. The tipping system should at least have the extenuating excuse of being reformatory, by making a fee dependent upon good service.—From "Vest Pocket Confidences," in Four-Track News.

Sherlock Holmes Again.

Again the great detective was equal to the emergency. "Don't tell me that you are married," he hissed; "I see that you are only engaged!"

"How do you know?" faltered the young man.

"Because every cigar you offered me from your vest pocket was broken!"—Stray Stories.

Antiquity of the Umbrella.

The umbrella and parasol were used by the eastern nations many centuries before the Christian era. The oldest chinaware shows pictures of ladies and mandarins shaded by parasols of patterns similar to those now in use.—Albany Argus.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1902.

Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring) that the following amendments to the constitution of this state be, and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fourth day of said month), in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

Executive.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 10, a new paragraph, as follows:

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor and the attorney-general, or two of them of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

ARTICLE VI.

Judiciary.

1. Insert in lieu of Section II, a new section, as follows:

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of a chief judge and four associate judges, or any four of them.

2. In case any judge of said court shall be disqualified to sit in any cause, or shall be unable for the time being to discharge the duties of his office, whereby the whole number of judges capable of sitting shall be reduced below four, the governor shall designate a justice of the supreme court, the chancellor or a vice-chancellor, to discharge such duties until the disqualification or inability shall cease.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk or this court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the court in writing; when an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the court of chancery, the chancellor or vice-chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the supreme court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the court of errors and appeals; but any writ of error pending in the supreme court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

Section IV.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor and such number of vice-chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom may exercise the jurisdiction of the court; the court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the court, where the same is not regulated by statute.

Section V.

1. At the end of paragraph 1, add the following:

The court may sit in divisions at the same or different times and places.

Strike out paragraph 3.

Section VI.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraphs 1 and 2, the following:

The court of common pleas shall be constituted and held in each county in such manner as may be provided by law.

ARTICLE VII.

Civil Officers.

Section II.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. Judges of the court of errors and appeals, justices of the supreme court, the chancellor, the vice-chancellors and the judges of the circuit court and of the court of common pleas shall be nominated by the governor and appointed by him with the advice and consent of the Senate; all persons now holding any office in this paragraph named, except the judges of the court of errors and appeals as heretofore existing, shall continue in the exercise of the duties of their respective offices according to their respective commissions or appointments; the judges of the court of errors and appeals, except those first appointed; the justices of the supreme court, the chancellor and the vice-chancellors shall hold their offices for the term of seven years, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this state or the United States; the judges of the court of errors and appeals first appointed shall be appointed one for three years, two for five years and two for seven years; judges of the court of common pleas shall hold their offices for the term of five years.

Strike out paragraph 2.

Even Smell Wears Out.

The sense of smell is weakened when ceaselessly exposed to powerful odors. Those engaged in offensive trades become unconscious of their loathesomeness. Snuffmakers must nonchalantly pursue their work in atmosphere so permeated with that article that the non-habituated person cannot breathe it for a minute without painful irritation of nose, eyes, throat and mouth, sneezing and the like resulting. The teataster's loss of his sensitiveness of palate to such an extent that sooner or later he must inevitably quit his business, is witness to the consequences of long continued use of the tasting faculty. The skin shows one of the commonest forms of occupation trade marks. Harpists and guitar players show callosities of the fingers. Horny thickening of the skin from handling heavy implements is common on the palm of day laborers. Laundresses, dyers and bleachers have the same, in combination with blisters, thickened and softened skin. Porters have shoulder knots. "Housemaids' knees" mean blisters from long presssure. Miners have swellings of knees and hips.—Chicago Tribune.

"Tips" on the Sly.

"No; we are not altogether out in the cold," said the barber who works in a shop where the rules against tipping are absolutely adherd to. "Of course, we don't get any five or ten-cent tips, such as come to barbers in the ordinary shop, but I guess we fare as well in the run, if my experience is any criterion. Most of us have our regular customers, and they don't forget us. For instance, a man whom I have shaved for several years once asked me when my rent fell due. I told him on the 15th day of the month. Every month since then, on the 13th, I have received a dollar bill by mail, just wrapped in paper and inclosed in a plain envelope. Other men who have taken the pains to find out where I live have sent me presents of a substantial nature, and once I even had a ton of coal dumped into my cellar without even knowing where it came from. Every two months I get a box of cigars, and I don't know where any of these things come from. Lots of men like to do these sneaky, kind, little things."—Philadelphia Record.

Odd Wedding Customs.

Giving wedding presents is an old custom, but it differs in various countries. Scotland's penny weddings were peculiar. They were called penny affairs, but the invited guests contributed a shilling and occasionally a half crown, and out of this sum thus collected the expenses of the wedding feast were paid. Germany has a pay wedding at which the bride receives her guests with a basin before her, in which each person entering deposits a jewel, a silver spoon or a piece of money. In some parts of Germany the rule is that the expenses of the marriage feast shall be met by each guest paying for what he eats or drinks. The prices paid for viands and drinks are high, and the young couple often make a handsome profit out of their wedding, often realizing a sum quite sufficient to start them nicely in life. Often as many as 300 guests are present at such a wedding.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Advice to a Hurried Congressman.

Representative Beidler, of Ohio, had a chunk of wisdom thrown at him by a waiter when he went into a restaurant for his breakfast.

"Give me a steak," said Mr. Beidler to the waiter. "Have it well done and have it in a hurry."

"Is yo' in a hurry?" asked the colored waiter.

"Yes," said Mr. Beidler.

"Then, boss," suggested the negro, "why don't yo' have yo' steak rare, and then you'll get it sooner."—Washington Correspondence of the Boston Traveler.

Lord Kitchener's Reward.

King Edward's recognition of the services rendered by Lord Kitchener in South Africa, created him a viscount and promoted him to be a general. The king also asked and obtained from parliament authority to make him a grant of $250,000. The grant was voted June 5, which was the third anniversary of the vote making a grant of $150,000 to Lord Kitchener for his brilliant success in the campaign in the Sudan.—Youth's Companion.

Gave Her a Chance.

"No, sir," she replied, haughtily, "I would not marry the best man on earth."

"I know you wouldn't," retorted the rejected one; "but if you live to be an old maid it will be gratifying to think that you once had the opportunity."—Stray Stories.

EARLY FALL HINTS.

What Will Be Worn With the Approach of Cold Weather.

Flat hats are again to be worn this winter and are quite like the shepherdess shape, which is always so popular because universally becoming.

A great many turbans will also be seen, and, when suited to the features, it is difficult to find a more chic style.

In the matter of dress materials all those hairy stuffs resembling plush and beaver will be very largely employed. In colors green will be foremost, but the shade of blue called nationale and gray are likewise favored. Many costumes of dull red will be seen, and these will be combined with the new ecru tint.

A great deal of jet will be used, especially in trimming hats. Lace veils will be worn a good deal on beaded hats, especially those of black chantilly.

Irish lace will still be popular, and to this will be added cluny in coarser grades.

The cut shows one of the latest Parisian hats. It is trimmed with roses and knots of pale blue louisine ribbon.

BLACK EVENING GOWNS.

Creations of Net, Mousseline and Insertions of Lace.

Nothing is smarter for evening wear than a black gown. This should be of net, chiffon, mousseline de soie or some other thin material and should be made fussy with shirrings and lace insertions. Narrow velvet ribbons are also used as trimmings and appliqued in fanciful designs.

Very pretty dresses are made of alternate wide and narrow insertions of black chantilly or of black and white silk.

These black robes can either be mounted over black or white silk, but perhaps the most economical way is to have them free from the lining so that they can be worn over separate slips.

Silk of contrasting color, whether in medallions or bands, is much used for trimming purposes.

A dainty evening dress of black net is shown. It is very simply trimmed with narrow black velvet ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Clever Dog.

"The most remarkable dog I know," said an Albany man, "belongs to a neighbor of mine. Some time ago the dog was taught to go to a butcher's shop for a certain cut of beef that my neighbor liked. The butcher was instructed to send 70 cents' worth each time, and so the dog was given a dollar bill, which he took in his mouth and started away on his errand. Invariably the butcher would give the dog the meat and 30 cents in change, and the dog would jog back home contentedly.

"One day the butcher thought he would fool the dog, and so he gave him 20 cents instead of the correct amount. As the dog took the money in his mouth he seemed somewhat mystified. He went off, but it was not ten minutes before he returned, followed by a policeman."

"I wan' You will have yer little joke with me. Sometimes I am a wonderin' if you can be the same celebrated party they tell me about."

Hendricks uttered a sigh, and then said:

"Well, if we can get in, and you have the tools, go to work. You see, I didn't come equipped."

"I suppose you mean by that you ain't fixed. I don't understand them foreign words. Go to the end o' the alley and watch, and we'll have this out in a jiffy," and Hendricks, without a word, went down to the corner as directed.

It was not long before he heard a warning whistle, and, coming forward, found Jebbs standing beside the open window.

"If you get in here and wait in hidin' you'll hear and see the whole business," he said, pointing to the gap in the wall. "'Course you'll have to take yer chances then, but you're a masterful man, and will know how to get out of it if there's any trouble."

He held the window, which he had managed to open, ajar, while Job scrambled through, and, with the help of the sill, lowered himself noiselessly to the floor. He was in utter darkness, and, as there seemed to be no one in the place, he ventured to light a wax match and explore the place. He heard, in the meantime, that the window through which he had entered had been closed. He found himself in a cellar, with a cement floor, divided by partitions, and, pushing his way through one of these, he stumbled over a chair, which roused strange echoes in the place. As he rose to his feet a light flashed out in the center of the room, and he found himself standing beside a table, near which a well-dressed man was puffing on a cigarette, and regarding him with an amused expression of satisfaction.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE MAN IN THE RED FOX.

At the hour designated by Ellison, Inspector Barnes, the chief of police, had posted his men in the streets leading to the Red Fox, waiting for the signal which would call his men to the center of the scene of action.

It was very seldom that the head of the police department took a hand in an affair of the kind, but he was moved by curiosity, and, at the same time, by the desire to figure prominently in the capture of a rogue who had defied the department for many months. It would not look well in the papers, when the accounts came to be eventually written up, if the chief did not occupy a prominent place in the proceedings. Barnes, moreover, felt a certain hatred for the man who had put his department in such disrepute, and he was anxious to have first view of the man who had been able to withstand all the machinery of the law so long.

Ten o'clock had been the hour when he expected to hear the pistol shot that was to summon him and his men to the scene, but as time passed, and it was nearing the half hour after the time, he began to grow impatient.

"What do you think of this, Inspector Thorne?" he asked of a tall man, who had secreted himself in a hallway opposite the queer hotel. Barnes was not the only important official who had desired to have something to do with the capture of the celebrated criminal.

"Oh, I'm not worried," replied Thorne. "Never know what delays might happen in an affair like this. I only hope your man wasn't guying us with his story."

He did not love his chief particularly, and would have liked to see him ousted to give place to a real genius—himself, for example. If the principals were excited, the men detailed on this occasion were also in somewhat of a flurry. They did not share the opinion held by Barnes that the man who had defied the machinery of the department so long would be easy to capture, and looked forward to a lively time of it.

Barnes and Inspector Thorne were still occupying the hallway of a deserted warehouse, watching the building that loomed up darkly before them, listening for the sound of the pistol shot that was to be the signal.

The hotel with the foreign name was really two buildings. The barroom facing on one street, through which the sleeping rooms could be reached in the rear by a narrow passage.

For a long time the police had known that Monsieur Poujac conducted a house that was the resort of all the ragtag and bobtail and human sewage of the city. But he was useful, and his suppression would have made it only more difficult to find a man when he was wanted. So it was that the Frenchman was allowed to continue running his shady tavern as a friend of the law and a secret foe to the lawless elements.

As the time passed, and yet the signal was not heard, Inspector Barnes began to get impatient, and in the shadows moved up and down the street, meeting here and there some of his men, with whom he exchanged a word or two, and then passed on his beat.

During his walk he arrived presently before the real front of the building, where the barroom was situated, and here he saw a man putting out the lights and making other preparations to close up. As it was his intention to wink at the doings of Monsieur Poujac, who had had a hand in the apprehension of a number of criminals, he made no attempt to approach the man who was clearing up.

As soon as the front of the establishment was dark he returned to his post, which commanded the alley and where Inspector Thorne was now standing.

"Anything new?" he asked, as he snuggled into the hallway beside his subordinate.

"Not a sound from our corner," responded the other.

"I'm getting suspicious," said Barnes.

"Of what?"

"That I have been fooled."

"How's that?"

"This chap Ellison might, for all I know, be one of the gang who is interested in the man we are seeking."

"Can't believe that."

"Well, I don't like to believe it, either," grumbled the chief, "and if he has played us a trick I fail to see what he will gain by it; besides I took care to look the man up. He is the brother of a banker of wealth and repute, but perhaps is none the better for that." He was silent for a moment and then, "You see I was getting desperate and ready to take any chances. The failure to capture this man made us the laughing stock of the town, and I for one was getting tired of it, so I was ready to seize any straw."

"I understand," Inspector Thorne, who since Barnes had engineered the thing would not have been sorry if the whole affair turned out a gorgeous humbug. But he did not venture to express any of these thoughts aloud; what he did remark was:

"It's too soon to give up all hope yet. Strange things happen in matters like this—and we must be patient."

"But somehow I have a premonition that all is not right," straining his eyes as if he would pierce the secrets of the forbidding black building that towered beyond them.

"I wish I hadn't made a deal with the fellow," shaking his head.

"We have to bargain when it comes to getting on the track of a slippery individual such as we are looking for," replied Inspector Thorne, in a voice that meant to be consoling.

He had hardly delivered this short speech, when suddenly the crack of a pistol shot rang through the silence. The two men started—then, without a word, they set off on a run toward the alley that ran along the side of the strange hotel.

Barnes had received minute directions, and knew how to proceed. His men, running forward from all directions (and there were enough of them to have captured a squad of rogues), came up with their chief at the entrance of the alley. He gave them hurried directions about guarding approaches to the place, and they departed grumblingly into the shadows, indignant that they were not allowed to take a prominent part in the capture.

"Now, then, Thorne," exclaimed the chief, "see to your gun, and follow me," and with the words he dashed on up the alley at a wonderful speed for a man of his weight.

When the inspector came up with his superior he was standing before an open window, which led into the basement of the place. A flickering light was seen for a moment in the gloom, but as they looked it suddenly disappeared.

The two police officers for a moment regarded each other in silence.

"Not going to plunge into that black hole, are you?" asked Thorne, with a shiver.

Languid Japanese Lady.

In a recent address in Tokyo a prominent Japanaese educator said: "The indolence of Japanese ladies is something amazing. I know a daughter of a certain peer, neither an old court or a feudal peer, but a brand-new one, and this young lady's indolence is really beyond the idea of ordinary mortals. She will not even open her mouth of herself. As soon as the time to retire to her bed arrives she issues her order, 'Now I will retire,' and at once three or four maids spread the underquilts, help her, for she merely stands like a doll—to change her clothes, and at last the girl, swaddled in her night garment, is put to bed just like a person suffering from a serious illness and so the poor thing goes to sleep and releases her maids from their trouble until morning, when the daily routine is resumed. First of all she issues to the maids waiting in her antercom this extraordinary order, 'I shall get up now,' and then the process exactly the reverse of that the night before is forthwith commenced by the girls. Day after day this routine is gone through and the spoiled child of the proud upstart peer forces herself from her mistaken notion as to dignity to lead the life of an invalid and to cripple the normal development of her body."—Chicago Daily News.

Filipino Boy's Kites.

Just now as we came in off the street, we saw a Filipino boy, about eight years old, flying a feather for a kite. The feather was not more than two inches long, and an inch wide at the flaring end. He had thread tied to it in two places. Of course the feather did not fly much, but the boy amused himself with it for more than five minutes that we watched him. There were no other children about, and he never said a word. Never complained when it did not fly, or expressed any exclamations of joy when it did. These Filipino boys will fly most anything. A leaf out of a book, a leaf of a tree, a piece of newspaper, a beetle, or a [illegible] cust or a bird. For making and flying graceful, artistic and bird-like kites, our home boys are simply not in it with the Filipino boys. Their best flying kites reach a great height, and the way they sail about in the air, one would have to observe closely to not mistake them for a large bird. It is not unusual to see several of these kites in the same locality, and they resemble soaring hawks looking for prey.—Manila Justicia.

A Rope for Mark Twain.

The Missouri papers are telling this story of Mark Twain's recent visit to the state: A big crowd gathered at a railway station to meet him. A little boy knew that somebody was coming, but he did not know Mark Twain from Bossie Francis. This kid perched himself on top of a freight car, where he could see what happened. The train rolled in, and as Mark stepped off the people became excited and shouted: "Here he is! Here he is!" The kid on the box car thought a great criminal had been caught, and shouted: "Git a rope! Git a rope." Dr. Clemens laughed till the tears ran out of his eyes.—N. Y. Tribune.

What They Did.

"We had a delightful time last week," said the city cousin, who was describing the joys of metropolitan life. "One evening we trolleyed out to a suburban home and ping-ponged until nearly midnight and next day we automobiled to the country club and golfed until dark."

"We had a purty good time last week, too," ventured the country cousin, with a sarcastic smile. "One day we buggied over to Uncle Jodah's and us boys got out in the back lot and baseballed all afternoon, and after we had dinnered we sneaked up to the loft and lit a candle and pokered until I had every blamed cent in the crowd."—Baltimore American.

White and Red Currant Salad.

These make a lovely picture salad when left on the stems, each bunch brushed slightly with white of egg or dissolved gelatine and rolled in granulated sugar, then chilled thoroughly before heaping in a sparkling glass bowl with tender lettuce. Just before serving sprinkle a dressing over them made of finest oil, lemon juice and just enough salt to take away the crude taste of the lemon juice, but not enough to be noticeable.—Washington Star.

Apricot Marmalade.

Pare the desired apricots; cut them in halves; remove the stones and cut the fruit fine; then weigh them, allowing for every pound of fruit one pound of sugar; place the sugar and fruit into a preserving kettle over the fire; stir and cook till a drop on a plate will retain the shape of a bead without spreading; fill in small jars and close when cold.—Ledger Monthly.

Not Possible Otherwise.

FLAG OF PRESIDENT.

Radical Changes Have Been Made in Its Appearance.

Rarely-Seen Ensign Has Been in Existence Ever Since There Has Been a Nation—The Colors Altered.

The emblem known as "the president's flag," which has been used on rare occasions for many years, will hereafter appear with a changed design. The new flag is now being made at the navy department.

The design of the present flag, which has been so long in use, is simply the coat of arms of the United States on a blue field. Aside from the new arrangement of the colors in the coat of arms, which will appear in the president's flag now in process of manufacture, the principal change is in the arrangement of the 13 stars above the eagle's head.

It is proposed to have a sunburst exactly circular in form above the head of the eagle, with the rays radiating from the group of stars. The new design consists otherwise of a pure, white eagle, its feathers heavily outlined with black, the constellation in white, with the rays in heavy stitching of yellow on a blue ground. The flag is to be of bunting, 14 by 10½ feet, for outside use, and of heavy taffeta silk, gold thread, and embroidery, for interior decoration. The president's flag is used only at sea on the mainmast of the vessel when the president is on board.

The president's flag is a century-old institution, and has practically been in existence ever since there has been a nation. Some ten years ago, when the late President Harrison went up the Atlantic coast on the Dolphin with the "president's flag" flying at the main, the writers for certain newspapers severely criticised the over-a-century-old custom they had never before observed, probably because latter-day presidents up to Harrison's time had gone boating but little, yet it had been the custom up to 1865 for the blue field of the flag, known as the union jack, to be placed on the main when the president was aboard the ship, and all other flags were struck till the president left the vessel.

Congress has never legislated on the president's flag. It was established arbitrarily by the secretary of the navy, and presumably the changes made in the device upon the always blue field have been made at the suggestion of the president.

The first regulations authoritatively prescribing a flag to denote the presence of the president or vice president of the United States, members of the cabinet and governors of states were issued by Gideon Welles, secretary of the navy, April 18, 1865. By these rules the flag of the president of the United States was the American ensign displayed at the main royal, the flag of the officer commanding being struck for the time; th same flag for the vice president displayed at the fore. This flag was the union jack. These regulations were reaffirmed in 1866, again in 1869, and have been in existence ever since.

About 1879 the president's flag displayed upon its blue field, by order of the secretary of the navy, the coat of arms of the United States, slightly changed—the spread eagle in white, bearing the shield in pointed design, and the constellation spread in a single curved line.

A few years later the seal colors, sunburst and all, were exactly copied, the shield being squared, the eagle brown and the constellation appearing through a sunburst and encircled by clouds. It is almost impossible, it is said at the navy department, to put the cloud ring upon bunting, so that it will not look ridiculous. It has hitherto been painted, and when flying to the breeze and the main whips out in a few hours.

With the consent of the president the design is now a pure white eagle, its features heavily outlined with black, the constellation in white, with the rays in heavy stitching of yellow, on a blue ground. This flag is of bunting, 14 by 10½ feet, for outdoor use, and of heavy taffeta silk, gold thread and embroidery for indoor decoration.

A New Thing in Baths.

The electric bath is one of the newest things, although it isn't a bath at all. A thick robe is entwined with wires, and this is switched on, and the wearer of the electrical robe soon finds his body getting warmer, until in a little while he perspires as freely as if he were in a Turkish bath.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Westfield attractions for Labor Day will be the Pearsall A. C. in the morning and the Brooklyn Field Club in the afternoon. Robertson, of Yale, will pitch for Westfield in the afternoon and Walsh in the morning.

Some of the baseball games to be played in this city and vicinity, Monday are as follows: Y. M. C. A. against Scotch Plains (two games) at Scotch Plains; Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works against High Bridge, at High Bridge, afternoon; Orange Field Club against Red Bank at Red Bank, morning; Plainfield A. C. against Dunellen A. C. at Dunellen, morning; New Market A. C. against East Millstone, at New Market, morning. The Westfields also have two good games on for Labor Day, the Pearsalls, of Bayonne, in the morning and the Brooklyn Field Club in the afternoon.

Rumors are now afloat that two of the Plainfield League teams will shortly inaugurate Sunday games, playing out of town. The manager of one of them when seen yesterday, said he would under no circumtsances permit his men to play under the club name and that he had discouraged them from playing Sundays, individually, as far as possible. The other manager would give no decided answer which leads to the impression that he has the matter under consideration. It is hardly likely that any attempt to play within the city limits will be made, as most baseballists are aware of the municipal policy in that connection.

The inclination for Sunday baseball games is daily growing among the enthusiasts in this city. On every clear Sabbath day for the past few months there has been a general exodus of cranks to nearby towns where the authorities permit playing and where many Plainfielders take part in the contests. Rahway is the Mecca for scores, Elizabeth gets not a few, Newark has its regular patrons and now the tide is beginning to turn toward Riverside Park. A New Brunswick team which has been playing at the latter place, has had for its battery several Sundays in succession, two players who act in a similar capacity for one of the local League nines in its Saturday games.

FOOTBALL RULES FOR 1902

JUST BEEN ISSUED AND INCLUDE A NUMBER OF CHANGES.

Most Important Alteration is That Providing for Change of the Goals After Touchdown.

The new football rules for 1902 are just out, and for the first time it is possible to get an official record of just what changes were made by the rules committee at its summer session. The most important alteration in the rules is that providing a change of goals after each touchdown. The change also provides for a shift of goals after a goal from the field. A number of minor changes are made for the sake of clearness, and Rule 12, which refers to the length of the game, says that the referee shall, when he thinks darkness is likely to cut short the games, arbitrarily shorten the two halves, and that refusal to abide by the referee's opinion shall mean forfeiture of the game.

"Rule 16, section B," says the guide, "is a decided change, although how much it will affect the play only a season's work can determine." This paragraph reads: "In snapping the ball back, if the player doing so is off side, the ball must be snapped again, and if this occurs more than once on the same down, the opponents shall receive five yards, the number of the down and the point to be gained remaining unchanged." The penalty thus becomes loss of the five yards instead of loss of the ball, and is less severe.

Rule 18 deals with the groupings of players, and it contains as an exception to section A the following: "One man of the side having the ball may be in motion toward his own goal without coming to a stop before the ball is put in play." Section C of the same rule elucidates a point concerning which there has always been much misunderstanding. "If five players, not including the quarter back, are behind the line of scrimmage, they must occupy one of the three following positions: First, all five of such players may be inside the positions occupied at the ends of the line of scrimmage, in which case two of these players must be at least five yards back of this line; or, second, if one of the said five players be outside of the position occupied by the player at the end of said line, then only one other of these five players must be at least five yards back of this line; but, third, all five of these players may be nearer than five yards to the line of scrimmage, provided two of them be outside the positions occupied by the players at the ends of said line. In this rule 'outside' means outside the outside foot of the players at the ends of the line."

In Rule 27, Section F, are additional points to still further prevent coaching from the side lines. "Only five men shall be allowed to walk up and down on each side of the field," says the rule. "As to water carriers, etc., the rule provides that "none of these shall come on the field of play without permission of the umpire." Violation of this rule is a foul, punishable by five yards loss. The punishment is mild and hardly fits the crime.

Changes have been made in Rule 28, which has to do with penalties. For holding the penalty becomes five yards set-back instead of ten. Also for unlawful use of the hands or arms, violation as to off-side play, tripping and tackling below the knees, the penalty is fixed at a five-yard assessment, unless the offending side has the ball, in which case the punishment is instant surrender of the ball. If the ball be in the air when the foul is committed, it goes to the non-offending side.

The rule concludes with the following note: "Whenever a foul is committed which, in the opinion of the umpire, did not affect the play, the offended side may decline the penalty. In case of a run being made from this play, not more than twenty-five yards from the spot where the foul was committed shall be allowed."

In the August number of "Town and Country," of New York, under the heading of financial, there appears an interesting item of Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, accompanied by a fine picture of the distinguished personage in the world of finance. The article says: "We present this week the picture of President L. V. F. Randloph, of the Atlantic Trust Company. Mr. Randolph is one of the veterans of the financial district and is a many-sided man of affairs, having figured prominently and successfully as a banker, merchant, railroad man and poet. He is a past commander of the G. A. R., and was formerly Mayor of Plainfield, N. J."
